California, who was carrying a gun, a knife and zip ties. Roske was arrested after he called 911 to turn himself in. He told police he planned to break into Kavanaugh's house and kill him and then kill himself. He has been charged with attempted murder.

"For two years now, Catholic churches have been attacked and vandalized at an alarming rate. In July of 2020, we strained to understand this violence," noted Cardinal Dolan and Archbishop Lori in their statement. The U.S. bishops, in May 2020, started tracking violence directed against Catholic churches. The number of such attacks hit the 100 mark last October.

Last month, a pro-life pregnancy center in Madison, Wis., was set afire. A group calling itself Jane's Revenge took credit for the act. In early June, a second such center in Buffalo was subject to an overnight attack. Scrawled with spray paint on the center's outside wall was "Jane was here." No group has claimed responsibility.

"We urge our elected officials to take a strong stand against this violence, and our law enforcement authorities to increase their vigilance in protecting those who are in increased danger," said Cardinal Dolan and Archbishop Lori. "We thank those who have already done so, and we encourage them to continue." —CNS DEVOTED—People pray the Rosary from behind a fence at the Our Lady of Fatima Grotto at Our Lady of Sorrows Church May 31.

maria said. "They left the Virgin Mary intact."

The pastor consoled his parishioners by reminding them of "perseverance," he said.

"It was a form of a violation," Father McNamara said. "It was very disturbing to people. It really was sad. People were in tears with this when this happened."

"It's a significant shrine," the pastor said, "because in the neighborhood here, it's a place where people stop and pause. They'll say an 'Ave,' they'll say a 'Hail Mary,'" make the sign of the cross and move on.

"People who are not of Catholic faith will often just stop" as well. "It's a peaceful spot on the Lower East Side for people to come and just pray. You'll often find people there, day and night. It's a popular spot for people to stop and have a talk with the Lord."

The shrine, with the adjacent garden, is a place of comfort, he said.

Cardinal Dolan visited the parish and offered the Rosary in reparation for the offense at the grotto May 31. "The fact that the cardinal came was a great show of support of solidarity," the pastor said. "The people really responded. They were so grateful that he had come. That meant a lot to the people."

followed with a single and Cristian Rodriguez worked a nine-pitch walk to load the bases. Zach Levinson doubled home two runs to tie the score.

After Ryan Bailey was hit by a pitch to load the bases and Pete Fasciglione lined out, Luke Nascimento singled to drive in Rodriguez with the winning run.

"Incredible effort from our team, and the seventh inning was very special because everyone battled and found a way to help the team win," Iona Prep coach Ryan Mahoney told CNY. "Their pitcher was great all game and we were able to get into the bullpen, which is always big."

Fasciglione, who has committed to play at the University of Notre Dame, received the playoff most valuable player honor.

The next day, Iona Prep lost, 3-0, to Chaminade of Mineola in the CHSAA state championship game. Nascimento had the Gaels' only hit against Seton Hall-bound John Downing, who had 12 strikeouts over seven innings.

"Chaminade's pitcher was as good as advertised and did a great job mixing his pitches," Mahoney said. "We had a few opportunities but he was able to pitch his way through it."

For Iona Prep, Vito Gallelo pitched five innings of relief, allowing two unearned runs on three hits. John DeStefano started, surrendering a first-inning run.

Iona Prep finished the season at 22-5 overall.

"We had an unbelievable year, winning the regular season league title, the CHSAA AA city championship and having a chance to win the first-ever Catholic State baseball title," Mahoney said. "We had 15 seniors who continued to raise the bar for our program and we wish them all the best and are excited for next year with a lot of quality players in the program."
