On the outside: Investigators chase dangerous inmates in 'The Hunting Party'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

What you don't know can't hurt you, right? While that may be true sometimes, a new procedural drama supposes what could happen if the most dangerous secret facility imaginable was breached. In the brand-new series "The Hunting Party," premiering Monday, Feb. 3, on NBC, FBI agent Rebecca "Bex" Henderson (Melissa Roxburgh, "Manifest") is tasked with tracking down the country's most unpredictable inmates, who have escaped from an underground, off-the-books prison.

Most people are familiar with the FBI's most wanted list of suspects alleged to have committed serious crimes. But what happens when those suspects are brought to justice and disappear into the system, never to be heard of again? "The Hunting Party" suggests that a high-level operation of deep solitary confinement keeps America's most vicious criminals hidden far underground, away from society.

The inciting incident in the series is an explosion revealing the classified prison hidden beneath innocuous-looking farmland. The blast sets many inmates — who have been disappeared in one way or another on paper — free to roam and possibly commit more crimes in a world that has no idea they are still alive. Skilled profiler Bex Henderson is brought in to lead a small team of highly specialized agents, only learning about the existence of the bunker facility once she's brought on board to round up those inmates who have survived the blast and are now in the wind.

Bex's team searches for the fugitives on the loose, but as they get deeper down the rabbit hole of the investigation, it becomes clear that there was a sinister reason behind the jailbreak — the explosion was planned.

"The blast was no accident," Oliver Odell (Nick Wechsler, "Revenge") tells Bex in the series' official trailer, "Someone wanted those killers back out in the world."

Oliver, who joins Bex's investigative team, has a romantic past with the profiler, but both agents have bigger fish to fry and try to put their past behind them to work together. The rest of the team is made up of Ryan Hassani (Patrick Sabongui, "The Flash"), Shane Florence (Josh McKenzie, "La Brea") and Jennifer Morales (Sara Garcia, "Ride").

"The Hunting Party" was created by JJ Bailey ("Echo"), who serves as the series' co-showrunner with writer Jake Coburn ("The Endgame"). Thor Freudenthal ("Carnival Row") directs the series, while Keto Shimizu ("DC's Legends of Tomorrow") writes alongside Bailey and Coburn. All four also executive produce the show.

Also starring in the series is Tobias Jelinek ("This Is Us") as serial killer Richard Harris, who is used to introduce Bex to the secret prison. Brought in by Elizabeth Mallory (Zabrina Guevara, "New Amsterdam") to provide an assessment of the murderer, Bex questions why she has been asked to give a profile of a dead killer. Little does she know that Harris is alive and unwell and, now on the run, is ready for a cat-and-mouse chase with the investigator.

"The longer they're out there, the more dangerous they're going to become," Bex tells her team in the trailer, underlining how important it is that they find the escapees. The trailer also features shots of elaborately staged crime scenes with unnervingly posed corpses — reminiscent of the work of serial killer Hannibal Lecter, portrayed by Mads Mikkelsen ("Casino Royale," 2006), in NBC's beloved horror series

"Hannibal." "Highly intelligent malignant narcissists," Bex calls the inmates they're searching for. They are the most sophisticated and hard to pin down of all the criminals, unless of course the searching is being done by a team made up exclusively of elites like Bex.

If all of this sounds rather familiar to you, you are not being deceived. You may have just caught the early series premiere of "The Hunting Party," which aired after the NBC broadcast of the NFL divisional playoff game between the Philadelphia Eagles and Los Angeles Rams on Sunday, Jan. 19. Hoping to keep eyeballs on the peacock network after the game, NBC chose to give viewers a sneak peak of one of winter's hottest shows, just in time to get some good water cooler talk going before the series' regular time-slot premiere.

"The Hunting Party" is among three new scripted series joining the NBC lineup this February, with two more new dramas premiering Sunday, Feb. 23, on NBC.

"Grosse Pointe Garden Society" follows four members of a suburban gardening club who must keep a shared secret buried. The series stars Melissa Fumero ("Brooklyn Nine-Nine"), AnnaSophia Robb ("Rebel Ridge," 2024), Ben Rappaport ("For the People") and Aja Naomi King ("Lessons In Chemistry").

Felicity Jones to lead F1 series

By Michelle Rose
TV Media

In pole position: Counting down the weeks until the newest Formula 1 season, or perhaps Season 7 of Netflix's "Formula 1: Drive to Survive"?

This year should be a stellar year for fans who can't get enough of the action, starting with the 75th-anniversary launch event later this month. All eyes will be on the new team lineups (only two teams retained the same two drivers from last season), the new batch of rookie drivers and Lewis Hamilton's big debut with Ferrari.

Felicity Jones to star in "One"

But if you're more into dramatic storytelling, the "F1" movie starring Brad Pitt ("Wolfs," 2024), and co-produced by Hamilton, is set to hit theaters on June 27. And now comes word that Amazon MGM Studios is working on a possible F1 drama series, with Felicity Jones ("Rogue One: A Star Wars Story," 2016) attached as both star and executive producer.

Titled "One," the drama will be available for streaming on Prime Video — once it's been officially ordered and scheduled, of course. At the time of writing, the series is still in development. But it promises to be F1's first officially sanctioned scripted series, with a story centered on Jones' character, who leads a failing family-owned racing team "as it contends with fierce personalities, ever-changing rivals and multi-million-dollar stakes" (per the official logline).

The series hails from Bedrock Entertainment, with Tony To ("Band of Brothers") and Dan Sackheim ("True Detective") attached as producers alongside Oscar-nominated screenwriters Mark Fergus and Hawk Ostby ("Children of Men," 2006), who will pen the series.

SERVING THE HARRISON, BERGMAN, LEAD HILL, OMAHA, JASPER AREAS!

what's streaming this week on...

"Ratatouille" (Available Now)
Remy (Patton Oswalt) dreams of becoming a great chef, despite being a rat in a definitely rodent-phobic profession. He moves to Paris to follow his dream and, with the help of hapless garbage boy Linguini (Lou Romano), he puts his culinary skills to the test in the kitchen but he has to stay in hiding at the same time, with hilarious consequences. Remy eventually gets the chance to prove his culinary abilities to a great food critic — but is the food good?

"Finding Nemo" (Available Now)
Marlin (Albert Brooks), a clown fish, is overly cautious with his son, Nemo (Alexander Gould), who has a fore-shortened fin. When Nemo swims too close to the surface to prove himself, he is caught by a diver, and horrified Marlin must set out to find him. A blue reef fish named Dory (Ellen DeGeneres) — who has a really short memory — joins Marlin on his wild journey as they encounter sharks, jellyfish and a host of ocean dangers. Meanwhile, Nemo plots his escape from a dentist's fish tank.

"Up" (Available Now)
Carl Fredricksen (Edward Asner), a 78-year-old balloon salesman, is about to fulfill a lifelong dream. Tying thousands of balloons to his house, he flies away to the South American wilderness. But, curmudgeonly Carl's worst nightmare comes true when he discovers a little boy named Russell (Jordan Nagai) is a stowaway aboard the balloon-powered house. Bob Peterson also voice stars.
