Numbers: 'Census in the Wilderness'

By Pastor Colin Rueter, New Life Church (colin@nlcwanamingo.org)

We continue our journey through God's story - the Bible - by engaging the Book of Numbers.

Numbers: num·bers/ noun --- Completion of census while the people of Israel are in the desert (wilderness) for 40 years before crossing into the Promised Land.

The author of this book is Moses. He is the central figure within the book, and in at least two instances Numbers mentions him recording events by the Lord's commands (Numbers 33:2; 36:13).

OVERVIEW: The Book of Numbers essentially bridges the gap between the Israelites receiving the Law (Exodus and Leviticus) and preparing them to enter the Promised Land (Deuteronomy and Joshua). The events of the book began in the second year after the Israelites departed Egypt, as they camped at Mount Sinai around 1444 BC (Num. 1:1). The theme of obedience and rebellion followed by repentance and blessing runs through the entire book, as well as the entire Old Testament. The theme of the holiness of God is continued from the book of Leviticus into the book of Numbers, which reveals God's instruction and preparation of His people to enter the Promised Land of Canaan. The book ends thirty-eight years later "in the plains of Moab by the Jordan opposite Jericho" (Num. 36:13) in 1406 BC. The Lord directed the message of Numbers toward the younger generation, children of the former slaves who escaped through the Red Sea. Except for Joshua, Caleb, and Moses, the older generation everyone twenty years old or older at the time of the first census—died before the completion of Numbers, due to their disobedience and disbelief in the God who rescued them from slavery (Num. 14:22-30).

Side note: It is interesting to note the mention of Caleb in Numbers as a spy for Israel. He is described as "Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite" (Numbers 32:12: Joshua 14:6. 14). The only other mention of Kenizzites in the Old Testament is in Genesis 15:19, where they are listed among the inhabitants of Canaan that Abraham's descendants would displace. It is through Caleb, as one example, that we see God's true plan to "bless all nations" though Abraham (Gen 12;15) as Caleb was not a native Israelite, yet was an integrated member of the nation. God's plan from the beginning was to include all peoples among His covenant community for salvation and blessing as they follow Him (Gal 3:8-9).

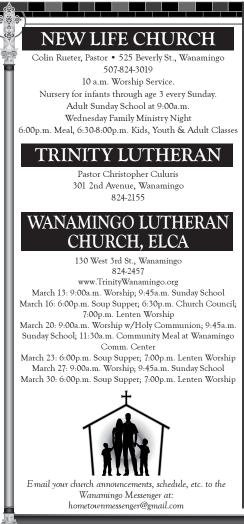

SO WHAT? The harmony of God's love and wrath is the message of Numbers in a nutshell. The wrath of God is seen in the death of the rebellious generation in the wilderness, those who never entered the Promised Land. The love of God is realized in the new generation as God protected, preserved, and provided for these people until they possessed the land. A major theme woven in the New Testament from Numbers is that sin and unbelief, rebellion, reap the judgment of God. First Corinthians specifically says, and implied in Hebrews 3:7-4:13, that these events were written as examples for believers to observe and avoid. We are not to "set our hearts on evil things" (v. 6), or be sexually immoral (v. 8), or put God to the test (v. 9) or gripe and complain (v. 10). Just as the Israelites wandered in the wilderness 40 years because of their rebellion, God sometimes allow us to wander away from Him and suffer loneliness and lack of blessings when we rebel against Him. But God is faithful and just, and just as He restored the Israelites to their rightful place in His heart, He will always restore Christians to the place of blessing and intimate fellowship with Him if we repent and return to Him (1 John 1:9). In addition, the concept of the promised Messiah pervades the book. The story in chapter 19 of the sacrifice of the red heifer "without defect or blemish" prefigures Christ, the Lamb of God without spot or blemish who was sacrificed for our sins. The image of the bronze snake lifted up on the pole to provide physical healing (chapter 21) also prefigures the lifting up of Christ, that whoever looks to Him by faith may have spiritual healing. In chapter 24, Balaam's fourth oracle speaks of the star and the scepter who is to rise out of Jacob. Here is a prophecy of Christ who is called the "morning star" in Revelation 22:16 for His glory, brightness, and splendor, and the light that comes by Him. From his royalty, as scepter, Jesus not only has the name of a king, but has a kingdom, and rules with a scepter of grace, mercy, and right-

It is vital to the health of your faith that we see these connections between the Old and New Testament. We cannot separate the two without losing a full understanding of God, Jesus' incarnation, life, death, and resurrection. These all give us hope to the promise that the King will return for His people because God is faithful and always fulfills His promises.

Next month, we will look at the Book of Deuteronomy – a retelling by Moses of the teachings and events from Exodus, Leviticus, and Numbers as the people of Israel prepare to cross over to the Promised Land. We hear Moses speak for God about the importance to love and obey the One True God.

Kenyon Woman Convicted of Embezzlement

Kimberly Sue Peterson-Janovec, 59, of Kenyon, was found guilty by a U.S. District Court jury of two dozen charges for defrauding employers of more than $700,000 and failing to report the money on her tax returns.

The U.S. attorney's office announced Tuesday that Peterson-Janovec was convicted of 13 counts of wire fraud, two counts of mail fraud, three counts of aggravated identity theft, three counts of making and subscribing a false tax return, and three counts of failure to file individual tax returns.

The verdicts followed a five-day jury trial before U.S. Chief District Judge John R. Tunheim in Minneapolis.

An indictment filed with the federal court in January 2022 states that Peterson-Janovec "exploited the trust of multiple employers to use her positions of employment to embezzle more than $700,000" over the course of more than seven years.

The businesses included MI5 Inc. of Burnsville, a Denny's franchisee that owns and operates eight Denny's restaurants in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and a family-owned construction company based in Rochester.

At MI5 Inc., Peterson-Janovec served as the director of operations from April 2014 until July 2019 when the company discovered some of the fraudulent activity and she was terminated.

During her tenure with the company, Peterson-Janovec falsified records, created fake email accounts and generated fake email traffic in which she impersonated employees of various purported vendors.

She received approximately $356,000 in bogus vendor payments and fraudulently issued payroll submissions using the identities of other people.

Even after she was terminated, Peterson-Janovec continued to send emails from purported vendors of MI5 requesting fraudulent outstanding payments as late as February 2020, according to court documents.

Following her termination, Peterson-Janovec found a job as a bookkeeper with a family-owned construction company in Rochester in early 2020. The company is not named in court documents.

Peterson-Janovec was eventually promoted to general manager. She lied about her work experience to get the job, prosecutors said.

In as little as 18 months, Peterson-Janovec used the company's accounting software to issue herself approximately $350,000 in payments, which had been made to appear as if they were going to the company's vendors.

Peterson-Janovec has a prior federal fraud conviction from 1998, when she embezzled more than $950,000 from another former employer, according to prosecutors.

A sentencing date has not yet been scheduled.

Kimberly Sue Peterson-Janovec

The case was the result of an investigation conducted by the U.S. Postal Inspection Service, the Burnsville Police Department and the Criminal Investigation Division of the Internal Revenue Service.

Progress Continues on Kenyon School Memorial

The Village of Kenyon began educating students mostly in their homes as the village grew and more people came to live. The biggest building (and the one most of us know as Kenyon High and Grade School) was dedicated in 1915 and a number of the 'pediments' seen in these photos were made of Indiana Limestone. What's so special about Indiana Limestone? It is a very dense 'freestone'.

That means that exhibits no preferential direction which translates into the fact that it can be carved in a limitless variety of shapes and sizes. It is very durable and that can be seen from the fact that our pediments have lasted 106 years including a little trip down to the ground in 2013. This is the same limestone that was used to create a number of state capitals as well as the National Cathedral in Washington, DC, and parts of the Washington Monument. You can see we are in good company.

The columns and letters from the top of the building are believed to be poured concrete. And that company is still in business in New Ulm. It's called ArtStone.

As our pediments are placed in their new locations, we hope you will take some time to visit and see them from a closer viewpoint.

Please Enjoy, Reflect on some Fun and Games during your years at KHS....and then please Help Us Finish This Monument. It's a very complex process...and now we're looking at the pavers. This is a very important part of our project....it's your personal stamp and a chance to memorialize someone, or something that you want remembered. Please remember that the price of a paver today is $100....but the price goes on to $130 on March 15 which is rapidly coming our way....go to our website (khsmonument.com) to order, or contact Kevin or Mary Gail (Flom) Anderson now please. It's important!

You can find updates about the Kenyon School Memorial are posted on the KENYON HIGH SCHOOL MEMORIAL FUND page on Facebook.

HOPE, Minn. - The employees of Hope Creamery collaboratively decided they would make butter to celebrate over 100 years of being in business; the creamery turned 102 years old Dec. 22, 2021.

"To me it's an honor," Mike Iverson said. "Most businesses barely make 100 years old now let alone a business that's still in the same building."

Lori Allard agreed.

"It's a joy to come to work here," she said. "I think we all feel that."

Iverson and Allard are two of the few employees who help to make butter every week at Hope Creamery in Hope.

The creamery is owned and operated by Victor and Kellie Mrotz. Other employees are the Mrotzes' son, Hudson, and Cody Blouin, who also helps to make the butter, four parttime truck drivers, a salesman and an office manager.

The first butter churned out of the creamery was on Dec. 22, 1919.

"Back then, this was a one-stop shop for farmers as farmers could get their fuel, feed and milk processed here," Iverson said. 'They tried to incorporate everything a farmer needs into one entity.

At the time, the upstairs part of the building was also used for community events, 4-H meetings and a dance hall.

"The building was a modern marvel at the time because it had two stories and indoor plumbing," Iverson said.

Attracted by the building's history, local community and the butter, Victor Mrotz knew he had to do something when the creamery was looking at closing in 2001.

"I had grown up on a farm where my parents milked cows until I was about 10 years old," Mrotz said. "From living in Minneapolis for 16 to 17 years and working as a salesman, I was still getting the paper and read that Hope Creamery was about to close. I couldn't let that happen."

So, Mrotz, who was farming with his dad at the time, talked to a friend about the creamery and decided to purchase the building in March 2001.

"Kellie and I taste tested a bunch of different butters before we bought the creamery," Mrotz said. "We didn't know if it was different at the time, but it was definitely different in taste and texture. So, we bought the building, and it's been in our names ever since."

The Mrotzes have made changes to keep sanitation practices up to date, but the general butter making process has remained the same as it was in the 1950s.

"All of our equipment is original from the '50s and '60s," Hudson said. "Before that, the churn was original, but it was run off of a steam engine."

Today, they purchase 15,000 pounds of separated cream from Plainview Milk Products every other week and process 8,000 thousand pounds of butter. As a byproduct, buttermilk is given to pig farmers.

"There is no manual for making butter," Hudson said. "You can only learn it by working alongside other butter makers."

Gene Kruckeberg was the head butter maker for 40-plus years; Kruckeberg passed in 2017. Mrotz's friend, Jay Logan, worked under Kruckeberg and took over the position until he passed suddenly in 2019. Before passing, Logan taught Hudson and Allard who later taught Iverson.

"Since then, it's taken the three of us to backward engineer the process and piece everything together," Hudson said. "It's still the same recipe it was 40 years ago when Kruckeberg was making it."

After the cream is received, it goes through six hours of slow vat pasteurization and then put in the batch churn.

"The process is really slow; you can't rush it. We believe that gives the butter a better flavor and better product," Iverson said. "It's one step at a time, and every batch is different. You can't walk away during any part of the process."

Once the butter is made, it is wrapped into 1-pound blocks as either salted, unsalted high fat or unsalted butter.

"That's the way it was done a long time ago with Friday boxes," Iverson said. "These boxes were the old way of packaging butter. You would put the butter fresh off the churn into a metal or wooden box, let it harden and then cut the butter with a hand-operated machine that would use wires to cut the butter into 1-pound blocks."

Iverson said new machines are costly, and the 1-pound blocks are tradition and what the creamery is known for.

For Iverson and Allard, their favorite part about the butter making process consists of the taste testing.

"Five minutes before it's ready to package, you get to taste the freshest Hope butter you will ever taste in your life," Iverson said. "I don't know of anybody who eats more butter than we do."

Hudson enjoys the process.

"It's so methodical and always interesting every time making butter; there's never a dull moment," he said.

About 70% of the butter is marketed toward restaurants and grocery stores in the Twin Cities metropolitan area where Mrotz has the most experience. The creamery's first commercial account was the restaurant Lucia's.

"Lucia's really believed in us and supported the eat local food movement," Hudson said. "After that, it's kind of taken off and spread through word of mouth."

About 15-20 cases are sold directly from the creamery to local customers.

"We have people coming who have bought butter out of this building for three generations," Iverson said. "They don't want us to stop making butter. An 80-year-old lady came in here one time and told us about how the butter reminds her of what her grandma used to make on the farm."

Allard agreed.

"We're always eager to sell butter, and we can see it in the customers' eyes that we are making a difference," she said. "People smile."

After all these years, Hope Creamery plans to keep making butter in its traditional ways for many years to come.

"We christened that day this year, and I think that will be part of the tradition to make butter that week," said Hudson of Dec. 22, 2021. "And I think all of us will be on board to make at least a batch or two on the day of."

Rural Veterinarian Who Offered to Give Away His Practice Gets What He Wanted: A Successor

Dr. Robert Bogan didn't want to leave Faribault County, Minnesota without a vet. Courtesy of KARE 11

BLUE EARTH, Minn. — A rural Minnesota veterinarian who offered to give away his practice – building and all – to help attract his replacement, now has what he wanted: a suc-

"It lifts the weight off your shoulders," Dr. Robert Bogan says.

75-year-old Bogan was Faribault County's only vet. He made the offer after five years of searching for someone to take his place.

A story last summer about Bogan's offer, featured in a KARE 11 Land of 10,000 Stories segment, was shared more than 8,000 times on Facebook.

"This story spread far and wide and the message got to where it needed to go," Blue Earth City Administrator Mary Kennedy says.

In the days that followed, 10 young vets and vet students expressed interest. Eight of them made the trip to Blue Earth to meet with Bogan and tour the town. Five of those submitted formal applications.

From the applicants, Bogan selected Dr. Zach Adams, a 2021 graduate of the vet school at Iowa State University.

"It's a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity," Adams says. "I came here and realized it was a good fit."

Adams was serving his veterinary residency in North Carolina when he saw the story posted on his vet school's Facebook page.

"I was just sitting in my apartment scrolling through Facebook," Adams says. "I was like, that sounds like something I could do."

Adams grew up on a hobby farm near Preston, Iowa, a town of about 900 people.

He says Blue Earth felt right.

"It's very similar to where I grew up, so it feels kind of like home."

The opportunity checked another box.

"I'm a die-hard Vikings fan and I've always wanted to live in Minnesota so that kind of helped push the way too," Adams

Adams says he'd hoped at some point to own his own mixed animal veterinary practice, but didn't think the opportunity would come this soon.

Adams started working alongside Bogan in January with an ownership transition planned over the next year or so.

"I think he's going to fit in very well in Blue Earth," Bill Rosenau, a Faribault County farmer and banker said.

A shortage of rural vets has plagued, small, rural communities across the country.

As a member of the county economic development authority, Rosenau was among those working to recruit a new vet to Blue

Like many Faribault County farmers, he'd feared Bogan eventually retiring without a replacement.

To get somebody to come out and do onsite work would have been almost impossible because they would have been over an hour away," Rosenau says.

Since moving to Blue Earth, Adams has felt the love, including a welcome from a pizza delivery person his first week in town.

"I think most people know what house he bought, are excited to see him, are excited to meet him," Kennedy says.

Bogan's offer to give away his practice included his clinic building in Blue Earth, the furnishings and equipment, his pickup truck and even Annie, the office cat – who is written into the agreement Adams signed.

"I had a lawyer take a look at my contract," Adams says with a laugh. "He called me and was like, 'You know you're getting a cat with this, right?

Leyton Becker, a second-year vet student who interned with Bogan last summer and was featured in the KARE 11 story, had initially expressed interest in taking over the practice, but decided it was too early in his schooling to commit.

The University of Minnesota vet student says he met Adams during his visit to Blue Earth and holds open the possibility of joining him later in the practice.

"He's a great guy and I could totally see myself working with him," Becker said.

Administrator Boulton presented a new nofault sewer backup coverage option through the League of Minnesota Cities Insurance Trust. The coverage options include $10,000 limit for $1.79/sewer hook-up/year, a $25,000 limit for $2.11/sewer hook-up/year, and a $40,000 limit for $2.63/hook-up/year. Boulton stated that the City had around 500 sewer hook-ups in town. The cost of the additional coverage ranges from roughly $900/year to $1,300/year in additional premiums. Boulton stated that the City's insurance agent, Todd Greseth of GMI Insurance, requested that the Council be made aware of the new coverage option. Greseth stated that the Council should debate the public relations consideration of the coverage option. Other neighboring Cities have had sewer backups in which the current coverage does not pay out. The current coverage is limited due to the potential large volume and large dollar amount of potential claims. Theobald stated that the potential coverage does have limitations for large rain events. Kennedy stated that the large rain events would not be covered as part of the optional additional coverage. Kennedy stated that most sewer backups were due to service line blockage and home venting issues, not City sewer mains. Boulton stated that the coverage limitations are 2.0 inches in a 1-hour period, 2.5 inches in a 3-hour period, 3.0 inches in a 6hour period, 3.5 inches in a 12-hour period, 4.0 inches in a 24-hour period, 4.5 inches in a 72-hour period, and 5.5 inches in a 168hour period. The limitations show that the sanitary collection system has limitations before natural backups can occur. Boulton stated that the City of Wanamingo has had a handful of backup incidences in his tenure but none have resulted in payout of claims due to City negligence. Boulton stated that the cost of roughly $1,000/year would add to expenses of the sewer fund without bringing enough peace of mind coverage to justify the additional premiums. Boulton recommended not to purchase the additional coverage. The Council agreed not to pursue the additional coverage option.

22-016 = Authorizing Submittal of a Wastewater Project Priority List (PPL) Application to the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency on Behalf of the North Zumbro Sanitary Sewer District: Dierks moved to approve, seconded by VanDeWalker. Theobald stated that the Governor's Bonding Bill Recommendations did not include funding for any specific wastewater treatment facility. Instead, the Governor recommends additional funding through the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency Project Priority List (PPL). This would be a route for competitive (pointbased) funding for wastewater treatment plant funding. Mayor Holmes stated that he and the Mayors of Zumbrota, Pine Island, and Goodhue will be reaching out to legislators to spread the word about the project and bills at the legislature in the coming months. Passed Administrator Boulton provided a 2022 Utility Improvements Project updated project costs and financing plan. The actual and estimated portions of project costs are $2,624,738. The City Council intends to utilize the $115,938 ARPA Funds toward the project with formal approval to be considered at the March 2022 Council meeting. This leaves $2,508,800 in project expenses plus roughly $85,000 in bond issuance costs. The rough estimate for the 2022A Series Bond is $2,593,800. The final costs will be updated once the bids come in March 10th. Administrator Boulton stated that the City would like to keep the yearly bond payments under $155,000. This is roughly the amount of bond payments the City has paid on three past bond payments that have been retired in 2020, 2021, and 2022. With the current interest rates and estimated costs, the City would need to take on a 21-23 year bond repayment schedule.

22-017 = A Resolution Relating to the Issuance of General Obligation Water Revenue Bonds, Series 2022A; Covenanting and Obligating the City to be Bound by and to use the Provisions of the Minnesota Statutes 446A.086 to Guarantee the Payment of the Principal and Interest on the Bonds: VanDe-Walker moved to approve, seconded by Dierks. Passed 3-0-0.

ORDINANCE #198 - Water and Sewer Regulation – 1st Reading. Boulton stated that the City Attorney David Jacobsen, City Licensed Sanitary Sewer District Operator Richard Turri, Mayor Ryan Holmes, Administrator Michael Boulton, and Public Works Director Brad Kennedy have been working on a comprehensive plan to address the MPCA Compliance Evaluation Inspection Report with Letter of Warning. Part of the response included that the City would review and make necessary ordinance changes to address the monitoring and enforcement of limits on CBOD, TSS, and Phosphorus levels on large industrial users. The proposed ordinance sets those standards and puts in place a fine schedule if exceeded. Boulton and Theobald checked to make sure that the new water and sewer ordinance defines ownership and responsibility of water and service lines. The ownership and responsibility are assigned to the property owner as the current code of ordinances states. (continued on page 18)

Commissioner Corner

Hello, I just wanted to give you an update on what is happening in Goodhue county. The big news is the redistricting of our voting system, take a look at the changes to be implemented this year. Our district 3 in Goodhue county is unchanged but the congressional district has changed for some of our area, and the State races have also changed for some of us. Please be an informed voter and take a look at the changes. Covid numbers are on the steady decline so I hope we can start to put this behind us and get back to a new normal. I just want to send a thank you to all the staff at

Todd Greseth Goodhue County Commissioner District 3

Goodhue County who have worked so hard through this tough time. So many times we take for granted the things that are done for us bu,t we need to know that there are great people working very hard to help us and make our lives safer. We are still watching and looking at our ARPA funds and the everchanging options that the Federal Government is allowing for us. We do have a project starting this year to update the County park at Lake Byllesby, If you haven't been to the park plan a trip there it is really nice and soon to get better. Currently there is a bill introduced at the State capital to assist our law enforcement, first responders and ambulance for replacement of our expired radio communication. This is a huge amount of money needed since each portable radio is around $5,000 to replace, if you would like to contact your state politicians and let them know how important this it for us. As always I am available for any questions or concerns.

Changes in Latitudes, Changes in Attitudes

Ambulance Alarm Clock

By Terry Campbell

This column is written by Messenger editor and Minnesota native Terry Campbell. Terry now splits his time between Minnesota when its warm here and Tennessee when it's cold here.

We live five miles out of town on a road that leads to Holiday Shores and Loon Bay. These lake communities were built on Lake Barkley and consist of many very fancy water front properties. They were built over forty years ago by folks who were loving the lake life. Now they are barely clinging to life.

It seems about every morning we get a wake-up call in the form of a wailing siren. Somebody wakes up down the road and decides to call for assistance. The dogs hear it first and begin to howl. Then we can hear it in the distance and soon the blue and red lights go flashing by. It may be the EMT in the rescue truck, a Stewart County deputy in a brown SUV or the big, boxy white ambulance.

Down here we joke that the ambulance chasers are not attorneys, but real estate agents looking for a house that will be going on the market shortly. Quite frequently we go out for breakfast at the local diner, just up the road, and usually hear what all the commotion was about that day. Between the waitress and the old farmers at the café, we get the whole story, quite a bit of history and a great commentary of amusing anecdotes.

The other day we heard on the radio what one of the calls was about. It was for an eighty-plus year-old lady who decided to run into town the first thing in the morning. Instead of backing up though, she charged ahead in her Caddy like a battering ram and drove right through the front of the house cruising through the living room, right past the kitchen and came to a stop on the back deck. The medics determined she was alright and the sheriff reported that she mistook the gas pedal for the brake pedal. No news on if she will be driving into town anytime soon

Holmes stated that the ordinance change would be one of the steps in the process of enforcement to comply with the MPCA warning. Boulton stated that he would have a public notice of the proposed ordinance published in the News Record on March 2nd for the public hearing on March 14th.

A Minnesotan: Goats

By RosaLin Alcoser

My older sister believes that everyone has had at least one great goat story in their

For her and I it was the time one of the neighbors down the road received a goat for Father's Day. The goat got out and ended up on our front porch then proceeded to bleat if my sister did not sit outside with it. Our dog went ballistic and had to be kept inside all day until our parents figured out whose goat it was.

While they did that we proceeded to name that goat Kiddie; Kiddie was later renamed by his owners. We only had Kiddie for an afternoon but he was a good goat. About a year or so later our family bought him and he was delicious when we had him for dinner.

One of my friend's goat story is from when he and his sister kept goats as a 4-H project back in grade school. Once when their aunt was staying over to watch them for a few days she pulled her car up to their car port in the late evening and heard a sound coming from inside.

Apparently the sound sounded like there was someone inside of the car port pretending to be a goat. Naturally since there was a suspected person pretending to be a goat hiding in the car port she called the deputy to come check it out. It turned out to be one of the 4-H goats bleating like a person pretending to be a bleating goat.

For one of my sister's friends their goat story happened after she told her friends about her belief in everyone having at least one great goat story. This friend was from a big city and had never seen a goat in person. So everyone in their group decided that they needed to take him to see a goat.

So his one great goat story is about the time he was taken to a petting zoo and forced to pet a goat.

Everyone has at least one great story about an encounter with a goat. Whether it is having one show up at your door, keeping goats that pretend to be people pretending to be goats or being forced to pet one by your friends. And if you do not have one great story about an encounter with a goat then clearly you have not spent enough time around goats.
