

New Pinto Creek Bridge opens to traffic

A new US Highway 60 bridge over Pinto Creek opened to traffic Friday, Sept. 17, replacing a 72-year-old structure on the only route between Superior and the Globe-Miami area.

The Arizona Department of Transportation began the $22.7 million bridge replacement project 23 months ago, constructing the new bridge just feet away from traffic that continued using the existing structure. Then on the night of Sunday, Sept.

The new Pinto Creek Bridge opened last Friday at noon.

12, work crews closed US 60 between Superior and Miami for a roundthe-clock operation to realign the roadway to the new bridge.

bridge opened to the public shortly before noon Friday. While both bridges were designed for two lanes of traffic, the new structure also features eight-footwide shoulders and can handle heavier loads. The bridge is expected to handle roughly 7,200 vehicles a day.

"US 60 is a critical route for passenger vehicles and commercial traffic, including heavy loads from mines in the area," said ADOT Southeast District Engineer Bill Harmon. "By completing this new bridge at Pinto Creek, we're making sure the highway will remain reliable and safe for decades to come."

Gila County job applications now online, paperless, even mobile

Great news for job applicants interested in a new career with Gila County Government: This week the Human Resources team announced they've upgraded to an electronic application process. This secure, safe online platform allows users to easily search, find and apply for jobs even on a mobile device.

In fact, job seekers can sign up now with NEOGOV at governmentjobs.com/careers/gilaaz. Set up your account, input your education and work history - and that background info remains in your account for all jobs you apply for through NEOGOV, efficiently eliminating the need to redundantly fill out paper applications. It's also possible to set up future notifications for positions you may be interested in. For example, you can be notified any time an accounting position becomes available. Create an account using your personal email and test-drive the process. If you have any questions regarding this new process, please contact Gila County Human Resources at (928) 402-4253 or employment@gilacountyaz.gov. Pete Hernandez was born Jan. 11, 1965, to Eberto and Orlinda Hernandez in Miami. Az. He entered heaven at his home in Mesa, Az., Sunday, Sept. 5, 2021. Pete was known for his generous heart. He had a love for jokes and an infectious laugh, and most knew him for his unique voice. He had an incredible love for music, especially Elvis Presley; he could sing any Elvis Presley song and hit almost every note right. He loved being around others and enjoyed making people smile.

Pete loved being outside and enjoyed a hard day's work. He was a landscaper for many years and loved his trade. He also loved to cook and especially loved showing his kids around the kitchen. What was most amazing about Pete was he was always willing to work hard for his family.

What he loved most was being a papa to his granddaughter Eliyana; he always looked forward to seeing her and spoiling her. He always said, "She's not spoiled, she's loved," with a big smile and laugh. One thing about Pete was he was a man of his word: if he made a promise he followed through. Resolution Copper offsets its operations with renewable energy certificates

The Resolution Copper Project purchased enough renewable energy certificates (RECs) to offset 100 percent of its electrical usage in 2020.

Through an agreement Rio Tinto between Kennecott and Rocky Mountain Power (RMP), Resolution Copper acquired 55,000 megawatt-hours renewable of energy certificates (RECs) from two wind generation plants. The transaction received formal recognition in a final Green-e verification audit report approved by the Center for Resource Solutions (CRS). Resolution Copper has also initiated discussions to purchase additional RECs to cover all its electrical requirements for 2021.

As the project progresses demand and energy Resolution increases, Copper will explore the opportunity to expand such arrangements, including with the Salt River Project and its solar (SRP) plants in Arizona. In 2022, Resolution Copper will complement its RECs by deriving a quarter of its current power requirements directly from SRP's new 100-megawatt solar plant currently being built in Elov.

"We're proud to partner with forward-looking companies like Resolution Copper who are dedicated to reducing carbon emissions on a grand scale," said SRP Senior Manager of Key Accounts Jonah Roehl.

These arrangements and agreements draw Resolution Copper closer to abiding by its net-zero carbon footprint commitment prior to the beginning of the mine's operations. "By supporting clean energy, we will significantly reduce emissions and produce copper while lowering our carbon footprint. It's just one of the many ways we're working to reduce our overall impact on the environment," said Resolution Copper Project Director Andrew Lye.

Find free early childhood programs across Gila County

San Carlos – A new and improved tool has launched to help parents and caregivers of babies, toddlers and preschoolers support the healthy development of their child by connecting with free programs and services in their community.

This resource is a product of First Things First. As Arizona's early childhood agency, First Things First (FTF) helps parents understand the importance of their child's first five years, because from birth to age five, a child's brain grows more than at any other time in life. By entering a zip code, the online search tool, Find Programs, FirstThingsFirst.org/findprograms, will help families find early childhood programs that meet their needs and interests and are near them. All are offered at no cost to the family.

Information is available in English and Spanish.

"Families that use online sources for parenting information will see that the Find Programs tool is an easy way to quickly find what is available for free in their community," said FTF Chief Program Officer Amy Corriveau. "They'll find programs funded by First Things First and provided by community partners to support their young child's healthy development and learning."

Here are the types of programs and services families might find.

Family activities: Participate in family-friendly workshops, classes, story times and other events to have fun with your child, meet other parents and learn about child development, positive parenting, health and early literacy.

Quality child care and preschool programs are also part of the search through FTF's Quality First program, which will connect parents with more than 1,000 child care centers, homes and preschool programs in Arizona that participate in Quality First.

For example, if you enter zip code 85550 for San Carlos, seven programs and services appear in the search. From there, families can narrow down to the type of information they're looking for. So start your search today at FirstThings-First.org/find-programs.

About First Things First — As Arizona's early childhood agency, First Things First funds early learning, family support and children's preventive health services to help kids be successful once they enter kindergarten. Spurgeon selected for Termaine Dance Company

Power Elite Dance Academy student Anisa Spurgeon has been selected to be a member of the Senior Performance Team with the award-winning Tremaine Dance Conventions. Founded in 1981 by internationally known choreographer and teacher Joe Tremaine and nationally known dance educator and business consultant Julie Adler, this Los Angeles-based dance company is professional dance education at its best. With a staff of working professional choreographers and teachers, Tremaine Dance Conventions and Competitions conducts classes for teachers, assistant teachers, senior, teen and junior dancers from around the world. The latest in dance techniques are presented during each exciting convention. Anisa will accompany the Tremaine staff to various cities across the country during the 2021-2022 tour season and will have the opportunity to not only perform with the other members of the Teen and Senior Tremaine Performance Team throughout the season, but she will also serve as an assistant to the teachers during the convention.

Tremaine offers classes in ballet, jazz, contemporary, fusion jazz, musical theatre, tap and hip hop, presented in a positive learning atmosphere. This is a great chance for young dancers to work with professionals who currently work in all areas of the industry including Broadway productions, television, film, commercial advertisements, and live shows and music videos with artists such as Lady Gaga and Beyonce.

Anisa began her audition process for this position at Tremaine National Dance Event in July in Las Vegas. She received word several weeks later that she had made it through the first round of cuts and was asked to move into the second step of the audition process by submitting a one-minute video of herself dancing in her best style with just a few days to prepare. "Citizens' Academy: Learn the ins and outs of Globe city government"

Carol Broeder

Next month, the City of Globe opens wide the doors to a better understanding of how it operates.

City residents--18 years of age and oldermay register now for the first annual "Citizens" Academy," set to begin Wednesday, Oct. 13.

The six-week course will offer "a comprehensive, behind-the-scenes perspective on City of Globe structure and operations," says Mayor Al Gameros.

City Council adopted the Academy as part of its strategic plan, explains City Manager Paul Jepson. While City department heads will teach each session, a council member will also be on hand as the evening's host.

Jepson believes the sessions will go beyond a "classroom setting," offering hands-on experiences participants will have fun with, such as trying on firefighter turnout gear and maybe even climbing a firetrack ladder.

As Fire Department session host, Councilman Mike Pastor says he just might climb a ladder right along with the participants.

The 12-hour Academy will cover the "gritty details" of the council/manager form of government; procurement/gift clause; the zoning and development process; budgeling; taxes; revenue; open meeting law and more.

Paster believes it will be a great way to "familiarize taxpayers with the ins and outs of city government."

Constituents approaching Pastor often pose "why" questions, and some information presented will be based on the questions residents are asking.

Pastor gives the example of a recent constituent concern about cleaning up alleys, which belong to the City.

The complaint was turned over to the Public Works Department, which Pastor describes as "really short-handed." "We want residents to understand that we're not ignoring them; it's just the City needs to prioritize its workload," he explains.

> Сонпсіlтал Freddy Rios sees the Academy as "a great opportunity to educate the community on the challenges for the mayor, council and city staff."

After speaking with Pastor about barking dogs, another constituent learned about the reporting process and was "very appreciative," Pastor says.

The resident also found out the information was readily available on the City website. "There are a lot of things that have become more available to the community," Pastor says. "Perhaps, in the past, our communication wasn't all it should be, but the City is trying to change that."

Councilman Freddy Rios sees the Academy as "a great opportunity to educate the community on the challenges for the mayor, council and city staff."

It will also benefit those interested in serving on local committees, boards or commissions, or even running for council.

Rios believes the Academy will be "a great springboard for any individual who has the interest and desire to run for council."

Participants would learn what to expect before throwing their hat into the ring.

"They would be able to compare their expectations to the realities and decide if this is what they really want," he says.

Rios is confident in a good turnout for the upcoming Academy.

"I sure hope so, and if it doesn't catch on the first time, we can try it again," he says. "This is a great opportunity to show what city government is about and talk about the things we can or cannot do."

The schedule of weekly sessions is as follows:

 Week One, Wednesday, Oct. 13: Council/ Manager form of government: Mayor, council, manager and clerk. Host: Mayor Al-Gameros.

 Week Two, Wednesday, Oct. 20: Economic and Community Development: business support; tourism and development. Host: Councilman Freddy Rios.

 Week Three, Wednesday, Oct. 27: Public Works: Water, wastewater and transportation. Hest: Councilman Jesse Leetham.

Week Four, Wednesday, Nov. 3: Police Department: mission; staffing; training; equipment and tactics. Host: Vice Mayor Mike Stapleton.

 Week Five, Wednesday, Nov. 10: Fire Department: Mission; stalling; training; equipment and factics. Host: Councilman Mike Paster;

 Week Six, Wednesday, Nov. 17: Finance Department: Rovenue; budget; contracts and procurement. Host: Councilman Fernando Shipley.

 Graduation at the Tuesday, Nov. 23 City Council meeting. Host: Councilman Mariano Gonzalez.

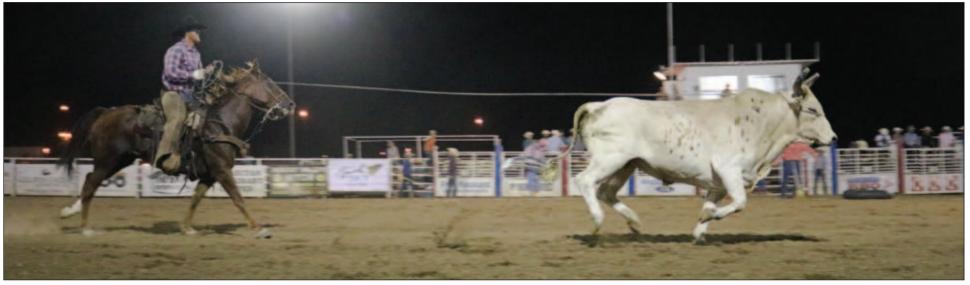

Participants must attend five out of six classes to graduate.

To register, contact City Clerk Shelly Salazar at 928-425-7146 ext. 206 or cmail at ssalazar@globeaz.gov.

Stay tuned for our next article in the series, where we will continue to explore positive things the City of Globe has planned for the community.

Growing up, I can remember hanging on to my dad's shoulder as he pulled me around the public pools in the towns we lived in. When we moved to Globe, I would ride my bike, almost daily, to the Community Center Pool to hang out with friends and pretend I was an Olympian, diving off the high dive and swimming the length of the pool. In junior high, we lived for the 'swim day' where, if we didn't have too many disciplinary points, we would load onto school buses, our swimsuits on under our tshirts - a rolled up towel in tow - and descend upon the pool for a full day of recreation, accompanied by the next day sunburn. In high school I envied friends who became certified lifeguards. looking so cool with their tans, sitting in the lifeguard chair and making a boatload of money over the summer. Even now, I hear the stories of Globe/Miami kids who were taught how to swim by Coach Ben Marin at the Central pool. Hot summers meant finding water - one of the only ways to get out of the house. It also meant that we grew and developed socially and physically and created great memories.

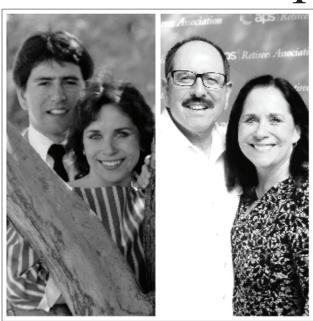

In raising my own kids in the Valley, I often took them to the public aquatic centers in our local area. My kids have great memories of playing in the pools, learning to swim and getting out of the house on hot, hot summer days. Now I am holding the hands of my grandchildren as they do the same. It is a circle complete of me holding onto my dad as he swam and my grandchildren holding onto me as now I swim. I would love to see these types of memories continue for the next generations in Globe/ Miami.

Currently, my high school classmate is an elementary teacher in Globe. Each year she reaches out to her friends and asks for sponsors so that the kids in her school can receive a free paperback book each month. A book they can take home and read over and over again. A book they can read to their siblings. A book of their very own. We are delighted to be asked and jump at the opportunity to make a small donation so this teacher's dream becomes a reality for her students! And the world becomes just a little better.

My husband grew up in Florence, Arizona and that community is currently enjoying a beautiful aquatic center. We have been given so many opportunities and memories from being raised in Globe/Miami. Think about paying it forward.

Consider donating in honor of great teachers like Coach Ben Marin, Ms. Christie, Sue Jones, Carol Warren, Pat England, Glenda Alexander and many others. Consider donating in memory of classmates and friends we have lost along the way. Many small donations can make this dream become a reality. And the world can become just a little better.

There are thousands of people with great memories of growing up in the mining towns. Consider paying it forward and making the Cobre Valley Regional Aquatic Center a reality. Make growing up in Globe/ Miami a great memory for the next generations.

"In Loving Memory of My Beautiful Wife, Kay Vargas."

May the committee raise all the funds necessary to build the center. Swimming is a great way to keep your body in shape and healthy. Good Luck, and I want to be able to come to the Cobre Valley Aquatic Center and swim.

By PASTOR NICK JONES Maranatha Baptist Church

Have you noticed the increase of telephone scammers lately? Yes, scammers have been around forever, but some of their tactics are fairly modern. For instance, some people receive calls from computer tech "support companies" offering to help you with "viruses" on your PC. The only problem is that when they are granted remote access to your computer the "tech" then steals your personal information. Not to mention all of the calls about your "car's extended warranty" or those alarming messages from the "IRS." This is wicked stuff! Please, don't fall for these calls. If something seems fishy, it most likely is.

Recently, scammers used my name to contact people via social media and text messages to try to get money from folks. Friends received a message that "Pastor Nick" was in a meeting - only reachable by text - and needed gift cards for church members in the hospital. When I started getting phone calls from people asking me about it, I knew right away what the problem was and told everyone to simply ignore the messages that were coming from "me." Thankfully, no one fell for this shameful trick. It makes me wonder, how many people throughout the country get bamboozled into sending these scammers money?

Scammers seem to employ these basic tactics. They tend to use authority as a means to incite fear or trust. Take for instance the example of the fake IRS call. When you get a call from the IRS stating you are in danger of penalty or even jail time unless payment is made immediately, your heart begins to race and fear sets in. The scammers hope you will not think clearly and will simply pay the money. Similarly, when the scammers use the name of a church or community leader, they are hoping the reputation of the individual is such that requests for money will not be questioned. In other words, because I trust the person named I will follow the request. Fear or trust; how should we view these two concepts?

First, I think it is important to recognize that these two views of leadership and authority are far too common. It has been my experience that those outside of the Christian worldview believe that this is how "church people" follow leaders. Right? "Christians don't think for themselves; they just do what they are told." This may be true in quasi-Christian or cultic groups, but not in any biblically faithful Christian community I know of. In fact, quite the opposite is true.

God calls us to weigh whether something is truth or error. "Beloved, do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits to see whether they are from God, for many false prophets have gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1). The Apostle John is adamant that we must test what we are taught, even by self-professed prophets. Here, John contends against false teachers who preach that Jesus didn't come to earth as flesh but merely as a spirit (1 John 4:3). Should we believe this because some leader taught it? No! Rather, the church should look at what God has already revealed in the Bible and test it to see if this new teaching is in line with God's word. "Test everything; hold fast what is good" (1 Thessalonians 5:21). True followers of Christ do not blindly follow church leaders.

"But I love my leaders. They are so smart and in tune with God. I just know in my heart that they would never lead me astray." The standard for weighing truth cannot be our own feelings! "The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately sick; who can understand it?" (Jeremiah 17:9). You see, sin not only fractures our connection with God but even causes our feelings to be untrustworthy. In the book of Proverbs we find this bit of wisdom, "He who trusts in his own heart is a fool" (Proverbs 28:26). While emotions are a good gift from God, they are not a good standard for judging truth. Instead. we must look to the solid rock of God's written, inspired word, the Bible; this is our measuring rod of truth. "All Scripture is breathed out by God and profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness, that the man of God may be complete, equipped for every good work" (2 Timothy 3:16-17).

Now this is not to say that church leadership should be ignored. No, Christians are called to obey and submit to church leadership (Hebrews 13:17). This is one of the reasons that it is important for every Christian to be a dedicated member of a local church. However, Christians are not to obey and submit out of fear or mere blind trust. I tell the congregation I serve that my job is to teach the Bible and their job is to make sure I'm teaching the Bible correctly. You see, we both, pastor and congregation, have a standard by which we can judge truth from error. Our standard is the Bible. So good church leadership directs the congregation by simply following the Bible. Following good church leadership is simply listening to the Bible, which is vital because, fundamentally, when the Bible speaks God speaks.

Beware of scammers... even religious ones. Don't believe everything you are told simply because a church leader, pastor, priest, prophet, or otherwise tells you it is so. Listen first to God's word, the Bible, then you can rightly discern if you are being told the truth or being fooled. I hate when people take advantage of other people. I don't want this to happen to you. This world is filled with scams and scammers, but God will always be faithful.

Daily Devotional Prayer God's Provision

Matthew 14:22-33

We all face trials. Realistically, if you're not currently in a storm, you're either just getting out of one or about to enter one. Thankfully, we serve a good God who always provides—including during the dark periods of life. Today's passage tells of a stormy night on the Sea of Galilee. Let's look at three ways Jesus provides for us today just as He did for the disciples then.

1. Presence. God is with every believer through His indwelling Holy Spirit, and He promises never to leave (John 14:16-17; Heb. 13:5). This is a great gift because it gives a sense of comfort, courage, and confidence.

2. Pathway. He blesses Christians with guidance through trouble. Jesus is in total control of our storm and will use it for His purposes. We may not understand, but we can trust Him to lead us and accomplish good.

3. Potential. He offers believers the ability to grow. Hardships are exercises in trust and times to learn more fully who God is, and how great His power and love are.

No one enjoys trials, but we can be grateful for God's hand in our life and the ways He will use us. Hardships are opportunities to trust the Creator and know Him better.

Men

By Dr. Dan Morton Contributor

Who picks these words and how do they expect wisdom in two hundred fifty words or less? The answer is that I pick them at random and choose to explore and share the results.

A quick history lesson may give some insight in our attempt to explain men.

Genesis 2:15: "The Lord God took the man and put him in the Garden of Eden to work it and take care of it."

Genesis 2:18: "The Lord God said, 'It is not good for the man to be alone. I will make a helper suitable for him.""

Genesis 2:22: "Then the Lord God made a woman from the rib he had taken out of the man, and he brought her to the man."

Genesis 6:3: "Then the Lord said, 'My Spirit will not contend with man forever, for he is mortal; his days will be a hundred and twenty years."

The story continues like a well-written mystery. Drama, failure, success, death, life, questions, answers, and details that may sound familiar or be revealing. I highly recommend reading the book.

Whenever you meet a man, consider what has gone on in his life since birth. To a certain extent we are shaped by what happens to us and our response to each of these events. Understanding him may open new avenues to friendship as you find common events.

In gaining a foundation for understanding others, we may well look to our "Faith Journey." Where we began, what we have experienced, what God has done for us and the big question, "What can we do for God?"

Whether you turn to the Old Testament and see how God called Abraham or turn to the New Testament and see how God stopped Saul of Tarsus on the road to Damascus, the Bible is full of things that actually happened.

Frederick W. Faber wrote a hymn that recognizes our Christian history: Faith of our fathers.

"Faith of our fathers! living still In spite of dungeon, fire, and sword; O how our hearts beat high with joy Whene'er we hear that glorious word!

Faith of our fathers! we will strive To win all nations unto thee; And through the truth that comes from God Mankind shall then be truly free.

Faith of our fathers! we will love Both friend and foe in all our strife; And preach thee, too, as love knows how By kindly words and virtuous life.

Faith of our fathers! holy faith! We will be true to thee till death."

United Fund: Agencies that serve the community

By CAROL BROEDER Contributor

This week, we look at the Salvation Army Daycare Program and Gila Community Food Bank, as part of our ongoing series featuring 21 local nonprofits United Fund (UF) supports.

Gila Community Food Bank

The Food Bank has served the community since the 1930s, when John and Clara Horton began helping feed their neighbors, buying extra food on their grocery store trips. Running out of space, the Hortons were allowed use of two rooms in the Gila County Courthouse. Formerly the Clara Horton Food Bank, it was renamed Gila Community Food Bank in 1977 after the couple passed away without children. Each month, the Food Bank gives emergency food boxes to those qualifying as unemployed or employed but food insecure. Homeless people receive a sack lunch every day, Monday through Friday, says Patty Nolan, the board of directors' secretary/treasurer. On average, the Food Bank distributes 672 boxes per month, serving about 2,000 people. It also gives extra food boxes to seniors over 60, for a total of 175 boxes per month, Nolan says. Led by Rev. Dr. Rula Colvin. the board has been together 10 years, except for Ken Hein, a board member for 20 years. A total of 40 volunteers, including all board members, log more than 1,700 hours annually, ensuring the food bank runs smoothly. "It is only through the hard work of the volunteers this is possible," Nolan says. In addition to volunteers, the Food Bank has one paid staff member whose role ensures the community's ever-growing need is met with sufficient volume of resources. Beyond direct client services, paid staff provides effective documentation management and positive rapport with financial supporters, food donors, board members, clients, volunteers and the community. With UF support, the Food Bank increased the number of families served as well as amount of food distributed. It also helped the Food Bank add "much needed storage space," and a new van to pick up food donated by WalMart and Fry's, Nolan says. Monthly funding helps buy food to serve community hunger needs. UF support also allows the Food Bank to "operate on a larger level," as community need grew during the Covid pandemic, fires and floods, she says. The Food Bank seeks "every opportunity to reach out to the community by providing emergency food provisions," Nolan says. "Each day, our volunteers go home knowing they made a difference in someone's life." For more information, call 928-425-3639.

Salvation Army Day Care Center

Founded circa 1970, "The Rock" Day Care Center is one of the only state-accredited day cares in Globe. Twenty-year employee Yvette Angulo began as a volunteer, then became a daycare provider and director before her promotion to service center director in 2016. With its three-person staff, "The Rock" currently cares for a total of 23 kids. There are children staying the whole day, along with those only attending preschool in the mornings. Globe schools transport older children to the after-school care program. Hours are from 7:30 a.m.-5 p.m., and there is a summer program as well. "The Rock" currently offers a preschool program for three-five-year-olds, as well as a day care program for children age five through their 13th birthday, Angulo explains. "We are not a baby sitting service," she says. "We educate our kids." An organized and structured program, the preschool uses packets to teach numbers and the alphabet, helping to prepare children for Kindergarten. They do arts and crafts and learn colors, sounds and at least their first names before starting school. The staff also assesses each child's learning. Local Kindergarten teachers compliment "The Rock" for its program, preparing the children well for school, Angulo says. "United Fund has allowed us to stay in business," providing operational grants as well as funding items the preschool/day care needs, such as pencils, books and even groceries. Children are loved and cared for at "The Rock." "We do whatever it takes for the kids," Angulo says. "We cook for them, we clean and do our own maintenance. We take care of the kids like our own." Besides preparing them for Kindergarten, Angulo believes in teaching the children manners, such as saying "please" and "thank you." "I want them to be great people when they grow up," Angulo says. For more information, call 928-425-4011.

Desert Plants and Vistas: A watercolor course at the Arboretum

Boyce Thompson Arboretum is hosting a watercolor course starting Saturday, Oct. 23.

Learn to watercolor paint or improve painting skills amongst the whispering eucalyptus, succulents and sweeping vistas of the arboretum. Explore the elements and principles of design readily found in the desert – line shape, contrast, repetition and pattern, while focusing on the watercolor techniques of washes, wet on wet, hard lines, soft lines and glazing.

Plan to wear comfortable clothing and walking shoes. Bring drinking water and pack your supplies in a backpack. We will paint still-lifes under ramadas and plein air landscapes on shaded trails.

The course, taught by Christin Quissell, will run for four weeks, October 23 to November 13, meeting Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to noon. Pre-registration is required. Buy tickets at 9830. blackbaudhosting.com.

San Carlos Jr. High volleyball team falls to Superior

Susanne Jerome/ Copper Country News Danijah Goode returns the ball.

Send news and events to news@ coppercountrynews. com

San Carlos Jr. High school volleyball teams took on Superior on Thursday Sept. 16 at Rice Gym. The 7th graders played an unofficial game since they were unable to qualify for a regular season with the number of players they could field. The 8th graders played a regular game and scored points against the team from Superior, but the visitors won by two games to 0. This was not surprising to Coach Tawnya Stevens. Only one of her players had played a season because the schools were closed in 2020 and again in the current year, which disrupted practice in the start of the current year. The team are learning fast, though, and are very enthusiastic.

Globe pageant sets stage for Arizona State Cinderella Finals

BY RENEE ROMO

Cronkite News

Vying for not just the crown but a chance to better themselves and their future, young girls and women competed in the first Arizona Cinderella Scholarship Pageant of the 2021-2022 year in Globe, Arizona.

"There are not a lot of opportunities in this town; this pageant gives the contestants something to work for, a goal to accomplish," said pageant director Tina McCarey.

The pageant took place Saturday, September 11 in Globe. McCarev explained to the crowd that the pageant is "dedicated to youth development in young girls and providing skills to help expand their future. Founded in 1976, the Cinderella Scholarship Program has grown into the largest and most prestigious pageant system of its kind in the world "

A total of 22 contestants competed, McCarey said, with the youngest contestants still being infants and the oldest being 28 years old. Divisions included Infant, Baby, Tiny-Tot, Tot, Miniature Miss. Miss. Teen and Woman.

The five overall title winners will spend an entire year as the Globe Cinderella Royalty and be required to compete at the Arizona State Cinderella Finals next June, McCarey said

Speaking directly to the three judges of the pageant. former contestant Rori Glover, now emcee. reminded them of the interviews they had with each of the contestants and how much weight that holds in the decision for which contestant wins the overall titles.

Shifting to the next phases of competition, Party Dress and Casual Wear, Glover said, "We are looking for a young lady that is equally poised as she is personable. Cinderella modeling is designed to sell the girl as opposed to runway modeling that is designed to sell the clothes." Glover said while interviewing is the most important part of the pageant, the talent por-"Talent in Cinderella is the ability to entertain an audience and judges. You are to take into account the technical merit of the routine, but your focus is to be on the entertainment factor," McCarey said.

so they are judged on personality. "You are looking for that little lady with a special sparkle," McCarey said.

McCarey is a native of Globe and competed once in Cinderella, but her vounger sister Tara Cluff competed many times and won the Arizona State Cinderella Miss title.

Her home town inspired Tina McCarey to bring Cinderella to Globe, "to give young girls who may not have much of an ambition a sense of what it is like to be confident and want something more for themselves." Cluff said.

McCarey's pageant is the first of many that lead up to the Arizona State Cinderella Finals in June of next year, hosted in Tucson by pageant directors Terry and Mike Nurss and their two daughters Erin Raczynski and Adrienne Robertson.

Cluff said having the pageant be the first of the year was for a reason: "She wanted to give the contestants enough time to raise the funds to compete in the state pageant if they so choose."

At the closing of the pageant McCarey said, "Whether you won today or you didn't, all contestants are now welcome to attend the Arizona State Grand Finals in June."

The younger girls competing, infants, babies, tiny-tots and tots, are too young to have a talent, and
