GILA COUNTY FAIR

Fairgrounds History

The first Gila County Fair was held in 1970.

It all started when six kids – Grant Boice, Mary Boice Moreton, Frank DalMolin, Elaine Hagen McBride, Eric Treible and Jeff Mercer – wanted to begin showing steers.

This prompted Bob Boice, with the Slash S Ranch, to start the first 4-H Club in Globe, known as the Gila MonSteers, in 1964.

For many years, the Gila MonSteers kept their animals at the Globe Stockyards on Walliman Road, then owned by Buster Mounce. This was also where all the steers were shown and sold before Globe’s fairgrounds were developed. For several years before there was a scale at the fairgrounds, livestock owners and 4-H’ers continued to use Mounce’s scales to weigh their animals.

Then-County Supervisor Bill Bohme approached local rancher Kendrick Holder about acquiring the state land lease Holder held on what is now the fairgrounds. Holder donated 160 acres with the stipulation that it be used for agriculture, fairs, and racetracks.

Bohme, Joe and Mabel

Bassett, and volunteers from the Globe Junior Chamber of Commerce began working on the race-track.

Bob Boice – then Gila County Fair and Racing Commission’s chairman – and former Globe Mayor Bill Lewis began making improvements to the fairgrounds by adding a rodeo arena in 1968. Boice also organized the first county fairs, along with local rancher Jim Tidwell and University of Arizona Extension Service County Agent Van Wilson.

Boice was instrumental in getting the racing commission, fair committee and 4-H committee, along with Carolyn Beydler and Donna Anderson. In a June 17, 2024 letter to the Gila County Board of Supervisors, Bill Byrne, Fair and Racing Committee chairman from 1980 to 1996, wrote that Donna Anderson worked diligently to get the County Fair up and running.

The work begun more than 50 years ago to help 4-H’ers – and now Future Farmers of America (FFA) students – to humanely raise their animals and find businesses to purchase their livestock continued, then-Fair Chairman Janet Cline said in 2019. “We are happy to keep the tradition going.”

Joe Lavin became fairgrounds manager in 1969. “He and his crew kept the place running and ready for events, and he is one of the main reasons the fairgrounds was successful as he knew what to do if anything went wrong,” wrote Byrne.

Gila County was unique in the early years, being the only county whose Fair and Racing Boards were run by all volunteers. Most other Arizona counties had volunteers, but the chairpersons were usually a county employee or it was a paid position.
