Local volunteers clean up Mountain Breeze cemetery

By David Sowders
Assistant Editor

Last Tuesday a local business that employs local and retired firefighters, Allegiance Builders, gave back to the community by sending a volunteer crew to clean up Mountain Breeze Memorial Gardens Cemetery west of Miami. After reaching out to the property owner for permission, Allegiance Builders owner Lyle Wyatt, a City of Globe firefighter, sent a road crew with a brush hog, mower and weed eaters for a day's work. These volunteers knocked down much of the overgrowth that was affecting Mountain Breeze. Fuels reduc-

The Eternal Nature of God

By Greg S. Baker
Pastor of First Baptist Church of Miami, AZ

This article may be a lesson in futility. Trying to comprehend the eternal nature of God is very much like a squirrel trying to comprehend aerodynamics or like nailing jelly to a tree. Yet our basic understanding of God’s eternal nature is so rudimentary that I feel an attempt to give you a taste for the much larger complexity is appropriate. I will not even claim I am right in this matter. But I can dazzle your mind a bit and show you the eternal nature of God is much more awesome than we could ever believe. It is very possible eternity isn’t the “never ending of time.” It may be eternity is the absence of time altogether—perhaps a single moment that never ends. Ecclesiastes 3:14-15 — I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him. That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past. Perhaps forever, or the eternal state of God, exists outside the realm of time itself. For God, all is now. The past is now, the present is now, and the future is now. Time and the Eternal Nature of God Time is a finite creation of God. Genesis 1:5 mentions a first day. If God existed before there was a beginning, then how could God possibly have a beginning? But God also said time will end in Revelation 10:6. So if time is a construct into which God has placed us, yet something He Himself is not bound to, then it is very possible that all of time is something God can observe at once—from beginning to end at the same “time.” For example, since time is linear, let’s imagine time is a ruler. Replace the inches with time, where each mark represents a day, a week, a month, a year, and so on. You can see the entire thing, the beginning and end, all at once. You could also concentrate on any given point of that ruler. You could see inch one, gaze upon inch nine, and then turn your attention to inch three. If God created time, is it not possible that God created everything, beginning and end, all at once? Jesus said He was the beginning and the end (Revelation 22:13). God created time all at once, first and last, complete, and so can look at any part of time He wishes. He can watch us right now and then watch in real time as Moses parts the Red Sea. He can see Eve’s transgression and His Son’s crucifixion at the same time. It is always “now” to God. To the Eternal God, All Time Is Now Revelation 13:8 claims Jesus was the Lamb slain from the foundations of the world. Is it not possible that as far as God is concerned, while David sat on his throne, Jesus was dying on the Cross? The past is now with God. The future is now. To an eternal God, everything that is to us past, present, and future is merely “now” to Him. For God, all of time is happening right now. Humans are bound to the ruler, bound to time. God isn’t. God is gazing upon all of time from the first day until there will be time no longer. Moses, when asking God about His name, received this reply in Exodus 3:14, “I AM THAT I AM.” God is in every moment, and all of time is contained in God’s “now.” This is so much more impressive than to say that God had no beginning. The eternal nature of God is so much more! To learn more, go to fbc-miami.com.
