Ceremony held for joint training facility 'It'll be something that we can be proud of for decades to come'

BY JEFF HELFRICH
MANAGING EDITOR

ROCHELLE — On Wednesday, a groundbreaking ceremony was held for the Rochelle Fire Department and Ogle-Lee Fire Protection District's new joint training facility at 920 S. Main St.

Construction of the facility has and will consist of four phases. The first phase was land acquisition. The South Main Street site was donated to the city by Rochelle Main Street, LCC after officials had searched for sites across months. The second phase will consist of grading, construction of water retention, two concrete pads, an asphalt parking lot, two metal training structures specifically designed for live fire, and landscaping. The planning for phases one and two are complete and construction is set to begin in the next few days, RFD Chief Dave Sawlsville said Wednesday.

The future third phase will include the construction of a third concrete pad and the erecting of a four-story metal training structure to simulate a multi-story commercial or residential building that is also designed and built for live fire. Phase four will be construction of a brick & mortar building to house a classroom, reserve engines and breakout rooms for training.

"The path to today involved hours and hours of planning, conversation, cooperation and collaboration," Sawlsville said. "I would like to send a heartfelt thank you to everyone who played a part in that process. Thanks to all of you for taking time to celebrate not only our progress, but the relationships that helped get us here."

Costs for the project will be split 50-50 between the City of Rochelle and the OLFPD. The OLFPD is made up of stations in Hillcrest, Flagg Center, Creston and Steward. The two organizations have partnered to provide emergency services to the area for a number of years.

"We're here for a very special occasion for a project that has been on the drawing board for many years in different forms," Rochelle Mayor John Bearrows said. "The collaborative effort between the Ogle-Lee Fire Protection District and the City of Rochelle has been amazing. It's a great blessing for the city and the OLFPD. The ultimate winner of this merger was the residents of our community. Not only Rochelle, but the surrounding communities of Creston, Steward, Flagg Center, Hillcrest and everybody that's protected by the district."

Bearrows spoke about the importance of high-quality training and equipment for emergency services, which is what the joint training facility aims to ensure.

"The ultimate goal of the city and the OLFPD is to make sure that each of our personnel goes home to their families at night," Bearrows said. "We can't do that without making sure that we provide all of the tools and training that they need. I'm so proud of this project. Once it's done, it'll be something that we can be proud of for decades to come. And it's because of the support of our city council and city manager and staff. We appreciate it very much."

OLFPD Board of Trustees Chairman Lance Noggle spoke at the groundbreaking event and thanked the city for its partnership and board members that started the partnership to begin with. He said the training facility idea has been worked on for many years by many levels of leadership in the local firefighting community. He thanked those that work on the front lines most of all.

"They're the ones that run into the calls on your worst day," Noggle said.

City eyeing marketing firm to help with Hickory Grove

BY JEFF HELFRICH
MANAGING EDITOR

ROCHELLE — In a closed session following its meeting on Sept. 25, the Rochelle City Council discussed hiring a marketing firm in the future to help with the development of the Hickory Grove site at 1127 N. 7th St., City Manager Jeff Fiegenschuh said.

The Hickory Grove building demolition was completed in early 2021 and the land has been vacant since. The city assumed ownership of the deteriorating building in early 2020 for $1 with the intention of demolishing it and seeing development of the property. The building was previously owned by the Ogle County Civic Center Authority (OCCCA) board, which was under the Ogle County Board umbrella. The city decided to purchase the site so it could control it and likely would've had to deal with it later if it was abandoned due to OCCCA being in financial trouble.

Since the demolition and site clearing, the city has seen interest from three separate developers.

Hunley, Brizuela earn honors for middle school speech team

ROCHELLE — Drama, prose, speech! Kids at Rochelle Middle School can find a stage to showcase their voice and speaking skills by getting involved in the RMS Speech Team.

Speech Team helps students grow their public speaking skills, linguistics, argumentative skills, and confidence. Students can choose from a variety of topics including prose, poetry, duets and radio.

Last year, the seventh grade speech team achieved first place in each of the categories in which they competed. We are so proud of our seventh graders!

Mercy Hunley competed in the impromptu speech competition and earned the first place award. Mercy showed her excellent writing ability as this competition requires the student to write a short essay on the spot after being given a topic of interest. She enthralled the listeners with her friendly personality and gentle voice.

Yeretzi Brizuela competed in the prose competition and won first place for her emotional reading from the novel "The Giver." Her dramatic flair and ability to connect with the audience made her reading interesting and easy to follow. She also competed in poetry where she read from a poem called "The

We are looking forward

CITY: Fiegenschuh discusses future of Hickory Grove site in Rochelle

“Two of them were just potential interest and asking if the city was willing to talk,” Fiegenschuh said. “We were, and it really didn’t go anywhere. The other one was a mixed-use development and the council said it didn’t want to see a mixed use on that lot. Otherwise, nobody has come in with plans and specifics. It’s been very casual situations.”

Work is still ongoing on a land swap agreement between the city, the Comfort Inn & Suites hotel next door and the Concord Towers condo association. There are four parking spaces that the hotel owns that are on the Hickory Grove property that the city wants. The condos want access to a new garbage corral so their residents can get their garbage removed. The hotel operator wants property for an outdoor pool.

“We’re getting there,” Fiegenschuh said. “With the condos, you have a condo board that has to approve that and with the hotel owners there are multiple owners that have to agree. And then attorneys have to read all of the language. It’s just taken time. I think they have come to an agreement and now it’s just a matter of getting the condo association and the hotel ownership to sign off on it. Once that happens, then it will go before the Planning & Zoning Commission for the replatting of the property and then the city council. It’s hard to market property when you don’t have a final plat and we don’t own all of the spaces. I’m hoping to have that done this fall or winter.”

The city manager said that once all of the property is exchanged, the city has interest in having a marketing firm represent the property full-time. Current increased interest rates and project costs have likely also played a role in why more movement hasn’t been seen on the development front for the site, he said.

Ahead of a potential future development, the city

“We appreciate people’s patience. I would love to see something done with that property next year, even if it’s just temporary...”

has considered utilizing the property for temporary uses. Ideas have included an outdoor ice skating rink and a concert venue.

“We appreciate people’s patience,” Fiegenschuh said. “I would love to see something done with that property next year, even if it’s just temporary. I’ve seen some comments on social media about an outdoor ice skating rink. Maybe that’s a good idea. At least something temporary to get a use out of the property. As a staff, we were talking about it maybe being a good concert venue in the future. It’s close to a residential neighborhood, and I’m not saying we’re going to do that. But we have started having conversations about some temporary uses to maybe utilize the property. I would remind folks that what’s there now is a lot better than what was there before. The OCCCA Board did the best it could, but the building really needed to go and it really does look a lot better than it did before.”

The city manager said that ideally, he would’ve liked to see more movement on a development at the Hickory Grove site by now, but it was purchased pre COVID-19 and economic changes and project price increases have been seen since.

“Everybody is always hopeful that projects happen sooner,” Fiegenschuh said. “The best thing we can do as leaders in the community is embrace the situation and make the best out of it. Again, maybe that means we do some kind of temporary use there to utilize the property just to keep the visibility there. But ultimately, I think we will see some development. I don’t know when that will happen, but it will happen at some point in Rochelle’s future.”

The choice of a future development at Hickory Grove will be at the city council’s discretion. Fiegenschuh said the highest, best use would likely be some kind of tax-generating commercial entity.

“But that’s up to the council,” Fiegenschuh said. “I’m OK with whatever use they want there, because we removed a blight that was causing issues for the community. I think whatever they determine is the highest, best use is what we should go with. I’ve had a couple of council members say they’re not in any hurry. We’re not going to take a project we don’t really want just to get something there. We can wait and get the project we’re all the proudest of. We’ll see what happens.”

The city established its Northern Gateway Tax Increment Financing (TIF) district years ago with the redevelopment of Hickory Grove in mind. TIF districts can provide incentives for developers within them. If and when a developer purchases and builds on the site, it will no longer be publicly-owned, untaxed property and the increment generated will go into the TIF fund.

“I do think there’s a lot of opportunity for some incentives for a developer, whether it’s lower-cost land or TIF incentives,” Fiegenschuh said. “Other entities have taken advantage of the TIF including Benny’s Corner Market and Breakthru Beverage. I’m glad we established the TIF. Although Hickory Grove’s site hasn’t developed, in part because of the TIF we have a nice convenience store in Benny’s Corner Market and a former blight that’s being developed into Breakthru Beverage. I think the TIF has been very successful already.”

RCH celebrates 75th year as member of American Hospital Association

ROCHELLE — Earlier in September, Rochelle Community Hospital received a plaque from the American Hospital Association (AHA) to commemorate its 75th year as a member of its organization. In its commitment to being a member, RCH benefits from access to AHA’s resources, communications and advocacy in the future of health care with consideration specific to small and rural health care on a national level.

This year, Mr. Javier Zepeda was selected to be 2023 Homecoming grand marshal. Zepeda began his career as a part-time teacher over 20 years ago.

Zepeda serves as 2023 RTHS Homecoming grand marshal

ROCHELLE — Rochelle Township High School Student Council nominates individuals who have shown great Hub pride and dedication to the school, students, and community throughout the years. This year, Mr. Javier Zepeda was selected to be 2023 Homecoming grand marshal.

Zepeda began his career as a part-time teacher over 20 years ago. He spent 15 of those years in the classroom teaching Spanish and the rest being a counselor to students at RTHS. Zepeda has also assisted the soccer program, the Ballet Folklórico group and the ELA department.

When asked what has made him enjoy being a part of the Hub community, he stated that RTHS has been a "fun and comfortable" place to be at. One of many accomplishments Mr. Zepeda is proud of is getting to be comfortable with students and parents, along with earning his two master's degrees (in ELL and counseling) to be in the position he is in now.

When asked what his future plans for retirement are, he responded that he plans to "move to Texas and still be involved in school" by continuing his work with the schools, communities, or churches. His message to future generations is to "take that second opportunity" as he once did himself. "Take advantage of it, never give up on that opportunity and to continue working for your dreams. Work for the passion you have because that is the only way to get to where you want to be in a happy manner."

Mr. Zepeda's last words of wisdom are "once you get educated, no one can take that away from you."

CEREMONY: Groundbreaking held for Rochelle Fire and OLFPD joint facility

“And hopefully this training facility will help them get educated more. A special tool for them is education and they will be able to do their job and return home to their families safely, and that’s the ultimate thing we want.”

City Manager Jeff Fiegenschuh spoke at the event as well and said the 12.06 acres of property will serve as more than a fire training facility. It will be able to host training opportunities for Rochelle Municipal Utilities, other city departments and possible state and national organizations such as the American Public Power Association and the Illinois Municipal Utilities Association.

The city manager said the driving force behind the joint training facility project was getting a top-notch facility for RFD firefighters, paid on-call and volunteer firefighters of the OLFPD, and all city personnel, to train and prepare.

“As a city manager and a taxpayer, I am proud to know our team will have access to additional training that allows them to hone their skills and continue their important job of saving lives and keeping our community moving forward,” Fiegenschuh said. “I can honestly say this project is one of the favorites that I’ve had the honor of working on and one of the best collaborations between multiple local agencies I’ve seen in my 20 years as a city manager.”

Fiegenschuh thanked the mayor, city council and OLFPD board for their support of the project, along with the Ogle County Board for its donation of $50,000 in American Rescue Plan Act funds for the joint training facility.

“I want to recognize and thank Chief Sawlsville and his team at RFD,” Fiegenschuh said. “Our fire department is the best in the state. These men and women work hard to keep us safe. We look forward to several ribbon cuttings in the future to promote and showcase what will be the premier fire training facility in Northern Illinois.”

Sawlsville said that the best method towards developing exceptionally-skilled emergency service is the same as developing exceptional skill in any other field: Practice.

“Having the ability to go through the reps and practice the same thing continuously over and over again, it becomes second nature,” Sawlsville said. “And that way, when something out of the ordinary happens, you can think through it and make critical decisions. And that’s what this facility represents. A place where new skills are introduced.

And now with a designated place to practice, those new skills become ingrained, existing skills are revisited and revised to represent best practice.”

Harvest: My favorite time of the year

THE feeling of Autumn is in the air. Breezy warm days and chilly nights. Evening skies filled with stars. The rustling of the wind as it blows through the amber waves of grain. The smell in the air of a campfire.

The season is both an end and a beginning on the farm. The end of a growing season, the beginning of a harvest. The fruits of the labor will be determined when the last ear or pod are delivered to the bin.

Long days of harvest that begin early and end well after sunset. It is without question my favorite time of year.

As farmers begin their preparation for harvest I ask folks, particularly motorists out there, to please be patient when you encounter farm equipment on the highway. Believe me, that farmer would rather be in a field somewhere rather than on the road. But, necessity puts them there, and they are concerned for both your and their safety.

When traveling country roads, remain alert and aware of slow-moving vehicles and be prepared to stop quickly.

During planting and harvest seasons, motorists will encounter more large, slow-moving vehicles on the road as well as vehicles and equipment parked on the side of the road. Slow down anytime you are going around curves or up hills. Quickly approaching a piece of farm machinery increases your likelihood of getting into an accident. Give yourself plenty of space by slowing down and being prepared.

Also, be aware that farm machinery can enter a public road from a field or driveway, so keep your eyes alert. Learn to recognize the SMV emblem. It alerts you that you are following a slow-moving vehicle, one that typically travels at less than 30 miles per hour. It has a red-orange fluorescent triangle at its center, surrounded by a highly reflective red border. This sign is common on rural roads and drivers must heed its warning. When you see the SMV emblem - SLOW DOWN!

Farm tractors generally move at top speeds from 15 to 30 miles per hour. When approaching from the rear, a car traveling at normal speed can overtake a slow-moving vehicle very quickly. Watch for SMV emblems and be patient. The driver will pull over to let you pass as soon as it's safe to do so. Pass only in a legal passing zone.

When driving farm equipment and semis, the bulky equipment and the sizable load can easily block part of the farmer's view, making it hard to see approaching vehicles, so it is your responsibility to slow down. It is important to remember that if you do not see the driver, then the driver cannot see you. When in doubt, assume the driver does not see you.

Ron Kern

Many farmers haul their grain using semis. When a semi tractor-trailer is full of grain, it takes them longer to stop. Do not pull out in front a moving semi. Also, do not follow farm equipment or semis too closely, as you want to see what is ahead (e.g. debris and other cars).

Sometimes, farm equipment will take up more than one lane. These vehicles also make big, wide turns. When they are pulling to the side of the road, don't assume they are pulling over to allow you to pass. They may just be preparing to turn. Watch for them to acknowledge your presence and signal their turn. Pay close attention to the turn signals, especially before passing.

Tips on passing farm machinery

Look for roadside obstacles such as mailboxes, bridges or road signs that may cause the machinery to move to the center of the road. Fading to the left does not mean the farmer wants you to pass on the right.

Be sure there is adequate distance for you to safely pass, and make sure the road is wide enough for your vehicle and the farm equipment.

Only pass where it is legal. Do not pass if there is a solid yellow center line. Furthermore, do not pass near an intersection, railroad tracks, tunnels, or bridges. These areas can be particularly dangerous.

"I never went out to intentionally hurt anybody. Unless it was important, like a league game." - Dick Butkus

Renewable energy: One path to powering the future

THERE has been much talk of "renewable energy", often referred to as "green energy" or "clean energy", in the news lately. And it seems as if everyone feels compelled to discuss how great, or how bad, it is.

Because energy is a vital and promising facet of our modern world, we should try to understand as much about it as we can, so we aren't misled by those having a separate agenda to advance or something to sell us. Renewable energy serves as a one beacon of hope for addressing the uncomfortable reality of climate change and the quest for human development that is sustainable into the future. Renewable energy sources harness the power of nature to generate fuels and provide heating, all while minimizing the harmful impact on our environment. The key to understanding these sources is realizing how they are truly "renewable" because we can create more by growing crops, raising livestock, and collecting our waste. At its core, renewable energy represents a responsible and eco-conscious approach to meeting our energy needs.

I have previously explained the six different forms energy can take and I have also discussed the three broad categories of energy sources: exhaustible, renewable and inexhaustible energy sources. Remember that exhaustible energy sources are those that come from minerals like fossil fuels (coal, oil and natural gas) and uranium. These are resources that we must mine from the earth and create heat from by burning. Both fossil fuels and uranium create very hazardous products when used. In contrast, renewable energy derives from naturally-occurring processes that are constantly replenished, making them a sustainable and nearly inexhaustible source of power while simultaneously reducing the total amount of pollution output into our environment.

There is only one true category of renewable energy sources - biomass (or "bioenergy"). Biomass is the product or byproduct of organic plant and animal growth which contains hydrocarbons that can be burned directly to create heat (such as crop waste, forest residue or firewood), or collected and chemically processed to produce other fuels to be burned (such as ethanol, biodiesel and methane). Biomass energy utilizes organic materials like wood, agricultural crops and residues, livestock waste and even municipal waste (our garbage) to produce fuel, heat and electricity.

Over 98 percent of U.S. gasoline available at gas stations contains a mixture of gasoline (from petroleum) and ethanol (from corn). Most of this blending occurs to meet the requirements of the 1990 Clean Air Act and the Renewable Fuel Standard from the Energy Independence and Security Act of 2007. There are three general categories of ethanol-gasoline blends: E10, E15, and E85. The "E" stands for ethanol, and the number stands for the percentage of ethanol in the fuel. For example, E85 contains 85 percent ethanol. If you look closely at the labeling near the pump handle, you will see the specific content of ethanol in your gas. All gasoline engines can use E10, and light-duty vehicles newer than 2001 may use E15. Flex fuel vehicles can use any ethanol gasoline blends up to E85.

However, the downside

to ethanol as a fuel is that it contains approximately 33 percent less energy than "pure" gasoline, and so vehicles get lower fuel economy (miles per gallon) when using ethanol blends. The specific fuel economy a vehicle gets will depend on the quality of the gas you buy, but in general vehicles burning E10 fuels get about three percent less miles per gallon than vehicles using pure gasoline.

Rochelle is home to CHS Ethanol Company, located south of our city along Steward Road, which uses an advanced fermenting and distilling process to convert corn into high-quality ethanol. This significantly reduces the amount of petroleum-based fuel we burn, it provides a market for farmers to sell their corn, and it creates jobs for our local economy.

Another infamous example of renewable energy is the production of methane from municipal waste contained in landfills. Landfills contain large amounts of organic waste in the form of disposed food and other organic materials, such as cardboard, which is trapped underground without oxygen. There it produces carbon dioxide and methane as it decomposes. Most landfills are constructed with ventilation pipes running throughout the waste which collects the gas byproducts. Since CO2 and methane are greenhouse gases, landfills in Illinois are six out of the top 10 industrial methane emitters in our state. The Winnebago landfill tops the list of landfill emitters in Illinois. Fortunately, it is possible to reduce some of the methane from landfills by burning it. If you have ever noticed the bright flame burning along the highway at DeKalb County's landfill you have witnessed renewable methane production from landfill waste. While the flame performs the very useful task of burning away the methane before it enters our atmosphere as a harmful greenhouse gas, it is wasteful of the energy contained in the methane because the heat from the flames is simply lost into the atmosphere.

There are many issues surrounding the use of the renewable energy found in waste streams, including educating the public about the regulations and laws governing what can and cannot be put into our garbage. The possibility of harmful materials in landfills make it very difficult to create reliable energy sources from our garbage, but progress is being made with technology used to convert landfill methane into useful electricity.

Unfortunately, nearly all media sources and advertisements mislead us by also including solar, wind and/or geothermal energy under the "renewable energy" label. They call these sources "renewable" apparently because their accurate descriptor, "inexhaustible energy", is not appealing enough, or considered to be too confusing, for us their target audience. Those sources are not only renewable, they are also even more noble, they are inexhaustible energy sources. Inexhaustible energy will be discussed in a future article.

How entrepreneurs can approach funding their businesses

SUCCESSFUL entrepreneurs often say that few, if any, professional endeavors are as rewarding as starting a business and ultimately seeing it become profitable. The journey from start-up to profitable business is long, and it starts even before many companies open their doors.

Funding is a significant factor when starting a new business. In fact, the U.S. Small Business Administration notes that choices regarding how to fund a business are among the most important decisions business owners make. Funding a start-up can seem like a daunting task, but the SBA offers the following tips to help entrepreneurs get their businesses off the ground.

- Determine your needs. Entrepreneurs should not begin to seek funding until they've first determined just how much money they will need. These costs will be different for every business, and calculating them requires a detailed analysis of your start-up expenses (i.e., office space, insurance, equipment, licenses and permits, etc.).

- Determine your own contributions. Start-ups will not necessarily require outside funding. Many entrepreneurs dip into their personal funds to help get their businesses up and running. This, too, requires careful consideration, especially for entrepreneurs who already have significant financial obligations, such as a family, a mortgage or even another business. The SBA notes that self-funding entrepreneurs may use money from their savings and even retirement accounts, though some may be unwilling to do so. While self-funding entrepreneurs take on all the risk, this approach affords them the chance to maintain complete control over the business. Deciding if reducing risk or maintaining complete control is more important is part of determining if the business will be self-funded.

- Consider raising funds through venture capital firms. The SBA notes that venture capital firms typically focus on high-growth companies, so this might not even be a consideration for entrepreneurs starting small businesses that they hope to keep small. If venture capital is an option, entrepreneurs must recognize that venture capital is not a loan, but rather money offered in exchange for an ownership stake in the company. That stake comes with decision-making rights, which means entrepreneurs will not have full control or ownership of the company.

- Seek a small business loan. Unlike venture capital, small business loans are primarily designed for entrepreneurs who do not expect their businesses to become high-growth companies, at least not anytime in the near future. Banks and credit unions issue small business loans, but entrepreneurs who want to secure them must provide detailed business plans, expense sheets and financial projections for the years ahead. The more detailed these plans are, the more entrepreneurs will know what to ask for and the more likely the lender is to approve a loan.

Entrepreneurs can raise funding in various ways. Choosing the best option requires careful consideration of a host of factors.

Metzger wins Interstate 8 title

Hub sophomore shoots even-par 70 to take conference tournament crown

BY RUSSELL HODGES

DEKALB — A full season of training and preparation came to fruition for Rochelle sophomore Ian Metzger during Monday's Interstate 8 Conference tournament at Kishwaukee Country Club.

After earning an Honorable Mention in the conference last season, Metzger entered Monday's tournament in position to secure an All-Conference award for the first time in his high school career. Showing tremendous accuracy off the tees, Metzger frequently found the fairways and routinely capitalized with quality approach shots that led to consistent scoring opportunities.

The result was a historic round for the sophomore standout, who finished with a season-low, even-par round of 70 to win the conference tournament with a six-stroke lead over the field. Metzger, who carded two birdies and limited himself to only two bogeys, became the first boys conference champion in the nearly 30-year tenure of Rochelle head coach Glen Mehrings.

"I knew I could win but I also knew that I would be facing some really good players," Metzger said. "My goal coming in was to not make anything worse than a bogey... I thought I played a really good round and I managed my way around the course well. My mindset was really good and I stayed focused... I knew I had a five-shot lead at the 15th hole and the next kid was in my group, so I knew that if I could beat him, I could win the tournament. It was a great feeling."

Metzger recovered from a bogey on the third hole of the course, paring the next two holes before finding his first birdie of the round on the par-5 sixth hole. A string of seven consecutive pars led into another birdie on the par-4 14th hole that put Metzger one stroke under par for the afternoon. Despite a bogey on the 18th hole, Metzger maintained a large enough lead to hold off runner-up finisher Liam Eber of Morris, who carded a 6-over-par 76.

Rochelle takes conference match against Ottawa

Lady Hubs snap four-game losing streak with 25-22, 25-22 victory Tuesday

BY RUSSELL HODGES
 SPORTS EDITOR

ROCHELLE — Junior outside hitter Lauren Dyer provided a spark for the Rochelle Lady Hub varsity volleyball team during the first set of Tuesday's Interstate 8 match against Ottawa.

With the set even at 8-8, Rochelle funneled the ball to the outside, where Dyer helped ignite a run of four consecutive points to put the Lady Hubs ahead and force an Ottawa timeout. The junior finished the match with four kills, three digs and one ace as Rochelle held off the Pirates for a 25-22, 25-22 win. The Lady Hubs (12-9, 1-3 Interstate 8) snapped a four-game losing streak and avenged their loss to Ottawa during their home tournament earlier this season.

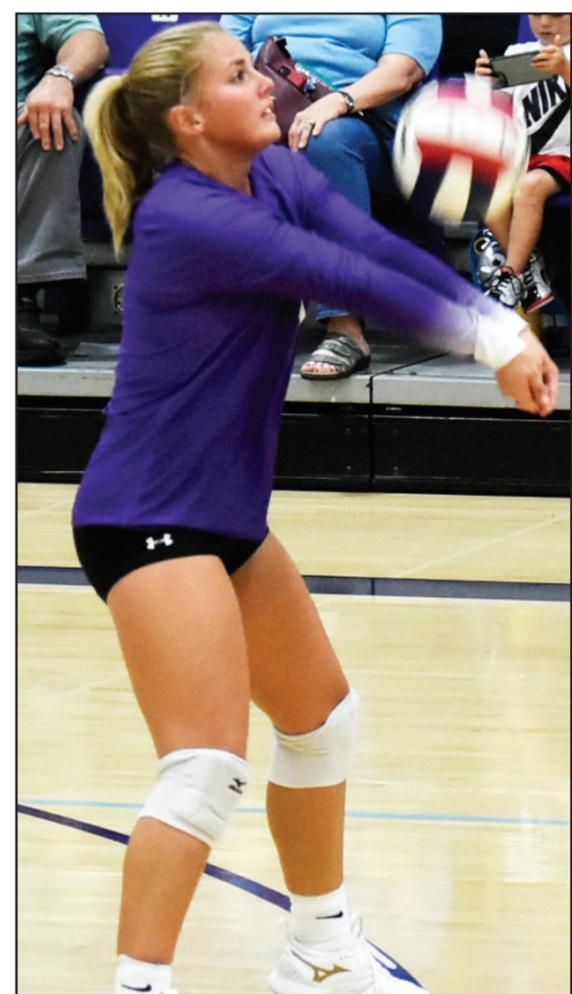

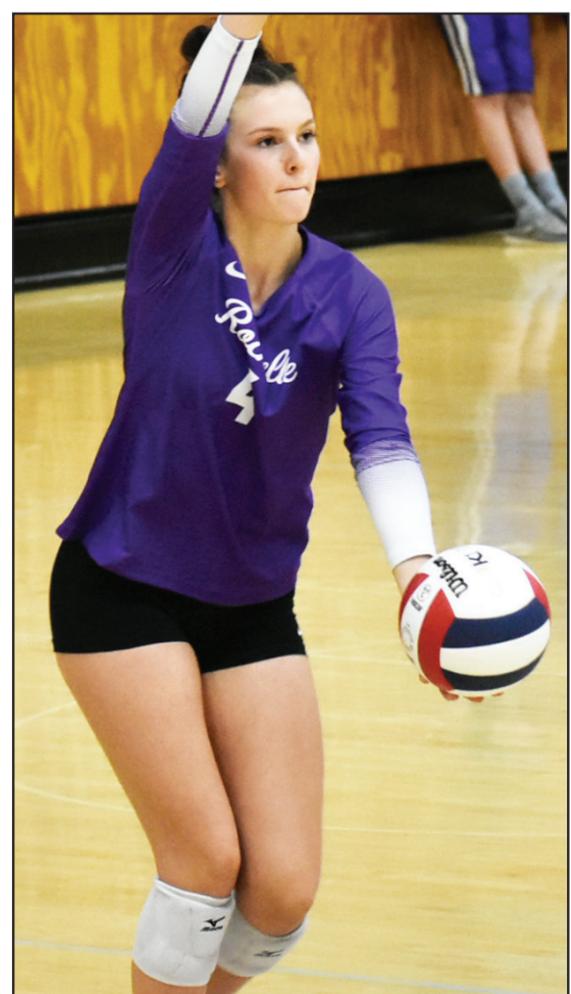

"We knew we had to come out strong because we lost to them the last time we played," Dyer said. "We played our hardest and it feels great to win. Our setter Ali [Ohlinger] has been helping me with my confidence during practice and my goal tonight was to go out there and swing hard."

The Pirates took the first three points of the opening set, but Rochelle's mid-set surge powered by Dyer's surfer effort helped the Lady Hubs retake control over the match. Ottawa rallied back to even the score at 18-18, but a pair of timely kills from senior middle blocker Kennedy Adamski fueled a 4-1 run that forced another timeout. Rochelle clinched the first-set win with kills from Adamski and junior setter Ali Ohlinger, who had 22 assists, seven digs and five kills.

"It's definitely a confidence builder because we were feeling a little down, but it feels great to win," Dyer said. "I think our season is going well. We need to stay confident and start strong."

Rochelle carried its positive momentum into the second set, where the Lady Hubs held a 15-9 advantage after breaking off a 6-1 run. Junior outside hitter Taelynn Rodeghero fueled the mid-set rally, swinging hard for a series of kill shots to keep Rochelle ahead of the Pirates. Rodeghero had a team-leading seven kills for the Lady Hubs, who picked up big blocks from Ohlinger and Adamski near the end of the set, where a hitting error sealed the Rochelle win.

Alivia Henkel added five kills and six digs. Junior libero Dempsey Atkinson led the defense with 15 digs and junior defensive specialist Emma Kennay followed with seven digs during Tuesday's conference win.

Hubs finish seventh at IHSA 2A Rock Falls Regional Metzger, Dyer advance to sectional tourney

BY RUSSELL HODGES SPORTS EDITOR

DEER GROVE — Hub freshman Alex Dyer was one of several golfers vying for one of the final at-large qualifying bids during the IHSA 2A Rock Falls Regional at Deer Valley on Wednesday afternoon.

Sitting right above the cut line after double-bogeying the 15th hole and bogeying the 16th hole, Dyer needed a strong finish in order to secure his berth in next week's sectional tournament.

"It's really cool to qualify as a freshman," Dyer said. "I thought I played alright and I was able to squeak in at the end. The course was tough and there were a lot of out-of-bounds areas where I had to take a few penalty strokes, but the greens were nice and I putted the ball really well."

Sophomore Ian Metzger will compete alongside Dyer at the sectional tournament, which will be played at Park Hills Golf Course in Freeport.

tournament, Metzger continued to fire low scores during the regional tournament, medaling in fourth place overall with a 3-over-par 75.

"I thought I played a lot better than I did at the regional last year," said Metzger, who qualified for sectionals as a freshman last season.

Metzger and Dyer's individual efforts led Rochelle (2-10, 0-5 Interstate 8) to a seventh-place team performance in the regional tournament.

"I have to limit my big mistakes and I can't have any big numbers," Metzger said. "I need to hit a lot of fairways and play really smart golf."

GOLF: Metzger, Dyer earn All-Conference recognition

"I struggled hitting fairways during my last tournament, so I went to the range and worked on hitting my driver," Metzger said. "I hit a ton of fairways during the tournament and I left myself with good irons into the hole. I feel like one of the strongest areas of my game is when I'm able to attack pins and that's a lot easier out of the fairway than it is out of the shorter grass."

Metzger's championship effort allowed Rochelle to finish fifth out of six teams with a final score of 354. Freshman Alex Dyer carded an 84 and earned an All-Conference Honorable Mention for the season, while freshman Owen Carmichael followed with a 93.

Metzger ultimately placed third in the conference for the season, resulting in All-Conference First Team honors this year.

"I worked so hard over the summer," Metzger said. "I played every single day over the summer, sometimes multiple times. Knowing that I worked that hard and I was able to win the conference tournament and earn All-Conference is a great feeling. I did a lot of weightlifting to try and get more speed since I was a lot shorter last year and I added around 40 yards off the tees."

Seniors Obie Nava and Owen Messer each recorded 107 for the Hubs (2-10, 0-5 Interstate 8), who will travel for the IHSA 2A Rock Falls Regional at Deer Valley on Wednesday. Advancing teams or individuals will then compete in the IHSA 2A Freeport Sectional at Park Hills, with qualifiers from that tournament moving on to the IHSA 2A State Championship in Normal.

Girls

Senior Elise Horner represented the Rochelle Township High School golf team during the Interstate 8 Conference Girls Championship tournament at Sycamore Golf Course on Tuesday. Horner carded a 113 in the 18-hole tournament to finish 12th out of 19 players.

Horner and senior Haley Bozinovich played in the IHSA 2A Sycamore Regional on Thursday. Horner shot a 117 to lead the way.

Seeking health care in your hometown brings the comforts of receiving qualified care from people you know and trust.

Whether it be a trip to the dentist, regular health care screenings, a visit to a specialist or an emergency, you need not travel. It's all right here.

Banking with people who know you is a luxury found only in hometowns. You don't have to show your ID every time you go in. You can get a loan from people who know you and understand your needs, whether it be money for your first car or to help your business grow. Local banks believe in the value of community members helping one another.

No one wants to have to make an insurance claim, but it's painless when your agent is your neighbor. You don't have to convince them that there was a hail storm, or that the wind nearly took your roof off. They know because they live here. Which do you want when you've had a bad day: A face-to-face meeting with your local agent, or a machine answering the phone at that big national insurer that advertises on TV?

Time is money. It's simple math (especially when you figure in gas mileage.) Shopping locally can actually save you both time and money!

Customer service after the sale is invaluable. Local retailers not only take responsibility for the product they sold, they will often fix it or replace it – no questions asked. Appliances, furniture, computers and electronics sometimes have glitches. Would you rather box yours up, send it to who knows where, and wait six to eight weeks, or just go back to the nice guy that helped you when you bought it?

Keeping it local encourages community growth. By choosing to do business locally, you help maintain Rochelle's diversity, charm and appeal; which attracts new community members.

One word: Jobs. When you do business of any kind in Rochelle, it creates and maintains jobs for others in our area. A healthy employment rate is the cornerstone of all economies. How can you help the economy recover? Start at home.

When Mark Twain was editing a newspaper in Missouri, one of his subscribers wrote in, saying that he had found a spider in his newspaper and wondered whether it was a sign of good or bad luck. Twain's response: "Finding a spider is neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our newspaper to see which merchant was not advertising, so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."
