Olson earns ICAHN award

Network was crucial to rural hospitals during pandemic

BY JEFF HELFRICH MANAGING EDITOR

ROCHELLE — Rochelle Community Hospital Chief Executive Officer Gregg Olson has worked with the Illinois Critical Access Hospital Network

since it started in 2003.

But he did not expect to win ICAHN's highest award for exemplary and visionary leadership in rural healthcare in recent weeks. The 2022 Presidential Award was presented to Olson on Nov. 10 during ICAHN's annual conference in Champaign.

"It was a surprise," Olson said. "I do what I think is right and what I can for the organization because I believe in it. It wasn't any kind of award that I was chasing. It was just doing the things that I felt were right for the organization and for RCH. I'm very humbled. It was nice for the acknowledgement. It was a very nice surprise."

and administers several state, federal and private healthcare programs.

Wreaths Across America ceremonies honor veterans 'The ceremonies and the community support are wonderful to see'

BY JEFF HELFRICH

MANAGING EDITOR

ROCHELLE — The Rochelle Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution's local Wreaths Across America efforts started in 2018 with sponsorships of 31 wreaths for the Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery.

Fast forward to this year, local efforts this month will see 739 wreaths sponsored across five cemeteries including St. Patrick's Catholic Cemetery and Lawnridge Cemetery in Rochelle, Trinity Memory Gardens in Hillcrest, Woodlawn Cemetery in Creston and Daysville Cemetery in Oregon.

Each December on Wreaths Across America Day, veterans' graves are honored with wreath-laying ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery, as well as at more than 3,400 additional locations in all 50 U.S. states, at sea and abroad.

Wreaths locally are sponsored by the DAR along with community members such as veterans groups, private individ-car clubs, businesses and more, DAR Chapter Regent Laurie Perry said. "It's a community involvement event," Perry said. "We have scouts come to help us lay wreaths. It's important for young people to understand the educational value of the program. We have veterans and other community members place wreaths. The Knights of Columbus come and do their honor guard."

Perry is the chairwoman of WAA at Daysville Cemetery and Linda Corwin-Graber is the chairwoman of WAA at Woodlawn Cemetery. Lydia Roberts is the chairwoman of WAA at St. Patrick's, Lawnridge and Trinity.

Roberts said the WAA theme is "remember, honor and teach," and one of the DAR's big focuses is to teach the youth about the sacrifices veterans made.

WAA ceremonies are scheduled as follows: Saturday, Dec. 17, 10 a.m.: Woodlawn Cemetery, Creston. Saturday, Dec. 17, 1 p.m.: Daysville Cemetery, Oregon. Sunday, Dec. 18, 1 p.m.: St. Patrick's Cemetery, Rochelle, with abbreviated ceremony and wreath placement to follow at Lawnridge and Trinity Cemeteries. "The ceremonies and

"It's such a sense of community and everybody's coming together for one single purpose. It's the culmination of all the work. Having so many people there braving the weather is amazing. You can look down the rows and see the wreaths. It's just satisfying to see."

CITY: Council approves engineering service proposal for intermodal project

The property is planned to be purchased and made a distribution hub for Breakthru Beverage's northwest Illinois beverage delivery oper-

The location would have 25 full-time employees and Breakthru Beverage serves 40 businesses in the Rochelle community and 2,750 in northwest Illinois.

Plans include renovation of the exterior of the building and adding new signage, lighting and landscaping along with repairing the parking lot. The business's traffic would include one semi truck unloading between 5-6 a.m. four days a week and box trucks would go out at 8 a.m. to deliver product and return at the end of the day. "They plan to do substantial improvements to the building and improve its appearance and add a monument sign," Andrew Scott, a representative of Wirtz Realty and Breakthru Beverage, said Monday. "It's a full rehab. They're going to do landscaping and parking lot improvements. The vehicular traffic will be minimal.'

Breakthru Beverage started in 1946 and is one of the biggest beverage distributors in the state. There is unused space on the northwest corner of the property that may be marketed for an unrelated commercial development in the future.

RITC

The council unanimously approved a $91,000 proposal for engineering services with Fehr Graham for finalizing the design and construction plans for its Rochelle Intermodal Transload Yard expansion project.

The Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) is offering the Illinois Competitive Freight Program Grant (targeted at intermodal projects) which could fund up to 90 percent of the project cost. The expansion would increase the size of the RITC by 40 percent, which would allow for additional intermodal capacity and revenue to city rail operations. Fehr Graham completed preliminary engineering on the project two years ago and with the grant application can be completed after engineering work is finalized. The project has an estimated $4 million construction cost.

In a related issue, the council unanimously authorized and approved a farm management agreement with First Mid Ag Services for land in the RITC area.

Over the past five years, the city has purchased around 50 acres through First Mid Ag Services for future city railroad expansions. While plans for using the land for future rail growth are ongoing, Monday's approval allows for the city to continue to lease the land for the purpose of farming it.

Liquor license

The council unanimously approved an ordinance deleting one restaurant liquor license for Brewski's Bar & Grill at 406 Cherry Ave. and creating another for The Blackstone Bar & Restaurant at the same address.

Shane Erdman and Jim Withers are the owners of The Blackstone Bar & Restaurant. The property changed hands and the owners of Brewski's Bar and Grill surrendered their liquor license on Nov. 30.

Dump trucks

The council approved the purchase of three used tandem axle dump trucks with snow plow packages for $437,000.

In February, the council approved the purchase of two new Kenworth dump trucks with snow plow packages for $490,550, but due to supply chain issues the order has not been accepted since and Public Works Director Tim Isley opted for the alternative of the three used trucks to ensure sooner delivery and a lower price.

The used trucks were purchased new in 2015 and 2016 by another city and have less than 20,000 miles and were used only for snow removal operations, Isley said.

Intersection

The council unanimously approved an engineering services agreement for phase two of an intersection design study for improvements at the Flagg Road and 20th Street intersection with Willett Hoffman & Associates for $35,088.

An intergovernmental agreement with Ogle County was approved by the council in early 2022 for collaboration and cost sharing of various phases of engineering and construction for the intersection's improvement project.

RMU

The council unanimously approved an ordinance temporarily suspending late fees for Rochelle Municipal Utilities customers through April 30, 2023 due to high inflation impacting residents' cost of living. The measure only applies to residential utility cus-

City Manager Jeff Fiegenschuh said the suspension of late fees could become permanent in the future.

"We'll see how things go," Fiegenschuh said. "And in April if we're still having issues, I might propose that we eliminate them at least semi-permanently. We can always reevaluate it annually. For our residential customers, I think it's nice that they know that we care and that we're not there to punish them when they're late." The council also approved a resolution authorizing Fiegenschuh to extend the RMU Utility Assistance Program for two years.

The program is open to all RMU residential customers who fall within guidelines of household income at or below 200 percent of the federal poverty level, which is currently $27,750 for a family of four. The program provides $500 a year per household to help pay for utility charges and is funded by renewable energy credits from the previous year.

In 2022 so far, $32,298.28 has been committed to 67 households. The program expires at the end of 2022 and the vote Monday will extend the program for two additional years.

Residents can learn how to enroll in the program by calling the RMU billing office.

Swearing in

A swearing in ceremony was held for new Rochelle Police Department Officer Bartolome Silva during the meeting Monday.

RPD plans to host a bowling fundraiser for its K9 program at T-Byrd Lanes on Jan. 21 from 6-10 p.m. More information can be found on the department's Facebook

The department is working to raise money for its next K9 dog. K9 Axel is retiring this year and a retirement party will be held for him Thursday, Dec. 15 from 2-4 p.m. at City Hall.

Meeting

The Rochelle City Council will not have a second meeting in December as it does in usual months and its next meeting will take place Jan. 9, 2023.

OLSON: RCH CEO reflects on earning ICAHN award

ICAHN started with 14 hospitals in the early 2000s that felt that rural healthcare was not getting the attention it deserved. Olson played a major part in the formation of ICAHN in 2003 and served as a charter board member until 2007. The critical access designation was brought forward by congress and focused on small and rural facilities and provided them with an enhanced reimbursement methodology to help them financially.

"Prior to that time, around 340 small and rural hospitals nationwide had closed due to the way the reimbursement mechanism was working for them," Olson said. "Now it works differently and we get an enhanced payment to help offset the costs of keeping our hospital open. We compete with larger institutions for staff, technology and patients. The smaller hospitals needed some type of provisions to compete."

There are 86 hospitals in the state that are considered small rural, making up 42 percent of hospitals in the state and a $13.7 billion annual economic impact. Rural hospitals like RCH also play a crucial role in proximity to patients in need.

"There are geographical gaps that do make a difference in healthcare," Olson said. "If you're in Rochelle at 2 a.m. and having chest pains, if our hospital isn't here, that's a tough position to be in. You have 30-40 minutes to Rockford or the ride to DeKalb or Dixon."

Olson was among the first to offer information and COVID-19 updates on weekly ICAHN CEO calls during the pan-

"Gregg is always eager to lend support and lead efforts to change and to make rural communities and healthcare better," Pat Schou, ICAHN executive director, said.

Olson said being part of ICAHN was important during the unprecedented pandemic and the network was used as a resource to see what other hospitals were doing and to share ideas.

"It was kind of an open discussion on who was doing what with pandemic operations," Olson said. "We were able to get guidance from those conversations. We're an independent organization at RCH and were in uncharted territories with the pandemic. ICAHN was crucial to the success of how we handled things. We were all depending on each other for information."

RCH was also able to trade supplies with other ICAHN hospitals during COVID-19 when supply chain issues came about.

"We had certain masks that we had excessive inventory of that a hospital 150 miles south of us didn't have," Olson said. "But they had something we didn't have. We were switching out physical resources back and forth to help each other. It was very nice to have that connection with 58 organizations statewide."

Olson said his work with ICAHN will continue on in the coming years. The award was special to get, especially during a pandemic, he said.

"The right thing to do was to get involved and be part of those conversations to help our organization and others," Olson said. "The pandemic was an element of things we did. It seemed like as a member, those are the things you should do."

Each December on Wreaths Across America Day, veterans' graves are honored with wreath-laying ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery, as well as at more than 3,400 additional locations in all 50 U.S. states, at sea and abroad.

WREATHS: Ceremonies held annually to honor veterans

The WAA process throughout the year includes: Coordinating with cemetery sextants, identifying veterans including ones added in the current year, ordering flags, placing flags on graves for Veterans Day to facilitate WAA Day in December while assisted by scouts, updating sponsorship forms, publicity, collecting sponsorships, preparing for ceremonies by soliciting volunteers and creating the program, receiving the truck load of wreaths, applying branch of service flags to wreaths, delivering wreaths to cemeteries, setting up for ceremonies, holding ceremonies, placing wreaths, collecting remaining unneeded wreaths, traveling to the second cemetery site, checking that no veteran was missed and finally, cemetery cleanup in March.

"Wreaths Across America has been very enjoyable," Roberts said. "There's a lot of work and a lot that goes into it. But it's worth it. This project ties together the three main priorities of DAR, which are historical preservation, education and patriotism."

Perry called WAA work a privilege and said the DAR would like to expand into other cemeteries in the area in the future if additional resources can be found. She said she and others involved have found it to be a "beautiful and rewarding way" to serve the community.

Roberts said some of the veterans that wreaths are placed for date back to World War I and the Spanish-American War. Some have no family left to honor them. Perry said those that do have living families are "incredibly special" to communicate with about WAA.

"If they can make it to place the wreath themselves, it's fantastic," Perry said. "We encourage it. If they can't, we'll place it for them. I've been blown away as I've watched the numbers grow. I remember having tears in my eyes when we did Daysville for the first year. Seeing the cars pulling in and there were so many people. We're always uneasy about the work of adding more, but the community answers and I'm always blown away. People from all over the area give up themselves to help with this project."

Populism and the American Dream

Dream says that in America, more than anywhere else, you can work hard and become more prosperous than your parents were, and that your children can do better still. That dream is dying for many Americans. Today's culture wars and turbulent politics feed on their anger and despair. The problem comes to light in a 2020 study from the World Economic Forum. Their report ranked 26 countries above the United States in the conditions that allow people to have a better life than their parents had, commonly called social mobility. Philip Alston, who looked into poverty and human rights for the UN from 2017 to 2019, commented in an interview that "the sad reality of the 'Great that...the U.S. is less mobile than almost any other developed country."

Fionna Hill knows about limited social mobility on a personal level. She describes, in her book, "There Is Nothing for You Here," the obstacles she confronted in her struggle to rise above the poverty and social decay of her home town in England. Her path to success took her through a career in Russian studies, with frequent stays in that country both before and after the collapse of the Soviet Union. There she came upon many of the same economic and social ills that she had seen in her childhood hometown. On moving to the United States, where she eventually served as an intelligence analyst for the White House, Ms. Hill found, to her surprise, much of the same in our land of opportunity.

In each country, once-prosperous cities and towns were withering away. Workers' skills had become obsolete. Poverty was the norm. Drug addiction and other social problems overwhelmed the weakened public and private institutions that had once held communities together.

They were victims of a world economy that relied less and less on the heavy industries that used to support them. Government policies that began in the 1980s made things all the worse, according to Ms. Hill. The drive for tax cuts, deregulation, low tariffs and scaled-back social support "helped drive the nail in the coffin" even as they helped "pave the way for the economic growth of the 1990s and early 2000s."

Fareed Zakaria reveals the extent of America's retreat from programs for the economically disadvantaged in his > demic World." He reports that, contrary to the popular impression, welfare and other public assistance programs haven't expanded in the book, "10 Lessons

past four decades. The growth in federal spending that so many decry has come from the Defense Department and from entitlement programs like Social Security and Medicare. Everything else has shrunk dramatically.

and Russia, is now split into two societies, according to Ms. Hill. One, centered in cities that benefit from the new economic order, is full of opportunity for many though not all of its people. The other, located in rural areas and communities that formerly relied on heavy industry, is held back by poverty and hopelessness. The American economy is, in spite of these problems, the most powerful in the world. Our gross domestic product, a measure of a nation's wealth in terms of goods and services, is higher on a per-person basis than any other sizeable nation's, according to statistics from worldpopulationreview.com.

And yet the World Happiness Report, a United Nations-sponsored survey of people around the world, places us below 16 other countries. All but three are in Europe, a continent noted for having more extensive social welfare programs, as well as greater social mobility, than the U.S. has.

Everything in this world involves tradeoffs. Everything comes at a cost. The trade-off, the price we're paying for our powerhouse economy and the prosperity that many Americans enjoy, is a dying American Dream for others, and the rise of populist leaders who promise to bring it back.

remember taking my oldest daughter Gracie fishing 14 years ago at Lake Spring-

We talked about the ducks, geese and boats floating in the lake, her favorite cartoons and the brand-new Barbie life jacket she was wearing. After about three hours wiggling on a dock staring at a bobber that refused to go under, she exclaimed, "I think all of the fish have gone on vacation to a different lake."

It was a grand day to be a dad. She seemed to be having a good time too. No sooner had we packed up the worms and closed the tackle box than she was asking when we could go fishing again.

I guess uninterrupted time with Dad was more important than how many bluegills we reeled in.

After finishing at the lake, I decided to let her pick out a new fishing pole, so I took her to Gander Mountain, which was one of those "big box" sporting goods stores on the city's south side.

She chose a rod with the cartoon character Sponge Bob embossed on the reel.

After loading the fishing pole into the cart we wandered into the firearms section.

I occasionally hunt, but with three kids and a busy job, I don't always have the time. In fact, this year is the first time in the last five that I haven't found myself in a tree stand holding a shotgun and waiting for a deer.

Unlike other retailers that put firearms behind a counter. Gander Mountain, at the time, displayed guns attached to tethers so customers could hold them unsupervised -- but not walk away with them.

What I saw that day frightened me.

A couple of junior high kids were playing with a rifle and pointed it toward me, other customers and at my then 3-year-old daughter.

I remembered my father's admonitions when I was their age: "Never point a gun at something you don't plan to destroy.'

"Always assume a gun is loaded." "Never count on a gun's

I started handling guns when I was 9 or 10. A reverent respect for firearms was instilled in me by my father and older brother.

But I didn't see that same quiet respect in those teenagers at the store. Instead of tools for harvesting game, they seemed to view guns as macho playthings. Some of the "adults" shopping in the gun department weren't much different. They were "oooing" and "awing" over guns dolled up to look like military weapons. (The gun control crowd likes to call them "assault weapons" and gun-rights groups call them "modern sporting rifles.")

There's a word for all those "assault weapon" add-ons like - bayonet holders, detachable magazines and pistol grips - it is called "marketing."

Just as my 3-year-old thought a "Sponge Bob" fishing reel would be "way cool," these fellows seemed drawn to firearms with macho doodads attached.

Scott Here's a few hints, guys: They don't fire off bullets any faster than any other semi-automatic rifle. (They may look similar to military weapons, but they aren't the same.)

Wildlife doesn't care what the gun looks like (and neither does your

If you need more than 10 bullets in your rifle, you must be a pretty lousy shot. It's OK to go out in public wearing something other than camouflage — Illinois lawmakers are considering legislation that would not only ban the future sale of "assault weapons" but would require the registration of ones already owned. It would also ban the sale of magazines with more than ten bullets in them, as well as raise the age for FOID cards to 21 for all guns.

It's no secret that firearms are viewed in radically different ways depending on where one lives in the state. My hope, as always, is that lawmakers will listen intently to the concerns of one another and compromise.

But experience tells me gun debates generate more heat than light. One thing I do know is that no one in the General Assembly relishes the thought of innocent people dying. Some proposed restrictions, such as lengthening

the term of firearm restraining orders from six months to a year, make sense. Other aspects of the bill while well-intentioned, will do little to make our communities safer. A sad reality is that loud demands for gun control mean more guns are sold to people afraid they will soon be banned. The main problem isn't what the guns look like - it's who is behind the trigger.

That's a problem that won't be solved by passing another law in Springfield. It can only be solved with good parenting.

Have all the good parents gone on vacation?

How to avoid shipping costs on holiday gifts

ANYshoppers conduct their _holiday shopping at traditional brickand-mortar stores as well as online retailers. Both have their share of advantages. including the ability to ship items directly home if there is a deal to be had.

Shipping can be quite the convenience, particularly for heavy items or if an item is currently out of stock in a store. The retailer can have it sent over from another location or their main warehouse. Shipping can save shoppers time and reduce their stress. However, as convenient as shipping gifts can be, the hefty cost of shipping gifts can eat away at holiday budgets.

A 2018 article from U.S. News and World Report found some shipping fees can range between $5 and $10 per package. Fortunately, in many cases, consumers can avoid shipping costs if they shop smart.

Pay attention to suspended shipping costs. Many retailers will temporarily freeze shipping costs during certain periods. Shoppers can note these free shipping windows and order the bulk of their items then.

Meet the minimum amount. Some stores and online retailers will offer free shipping once shoppers reach a certain spending threshold. For example, Chewy.com offers free shipping on purchases $50 and over. By spending a little more, shoppers may actually end up saving money.

Shop where shipping is always free. In order to attract business, certain online retailers, including Zappos, offer free shipping, while others offer free shipping in exchange for nominal membership fees.

Explore in-store pickup. To capitalize on both online and in-store shopping, retailers will frequently offer free in-store pickup of items purchased online. Ship-tostore has become popular at stores like Target, Old Navy and Walmart.

Shop as early as possible. Free shipping deals often extend only to items shipped standard. Expedited or overnight shipping will still incur a fee. Therefore, shop early if your goal is cut shipping costs or avoid them entirely.

Take advantage of Free Shipping Day. Free Shipping Day takes place each year when thousands of online stores offer free shipping with delivery before Christmas. In 2019, Free Shipping Day is Saturday, Dec. 14.

Holiday gifts for fourlegged family members

OLIDAY- shoppers who are busy making lists and checking them twice should make sure they don't overlook the family pet. Christmas has gone to the cats and dogs, as a greater number of people include their companion animals when selecting gifts each year.

A study by OnePoll conducted by Rover.com, the nation's largest network of dog sitters and walkers, found that 95 percent of pet owners have bought holiday gifts for their pets. Gifts can range from everyday needs, like food and treats, to more lavish extravagances like spa treatments.

Pet owners who plan to get their pets gifts this year may want to consider some of the emerging pet trends as they browse wares and services. The Balance, a business, career and industry information site, says pet industry trends point toward these segments seeing growth.

Just as people are interested in protecting the health of the planet and their own personal health, so, too, are they extending this concern to companion animals. Natural pet products, which can include natural flea and tick remedies, holistic foods, organic items, and all-natural grooming products, can make great gifts.

The American Pet Products Association says the demand for high-end pet grooming and other services is substantial. In addition, personalized training, behavioral consulting, portrait photography, dog sitting, and upscale spa treatments like pet Reiki and massage are booming.

Mobile pet grooming has become the norm in many areas. Mobile pet grooming can reduce the potential stress on animals, and tends to be very convenient for customers, particularly seniors and others who have mobility issues.

Pet owners have a bevy of other ideas from which to choose. Here are just a few different suggestions: Tests to detect pets' DNA and trace breed and ancestry, interactive puzzles to keep pets engaged and banish boredom, stylish storage baskets for pet toys, hidden cat litter or dog crate items that camouflage commonly used pet items, heated pet bed for cozy nights and mornings and signature vests, coats and sweaters to look good and remain comfortable.

LAST MINUTE GIFT GUIDE

Eight best things to buy in December and January outside is frightful. Rather than succumb to cabin fever, people can use the winter months as the perfect time to visit area stores and score a few deals.

Savvy shoppers understand that key items go on sale at specific points throughout the year. Learning how to shop the sales can lead to considerable savings.

December

1. Toys: Toys are perhaps the best items to purchase in December. Apart from Christmas gifts, it is a good time of year to stock up on toys children have coveted, which can be put away for birthday presents or other occasions. Retailers tend to lower toy prices as Christmas approaches.

2. Holiday decor: Decorative holiday items also tend to be heavily discounted in December. Stores slash prices on ornaments, gift wrap, artificial trees, holiday-themed baking items, and much, much more. If it has a passing connection to the holidays, chances are stores will or more once Christmas

3. Televisions: It's possible to find discounted TVs even after the Black Friday sales have come and gone. Keep eyes trained on the circulars and jump when sales are advertised, as inventory may be limited.

4: Bubbly: Competition in the market will help drive down the cost of champagne and other sparkling wines. According to the wine resource GuildSomm, 22 percent of all champagne sales are run during the month of December.

January

5. Winter apparel: As the winter progresses, the amount of clothing stock in stores starts to dwindle to free up room for a new season's worth of attire. Starting in late December and continuing into the latter half of January, retailers are eager to liquidate their stock of scarves, sweaters, boots, and winter coats. This is a prime time to replenish wardrobes.

6. Linens: "White sales" are traditionally in January, with home goods retailers running discounts all month long. These sales generally encompass towels, bed sheets, curtains, and other linens.

7. Fitness items: January is the ideal time to purchase a new gym membership or fitness equipment since these purchases tie into New Year's resolutions to get fit. Gyms may waive extra fees or offer discounted

8. Travel and entertain-

When buying holiday gifts for youngsters, adults must consider safety. According to the Alliance for Children and Families, approximately 217,000 children are treated at hospital emergency rooms

Holiday shoppers are urged to stick to agerelated recommendations on product packaging and avoid toys that do not contain the ATSM (American Society for Testing and Materials) label.

Adhere to these two tips and ensure that children who receive toys from Santa Claus can play in a safe and fun manner.
