2022 Harvest underway in Ogle County 'Farmers have been pleasantly surprised yield-wise'

Honoring local Veterans. Section B

WEATHER

BY JEFF HELFRICH MANAGING EDITOR

OGLE COUNTY — On Thursday, Oct. 27, Ogle County Farm Bureau Manager Ron Kern said he estimates that 90 percent of the county's soybeans and 20-25 percent of its corn have been harvested so far.

Kern said mostly dry weather since a rainy period in August made for a good soybean harvest and said they "came out dry and in good shape." He's heard that people in the county are pleased with the yield they're getting from soybeans. Ogle County was "right on time" for its bean harvest.

As far as the corn harvest, Ogle County farmers have been behind due to the planting season being pushed back 2-3 weeks due to weather earlier this year, Kern said. The corn is still retaining higher moisture levels and farmers have been "less aggressive" getting it out of the field.

"It's taken forever to dry down," Kern said. "It's still holding moisture pretty well. The guys that can pick with routine moisture levels in the low 20s are getting it and drying it down and putting it away."

Kern said this fall has been "good weather" for harvest and that recent heavy rains appear to have all soaked into the ground and made for minimal delays after a number of weeks of sunny and dry days and even a stretch of warm days.

Back in the spring, high input prices that were double or triple the previous year's were the talk of the agriculture industry. And then the weather brought the planting delay. Kern said the growing season turned out well and commodity prices have "bounced back a bit."

Input issues still remain, and Kern said the prices of natural gas and propane are "insane" at the moment. Those inputs are used by farmers to dry down crops when moisture levels are too high. Higher prices could cause Ogle County farmers to take a chance and attempt to let crops dry in the fields so they don't have to pay for the gas to dry them.

"But we're getting into November, and in that month the weather can change in a heartbeat," Kern said. "The drying costs are high, but commodity prices are up."

Ogle County farmers are currently looking at a good harvest, Kern said.

ROCHELLE — Rochelle Community Hospital Chief Executive Officer Gregg Olson said Oct. 14 that the hospital is still combating staffing shortage issues and currently has 34 open positions organization-wide.

Twelve of those openings are full-time, 11 of those positions are part-time and 11 are PRN, which is minimal, on-occasion work. Olson said RCH has been seeing staffing shortages for roughly 22 months.

"Between your full-time and your part-time, you're looking at 23 open positions, which is a lot for us," Olson said. "That is significantly better than it has been. I think at the worst time that we had through this process, I think we had upwards of 62 openings.

"With the area hospitals that surround us, we're all vying for the same small pool of people. That's the problem. There's just not enough. And we're all trying to get our share of that base." Gregg Olson

We've got that down to 34 now, so that's the good news."

Hard-to-find positions right now for RCH include nursing, specifically in the emergency department, along with medical/surgical, lab positions and environmental services such as the housekeeping crew. RCH has tried to combat the staffing

RCH saw a surge in its need to fill positions after the first year of COVID-19 and Olson said the health industry has called that time "the great resignation."

"I think after that initial year, people either wanted to retire early or they changed positions or careers," Olson said. "And we had people that went to work for staffing agencies to make significantly more money. Every hospital I can think of in this state is struggling with the same things. We have a lot of openings. It's a daily priority for us. We've put a lot of time and energy into it because it's so important. In the almost 40 years I've been in this business, I've never seen it quite like this."

"Farmers have been pleasantly surprised yield-wise," Kern said. "Overall, I think we'll have better crops here in the northern part of the state than anywhere else in Illinois. We got started late, but we got rain when we needed it and we didn't have excessive heat."

Kern said current drought issues with the Mississippi River could have a negative impact on area farmers. Grain is shipped to the river and barges are currently backed up due to the low water levels.

"They aren't moving ed and reloaded again," Kern said. "It could be a game changer for getting grain moved like we should. Other things like propane come up and down the river. We could see some shortages. It will impact local farmers here. We have a close eye on it. If those terminals can't get barges to ship out, it will impact prices farmers here get paid and potentially decrease the export market. And a lot of inputs go up and down the river. Farmers are currently making purchases for next spring and that could be impacted.

With harvest in full swing and equipment

utilizing roads to get from field to field, Kern advised residents of the county to slow down when they see equipment on the roads.

"Those guys are trying to stay out of the way and get from point A to point B as efficiently as possible," Kern said. "Give them some room and time. And for the farmers, we're into that part of the year where it's long days into working nights. Give yourself a break and some rest. Accidents can happen when you're tired. Take your time when you're working. A few seconds to think about what you're doing can make all the difference."

Rochelle Community Hospital saw a surge in its need to fill positions after the first year of COVID-19 and CEO Gregg Olson said the health industry has called that time "the great resignation."

NURSES: Shortage causing some hospitals to shut down departments

aren't graduating enough

Olson said in the case of lab technicians, schools to back fill the personnel that are leaving the industry through retirement or career changes. The case is the same for the nursing profession. Other, more lucrative opportunities have come up for nurses such as traveling with a staffing agency for higher pay

"That's been very difficult for us," Olson said. "With the area hospitals any more patients because they can't staff the beds all the time. I would say the people that you have, you want to keep them. But you worry about the burn out that occurs with these folks working all these additional hours. And then there's the cost to the organization."

Olson said he hoped the staffing shortage would be resolved by now as months have come and gone since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic. He's unsure of how the situation will play out, but open positions being down from a year ago have him feeling more positive. The RCH CEO remarked that there are more nursing schools in the market now, but it takes time to get a nurse trained and graduated, just like with a lab technician or an ultrasound technician. "People have to have the right credentials," Olson said. "I don't think this is going to go away right away. But we are seeing some light at the end of the tunnel. And that's good for us. Because we've never dealt with this many openings. I don't ever remember a day where we've seen anything like this. We were up to 62 openings. It was overwhelming. I think we've hopefully gotten past that now and we're on the downward trend. It could be another year. It could be more than that. Hopefully it's less than that. I just don't know."

that surround us, we're all vying for the same small pool of people. That's the problem. There's just not enough. And we're all trying to get our share of that base. That makes it very difficult."

There are staff members at RCH that are working more overtime hours due to the shortage, which can cause burnout and the hospital has had to be careful with scheduling, Olson said.

For the positions and shifts that RCH can't fill, it brings in agency personnel.

"And they're incredibly expensive," Olson said. "So, that model in my opinion is not sustainable. We can't be going on for years and years paying at the level we're paying now. And most hospitals can't. I can't tell you the number of stories I've read recently where because of the staffing crisis, hospitals are shutting departments down. We have found even with the Rockford hospitals where they'll say they can't take

Obituaries

Marlin 'Mick' A. Jones, Jr.

OREGON — On Wednesday, Oct. 26, Marlin "Mick" A. Jones, Jr., loving husband, father and Papa, passed away at the age of 65 after his courageous battle with cancer.

He was born June 14, 1957 in Dixon, proud son of Marlin and Ella (Hoffman) Jones. He was a lifelong Oregon resident and attended Oregon Schools. On Sept. 19, 1980 he married the love of his life, Penny Last, at the First Christian Church in Oregon.

As a young man he earned a living trimming trees. For the past 20 years he drove truck for Steve Benesh &

Sons, he had great love for what he did and for the people he worked with. Mick had a mean roar but a soft heart. He also had the patience of a saint; he would spend hours in the garage working on projects that others had given up on.

There wasn't anything he couldn't fix. Mick also enjoyed turkey shoots, auto repair, camping, Ford trucks and fishing. Most of all, he loved spending time with his family and friends and having good conversation with a Busch Light in hand.

His grandchildren were his pride and joy, being a papa came natural to him. His grandchildren loved his big hugs and squeezes, tagging along with him in the garage, and their weekly donut day-filled with love and sweets. They kept him fighting until the end.

He was preceded in death by his parents and grandparents, his sister Debbie Jones, grandson Ryan Niedziela and nephew Derek Jones, what a reunion that must have been.

He is survived by his loving wife Penny of Oregon, five children; Christine Bohms of Oregon, Timothy Miller of Sheffield, Illinois, Matthew (Belinda) Miller of Sheffield, Illinois, Carrie Carpenter of Rockford and Thomas (Chelsy) Jones of Oregon; sister Marlene (Randy) Donaldson of Oregon, brother Randy (Mary) Jones of Oregon, close nephew Kendall Jones of Freeport; grandchildren; Nick (Nubia) Bohms, Beth (Jordan) Gorzny, Dustin Miller, Emma Miller, Conner Miller, Lucas (Kali) Miller, Chloe (Jeremy) Turner, Anthony Miller, Nathaniel Miller, Peyton (Hannah), Jayla Waller, Ella Jones, Nora Jones; great grandchildren Jaxson, Lilah, Piper, Gabe, Abi, Eva, Autumn, Joseph, and many nieces and nephews.

A memorial visitation was held at Farrell Holland Gale Funeral Home in Oregon on Saturday Nov. 5 from 10 a.m. to noon. A memorial fund is established in his name and may be directed to his family.

Visit www.farrellhollandgale.com to leave a condolence or memory of Mick.

Joyce Kathleen (Knodle) Morrison

BYRON — Joyce Kathleen (Knodle) Morrison, of Byron, 93, passed away with her husband by her side on Wednesday, Oct. 26. She was born in Rockford on May 16, 1929 to Arnold and Stena (Jansen) Knodle. She attended a one-room schoolhouse on Tower Road until the eighth grade. She then went to Byron High School and graduated in 1945. She attended Rockford College and graduated from Northern Illinois University with a teaching degree.

Joyce married Leland "Sam" E. Morrison at the Middle Creek Presbyterian Church on Nov. 30, 1957. She taught school in Winnebago and worked in the office of W.F. and John Barnes Company in Rockford until she and Sam built the Dog n Suds Drive In in Byron in 1966. In 1975, they changed the name to Sam's Drive In, which they ran until 1990 when their son David and his wife took over. Joyce attended Middle Creek Presbyterian Church and was a 75-year member. She enjoyed being a member of two car clubs, antiquing, playing cards with family and friends, wintering in Haines City, Florida for 12 years, and spending time with her grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Joyce is survived by her loving husband of 65 years Sam Morrison of Byron, and four Morrison grandchildren - Tim (Jen) of Plainfield, Illinois, Chris (Megan) of Vienna, Maryland, Nick (Mikayla) of Winnebago, and Ellen (Andrew) Touchette of Fairfax, Virginia as well as four great-grandchildren - Parker, Preston, Grace, and Dakota Morrison and daugh> ter-in-law, Karin (Morrison) Winquist of Winnebago. She is also survived by sistersin-law and brothers-in-law - Joan Hackett of Rockford, Shirley Morrison Houle of Thompson, Connecticut, Shawn (Jan) Morrison of Rockford, Carla (Joe) Fiorello of Sebring, Florida, Becky Morrison Little, and Phil Morrison Jr. both of Byron. She is also loved by many nepnews and nieces.

Richard L. Jones

POLO — Richard L. Jones, 86, of Polo, passed away Friday, Oct. 28 at KSB Hospital surrounded by family.

Richard was born May 8, 1936, in Dixon, the son of Russell and Ethyl (Miller) Jones. On Aug. 16, 1958 in Liberty, he married his college sweetheart Marilyn Whitmore.

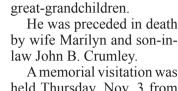

Richard was a second-generation farmer in the Polo area. He enjoyed collecting antique farm equipment, was a lifelong model railroad hobbyist and got himself in trouble when he started collecting motorcycles and encouraged others to follow suit.

Richard was a member and was very active with the Polo Church of the Brethren as an organist, a Deacon, the Brethren Volunteer Service and served with his newly wedded wife in Nappanee, Indiana.

He and Marilyn met at Manchester College music program and together went on to make beautiful music for the rest of their days.

Flamingo Palace comes to Oregon Lions

OREGON — Don Atkinson, the owner of the Oregon resale shop Flamingo Palace, and his assistant, Austin Rowland, spoke to the Oregon Lions Club at their meeting on Oct. 13 at the VFW in Oregon.

Don's resale store is located one block off Washington Street at 109 S. Third St. in Oregon. It is packed with a variety of merchandise. If you are willing to take the time to examine every nook and cranny of his store, you will find some hidden gems. If you wish to browse from home, they also have a large collection of their merchandise available for purchase on EBay. His work partner, Austin Rowland, administrates this end of the business and can be seen on any given day mailing multiple packages to customers from the Oregon Post Office! For many years Don has partnered with Angel Treasures Resale in Mt. Morris with a portion of his profits going to Serenity Hospice, which is located in Ogle County on Illinois Route 2 south of Oregon. Don feels that local people should primarily benefit from the funds collected from local donations and this partnership with Angel Treasures makes that happen.

Oregon Police donate bikes, host impairment class

OREGON — The Oregon Police Department recently donated two, three-wheeled bicycles to the Oregon School District for health class at the Oregon Junior Senior High School. The bicycles will be used in conjunction with the Oregon Police Department's impairment goggles to show students the effects of drug & alcohol impairment as they attempt to complete the driving course on the bicycles.

The money for the bicycles came from funds the city receives from cannabis taxes. The city set aside a portion of these tax dollars to educate the public on the effects of drugs. The Oregon Police Department would like to thank the agricultural & welding department at OJSHS for assembling the bicycles for this project and Dan Gale, the health teacher, for putting this experiment together.

"This is a great collaborative project between the police department and the school district to help educate students and to provide a positive environment to learn about the dangerous impacts of driving under the influence," Tim Brechon, school resource officer, said.

Unpopular governments, unpopular wars and the Constitution

ONSTITU-TIONS, like fortress walls, crumble unless they're repaired and modified as time takes its toll.

Strengthening ours and correcting its imperfections is not only vital to civil liberties. It's also a matter of national defense.

Historian Linda Colley, in her book, "The Gun, the Ship, and the Pen," traces the origins of written constitutions to the wars of mid-1700s Europe. The kings and emperors of the time met resistance from their subjects to their ever more expensive and deadly conflicts. Some of them came up with written constitutions, "bargains on paper," as Ms. Colley calls them, that offered some rights to the people in hopes of gaining support for their military campaigns.

The American Revolution arose from Great Britain's failure to secure that bargain with its American colonies, and to gain their support for taxes to pay for its huge defense bills. The new constitutions that the rebellious colonies wrote were, in spite of their origins and like those that came before in Europe, designed to attract popular support for a deadly and costly war. The writers of the later federal Constitution, many of them veterans of that war, also had national security in mind as a basic purpose. Under our Constitution, we the people support the government's wars with our taxes, offer up the lives of our fighting men and women, and endure all the other hardships that accompany war and national defense. The government, for its part, ensures that we have certain rights, the most important being the right to vote. Whatever weakens that bargain, and the sense on the part of the people that they have the final say with their votes over questions of war and peace, also weakens our national security. Two subversive forces now threaten that Constitutional pact. One, a loss of faith in democratic institutions, is evident in the events surrounding the 2020 election and its aftermath. The other is embedded in the Constitution itself. It can be seen in the fact that the 579,000 citizens of Wyoming elect as many Senators as the 39,000,000 who live in California. That 670 percent discrepancy results from the way the Constitution allots two Senators to each state, regardless of size. The Constitution also grants extra power to > small states in presidential elections through the electoral college. These imbalances in their turn show up in the make-up of today's Supreme Court, whose members are appointed by the president and senate.

Favoritism for small states can only worsen in the years ahead. Political scientist David Birdsell has estimated that in 20 years, as people continue to move from rural areas to urban ones, 70 percent of Americans will live in five states, but their senators will occupy only 30 percent of the seats in the U.S. Senate. Two presidents have already taken office after failing to win the popular vote so far in this century, and more are likely to follow.

Meanwhile, public confidence in government is tanking. Approval percentages for Presidents Trump and Biden have hovered around the low 40s and upper 30s. 76 percent of the American people disapprove of Congress, according to an August survey by Statista Research. Even the Supreme Court, which used to enjoy the support of large majorities, has lost the confidence of the public, as shown by approval ratings running from 48 percent (Pew Research Center on June 22, 2022) to 38 percent (Yahoo News on Sept. 10, 2022) and 35 percent (nbcnews. com, Aug. 28, 2022). Unpopular governments can end up fighting unpopular wars. The Constitution's built-in inequalities aren't the only causes of the current low state of public support for its government. But in times like these it's all the more important for national security as well as civil liberties to repair and strengthen the bond between people and government. As that connection continues to weaken, these trends will someday reach a crisis point, and we'll be forced to come to grips with the need for changes in the Constitution. Anticipated increase in net farm income SDA's most recent Farm Sector Income Forecast, released Sept. 1, anticipates an increase in net farm income for 2022. U.S. net farm income, a broad measure of farm profitability, is currently forecast at $147.7 billion, up 5.2%, or $7.3 billion, from 2021's $140.4 billion.

This increase contrasts with USDA's original February estimates that forecasted a $5.4 billion (-4.5 percent) decline in net farm income and if realized, would represent the fourth consecutive year of improved net farm income. When adjusted for inflation, however, 2022 net farm income is expected to decline $0.9 billion (0.6 percent) from 2021 but remain 42 percent above the 20-year average of $104 billion in inflation-adjusted dollars. The report also finds the largest increase in production expenses on record in both numerical and percentage terms, up $66 billion across the farm economy (18 percent).

Net farm income breakdown

Direct government payments are forecast to decrease by $12.8 billion, or 49.7% percent, between 2021 and 2022. The decrease corresponds to reductions in both USDA pandemic assistance, which included payments from the Coronavirus Food Assistance Programs and other pandemic assistance to producers, and non-USDA pandemic assistance programs, such as funds from the Small Business Administration's Paycheck Protection Program.

From 2021 to 2022, federal payments through USDA's pandemic assistance initiatives are expected to drop $6.7 billion, from $7.5 billion to $0.78 billion, or 89 percent, and non-USDA pandemic assistance is expected to disappear completely, a difference of $8.47 billion from 2021. In addition to the reduced pandemic-related payments, the Market Facilitation Program, which provided a series of direct payments to farmers and ranchers impacted by trade retaliation, ended in 2021 and will not be part of net farm income going forward. Commodity insurance indemnities are expected to increase in 2022 by 50 percent, or $5.6 billion, moving from $11.2 billion to $16.8 billion.

A significant portion of the increase in net farm income is linked to a projected jump in cash receipts from production expected up

crops and livestock

21 percent or $91.7 billion in 2022 in nominal dollars. Higher projected commodity prices across the board, project out to higher cash receipts. Receipts for corn are expected to increase 16.7 percent ($11.9 billion), soybeans are expected up 30.6 percent ($14.9 billion), and wheat is expected up 33.7 percent ($4 billion).

These three crops account for the bulk of cash receipt increase projections. A whopping 80.4 percent of the increase in cash receipts is expected to be linked to higher prices versus only 9.3 percent linked to volume changes. Some of these commodity price increases may be attributed to the Ukraine-Russia conflict. Ukraine is the seventh-largest producer and fourth-largest exporter of corn in the 2020/21 crop year. Importantly, each USDA forecast is based on a point in time calculation based on certain commodity reference prices.

The magnitude of the projected cash receipts increase is likely linked to a period of record reference prices and may not reflect the price received for crops at harvest. On the livestock side, total animal/animal product receipts are expected up $55.3 billion (28.3 percent) for a total of $251 billion based on strong prices across species. Some of this increase is temporary, due to more cattle marketed because of drought and increased input costs.

On the cost side, production expenses, including operator dwelling expenses, are fore casted to increase by $66.2 billion, or 17.8 percent, reaching $437.3 billion in 2022, a record high total and record high dollar and percentage increases in one year. This includes increases in costs like cumulative feed, which is expected to increase nearly $9.7 billion, or 15 percent, to $75.9 billion. Fertilizer, lime and soil conditioner costs are expected to increase $15.4 billion, or 52 percent, from $29.5 billion to $45 billion. Typically, fertilizers represent about 15 percent of a crop farmer's costs and an increase of this magnitude can be crushing for some producers, even with the increases in revenue.

Other increased production costs in the manufactured inputs category include pesticides, which are expected up $3.6 billion, or 20 percent, from $17.8 billion to $21.5 billion and fuels and oils, expected up 42 percent, or $5.86 billion, from $13.9 billion to $19.8 billion. Farmers and ranchers are facing the same challenges as other Americans when it comes to the cost of electricity, which is expected to increase $469 million (7.3 percent) for producers, from nearly $6.4 billion to nearly $6.9 billion.

Other farm-related income, which includes things like income from custom work, machine hire, commodity insurance indemnities and rent received by operator landlords, is estimated to increase by $6.4 billion, or 19.7 percent, from $32.3 billion to $38.6 billion in 2022.

USDA released the most recent estimates for 2022 net farm income, providing an early estimate of the farm financial picture. For 2022, USDA anticipates an increase in net farm income, moving from $140.4 billion in 2021 to $147.7 billion, an increase of 5.2 percent.

Much of the 2022 net farm income is expected to be produced by crop and livestock cash receipts, a record increase in production costs and a decrease in ad hoc government support, resulting in an overall increase of forecasted net farm income.

Farmers and ranchers face an uphill battle despite the increases in net farm income.

One of the greatest concerns is the increase in operating costs, particularly fertilizer and other inputs. Other concerns come from the effects of inflation and harvest uncertainty. These issues will challenge the ability of farmers and ranchers to reach above break-even levels in 2022.

What the Republican Party is

Dear Editor,

I wanted to take a moment to correct some misinformation that was posted in this publication recently relative to the Republican Party, former President Trump and groups aligned with the conservative right.

I find it very interesting that the liberal left consistently tries to associate the right with groups like "The 1%ers," "The KKK," "The Proud Boys," "The Oath Keepers" and even "The Nazis." I confess I do not know much about two of these five groups so I will address the three I do know something about.

One of these groups I consider myself an unofficial member to since I was elected to office three times in Illinois, so I am an oath keeper, meaning I took an oath to defend and uphold both the Constitutions of the United States and State of Illinois.

As for the KKK, it has never been associated with the Republican party and conservative right. It has always been a byproduct of the Civil War where a Republican president won the war to free the slaves and the Democrats of the Confederate south who were not happy continued to discriminate against people of color after the conclusion of the Civil War.

As far as calling a conservative Republican a "Nazi" well, perhaps you had better know what the term means > before you use it. The term is a German acronym that translated into English stands for "National Socialist German Workers' party" so again, it is more aligned with the Democrats of America who call Republicans by this name as history does not support Republicans ever being aligned or in favor of socialism. Indeed, President Trump recently said in a State of the Union Address. "We will never be a socialist country!" Democrats sat on their hands stone faced while Republican rose and applauded wildly.

I am not a fan of attacking somebody when you have nothing good to say about yourself but I am also not a fan of people telling lies about other people.

Oregon native retires from U.S. Navy after 29 years of honorable service

'NAVFAC Far East was an incredible command to wrap up my Navy career'

YOKOSUKA, Japan-

Capt. Lance Flood relieved Capt. Tim DeWitt as naval facilities engineering systemscommand(NAVFAC) Far East commanding officerinachangeofcommand and retirement ceremony on board Fleet Activities Yokosuka, Japan, Oct. 28. Flood takes the helm from DeWitt, who worked previously at NAVFAC Far East, as a public works officer from 2007 until 2010. Yokosuka was also DeWitt's first duty assignment from 1994 to 1996 when he served aboard the forward-deployed frigate USS Rodney M. Davis (FFG 60) as a surface warfare officer. DeWitt's naval service began in 1993 after graduating from the University ofIllinois with a bachelor of science in civil engineering and received his commission through the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps program. He is a registered professional engineer in the state of Illinois. During the ceremony, De-Witt was presented with the Legion of Merit, gold star in lieu of a third award. He also received a letter of appreciation from Shunko Gakuen, a home for Japanese children separated from their parents which Seabees and NAV-FAC members have been sponsoring and providing support to since 1945. While DeWitt led NAV-FAC Far East he led 2,142 personnel at 11 public works departments across two navy regions to execute an annual investment program of $1 billion that directly enhanced U.S. 7th Fleet, III Marine Expeditionary Force, Navy and Department of Defense activities throughout the Indo-Pacific Area of Responsibility, according to the award citation. He also enabled 7th Fleet's operational capabilities through the construction of three navigation, seamanship and ship-handling trainers; and the U.S. 7th Fleet shore continuity of operations facility. He enhanced operational capabilities by seeing through the completion of the $174 million Pier 5 replacement project.

"NAVFAC Far East was an incredible command to wrap up my Navy career," said DeWitt, an Oregon native. "It's the diversity of people and cultures who made it a truly special place. Working together, we were able to make advancements on game-changing fleet priority projects including state-of-the-art ship simulator facilities and a new fixed concrete pier to support 7th Fleet ships in Yokosuka. These were rare opportunities that allowed the drive and focus of our people to highlight what NAVFAC brings to the fight as a systems command. Starting my Navy career and finishing it in Japan was an opportunity the Navy afforded me that I'm extremely grateful for." NAVFAC Far East has a workforce of more than 2,000 military, U.S. civilian and host nation employees who provide a full range of facilities and engineering services to Navy, Marine Corps and other federal agencies in Japan, Korea, Singapore and the British Indian Ocean Territory (Diego Garcia). NAVFAC is the Systems Command that delivers and maintains quality, sustainable facilities, acquires and manages capabilities for the Navy's expeditionary combat forces, provides contingency engineering response, and enables energy security and environmental stewardship.

SPORTS

My favorite time of the year

TTH sectional cross country and the start of the football playoffs, the last weekend in October is always my favorite of the year for high school sports.

It also helped that our county football teams went 5-0 in the first round, the weather was ideal and the Park West 1A cross country course borders my back yard.

The first stop was in Rochelle for what turned out to be one of the most exciting games in the state, as the Hubs pulled out an overtime thriller over Dixon. After covering Dixon in the first week of the regular season against Oregon, I figured Rochelle would win by 20 points.

Wrong, and my apologies to the Dukes for underestimating them. They have improved greatly since then and credit to their coaching staff for that.

Their quarterback, junior Tyler Shaner, baffled Rochelle with his feet and arm. With his dad as the head coach, he will only get better. There is a sophomore brother that had a good game.

As a whole, look for the Big Northern conference to be even better next year. For a program like an upstart Oregon that has been struggling to attain respectability, that may not be the news they were hoping to hear.

Another drawback to Oregon is not being able to get extra practice in like the playoff-bound teams do.

Byron, Forreston and Stillman Valley traditionally make long runs in the playoffs and that can equate to an extra month of practice for varsity and selected underclassmen.

It's a case of the rich getting richer, but they earned it.

Picking to cover the Rochelle game over Byron, Stillman and Polo on Friday night was easy for me. It was my mom's 87th birthday that day and gave me a chance to visit her before kickoff.

At that age, she still goes to cheer on the Hubs, as she's been doing since coming to town in 1967 as the wife of a new head coach. There wasn't much to cheer that first year, as Rochelle was 1-8 and lost to Oregon in the final game.

Not a great way to start at a school with a 30-plus winning streak a couple years earlier. In small towns like ours, the football or basketball coach can be the most popular person around or someone under attack at school board meetings.

As I watched Dixon and Rochelle go at it, I understand that mentality. There was so much at stake, as both teams matched touchdowns, with the glory of advancing to the second round hanging in the balance.

The longer the game progressed, the higher the emotional stakes. When Rochelle scored the winning touchdown, there was a sense of relief mixed in with utter jubilation.

On the Dixon side, it was dejection and tears. After months of preparing for this moment, the fun was over.

As Rochelle coach Kyle Kissack aptly said afterwards, "We get to play one more week."

It's not just the team that gets one more week. It's the cheer squads, band, townspeople, school body, local media, family, etc.

On Saturday, my attention turned to the pageantry of 1A cross country. Those coaches aren't under the same scrutiny of the football coach, but they can be just as intense.

Coming into the meet, some of them weren't happy that the meet was scheduled for the afternoon instead of the morning because the timing company was doing another sectional earlier in the day. That displeasure became irritation when word came out the timing company was running late and the start time would have to be adjusted further.

Because of this, Oregon Athletic Director Mike Lawton took some verbal abuse from a couple coaches in the pre-race meeting. Both of these coaches are good friends of mine and I respect them for looking out for their athletes' best interests.

However, this wasn't unfair. Everyone was adversely affected. Why dwell on it? Just go out and run.

Things started a half hour late and a couple other glitches popped up, delaying the girls final results until nearly three hours later.

One runner could not be found on either of the two meet cameras. It was like she didn't exist. It took some forensic sleuthing by her coach and meet officials to finally identify the side of her torso, thus validating her finish.

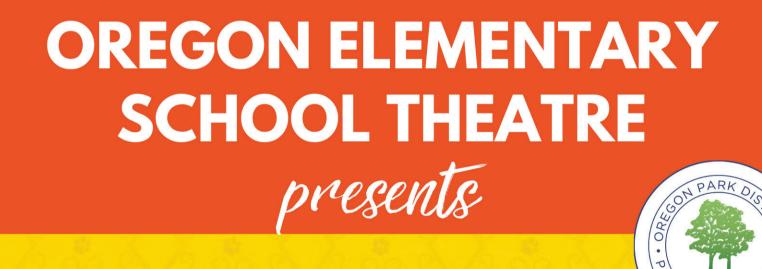

This was important because she ended up qualifying for state. Another potential state qualifier had her case go the IHSA office after it was determined she had the wrong bib on. Technically, that should be a disqualification, but the question arose as to whose job it was to ensure the right bib was on before the starting gun went on.

After much deliberation, the IHSA deemed the final responsibility to be on the meet officials and not on the girl or her coach. Thus, she qualified, but the fact-find-ing process made a long day even longer.

Maybe the real heroes that day were the fans that came out to support their teams and stayed until 4:45 p.m. when the final awards were given out.

Andy Colbert is a longtime Ogle County resident and has years of experience covering sports and more for multiple area publications.

Oregon School District scores above average on state report card

OCUSD #220 surpassed state average in both English language arts and math

OREGON – The Illinois State Board of Education released its Illinois Report Card on performance of state school districts, and the Oregon School District #220 scored above the state's average on the Illinois Assessment for Readiness (IAR) the collective for the first time in both English language arts effort of (ELA) and math, a press release said.

With students returning to the classroom, the National Assessment family that of Educational Progress revealed that there has resulted in been a historical drop in math and reading scores for U.S. public schools in our scores." students who met or exas a result of learning loss from remote learning due to lack of available resources and an insufficient academic support network. OCUSD strives to provide all students the structure, guidance, and resources needed to help them succeed. The district made the transition from remote to in-person learning as smooth as possible to prevent disruption to student academics. This was reflected in the districts 2022 IAR scores. When comparing IAR 2021 scores to 2022 scores, the ELA state average of meets and exceeds decreased by 0.33 percent while OCUSD's average increased by 59 percent and the math state average

"I'm proud of our staff, students and the growth of meets and exceeds increased by 0.8 percent while OCUSD's average increased by 30 percent.

ISBE established academic expectations for what all students should know and be able to do in each subject at each grade. The standards emphasize depth over breadth, building upon key concepts as students advance. A school's score determines if an individual school is meeting the needs of all its students and reflects academic progress.

Hi there, I'm Fletcher, a shy and sweet boy. I'm on the larger side, and am quiet and keep to myself. I like to be around my person, but might not sit on your lap much if that's ok. We can be good friends and keep each other company though. I'm FIV+ but can co-exist just fine with another quiet kitty friend. My adoption fee has been sponsored too! Please come in to meet me soon.

YOGA Has Returned!

Thursday's at 9:30 am, November 10th & 17th. Welcome, Kara Schabacker! Kara first entered the health and wellness field as a massage/myofascial therapist in 2008. After 13 years working solely in curative care, she laid down roots as a yoga instructor to shift her focus to a more preventative approach to well-being. Shortly after receiving her RYT200, she completed a 95-hour certification in Trauma Informed Kids & Teens Yoga and became registered as an RCYT in 2022. She is also in the process of completing her RYT500 through Yoga Medicine, looking at an old familiar path from a new viewpoint. The focus of her studies is on fascia, the nervous system, mental and emotional health, and the human response to trauma. Yin-Yasa - This class is a hybrid of yang (active yoga) with yin (passive yoga). We will use fundamental yoga postures to build strength and warmth and also incorporate passive, long held poses to help with flexibility and mobility of the joints and soft tissues. A yoga mat and blocks will be useful props for this class! All levels welcome. Registration required, this class fills quickly. Please call (815) 732-2724 or visit www.oregonpubliclibrary.com.

Program

Understanding and Responding to Dementia-Related Behavior & Dr Elizabeth Shulman, author of "Finding Sanctuary in the Midst of Alzheimer's-A Spiritual Guide for Families Facing Dementia"-Wednesday, November 9th at 6:00pm.

Behavior is a powerful form of communication and is one of the primary ways for people with dementia to communicate their needs and feelings as the ability to use language is lost. However, some behaviors can present real challenges for caregivers to manage. Join us to learn to decode behavioral messages. identify common behavior triggers, and learn strategies to help intervene with some of the most common behavioral challenges of Alzheimer's disease.

Join us for a conversation with Elizabeth Shulman. author of "Finding Sanctuary in the Midst of Alzheimer's - A Spiritual Guide for Families Facing Dementia". We will briefly discuss reframing solutions and seeking help from"above". Elizabeth Shulman has over 30 years of experience as a pastor, university researcher. and hospice chaplain. Dr. Shulman knows the stress and struggle of caregiving and will help us focus on finding meaning in our challenging role. We will be giving away copies of Dr. Shulman's book to some attendees. Please register to view from home by calling 800.272.3900. If you'd like to watch in the library, please register at www. oregonpubliclibrary.com.

November is National Novel Writing Month!

Tuesday, November 15th at 10:00am, AllAges. Come to the library for a great environment to craft your next bestseller in the company of fellow writers. There will be prompts, creative exercises, and of course, time to write! There will also be time for writers to share a selection of their in-progress work if they so chose.

A Killer Among Us

(Part 2): Killers, Stalkers & Creeps of Chicago's Modern Era- Tuesday, November 15th, 6:30pm

After an apparent breather during Chicago's Beer Wars of the Roaring Twenties, the Serial Killer is back for our Modern Era...and they are more insatiable than before. Gone are poison and insurance claims – only to be replaced by bloodshed and lust. If you're not too frightened (yet) please join Clarence Goodman for "A Killer Among Us". Registration required, call (815) 732-2724 or visit www.oregonpubliclibrary.com.

Stranger Things Trivia

Wednesday, November 23rd at 4:00pm. Grab your friends and come to the library for an afternoon of Stranger Things Trivia. Win Stranger Things memorabilia and door prizes. Registration required, please call (815) 732-2724 or visit www.oregonpubliclibrary.com. Teams of no more than 4 people and open to all ages.

Ogle clerk's office offers service to veterans

OREGON — As we observe Veteran's Day, Laura J. Cook, Ogle County clerk & recorder, would like to remind veterans and their families to consider the security of one of the most important documents they possess, their DD-214 military discharge records.

"As we honor those who served before us and serve us now, I want to urge all veterans to safeguard their DD-214 military discharge records with the Ogle County Recorder's Office. In a time of need, wouldn't you like the peace of mind that your family can access these valuable documents in a safe and secure fashion if they are ever lost? We will record your original DD-214 no charge to the veteran, with proper identification," Cook states.

For further information, contact the Ogle County Recorder's Office at 815-732-1115. The county recorder's office is located at 105 S. 5th St., Suite 212, Oregon. Office hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday thru Friday, closed Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.
