CLINTON — It was perfect weather on Monday for the annual Clinton Memorial Day observance, held this year on Mr. Lincoln’s Square.

This year’s event was held on the square to make easier access for visitors and for more convenient parking.

U.S. Army veteran

Nelson Thorp served this year as master of ceremonies. The color guard and rifle squad included members of American Legion Post 103, AmVets Post 14, VFW Post 4168, BSA Troop 1142, BSA Troop 7142 and Cub Scout Pack 4142.

The Clinton High School Band provided drummer cadence, playing of the National Anthem and also performed “Battle Hymn of the Republic.”

U.S. Navy veteran Marc Rogers offered the invocation. Clinton High School class of 2023 student Chloe Barth led the crowd in the recitation of “The Americans Creed, and U.S. Marine Corps veteran Jessica Jones read Gen. John A. Logan’s Order 11 from 1868, which established what would become known as Memorial Day.

Cell phones to be banned at CJHS

Katy O’Grady-Pyne

CLINTON — Students at Clinton Junior High School will no longer be able to carry cell phones while at school if the board approves the new policy at its June 21 meeting.

Clinton Superintendent Curt Nettles said the students are too distracted by their cell phones.

“It does not create the best learning environment for all students, and some students are behaving inappropriately with them (cell phones) as well. Mostly it’s about taking away the distraction to foster a better learning environment.”

Nettles said the change will take effect at the start of the 2022-23 school year and at this point is only in force at the junior high. Banning cell phones at the high school level has not been discussed, he said.

Junior high students will still have their district issued iPads, Nettles added, so they will still have access to electronic resources.

Rucker Chapel Memorial Day Service June 5

WAPELLA — The annual Memorial Day observance will be held at Rucker Chapel, 17533 Ruckers Chapel Rd., rural Wapella, on Sunday, June 5, at 2 p.m.

A potluck will be held at 12:30 p.m. Hank Sanford, Champaign, will speak. Farmer City American Legion Post #55 will be in charge of rites in Rucker Chapel Cemetery at 3 p.m. for all of the veterans of all wars buried there.

Rucker Chapel Church was built in 1865 in Wilson Township, DeWitt County in 1865. It burned down on December 16, 1932, was rebuilt on the same site, and dedicated on December 17, 1933. The congregation will observe the 154th anniversary of the church, which was built in 1865.

The average cost of a gallon of gas in Illinois is now $5

Kevin Bessler
The Center Square

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois gas prices reached $5 a gallon on average Tuesday, the only state east of the Mississippi currently at or above the $5 mark.

It appears there is no end in sight for rising costs.

According to AAA, prices hit $5 early Tuesday, dropped a couple cents later in the morning, before rising again to $5.001 as of Tuesday afternoon.

A year ago, it was $3.20 a gallon.

The average price in Chicago is $5.59, according to AAA; in Quincy it is $4.94; motorists in Bloomington-Normal are paying on average $4.74 a gallon; and in Decatur it is $4.65.

According to the Wall Street Journal, the typical household is now spending $4,800 on gas at an annual rate, compared to $2,800 a year ago.

“Gasoline is $1.05 more than it was on February 24, when Russia invaded Ukraine,” AAA Illinois spokesperson Molly Hart said in a news release. “That sent shock waves through the oil market that have kept oil costs elevated.”

Gas prices began their rise more than a year ago, shortly after President Joe Biden took office in implemented new restrictions on the oil and gas industry.

Taxes contribute to Illinois’ high gas prices. In 2019, Gov. J.B. Pritzker signed legislation doubling the state’s gas tax from 19 cents a gallon to 38 cents. Lawmakers also included in the legislation signed by Pritzker an annual increase in the gas tax tied to inflation, so the state’s gas tax now is just under 40 cents a gallon.

Illinois also is one of only a handful of states that assesses a sales tax on top of its gas tax.

It is tough all over, but only six states have more expensive gasoline than Illinois. California has the most expensive gas, averaging $6.15 a gallon. The other five states are Hawaii, Nevada, Washington, Alaska and Oregon.

The average price of a gallon of gas for Illinois’ neighbors: Missouri ($4.17); Iowa ($4.26); Kentucky ($4.31); Wisconsin ($4.40); Indiana ($4.60).

U.S. Navy veteran Ed Beck read Abraham Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address."

Clinton High School class of 2023 student Candyce Evans introduced keynote speaker, U.S. Marine Corps veteran Mike Bennett. Bennett is with the Clinton Police Department and is the department's school resource officer.

"But for these heroes, our lives and our country would have taken a very different path," Bennett said in his address.

Bennett spoke about the varied backgrounds of veterans.

"Some of our heroes came right off the farm," he said. "Before joining up, their biggest worry was taking care of their crops, livestock and homesteads."

He also talked about the many veterans with railroad backgrounds, working on trains or in rail yards.

"A few answered the call as a part of a family tradition that stretched for several generations," Bennett said. "Some started a family tradition with their enlistments."

He said some volunteers saw the military as a way of improving their life's prospects, "learn a new skill or make new opportunities." Some joined right out of high school.

"Their biggest concern at that time was a date for Saturday night."

Others interrupted their careers or home life in order to enlist. In other cases, the military, "was the lesser of two evils," Bennett said.

"A few lied about their age to join. A good number volunteered, while others were drafted. They all had one thing in common."

Bennett said they all answered the call when the country needed them the most. He said what they received for their efforts was hardship, unthinkable living and working conditions, and separation from their families and all they had ever known.

He said, for many, it was the first time they had been away from home.

"Some of our heroes made it home and volunteered to return overseas," Bennett said. "Some several times. "All lost friends; some lost family."

He said they received no guarantees about the outcome, "they just knew they were needed at that time in our history."

"They knew not coming home was a possibility, yet they went anyway. These men and women went where they were needed; politics did not enter into it."

Bennett encouraged the crowd to support the country's men and women in uniform and said the people of the United States were the beneficiaries of their sacrifice.

"The opportunity to live our lives pretty much as we see fit, pursue our dreams, raise our families and enjoy freedom's eternal embrace has been secured by these farmers, lawyers, railroad workers and just plain Americans."

Applications available for 2022 Mary Rohrscheib Teaching Scholarship

BLOOMINGTON — Personal injury attorney Josh Rohrscheib has opened applications for the 2022 Mary Rohrscheib Teaching Scholarship — a scholarship he established in loving memory of his late grandmother.

The goal of the scholarship is to recognize and celebrate the great teachers in the community who continue to make a positive impact.

“My grandma was a teacher,” says Attorney Josh Rohrscheib. “She had a tremendous impact on my life and many others. This scholarship is a way to remember and honor her and recognize the great contributions teachers make within our community.”

Students who are going to school to become teachers are eligible for the scholarship, which offers $1,000 towards education and school expenses.

In order to apply for the scholarship, students must submit an essay of at least 750 words that explains the impact a specific “It’s always my hope that this scholarship will encourage applicants to spotlight the great teachers in our community and inspire them and other students to keep their passion for education alive for future generations,” says Attorney Josh Rohrscheib.

Applications are due on July 17 and a winner will be selected July 22, 2022.

Social Security’s commitment to the LGBTQ+ community

Jack Myers
Social Security public affairs specialist

June is Pride Month. It’s a time to acknowledge the struggles of the LGBTQ+ community, and also celebrate diversity, love, and respect. On June 26, 2015, the U.S. Supreme Court issued a decision in Obergefell v. Hodges, holding that same-sex couples have a constitutional right to marry in all states.

We recognize same-sex couples’ marriages in all states, and some non-marital legal relationships (such as some civil unions and domestic partnerships). This recognition is important to determine entitlement to benefits.

Here are five things you should know about our benefits for same-sex couples:

- Marital status is important — A member of a same-sex couple may be entitled to Social Security benefits when a working spouse retires, becomes disabled, or dies. We also consider marital status when we determine eligibility and payment amount for Supplemental Security Income.
- What type of benefits you can receive — Social Security taxes pay for three kinds of benefits: retirement, disability, and survivors. If you’re entitled to benefits, your spouse and eligible family members might receive benefits, too.

- Children may receive benefits — Your children or stepchildren could also be entitled to benefits.
- When you apply for benefits is important — If you’re married or have entered a non-marital legal relationship, we encourage you to apply right away, even if you’re not sure you’re eligible. Applying now may protect you against the loss of any potential benefits.
- Report life changes right away — You should let us know immediately if you move, marry, separate, divorce, or become the parent of a child. Don’t wait until we review your benefits to tell us about any changes. You should report changes right away so benefits are paid correctly.

For more information, please visit our website for same-sex couples at www.ssa.gov/people/same-sex/couples. You can also read our publication What Same-Sex Couples Need to Know at www.ssa.gov/pubs/EN-05-10014.pdf.

Fuel / from page A1

The average cost of a gallon of diesel fuel was $5.52 Monday, adding a strain to the nation’s truck drivers who transport food and other goods across the country, contributing to high inflation.

Economist Severin Borenstein told CBS News a shortage of crude oil and fewer workers, on top of the global supply crisis, means gas prices aren’t going down anytime soon.

“The reality is we are in for high gas prices certainly through the summer and probably to the end of the year, possibly gradually going lower, but we are not going to see $2 or even $3 gasoline in the near future,” Borenstein said.

A trip to the museum

A local art museum, lacking many patrons because people are still avoiding crowds due to COVID, came up with a great idea: open the place to seniors. Those of us who’ve been locked down for too long, turning up our noses at proposed activities at the senior center, thought this was a swell idea. We did, however, decline the offer of a van. Instead, we all drove in our individual vehicles to avoid being breathed on by others. The museum was ... lovely. So excited was staff to have real and actual patrons that they pulled out all the stops for us. Young docents-in-training hovered, but not too closely, as we spread out in the large, high-ceilinged rooms clutching our brochures. Spend more than 10 seconds in front of a display of Mediterranean antiquities, and a docent would appear, many steps away, to tell us about the artifacts. Squint at the detail of a Winslow Homer painting, and there would be a docent offering a magnifying glass and talking about brush work. Look at the artistry of the Native American baskets and wonder how they got all those varied colors, and a docent would know. It didn’t hurt our feelings at all to be told later that these docents-in-training were students at a local art school and would get extra credit for their participation. They did a fine job. The senior center staff did too, surprising us with a bagged lunch on the museum grounds after our visit. There were enough picnic benches for us to spread out in the sunshine, and a male spouse was commandeered to tote around a cooler of iced drinks to hand out, along with a wide variety of chips for us to trade like school children. It’s a good thing I had my checkbook in my purse. Before I left, I purchased a membership as a Friend of the Museum. I’ll be back.

Amber Waves

Give thanks

It is Memorial Day as I write this column, and it simply struck me that, while I often vent and criticize events in this column, we all-too-often fail to realize and acknowledge that we are living a very blessed life.

On this day we as a nation acknowledge those who gave their lives for this country. Freedom is never free. It has always been won and maintained with a gun. A fact that many in this nation fail to acknowledge.

On this day, my thoughts go to Ernest Thorp and his comments regarding his service in WWII. On Saturday, I attended my high school reunion. Some of those students never got to attend a reunion; they died in Vietnam.

Our oldest son is career Army. He’s been to Kosovo, Afghanistan, Iraq, Kuwait and some other areas that do not like the United States. I am thankful for the efforts of all of our service men and women. We have it made when compared to the rest of the world, yet we as citizens so often fail to thank our veterans.

Clinton has an active American Legion Post, AmVets Post and a Veteran’s of Foreign Wars Post. Take a moment to simply tell these veterans their efforts are noted and appreciated.

Clinton just completed its May Days Festival. The event brings a carnival to town and the music on the square. Nothing extravagant, but lots of fun for our younger crowd, and music for the adults. A simple event, but it gives meaning to community.

On May 28th, the Prairie Flyers Exhibit opened at the DeWitt County Museum for all the public to view. This is a celebration of those who fly today and those who flew before. The exhibit covers DeWitt County residents who flew in combat. It covers those who fly today for commercial carriers and those who engage in agricultural use of airplanes.

It is amazing how many people in DeWitt

County actually own and fly airplanes. This is an exhibit that all need to see and experience. Go and enjoy.

In the center of DeWitt County is Clinton Lake. Clinton Lake provides cooling water for the power plant and as a byproduct gives a recreational mecca for the community. There is boating. There is fishing. There is swimming and there is simply a great location for a family picnic. We all too often take the lake for granted and in reality we should be counting our blessings every day for what it provides the residents of DeWitt County.

We have a very solid school system and even a satellite office of the local junior college in our community. We have 4-year colleges and graduate schools less than an hour’s drive from Clinton.

We have a hospital in town and full service hospitals are less than 30 minutes away.

We have numerous churches in which we can worship without fear of reprisal by the government.

We have grocery stores with an abundance of food and for those in need of assistance there are numerous food pantries. No one needs to go hungry in this community.

My wife and I have six children. It is a rarity for all of them to be together. Tomorrow, we will have dinner with 4 of them and perhaps 5. That is a personal blessing to us.

Please take a moment and simply review all of the blessings you have as a resident of DeWitt County and the United States. We are not a perfect nation or community, but we are blessed by any standard of this world.

GIVE THANKS.

Ten-foot stack of mail sits unopened at VA

Imagine a pile of mail heaped 10 feet high sitting unopened for 10 months. That’s what was found in the basement of a rented Department of Veterans Affairs facility in Atlanta. When investigated, the stack was determined to contain 17,660 pieces of mail that included claims, correspondence from veterans, 10,020 medical records and $207,000 in checks, some of which had already expired.

The problems began when a health care arm of the VA wanted to commandeer the basement space being used by a VA payments group. They came to a verbal agreement that the new group would take over dealing with the mail if the payment group left. A handshake later, it was done. Except nobody asked the new group if they even knew how to process correspondence, records and checks. And, apparently, nobody did.

So, although the new people took a stab at dealing with the mail, for the most part the pile sat and grew as more mail came in. And sat and grew some more. The new group asked the old group for help. The old group said no. Enterprising souls in the new group sent off

by Freddy Groves

some of the mail to other facilities -- 14 boxes to one facility alone -- which sent it right back. They tried again, sending another 13 boxes.

What happens when payment requests are ignored? Veterans can’t go to that outside provider and treatment is delayed or denied. Appeals can be denied if not received in time. Veterans with bad test results may not be notified.

Within a short period of time after the report came out, the VA acted and got the backlog cleared up.

The worrisome part of this is that with a coming consolidation of 82 claims processing groups at the VA, this can happen again if steps aren’t taken to ensure that mail is handled correctly.

To learn more, go to www.va.gov and search for “unopened mail backlog.”

Health and cookware

Welcome to my little corner of culinary delights. It is time to recap but also add more details giving more particulars to the cookware. Cookware, after all, is very important equipment in the kitchen. We should then learn all we can about it.

I feel a need to repeat a few statements from the previous article while adding details. Metal can chemically react to certain foods. This reaction can be a health concern but most probably a taste concern. Bits of unwanted solids can get into the food from off of the cookware or utensil being used for the cooking process. Fumes can occur but that is rare and usually of little concern. These vapors generally occur with cleaning products or even a caustic liquid used in making bagels. Quick line is used in other things. Teflon coating for example, can introduce unwanted solids that flake off into the food.

Acidic foods such as vinegar and tomatoes can chemically react with aluminum. By so doing, a certain amount of that aluminum can get dissolved in with the food and can be ingested. But does it really do any harm? There is also the concern by many that bits and pieces of aluminum can get into the food through using such utensils as metal kitchen spoons from stirring and whisks for beating or whipping sauces. One utensil that is often over looked is the serrated knife used for cutting pizzas, pies, cake, etc.

I have often cooked tomatoes in with other foods in my aluminum saucepans or sauté pans. I do not see where this a problem nor do I feel it is enough to hurt the cookware. I have no information that it is harmful. I cannot find under the NSF guidelines or from ANSI information that any dangers exist.

Aluminum cookware is top choice in restaurant use due to its heat distribution. The casted aluminum for its thick walls is especially desired for this need. It is good to season new aluminum cookware and season old ones that are looking a bit shabby.

As stated before, minerals in boiling water will turn aluminum black due to a chemical reaction. However, I do not find that to be a problem. In my view, this creates a protective patina. However, another chemical reaction can reverse that. Just for experimental purposes, I took one of my aluminum pots that had blackened and boiled tomato juice in it. Once I poured the juice out and rinsed the pot, it was shining like polished aluminum. You can imagine where the minerals went along with some if the aluminum.

Aluminum can pit easily if not properly used or handled. For one thing, do not expose aluminum to alkaline. Some of your harsh detergents, as used in dishwashers, should not come in contact with aluminum or cast iron. In point of fact, all cookware, kitchen utensils, measuring equipment and related items should always be washed by hand.

Until next time, peace to all.

Weather History

1877: A tornado of F4 intensity touched down just west of Mt. Carmel and moved east northeast, devastating the town. The touchdown occurred in a heavily wooded area, and many trees were thrown long distances. After crossing the Wabash River, the tornado tracked for another 5 miles across Indiana before dissipating. Twenty businesses and 100 homes were damaged or destroyed. At least 16 people, and as many as 30, were killed, with 100 injuries.

1999: Several tornadoes touched down across central Illinois, as severe thunderstorms moved through the area. A tornado moved across northern parts of Lincoln, with extensive tree damage in a park. High winds also produced damage to residences and trees in Lincoln. Damage to trees also occurred in Delavan, where a tornado moved across the north side of town. Other tornadoes that day were mainly weak and brief in nature.

Late passes score Twin 50 wins at Macon Speedway

MACON — In keeping with the annual tradition of Memorial Day racing at Macon Speedway, Monday night featured two 50-lap feature races for the premier classes in the circuit, the Decatur Building Trades Pro Late Models and the BillingsleyRewards.com Modifieds.

Alan Crowder worked a solid race in the BillingsleyRewards.com Modifieds. He was positioned for a solid top-five finish with Highland's Jacob Steinkoenig running away during the consecutive green flag lap series. Steinkoenig had the group close in on a restart on lap 34.

Three laps later, Jeremy Nichols closed the gap and ran together with Steinkoenig. Nichols attempted to slide job Steinkoenig and closed him into the turn four concrete wall. Steinkoenig's night would end on the back of the tow truck after a dominate start. Nichols, the second place driver, would be sent to the back of the 20-car field for bringing out the yellow and ending the leader's night. That put Austin Lynn into the lead. Lynn would look ready to assume the win but Crowder started to inch closer to the leader.

Running on the top was Crowder's best line and he powered past Lynn with five laps remaining, holding on for a 50-lap feature win.

Also noted in the 50-lapper, Summerfield's Rodney Standerfer started 18th position and took home 4th place. His hard charge led to a $50 donation from Monkey Wrench Garage in Decatur.

Dakota Ewing used his patience to wait out Chase Osterhoff for the lead spot during the Decatur Building Trades Pro Late Model feature. The first 30 laps were Osterhoff's to lead but Ewing took to the bottom of the track and the set-up was great for a mid-race takeover. Ewing would lead the final 19 laps and kept the distance from the Kankakee driver. Timmy Dick moved past Osterhoff for a second place finish.

Guy Taylor picked up his second Pro Modified feature win of the season. Austin Seets, two-time feature winner, started the feature off on the front row outside spot and rolled it up the wall on the opening lap and was knocked out of the race. Taylor was second row outside so when the race restarted, he moved into the front row outside spot and maneuvered through for the checkered flag.

Zane Reitz from Indiana came back to the Macon Speedway winner's circle during the 15-lap 51 Bistro Street Stock feature race. Reitz, a winner in April, made quick work on the 21-car group that featured Bobby Beiler, Tanner Sullivan and Nick Macklin--all drivers who have been checkered flag holders in races before at Macon.

Aarik Andruskevitch raced his way to the checkered flag by running the top side in a caution-less Micro Sprint feature race presented by Bailey Chassis. John Barnard led the first 18 laps and on lap 19, Andruskevitch pulled around Barnard and went to the victory.

The night concluded with Jimmy Dutflinger from Peoria taking the top spot in the Hornets feature. Dutflinger pulled ahead of David Lauritson and Tristan Quinlan to take control of the race and then fend off Jeremy Reed and others.

THIRD HAND TRICKERY

By: Brian Gunnell

"Third hand high" is common advice, and on this hand East plays "Third hand extra high" in order to fool Declarer.

♠ KJ6 ♥ 3 ♦ AKJ95 ♣ 8743
♠ 9854 ♥ Q652 ♦ 8764 ♣ A	North  West East  Declarer
♠ AQ2 ♥ 874 ♦ 3 ♣ KJT965	♠ T73 ♥ AKJT9 ♦ QT2 ♣ Q2

E-W Vulnerable

South West North East

2♣	2♥	3♥	1♥
4♣	Pass	5♣	Pass
			All Pass

Defense, in third hand, it's standard procedure to win the trick with the highest card possible, that's the best way to let Partner know what is going on. So, when West leads a low Heart and East has the King, East should win the trick with the King. But this week's East decided to win the opening trick with the ♥A, supposedly denying possession of the King. He then returned the ♥T. What was East up to?

To answer that question put yourself in Declarer's shoes. From East's play to the first two Heart tricks Declarer deduces that East does not have the King (he would have played it at Trick 1), nor does he have the Jack (he would have returned it at Trick 2). So, it appears that East started with ♥AQT9x. Based on this logic Declarer will calculate that East has a maximum of 8 HCP outside the Club suit. Now, when Dummy leads a low Club from the board and East plays low, how should Declarer guess? East needs the ♣A for his opening bid and must have started with ♣A2 or ♣AQ2, so let's not blame Declarer if he guesses wrong and goes up with the ♠K playing East for ♣A2.

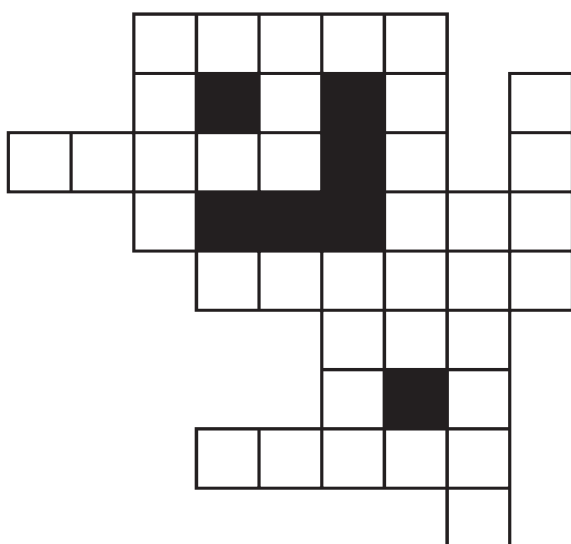

If East plays more routinely, winning the ♥K on the first round and continuing with the Ace, then he no longer needs the ♠A to make up his opening bid. That being the case, Declarer will be more inclined to make the normal Club play of running the Eight on the first round, hoping for Q2 or AQ2 in the East hand (two chances) rather than A2 (only one chance). Nice deception. Mr. East!

Unscramble these twelve letter strings to form each into an ordinary word (ex. HAGNEC becomes CHANGE ). Prepare to use only ONE word from any marked ( ♥ ) letter string as each unscrambles into more than one word (ex. ♥ RATHE becomes HATER or EARTH or HEART ). Fit each string's word either across or down to knot all twelve strings together.

GO FIGURE! by Linda Thistle
