Survive and recover 'It opened my eyes to a lot... I took for granted'

ROCHELLE — On a Sunday in late October, Brett Martinson came home from breakfast with his family.

After sitting down and watching TV while his two small children played, he took a nap. He woke up and his arm was numb, and he had chest pain. He thought it was from sleeping awkwardly and his earlier breakfast, but those feelings didn't go away. He started sweating profusely.

Martinson was having a heart attack.

His wife put the kids in the car and took him to the emergency room at Rochelle Community Hospital. Five minutes after arriving, he was transported by ambulance to OSF St. Anthony Medical Center in Rockford. Martinson remembers the first five minutes of that ride.

He coded twice on the way to the hospital and was revived by RCH Registered Nurse Heather James.

"If it wasn't for her,

I don't know if I would be here," Martinson said "I have a hard time talking about it. My kids are seven and four. The last thing they saw that day was their dad struggling to get out of the car and go into the hospital. That could've been the last time they saw me."

The medical transport helicopter was not flying that day due to weather, James said. The critical care vehicle that would transport Martinson without a nurse was an hour away. Time was a factor, so James said she'd ride in the back of the ambulance with Martinson.

At the beginning of the ride, Martinson was talking and "doing good," James said. And then all of the sudden, he coded. James was able to get him to OSF St. Anthony with his pulse back.

"It was intense," James said. "Normally in the emergency room, you have the doctor that's saying what kind of care to give to somebody in a situation like that. In the back of the ambulance, I was the person that had to make those decisions.

Jeff Fiegenschuh How supply chain issues impact city BY JEFF HELFRICH

MANAGING EDITOR

ROCHELLE — Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, the City of Rochelle was often able to buy public works vehicles and receive them within 60 days. Now, lead times after ordering can take a year.

A multitude of supply chain issues brought about by the pandemic have affected the way the city does business, City Manager Jeff Fiegenschuh said. Lead times for supplies are longer as well. Materials needed for projects are more expensive.

"Before the pandemic and the shortage of products and equipment and things like that, it always seemed that bids would come in under the engineer's estimate," Fiegenschuh said.

'It's one of the programs I'm proudest to have been a part of'

BY JEFF HELFRICH MANAGING EDITOR

ROCHELLE — During the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic when businesses deemed nonessential by the state were forced to close their doors, City of Rochelle staff members were gathered around a table trying to brainstorm ways to help them.

The result was the city and Rochelle Municipal Utilities' Shop Local incentive program. Due to owning its own electric and water utility, the city was able to offer residents a $60 bill credit for every $300 spent at local businesses that had been affected by shutdown orders. "We took it to the city council and they thought it was a great idea and approved it and have been supportive of it," City Manager Jeff Fiegenschuh said. "It really was a group of us sitting around a table saying, 'OK, we're in unprecedented times.' We didn't know what was going to happen and we were thinking of what we could do to help these folks with businesses."

The program ran up until the end of 2021. Its results included $2,981,109 invested in small businesses and a total of 5,755 applications submitted resulting in $538,500 in utility bill credits issued to accounts.

"It felt good to see those results,"Fiegenschuh said. "Can I say that the Shop Local program kept a business open that would have closed otherwise? No. I have no way to show that. But, it feels good to see all these receipts coming in and seeing people spending their dollars locally. I've heard stories about people specifically coming back here to eat or shop because they knew they could save those receipts and get a credit on their utility bill."

To start off, the Shop Local program was limited to three credits per household before the city council expanded the program to an unlimited number of credits. For the last five

Rotary Club donates to school libraries

ROCHELLE — Rochelle Rotary Club President and Flagg-Rochelle Public Library District Director Sarah Flanagan presented three donations to school libraries in town last week.

Rotary donated $1,500 to Rochelle Township High School's library for library media center materials and to supply books for students to build their own personal book collections at home. Students from Danae White's freshman reading class were on hand to receive the donation and hear from Flanagan about Rotary.

RTHS Librarian Ann Marie Jinkins said she uses First Book Marketplace to help guide book choices and welcomes student input as well.

Rotary donated $500 to the library at Tilton School to purchase Spanish and dual language materials. The school has a very small collection for fourth and fifth graders at this time.

"The Tilton School Library is in a growing stage with the addition of the dual language program," Tilton Librarian Suzie Gerber said. "We are so appreciative of this donation from Rotary, so we can add in more books printed in Spanish."

Rotary made a $1,000 donation for books at the Rochelle Middle School library.

"These books will be available for the entire student body to enjoy and will certainly be read," RMS Librarian Sue Golden said. "As always, we really, really appreciate Rochelle Rotary's support of reading at RMS and at all of the other schools in our district."

Flanagan said reading is a gift that needs to be treasured in the community.

"All students need to learn the importance of reading and learning," Flanagan said. "Rotary is proud to be able to support our school libraries and the students in our diverse community."

Kishwaukee College makes direct payments to students through rescue plan funds

MALTA — Kishwaukee College is making $1,203,715 in direct cash payments to students enrolled for the spring 2022 semester.

The American Rescue Plan (ARP) funds are part of the Higher Education Emergency Relief Funds (HEERF)—aCOVID-19 relief initiative from the federal government. Since the COVID-19 pandemic began in spring 2020, Kishwaukee College has provided $4,259,570 in direct payments and services to students to help offset the financial hardships of the pandemic. In addition to cash payments to students, the college has provided enhanced support services through free textbooks, childcare and transportation for students.

"The federal COVID relief funds have been a financial lifeline for our students in their ability to continue to attend Kish during the pandemic," Dr. Laurie Borowicz, president of Kishwaukee College, said. For Justin Williams, a student-worker in his second semester at Kish, the payments help keep him from taking on debt as he pursues a nursing degree. Williams said every little bit helps as his household manages medical bill payments for a family member battling cancer.

"For me, it helps a lot. It gives me a big cushion for my expenses like gas, food, books or other bills," Williams said. "I wouldn't be able to afford most of the things I have without the money Kish has sent."

Austen Wojtasik, a student completing an associate in arts degree this semester, said this payment and previous direct payments have helped relieve some of the financial pressure of pursuing a degree during the pandemic. "As someone paying tuition out of pocket, it is nice to know that I will be able to save for my future and not stress about costs. It makes it easier to budget for things like rent and utilities," Wojtasik said.

Students received the payment the week of Feb. 14 by direct deposit or mail. Payments are based on financial need, the number of credit hours each student is taking and the tuition rate for their courses.

"We feel fortunate to be able to use the HEERF funds to assist our students with costs of attending college at this time where COVID-19 is still affecting their lives," Dr. Michelle Rothmeyer, vice president of student services, said. "Financial barriers can be an issue for many, and we know these payments allow Kishwaukee College students the opportunity to complete their educational goals."

For questions about Kish's direct payments, contact student services at onestop@kish.edu. For more information on Kish's COVID-19 relief funding, visit kish.edu/ heerf.

Community development department and RMU utility billing staff were tasked with going through all of the customers' receipts. They had to be added up, verified for dates and eligible businesses, processed and applied to accounts.

"It was stacks and stacks and stacks," Fiegenschuh said. "People saved them and brought $5,000-6,000 worth of receipts at a time. There was a ton of staff time that went into it. I can't thank community development and RMU staff enough for implementing it because they did a fantastic job and that program would not have been as successful or happened without those folks. I can't emphasize that enough. They did an amazing job."

In a separate effort to help local businesses affected by the pandemic, the city issued three rounds of Restart Rochelle grants totaling $278,500 from the local CURES grant award that covered operating costs that businesses incurred while closed.

Tents and outdoor heaters were also purchased and street closures were offered with local ordinances changed to expand outdoor seating to help businesses. To help families in need during the pandemic, the city expanded RMU's utility assistance program, delayed utility shut offs and eliminated late fees.

Fiegenschuh said the success of the Shop Local program has changed the city's outlook on programs like it and he hopes to offer something along the same lines, but scaled down, in the future. Initial conversations have already been had, the city manager said. A future iteration wouldn't involve RMU and would not extend outside the city limits.

"I don't know how we'll do it, but it will probably be centered around if you spend so much, you can get a gift card at a local business or something like that,"Fiegenschuh said. "Certainly we do want to partner with the chamber and some other local groups to do another shop local program. I think it's important. But it won't be to the scale it was before and it won't be through the RMU. And next time it will only be geared toward the city and our corporate limits."

Local columnists are disappearing Why invest in from opinion pages Rochelle?

was asked an interesting question last week, and I am sharing it with you, friendly readers.

I ran into Dale Meyers, who serves on the GREDCO board. I asked why Amazon opted for DeKalb instead of Rochelle and he said

Amazon never approached Rochelle, and it was a surprise to everyone when they chose DeKalb.

Dale then asked me a question, and I am going to ask you.

You are talking to the head of a Fortune 500 company willing to invest hundreds of millions of dollars into a facility in Rochelle.

What is one thing you would say to that person to convince them to locate here?

Dale and I talked for a few minutes and bounced around some ideas on what to say, and now it is your turn to voice your thought.

Remember: One thing you would say to a representative of a large company looking for new location. Send your one idea to me at terrydickow@gmail. com and I will run as many of the responses as I can. Please make sure you include your name.

Who knows, maybe there will even be a reward for your answer. Maybe.

lot, but I also learned Duke Ellington played there! That is pretty cool. Those were fun times, indeed.

Winter

This "winter" had to be tough on folks who plow driveways. I have only had mine done three times so > normal. And I the last time I could see grass for most of February.

I have never seen a winter Olympics here they had to make all the snow. To me that is a huge waste of water. One article I read said it was enough water to supply 900 million people with six glasses of water in a day,

At the previous two winter games, artificial snow was also used, but not to the extent it has been used in China. Seems to me Winter Olympics should be held in places where there is natural snow normally found at this time of year.

But with the climate changing, maybe that will be an impossible task.

VOICE ON THE STREET

HILLuciano, perhaps Illinois' best newspaper columnist, hung up his fedora at the Peoria Journal-Star and left the newspaper business.

I've known Phil for 35 years and have long admired his writing. We were once classmates in a graduate program at Sangamon State University back when "Big Jim" Thompson was in the Governor's Mansion and Ronald Reagan in the White House.

He's spent the last 34 years writing for the Peoria Journal-Star and now is working for the local public television affiliate. I'm happy for my friend but sad to see another columnist's byline disappear.

Phil left the paper about three weeks ago. Unfortunately, departures like his are all too common in the newspaper business. In the last year alone, the faces of Mary Schmich, Dahleen Glanton, Steve Chapman, Heidi Stevens, Eric Zorn and John Kass have disappeared from the Chicago Tribune.

In 2020, Bernie Schoenburg and Doug Finke retired from the State Journal-Register and Chuck Sweeney at the Rockford Register-Star died. In 2018, Bill Wundram ended his tenure at the Quad-City Times.

The financial troubles of daily newspapers are not a secret. Papers have had to cut back to stay afloat. Staff cuts are never pretty whether done with buyouts, layoffs or natural attrition.

Newspaper editors, publishers whoever makes those decisions - see columnists or columns as a luxury that they can't afford anymore. I think that that's unfortunate," Luciano said.

Local columnists are sinews that bind a community together and build loyalty with a newspaper's readers. But they are disappearing.

"We were the gravy on the mashed potatoes, and they don't need the gravy anymore. They're happy to just give the mashed potatoes," said Wundram, who wrote for the Quad-City Times and its predecessor newspapers for 74 years.

He was a master of his craft. He wrote seven columns a week for almost four decades. His name and face became synonymous with the newspaper. When I was a young reporter working with him, folks across the community would ask me if I knew Wundram.

Back in the day, his advice to young reporters like me was straight forward: "There is no news in the newsroom."

In an interview Feb. 13, Wundram added, "It's very difficult to get anything, just sitting at a desk. You have to work and talk to people: little people and big people. Funny people. All shapes and sizes. And I deal greatly with people."

And I should add a good columnist should occasionally make readers uncomfortable.

Wundram said he remembers standing by the graveside of a local soldier being buried during World War II. (He started at the newspaper in 1944.) No one else from the community showed up for the burial.

He wrote a piece shaming the community for failing to honor a local son who had made the ultimate sacrifice for his nation.

Peoria's Luciano said a columnist is in a position to make change.

"If you are going to bat for someone the goal shouldn't always be to raise a ruckus – or blow things up. It should be about finding a way to help people. ... A columnist, if he is doing his job, should be out talking to ordinary Joes and Janes and be their advocate."

When I talked to my friends Phil and Bill, it was clear that column writing was their calling. It was what they were meant to do with their lives.

I've been writing a weekly newspapercolumn for about 20 years. At first, it wasn't something I really wanted to do. But Jerry Taylor the former publisher of The Daily Dispatch and Rock Island Argus was persistent. At first, he suggested I write a weekly column. I told him I wasn't interested. I liked writing straight news pieces and had no desire to write opinion. He kept needling me and I kept demurring. Finally, he ordered me to write a weekly column.

I didn't like writing it at first. But he was a good teacher and slowly what I once viewed as a chore became a favorite part of the job.

As a teenager, I loved reading Chicago newspaper columnist Mike Royko.

His newspaper columns dripped with sarcasm and wit. He was always fighting for the underdog and sticking it to those in power. His columns brought to light corruption in Chicago City Hall. the Illinois Capitol and various places across the map.

But the most important thing he did was give voice to the voiceless.

When I was in college, I remarked on how much I loved the Des Moines Register's opinion page and my father. who was a bit of a curmudgeon, huffed "What's the point of an opinion page?

I replied that it was to expose people to various points of view. To this day, I love reading columns from across the political spectrum. Why? Well, it's important to understand differing opinions and every once in a while I'll read something so well-reasoned that I decide to change my viewpoint

We now live in a Fox News/MS-NBC society where increasingly people are choosing to only pay attention to commentary they agree with.

What's the point of that?

I for one, love to read a newspaper opinion page with a variety of views. Good columnists may not get you to change your mind, but they can get you to think.

And in an increasingly thoughtless society, can we ask for anything more?

CITY: Fiegenschuh discusses supply chain impacts on Rochelle

"And now they're exceeding the engineer's estimate.'

About 3.5 years ago, the city council issued about $4.5 million in alternate revenue bonds to fund infrastructure projects. A lot of street and storm sewer work projects started before pandemic price increases started to be seen. The city manager said that was a stroke of luck for the city, but changes have negatively impacted it since.

Fiegenschuh said notable impacts have been seen in the water, wastewater and electric departments. The biggest effect has been in lead times. Rochelle Municipal Utilities Superintendent of Electric Operations Blake Toliver told Fiegenschuh last week that new pad mount electrical transformers have lead times of over two years now.

"If you don't have an outage, it doesn't matter," Fiegenschuh said. "But if a storm comes through and you have eight pad mount transformers and the storm takes out eight of them and you use all the ones in storage and have none left in inventory and it takes two years to get them, it can be extremely scary."

Planning has become imperative in dealing with lead times and supply chain issues. Fiegenschuh said Toliver has ordered a few rebuilt transformers that have shorter lead times of less than a year. When he needed cable for an ongoing substation project, Toliver called around to

City Manager Jeff Fiegenschuh said notable impacts have been seen in the water, wastewater and electric departments. The biggest effect has been in lead times. other communities and bought extra cable from them when it couldn't be ordered and received in time.

"You become inventive and try to find ways to get stuff done," Fiegenschuh said. "We look for ways to either get rebuilt equipment or go to other communities that might have excess inventory and see if they'll sell some of it."

In the water and wastewater departments, the city has seen prices and lead times increase on piping for water main installments. When it did a storm sewer inlet project in town, it saw price increases for storm sewer tiles and joints.

The lead time on two dump trucks purchased by the city council at last week's meeting is a year. The city utilizes a service for its smaller vehicle fleet where new vehicles are rotated in and replace outdated models it owns. That has made dealing with supply chain issues in that specific area easier over the past two years.

Fiegenschuh said due to the current economic situation, time isn't wasted in the process of bringing a purchase before the city council to be approved, especially with larger things like transformer purchases and anything related to infrastructure.

"Now, it's just, 'OK, well we know something might be two years out and the project isn't slated for a year and a half, but maybe if we can get it, we should be looking at purchasing it now,"" Fiegenschuh said. "It's on a case-by-case basis, but we certainly keep our eyes open more often now for equipment and things like that that we might need for future projects because we don't know when it'll be available."

Any time the city does a capital project, its engineer or a contracted engineer puts a price estimate together. Higher costs due to the past two years have already been noticed. An example Fiegenschuh used was a street construction that used to cost $500,000 being in the ballpark of $750,000 now.

There have always been inflationary increases each year on purchases for the city, but Fiegenschuh said those haven't compared to the increases of the past two years.

"It's more or less just preparing yourself and your elected officials for the fact that the costs have gone up," Fiegenschuh said. "You have two options. You either pay the additional cost or you don't do the project. The mayor and council have been very studious with those tax dollars and did projects up front and got them done before the pandemic even happened. I can't even imagine what some of those street reconstruction projects would have cost if we were doing them now instead of doing them two years ago."

The city utilizes a 20year capital improvement plan to organize projects and how it will pay for them. The city manager hopes as the pandemic starts to fade away, inflationary pressures will rescind, and supply chains will normalize.

"And what we'll do then is, we have to refigure and reprioritize what needs to bedone first,"Fiegenschuh said. "Whatever that is, in any department. As a city, we only have so much money to work with and you just reprioritize and do what you can with funding.'

LOCAL NEWS HEART: RCH helps cardiac patient recover from heart attack

It just took me a second to get my mind straight and realize that. I was praying the whole time and just remembering what I'm supposed to do and thankfully I did. We have him now to show that it works."

Martinson had a stent put in at OSF St. Anthony and woke up and started his recovery afterwards. He was 43 years old at the time. He's 44 now.

After a couple of days, Martinson asked a cardiologist why his heart attack happened. He was told he didn't have high blood pressure, cholesterol, blood sugar or anything that would be a symptom of it. His heart had a 30 percent blockage, but action isn't taken unless somebody has at least an 85 percent blockage, he said.

"The cardiologist said, 'We're just going to chalk it up to bad luck.""Martinson said. "I was like, 'How does that happen?' He said what happened was, a piece of that plaque broke off, and when it did, my body went into some type of attack mode and formed a blood clot over it thinking it was a scab. And the blood clot blocked it 100 percent. I don't have any family history of it. Now I'm in physical therapy and on five different medications."

Martinson said he's had trouble coming to terms with the medical event due to being at a young age and in good health. Since his heart attack, he's been in RCH's Cardiac Rehabilitation program to get his strength and endurance built back up. He's there three times a week.

"When I first started here, they told me I was going to get frustrated, which I did," Martinson said. "They knew I wasn't going to be able to do the things I thought I should be able to do. I was walking baby steps on the treadmill and still not sure on my feet. They reassured me that everything was going to be OK, but I was going to have to take my time."

Martinson said his outlook on life has changed since his heart attack. Even though he felt like he was in good health before it, he's more cautious. He takes his time while trying to get tasks done. He's changed his eating habits. He's exercising more, even if he's only able to in small increments for now.

Most importantly, Martinson said he cherishes his family and loved ones more now.

"The biggest thing we sit and talk about every night is, just make sure that you never leave anything unsaid," Martinson said. "Cherish the things you have and don't take things for granted. I cherish my family a lot more now than I did before. Not that I didn't cherish them before, but I thought I had 40 more years with them. I almost had 40 years taken away from me."

Dealing with anxiety and aches and pains has been a struggle for Martinson since the event. Every time something feels off, he thinks it's another heart attack. His cardiologist has told him that anxiety will pass over time, but also told Martinson he can never be too safe.

Martinson said before late October, he was the type of person that would put off going to the doctor if something small felt off. His advice to others after his situation is to do the opposite of that.

"Go to the doctor," Martinson said. "Because I was a person that never went to the doctor. Go for a physical every year. Go have regular checkups. Don't ignore aches and pains. Because I did, and if I would have ignored it any more, I wouldn't be sitting here."

After getting Martinson to OSF St. Anthony in late October, James called the hospital and was glad to know he was out of surgery and doing well.

"He actually came back to say thank you when he was discharged from the hospital about a week later," James said. "It's very emotional to see he's doing well and his family is too."

Martinson has enjoyed doing cardiac rehab at the hospital that helped him initially when he had his heart attack.

"I just can't say enough about the staff here," Martinson said. "The rehab staff has been great. But the emergency room staff, I can't thank them enough. I think more people should give this hospital a chance because I'm living proof of the quality of care they can give you until you can get to a bigger hospital."

The Rochelle Community Hospital Cardiac Rehabilitation Program is an exercise and education program designed for each individual who has a diagnosed heart condition. The program is typically 18-36 sessions that meets early mornings on Monday, Wednesday and Fridays. It is a medically supervised program with telemetry monitoring your heart while exercising. It is covered by most insurance plans and needs a physician referral/ prescription to participate. The goal is to help each patient become stronger and healthier. ROCHELLE — One win stood between the Rochelle Hub varsity basketball team and a share of the Interstate 8 Conference title. That win was on the line Wednesday evening, when Rochelle hosted the

RTHS Girls Basketball Rochelle season ends in IHSA 3A Regional Semis Lady Hubs finish with 15-17 overall record after 66-31 loss against Sycamore

BY RUSSELL HODGES

SPORTS EDITOR

ROCHELLE — The Rochelle Lady Hub varsity basketball team ran into a buzz saw when the topseeded Sycamore Spartans came to town for the IHSA 3A Rochelle Regional Semifinals on Monday.

Despite a strong effort against Plano in the quarterfinal round, Rochelle was outmatched by the Spartans, who exploded for a 21-2 run to open the semifinal matchup and showed why they're the fourth-ranked team in the state with a 66-31 victory over the Lady Hubs. Senior Lucy Bunger scored eight points to lead Rochelle (15-17, 7-7 Interstate 8) in the loss, while senior Josie Lundquist added seven points on offense.

"Our seniors worked really hard over the last four years and it really paid off for them," head coach Ryan McQuade said. "The way our girls were able to buy in this season, especially considering they'd have a new coach with a new program... It's not ideal for the seniors, but it shows the kind of character they have and I'm so excited and proud that I had the opportunity to coach them. I'm looking forward to their futures."

Sycamore flustered the Lady Hubs with its fullcourt pressure on defense, deflecting several inbounds passes and forcing multiple traps that led directly to turnovers and easy layups for the Spartans. Sycamore's Faith Feuerbach shined in the half-court setting, drilling six 3-pointers in the game and using her perimeter shooting to attack off the dribble. Feuerbach led all scorers with 29 points in the semifinal game.

"There's a lot of talent on that club," McQuade said. "If I were a betting man, I'd put money on them winning the state title this year. They're incredibly well coached and I've seen them three times this season. They're a tough team to beat... What I've told our girls is this is where we want to be in the future. We want to be the team like Sycamore that's competing for regional and sectional titles every year. The only way we can do that is through hard work during the offseason. That's where championship teams are made."

The Spartans also looked for 6-foot-4 forward Evyn Carrier, who responded with nine of her 10 points in the first half to increase the Sycamore lead. Despite the tough start, Rochelle kept pace with the Spartans over the second and third quarters, trailing 44-20 at halftime and 59-29 after three quarters. Sophomore Alivia Henkel totaled six points, while seniors Zoey Tabor and Adriannah Davis-Carter each finished with four.

OCHELLE student-athlete Owen Haas remembers visiting the Carlson Ice Arena in Rockford with his family for open skate sessions when he was in elementary school. Those open skates were where Haas first developed an interest for playing hockey and after a brief conversation with his father Chris, Owen began playing hockey in third grade before joining the Rockford Roadrunners Hockey

I've met a lot of new people throughout my time playing hockey and I'm really glad for that. After finishing 13-2 over 15 games of league competition, Rockford earned the No. 1 seed for the tournament, winning a three-game series against the Peoria Jr. Mustangs to reach the championship game. "My dad and I have always gone out and played tennis for fun," Haas said. "My coaches are the main reason why I've improved so much. I've learned that there's always someone competing to take another player's spot and we have to compete for our spots on the varsity team. If I don't compete during practice and during matches, then someone else will move up and take my spot. I think the skills that I've developed throughout my time playing hockey have definitely helped me a lot on the tennis court.

Haas currently plays right wing for the Roadrunners, but he originally played defense when he first joined the club in sixth grade. His favorite NHL athlete is Alexander Ovechkin, who's scored over 750 goals and recorded over 600 assists as a left wing for the Washington Capitals. Throughout his hockey career, Haas has developed many skills including hand-eye coordination, lateral movement and muscle memory.

Those same skills are what have helped Haas make an immediate impact with the Rochelle Hub varsity tennis team. Despite not playing tennis as a freshman, Haas went out for the team as a sophomore, following the footsteps of his father who played tennis in high school. Haas quickly proved his ability to compete, becoming a varsity starter at No.

Haas is one of eight players who could return to a varsity team that didn't lose a single senior during the 2020-21 season, which was postponed to the summer due to COVID-19. Now a junior at Rochelle Township High School, Haas said his goals are to compete for a No. 1 doubles spot or even a starting spot in singles.

"I hope I can move up to No. 1 doubles this year," Haas said. "I'd like to improve on our third-place finish at No. 2 doubles and win the conference title wherever I'm playing. I'd like to advance further in the sectional tournament and possibly make the state tournament. With everybody coming back to the team this season, I think we definitely have a chance to win the conference championship as a team."

"I had a smaller defender on me and that made it easier for me to score," Lager said. "I was able to get into the lane consistently and make some shots. It feels great knowing that we're the first team in 10 years to win a conference championship. It's amazing and I think we have a really good basketball team. I think we can make a run in the postseason and I think with our energy, we're capable of winning a regional title."

Simmons and Kemp shined in the third quarter for Rochelle, with Simmons sinking a pair of triples from the right elbow while finishing a trio of soft-touch shots around the rim for 12 of his 18 points in the win. Kemp converted his third 3-pointer of the night in the third quarter before adding his team-high fourth triple in the fourth quarter to finish with 15 points. The Hubs scored at least 25 points in each of the last three quarters.

"It's a really special moment for us because we've dreamt about this all season," Kemp said. "We got it together during the second half of the season and we went on a big run. We wanted to keep running up and down the floor throughout the game because we wanted to get them fatigued. I thought we tired them out and we went on a big run at the end. We have a tough regional coming up, but we've already seen a few of the teams we could be facing and we just need to come together with a solid game plan for what's next."

Byron The Rochelle Hub varsity basketball team used its superior size and a balanced offensive attack to take down the Byron Tigers during a nonconference matchup on the road Tuesday evening.

Seven Rochelle athletes totaled at least five points including senior Noah Brown, who led the Hubs with 13 points and three 3-pointers made as Rochelle cruised over Byron 71-53. Junior forward Raul Aguirre was the team's go-to scorer down low, finishing with 12 points on five low-post baskets and a pair of free throws.

"We've faced bigger teams this season, but we didn't want to take this lightly because we have a tough schedule coming up," Aguirre said. "I was able to get it going tonight and I felt their center playing on my back for basically the whole game. My guards did a great job of getting their bounce passes inside and coach [Jared] Johnson has been working with me on holding my position in the post and staying patient when I get the ball. They had a lot of smaller guards reaching for the ball, but I avoided turning it over."

Brown drilled two triples to fuel the Rochelle offense in the first quarter, while sophomore Eli Luxton stepped up off the bench with a trio of aggressive drives to the hoop for all six of his points in the win. The Hubs (19-10, 10-3 Interstate 8) looked for Aguirre during the second quarter, where the 6-foot-4 forward backed down Byron's interior defenders for a pair of low-post baskets.

Rochelle led the Tigers 37-26 at halftime.

"We've been so successful over the last several weeks because we've really been playing for each other," Aguirre said. "We knew we had a chance to win the conference title this season and we've been playing with a lot of confidence. We've assisting on a lot more of our shots and we're playing team basketball."

The Hubs continued growing their lead in the third quarter, where Rochelle held Byron's Jordan Croegaert without a single point after Croegaert scored nine points on four field goals in the first half. The Hubs showcased their depth in the fourth quarter, with eight different players scoring points including senior Adam Kemp, who nailed his second 3-pointer of the evening to finish with 10 points. Senior Ryan Simmons recorded nine points and senior Cooper Hasz added eight points for the Hubs in the nonconference victory.

"We have to lock in over this final stretch and these last few weeks of practice are really important," Aguirre said. "Our season's almost over but we have to continue working hard in practice and focus on our goals."

HOLLYWOOD by Tony Rizzo

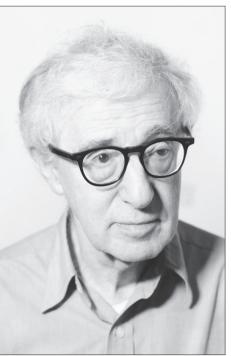

HOLLYWOOD -- Here we go again. In this age of cancel culture, we now have a new one to contemplate. In 1812 the Brothers Grimm published their book of fairy tales. The 52nd story was German tale called "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." In 1938, Disney's animated "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" (released by RKO Pictures) became a classic loved by young and old, and a box-office bonanza. The Library of Congress selected it as one of the first 25 films for preservation in the National Film Registry.

Flash forward to 2022, when Disney announced plans to make a live-action "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" with "West Side Story's" Rachel Zegler (Maria), and "Wonder Woman's" Gal Gadot as the wicked queen with a poison apple. The reboot has new songs by Benj Pasek and Justin Paul. Disney proudly announced, "To avoid stereotypes from the original animated film we are taking a different approach with seven characters and have been consulting with members of the dwarfism community."

That may make some people happy, but one who isn't is "Game of Thrones" and current "Cyrano" star Peter Dinklage, who chastised Disney saying, "I was a little taken aback when they were very proud to cast a Latina actress as Snow White. Take a step back and look at what you're doing there. You're progressive in one way, and you're still making that f--king backwards story about seven dwarfs living in a cave together. What the f--k are you doing, man? Have I done nothing to advance the cause from my soapbox?"

While we respect Dinklage's right to object to what he calls stereotyping, should the story of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," not based in reality but on a 200-year-old fairy tale, vanish from our consciousness and never be told again?

Another ongoing cancel culture story involves director Woody Allen, who is trying to recover from the four-part HBO documentary "Allen v. Farrow," which aired in 2021 and caused a slew of actors to say they'll never work with him again. His 50th film, "Rifkin's Festival," stars Wallace Shawn, Gina Gershon and two-time Oscar winner Christoph Waltz. Shot in San Sebastian, Spain, it is based around San Sebastian International Film Festival. While it's grossed $2 million overseas, they haven't found a distributor yet in the United States.

Sally Field, who hasn't made a movie since 2017 (Netflix's "Little Evil" with Adam Scott), has just completed her 38th film "Spoiler Alert," based on the bestseller "Spoiler Alert: The Hero Dies: A Memoir of Love, Loss & Other Four Letter Words." She's in good hands with co-star and co-producer Jim Parsons. No release date yet. Who ever thought the "Flying Nun" would still be flying high at 75?

Selena Gomez, Steve

Martin and Martin

Short in "Only Murders in the Building"

Q: I thought Selena Gomez did a great job opposite Martin Short and Steve Martin in their new series. Is this her first acting role as an adult? I remember when she was few more months of creative planning will only benefit the show in the long run, which is about a country music dynasty starring Susan Sarandon ("Dead Man Walking"). It has the on Disney. -- Z.P.

A: When the "Wizards of Waverly Place" ended on the Disney Channel in 2012, Selena Gomez quickly branched out into more adult roles in films like "Spring Breakers." She also recorded several hit songs and did voice work in "Hotel Transylvania" and its sequels. She's also made her mark behind the scenes as an executive producer for several of her projects. Starring opposite comedy legends Martin Short and Steve MartininHulu's"OnlyMurdersintheBuilding" is her smartest move yet.

Q: What happened to the new show "Monarch"starring Susan Sarandon and TraceAdkins? It was supposed to premiere on Jan. 30. -- L.D.

A: Unfortunately, viewers will have to wait until the fall 2022 season for the highly anticipated series"Monarch."It was supposed to premiere on Fox right after the NFC Championship game in January, but due to the rise in COVID cases, the network chose to postpone it, likely not wanting to shut down production in the middle of filming its first season.

Another factor in its delay could be the fact that there was a creative change behind the scenes in November. The original showrunner, Michael Rauch, was replaced by Jon Feldman, which resulted in reshoots of several scenes. Having a makings of a hit, so it should be worth the wait.

Q: Was there ever a TV show about a family that had a winery before the new one called "Promised Land?" If so, what year was it on? -- L.K.

A: The first dramas I recall of that genre was "Falcon Crest," which aired for nine seasons on CBS beginning in 1981. It starred Jane Wyman as the head of the Channing family and Robert Foxworth as the Gioberti family patriarch.

"Promised Land" is a new ABC drama about a Latinx family that spans generations in Sonoma Valley. Itstars John Ortiz ("Messiah") and Cecilia Suarez ("The House of Flowers"). According to MediaVillage.com, "Promised Land'is filled to the brim with scandal, betrayal, love and lust."

The OWN network recently premiered "The Kings of Napa" with the tagline "Family Secrets Never Stay Bottled Up." It's about an African American family whose patriarch leaves the wine biz, resulting in a battle among his children for control of the family business. It stars Isiah Whitlock Jr. ("The Wire") and Ebonee Noel ("Wrecked").

There's also "Uncorked" over on Netflix, which stars Courtney B. Vance ("American Crime Story") as a father who owns a barbecue joint but whose son wants to become a sommelier instead of following in Dad's footsteps.

Lindenwood native helps ag students gain real-life skills

Hintzsche now teaching ag studies at Streator Township High School

BY KAY SHIPMAN FARMWEEK

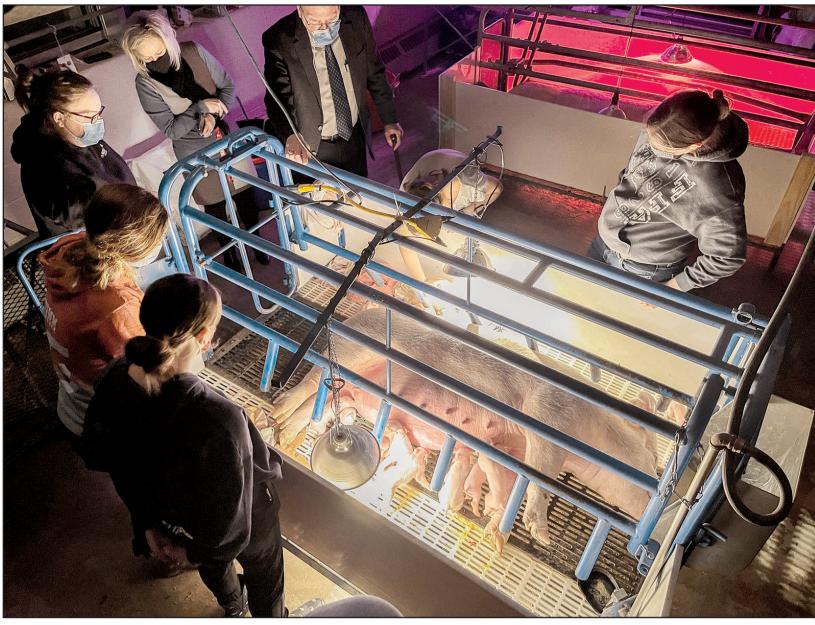

STREATOR — Two sows are teaching Streator Township High School ag students and many other people, including 4,800 Think OINK fans on Facebook.

For a sixth year, agriculture teacher Riley Hintzsche, a Lindenwood native and Rochelle Township High School graduate, is providing agriscience students hands-on lessons about hog production from artificial insemination to farrowing to moving weaned pigs from the school's temporary nursery. By providing their sows, Mark and Sara Mitchell of Brockman Farms are also educating others about the pork industry.

"The Think OINK project has taught me real-life skills by showing us how a pig is born and teaching us how to care for a pig, how to keep a pig healthy and keep it alive," said Zach Walkling, an agriscience student.

This year, students are comparing experiences with two sows for the first time and learning about animal differences as well as a variety of lessons. But the images and lessons about animal husbandry and livestock care extend far beyond the school grounds.

Over the years, the sow celebrities have drawn visits from school board members, administrators

she and her husband value the opportunity to teach young people and demonstrate the work and care needed to raise hogs. "Everyone in the pork industry has a way to impact the live-stock industry," she said, adding that Think OINK has been their chance to represent the industry "even though we're a small, niche producer."

In September, Hintzsche's 16 students, mostly sophomores, helped artificially inseminate a sow on Brockman Farms. A second sow later joined the project. About a week before the pigs' due date, they were moved into the school's greenhouse that was transformed into a nursery by the students. Since arriving in January, student ag teacher Gwen Heimerdinger has witnessed excitement among students, faculty and the community.

"This project brings exposure to students that may have never touched a pig, while at the same time, teaching the real-life decisions pork producers have to make on their farms," Heimerdinger said.

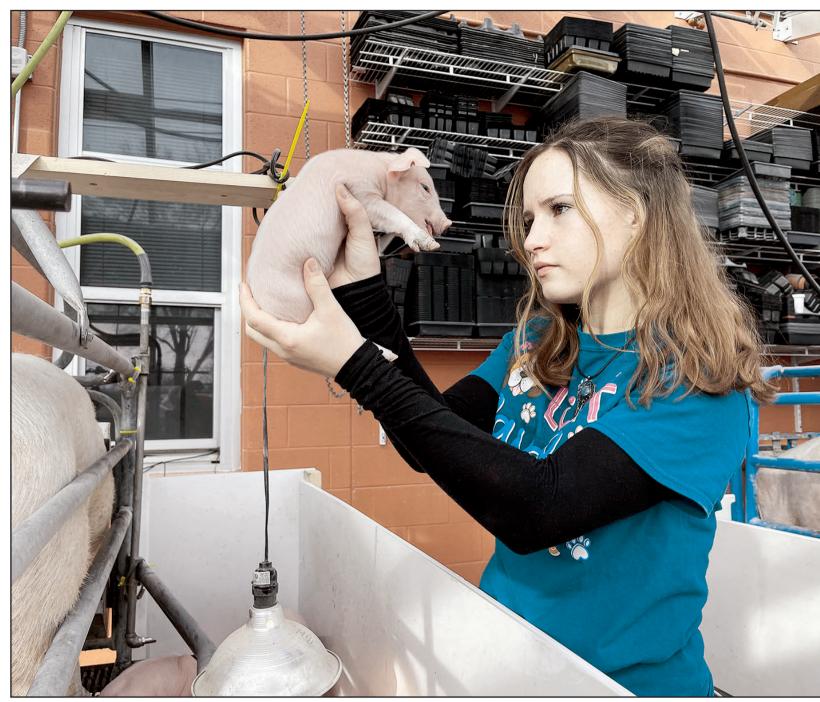

The pigs "draw a new audience for us" and help recruit students to study ag, said Hinztsche, a 2021 National Teach Ag Champion, one of only three across the U.S.

To share responsibilities for the sows and their litters, the students divide work among spatial, feeding, cleaning and piglet committees. Just as on a farm, extra jobs pop up. Students stepped up to bottle feed three pigs that weren't thriving among one sow's initial litter of 18.

The class will wean the pigs at three to four weeks before returning them to Brockman Farms at four to five weeks of age.

In the interim, Mitchell and Hintzsche help students learn about processing piglets. While students handle tasks like notching ears, a local veterinarian castrates the animals, Mitchell explained.

When Think OINK was new, Facebook posts surfaced thousands and thousands of questions and comments, including negative ones, according to Hintzsche. "Now a lot ofquestions and comments come from people who have watched for years," Hintzsche said. "Maybe some who were against it are now advocates because they've seen the care (given to the pigs) and understand."

Mitchell continued: "Now we have an army of educated students. They have posted the animals are stress free because they are well cared for, and they refute negative comments." If an ag student wants to own a pig, the Mitchells work with that individual. "We've had students get Think OINK pigs who never had ag before," she said. "Some were successful, and others learned pigs are a lot of work and didn't repeat that again." Think OINK has also benefitedBrockmanFarms. Mitchell said they gained customers who bought pork directly from their operation and were able to connect consumers with other local hog farms.

For ag students like

Walkling, knowledge is the biggest reward. "This project has taught me so many different things to use in the real world," he said, "and I am so grateful to have two awesome teachers (Hintzsche and Heimerdinger) who give us the opportunities to do things like this."
