Congressional redistricting plan clears General Assembly

By PETER HANCOCK & JERRY NOWICKI Capitol News Illinois

news@capitolnewsillinois.com

SPRINGFIELD – Illinois lawmakers

gave final approval in the early hours of Friday morning to a new congressional redistricting plan that divides the state into 17 districts, one fewer than it currently has due to its loss of population since the 2010 U.S. Census.

It was the fourth draft plan that legislative Democrats had proposed over the previous two weeks, and it was introduced to the public after 7 p.m.

Like earlier versions, it collapses two southern Illinois districts into a single district while carving up much of downstate Illinois into a number of oddly-shaped districts that put cities as far apart as East St. Louis and Champaign into one district, with Bloomington and Rockford linked in another.

"This will be the most gerrymandered map in the country," Sen. Don DeWitte, R-St. Charles, said during floor debate. "And this process will be used as the poster child for why politicians should never be allowed to draw their own maps."

But Senate President Don Harmon, D-Oak Park, who carried the bill on the floor of the Senate, defended the maps, saying, "I'm here to stand behind the work we've done."

"We've shown our maps to the public. We have presented them in hearing after hearing after hearing. We have refined them based on the input that we've gotten. And I'm proud of this map," he said.

Most of the legislative wrangling over the past two weeks, however, centered on Chicago and the collar counties, and pressure from within the Democratic caucus to create a second largely-Latino district because of the rapid population growth within that community over the past 10 years.

Illinois' congressional delegation is currently divided 13-5 in favor of Democrats. Independent analysts, including the nonpartisan Princeton Gerrymandering Project, have estimated that earlier iterations of the plan would give Democrats as many as 14 seats, and Republicans as few as three.

If that holds true, it could have national implications because Democratic congressional leaders are looking to states like Illinois and New York to help offset losses they expect to take in states where Republicans control the redistricting process.

The redistricting plan passed the Senate on a straight party line vote, 41-18. It passed the House nearly on a party line vote, 71-43, losing two Democratic votes.

Rep. Kelly Cassidy, D-Chicago, did not vote on the remap proposal. The lone Democratic "no" vote came from Rep. Angelica Guerrero-Cuellar, who was appointed to the 22nd state legislative district in Chicago to replace former House Speaker Michael Madigan, who resigned earlier this year.

Guerrero-Cuellar said on the floor that Guerrero-Cuellar said on the floor that she remained upset about how the 22nd District was reshaped during the legislative redistricting process in August. "And there was something done to that district intentionally to exclude Latinos and that representation," she said. "So when someone tells me, 'Hey, we're here to represent the Latinos on the southwest side,' I'm gonna say, hold on. That was not the case."

The maps passed after a long day of legislative action during which it appeared rifts in the supermajority Democratic caucus might derail the proposal.

Just before 5 p.m. Thursday, House Re-

Just before 5 p.m. Thursday, House Redistricting Committee Chair Lisa Hernandez, D-Cicero, declined an interview request with Capitol News Illinois, noting she was working with fellow lawmakers.

"I don't know yet," she responded when asked if she thought the maps would have the votes to pass Thursday.

The maps needed three-fifths majorities to pass due to a clause in the Illinois Constitution that states any bill passed after May 31 cannot take effect until June 1 of the following year if it does not reach that threshold.

Democrats account for more than the 71 votes needed in the 118-member House, and 36 needed in the 59-member Senate, but bringing them all together proved an elusive task for much of the day.

The draft of the maps that eventually passed Thursday was largely similar to previous versions, except that it moved 3rd District incumbent Rep. Marie Newman, D-La Grange, into a district with Rep. Jesus "Chuy" Garcia, D-Chicago, into a reshaped 4th District.

Garcia's current district has been described as the "ear muffs" district, or a C-shaped district, because it stretches from southwest Chicago westward to Westchester and Hillside, then northward along a narrow strip to the Northlake area, then back east along Chicago's north side.

That district is being reshaped in a way.

That district is being reshaped in a way that lops off part of the northern strip and forms a new 3rd District, which would be Illinois' second Latino influence district. It stretches from the north side of Chicago westward to an area that includes portions of West Chicago and Elgin.

In southern Illinois, which saw the most dramatic population declines since the 2010 census, Republican Reps. Mike Bost, of Murphysboro, and Mary Miller, of Oakland, would be paired together in a new 12th District. In central Illinois, Republican Reps. Darin LaHood, of Peoria, and Adam Kinzinger, of Channahon, would face each other in a 16th District primary.

Unlike the Wednesday map, the latest version left Democratic Rep Sean Casten, of Downers Grove, uncontested in the 6th District primary. Newman was drawn into that district in the Wednesday version, but was moved into Garcia's district in Thursday's map.

Some people who spoke during Thursday's hearing expressed disappointment with the latest draft, including residents of what is currently the 3rd District on Chicago's southwest side.

In 2020, Newman edged out then-incumbent Rep. Daniel Lipinski in the Democratic primary in that district and went on to win the general election. The latest proposal, like both other drafts before it, would put much of that district into a new 6th District.

William Beaulieu and Clare Duggan, both members of a group called Coalition for Change IL3, said that group was formed, in part, to unite the diverse communities and bring about change in the 3rd District.

Members of that coalition have testified at nearly every public hearing about new congressional maps since the hearings began in early August, and Duggan said many of them had submitted their own proposed maps through the Democratic caucuses' mapmaking web portals.

Despite that, Duggan said, while the latest draft would keep more of the current 3rd District intact than previous iterations, significant parts of the district would be broken off into other districts.

Under questioning from Republican senators, Harmon said the proposal was based on "the totality" of input that legislative leaders received from the public as well as other sources, including private communications with staff from various congressional offices. "We are not obviously adopting one person's map and presenting it as our own," Harmon said. "We are taking input from all sources and it is reflected in the maps presented to the Senate."

ally on Oct. 28, Western Governors University (WGU) is launching a new scholarship to show appreciation for first responders - including EMTs, police officers, firefighters, corrections officers and others - who have demonstrated unprecedented selflessness and commitment in serving area communities as they carried out their duties throughout the COVID-19 pandemic. The fully online, nonprofit university plans to award up to $80,000 in scholarships to area first responders – and their spouses – who are interested in furthering their education.

Each "First Responder Appreciation Scholarship" is valued at up to $4,000 per student and will be applied at a rate of $1,000 per term for up to four terms. The scholarships are available for new students enrolled in any of WGU's more than 60 degree programs in business, information technology, K-12 teacher education and health professions, including nursing. The scholarship application is available at www. wgu.edu/firstresponders and will be open through June

"First responders make countless sacrifices on a daily basis to protect our communities, uphold the law and save lives," said Dr. Angie Besendorfer, Regional Vice President of Western Governors University.

Designed to meet the needs of busy adult learners, WGU uses a competency-based education approach to learning, enabling students to take advantage of their knowledge and experience to move quickly through material they already know so they can focus on what they still need to learn. The flexible format is perfect for those in full-time, demanding fields, like first responders.

PASTOR'S PEN

How blesses we are for the farming families and the harvested crops

BY PASTOR JOHN KALEBAUGH This time of the year we are reminded that we live in a farming community. It seems that as we drive for any length of time out into the surrounding countryside, we gaze at fields that have been harvested, or (hopefully) in process. And it reminds us how blessed we are for all the farming families we have in our area and all the hard work they do to produce and harvest their crops.

I also find it amazing how many times in Scripture that God used some aspect of farming to describe or illustrate a spiritual truth. He often used the example of planting seeds and harvesting the crops from those seeds. One such place in the Bible is found in John 12:23-36. Here Jesus uses the planting of a seed to foretell His own sacrificial death for our sins and the corresponding harvest to illustrate His resurrection and the birth of His church. He said, "... Unless a grain of wheat falls into the ground and dies, it remains alone; but if it dies, it produces much grain." Vs 24.

The "much grain" He is referring to here represents every true Christian that has ever lived. I would say that is a lot of grain! And we are eternally grateful for His sacrifice. But Jesus doesn't stop there. He goes on to call all Christians to follow His example. In vs 25 He says, "He who loves his life will lose it, and he who hates his life in this world will keep it for eternal life.'

What did He mean by this? Certainly, He is not saying that all of His followers will be crucified also? No, though many Christians have literally died for, and because of, their faith in Christ. And some still do. But this portion of Scripture is saying that in order to "follow" Him and His example we must choose to live our lives in a self-sacrificial way.

This would mean that we "die to ourselves." Our own self-centeredness, selfishness, pride... And the only way this can happen is if we willingly choose this path for our life... with God's help, of course. Giving up our self-centered hopes, dreams, desires, and aspirations. The need to be "noticed" for our good (or bad) deeds. Or to have things "my way". But instead replace this with the attitude which Christ maintained throughout His life and ministry as when He said in the Garden of Gethsemane, "...Not My will, but thine be done." Luke 22:42.

This attitude in life requires humility and trust that our Lord will cause "much grain" to be produced and multiplied through the sacrificial offering of our lives. That He will multiply it and make it something which is both powerful and beautiful.

And He does. There are many Christians the world over (and even in our local community) who are living their lives in humble service to God and their fellow man (neighbors). I bet if you think about it you will think of someone you know that is living-out this very Scripture before your eyes. Those who would never ask for "recognition" for their selfless service.

On the other hand, they don't need to. Because we can't help but "notice" them because their lives are "bearing much grain". And they serve as a human example to us. Be grateful for them. Perhaps even say a "prayer of thanks"

And, by all means, let their life serve as an inspiration to you, even as our Lord's life did. And, in the process, you can help make your little corner in the world a little better place too.

May God bless you.

Pastor John

The Marriage Plot

n Jeffrey Eugenides's "The Marriage Plot," an elderly

English professor tells his student Madeleine Hanna, who wants to do her honors thesis on the demise of the marriage plot in nineteenth century novels, "In the days when success in life had depended on marriage, and marriage had depended on money, novelists had had a subject to write about. The great epics sang of war, the novel of marriage. Sexual equality, good for women, had been bad for the novel. And divorce had undone it completely." He is wrong, of course. Plot is only one aspect of a novel. The psychological and emotional states of the characters are what count, then as now. The quality of the novel depends greatly on a writer's ability to see beyond the pretensions and delusions of the characters and in his or her ability to create the depth of character that sustains a good novel. Eugenides is a very fine writer who ostensibly follows the marriage plot – a beautiful young woman and her two suitors – but also subverts it to suit a twenty-first century novel. The story begins on graduation day 1982 at Brown University, an ivy league school. Madeleine is a striving English major from an upper-class family; Mitchell, who is hopelessly in love with Madeleine, is a religious scholar who travels to India to work with Mother Teresa; and Leonard, a gifted biology/philosophy student, is both arrogant and seductive and a manic-depressive. The novel moves back into the histories of the three characters and forward fourteen months when they struggle to remake themselves into adults. Madeleine falls hard for Leonard and wants Mitchell to be the close male friend she has always wanted. Mitchell goes off to travel the world and the novel follows both his physical and spiritual progress. Leonard, who is on lithium to control his manic-depressive episodes, is hospitalized on graduation day. When Madeleine hears the news, she skips graduation to be with him. They will stay together, as Leonard's illness worsens to the point of overwhelming him. Madeleine never leaves his side, devoting herself to keeping him safe. In one of Leonard's more lucid periods, they marry. But their honeymoon in Paris and Monte Carlo is a harrowing tale of Leonard's descent into psychosis.

When Mitchell returns to New York after a year, he accidentally meets Madeleine and Leonard at a party. The two men engage in a long, private conversation in which Leonard is perfectly clear-minded. As for Madeleine, "Seeing Mitchell had stirred up an emotion that she couldn't quite identify. It was as if she was excited and regretful at the same time.' Though the ending follows a twenty-first century plot line, it is nevertheless as true to the story and its characters as its nineteenth-century counterpart.

I looked into the mutt's shiny eyes and just shrugged.

A few months ago, my wife, a veterinarian, went into work on her day off to spay and neuter dogs from a local animal rescue.

Since I already had an obligation that morning, she took our 10-year-old daughter, Caitlin, along.

"We'll just put her in an empty exam room with the puppies awaiting surgery while I'm back in the operating room," she told me.

I cringed. Caitlin falls in love hard.

Beforehand, the two of us told her that we already had enough pets, and we weren't going to adopt another. She could play with the pups but none of them were going home with us.

Wishful thinking.

After spending a morning with one particular puppy she named "Johnny," Caitlin was smitten. My wife, Joan, caved first and said she could have him, "if Daddy says it's ok."

I then became the subject of a two-week-long lobbying campaign that would put any statehouse advocate to shame. Daily, sometimes hourly, Caitlin would present her case for why she needed that puppy. She even emailed me a Power-Point presentation on why the dog should join our family.

I kept thinking if I held out long enough, she would lose interest and somebody else would adopt the pooch.

But her ardor remained undiminished and nobody else wanted that mutt. So, I gave in. When I went to pick him up, the volunteer said they knew little about him other than he and his littermates were found abandoned and that she just felt sure he was a Labrador/Shepherd mix.

But after he came home, he didn't grow much, and he seemed far too small to be either of those large breeds. Every night he would curl up by the dinner table and we would debate his pedigree.

My sister in-law said she thought he was part Rhodesian ridgeback. My wife suggested pit bull. I just felt sure he was part coonhound. But Caitlin would give him a hug and just say, "I don't care."

The ongoing debate reminded me a bit of a journalism dilemma.

Typically, reporters covering a trial will describe a jury by its racial and ethnic composition.

Since reporters cannot talk to jurors during a trial, it becomes a guessing game. Is she Italian or Hispanic? Is he black or bi-racial? Is Juror No. 10 an Indian American? Or maybe he's Middle Eastern?

We live in a nation where identity is increasingly ambiguous.

A few years ago, I asked a Chinese-American friend and a Korean-American friend who they considered to be the most famous Asian American.

They both said: Tiger Woods. But its doubtful a stranger looking into a jury box would ascribe someone with Woods complexion that identity.

A few years ago, I took a DNA test and learned I was 99 % of European extraction and 1 % American Indian. Other than being able to brag that I may be more Native American than U.S. Sen. Elizabeth Warren, I'm not sure what that test accomplished.

Genetic tracking isn't limited to humans. One can send to a laboratory a sample of a dog's saliva and learn its genetic

So, after enduring multiple dinner-table debates about Johnny's pedigree, we mailed in a sample. The result: he's 17 different breeds.

He was only 1 percent Labrador and didn't have a drop of German Shepherd blood. And despite my speculation and my sister in law's there was no Rhodesian ridgeback or coonhound to be found in his lineage.

After hearing the results, Caitlin hugged her pup and said, "I don't care, I love him."

If only more people would view others that same way. Scott Reeder, a staff writer with Illinois Times, can be reached at: sreeder@illinoistimes.com.

State agencies remind residents to prepare for winter weather the entire year planning and preparing to keep you safe during

SPRINGFIELD - While the official start of winter is not for several weeks, the Illinois Emergency Management Agency (IEMA), Illinois Department of Labor (IDOL), Office of the State Fire Marshal (OSFM), Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) and the National Weather Service (NWS) are encouraging people to begin preparing now for extreme cold, snow and ice. "In Illinois, it's not a question of if, but rather when will snow, ice and sub-zero temperatures occur," said IEMA Director Alicia Tate-Nadeau. "Being unprepared for winter weather is not only inconvenient, but it can be dangerous."

White announces office is changing web address

SPRINGFIELD — Secretary of State Jesse White announced that the Illinois Secretary of State's office has changed its official web address from "cyberdriveillinois.com" to "ILSOS. gov." The change is designed to help combat fraud. A ".gov" website address designates it as an official government website, which is exclusively provided to federal, state and local government

"Changing the website address to ILSOS.gov will help combat fraud at a time when scams designed to defraud Illinoisans have been proliferating," said White. "Because the new address uses a .gov suffix, you can rest assured it belongs to a federal, state or local government agency – in this case the Illinois Secretary of State's office – which adds to your peace of mind when transacting business online with my office."

Pack an emergency kit to store in your vehicle. Don't crowd the plow when you're driving. Most important, during inclement weather, ask yourself if your trip is really necessary or can be postponed." Winter Weather Health Hazards

Prolonged exposure to the cold can cause serious problems including hypothermia, a drop in the body's core temperature. It doesn't require negative temperatures and can set in when you're outdoors or in. Hypothermia is especially dangerous and can be deadly if not detected promptly and treated properly.

Frostbite occurs when your extremities (fingers, toes, nose, and ears) are exposed to cold weather. The skin may become stiff and numb, leading to severe tissue damage. Frostbite

A study by the University of Illinois Chicago published in 2020 shows while there were more heat-related hospital admissions between 2011 and 2018, there were 1,935 cold-related deaths compared to 70 heat-related deaths.

Recognize Home Heating Dangers

According to the Center of Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC's) National Center for Health Statistics, in 2017, 399 people died of unintentional non-fire carbon monoxide (CO) poisoning. In 2016, local fire departments in the U.S. responded to 79,600 carbon monoxide incidents, or an average of nine such calls per hour. In 2018 according to National Fire Incident Reporting System (NFIRS), Illinois Fire Departments responded to 8,965 incidents related to carbon monoxide. CO is found in fumes produced any time you burn fuel in cars or trucks, small engines, stoves, lanterns, grills, fireplaces, gas ranges, or furnaces. CO can build up indoors and poison people and animals who breathe it. During and after a snowstorm, make sure vents for the dryer, furnace, stove and fireplace are clear of snow build-up.

Keep anything that can burn at least three feet from all heat sources including fireplaces, wood stoves, radiators, space heaters and candles.

The Amboy Clippers boys cross country team finished in third place at the Oregon Class 1A Sectional with 100 points, earning the entire team a berth in the state meet on Saturday, Nov. 6, at Detweiller Park in Peoria.

Amboy's Loftus wins Sectional title, team to compete at state

OREGON – Amboy's cross country runners were hoping for one more week to their season, which would mean a trip to the state meet, and the Clipper boys were able to do just that after competing in the Oregon Class 1A Sectional on Oct. 30.

The Clippers finished in third place with 100 points, earning the entire team a berth in the state meet.

The top six teams qualify for state. Rockford Christian came out on top with 49 points and Riverdale was second with 66 points. The other team qualifiers were Sandwich (130), Sterling Newman (158) and Erie-Prophetstown (248).

Amboy's Brock Loftus has battled with Tommy Murray of Riverdale in many races over their careers, and Loftus was able to outrace Murray to the finish line in a first-place effort with a time of 16:19.30. Murray checked in second with a clocking of 16:22.15.

Two other Clippers placed in the top nine Kyle McNinch was seventh in 17:13.90 and Ian Eller took ninth place with a time

Four other runners helped Amboy to the third-place team finish. They were Charlie Dickinson (33rd, 18:11.18), Wyatt Lundquist (61st, 18:51.12), Garrett Pertell (82nd, 19:21.09) and Andruw Jones (84th, 19:25.05).

Girls Cross Country results

In the girls' competition, the Lady Clippers had two runners in the field. Elly Jones finished 55th in 22:53.76 and Addison Pertell was 110th in 25:46.62.

The girls' race was won by Grace Erb of Winnebago in a time of 19:28, leading her Winnebago squad to the sectional championship with a score of 26 points.

The other advancing girls' teams after Winnebago were Seneca (123), Mercer County (136), Rock Falls (142), Rockford Christian (182) and Sherrard (194).

Amboy Clippers had three runners in the top 10 at the Oregon Class 1A Sectional on Saturday. The runners are Ian Eller, pictured left, finishing in ninth place, Brock Loftus, center, finishing in first place, and Kyle McNinch, finishing in seveneth place.

Clippers defeat Freeport Aquin, advance to Round 2 of Playoffs

FREEPORT – The Amboy-LaMoille-Ohio Clippers lived to play another game after they battered Freeport Aquin, 52-28, in the opening round of the 8-Man Football Playoffs on Oct. 30 at Freeport.

Aquin jumped out to an 8-0 lead in the opening quarter before Amboy answered with a 60-yard drive that was capped off when Tucker Lindenmeyer zipped into the end zone from the 4-yard line to knot the score at 8-8. Jordan Gulley had a nice 35-yard kickoff return to put the Clippers in good position.

Lindenmeyer did the honors again to put the Clippers in front 16-8 when he outran the Aquin defense for a 57-yard touchdown, but Aquin responded with the tying score.

It looked as though the teams were going to head to halftime with the game tied at 16-all, but Amboy had other ideas. Starting a drive at the Bulldog 49-yard line with 1:21 on the clock, the Clippers moved the ball down to the Aquin 27yard line. From there, with eight seconds left, Lindenmeyer launched a pass toward the end zone and Brennan Blaine leaped over two Bulldog defenders and came down with the ball to give Amboy a 22-16 advantage at intermission.

Aguin managed to tie the score to open the second half, but Amboy was able to take the lead for good when Joe Quest bulled his way into the end zone from the 1-yard line to make it 28-22.

On its ensuing possession, an Aguin fumble was pounced on by Lindenmeyer, and the junior signal-caller used his legs

Lady Clippers see season end at Regionals

ASHTON-The Amboy Lady Clippers had their volleyball season come to a close in the first round of the Ashton-Franklin Center Class 1 A Regional. Annawan took a straight set 25-20, 25-15 victory over the Lady Clippers on Oct. 26.

Tyrah Vaessen picked up three ace serves and 10 assists to lead Amboy in those categories, while Courtney Ortgiesen topped the team with 12 digs. Ortgiesen and Kaysi Schaeffer led with three kills apiece. Elly Jones and Chloe Heath each added eight digs, while Madison O'Malley collected two aces.

to score again for the Clippers, this time from 67 yards out to widen the gap to 36-22.

The Bulldogs crept back to within one touchdown when they scored on a 2-yard run to open the fourth frame, but the Clipper defense closed the door the rest of the way and the offense increased the margin.

A Lindenmeyer-to-Blaine pass resulted in a 51-yard TD for the Clippers to make it 44-28, then Amboy linebacker Levi McKinley picked off an Aquin pass at the Clipper 5-yard line to thwart a threat.

Amboy completed the scoring when Gulley swiped another Aguin aerial and raced 92 yards to paydirt.

The Clippers generated 410 yards of offense, with 278 of those coming on the ground. Lindenmeyer had 190 yards rushing, while he completed seven passes for 132 yards. Blaine was the main target with five receptions for 113 yards.

With the win, Amboy (6-4) advances into the second

have been looking forward to since the inception of this segment. I'll share with you all my bias, complete admiration, and gratitude for any Senior Clipper on the 2007 Quarterfinal team. Given the chance, I would highlight a member of that class every week, as there are few men in life that I hold in higher regard.

This week I get the honor of highlighting one of those Seniors. A name that may not be recognized by most alumni, nor has the lineage of a Nauman, McCaffrey, McCoy, or Ely, but has the same character, mindset, and will to win as any Clipper past or present. It is my absolute honor to announce this week's Clipper, #24, Andy Clinton.

Andy was a 2008 graduate of LaMoille High School and three sport athlete, football, basketball, and baseball. Andy's class was the second LaMoille class to play all four years in our program.

Andy's Junior year he was a special teams demon on a loaded Quarterfinal finishing team. Andy also saw time defensively as a defensive back and added to an already impressive Clipper defense. Andy's most important role that season didn't come on any Friday night or Saturday afternoon. In practice, Andy was not only excelling in his roles on special teams or his defensive responsibilities, he took on the role of being the opponents' best player, week in and week out. Andy made some weeks a tougher challenge in practice than the battle on Friday nights. As the season ended, knowing who we were returning, and Andy being among them, there was a great feeling of comfort for us incoming Let's fast forward to Week 2 against Bureau Valcampaign. Super Sophomore Cody Richardson gets sidelined with injury early in the contest. The season of "next man up" rang true as Andy was then called upon to take on the weight of the running game. A different and extremely balanced offensive year for Clipper Football, with incredible skill positions filled by Wells, Kaleel, Nauman, and Montavon. I'd argue with any and say Clinton is among those names. Almost a perfect compliment to Richardson's style and one of the hardest Clipper Running Backs to hit the hole. As I watch our highlight film from that season, I see Andy do things I haven't seen of any Clipper Running Back. I forget the opponent but Andy got stood up a couple yards past the line of scrimmage, a third defender came and horse collared him and Andy gave a quick duck, split the two defenders, put his head down and the horse collar broke free and Andy scored one of his several touchdowns of the year. Andy's best statistical game came Week 4 against undefeated Fulton. Andy rushed 20 times for 110 yards and 2 touchdowns. Andy had another big game against Ottawa Marquette as he had another 2 touchdown performance, sealing a 46-18 Clipper victory. The following week, at Riverdale, Andy scored the first touchdown in what would be a close 19-8 Clipper win. Andy and Richardson split time from Week 8 through the three playoff games during the 2007 season. As Andy starred for us that season at Running Back, his role to all the special teams units never changed as he continued to give everything he had, every play.

I had the privilege of talking to Andy about the 2007 season. As many indiley during the 2007 Clipper vidual accomplishments or

Clipper Highlights

By Spencer Morrissey

successes he had throughout the campaign, he never once brought them up. What he did share is the reason he is one held in my highest of regard. "One thing I remember is our offensive line. I got to watch some Amboy teams before that year and knew we always were solid and ran the ball, but I would stack the 2007 offensive line up with the very best in our entire program. Linemen beating backs in spirit drills. They were the reason Cody, Tay, and I were as good as we were and also Travis and you to have the time you did.", Andy stated. As I shared with him, I couldn't agree more with any statement. Andy was all about winning football games. Starting or splitting time, it didn't matter. If his number was called he was coming in to help his team win plain and simple. Never out for individual gain or statistics, only the team.

Former teammate and friend Jeremy Wolf shared; "Andy was always extremely dedicated and humble. Left every bit of his heart on the field. Listened well to others and did his job. Coming from LaMoille, we only had a short time together, but he fit right in and was was an extremely reliable talent."

Former teammate, Clipper Center, and friend Jordan Willstead, shared, "Andy was a lot of fun to play with and a great worker. When Andy came into his own was his jr year he was more then just a player on the team. You could tell the more time he saw on the field the became more comfortable. Andy was one of my favorite backs that I played with, not only a great guy and player but he honestly appreciated his linemen. And that went a long way with the front five, and we had no problem doing anything we could to help Andy bust out a huge play. Andy was not an Amboy native but he more then deserved to wear that jersey and will always be a clipper. Congrats buddy.'

To put things into perspective for those that never watched Andy play or heard of his exploits. Andy fell between two of our three, each two-time, All State Running Backs of the modern era. Daniel Saunders and Cody Richardson. Andy's style was the best of both. Quick, explosive, shifty and powerful all in the same play. Andy never hesitated to lower his shoulder to deliver a pop, especially if it meant adding to a Clipper lead. Andy surely would have started and been the feature back on any other team in the conference and most playoff teams that season.

Andy finished the 2007 season earning Second Team All Conference honors at Running Back. An impressive feat in the Big Rivers for any player, but Andy earned that accolade in only starting 6 games and splitting time for the last two of them. Andy also earned the Mark Smith team award.

For a LaMoille kid, who experienced four great years of Clipper football, it means one thing; Tradition.

"From the moment you step foot on the practice field, you have one goal, one mindset and that is to win. It was nice to join the program and be a part of the tradition and history," Andy concluded.

Well I'll be the first to say, you were more than a part of our history. You added to, in my utmost belief, one of our greatest Clipper teams to date. So, to All Conference

Running Back, #24, Andy Clinton, thank you for your contributions to Amboy Football. I'm bias, but get the right to say that you are among the men I hold so dear. I'm honored for the bond we share in Clipper Football

Kishwaukee College offering two online wine appreciation classes in November Sommeliers and teaches a Wine Knowledge MALTA — The Kishwaukee College Continuing Education department is offering two online wine appreciation classes in November. Both classes will provide an overview of wines, their grapes and regions, and will be taught by certified sommeliers from Geneva Wine Cellars.

German Wines: Thursday, Nov. 4, 6-7 p.m.

Explore the history of German wines, vineyards and wine regulations, as well as how climate and geography influence the wines. Understand the different ripeness levels of riesling, Germany's most famous native grape. Discover other grapes such as pinot noir, Germany's top red variety, weissburgunder (pinot blanc) and grauburgunder (pinot gris). Learn how to read a German wine label so you can confidently choose wines when shopping or dining. The instructor, Timothy Campbell, is a certified sommelier through the Court of Master Sommeliers and recently passed the Wine and Spirit Education Trust (WSET) Level III Award in Wines. As a beer aficionado, he passed the first level of the Cicerone Certification program. In addition to being a sommelier and wine buyer at Geneva Wine Cellars, Campbell also teaches Introduction to Wine classes.

French Wines: Wednesday, Nov. 10, 6-7 p.m.

Learn the differences between Bordeaux and Burgundy. Explore the Rhone and Loire valleys and the Alsace region bordering Germany.

Discover the home of your favorite grapes like cabernet sauvignon, merlot, chardonnay, sauvignon blanc and more, as well as how to read a French wine label. The instructor, Liz Kowal, is a certified sommelier through the Court of Master and Appreciation Certificate program. She has participated in and won many prestigious wine competitions while continuing to take advanced wine certifications — most recently passing Unit 2 of the Italian Wine Scholar Program with honors. Liz is also a sommelier and wine buyer at Geneva Wine

Register for the courses at www.kish edu/personalenrichment.

Illinois Department of Insurance Announces the start of Open Enrollment on the ACA Health Insurance Marketplace

CHICAGO – Nov. 1 kicked off Open Enrollment for the Affordable Care Act (ACA) Health Insurance Marketplace which runs through Jan. 15, 2022, allowing Illinoisans an additional month to enroll. For the 2022 plan year, the number of health insurance carriers on the ACA Marketplace is increasing again. There are eleven carriers for plan year 2022, up from eight in plan year 2021, and five in plan year 2020. This year, IDOI welcomes three new health insurance carriers: Molina Healthcare of Illinois, Inc., Oscar Health Plan, and UnitedHealthcare of Illinois, Inc.

"With the entry of three new carriers, people within the Chicagoland area and nearby areas have even more plans to choose from,' said IDOI Acting Director Dana Popish Severinghaus. "There are 275 plans, and while not every plan is available in every county, many will have little to no change from the number of plans offered last year. That is good news for Illinoisans in need of health coverage."

Most Illinois consumers will have more plans to choose from than in the previous year and more than one carrier to pick from. Health insurance rates continue to trend downward this year, with an average 3% decrease in premiums statewide for the second lowest-cost Silver benchmark plans.

Also, rate decreases for lowest-cost Gold plans are available this year in many more counties across the state.

'When Illinois consumers purchase health plans through the ACA Marketplace, they can be assured that the plans cover pre-existing conditions and offer free preventive care services," said Laura Pellikan, Executive Director for Get Covered Illinois. "At Getcoveredillinois.gov, we can connect you to local assisters in your area who can help walk you through the enrollment process. You can also click on the Shop and Enroll button to answer three questions that will help us direct you to either the ACA Marketplace or Medicaid."

More than 291-thousand Illinoisans enrolled in ACA Marketplace health insurance plans during open enrollment last year, and 54,432 more purchased plans during the Special Enrollment Period in Response to COVID-19.*

Get Covered Illinois (GCI), a division of the Illinois Department of Insurance, is the official health marketplace or "exchange" for Illinois consumers to purchase quality, affordable health insurance, facilitated by the federal government through the ACA Marketplace.

* Federal CMS enrollment numbers for the ACA Health Insurance Marketplace.
