Huddleston on mask mandate: 'The risks are too great'

BY JEFF HELFRICH MANAGING EDITOR

ROCHELLE — The Rochelle Township High School Board of Education approved a school reopening plan that adheres to the Gov. JB Pritzker's mask mandate by a vote of 6-0 at its Monday meeting.

Similar to the past few high school and elementary district board meetings, members of the community voiced their thoughts against masks in school and urged board members to go against the state mandate and make masks optional in schools. The board previously opted for a mask optional approach before the governor's mandate.

High School Board President Tom Huddleston spoke to those in attendance at Monday's meeting and said the governor's executive order is a law in the board's eyes that it has to abide by.

If the board did not abide by the mask mandate, Huddleston said the board could be sued by the state or governor and would have 'greatly compromised" tort immunity. Individuals on the board or administrators could be sued for punitive damages and the district would not be able to cover those charges.

"At the last meeting we completely agreed with you that masks should be optional," Huddleston said. "At that time it was a recommendation from the governor. The executive order took away our discretion. It requires us to abide by it with very many significant risks if we don't."

The risks include finances, liability, punitive damages/lawsuits, state programming like the school's athletic system could be completely shut down along with things like the free and reduced lunch program. Diplomas could potentially not be certified.

"This could all happen in a matter of weeks," Huddleston said. "We're fighting like heck right now and working very hard to try to give these students the kind of year they need. We don't like the mask mandate, I don't personally like it. I think it should be a parent's right, but it's not. The risks are too great for us to flatly not be in accordance with the law."

Huddleston said the board will give Superintendent Jason Harper the ability to make changes if the laws change or soften. The elementary school board approved the same reopening plan with masks required at a meeting last week and began school Tuesday.

"I personally believe it's best to abide by the mandate and see what happens," Huddleston said. "We meet all the time. We don't have to wait for a meeting to make a change." Rochelle resident Cole Thomas has voiced his thoughts against the mask mandate at a few recent meetings and attended

Monday's. "I ask that you hold true to your original decision of the mask optional rule," Thomas said. "I ask that you do everything in your power to save our kids from this. Show the state you still retain local control and authority. Please, you are our last hope. Vote no tonight on the mask mandate."

Scott Swartz, a teacher at RTHS, spoke at the meeting about why he supports the school board's decision to enforce the mask mandate.

Heritage Festival returns Saturday

BY JEFF HELFRICH MANAGING EDITOR

ROCHELLE — Lincoln Highway Heritage Festival returns Saturday for "One Fine Day" after it was canceled last year due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

The event will take place from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. The one-day event will differ from years past when it was over three days.

The festival will include a car and motorcycle show from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., a 50/50 raffle, a food court, craft and vendor booths and live music.

Music will include the Vodka Boys, Southern Ride and Blue Steel along with other local performers. Music will start at 10 a.m., earlier than in years past. Attendees are asked to bring their own chairs and blankets.

"We're so excited," LHHF President Lisa Chrisco said. "I can't even put it into words. About the whole thing. From the car show to the entertainment on the stage. We have a good variety of food booths and crafts. There will be a bounce house and face painting for the kids. It's going to be a great day. The weather is supposed to be nice."

Chrisco said planning for the event is done over a year before the festival takes place. LHHF takes a lot of man hours to coordinate. Planning has already begun for next year's festival, which will be the 25th anniversary of LHHF.

Having to cancel last year's event wasn't easy for Chrisco and the committee. "It was heartbreaking," Chrisco said. "One of the hardest things I've ever had to do was having that conversation with the committee."

Chrisco explained the reasoning behind the event's differences from years past.

"Things will be different, but we're still the community's festival," Chrisco said,

"We set this up in March. We figured if things we're shut down we could still do it this way. Come enjoy the entertainment and have a good day. It's a good reason to get together with family."

RTHS: School board approves reopening plan

"Rightnow, our students face a threat of the Delta variant of COVID-19," Swartz said. "One of the ways we can protect them is to wear a mask. I hate wearing a mask. But the data and science are clear that it helps. It will protect them. And that's why it's important."

RTHS has been operating with masks required since its first day of school on Friday. Principal Chris Lewis said Friday was the first time every single student has been in the building since the pandemic began in March 2020.

"It was a great moment for the school to get everyone back and we're excited for the teachers and our kids to be back in the building whether we have masks or not was really exciting for our kids," Lewis said. "It was nice to see 800-900 kids at one time instead of a couple hundred."

Other actions

The board unanimously approved the hirings of Leticia Aby Guerrero as a Spanish teacher, Tom O'Neill as a part-time behind-the-wheel instructor and Kelly Rodriguez as a bilingual paraprofessional.

The board unanimously approved the expenditure of $48,406 total for two 2022 Chrysler Voyager L minivans from Prescott Brothers Inc. to replace two minivans with over 130,000 miles each that were starting to show signs of wear and tear. After executive session, the board voted unanimously to expel a student for two years with recommendation for alternative education.

Ogle County Sheriff's Department Arkansas man injured in single-vehicle crash

OREGON – On Aug. 13 at approximately 4 p.m. deputies with the assistance of the Illinois State Police and Lynn-Scott-Rock Fire/EMS responded to Interstate 39 at Illinois Route 64 for the report of a single vehicle crash with injuries.

After conducting an investigation, it was learned Larry Monette, 73, of Arkansas, was traveling south on Interstate 39 exiting onto Illinois Route 64 when Monette presumably fell asleep. Monette traveled off of the exit ramp and came to rest after colliding with several pine trees.

Monette was assisted from the vehicle by a passing motorist as his car became fully engulfed. Lynn-Scott-Rock Fire and EMS responded to the scene where they tended to the fire as Monette was transported to Rochelle Community Hospital where he was treated for suspected injuries.

On Aug. 14 at approximately 1:26 a.m. deputies initiated a traffic stop at the intersection of Blackhawk and Walnut in Byron. After further investigation, deputies arrested Stephen Mullane, 33, of Poplar Grove, for driving under the influence of alcohol. Mullane was also cited for improper lane usage and unlawful transportation of alcohol. Mullane was transported to the Ogle County Jail in lieu of bond.

On Aug. 14 at approximately 11:15 a.m. deputies responded to a one vehicle motorcycle accident in the 4,800 block of East Illinois Route 72. After an investigation it was determined that a 2008 Triumph motorcycle being driven by Jason M. Gibbs, 45, of Lake Villa, Illinois was westbound on Illinois Route 72 when he failed to negotiate the curve at that location and exited the roadway into the north side ditch. No other vehicles were involved and Gibbs was transported to Swedish American Hospital in Rockford for injuries sustained.

On Aug. 16 at approximately 3:18 p.m. deputies conducted a traffic stop on the south exit ramp of Interstate 39 and Illinois Route 72. Wayne Edward Hardy ROCHELLE – Wayne Edward Hardy, 91, of rural Lee, passed away Saturday, Aug. 14 at the DeKalb County Rehabilitation and Nursing Center in DeKalb.

Wayne was born on Dec. 20, 1929, in Waterman, Illinois.He was the only child of Holland William and Ruth(Colby) Hardy. He attended a rural Scarboro one-room school and graduated from Steward High School. He married Doris Marie Furman on Sept. 23, 1950 in Rochelle. They had three children.

Wayne was a lifelong, third-generation grain and cattle farmer on the Byrd/ Hardy farm in rural Lee. When he wasn't farming, he worked for the township clearing snow and maintaining the roads, dabbled in real estate sales and assisted at Wrigley's Garage in Lee to keep all the local vehicles in good shape. In addition to this, he had many interests throughout life, including raising Shetland ponies, go-karting, snowmobiling, maintaining and restoring many original tractors purchased by he and his father, participating in organized rural tractor drives, bringing wooden furniture back to life and attending county fairs where his grandchildren showed champion steers, heifers and chickens. He looked forward to cially the annual Monroe Cheese Days, July 4 festivals and fireworks and country music. In between all his activities, he always made time to read - books, daily newspapers, National Geographic and Ag publications.

Socializing at the local breakfast café most mornings and one of the various beverage establishments most afternoons for the latest news and updates were daily habits. For those who knew him, you would always see him with a toothpick behind his ear and wearing one of his caps from his collection of over 300.

Even though he was an only child, he easily blended into and valued his large family-in-law that came as a package deal since Doris was one of 10 children. He was surrounded with the greatest food during the many gatherings, competitive card games and plenty of kindness. Wayne was a cancer survivor after successful treatment when he was 65.

Stockyards connected Rochelle to wider world

The stockyards of Rochelle has never existed in a vacuum. The stockyards of Rochelle are a perfect example of how our community is connected to the wider world.

By 1864, many of the smaller stockyards in Chicago had consolidated into the Union Stockyard. The Union Stockyard was served by nine rail lines and could hold 75,000 hogs, 22,000 sheep and 21,000 cattle. The demand was there, now the supply.

Rochelle was located at a hub between two railroads. The Chicago & Iowa and the Northwestern rail lines. In 1873, Mr. Stocking and Mr. King bought 16 acres of land between the rail lines (east end of 2nd Avenue) and constructed holding pens and loading chutes to both sets of tracks.

These pens were designed for cattle and hogs. By the 1890s, Rochelle was surrounded by several hundred acres of grazing and holding land. Rochelle became the final chance to fatten livestock before it was sent into the Union Stockyard to be weighed and sold.

Kennedy Sheep Yards of Rochelle could manage over 40,000 sheep. Kennedy had yards on the western edge of Rochelle and south of Spring Lake. Livestock was received from the western states and off loaded at the appropriate stockyard in Rochelle.

The stock was fed, watered and prepared for sale in Chicago. For the sheep this included shearing. John Riley had a crew of several men who would shear the sheep and bundle the wool. Once fattened and groomed the livestock was moved to yards if they were smaller processors. Gustavus Swift, Armour, Morris, Hammond, and Wilson all located at the Union Stockyard.

At one point, the Chicago River was diverted to serve the meatpacking plants with over 50,000 gallons of water used per day. So much waste was drained into the South fork of the Chicago River that it became referred to as Bubbly Creek. The bubbles were the product of decomposing waste off gassing on the bottom of the river. The South fork still bubbles to this day.

The Union Stockyard suffered a major fire in 1921 causing $400,000 damage and killing 21 fire fighters, but it stayed open. The importance of the Union yard was further displayed by a fire in 1934 when 90 percent of the yard was destroyed on a Saturday night. The yard was reopened by the next Sunday.

At its height, the Union Stockyard produced 82 percent of the domestic meat consumed in this country. It appeared that nothing could stop the monolith that was the Union Stockyard. Such is not the way of progress.

The Rochelle stockyards handled thousands of head of livestock each and every day from the 1870s through the 1940s. The development of better highways and rail lines moved meat processing to a more regional distribution.

Smaller processing plants sprung up in rural areas (non-union) across the country. Swift was building a processing plant in Rochelle. The need for the stock yards faded and they were closed. The Swift plant in Rochelle opened in 1960. The Union Stockyard was closed and razed in 1971.

How well have issues of race been taught in our schools?

ILLIE Moore was a Black man who endured segregation and saw the school where he taught integrated after a long fight for racial equality.

He loved teaching history but there was one topic he avoided: The Civil Rights Movement.

"It was just too controversial to talk about. The students came from families that had different opinions on it. So, I just avoided teaching about it," he told me on a hot Mississippi day as his brahma cows grazed nearby and we sat on his rickety porch shooting the breeze.

Scott Reeder

In 2018, I'd stopped at Moore's farm to interview him for a book I'm writing.

But we spent most of the time sitting and talking about Southern history. He recalled when 14-year-old Emmett Till was murdered in Money, Miss. for whistling at a white woman. In the 1970s, the small town where he lived had one Black police officer – who was only allowed to arrest other Black people.

He discussed the marches and the strife of the 1960s, a time when Black and white people used separate restrooms, drinking fountains and schools.

In our hour-long chat, he told me more about race and Mississippi than he likely ever shared with his students. Even today, Confederate flags fly in front of plantation homes just down the road from where Moore resided.

On social media, this week, I received a survey question from U.S. Rep. Rodney Davis, R-Taylorville, asking whether I thought "Critical Race Theory" should be taught in leads students to feel guilty for past actions by white people.

Here is what I do know: Our schools have done a lousy job of teaching about race, discrimination and their role in history. And we need to do better.

I first remember learning about the Civil Rights Movement in 1971, when I was in the first grade. A local radio personality, Jimmy Carr, came and spoke about Martin Luther King on the leader's birthday. Carr's daughter, Jamie, was our only Black classmate in Caroline Broadhead's class at Bateman Elementary School in Galesburg.

Mrs. Broadhead was an exceptional teacher. She recognized a need and found a local person to speak to it. King had been killed less than three years before and his death was a fresh scar on the nation's conscience.

In the third grade, our teacher taught about King's "I Have a Dream" speech and how segregation had once been a problem in the South. It was taught straight from the book. Never was it mentioned that racism was a problem in our own community.

The beaches at the city park, Lake Story, had been segregated until just a few years before. Whites used the beach on the northside and Blacks the one on the southside.

Some Galesburg restaurants turned Black diners away. Real estate agents often wouldn't show people of color homes north of Main Street. And the local newspaper's society page wouldn't write about events south of Main Street.

The ornate Orpheum

wrong, she chose a third route: compliance.

My first exposure to the concept of lynching was when our teacher told the Emmett Till story in our ninth grade civics class. The inflection of his voice and the smug manner in which he told of how Emmett was killed of how Emmett was killed struck me as odd. In his rendition, the bad guys weren't those who kidnapped and killed the 14-year-old child. It was Emmett himself.

For years, allegations of racism clung to our teacher, Ken Phlamm, like a cheap polyester suit on a hot day. The school district was either unwilling or unable to fire him despite calls for doing just that from the Galesburg Human Relations Commission and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

I used to think my hometown was unique in the way it avoided discussing its racism until I worked as a reporter in Galveston, Texas, in the 1980s. The faded letters of "Colored" could still be seen above some public doorways. But whenever I would ask older white people what the fight for integration was like, they would shrug and say it was "No big deal" and point to some distant community where things were "really bad."

When I'd posed the same question to Black folks, the answer was always the same: "It was awful."

Critics of the Critical Race Theory often point to the 1619 Project, a Pulitzer Prize winning endeavor by the New York Times Magazine looking at the legacy of 400 years of slavery on what is now the United States.

Some conclusions in the project I agreed with. Oth-

Supporters of teaching critical race theory contend race is a social construct, and that racism is not merely the product of individual bias or prejudice, but also something embedded in legal systems and policies.

Conservative critics counter that the foundation of the theory is that the United States is fundamentally racist and that it Theater had Black people sit in the balcony, apart from white folks.

But our teacher taught us that segregation was a Southern problem. Was she ignorant of segregation in our hometown? Or perhaps she thought it was a lesson too close to home. One thing was for certain, she'd never receive a medal for courage in the classroom.

Our youngsters deserve to be taught the facts and should be allowed to reach conclusions on their own.

LOCAL NEWS Father-daughter duo creates 'Baby Yoda' for Mt. Morris straw sculpting competition

BY JEFF HELFRICH MANAGING EDITOR

ROCHELLE — Growing up in the Rogers household meant doing creative things.

"For as long as we've raised our kids, Halloween was big and we'd go all out," Mark Rogers said. "My daughter, Danica, has always had a knack for creativity. It's a talent she's honed."

The Rochelle father and daughter duo have continued their creativity and showcase it in the community. Danica and Mark have entered the U.S. National Straw Sculpting Competition in Mt. Morris that runs from Aug. 13-29.

The competition is in its sixth year of operation and was in Rochelle for its first year. It's been in downtown Mt. Morris on the historic campus since

Mark and Danica started entering the competition in its first year in Rochelle after encouragement by local sculptor Fran Volz and have been a part of it ever since.

Their first entry was a 1970s troll doll. Then Danica and her cousin made King Kong and the Headless Horseman. And then it was the Ghostbusters Stay Puft Marshmallow man.

"I enjoy the art work," Mark said. "And it's time to spend with Danica. A big portion of it is bonding."

This year's entry by Danica and Mark is "The Child" from "The Mandalorian," a Star Wars show on Disney+. The character is widely known as "Baby Yoda."

"We wanted to do something simple," Danica said. "My niece is obsessed with him."

Creating the sculpture is not so simple. Mark estimates there are about 80 hours in the project. 30 percent is making it stand and the other 70 percent is chicken wire and form before the straw.

Danica and Mark have been working on the sculpture for three weeks. Danica works in schools, so she has more time in the summer. She's spent full days working on "Baby Yoda" and Mark helps out after work.

"Sometimes you complain when it's going on, doing the work," Mark said. "You have some animosity. When it's done and people are looking, that's when the fun starts and it feels good."

Danica agreed. The best part for her is the finished product and when people get to see it. She has a degree in art from Monmouth College

"We talk a lot about being a family, being unselfish and loving each other. I think this is a great way to bring the parents out here and enjoy the football experience together. I think it's a great opportunity for parents to become more involved in our program while also creating special memories with their kids." Parents each received practice plans at the start of each practice to learn more about the specific team and individual drills Hub football players work through each day. Parents also had the opportunity to speak with Kissack and athletic trainer Mark Lovell to ask questions or alleviate concerns regarding schedules, transportation and more. Kissack said he hopes that parents feel they play a significant role in what the Hub football program wants to accomplish. "I hope they see how much energy their kids invest and I hope that's something that could be communicated at the dinner table," Kissack said. "It's important for our families to know how much we care about the kids and how committed we are to helping their kids become the best football players, the best students and the best citizens in the community that they can be."
