Gathering of geese

While many people enjoyed the weekend by casting their fishing line into the water of Lake Mendota, a gaggle of geese hang out under a shade tree on the first day of summer, June 20. Summer also arrived with some much-needed rain as nearly an inch and a half fell in Mendota, much to the delight of the grass and area farmers. (Reporter photo)

City Council OKs license; approves requests

By KIP CHEEK

Staff writer

MENDOTA – The Mendota City Council acted on several requests and heard about bid openings for the street maintenance program at its June 21 regular meeting.

During Mayor David Boelk's report, he informed the council members that bid openings had been conducted earlier in the day for the 2021 non-motor fuel tax street maintenance program. This is for the Burlington Street curb and Welland Road pavement projects. Since the item was not on the agenda for the council's consideration, the awarding of the bid could not be done, however, he asked the council to consider accepting the bid of Advanced Asphalt Company of Princeton. The formal awarding of the bid will be done at the first meeting in July.

In Aldermanic reports, Jay Miller presented a request from Cindy's on 34 for a video gaming license to add another machine, which was approved by the council.

During Jim Fitzpatrick's report, the council approved four requests. Two were from the Knights of Columbus Council 2090. The first was for the use of the city lot at the corner of Eighth Street and Sixth Avenue for sweet corn sales on July 17, 24, 31, Aug. 7, 21, 28 and Sept. 4. The second request from the K of C was to use the intersection of Main and Meriden streets for its annual Tootsie Roll fundraising drive on Friday, Sept. 17 and Saturday, Sept. 18.

Also approved by the council was a request from the Mendota Area Chamber of Commerce to use Strouss Park for a Sweet Corn Festival 3 on 3 Basketball Tournament on Aug. 13-14 and a request from First United Methodist Church to use Veterans Park on Sunday, July 18 for an anti-racism rally and ice cream social.

The next regular meeting of the Mendota City Council will be Tuesday, July 6 at 5:30 p.m.

MHS approves use of E-Learning days

☐ Must be used for snow/emergency days

By BONNIE MORRIS
Editor

MENDOTA - The use of E-Learning days will continue at Mendota High School following approval by the District 280 Board of Education. During a public hearing, which preceded the June 21 board meeting, Superintendent Jeff Prusator explained that E-Learning days were allowed by the state prior to the pandemic. They may be used in place of snow/emergency days when schools are closed and are different than Remote Prusator explained that Remote Learning days were allowed in Illinois during the pandemic when schools were closed for extended periods, but that rule has now expired. Although at first he did not believe remote learning was a good idea, Prusator said he has changed his mind. "We learned that remote learning can be very effective when school has to be closed for some reason," he said. "I was not a fan at first because I thought students had to be in a classroom and interact with their teachers. But since then, we have seen that E-Learning days can be effective for snow/emergency days when school cannot be in session for some reason."

The state allows schools to use up to five E-Learning days during a school year, but they can only be used when school cannot be open due to weather or emergencies, not just because a school decides to have one. "I think this would be a beneficial option for us to use rather than having to make up those days at the end of the school year," Prusator said. "By May, students are ready for the end of the year and it is harder to have them get anything out of extra days at that time."

The E-Learning days do not have to be used, Prusator added, but they will be an option if needed.

'Juneteenth' becomes official state holiday

☐ Day marks anniversary of last enslaved Americans learning of freedom

By PETER HANCOCK Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – The day that marks the anniversary of the day in 1865 when some of the last enslaved Americans learned that they had been freed is now an official state holiday in Illinois.

At a bill signing ceremony in front of a signed copy of President Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation, Gov. JB Pritzker signed House Bill 3922 into law, designating June 19 as Juneteenth National Freedom Day in Illinois.

"With this new law, no longer can a child grow up in Illinois without learning about Juneteenth in school," Pritzker said. "With this change, the people of Illinois will have a day to reflect on how the freedom that we celebrate just two weeks later, on the Fourth of July, was delayed to Black Americans."

Gov. JB Pritzker signs a bill making Juneteenth, June 19th, a paid state holiday. (Capitol News Illinois photo by Peter Hancock)

Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation on Jan. 1, 1863. It declared that all slaves held in states that were in rebellion against the United States were immediately and permanently free.

That proclamation did nothing, however, for slaves held in states like Kentucky and Maryland that had not seceded from the Union. They would not become free until after ratification of the 13th amendment in 1865.

It also did not immediately free slaves who were

Vaccinated Illinoisans automatically entered into a $10 million lottery

☐ Prizes include cash payments up to $1 million, scholarships

By JERRY NOWICKI Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – Any vaccinated Illinoisan will be automatically entered into a lottery for $10 million in prizes without having to take any extra steps to enter.

Gov. JB Pritzker announced the "all in for the win" vaccine lottery at an event in Chicago, noting it would award $7 million in cash prizes for adults 18 years of age and older, as well as $3 million in scholarship awards for Illinoisans ages 12 to 17.

The first drawing will be conducted by the Illinois Lottery on July 8 and drawings will continue into August. Prizes will include cash payments from $100,000 to $1 million. Scholarships would be in the form of Bright Start 529 savings plans worth $150,000 each.

The money is allocated from federal American Rescue Plan funding, of which the state received more than $8 billion.

Drawings will be conducted statewide and individually in the state's Restore Illinois regions that coincided with mitigation efforts throughout the pandemic. In the final drawing Aug. 26, the winners of the final two of three $1 million prizes will be chosen from a statewide pool.

To receive a vaccine, Illinoisans were required to give their information to the medical professional who administered the vaccine, so Pritzker said that is how the names will be chosen for the drawings. Anyone having received at least their first dose by July 1 would be eligible for prizes in the first drawing.

Those who win would be contacted by the Illinois Department of Public Health, who will seek

LaSalle County 4-H Show and Junior Fair July 7-11

OTTAWA - The 2021 LaSalle County 4-H Show and Junior Fair, "The Power of YOUth!" is gearing up for a great 4-H exhibit show representing area 4-H youth exhibitions as well as many activities and evening events. The fair kicks off Wednesday, July 7 and continue through July 11 at the LaSalle County fairgrounds in Ottawa.

4-H clubs are busy completing projects and cleaning up the fairgrounds in preparation for putting on a great exhibit show. The "Power of YOUth" will reflect the power within every 4-Her's focus and hard work preparing their project exhibits and also represent the many service learning and community activities 4-H members participate in. Come out to the LaSalle County Fairgrounds to experience 4-H and also to enjoy the night events. This year, many new events and activities can be enjoyed.

On Wednesday, July 7, judging of all Visual Arts exhibitions will take place. Cloverbud exhibits will also be on display. To add to the fun, there will be a fun bicycle activity to introduce the bicycle rodeos taking place on Saturday.

On Thursday, July 8, judging starts on all other non-live-stock projects. This includes everything from aerospace to zucchini along with cake decorating, dog show and a style revue event featuring 4-H'ers clothing projects and other creative items. Various pop up 4-H activities and games will occur each day. Nighttime entertainment includes the Broken Horn Rodeo. That day LaSalle County 4-H and Junior Fair will also offer free admission to all veterans and military by showing their military ID.

Friday, July 9 the Swine, Horse, Poultry, Dairy shows begin in the morning with the Sheep and Cat Show to take place in the afternoon. The public presentation contest will be held at 5 p.m. on stage in Exhibit Hall 3. The Illini State Pullers Truck & Tractor Pull will start at 7 p.m. and watch for more 4-H pop up activities and games.

Saturday, July 10 the Beef and Rabbit show starts the morning events with Beef Showmanship following. Many fun activities will take place throughout the day. Funny Magic Guy will provide three shows throughout the afternoon and an exciting scavenger hunt will be held throughout the fairgrounds. The evening will offer a fair auction at 4:30 p.m. in the show arena, sponsored by "Friends of Extension and 4-H." Numerous items will be available for bidding and proceeds will benefit LaSalle County 4-H programming. Evening entertainment will be the Ramer Race Promotions Demolition at 7 p.m.!

On Sunday, July 11 the Horse and Goat show begins at 8 a.m. The ADM Master Showman contest will also begin at 10 a.m. in the show barn. As part of a closing celebration, Cloverbud members will present a special "Pledge around the Pole" at 2 p.m. At the close of the fair, projects will be released at approximately 4 p.m. Bring the family and come see the fabulous projects young people from all over the county have completed, see all the animals, enjoy good food and have a great time at the fair.

Please forward any 4-H questions to LaSalle County

Extension at (815) 433-0707. The LaSalle County fair-grounds located on 4-H Road, on the south side of Ottawa. For information regarding entry and night events call the Junior Fair Association at (815) 200-3913.

Bradley University announces awards, dean's list honors

PEORIA - Pamela Taylor of West Brooklyn, an Environmental Science major, was recognized by Bradley University's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and awarded the Undergraduate Summer Research and Artistry Award. Taylor was also included on the dean's list for the spring semester.

Mendota student, Samuel Becker was also named to the dean's list at Bradley. Becker is majoring in Mechanical Engineering Energy. To be eligible for the dean's list, a student must achieve a minimum 3.5 grade point average for the semester on a 4.0 scale.

Bradley is a top-ranked, private university in Peoria offering 5,400 undergraduate and graduate students the resources of a larger university and the personal attention of a smaller university. More than 185 academic programs are offered in business, communications, education, engineering, fine arts, health sciences, liberal arts and sciences, and technology.

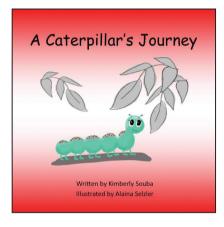

♦ Children's event scheduled at Graves-Hume Library

MORRISON – Former LaMoille resident, Kimberly Souba has launched a new book, "A Caterpillar's Journey." The children's book, which tells the story of a caterpillar who desires to be a butterfly, is illustrated by Alaina Selzler of Jamestown, N.D.

After publishing her first book, "From Death to New Life: The Transformation of Soul" in November 2020, Souba was inspired by children in her life to think about writing a children's book. An elementary teacher at Tampico Elementary school, Souba wrote "A Caterpillar's Journey" when she was home on a snow day in February.

The book is based on her love for butterflies and as a way to help children overcome all the negative thoughts and attitudes that others place on them.

Souba says "A Caterpillar's Journey"

can teach children the importance of being kind and friendly or how to overcome bullying. A teenager and/or adult might see the theme of listening to their parent for advice, while a person of faith may see the theme of relying on God for His perfect timing in all things. It just depends on where the person is at in their own life.

"I'm a huge fan of Max Lucado, a Christian author who provides themes in his children's books for people of all ages. It does not matter if you are 4 or 94. Everyone will get something different out of his writings. That is how I want to write my children's books," Souba explained.

Souba will hold a children's event at Graves-Hume Public Library in Mendota on Saturday, July 10 beginning at 11 a.m. She will read the book to the children and other activities are also planned. The event is open to the public and a library card is not required. Souba will be on hand to sign copies of her book, which will also be available to purchase.

The book is available by preorders on Souba's website, www.ksouba.com and will be listed on Amazon beginning July 1.

Officials confirm algal bloom on Illinois River near Starved Rock

SPRINGFIELD - Following sampling on the Illinois River, Illinois officials have confirmed the presence of the algal toxin, microcystin, above the 8 parts per billion (ppb) health advisory established by U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency collected samples on June 10 along the northern bank of the Illinois River at the Starved Rock Lock & Dam (Illinois River mile 231.1). The Illinois EPA's laboratory confirmed the microcystin level in the sample at 95.4 ppb, well above the health advisory limit. Illinois EPA proactively sampled again on June 16 for microcystin and awaits the results of the resampling event.

Algal toxins (e.g., microcystin and cylindrospermopsin), sometimes produced by blue-green algae, can cause sickness or other adverse health effects in people and pets, depending on the amount and type of exposure. Illinois EPA also tested for cylindrospermopsin, anatoxin, and saxitoxin but did not detect their presence near any level of

The very young, elderly, and people with compromised immune systems are most at risk of illness if exposed to algal toxins. Adverse health effects attributable to algal toxins can occur from direct skin contact, swallowing contaminated water, or inhaling water droplets in the air. Symptoms of exposure include rashes, hives, diarrhea, vomiting, coughing or wheezing. More severe symptoms may result from longer or greater amounts of exposure.

If you are concerned you have symptoms that are a result of exposure to algal toxins, contact your health care provider or call the Illinois Poison Center at (800) 222-1222. Sublette Village Board approves donations would attend in 2022.

By TONJA GREENFIELD Staff writer

SUBLETTE-The Village of Sublette board approved a donation to two organizations during its monthly meeting on June 14. The board met at the Ellice Dinges Center with all board members present.

Village President John Stenzel told the board that years ago, the village would make a donation to the Amboy American Legion for the Memorial Day ceremony performed in Sublette on Memorial Day. It was also brought up about making a donation to Flags of Freedom in Princeton, which was the topic of the guest speaker at the Memorial Day ceremony.

The board approved a motion to donate $100 to both organizations.

In other board news:

· Don Dinges reported that both the Memorial Day ceremony and the garage sale weekend went well in Sublette. He told the board he was hoping to start a farmer's market in Sublette but is having a tough time finding vendors. Dinges also said he is looking for volunteers to drive the village's float in the Sweet Corn Festival and Depot Days parades in August.

Dinges met with the International Harvesters Collectors about the annual toy show in March and reported that Max Armstrong said he

The annual one-day tractor drive will be held on the first Wednesday in August this year. Dinges said he is reaching out to people asking them to be a part of the car show, which is held after Labor Day · Stenzel reported that the village has entered into an electrical rate agreement with eight other communities using Dynegy. The new rate will be from September 2021-2024 and will be .06395 per kilowatt hour. Stenzel said currently the village has a rate of .0699 per kilowatt hour.

Marvin Buchanan

MENDOTA - Marvin "Marv" Buchanan, 65, of Mendota passed away unexpectedly on June 19, 2021 at OSF St. Anthony Medical Center in Rockford.

A memorial service will be held at 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 26 at the Merritt Funeral Home in Mendota with Chaplain Kent Terry officiating. Visitation will be from 4-7 p.m. on Friday, June 25 at the funeral home. Cremation rites have been accorded.

Marv was born June 3, 1956 in Mendota to Herbert and Shelby (Ellis) Buchanan. He married Connie Spriet in Mendota on Aug. 4, 1993.

Survivors include his wife of Mendota; his daughter, Jen Buchanan of Aurora, Ohio; his step daughter, Jamie Danley of Mendota; two brothers, Herb (Sue) Buchanan and Scott (Tami), both of Mendota; and eight grandchildren, Anthony Buchanan, Lexi Price, Ashton Price, Adriana Buchanan, Kayden Danley, Abel Buchanan, Kaylynn and Dylan Reed.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one son, Tyler on March 10, 2018.

Mary attended grade school in Mendota and was in the class of 1975 at Mendota High School. He graduated from Lincoln Barber College and maintained an active barber license. He worked at Consolidated Freight before spending the next 30 years at H&H Builders in Mendota, until his early retirement in 2009. Marv always said he had "won the lottery" when he married Connie. They spent 28 years happily married and remained the best of friends. Mary loved to cook and took great pride in preparing his family's favorites. He was happiest doing anything with, or for, his family and never missed an opportunity to tell them how much he loved them and how proud he was to have them in his life.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be directed to the family. Online condolences may be left at www.merrittfh.com.

St. Margaret's Health & Arukah Institute announce collaboration and new area services

PRINCETON - St. Margaret's Health - Spring Valley was the recipient of a Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) grant to support expanding behavioral health services to our area. This grant will provide $2 million dollars each year for two years to establish a Certified Community Behavioral Health Clinic, The St. Margaret's Center for Holistic Health & Wellness (CHHW), which will be located in the adjacent space in the Center for Family Health (CFH) in Princeton.

The Center will work primarily with residents of LaSalle, Bureau, Putnam and Marshall counties. A new CHHW program director, Mike Miroux, LCPC, has been hired and recently joined St. Margaret's staff. Construction will begin soon at the site in Princeton.

Miroux has returned to his hometown area and is excited about this opportunity. "I think the Center for Holistic Health and Wellness will be looked at as a leader and model for providing innovate and effective behavioral health services in rural communities," he said. "I am Illinois Valley."

to break down barriers that people often encounter when they try and get help. In addition to counseling, Arukah brings a strong wellness component through complementary therapies and other approaches, which are daily activities that all people can do to stay well.

Arukah will relocate services to the new CHHW once renovation is completed. Any person walking in can receive wellness, counseling, crisis, psychiatry, primary care or group/family therapies. Dr. Sarah B. Scruggs, CEO of Arukah Institute and Lead Evaluator for CHHW remarks, "We see this as a powerful way to increase care options and provide on-demand care for people in our rural area. We value our partnerships with OSF and other providers in the area, and the goal here is . . . to be a safe landing spot for people that are struggling, and to find out what's best for the person and get them there."

Only half of the work will occur in a physical place. The other half will be in the community when and where people are in need. The new CHHW will provide on-demand, mobile services 24/7 law enforcement in order to provide proper and timely help to those needing mental healthcare and/or interventions. Chief Tom Kammerer of the Princeton Police Department has been a driving force for this in our area. Princeton, Spring Valley, and Peru police departments and the Bureau County Sheriff's Office have been early adopters of this model. "The provision of 24/7 crisis response will help the police and emergency rooms divert people in need of services to a more appropriate type of care. Chief Kammerer said they have already trained more than half of their officers in Crisis Intervention Training (CIT) and all staff has some measure of mental health training.

Individuals often struggle with other "non-medical" health concerns as well. termed social determinants of health, which are responsible for 85 percent of a person's overall health. This includes reliable employment, food, education, housing, social support and family. The CHHW will leverage collaborations of the C5-Rural Network (Collaborative Complementary, Convenorganizations to join, and the network has grown to 36 members including members from LaSalle, Bureau, Marshall and Putnam counties. They have been successful at bringing entities together to learn how to work together. Dr. Scruggs comments, "Inter-organizational collaborative care is difficult to do well, but it's vital in an area like ours where resources are limited and people are underserved. C5-Rural has shown that this is possible, but requires good communication, trust and creativity to develop new workflows among otherwise separate organizations."

The grant will allow the hiring of clinicians to support medical providers caring for patients needing mental health and substance abuse services. Hiring is underway for Licensed Clinical Social Workers (LCSW), Licensed Clinical Professional Counselors (LCPC) and Behavioral Health Care Coordinators. While the primary location will be in Princeton, they plan to have counselors in some larger primary care clinics to improve timely access to services and improve mental health services and assist physicians and nurse practitioners in attending to held in territory that was still under the control of the Confederacy. Those slaves had to wait until Union forces captured their territory, which, in many cases, did not happen until near the end of the war.

Most historians date the end of the war as April 9, 1865, when Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee, who led the Army of Northern Virginia, surrendered to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox. But not all Confederate armies surrendered at that time.

It was more than two months later, on June 19, 1865, when federal forces reached Galveston, Texas, and informed enslaved people in that city, and throughout Texas, that they had been freed.

Juliana Stratton, Illinois' first Black lieutenant governor and a descendent of enslaved people from Mississippi, spoke about her own ancestors who continued to be held in bondage even after the Emancipation Proclamation was signed and said that for them, Juneteenth was "the true Independence Day." "Juneteenth is a time of celebration," she said. "Juneteenth is a time of telling our stories of hope. Juneteenth is a declaration of faith that despite chattel slavery, we will never stop fighting for freedom; that despite black codes right here in Illinois that discouraged free blacks to live in this state, we will never stop fighting for freedom; that despite lynchings and other forms of racialized violence that happened two blocks away from where we stand right now, that we would never stop fighting for freedom."

Under the new law, June 19 will be recognized as an official state holiday and all flags covered by the Illinois Flag Display Act will be flown at half-staff. In addition, a Juneteenth flag will fly over the State Capitol in Springfield.

Juneteenth will also be a paid holiday for state workers and public school employees whenever that day falls on a weekday, which will happen first in 2023.

Currently, 48 states recognize Juneteenth as either a ceremonial or official state holiday.

The Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum is currently displaying a rare signed copy of the Emancipation Proclamation. It is one of 48 copies that were made and sold to raise money for sick or wounded Civil War soldiers in 1864, all signed by Lincoln, Secretary of State William Seward and Lincoln's aide John Nicolay. Of those copies, only 27 are known to still exist.

The original, hand-written version that Lincoln signed in 1863 was destroyed in the Chicago Fire of 1871. (Capitol News Illinois

More information is available at allin.illinois.gov.

Pritzker and IDPH Director Dr. Ngozi Ezike said they were hopeful that the lottery would increase vaccine participation to continue to drive positivity rates and hospitalizations downward. They noted vaccinations remain free for Illinoisans at a variety of locations, such as mass vaccination sites, local health departments, chain and small pharmacies, doctors' offices and Federally Qualified Health Centers.

"While our vaccination numbers in Illinois are good, we can't stop there. We still need more people, as many people as possible, and there is a pool of 3 million eligible people who are not yet vaccinated. We still need you to step up and get vaccinated," Ezike said. Ezike and Pritzker also noted that more dangerous variants of the virus are gaining steam, and as long as there are unvaccinated individuals in whom the virus can find a home, it could continue to become more dangerous as a variant. According to the IDPH website, the state has identified 64 cases of the delta variant first found in India. That strain is a "variant of concern," according to federal health officials, and could be more transmissible and cause more severe symptoms for those who are unvaccinated. "We have to stop this virus from circulating before it mutates to the point that we get a variant that threatens the vaccine immunity that the 70 percent of us... are already pursuing. And the way to stop that is through vaccination," Ezike said. Donna Thompson, CEO of ACCESS Community Health Network where Pritzker announced the lottery. noted the inequities the virus has laid bare, especially in the predominantly Black and brown communities in the Chicago area, which her organization serves.

"We have seen up close the devastating effects that the virus has had on our communities and how health disparities and inequities have also compounded the risk for our patients and local residents," she said. "We are also seeing disturbing divides across our communities – those that are vaccinated, and have the freedom to go and return to a normal life, and then those that are unvaccinated, and are restricted due to their status, and often cases, presenting with serious cases of COVID at our health centers, or worse, at local emergency departments."

7 factors that will drive U.S., global ag markets

By ASHLEY RICE FarmWeek

BLOOMINGTON - Where is trade policy under the Biden administration headed? What will influence markets?

Daniel Whitley, acting administrator at the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service, outlined seven critical factors that will influence U.S. and global agricultural markets during the

- Growth in the middle class around the
- · How China will decide to interact with the rest of the world; • The role of the U.S. dollar in commodity
- The role of trade liberalization, or the
- removal of tariff and other barriers in trade; Agriculture's role in addressing climate next decade. They include:

 New products in agriculture such as hemp and plant-based meats.

He said China, trade liberalization and climate change will have the largest impact of the seven. "I view China as being a fork in the road,"

Whitley said during a Council on Food, Agriculture, and Resource Economics webinar. "Whether or not they're going to embrace their leadership responsibilities, embrace their economic power or whether they're going to choose a path of isolation, one with not many allies. So, I think China and how they interact with the rest of the world, particularly with the United States, will be key to the global ag markets."

Then there's the question of whether retaliatory tariffs are here to stay or if a switch will be made to trade liberalization.

"Just seven or eight years ago I would have never imagined that governments and countries would use tariffs as a tool to impact policy to address policy concerns," Whitley said. "Is that the new norm?" Whitley also sees the agriculture industry as a major player in addressing climate change.

"I think the world as a whole is taking climate change seriously," said Whitley. "I think agriculture will be a major, major industry that helps address climate change issues. I think that's going to lead to changes in ag trade specifically."

She noted that it is very helpful for parents and students to complete registration forms and free and reduced lunch forms, if needed. All necessary information and forms will be posted for download at www.mendotahs.org. This year, all parents and students are required to return a signature page that verifies they have access to the online handbooks.

Detailed information will also be sent home regarding an incoming freshman and new student orientation event taking place on Aug. 10. Parents are encouraged to start making medical appointments for 9th grade physicals, sports physicals and/ or mandated vaccinations. Seniors need the MCV4 booster; freshmen need the Measles, Mumps, and Rubella series. Aughenbaugh also encourages incoming freshman parents to make dental appointments and take care of the mandated 9th grade dental form.

Personnel

Several personnel recommendations were presented by Aughenbaugh and approved by the board. Taylor Schneider was hired as a paraprofessional in the Functional Life Skills

Halley Hoffman, who graduated in May from Indiana University, was hired as a new math and Spanish teacher. Her teaching assignment will include Algebra I, Geometry and Spanish I. Aughenbaugh said Hoffman was also very excited to accept the football and basketball cheerleading sponsorship.

Kristi Barajas was approved as yearbook advisor after the resignation of Aaron Sester. Prior to resigning, Sester began training Barajas for the position. Aughenbaugh said Barajas has several years of yearbook experience and a great deal of interest in the position. MHS is still seeking a physical education teacher and two paraprofessionals. Commendations

Aughenbaugh recognized Aaron Sester and Jason Artman, who have been working on Illinois Civics projects, and also Matt Gehm, who is working on summer projects. Sester and Artman are working on a Service Learning Project through the Illinois Civics Hub and Lou Frey Institute at the University of Central Florida, which involves a prairie/pollinator garden project.

She also commended band director, Paula Baker and the MHS Concert Band and Jazz Band and co-director, Jon Steben. The band's summer concert took place outdoors last week and was very well attended.

Lying for confessions

By Scott Reeder

Imagine living in a place where police can detain children and lie to them to obtain confessions for crimes they did not commit.

North Korea? China? Cuba?

Try the United States of America.

"Right now, it is legal in all 50 states to lie to a juvenile to obtain a confession. And Illinois has a reputation as the false confession capital of the nation," said John Hanlon, executive director of the Springfield-based Illinois Innocence Project.

Last month, Illinois lawmakers passed legislation prohibiting police from using deceptive methods during interrogations of juveniles. The measure now sits on Gov. J.B. Pritzker's desk and, if signed, will make Illinois the first state to prohibit the practice.

It's a step in the right direction. But it doesn't go far enough. Police officers shouldn't be allowed to lie to anyone during interrogations.

In 1969, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in Frazier vs. Cupp that police officers can lie to obtain confessions. I'm hard pressed to think of any other case where the high court has endorsed the notion that it's OK for government to lie to its citizens. And in this case the justices were as flat out wrong as earlier courts were in Plessy vs. Ferguson where they ruled in favor of racial segregation, or in Korematsu v. United States, in which they ruled that Japanese Americans could be placed in internment camps.

The court was wrong in these cases and it is equally wrong in Frazier vs. Cupp. It should never be acceptable for government to lie to its own citizens.

During the decades I've covered police departments and courts, I can tell you interrogation rooms are rife

'Police officers will go up to someone and say things that aren't true like 'Your friend in the other room has given you up.' Or, 'Sign this confession and you'll get to go home.' Or, 'We found your fingerprints at the crime scene," Hanlon said.

In 2015, the Illinois Innocence Project successfully exonerated Christopher Abernathy after he served 30 years in prison. After over 40 hours of interrogation the 18-year-old with learning disabilities falsely confessed to a murder. Officers told him if he confessed he could go home to his mother. Instead, he was arrested, convicted and sentenced to life behind bars. After 30 years of incarceration, IIP obtained DNA testing that exonerated and freed him.

"In Illinois there have been 100 wrongful convictions predicated on false confessions - 31 involving juveniles. Illinois has taken a critical step in changing the trajectory of false confessions and subsequent wrongful convictions resulting from these types of interrogation tactics," said Lauren Kaeseberg, IIP legal director.

Juveniles are particularly vulnerable during interrogations because their minds are not yet fully developed and they are more easily susceptible to the power of suggestion, said Emily Haney-Caron, an assistant professor of psychology at John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York.

Others view the legislature's action as far too tepid. "The Illinois Legislature took a nice first step but it really doesn't go far enough. Police shouldn't be allowed to lie to anyone – whether they are an adult or a juvenile," said Saul Kassin, a distinguished professor of psychology at John Jay.

Kassin added it is time for the Supreme Court to revisit the Frasier vs. Cupp decision.

"Look how much we have learned about psychology in the last 50 years. Most people come into these interrogations unaware that the police can lie to them. People can be psychologically manipulated into confessing to crimes they didn't commit – particularly when they are lied to. It confuses their reality. The Supreme Court decision predates the Innocence Project movement. We know now that thousands of people have been wrongly convicted – many through false confessions.'

While the Illinois legislation does not go far enough, it is momentous nonetheless. Illinois has gone further than any other state in restricting when police officers can lie to those they have sworn to serve.

Let us hope this is just a beginning. It should never be acceptable for officers to lie to get a confession.

When The Mendota Reporter came out on June 23, 1949 - 50 years ago today – it carried a banner headline.

Street Widening Project Gets The work, which would involve

The Mendota Hospital Foundation held its fifth annual meeting on June 20, 1949, at which attendance was small. The membership of the hospital board was doubled, going from nine to 18, and another meeting, with the new board, was called for June 27. Bids on building plumbing, heating, ventilating and electrical work totaled $315,000. Before contracts could be awarded an additional $137,000 was needed. The Elks agreed to donate $10,000 of that amount if the remaining $127,000 was raised. Supporters of the hospital drive were convinced the people of Mendota wanted a new modern hospital. China leapfrogs U.S. on defense spending

By Rich Lowry

Joe Biden isn't known for his austerity, except when it comes to the nation's defense.

As part of his welcome emphasis on competition with China, the president cajoled reluctant European countries at the G-7 summit into releasing a statement critical of China, on top of the announcement of an infrastructure program meant to counter China's Belt and Road Initiative.

That's all fine as far as it goes, but a glaring omission from Biden's campaign is a defense budget that reflects the growing challenge from Beijing.

Indeed, Biden justifies almost any increased domestic spending as designed to check China's ambitions, at the same time he neglects what is most needful to keep China from dominating its region and waging war on our allies or perhaps the U.S. itself.

If we can deter China from taking Taiwan with subsidies for electric cars, Biden is inarguably the Churchill of his time.

If we can counter China's defense buildup with more funding for affordable housing, Biden deserves to take his place beside Alfred Thayer Mahan or George Kennan as great strategic thinkers.

Otherwise, his approach is lacking, and disturbingly so. Biden's infrastructure plan, a sprawling proposal that would spend $2.3 trillion on everything from roads and bridges to affordable housing and elder care, is about the "global competition with China," the president insists.

By Biden's way of thinking, whatever progressives have wanted to do for years is suddenly a priority in the new Cold War. The left-wing "explainer" website Vox now claims, "Improving domestic infrastructure and investing in new and emerging technologies, especially clean energy technology, is the best way the U.S. can challenge China for supremacy on the world stage." The publication quoted a Democratic congressional aide, "The best way to enact a progressive agenda is to use China [as a] threat."

There are indeed areas of advanced technology that we need to invest in, especially semi-conductors and artificial intelligence (a $250 billion Senate bill passed last week is an imperfect step in this direction), but it's not true that we can simply windmill our way to victory over China. Although you might miss it listening to Biden, there are threats from China that don't involve infrastructure spending or clean energy initiatives. China has been growing its annual defense spending by more than 6% a year. It has now surpassed the U.S. and technically has the largest navy in the world. It is on pace to double its nuclear weapons over the next

It has flown hundreds of sorties near Taiwan this year, and a top U.S. admiral warns that it could invade in the next

Given all that, one might expect the openhanded Biden to invest substantially in a stronger, more advanced U.S. military, but his profligacy doesn't extend so far. He increased defense budget spending by about 2%, which won't even keep up with inflation. This doesn't come close to what we realistically need. Chairman of the Joint Chiefs Mark Milley said at a U.S. Naval

Institute event late last year, "We're going to have to have a much larger fleet than we have today, if we're serious about great power competition and deterring great power war." He called for a 3-5% increase in the budget every year but didn't think that was plausible because of fiscal constraints (little did he know, the $6 trillion blowout to come in every other area of the budget). We should be spending more on defense, and spending differently. With an eye to deterring conflict with China, we need to recalibrate in a serious way to focus on advanced technologies and weapons systems for the Navy and Air Force, and in space. Hypersonics, directed energy, and control of the electromagnetic spectrum should be particular priorities. Biden has no excuse for not pursuing this. It's not as though he can say we can't afford it.

Regional superintendents address Illinois teacher shortage

By RAYMON TRONCOSO

Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – Following a February survey of school districts that illustrated a persistent teacher shortage in the state, the Illinois Association of Regional Superintendents of Schools has released policy recommendations calling for better benefits and more lenient certification in an effort to reverse the trend.

The IARSS, which serves as an intermediary between local school districts and the Illinois State Board of Education, had the survey conducted between September and October to see how school districts were faring with the supply of professional and substitute teachers during the 2020-2021 school year amid the coronavirus pandemic.

Illinois was split into seven regions for the purpose of the survey, and school districts reported the shortage was worst in west central and southeastern Illinois.

White papers developed in response to the survey give seven policy recommendations as ways to combat it from the local to statewide level. The two primary methods discussed in the white paper are improving teacher pay and lessening the restrictions on certifications teachers need in order to get hired.

Compensation

When it comes to compensation, it's not as simple as just increasing teachers' salaries, according to IARSS President Mark Klaisner.

"One of the misnomers has been that you can just throw money at salary," Klaisner said in an interview with Capitol News Illinois. It was just two years ago that Illinois passed a law raising teacher pay, with a mandated minimum of $40,000 by the 2023 school year. Representatives of the IARSS filed witness slips in opposition to the minimum wage increase during committee hearings on the matter in 2019.

While Klaisner said that action was taken

While Klaisner said that action was taken in an effort to address the teacher shortage, he believes it actually had the opposite effect in many places, particularly in the rural, less affluent regions of the state.

"Unfortunately, small school districts were reporting to me, that didn't solve a problem it caused a problem, because if I have to pay a minimum of ($40,000), I'm going to let a couple teachers go so I have money to meet the 40 threshold," Klaisner said. "Now my class sizes go up, so education's not better. All I've done is I've moved a problem from one column to the other column."

According to Klaisner, without additional funding, schools in rural areas have to make the difficult choice between offering a lower relative salary – which makes them less competitive than their metro counterparts – and cutting some positions to add the difference to core positions to attract applicants.

The National Education Association lists

the state's average teacher salary at $68,000, and the average starting salary at $40,484. But in the most rural and underserved areas of the state, particularly in the west central and southeastern regions, open positions offer the state's bare minimum, which is increasing from $32,000 in the current school year to just under $35,000 for the 2021-2022 school year starting in August.

"We know there's certain sectors of the state that's suffering more than others," John Meixner, a regional superintendent who oversees Fulton, Hancock, McDonough and Schuyler counties said in a podcast on education.

"A normal teaching position opens up and an applicant pool up in (Cook County) may have, instead of 150 applicants you might only have 20, whereas instead of having 10 we have zero," he added. "I mean literally we've had positions, dozens of positions where zero applicants apply."

Longstanding problems with the Teachers Retirement System – the pension plan for all Illinois public school teachers outside of the Chicago Public Schools district – have also served as a barrier to attracting applicants to the profession.

The Tier II retirement system available to those hired after 2010 requires teachers work until they are 67 years old to receive full benefits. It also provides less compensation in retirement as their contribution to the plan also works to pay down the unfunded liability of teachers enrolled in the previous pension plan.

On the salary front LARSS is recommendations.

On the salary front, IARSS is recommending school districts lobby the state to approve state-funded loan forgiveness programs for teachers who take jobs in underserved areas, as well as experiment with signing bonuses to attract new applicants.

The IARSS also recommends amending the pension plan to allow teachers to retire at 55 years of age for reduced rates.

Certification

Currently, becoming a teacher in Illinois requires a Professional Educator License. To receive one, a prospective teacher requires at least a bachelor's degree, student teaching experience, the completion of a state-approved teaching program and a licensing test.

Licensing tests are split into several grade levels, and teachers certified in one grade level are not considered suitable for hire under a different grade level unless they successfully pass a license exam for that as well.

An educator certified for early childhood can hold a position teaching from birth to grade 2, while an elementary certified educator can teach from grade 1 to 6, and a middle grades educator from grades 5 to 8.

During the pandemic, ISBE, in conjunction with the Illinois Community College Board and Illinois Board of Higher Education, granted endorsement waivers as part of Gov. JB Pritzker's emergency order to allow schools to fill positions with teachers certified for grade levels or subjects other than the ones they were hired to teach.

IARSS recommends continuing this practice as a temporary measure as well as auditing whether current licensing restrictions are unnecessary or have exacerbated shortages.

For endorsement areas with a high rate of unfilled positions, such as special education, mathematics and school psychologists, IARSS has recommended ISBE look at increasing funding for higher education programs offering certificates in those fields, as well as creating pipelines to transition students from rural school districts to nearby colleges to become teachers in short-staffed positions.

Education budget

After initially keeping funding for K-12 education flat at about $8.8 billion for the fiscal year in his initial February budget proposal for the 2022 fiscal year, Pritzker reversed course earlier this month and announced he was calling for $350 million to be added to the budget for education.

That's in line with the evidence-based school funding model of 2017, which calls for that amount of money to be added to the formula each year.

Education advocates, including bipartisan members of the General Assembly, have strongly praised the evidence-based funding model, which allocates state dollars to districts according to the gap between them and what the state considers to be a required level of adequacy. Each district's adequacy target is determined by a school district's ability to fund proper staffing, student resources and moderate class sizes, among other factors.

Klaisner suggested the state should use that evidence-based formula to distribute federal COVID-19 stimulus dollars, including around $5 billion for education received as part of the American Rescue Plan signed by President Joe Biden. Pritzker, as well as the U.S. Department of Education, has placed parameters on how funding should be spent, and both have strongly discouraged using the stimulus money to pay salaries.

So far, school districts have used the stimulus money they have received in ways as varied as the school districts themselves. According to Klaisner, one school district used what he called "flash in the pan money"—one time funds that should be used for one-time expenditures and not long-term costs like teacher salary—to replace its decade-old fleet of buses.

In Collinsville, a city of under 30,000 located in the Metro East region near St. Louis, the school district used $300,000 in stimulus funds to construct a broadband tower, creating a private network to provide high-speed internet access to underserved students and their families throughout the school district.

Ongoing inequities

While an analysis shows the teacher shortage has actually improved over the last four years, particularly in suburban and urban parts of the state, there continues to be a great disparity in the availability of teachers between rural and metropolitan regions.

A post-survey analysis by the IARSS shows geographic location was the number one factor negatively impacting recruitment, ahead of salary and pension. Over 50 percent of school districts said their geographic location had a negative impact.

In 2019, Cook County and surrounding collar counties had 240 unfilled or underfilled positions, while that number was 228 for the west central region. By 2020, Cook County had reduced that figure to just 91, while the west central region had 257 unfilled positions. The disparities also exist along racial lines. When controlling for the size of the district, the IARSS analysis found that the racial makeup of the student body – even more than location – was the number one predictor of whether positions in that district would be underfilled or have below-average retention rates for staff.

The higher the proportion of white students a school district had, the fewer underfilled positions.

The analysis also concluded that there was no association between vacancies and the proportion of low-income students, and that racial demographics were also a greater factor than the proportion of English-learning or English-as-a-second-language students. Klaisner noted that research shows students who belong to an ethnic or racial minority benefit when at least one of their instructors belong to the same racial or ethnic group as them.

"We see all over the state, the demographics are very clear that oftentimes our staffs don't represent the students that they serve, and we feel like that would be a value add, if not essential," he said, pointing to policies like minority teacher grants and ISBE initiatives to recruit teachers of color.

Despite this, the IARSS white paper concluded the most important predictors of success when it came to hiring and retaining staff was educator pay and how close the school district was to a teacher preparation program. Stakeholders should focus on addressing these factors, according to the analysis.

"While districts may not be able to change their geography or student demographics, they do have some control over teacher salaries, and institutions of higher education have some role to play in working to serve the state's 'higher education deserts,'" the IARSS said in their report.

IVCC OKs dental hygiene as AAS degree

OGLESBY - Dental hygiene was approved as an Associate of Applied Science degree by Illinois Valley Community College trustees on June 10. The program will begin in fall 2023 after students have met prerequisites.

Each year, 10-15 students leave the district to study dental hygiene at neighboring community colleges, said Dental Assisting Program Coordinator Heather

"The colleges are located at least an hour from IVCC," Seghi said. "This program will meet the needs of local dentists while assuring a quality education for those pursuing dental hygiene close to home.

To qualify, students must first complete IVCC's dental assisting program or another Illinois American Dental Association-Commission on Dental Accreditation (ADA-CODA) dental assisting program.

The AAS includes courses in nutrition, microbiology, chemistry, periodontology, pain management, pharmacology, anatomy and physiology, psychology, oral pathology and more.

In other business, IVCC President Jerry Corcoran revealed the college's response to the state moving to Phase 5 of the Governor's Restore Illinois plan including:

• The return of all student

• Daily sanitizing of high-touch areas and temperature-monitoring will remain through the summer. Contact tracing will be conducted when necessary.

• Students and staff not fully vaccinated are still expected to wear face masks and practice social distancing.

• This fall, 74 percent of classes will return to a traditional, in-person format. In other business, trustees approved submission of three projects totaling over $13 million to the Community College Capital Resource Allocation Management Program (RAMP): • A Library/Student Success Center for $5.5 million; the million. The Center would be a one-stop for academic support services such as tutoring, student help desk and the library. • A Professional Development Center for $3 million with the college's share at $770,800. The Center for Excellence in Teach-college's share would be $1.3

is now the Learning Commons. • A $4.4 million Agriculture Center (with IVCC's share $1.1 million) to house a classroom and lab. It will be located adjacent to the equipment storage facility

ing, Learning and Assessment

(CETLA) would move into what south of campus.

The board also approved:

· Renewal of workers' compensation insurance with Illinois Counties Risk Management Trust for $67,389, a decrease of $12,669. • A three-year contract extension with G4S Secure Solutions. • A 2.5 increase in compensation for 246 employees not affected by a labor agreement.

• Closed session minutes from May 13.

• Transfer of $539,063 to a Capital Development Board trust account as the college's share for a 75 percent state-funded exterior maintenance project. The state's share will be $1.6 million for work to prevent air and moisture infiltration. • Authorization to continue payment for standard operating expenditures from July 1 through budget adoption. • Contracts for Vice President for Business Services and Finance Cheryl Roelfsema, Vice President for Academic Affairs Deborah Anderson and Vice President for Student Services Mark Grzybowski.

The board learned: · Assessment Center coordinator Sarah Trager and custodian Ben Simpson were granted leave of absences. • Part-time Computer Aided sein will retire after 20 years. "I would like to thank (CAD program coordinator) Dorene Data for the opportunity and good guidance through everything," Bouxsein said.

 IVCC women's soccer coach Rey Arteaga resigned after five seasons. Arteaga brought the team from a roster of only eight players in his first season to a winning program. · Andrea Sergeant has been hired as accounts receivable specialist/cashier and Bret Rice as a third-shift custodian.

· A letter from Oglesby Mayor Dominic Rivara revealed the city's desire to construct a 1-megawatt solar station on 10 acres of college land. IVCC could add 4 additional panels for solar training. If approved, the annexation would allow Oglesby to serve the college with electric, water and sewer services at competitive rates, Rivara said.

• This spring across 10 sports, overall GPA of IVCC student athletes was 3.04. Women's GPA was 3.09, men's 2.98.

• Trustee Maureen Rebholz of La Salle was honored June 4 at the Illinois Community College Trustees Association Annual Awards banquet in Normal for being IVCC's nominee for the statewide Distinguished Alumnus Award.

Cannabis certificate scholarships offered

OGLESBY - The Illinois Valley Community College Foundation is offering $1,000 NuEra Scholarships to students enrolled in cannabis production certificate courses beginning with the start of the fall semester

Students enrolling in Introduction to Cannabis Production (AGR-1220) and Crop Pest Management (AGR-1218) are automatically eligible to receive the award. Students will receive $500 in fall and $500 in the spring as they continue through the certificate. Funds can be used for tuition, fees, books, or required educational expenses.

To receive the award, students should first register for the required courses and then contact Donna Swiskoski in the Foundation at donna swiskoski@ivcc.edu or (815) 224-0551.

NuEra Principle Officer Keith McGinnis of Ottawa made a donation of $100,000 to IVCC's cannabis production program in March. Headquartered in Wheaton, NuEra operates a cultivation center in Hillcrest, with medical dispensaries in Chicago, East Peoria and Urbana. It serves the adult use cannabis market with facilities in East Peoria, Pekin, Champaign, Urbana and Chicago.

Q: I'm really enjoying the new comedy "Hacks" on HBO Max. It's yet another brilliant performance by Jean Smart, whom I've watched since her "Designing Women" days. Has she ever won an Emmy or Oscar? She certainly deserves one. -- P.W. A: Jean Smart, who will turn 70 this year, was best known for playing Charlene on the hit sitcom "Designing Women" in the late 1980s. Shortly after it ended, she took a big dramatic leap and wowed critics in the TV biopic "Overkill: The Aileen Wuornos Story." Adept at both comedy and drama, she easily switched genres, most notably as a Mrs. Robinson type in "The Brady Bunch Movie" and later as the head of a crime syndicate in the TV series "Fargo."

In "Hacks," Smart plays a struggling comic who reluctantly hires a young writer, played by newcomer Hannah Einbinder, to spice up her act. Einbinder is the daughter of "Saturday Night Live" alum Laraine Newman. As for Smart's fireplace mantle at home, it has room for some more Emmys after previous wins as Outstanding Guest Actress on the sitcom "Frasier" and Outstanding Supporting Actress in the comedy series "Samantha Who?," which starred Christina Applegate. "Hacks" is a real showcase for her talent, so don't be surprised if her agent is already telling her to prepare her acceptance speech.

Q: I'm excited about the "reboot" of the series "Dexter." It had such an unsatisfying finale, so hopefully they'll rectify that. I would love it if Dexter's wife Rita could come back, but I guess that's not possible. -- G.T.

A: Even though it's been over a decade since Julie Benz, who played Rita, departed "Dexter," she says fans still approach her about her angelic character, and jokes that in real life, she's not that nice. She also said in an interview with TVLine. com that even though "Dexter has moved way past Rita," she would reprise the character "in a heartbeat if

Her latest role was a meaty one and the polar opposite of Rita. She starred in the recent they asked."

Lifetime movie "Secrets of a Gold Digger Killer," which was based on the true-crime tale of Celeste Beard. "Dexter" returns to Showtime this fall with Michael C. Hall and Clancy Brown ("SpongeBob SquarePants"). It reportedly will be set in upstate New York instead of Miami.

Q: I was really sad to read that Ned Beatty died. Had he acted in recent years? -- T.T.

A: Ned Beatty started out as a theater actor, but his first film role was a memorable one, in "Deliverance." A few years later he was nominated for an Oscar in the Best Supporting Actor category for "Network." His television career was just as impressive with notable parts on classics like "The Rockford Files," "Highway to Heaven" and "Homicide: Life on the Street." He also endeared himself to both children and adults as the purple bear Lotso in "Toy Story 3."

Beatty passed peacefully in his sleep at home at the age of 83.

Hollywood

By Tony Rizzo HOLLYWOOD -- How

long should someone charged with the alleged sexual assault of 20 young men be ostracized? Kevin Spacey -- best supporting actor Oscar winner (for "The Usual Suspects" 1995) and best actor Oscar (for "American Beauty," 1999) -- watched his world crash down in 2017 when actor Anthony Rapp alleged Spacey made sexual advances toward him when he was 14 years old. When 15 other young men came forward claiming similar abuse, filming was suspended of the fifth season of "House of Cards," and Spacey was removed as star and executive producer. He also was replaced by the late Christopher Plummer in "All the Money in the World," for which Plummer received an Oscar nomination.

The news that Spacey has been signed to do a cameo, opposite Vanessa Redgrave and Franco Nero (best known as Lancelot in "Camelot"), who also is directing the Italian film "L'uomo Che Disegno Dio" ("The Man Who Drew God"), sent shock waves through the Hollywood community. It's furious that Franco Nero has given Spacey a film when his blacklist time was definitely NOT up!

O n happier note: Oscar

D. Messing nominee Timothee Chalamet will play a young Willy Wonka (Gene Wilder was an older Wonka in the 1971 "Willie Wonka") and will unveil his singing pipes in the film. Willy Wonka is a staple in casinos, where the musical and magical slot machines entertain so many. Also unveiling her singing pipes is "Will & Grace" Emmy winner Debra Messing, who, although she starred in 2012's 32-episode musical series "Smash" (about Marilyn Monroe), didn't sing much. She's been set to star for Netflix in "13: The Musical," based on the Broadway musical that ran from 2008-09 and served as the debut vehicle for singer Ariana Grande and actress Elizabeth Gillies.

Yet another comeback story is Lindsay Lohan, getting an assist from Netflix, which has named her to star in an as-yet-untitled holiday rom-com being directed by Janeen Damian, wife of former "The Young and The Restless" soap star Michael Damian, who co-wrote the script with her and has recently directed two films for the Hallmark Channel.

"Queen Bees" (PG-13) -- If it took you 20 years to finally get over the anxiety of high school cliques, "Queen Bees" shows that it all comes back again later in life. Ellen Burstyn plays Helen, a silver single moving into a senior living community. There she encounters all the same personality conflicts from her school days as she tries to navigate the social strata of Pine Grove. "They're like mean girls, but with medical alert bracelets," Helen quips. Jane Curtin, Loretta Devine and Ann-Margaret round out the cool girls' table, with Christopher Lloyd and James Caan providing comedic support and romantic interest. (Theaters and Prime Video) "Luca" (PG) -- Luca and Alberto are two young boys finding adventure on the 1950s Italian Riviera, making new friends and living their best lives. The twist? They're not actually human boys, but underwater sea creatures who become humanlike when they rise above the sea's surface. While concealing their secret in lots of near-miss situations, the boys ride Vespa scooters and eat gelatos, practicing their Italian accents with a few choice phrases. Pixar Studios continues to amaze and delight with its visuals, once again surpassing its own levels of excellence in animation. (Disney+) 'Skyfall" (PG-13) -- Once again delivering exquisite cinematography of exotic locales, this 2012 film is the third installment in Daniel Craig's reign as James Bond. With 007 returning to MI6 after mission failure and subsequent personal disappearance, Bond rises like the phoenix to take on one of the creepiest villains ever, expertly portrayed by Javier Bardem. The movie's stunning conclusion is explosive and a bit overly dramatic, but ties together Bond's past with his present, ushering in a shocking change to the MI6 organization. (New to Paramount+)

"Bo Burnham: Inside" (NR) -- It is a bit of a misnomer to call this a comedy special because it's not your typical guy-onstage-telling-jokes presentation. Performed without an audience and entirely inside comedian/musician Bo Burnham's apartment over the full year of 2020, "Inside" is 87 minutes of devilishly original songs and commentary covering subjects from white privilege to labor exploitation and self-deprecation. Despite the heavy topics, it IS hysterically funny, and exceptionally clever. With laser lights and voice modulators, Burnham is self-admittedly a little all over the place, but the genius that emerged from his own mental struggles is well worth a watch -- but definitely not for the kids. (Netflix)

"Miss Juneteenth" (NR) --When a former pageant winner sees her teenage daughter at a crossroads in life, she encourages her to enter the same scholarship pageant that she won years earlier. With a full ride to a Historically Black College as the prize for the winner of Miss Juneteenth, mom Turquoise has high hopes of daughter Kai making more of her life than she herself was able to accomplish. Nicole Beharie is wonderful as the ever-supportive but always firm mother to newcomer Alexis Chikaeze in this SXSW Film Festival award-winner. (Theaters/video on demand)

Make choices that don't waste your time

God wants us to continually make good choices for our lives. So He's given us the Bible—His Word—as an instruction book to live by. The thing is, once we know what it says, we're responsible to do what it says. Because there's never a time when it's all right to do the wrong

As we study God's Word, we discover wisdom that applies to every area of our lives. And the best thing we can do is promptly obey God when He brings correction or direction to us. But there are times when we make bad choices anyway, and we experience the pain of our mistakes.

God is our Father, and just as earthly parents discipline their children to keep them from harm and help them see what is in their best interest, God sometimes requires us to face the consequences of our disobedience.

It's important to understand that when God corrects us, it's not because He's mad at us, but because He loves us. And if we follow His instructions, then we're going to have a life that's full of peace, joy, and emotional stability.

God cares about every area of our lives and He wants to be involved in everything we do. He wants to help us make good choices in how we dress, what we eat, who we hang out with, how we spend our money... about everything in our

Even if you have a lot of areas where you need to change and grow, you don't have to feel discouraged. As you become more deeply rooted in God's love, it gets easier to do what He asks because you know He has your best interests at heart.

The question is: Do you value His opinion? Will you allow Him to continually work in your

When you really love Jesus, you're committed to righteousness. You want to do the right thing because it's right... because you love Him, not just to try to earn God's love or a reward from Him.

The good news is we never have to worry about earning God's love. Romans 5:8 says, "God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us." God loved us before we were born again and made the righteousness of God in Christ (see 2 Corinthians 5:17, 21). He'll always love us, and we don't have to wonder, Am I doing enough?

The truth is, you are not responsible for the results. God is responsible for that. Your responsibility is to keep doing the right thing all the time, no matter what.

It isn't always easy, but it's always worth it. There are going to be times when we'd rather do the wrong thing. But we'll just regret it later. We need to decide that no matter what our circumstances look like or how hard doing the right thing might be, we're going to hold on to our joy because our joy is in Jesus.

Here's a practical example of what I'm saying: Even if I lose my job and the car breaks down and my child comes home with a bad report from school and I've gained five pounds and nothing seems to be working out in my life... even then, I will "rejoice in the Lord always" (Philippians 4:4). Even then, I will do what is right before the Lord.

We don't have to settle for letting our circumstances determine the level of our joy and peace. We can decide today: I'm going whether it's easy or not, and I'm going to trust God to give me the grace to do it. When you're in the middle of hard times and you really don't like your circumstances, the first place to run is God's Word because it has the power to calm you down. Find scriptures about the strength we have in Christ, and then just rest in God's presence and receive His strength. Whatever you need, just go to God's Word. I've seen God do amazing things in me and through me because I've let Him continually work in my life—and you can have that kind of relationship, too.

I encourage you to pray like this: "God, today I'm giving You permission to keep working in my life until You are finished doing all that You need to do. So when I start begging You to back off, please don't. The truth is, I want to do whatever You are calling me to do."

Your relationship with God can be an amazing journey that brings you peace, joy and contentment in every area of life, if you will simply choose to follow Him.

Written by Thomas Merton, 1968:

My Lord God, I have no idea

I have no idea where I am going. I do not see the road ahead of me. I cannot know for certain where it will end.

Nor do I really know myself, and the fact that I think I am following your will does not mean that I am actually doing so. But I believe that the desire to please you does in fact please you.

And I hope I have that desire in all that I am doing.

I hope that I will never do anything apart from that desire.

And I know that if I do this you will lead me by the right road, though I may know nothing about it.

Therefore will I trust you always though I may seem to be lost and in the shadow of death.

I will not fear, for you are ever with me, and you will never leave me to face my perils alone.
