Stillman tax plans pass

People arrive at the Stillman Fire Protection District building in Stillman Valley to vote on Tuesday, April 6. (Brad Jen-

School, fire protection districts both see referendum wins

By Brad Jennings Editor

STILLMAN VALLEY – There were a variety of positions up for grabs in the April 6 election, from school boards to park district boards to various village and township posi-

But two of the most closely watched questions this year were referendums for the Meridian CUSD 223 and the Stillman Valley Fire Protection District. Both were seeking tax support from local residents, and both got it.

"I was intimately aware of the consequences of this potentially failing," said Meridian CUSD 223 Superintendent Dr. PJ Caposey. "From my eyes, I saw a large negative impact looming for our students, staff, and community. To not be consumed with reductions and to be able to continue our path forward is an amazing opportunity and responsibility for our district now. I cannot wait to be able to focus on the work of improving our district."

Voters overwhelmingly supported permanently extending an education fund tax rate approved seven years ago. The final tally was 1,161 votes in favor of the extension and 770 against Caposey said he was unsure how the vote would go.

"It is funny, leading up to yesterday people would ask me how I thought it was going and I would always laugh," he said the day after the election. "I had no idea. One moment I felt great about the number of signs I saw driving the district. The next I was discouraged by social media banter. So, I definitely did not have a feel for how this would go. I am very pleased with the margin and distribution of votes. That is a very affirming feeling."

"Like anything in agriculture, you are at the mercy of the weather," said Robb from Hough's Maple Lane Farm in Mt. Morris. "For the sap to flow, we need warm, sunny days above freezing and freezing each night. That freezing and thawing creates a positive-negative cycle that pumps the sap that is stored in the roots for winter up towards the trees crown. This year we didn't have a lot of those warm days with freezing nights. Most people are excited for the warm weather of spring to arrive, we are too, but slowly. If it doesn't freeze at night, the sap won't flow the next day. We had an OK season this year, not our worst, not our best. You can't control the weather you can only look forward to next year."

REFERENDUM: Thankful to the community for support

Chad Hoefle, fire chief with the Stillman Valley Fire Protection District, was thankful the morning after voters approved a tax increase for both fire and ambulance funds.

"My general reaction was thankfulness for our entire Fire Protection District," Hoefle said. "A referendum is not something a taxing body wants to do, but when we see the need, especially when it comes to life safety, we have to

"I did feel the community was behind these referendum questions. The feedback we got was extremely positive. Most of the time people don't share their negative thoughts, so I knew we were not going to hear a lot of that, but we did field a lot of questions and I feel we were able to sort those out."

This is the first time since the district formed in 1952 that it requested a tax increase. Both referendums asked for a 0.1 percent property tax increase. The ambulance question passed 743 to 405, and the fire question passed 730 to 419.

"As far as what this means for the Stillman Fire Protection District, this means that we will be working towards our goal of staffing," Hoefle said. "Obviously the funds from this referendum do not come to us right away as they are for the next tax cycle, but we will be planning and making sure that we are upholding the communities confidence with their votes by creating the best plan possible for their Fire Protection and emergency medical needs."

For Caposey, the passage of the referendum means the school district can continue to serve students as it has been.

"First and foremost, we are not in crisis," he said. "As a result, we can continue to build toward our goals and think about potentially expanding our offering instead of contracting. As we said many times over the past year, this was an interesting referendum because we were not raising taxes, but we were also not promising anything new and exciting. So, this quite literally means we get to stay the course and continue the trajectory we are on."

Hoefle said he was thankful for the community they serve and protect.

"I personally am thankful for everyone who came out and voted no matter how they voted, we are happy they exercised their right to vote! From our family to yours, we are thankful," he said.

SYRUP: It takes 43 gallons of sap to make a gallon of syrup

Agriculture in the Classroom has been teaching students throughout Ogle and Carroll counties the five steps to making maple syrup including: tapping the tree, collecting the sap, boiling the sap to let the water evaporate and create syrup, filtering the syrup, and finally bottling the syrup. Sap is 98 percent water so it takes about 43 gallons of sap to make 1 gallon of syrup.

William E. 'Bill' Hogan

BYRON – Longtime Byron resident William E. "Bill" Hogan, age 91, died peacefully Easter Sunday, April 4, 2021 in his home surrounded by his loving family. Bill died due to complications from a fall on the ice this past winter. He was born Oct. 28, 1929 in Byron Township, the son of William L. and Anna Mae (Stine) Hogan, where he attended Byron Schools. Bill was inducted into the U.S. Army in August 1951 where he served his country for two years, including one in Korea at the Kunson K8 Air Base. He married the love of his life, Patricia Ann Kanode in her parent's backyard on Sept. 2, 1950. The two of them recently celebrated 70 years of marriage.

Soon after, he became a Volunteer Firefighter for the Byron Fire Department, eventually being named Assistant Chief. Bill was a jack-ofall trades and lived a full life up until his final days here on Earth.

He was predeceased by his parents, his mother and father-inlaw Pearl and Ray Kanode, sister-in-law Jan, brother Fran Hogan, great-granddaughter Brianna Typer and son-inlaw Les Smithson.

Oregon Park District brings in Easter Bunny for photos with local dogs and their owners

OREGON-The Park District was able to get in touch with the Easter Bunny and arranged for him to stop by Wiggly Field Dog Park where we took some PAWSitively cute pictures of Pups with the Easter Bunny.

Dog lovers registered for an appointment and came with their furry friends. One was in an Easter dress, others wore bunny ears, and one liked showing off his agility skills for the Easter Bunny. It is a memory they will have FUR-ever! The Park District added this event for dogs this year since some of the traditional Easter activities were unavailable due to the CDC/IDPH guidelines. The Easter Bunny enjoyed his short break from coloring eggs and preparing Easter Baskets. The bunny was all smiles and enjoyed hanging out for a bit at Wiggly Field and meeting some of our local four-legged friends. For more information on Wiggly Field membership or programs and events for your pets, visit www.oregonpark.org.

Rights of spring are hurting my back Living

Let's face it – we all lie to ourselves.

Usually they are little lies: I look great today. I don't look fat. I am going to clean the basement this weekend. I can't wait to start jogging.

People say we do this the most at the dawn of the new year. That isn't true. Here, in the Midwest, we do that in the spring.

We are full of great plans and ideas, and I am no different. I have been noticing how badly I need to scrape and paint the trim on our house. I thought about it all winter. I was jacked up to get it done. Now that it is getting warm enough to get out and start the work, I am freezing up like a shy kid on prom night. There are some annual activities that I have to do in the spring, and I have grudgingly started doing them. The first, and worst, is the annual dog poop round up. It took some time but the backyard is finally safe for humans.

Another one I dread is

the clean up of the yard. We live on a corner lot and have a wooded lot that borders a busy street. That means all of the trash horrible human beings throw out of their vehicles ends up in our woods.

Every year, I grab my gloves and garbage bags and pick up as much of the junk as I can. This activity always reminds me of why humanity really doesn't deserve such a beautiful planet – we clearly don't care about it. I pick up all sorts of garbage. The usual suspects were there in force this year - fast food bags, booze bottles, beer cans, water bottles, cigar packages and plastic grocery bags by the handful.

There were a couple of new items this year, of course. Among them were rubber gloves (not a nice sight, I must say), disposable masks (apparently our yard is a great place to dispose of them) and empty hand sanitizer bottles.

COVID hasn't made us any smarter, but it has led to a new variety of trash to pick up.

Yay.

I also moved my Harley and my wife's Harley into the garage. We store them in the sunroom, but for the summer they are in the garage for easy access for rides.

Of course, being just a couple of weeks away from my next "you are very old now" birthday, I tweaked my shoulder moving her bike out. Or maybe it was when I tried to scratch my back. Either way, it is a new pain to add to the growing list.

The screens are going into the windows soon. We have a lot of windows and carrying the windows down to the basement and the screens up takes a lot of effort. Honestly, I would rather spend my time at the patio table having a beer. But it must be done - or so says my wife. Soon it will be time to change the oil on the lawn mower and get it ready for the season. All of the tree limbs that have come down over the winter will need to be picked up. The grill will need a new propane tank and I will have to get some sun on my legs before the shorts come out. OK, the shorts have already come out and the glare off of my white legs has caused two crashes. I'm not proud of it.

So the rites of spring are, well, springing. Next up? The beautiful warmth of summer.

Bring it on.

Elitist ruling class wants you to pay no attention

On Feb. 21, 2021 on Sundays Global Public Square, CNN host Fareed Zakaria commented that the extremist factions of the Republican Party had taken control and would destroy our democracy if they were not able to be disciplined.

I (and possibly half the U.S. population) can read Mr. Zakaria's comments and substitute Democratic Party for Republican Party.

So, who is attacking our democ-

Is it the Republicans? Is it the Democrats? Is it Conservatism? Is it liberalism?

None of the above!

Both the left and the right are lamenting the loss of freedoms, liberties, and the ability of choice; and both just want to be heard and recognized.

The elitist ruling class, through the dissemination of misinformation, is trying to divide and conquer (a long-used tactic) in order to maintain control.

How do you do this? By spreading fear and victimhood (can anyone say COVID, race bating, gender identity?) and creating a common enemy.

For if the people ever come together in a common cause the elitist ruling class understand they have no control or power at all!

The elitist ruling class wants us to "pay no attention to the man behind the curtain" (from the book by L. Frank Baum (published in 1900) The Wonderful Wizard of OZ as adapted in the 1939 movie The Wizard of OZ).

Thank you for maintaining snowmobile trails in the county

Dear Editor.

I don't know your names but I would like to thank those of you who take your time to put in the snowmobile trails in our area of Stillman Valley, Rochelle, Oregon, Chana and Byron. The markings were easy to follow and I would also thank the landowners and businesses who allow us to cross their property. Without you folks the sport i love would have me traveling to spend my dollars elsewhere. The groomers were out and we talked to several snowmobilers from other areas who had glowing reviews of the trail system you provide us. Thank you so much for your great work.

LSSI promotes National Prevention Week, May 9-15

It's no secret that COVID-19 has profoundly affected communities and organizations. Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, Lutheran Social Services of Illinois (LSSI) continues to provide our community with an array of services ranging from crisis intervention, counseling, case management, and prevention.

The events of 2020 required our Prevention team to grow and make adjustments as we learned how to navigate virtual services while ensuring the health of our youth, community members, and our own families.

Throughout this past year, LSSI has adapted to new ways of continuing to provide specialized services to remain connected with our youth. We've maintained collaborative connections with our partnering agencies and school to continue promoting the safety and well-being of youth in our communities. We have been working diligently on pre-recorded lessons and also holding all coalition meetings via Zoom. The shift that the Prevention Team had to make during the pandemic wasn't an easy one, but opened up new doors of communication and new ways of thinking.

Danielle Horst, Youth WORKS (Wellness, Opportunity, Resources for Key Services) prevention specialist for Ogle County is continuing her efforts of working with at risk youth. The Youth WORKS program provides an evidence-based curriculum called Too Good for Violence and presentations on violence related topics such as bullying, suicide, and social media awareness.

Shannon Tompkins, Project LEAD's (Leaders Encouraging Abstinence from Drugs) prevention specialist for Ogle County has been brainstorming more effective ways in which to teach her evidence-based curriculum "Too Good for Drugs." This curriculum is designed to mitigate the risk factors and enhance protective factors related to alcohol, tobacco, and other drug use.

Horst and Tompkins strongly believe that their services are needed more than ever right now. At a time when youth are feeling even more uncertain they help introduce and develop social and emotional skills for making healthy choices, building positive friendships, developing self-efficacy, communicating effectively, and resisting peer pressure and influence.

In addition to its work in schools, the Prevention Team will promote National Prescription Drug Take Back Day on April 24. We are planning on distributing flyers with Ogle, Lee, Whiteside, and Carroll counties to inform community members on safe, responsible, convenient areas in which to dispose of old or unused prescription drugs that they may have at home. According to a federal Drug Enforcement Agency study, a majority of abused prescription drugs were obtained from family and friends, often from the home medicine cabinet. It's vital to call awareness to this day that gives our communities the opportunity to prevent drug addiction and overdose death.

This year also is a very important one, because as we approach May we are celebrating the 10th year in promotion of National Prevention Week (NPW), which is held May 9-15. The primary goal of NPW is to promote community involvement in raising awareness and normalizing the discussions on the importance of substance use and mental health issues. These are issues we commonly see within our communities, and the week promotes the implementation of prevention strategies in schools, at home, and throughout our communities. Each year we collaborate with surrounding organizations and businesses within Lee, Ogle, Whiteside, and Carroll Counties to promote National Prevention Week activities, including prevention education. This year we look to continue this promotion as we begin our steps to partner with local businesses to distribute flyers, stickers, and informative pamphlets to share ideas, news, and resources to strengthen prevention activities within each of our communities.

For more information on how you can participate on National Prevention Week activities, contact Jackie Smith Prevention Supervisor at 815-284-7796 or email Jacqueline.smith@lssi.org.

Fundraiser puts flocks of cardinals in area yards

Residents of German Valley, Leaf River and Forreston woke up this April Fool's Day with flocks of Cardinals in their yards. As part of a Spring fundraiser for Believe In The Children, Forreston, some Ogle County residents woke up to discover Cardinal heads perching in their yards thanks to donations made by their friends. Gary and Jane Koeller, Forreston, were one of the first to be flocked. Want the flock safely removed? For a small donation to Believe In The Children, they will be removed immediately. Want to nominate someone to be flocked? Call Believe at 815-837-1500 and get them on the list. Want to make sure you are never flocked? Insurance can be put in place for another small donation.

Believe In The Children is a nonprofit organization serving at-risk children and their families in Northern Illinois. Flocking will continue until April 30.

For more information or to donate, visit www.believeinthechildren.org; Venmo: @BelieveIn-TheChildren; call 815-837-1500 or email info@believeinthechildren.org.

Rust can compromise hydraulic brake and fuel lines, as well as many moving parts in the chassis and frame. Corrosion of electrical connectors and other parts under the hood can lead to leaks, electrical shorts and a host of additional problems. It's easy to see how washing the car is more essential than one might have suspected.

If you live in an area with a high amount of dust or industry, you may need to wash your car as frequently as once a week. Drivers who live along or near coastal areas may need to wash their vehicles frequently to combat sea salt buildup. Garage-kept vehicles may be able to go longer between washes, but in general washing a vehicle every two to three weeks is a good rule of thumb. In addition, a good sealant will protect the paint and other trims throughout the year.

The following are some other car-wash tips to

- Always use a proper washing soap solution. This will preserve the car's finish better than other homemade soaps. Avoid using dishwashing liquid, which can strip protective wax coatings.
- Be prompt when cleaning off bugs, sap and bird droppings that may stick to the paint and become difficult to remove over time.
 - Wait until a car has cooled down before washing. Heat speeds up the drying of soap and water and can make it more difficult to clean.

- · Always use a clean, non-abrasive sponge. Resist the urge to move the sponge in circles as you clean. Doing so can create noticeable swirl scratch marks. Instead, move the sponge lengthwise across the body panels and hood.
- Keep a separate rinsing bucket to clean the sponge or washing mitt so that dirt is not mixed into the clean, sudsy water.
- Consumer Reports suggests using a soft squeegee to remove most of the water on the body of the car after washing and rinsing. Blot up any extra water with a chamois.

- · Wax the car every season to ensure it has maximum protection. In between, apply a liquid spray wax to touch up spots. Water beading is not an ideal indicator of whether or not the car needs a coat of wax.
- attention to the interior. Vacuum the carpets regularly to prevent ground-in dirt and routinely clean the upholstery with a product specific to your vehicle's interior, whether that interior is leather or fabric.

SPRING CAR CARE

Ways to maintain car value over the long-term

When shopping for a new car, savvy buyers know finding the right car involves more than just finding the most comfortable or flashy vehicle. Numerous factors, including resale value, determine what makes a car the right car for a particular buyer.

Various websites and automotive resources rank vehicles based on their potential resale value, and drivers can do much to ensure their cars and trucks maintain that resale value over the long-term.

• Pay attention to the exterior. Much like homes with strong curb appeal can help homeowners get the best price for their homes when those homes are on the market, vehicles that look good can make strong first impressions on prospective buyers. Address any dings or dents on the car before putting it on the market, and make sure the car gets a thorough washing and waxing prior to showcasing it for potential buyers.

Upon purchasing new vehicles, drivers with their minds on maintaining resale values can park their cars or trucks in garages as often as possible to protect them from the elements. In addition, when parking in public, avoid tight parking spaces that can increase the likelihood that other drivers will ding or dent the vehicle when entering or exiting their own cars.

• Protect the interior. A well-maintained interior will impress buyers on multiple levels. Preowned buyers may feel more comfortable buying cars with well-maintained interiors that still make them feel as if they're buying a new vehicle. Vehicles with well-maintained interiors also give buyers the impression that sellers care about the vehicle and prioritized maintenance.

Avoid eating in the car, and immediately address any spills or stains. When taking the vehicle to a car wash, spend the extra money to have the interior cleaned as well. Seat covers can help protect cloth and leather interiors from spills, stains and cracking.

• Keep maintenance receipts. Another way to maintain resale value is to keep all maintenance receipts from the moment the vehicle is purchased. Preowned vehicle buyers are making substantial investments when buying preowned cars, and many will want to be certain they're investing in the right cars and trucks. Documentation with regards to the vehicle's maintenance can assuage any fears buyers may have and help sellers get the most money possible when putting their cars on the market.

Maintaining resale value is a concern for new car buyers who want to get the best returns on their automotive investments.

Prevent bugs, sap and other substances from ruining a vehicle

Keeping vehicles looking pristine requires care and diligent cleaning. So many day-to-day activities and environmental materials have the potential to damage the finish on cars and trucks. While winter weather and chemicals used to keep roadways passable are often blamed for affecting the appearance of cars and trucks, winter is not the only time of year when substances can cause damage to vehicles.

Spring and summer are prime seasons for sap, birds and insects. These times of year tend to see an uptick in road work as well, and such projects can contribute to damage caused by loose asphalt, gravel and tar. Addressing problems resulting from tree sap, insect and bird droppings and tar may not be something to look forward to, but it is necessary to keep cars looking pristine.

Tree sap

According to Cars. com, an automotive information resource and vehicle sales website, although tree sap won't cause immediate damage to vehicle paint, it should not be ignored. Over time, sap can become more difficult to remove, etch through the clear coat on the vehicle and cause discoloration. When the temperature is hot, damage from sap can accelerate.

On windows and windshields, drivers may be able to gently remove dried sap with a razor blade. However, use cleaning products on more delicate paint. Automotive stores sell speciality sap and tar cleaners. Otherwise, you can try rubbing alcohol. It may take a few attempts to remove sap entirely.

Insects and bird drop-

Splattered bugs and avian surprises dropped from above can be a messy, unsightly nuisance. Their acidic composition also may cause them to damage paint over time. Bugs and droppings can be sticky, so you will need to work with something that will remove the splatter without removing the paint in the process. A product like WD-40 may help. This oily product is normally used on rust and hinges. When applied with a cloth and allowed to penetrate the stain, it can loosen difficult-to-remove sticky substances. Always test any product you use in an inconspicuous spot first to make sure it doesn't damage or discolor your the paint.

Insects or droppings that are fresh may come off relatively easily with a good washing or hosing off of the car. Retailers also sell specialty insect sponges to remove bugs and other debris.

Soap and water will do little to remove tar and other petroleum-based products from vehicles. Commercial tar removal products use a strong solvent or detergent to loosen the tar. This may include kerosene, mineral spirits or another item mixed with lubricants. Go slowly and use caution so that you remove the tar and not the paint.

Drivers who are hesitant to clean their vehicles of common residue can have their cars or trucks professionally detailed, leaving the work in the hands of experts.
