Winter recently gave everyone in the region a reminder that it is not going away anytime soon. After up to 6 inches of snow fell at the end of January, more came last week. And it was all followed by an arctic blast of cold air that looks like it will stay with us for much of the week, with low temperatures forecast to be below zero until the end of the week. Did you get your voluntary pay envelope?

OGLE COUNTY – The Ogle County Life is offering readers a chance to become honorary staff members of the paper by participating in the annual Voluntary Payment promotion.

Envelopes were inserted into our Feb. 1 issue. If you didn't receive an envelope or have any questions, call our office at 815-732-2156. Also, 10 percent of any money donated in February will be donated to our local senior centers.

For 36 years, we have been providing the Life to readers free of charge. We expect to continue to be able to do this for many years to come.

However, newsprint and postage costs do continue to rise, and any contributions that readers can make greatly help defray these costs and enable us to provide the best product possible.

"Our readers' generosity has played a big part in helping us achieve our goals, including adding an e-edition, which we continue to offer for free for our loyal readers," said Life general manager Mike Feltes.

In addition to helping out the paper, anyone making a voluntary payment will also be helping our local senior citizens, as we in turn make a donation to area senior centers on your behalf.

The envelopes can be mailed in to P.O. Box 378 Oregon, or put in our drop box at Conover Square.

Brion Brooks, Village of Progress Executive Director receives award from Diane Bausman, Blackhawk Waterways Convention & Visitors Bureau Executive Director recognizing the Village Bakery as an Illinois Maker.

Village Bakery earns honor

Unique Oregon business recognized as an Illinois Maker

OREGON – This fall the Village Bakery was selected as one of 30 business this year to be recognized as an Illinois Maker. On Jan. 14, The Blackhawk Waterways Convention & Visitors Bureau presented the Illinois Maker award to the Bakery. In presenting the award, Diane Bausman, Executive Director of the Bureau, said that the Bakery now joins only 175 business in the State of Illinois to receive a similar honor.

"Makers like the Village Bakery represent the pinnacle of local businesses," Bausman said.

Among the requirements to become an Illinois Maker, a business must offer an excellent customer experience, place a strong emphasis on its Illinois roots, and have a captivating story to tell.

"One of the great things about small town Americana is their ability to repurpose their buildings," said Oregon Mayor Ken Williams.

Williams explained that the 100-year-old building that houses the Bakery was originally a movie theater before becoming a hardware store and then a video store.

"You are a leader in redoing this building as a bright spot for other merchants in Oregon to follow," he said. "And they have."

Brion Brooks, Executive Director of the Village of Progress, Inc., which owns and operates the Bakery, received the award.

"It's gratifying to receive recognition for what we're trying to accomplish – giving persons with developmental disabilities the confidence and competence to work in a real-world business," he said. "And giving others a chance to witness what they can do."

Please note that it is only necessary to call ONE of the organizations to be added to the list. Multiple registrations will not move a person's name up on the list and actually creates additional work. Be assured, you will receive a call back to schedule your appointment. When you receive your call, appointments will be scheduled for both your first and second doses of the vaccine.

The on-line pre-registration is also available by logging into health.oglecounty. org. Please note: when typing the address into your browser, do not use "www" as you will receive an error; simply type in the web address as listed to complete the pre-registration process.

If you need transportation to your scheduled COVID-19 vaccination appointment, both the Hub Senior Center and Rock River Center can help with scheduling a ride. In addition, the Lee-Ogle Transportation Systems is available by calling 815-288-2117.

Obituaries

Larry G. Adamson

Larry G. Adamson, 80, known by many as "LA" passed away peacefully on Thursday, Jan. 28, 2021 with his family by his side at his daughter's home in Rochelle after a short battle with cancer.

Larry was born on Nov. 11, 1940 in Rochelle, the son of Grant and Anna (Hayenga) Adamson. Larry's mother, Anna passed away when he was four. His father then remarried Lorraine Theander (stepmother). Larry has three siblings, two sisters and one brother: Sue Wick, Gloria Svanda and Dan Adamson. Larry married Joann (Friday) Adamson on Febr. 23, 1963. They had two children, Deborah Ann and Craig Allen. Although they later divorced, they continued a true friendship and always lent a helping hand to each other. They also enjoyed spending holidays together with their children and grandchildren until the very end.

Larry was self-employed all of his life. He ran a crane in his early days. We were told by many that "he was one of the best." He has built a couple of houses, including the family lake house that has been enjoyed by many with lots of family memories to be cherished forever. Farming, landscaping, snow removal, wood working, welding and tinkering around his shop fixing lots of different machines is how he stayed young and active. There wasn't anything Larry could not fix. If he ran into a problem, he would fabricate whatever was needed to get the job done. He recently told a familv member that the one thing he would do over again and truly loved was the crane. His kids, grandkids, family members, and friends will walk away with so much knowledge that was learned from him that they otherwise would not have known.

Larry enjoyed hunting and shooting guns; he was an avid bowler and some will remember his love for racing snowmobiles competitively. He always loved spending time on the lake starting at a young age having his dad pull him and his brother, Dan, behind the pontoon. He loved riding a saucer with a chair on top, and since that wasn't enough, he would stand on the chair. This might have been the beginning of Larry becoming a daredevil. Making fishing lures and attending fishing tournaments with his son, Craig, was something they both enjoyed doing together. Larry has passed his love for fishing and the outdoors down to his grandchildren, as well. For years, he spent summers pulling his kids and grandkids behind the boat, giving ski lessons and wild tube rides.

The Oregon Park District Children's Center program is designed to help prepare your child for kindergarten. Children will learn both indoors and outdoors utilizing both of our classrooms. Mrs. Crandall and Mrs. Teresa have developed a curriculum to assist your child's social and emotional development as well providing kindergarten readiness skills.

Drop-off and pick-up will occur at our Children's Center entrance located at School Street and South 6th Street. This procedure, enacted during COVID, has been successful and will continue in the 2021-22 school year. Our students and staff are able to be independent from Nash Recreation Center with their own kitchen, bathroom and both indoor and outdoor classrooms. The separation has allowed for easier transitions at drop-off and much less contact than entering through the traditional Nash Recreation Center entrance. Program will inform students about health careers

OREGON – High school students in Oregon will have an opportunity to learn more about health careers thanks to a new collaboration between the University of Illinois College of Medicine Rockford and Oregon High School.

The new Rural Healthcare Explorers Program is made possible by a $16,806 grant from the Community Foundation of Northern Illinois' Dr. Louis and Violet Rubin Fund.

The Rural Healthcare Explorers Program will be a six-week introduction to the field of healthcare and the preparation necessary to pursue a degree in the health sciences. 30 students will be accepted into the program and will learn about such fields as medicine, pharmacy and nursing through hands-on activities, panel discussions with local healthcare professionals and a health topic exploration project.

The program will start accepting applications in February and the program will begin in April. "There is a need for healthcare professionals, especially in rural areas," says Hana Hinkle, Ph.D, the associate director of the college's National Center for Rural Health Professions that works to address healthcare disparities in rural Illinois, nationally and globally. "These kinds of programs prepare students who may not know about certain health careers to enter those fields and, hopefully, consider practicing in their hometown or another rural area because they better understand the needs." Oregon High School serves the rural communities of Oregon, Mt. Morris, and Chana.

"This is a great opportunity for our students at Oregon High School," said Shannon Cremeens, dean of students at OHS, who is helping to build the program. "Each year we have students who identify an interest in health-related careers. This program will greatly support these students in providing a unique opportunity to connect and learn about an incredibly important career field,"

Byron arts program gets donation

BYRON – The Byron High School Theater and Choir department have been given a donation of $3,000 from the Megan Clift Memorial Fund established at the Community Foundation of Northern Illinois.

The donation in honor of Megan, from the Clift family, has been used to support many activities and events that the groups participate in. Here are several ways the donation has been used this last school year:

Byron Chamber Choir participates annually in the Augustana Chamber Choir Festival. Twelve schools were selected to be a part of this festival. This overnight event involves the choir members from those twelve schools coming together to create a mass choir. This mass choir learns two chamber style pieces under the direction of Dr. Jon Hurty and Dr. Michael Zemek, college choir directors. The students also attend master voice classes put on by the voice faculty on staff. Another aspect of this event is a private workshop with one of the two college directors. Each choir gets 15-20 minutes for the college choir director to listen to their songs and give critique and suggestions what they can do to improve the sound of those songs. A final event of the weekend is a public performance where the Chamber Choir sings two songs by themselves for the other school choirs and also members of the college choirs and public. All expenses for this event were covered by the Megan Clift monies.

Byron Choir students also applied to be part of the Millikin Vocal Festival. Seven students were selected to be a part of this event. The students worked with Millikin's director Brad Holmes and Beth Holmes, learning several concert pieces in a large group setting. Students were selected for this event from all over the State of Illinois. It is one of the top vocal festivals in the State. The students who attend always learn so much from these directors and they have a very enjoyable time singing with advanced singers from each selected choir. Donated funds helped pay the registration fee, housing, music, and private vocal lessons.

Byron Theater Troupe used their donation of funds to pay for ten students to attend the Illinois State Theater Fest. The students spent several days in Bloomington/Normal attending workshops on various details of acting. They also attend musical performances of high schools who were accepted to have their musical performed at State Convention. Another performance the Byron students attend is the production put together by the State Musical Group. Students send in audition tapes in the summer and are selected to be a part of the Illinois State Musical.

Each year the Shining Star Award is presented to the outstanding theater and choir students, typically from the senior class. This year the theater award was given to Madie Libman and the choir award was given to Cece Clodfelter. The success of the Shining Star donations and other donations from "Friends of Megan" help to continue the assistance that is given to the Byron Theater and Choir and its membership.

The choir and theater students are very appreciative of the support from the Megan Clift Memorial Fund established at the Community Foundation of Northern Illinois and the friendship of Ed and Beth Clift.

My hair experiment went very wrong

The great hair experiment is over. Done. Finished.

Lockdown has changed a lot of things for all of us. Eating at home more than ever for sure. Also, doing smaller loads of laundry because those sweatpants are good for a week. And we have all learned to either accept or simply keep quiet about the habits of the loved ones we live with. This has certainly taught us patience.

I also decided sometime last year that I was going to take one final run at growing my hair. Why not? Sure, I still go out and do interviews and see people, but not every day. I don't have to drive into the office and force my mop on unsuspecting people who are simply trying to get through the day.

OK, I do that to my wife, but I believe we have a contract that says she has to deal with it.

So instead of getting my hair cut every three weeks I just stopped getting it cut. My hair grows surprisingly fast, so it did not take long before I started to see some results.

Living the Life By Brad Jennings

Here is the thing – I have always been pretty haircentric. I had the typical long hair in the late 70s and until I graduated in 1981. The military took care of that for four years, but after I got out, I grew it again. For years I had many different styles, but I always had a style. I never didn't care about my hair.

I would say the last time I let it grow was probably 1990, in college at Northern Arizona University. I am not sure I got a haircut that year at all.

By 2000, I had short, spiky hair and I kept it like that for a long time - probably too long.

A few years ago, I noticed that the crown of my head was not exactly sporting a full crop of hair. Sadly, my always thin hair was abandoning ship at the crown. I contacted a witch doctor and tried a few spells, but nothing seemed to work.

I did the only thing I could - after falling to my knees and screaming "WHY ME?"! to the sky a few times – I changed my hair style.

I grew it longer on top and combed it back but kept the sides short. That changed during lockdown when I decided to go all in on length.

While I will say I gave it a good try, I was losing the battle. Yes, my hair was growing. The top was longer, the back was longer and the sides were much longer.

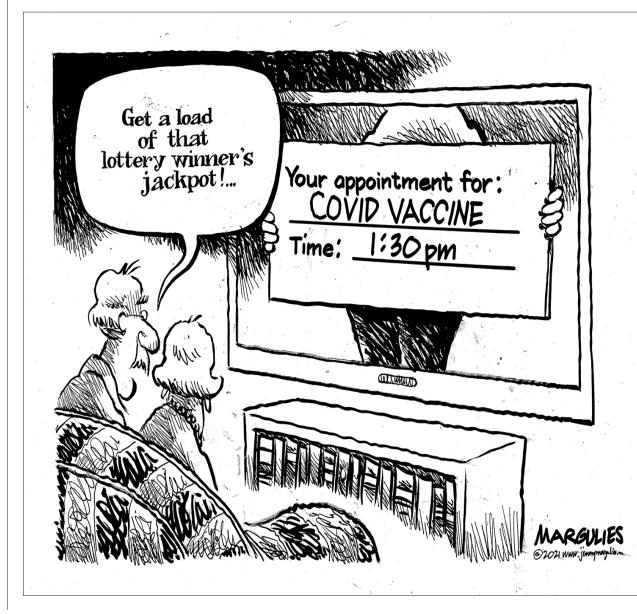

But it was driving me crazy. My simple morning routine had turned into a nightmare of hair products, blow dryers and hair spray. And no matter what, it still looked, well, bad.

My wife, bless her heart, did the best she could do during this time. And the best she could do was to say nothing, which I know was hard for her. The few times I asked her opinion and she gently gave it, I acted like a toddler melting down at Target.

I went to my trusty stylist last week and said give me the old cut back, and that is what she did. It is still long on top - probably too long if you ask my wife, but the sides are buzzed and I feel much better about myself.

I have decided to focus on something new. In 2021, I am going to run a marathon. Considering I can already walk from the couch to the refrigerator without getting too winded, this should be a raging success.

VIEWPOINT "Congress shall make no law...

Published every Monday Mike Feltes, General Manager Brad Jennings, Editor

Trump had many accomplishments during presidency

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to Myrna Hart's comment a few weeks ago when she felt President Tump's presidency brought "carnage" to our country.

I know President Trump's personality brought controversy about him. He wasn't a smooth-talking politician. He let you know exactly what he was thinking, but that was the promise he made to the country leading up to the election of 2016. He didn't look like a politician, nor sound like one, nor did he talk or act like one. So love politicians or hate them, President Trump was not one of them which is why I believe he was elected in 2016 and also why so many hated him.

He fought against the carnage of job loss with the unprecedented economic boom in our country's history. Seven million new jobs added in just four years. He did more for the lower and middle class citizens than any President in my 62 years, going back to Eisenhower. His policies did more for minority groups of Americans than any other President in my lifetime including two-term Presidents like the previous administration. (How did your 401K's look that last four years?) Even for those who hated him. There are not enough inches on this page of the newspaper to list all of his economic gains for the American people.

President Trump fought against the carnage of political fraud, voter fraud, and decades of establishment fraud in our political system ultimately to his demise.

President Trump fought against the carnage of gross bias and hypocrisy in much of the news media. While the media has always had its biases, I have never witnessed such loathing and hatred for a sitting President beginning with his first day in office.

President Trump fought for the freedom of religion and second amendment rights and against the carnage of those who would like to wipe those rights clean from our American heritage.

President Trump fought for and achieved energy independence knowing you have to have a strong America in a world where others hate you and want to see your failure and defeat. (Anybody want to go back to the Biden/Obama days of gas at $4.50/gallon?)

President Trump fought against the carnage of ISIS and won in short order. (Anyone miss the daily news cycles of ISIS marching people out on beaches and beheading them on video?)

And the one issue that most epitomizes our American carnage and devaluing of life in our beloved country is every American's (every human's) right to life. President Trump fought politically and publicly against this true carnage. By the end of the day of this writing 3,000 American lives will be snuffed out and that will happen every day this year as is has since January 1973. This reality is because we have abandon our foundational biblical values as a nation. We are made in God's image (Gen 1:27) and only God has the say in this matter. (Psalm 139) I cringe at the potential carnage and values this next administration will bring.

So President Trump, love him or hate him, he was and is not a perfect man. Nor are you and I. We are all broken. We live in a broken world full of carnage that cannot be fixed totally by a politician.

We ultimately need a Saviour!

Reader appreciates b-day cards

Dear Editor,

I want to say thank you to all my loving family and friends for the beautiful cards and good wishes I received in honor of my 90th Birthday. They just keep coming long after my birthday, which I really enjoy.

Thanks again, Loraine Untz

"MR. PRESIDENT, THE BLITICAL CARTOONISTS OF AMERICA ARE WAITING."

Dear Reader.

We are very proud to announce that for over 35 years we have been providing you with the Ogle County Life newspaper FREE of charge. Based on responses from many of you we are confident you enjoy our publication and look forward to its arrival each week.

The Life is Ogle County's most widely read weekly newspaper for many reasons. Some of you read our paper for local news, public meetings, social events and church happenings, while others enjoy our articles and views on area current events. A great number of you rely on us for grocery ads, real estate, financial and health information, as well as display and insert advertising from many businesses around the area. Our classified ad section is a popular source of valuable information for many.

Whether it's information about area high schools, news about local senior citizens or church happenings, we have been providing it week after week, FREE of charge to more than 12,000 households in Ogle County for over 35 Years! Think about the volume of local news and advertising we provide compared to those expensive area subscription papers. We do our best to give you a comprehensive newspaper that appeals to all of our readers, and when you consider that our product is FREE--we believe we do a pretty good job.

We expect to be able to continue offering this service to you for years to come, but your help makes it easier! Today you can become an Honorary Staff member of the Ogle County Life! Just drop off or mail in your voluntary payment in the yellow envelope inserted in last week's paper or just use your own envelope. Your generosity is greatly appreciated and we look forward to continue serving our readers each week.

Thank you, Mike Feltes, General Manager

Join our staff by February 28 and you can help out our local senior citizens too!

In an effort to prevent any undue confusion and concerns, it should be clear that no one is obligated to make a voluntary payment. Regardless of whether you elect to become an Honorary Staff member or not, your decision has no effect on receiving your Ogle County Life paper each week, nor will it affect in any way the services provided by the area senior centers in Ogle County.

Even Exchange by Donna Pettman

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.

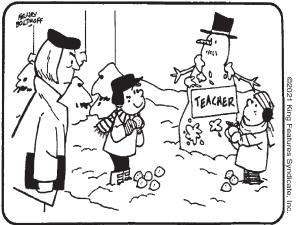

Find at least six differences in details between panels.

Differences: 1. Snowman's hat is different. 2. Boy has a scart. 3. Snowballs have been added. 4. Tree is missing. 5. Teacher's nose is different. 6. Boy is holding an apple.

SNAKES ALIVE! Two of the above slinky serpents are exactly alike. Can you find them in 30 seconds?

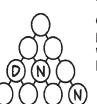

Answer: Snakes 2 and 8.

SEE IF YOU CAN make this math expression correct by rearranging the nine digits to the left of the equal sign. The two new numbers can include fractions.

1234+56789=100

Our answer is: 473/6 + 529/18 = (471/2 + 521/2 = 100).

CHAIN REACTION! Take the seven letters printed below our diagram and place them in the circles so that eight four-letter words can be read, top to bottom, along the connecting lines. All the words will begin with the letter in the top circle.

Soon Santa will be racing the morning sun around the world. In our grid, we have room for nine words associated with Santa. The following hints should help:

 Santa goes up the chimney when he lays his finger next to his ...?

- 2. Santa's other name.
- 3. Santa would never go to his house.
- 4. Santa's presents end up here.
- 5. Santa's physical description.
- 6. Santa's most important helper.
- Santa's disposition.
 Santa's associates.
- 9. Santa's other last name.

There is a dark frame around one of the columns in our grid. If you correctly solve the puzzle, the letters in the frame, top to bottom, will spell out Santa's last stop on Christmas Day.

Answers: 1. Nose. 2. Nicholas. 3. Grinch. 4. Stocking. 5. Chubby. 6. Rudolph. 7. Jolly. 8. Elves. 9. Kringle. The dark-framed column spells "North Pole."

Couch Theater

By Amy Anderson

There's something about a man of danger that gets the heart beating -- expert marksman, insanely intelligent, catlike reflexes, trained in hand-to-hand combat, gadgets at the ready as he single-handedly repels the forces of evil. Superspy was certainly on my list of fantasy jobs, and I'm not alone. The notion of the government-sponsored high-tech hero is a popular one in books, TV series and films. But the really great agents, those who rise above the rest, are portrayed time after time. I present this list of five spy franchises to shake you and stir you.

James Bond: Six sexy leading men (Connery, Lazenby, Moore, Dalton, Brosnan, Craig) have filled Agent 007's shoes, in a whopping 26 films since his debut in 1962's "Dr. No." Author Ian Fleming's slick British secret-agent archetype always gets the bad guy (and the girl), but the films also rake in the gold, and awards, to boot -- with Oscars for sound editing, special effect and original songs.

Tom Clancy's Jack Ryan -- In our own backyard, we have the central character of Tom Clancy's books: Jack Ryan, a CIA analyst who just can't stay out of trouble. Over five films, led off by "The Hunt for Red October" in 1990, we've seen four actors as Ryan (Alec Baldwin, Harrison Ford, Ben Affleck and Chris Pine -- that's not counting John Krasinski in Amazon's streaming series). They've collectively fought off the Russians, Irish terrorists, a drug cartel, the Russians again, and then also, the Russians.

"Mission: Impossible" (1996) -- It all began (in movie land) when IMF agent Ethan Hunt (Tom Cruise) was framed for the murder of his team and a botched attempt to steal government secrets. Naturally, his only recourse is to band together with other disavowed agents (Jean Reno, Ving Rhames) to actually steal the secrets -- an impossible feat -- and flush out the real traitor. After agent Hunt redeemed himself, Tom Cruise went on to make seven-plus films grossing over $3.5 billion.

"The Bourne Identity" (2002) -- Based on the books of Robert Ludlum, this franchise centers around Jason Bourne (Matt Damon), an expertly trained CIA sleeper agent. In the opening salvo, Bourne awakens on a boat with amnesia and launches a desperate search to unlock his past. But his path turns violent when the agency attempts to snuff him out. Spoiler alert: They do not succeed. Five films (and talks for a sixth) later, the Bourne future is going strong.

"Kingsman: The Secret Service" -- Taron Egerton is Eggsy, an underprivileged British youth brought into an esteemed organization of gentlemen who, you know, fight worldwide threats to humanity. Eggsy is mentored by the very dapper Harry Hart (Colin Firth). It's a young franchise with the inaugural in 2014, followed by its sequel "The Golden Circle" in 2017, but a third is on the way.

When Mark Twain was editing a newspaper in Missouri, one of his subscribers wrote in, saving that he had found a spider in his newspaper and wondered whether it was a sign of good or bad luck. Twain's response: "Finding a spider is neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our newspaper to see which merchant was not advertising, so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever

Binge drinking among women and girls

High

B INGE drinking is a dangerous behavior but is not widely recognized as a women's health problem. Drinking too much – including binge drinking* – results in about 23,000 deaths in women and girls each year. Binge drinking increases the chances of breast cancer, heart disease, sexually transmitted diseases, unintended pregnancy, and many other health problems. Drinking during pregnancy can lead to sudden infant death syndrome and fetal alcohol spectrum disorders.

About 1 in 8 women aged 18 years and older and 1 in 5 high school girls binge drink. Women who binge drink do so frequently – about 3 times a month – and have about 6 drinks per binge. There are effective actions communities can take to prevent binge drinking among women and girls.

*Binge drinking for women is defined as consuming 4 ormore alcohol drinks (beer, wine, or liquor) on an occasion.

Drinking too much can seriously affect the health of women and girls. Drinking too much can seriously affect the health of women and girls.

Women's and girls' bodies respond to alcohol differently than men's. It takes less alcohol for women to get intoxicated because of their size and how they process alcohol.

Binge drinking can lead to unintended pregnancies. It is not safe to drink at any time during pregnancy. If women binge drink while pregnant, they risk exposing their developing baby to high levels of alcohol, increasing the chances the baby will be harmed by the mother's alcohol use.

Drinking is influenced by your community and your relationships.

Alcohol use in a community is affected by alcohol's price and availability.

Underage drinking is affected by exposure to alcohol marketing.

Underage drinking is also influenced by adult drinking, and youth often obtain alcohol from adults. Which women and girls are most likely to binge drink?

EMERGENGY?

What teens should know about vaping and e-cigarettes

TEENAGERS confront a considerable amount of peer pressure as they navigate their way through adolescence. One of the more challenging situations teens confront is the pressure to smoke. Thankfully, anti-smoking campaigns have made great strides in preventing the number of young people who smoke tobacco products.

According to the American Lung Association, in 2015 9.3 percent of high school students reported smoking cigarettes in the past 30 days. That's a remarkable 74 percent decline from 1997. That's encouraging news, though there's still a lot of work to do to help teens avoid smoking entirely.

Modern teens face challenges regarding tobacco that are entirely different from those faced by their parents decades ago. Back then, cigarettes were the primary, most readily available tobacco product. But teens now must also confront e-cigarettes and the mountain of misinformation about them. The ALA highlights the following facts about e-cigarettes to help teens make healthy choices.

• E-cigarettes are not safer than traditional cigarettes. E-cigarettes, an umbrella term that includes vapes, hookah pens or JUULS, have not been proven to be a safe alternative to cigarettes. Like traditional cigarettes, e-cigarettes are inhaled and the products produce an aerosol cloud of nicotine or other substances.

• JUUL pods contain nicotine. The ALA notes that every JUUL pod contains nicotine, and some even claim to have as much nicotine as an entire pack of cigarettes. According to the Alcohol and Drug Foundation, regularly smoking products that contain nicotine is considered a major preventable cause of premature death and disability.

• JUUL smoke may look different, but it's very similar to regular cigarette smoke. The ALA notes that the aerosol cloud produced by JUUL smoke tends to look different from the smoke clouds produced by other e-cigarettes and even traditional cigarettes. However, JUUL smoke contains many of the same chemicals as traditional cigarettes. The American Cancer Society notes that some of the chemicals found in tobacco smoke include formaldehyde, lead, arsenic, carbon monoxide, and ammonia.

• Even "nicotine-free" e-cigarettes likely contain nicotine. According to the ALA, there are no rules governing how e-cigarettes or e-juice are made, so there's no way for consumers to know exactly what these products contain. But the ALA says virtually all e-cigarettes contain nicotine, even those that imply they don't.

• The adolescent brain is sensitive to the effects of nicotine. A 2012 study published in Cold Spring Harbor Perspectives in Medicine found that the adolescent brain is especially sensitive to the effects of nicotine. Studies of people who smoked during adolescence concluded that such people were at increased risk of developing psychiatric disorders and cognitive impairment later in life.

Modern teens may not feel the same pressure to smoke traditional cigarettes as teens did in recent decades. But the pressure to try harmful e-cigarettes can be significant, and teens who learn about these dangerous products may be better equipped to resist them.

Excessive alcohol use and risks to men's health

EN are more likely than women to drink excessively. Excessive drinking is associated with significant increases in short-term risks to health and safety, and the risk increases as the amount of drinking increases. Men are also more likely than women to take other risks (e.g., drive fast or without a safety belt), when combined with excessive drinking, further increasing their risk of injury or death.

Approximately 58 percent of adult men report drinking alcohol in the last 30 days.

Approximately 23 percent of adult men report binge drinking 5 times a month, averaging 8 drinks per binge.

Men are almost two times more likely to binge drink than women.

Most (90 percent) people who binge drink are not alcoholics or alcohol dependent.

About 4.5 percent of men and 2.5 percent of women met the diagnostic criteria for alcohol dependence in the past year.

Injuries and deaths as a result of excessive alcohol use

Men consistently have higher rates of alcohol-related deaths and hospitalizations than women.

Among drivers in fatal motor-vehicle traffic crashes, men are almost twice as likely as women to have been intoxicated (i.e., a blood alcohol concentration of 0.08 percent or greater).

Excessive alcohol consumption increases aggression and, as a result, can increase the risk of physically assaulting another person.

Men are more likely than women to commit suicide, and more likely to have been drinking prior to committing suicide.

Reproductive Health and Sexual Function

Excessive alcohol use can interfere with testicular function and male hormone production resulting in impotence, infertility, and reduction of male secondary sex characteristics such as facial and chest hair.

Excessive alcohol use is commonly involved in sexual assault. Also, alcohol use by men increases the chances of engaging in risky sexual activity including unprotected sex, sex with multiple partners, or sex with a partner at risk for sexually transmitted diseases.

Cancer

Alcohol consumption increases the risk of cancer of the mouth, throat, esophagus, liver, and colon in men.

Information from www.cdc.gov

What is a standard drink?

In the United States, a standard drink contains 0.6 ounces (14.0 grams or 1.2 tablespoons) of pure alcohol. Generally, this amount of pure alcohol is found in: 12-ounces of beer (5% alcohol content).

8-ounces of malt liquor (7% alcohol content).

5-ounces of mate inquor (776 alcohol content).

1.5-ounces of 80-proof (40% alcohol content) distilled spirits or liquor (e.g., gin, rum, vodka, whiskey).

What is excessive drinking?

Excessive drinking includes binge drinking, heavy drinking, and any drinking by pregnant women or people younger than age 21.

Binge drinking, the most common form of excessive drinking, is defined as consuming:

- For women, 4 or more drinks during a single occasion. For men, 5 or more drinks during a single occasion.
- Heavy drinking is defined as consuming:
- For women, 8 or more drinks per week.
- For men, 15 or more drinks per week.

Most people who drink excessively are not alcoholics or alcohol dependent.

Prescription opioids: The basics

RESCRIPTION opioids can be used to treat moderate-to-severe pain and are often prescribed following surgery or injury, or for health conditions such as cancer. The most commonly prescribed opioids include the following:

Hydrocodone (Vicodin®)

Oxycodone (OxyContin[®], Percocet[®])

Oxymorphone (Opana®)

Morphine (Kadian®, Avinza[®]) Codeine

Fentanyl Hydromorphone Tapentadol Methadone

When the prescription becomes the problem

In recent years, there has been a dramatic increase in the acceptance and use of prescription opioids for the treatment of chronic, non-cancer pain, such as back pain or osteoarthritis, despite serious risks and the lack of evidence about their long-term effectiveness.

In addition to the serious risks of addiction, abuse, and overdose, the use of prescription opioids can have a number of side effects, even when taken as directed:

Tolerance-meaning you might need to take more of the medication for the same pain relief Physical dependence-meaning you have symptoms of withdrawal when the medication is stopped

Increased sensitivity to pain

Constipation

Nausea, vomiting, and dry mouth

Sleepiness and dizziness Confusion

Depression

Low levels of testosterone that can result in lower sex drive, energy, and strength

Learn how to reduce risk.

Know the Facts About Opioids

Every day in the United States, 41 people lose their lives to prescription opioid overdose.

Prescription opioids—like hydrocodone, oxycodone, and morphine-can be prescribed by doctors to treat moderate to severe pain but can have serious risks and side effects.

Opioids are highly addictive. Research shows that if you use opioids regularly, you may become dependent on them.

That's because opioids change how the brain and nervous system function. You can't know how your brain will react to opioids before taking them.

Talk With Your Doctor

00544 57125

Your doctor may talk to you about prescription opioids for pain treatment. Ask about the risks and benefits so that you can work together to decide what is best. You can also ask your doctor to help you find other safer ways to manage pain.

It Only Takes a Little to Lose a Lot

Opioids affect the part of the brain that controls breathing. If you take too high a dose, it can slow your breathing and cause death.

Combining opioids with alcohol and other drugs—like sleeping pills or cough medication –increases your chances of death.

Itching and sweating Overdose deaths involving prescription opioids were more than four times higher in 2018 than in 1999. In 2018, almost 32 percent of all U.S. opioid overdose deaths involved a prescription opioid. Even though the number of overdose deaths involving prescription opioids decreased in 2018, more than 232,000 people have died in the United States from overdoses involving prescription opioids since 19991. Overdose is not the only risk related to prescription opioids. Anyone who takes prescription opioids can become addicted to them.

Talk to your doctor

Talk to your doctor

about ways to manage your pain that do not involve prescription opioids. Some of these options may actually work better and have fewer risks and side effects. Depending on the type of pain you are experiencing, options may include:

Your health and safety are important. Start the conversation with your doctor and work together to set pain management goals and develop a treatment plan that will help you. Follow-up if your pain is not resolving as quickly as expected.

Various medications can be dangerous for drivers

MPAIRED driving claims thousands of lives every year. In fact, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, nearly 30 people die in drunk driving crashes every day in the United States.

Drivers no doubt recognize the dangers of driving after consuming alcohol, but consuming other, seemingly less threatening substances also can put drivers in danger, even during times of day when drivers would otherwise think the roads are as safe as possible. In its 2013-14 National Roadside Study of Alcohol and Drug Use, the NHTSA found that 10 percent of weekday, daytime drivers surveyed tested positive for prescription and/or over-the-counter drugs. Many people recognize that prescription drugs tend to be stronger than OTC drugs, and that recognition may naturally compel them to be extra cautious before driving after taking prescription meds. But the potential side effects of OTC drugs also merits caution on the part of drivers. It's vital that drivers recognize certain facts about OTC and prescription drugs and keep them in mind before getting behind the wheel.

• The side effects of OTC drugs can be serious. It's easy to write off the side effects of medications that can be purchased as easily as a candy bar. However, the NHTSA notes that OTC medications can induce drowsiness, cause nausea, cloud drivers' judgment, and adversely affect drivers' hand-eye coordination. Each of those effects can make it dangerous for drivers to get behind the wheel, so it's imperative that drivers avoid driving if any of the aforementioned symptoms appear.

• Some prescription medications have been linked to higher risk of crashing. According to the NHTSA, opioids, sedatives, muscle relaxants, and some antidepressants have been associated with increased crash risk. When prescribed such medications, patients should discuss how to approach driving with their physicians.

• Mixing medications can impair driving ability. Medications that do not cause side effects on their own may still prove harmful if mixed with other drugs. Mixing drugs with alcohol also can produce side effects that impair driving ability, even for drivers who do not feel as though they consumed an amount of alcohol that would normally compromise their ability to drive safely.

Recognizing the ways prescription and OTC medications can impair driving ability is a vital component of safe driving.

Effects of underage drinking

A LCOHOL is the most commonly used and abused drug among youth in the United States.

Excessive drinking is responsible for more than 4,300 deaths among underage youth each year, and cost the U.S. $24 billion in economic costs in 2010.

Although drinking by persons under the age of 21 is illegal, people aged 12 to 20 years drink 11 percent of all alcohol consumed in the United States. More than 90 percent of this alcohol is consumed in the form of binge drinks.

On average, underage drinkers consume more drinks per drinking occasion than adult drinkers.

In 2013, there were approximately 119,000 emergency rooms visits by persons aged 12 to 21 for injuries and other conditions linked to alcohol.

Drinking levels

among youth

The $201\overline{7}$ Youth Risk Behavior Survey found that among high school students, during the past 30 days:

30 percent drank some amount of alcohol. 14 percent binge drank.

6 percent drove after drinking alcohol.

17 percent rode with a driver who had been drinking alcohol.

Other national surveys

In 2016, the National Survey on Drug Use and HealthExternal reported that 19 percent of youth aged 12 to 20 years drink alcohol and 12 percent reported binge drinking in the past 30 days.

In 2017, the Monitoring the Future SurveyExternal reported that 8 percent of 8th graders and 33 percent of 12th graders drank during the past 30 days, and 2 percent of 8th graders and 19 percent of 12th graders binge drank during the past 30 days.

Consequences of underage drinking

Youth who drink alcohol are more likely to experience:

School problems, such as higher absence and poor or failing grades.

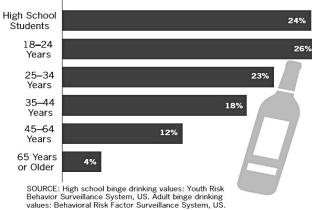

Social problems, such as fighting and lack of participation in youth activities.

Legal problems, such as arrest for driving or physically hurting someone while drunk.

Physical problems, such as hangovers or illnesses.

Unwanted, unplanned, and unprotected sexual activity.

Disruption of normal growth and sexual development.

Prevention

Reducing underage drinking will require community-based efforts to monitor the activities of youth and decrease youth access to alcohol. Recent publications by the Surgeon General1 and the Institute of Medicine5 outlined many prevention strategies for the prevention of underage drinking, such as enforcement of minimum legal drinking age laws, national media campaigns targeting youth and adults, increasing alcohol excise taxes, reducing youth exposure to alcohol advertising, and development of comprehensive community-based programs.
