Initial COVID-19 vaccine shipment to Illinois may be smaller than expected

☐ Director of Public Health Ezike says state may only get 80,000 doses at first

By PETER HANCOCK

Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD - The first shipment of COVID-19 vaccines to the state of Illinois may be less than one-quarter of what officials had originally been told to expect.

Department of Public Health Director Dr. Ngozi Ezike said last week that the latest word from federal officials is that the first shipment may contain only about 80,000 doses, or one-fifth of the 400,000 doses that state officials were expecting.

"We know that even if everything goes through smoothly in the next couple of weeks and the vaccine is shipped, there won't be many doses," Ezike said. "I know I had originally quoted 400,000 doses because that's what we've been told. That number has already been downgraded to something like 80,000. Again, all of these numbers are constantly in flux and so we are staying very nimble in order to adjust. As the feds give us more information, we adjust and tweak our plans."

Interest in how the state plans to distribute a vaccine has heightened in recent days as a number of pharmaceutical companies have announced plans to apply for emergency use authorization from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Pfizer and BioNTech announced they had submitted an application for two vaccines the companies are developing jointly, and the FDA said it would put those applications on a fast track for approval, which means a limited number of doses could be publicly available by the end of December. Moderna Inc. has also said a vaccine it is developing has shown promising results in clinical trials.

Ezike said the first people in line to receive the vaccines will be frontline hospital workers who treat COVID-19 patients and other first responders.

Meanwhile, both Ezike and Pritzker continued to urge Illinoisans to avoid gatherings over the upcoming holidays and possibly for the next several months in order to limit the spread of the disease.

"The vaccines that seem to be on the horizon can't help you if you get sick now," Pritzker said. "It appears it may just be a matter of months, not years, before it's safe for all of us to gather with extended family and friends again. Let's keep each other safe until then. It's not too late to change your plans if you haven't already.

Pritzker also urged downstate cities and counties to take advantage of financial help that the state has made available through the Local CURE program. That's a $250 million program the state launched this year, with money it received from the federal CARES Act, to help local units of government defray some of the costs they have incurred due to the pandemic.

Pritzker said about $118 million of that money has already been paid out, but more than 350 local governments still have not submitted an application.

The funds are available to local governments outside of Cook County and the surrounding collar counties, which received CARES Act funding directly because they have populations over 500,000.

"We know just about every community in the state has had to deal with new costs this year related to the COVID-19 response," Pritzker said. "This program ensures that the funds to support those efforts don't have to cut into local school budgets or roadwork or environmental cleanups or constant local taxes to increase to cover those costs."

the experience. "Ultimately, it comes down to people and wanting to build relationships and help," she

Veterans' Affairs officials grilled on LaSalle Vets' Home outbreak

By SARAH MANSUR

Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD—Members of the state Senate Veterans Affairs Committee had pointed questions for officials with the Illinois Department of Veterans Affairs about the agency's response to an outbreak at the LaSalle Veterans' Home that has resulted in at least 28 resident deaths from COVID-19-related complications.

The committee called for the hearing following reports of the growing outbreak since the beginning of November.

A total of 105 residents and 100 staff at LaSalle have tested positive for COVID-19 since the outbreak began. Currently, there are 40 residents and 24 staff who are actively positive for the virus

The LaSalle home outbreak was first discovered by staff when a resident was sent to the hospital for a severe urinary tract infection on Nov. 1 and was found to be COVID-19 positive, according to Dr. Avery Hart, physician with the Illinois Department of Public Health.

Hart, who testified during the committee, serves as a medical consultant for the department's COVID-19 clinical response in congregate living settings.

He said test results returned from the lab on Nov. 3 showed that 22 residents and seven staff identified positive. By Nov. 8, 59 residents and 64 staff tested positive for COVID-19.

Sen. Paul Schimpf's line of questioning focused on the delay between the outbreak at the facility and the request for an IDPH site visit.

He questioned IDVA Director Linda Chapa LaVia, a former member of the Illinois House of Representatives. "This is what's frustrating sent an email to the senators on this committee and I appreciate the update. But that email talked about the sense of urgency in the sense of trying to do everything that could be done to ensure the safety. But the actions don't seem to match the rhetoric.' Schimpf, R-Waterloo, said.

"So, the two questions are, when was Gov. (JB) Pritzker notified about this, did he give any guidance and then why again was it not until Nov. 12 that we had IDPH personnel on site?"

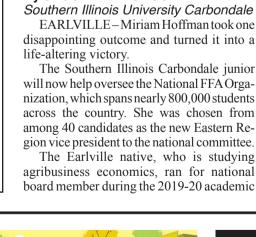

Chapa LaVia said she personally did not speak to Pritzker but he was aware of the outbreak.

Chapa LaVia, who served as a First Lieutenant in the Illinois Army National Guard, also pushed back against the charge that the IDVA officials should have moved more quickly to respond to the LaSalle outbreak.

"But I feel that our staff moved as quickly as they could," she said. "I feel that we've tried to move as swiftly as possible. And we have always been in contact with IDPH with each and every step we take, to make sure we're doing the proper protocol and procedures."

on-site visits at the LaSalle home — the first conducted by an official from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs on Nov. 12, and then by an official from the state Department of Public Health on Nov. 17.

The reports documented areas for immediate change, including replacing all non-alcohol based hand sanitizers with alcohol-based sanitizers, performing COVID-19 tests for residents and staff twice weekly, rather than once per week, and requiring staff to follow strict personal protective equipment guidelines.

Sen. Laura Ellman, D-Naperville, asked about the specific examples in the U.S. VA official's report of staff violating PPE protocols.

For instance, the report mentions staff were observed in full PPE walking through an administrative area of the home, as well as three staff members being seen in the facility's kitchen with masks around their chins, eating, and all less than six feet from each other. The report also mentions staff seen wearing gloves to touch patients and multiple surfaces without changing or performing hand hygiene.

"I'm just concerned that for those veterans that are receiving treatment, some of these practices could worsen their condition, which can be quick changes. What are the things that are being done at this facility to ensure that, on the treatment side, they are getting the proper care with the proper protocol?" Ellman asked.

Hart acknowledged that breaks in protocol were observed during the site visit, and said staff within the facility now are tasked with monitoring and enforcing proper PPE guidance.

Employees failing to properly wear PPE could increase the likelihood of virus transmission between employees, but Hart said it can be difficult to pin down the precise origin when the virus is rampant in the community.

"Let's say two staff members came down with COVID within a certain period of time. You don't know if one of them is married to a frontline worker, or another one was in a bar downtown or they were just shopping for their groceries and had the bad luck to encounter the virus," he said.

IDVA Chief of Staff Anthony Kolbeck said five employees at LaSalle continued to work at the home after being notified that they tested positive.

"In general, it was notification late at night. They were the only people there for that position. If they went home, it would create another issue and they volunteered to stay," Kolbeck said during the hearing.

He said the five employees were working with patients who already tested positive.

The Senate hearing kicked off shortly after the IDVA announced the Acting Inspector General from the Illinois Department of Human Services will conduct an independent investigation into the outbreak at the La-Salle home and IDVA "will immediately address any findings from that investigation," according to an agency press release.

Chapa LaVia said the investigation could take between four to six months.

'We will make sure that we reconvene, so we can go over those findings, but we want to make sure that we get to the bottom of this. I thought it very important to go above and beyond," she said, noting the review would be independent and conducted from outside the department.

Chapa LaVia pointed to the increasing spread of the virus in LaSalle County as an explanation for the outbreak at the veterans' home.

Beginning Oct. 23, La-Salle County's COVID seven-day average positivity rate jumped from 7.2 percent to 13.1 percent in just one week, according to the IDPH website. By Nov. 6, the county's productivity rate reached 18.5 percent and, by the following week, it rose to 20.5 percent. As of Nov. 21, it was 16.2 percent.

"The people who care for our heroes in the homes live within the communities they serve," she said. "But when community spread of this virus is high, staff can fall prey to infection, no matter how conscientious they have been about following protocols." Schimpf said the other veterans' homes located in similarly affected communities have not seen cases and deaths spike, as they have in the LaSalle facility.

Specifically, he cited Adams County, where the Illinois Veterans Home at Quincy is located, and Kankakee County, where the Manteo Veterans' Home is located.

"The reason I think that's relevant is you have COVID running rampant through places besides LaSalle, but yet the Veterans Home in a Manteo and Quincy have been able to largely avoid the type of tragedy that we've seen in LaSalle," Schimpf said.

The Quincy home has reported one COVID-19 related resident death, and it currently has 13 positive residents and 18 positive staff.

The Manteo home has reported 17 COVID-19 related resident deaths, and it currently has zero positive residents and eight positive staff.

Hoffman

Hoffman went through a weeklong set of interviews in mid-October, then waited four days for the grand announcement on the FFA convention's video conference. This is an extreme honor for Miriam and SIU," said Susan Graham, the assistant to the dean in the College of Agricultural, Life and Physical Sciences. "For SIU to be represented by one of our outstanding students demonstrates the quality of students the university attracts on a national level. SIU had the attention of hundreds of thousands watching during the election process. It was a great night for all of us, and it will be a great year for Miriam.'

Empathy and ideas

Hoffman is also a Provost Scholar and part of the University Honors Program-not to mention a member of the first all-female state officer team for FFA in Illinois (2018-19). She quips that the way her brain works can "be exhausting." "I can see all sides of an issue," she said, believing that empathy will be one of the strongest characteristics she'll bring to a post that hasn't been held by an FFA member from an Illinois university since 2006. Hoffman, who had transferred from Illinois Valley Community College, has certainly been noticed in her time in Carbondale. Professors and peers rave about her leadership qualities, feeling fortunate to have her. Likewise, Hoffman said she appreciates the support and community, and the nearby head-clearing hiking.

"I think I have a lot to offer, and it'll be exciting to be around a great group of people." -Miriam Hoffman

Facing the future with confidence

Soon, she will move to Indianapolis to focus on her national board responsibilities and resume her studies at SIU in spring 2021. "I really think there's an opportunity for our group to step up and serve," she said. Normally, the work at FFA would include a lot of travel. Now, it'll likely feature more online interactions. Hoffman laughs at how far she's come in accepting any type of meeting. "I've generally been very shy, and all of the personality tests I've ever taken label me an introvert," she said. "But I do think leadership takes all styles, and I think I've grown up and gained a lot of independence."

She recently read that the best time to be a leader is in difficult or uncertain times.

Hoffman said her confidence and sense of mission have built since losing the previous election, plus serving a valuable internship last summer as a consultant at Continuum Ag, a company that works with producers (and examines trade policy) from southeast Iowa to South Africa.

"I was everywhere, from running social media to going out to the cornfields," she said. "I think I have a lot to offer, and it'll be exciting to be around a great group of

Brad Cole, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League, however, said many communities haven't applied because they have "limited to no staff that can navigate the multiple steps put in place by (the Illinois Department of Commerce and Economic Opportunity) to receive their allocation."

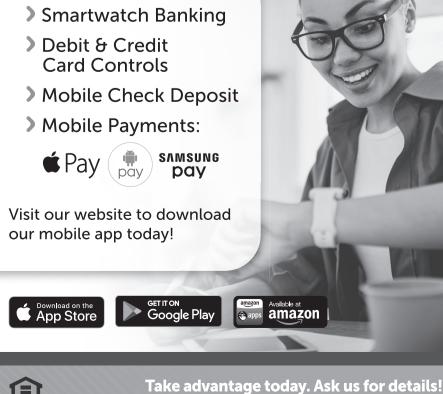

He also said the state will not allow local governments to use the funds to aid local businesses that have suffered due to the pandemic.

"Some of the communities that are not applying for their allocation did not have specific costs that could be reimbursed, but they do have businesses that could have received the local economic support," Cole said. "DCEO's rules to restrict the usage of the funds left many communities unable to qualify for the money."

Is Madigan machine done?

By Scott Reeder

SPRINGFIELD – The political obituaries for Mike Madigan may well be premature.

Don't be surprised if come January he rises Lazaruslike from his civic grave to be elected to another term as speaker of the House.

That's not a prediction. It's more a statement of political reality in Illinois: expect anything.

After all, no state – or federal -- legislative leader in the history of the United States has led a chamber longer than Madigan.

His secret? He is void of any deep-seeded political principle – other than winning.

Over the years, he's been both pro-life and pro-choice. He railed against Rod Blagojevich's dishonesty. Then he co-chaired his re-election campaign. And then he led the charge to have him impeached.

Some years, he has been a bust-the-bank, big-spending liberal. Other years he plays the role of the fiscal conservative. Republicans and Democrats alike scratch their heads, wondering where in the political spectrum he will land.

Today, he is in more political danger than at any time in his political career, which spans half a century. He has been speaker of the House for all but two years since 1983.

Members of his caucus began to openly turn on Madigan during the summer, after the inquiry into influence peddling by the behemoth electric utility Commonwealth Edison came to light. But things began to really unravel after two ComEd executives and lobbyist with a close friendship with Madigan were indicted.

So far, 18 Democrats have announced they will not support reelecting Madigan as Speaker in January. This presumably leaves him with 55 votes – five short -- of the 60 needed to retain his leadership post.

Despite the apparent vote shortfall. Madigan issued this statement: "The decision on the next speaker of the Illinois House will be made at a caucus, after a full discussion of the issues facing our state and the qualifications of the candidates. I plan to be a candidate for speaker, and today I confirmed that I continue to have support from a significant number of House Democratic caucus members."

And there is the rub. He may lack the votes to at least initially get himself elected, but with the support he does have, he could effectively deny anyone else the post.

At a time when the state is in a fiscal crisis and bearing the brunt of a deadly pandemic, the House could be at loggerheads over who will lead it for the next two years.

"It would be very difficult for any of those members who have publicly said they won't support Madigan to change their position," said Charles Wheeler III, a longtime statehouse reporter and retired journalism professor at the University of Illinois-Springfield.

Any flip-flopper would almost certainly draw a challenger in the next primary or general election.

But if it becomes a prolonged battle to elect a speaker, some of those who defected from the Madigan camp may be lured back just to end the nightmare of a deadlocked House. For example, in 1975, it took three weeks and 93 votes of the Illinois House before Bill Redmond was elected Speaker.

If such a marathon election were to happen again, some members might abandon their publicly stated positions just to bring the acrimony to an end.

I don't see Madigan leaving the Speakership without a fight. During the past half century, he has repeatedly reinvented himself. When he was first elected to Springfield, he was a law-and-order Democrat. Later he voted to abolish the death penalty.

He earned a reputation as a fierce ally of the trial lawyers. But he shoved a medical malpractice reform measure through the House over their objection, when he perceived it would benefit his caucus.

Organized labor has long adored Madigan, but that didn't prevent him from forcing through a pension reform measure over their strenuous objections.

His only consistent principle is that Democrats should control the House and he should be speaker.

Even love couldn't dislodge him from the post he

In early 2013, his daughter, Lisa, was considering a run for governor and raising campaign money for such a bid. Then in July of that year she announced she would instead seek a fourth term as attorney general rather than challenge then-Democratic Gov. Pat Quinn.

"I feel strongly that the state would not be well-served by having a governor and speaker of the House from the same family and have never planned to run for governor if that would be the case," she said in a statement. "With Speaker Madigan planning to continue in office, I will not run for governor."

The following month Mike Madigan told reporters, "Lisa and I had spoken about that on several occasions, and she knew very well that I did not plan to retire."

"She knew what my position was," he said. "She knew."

So, if he wouldn't retire as speaker to help his own daughter, don't expect him to call it quits to help his own party.

We're in for a fight.

Airing parking meter problems – 1947

(The following is from Jessica Nashold's Backtracks & Sidetracks column reprinted from Dec. 3, 1997.)

By Jessica Nashold

There were simultaneous meetings of the Mendota City Council and the Chamber of Commerce Businessmen's Council on the evening of Dec. 1, 1947. Mayor Glenn Momeny and Ald. R.W. Lipke met with the businessmen. Ald. Fred Welsch acted as mayor pro tem for the city council.

Alderman Welsch reported on complaints being received because of flaws in the performance of the Karpark parking meters. The Karpark accepted pennies for the first hour, but would take only nickels in the second hour. Some meters didn't operate even when the coins were inserted properly.

Alderman Welsch received very little support from the rest of the aldermen on his objections.

The council adjourned, but before the alderman left the building they were joined by the businessmen. The council meeting was resumed and Frank Gulick, Chamber secretary-manager, suggested checking out other meters before the six-month trial period for Karpark expired. The council then voted to ask Karpark if it had developed meter that would register pennies and nickels in any order. If not, other meters would be investigated.

Santa's first visit to Mendota during 1947 holidays occurred on Dec. 6. He arrived by plane at the Mendota airport, piloted by Chance Fitzgerald, and was driven to the business district. He was joined by Maralyn Ashley, who had been crowned Miss Merry Christmas at the Kanteen, by Mayor Momeny. After a parade through downtown Mendota, Santa was established in his headquarters tent in the park.

Prior to Santa's arrival, youngsters had enjoyed a free show at the State Theatre – "Life With Blondie." Each child received a small gift.

The Elks received a phone call from the manager of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender bowling team, the Mineralites, on Dec. 4, 1947. He said they could play in Mendota on Dec. 20. A match with the top five bowlers at the Elks was arranged. The Reporter printed scores of the Big Twelve each week, usually headed by Marty Masear. The 1947 match would be the 14th consecutive time the Mineralites had played at the Elks alleys.

Backtracks & Sidetracks

A drive to fund Sister Elizabeth Kenny's fight against polio was launched in Mendota with Reporter editor Richard Leiser in charge. Hundreds of nurses were being trained to administer Kenny's treatment. A Kenny Mercy Plane transported patients to a treatment center. Although the principal center was in Minnesota, a clinic had been established in Illinois, in Centralia. Each week, The Reporter printed names of contributors to the fund and the amount donated.

Mendota Kiwanis undertook a fundraising effort to purchase a special car for Gilford Moss, a paralyzed Mendota veteran, being treated at the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Hines. He also had employment in Chicago and had been driven to work by another veteran who was now leaving Hines. No government help was available to provide transportation. Hence the need for a special car Moss could drive himself. On Presentation Day, he was honored at a Kiwanis luncheon in the Gold Room of the Hotel Faber. A new Oldsmobile Club Sedan with hand controls was presented to him on Jefferson Street, south of the hotel. Boy Scouts were present for the ceremony as they were about to start a paper drive that day with proceeds to be applied to the car fund. They hoped to raise $100.

Co-captains Al Loach and Pen Faber led the Trojans to victory in the opening game of the basketball season at LaMoille, 50-22. This was followed by a 51-47 win at Earlville.

MHS cheerleaders adopted new uniforms. Sweaters from Corbin's Sport Shop in LaSalle were gold, with a Trojan head and "Pep Squad" on the back. Pleated purple skirts were made by the Home Ec department and the outfit was topped by a purple beanie.

R.C. Hawley, LaSalle County Superintendent of Schools, released results of a county-wide survey. When started on Dec. 1, 1945, there had been 262 districts, which had been reduced to 166 by Sept. 1, 1947. A final report was due June 1, 1948.

A Mendota unit had been proposed, which would include all of Mendota and Troy Grove townships, plus parts of Dimmick, Meriden, Ophir and Waltham townships.

Cy Bradish, a representative of the Veterans' Administration office in LaSalle, spoke at a Legion meeting in Mendota regarding National Service Life Insurance. Those interested in converting their army insurance were assisted by Bradish in filling the proper form.

It was predicted that when the 1948 football season arrived there would be TV sets in a million American homes. There were 14 stations with regular programs and six to 12 more were expected to be broadcasting before the end of 1947.

The coming anti-COVID restriction backlash

By Rich Lowry

It already seems clear that the first major political and culture eruption of the Biden years will be a roiling populist backlash against the next round of COVID restrictions.

We saw this sentiment play out in sporadic anti-lockdown demonstrations last spring and it has driven ongoing resistance to masks, but it is, in all likelihood, about to reach an entirely new level - fueled by exhaustion with the virus, elite hypocrisy and the shattered credibility of the public-health establishment.

The ascension of Joe Biden will add force to the reaction. It is an iron law of American politics that whichever party doesn't control the presidency will suspect the other of plotting to impose a tyranny, so the fear and loathing of COVID restrictions, somewhat muted on the right while Donald Trump was president, will deepen and intensify.

The right's populism and limited-government impulse, which separated in the Trump years, will presumably be reunited in the push against lockdowns in a way that they haven't been since the Tea Party.

"Lockdowns. Mask police. Curfews. What about freedom?" asked conservative Rep. Jim Jordan in a recent tweet, forecasting things to come.

It'd be much better if we could find a prudent middle path through the next several months, as the pandemic enters its worst phase and as new vaccines arrive that will soon start changing everything. But a significant segment of the American public has lost its patience with a new normal that has, at times, been arbitrary and poorly thought through.

ican public has lost its patience with a new normal that has, at times, been arbitrary and poorly thought through.

When the new virus first hit our shores and we knew much less about it, the case for lockdowns was strong to keep the health-care system from getting overwhelmed and to play for time (and better treatments). In retrospect, though, the nationwide lockdowns of the spring closed down some states before they experienced their initial waves of the disease, much upside.

After that kind of sacrifice, it's hard to double-dip and ask people to do it again.

imposing economic, mental health and medical costs without

Especially when the latest advice ran against the grain of one of the nation's oldest traditions, namely Thanksgiving, and when prominent pro-restriction officeholders discredit themselves with their own behavior.

In mid-November, Chicago Mayor Lori Lightfoot told residents of her city: "You must cancel the normal Thanksgiving plans. Particularly if they include guests that do not live in your immediate household." Yet just days earlier she happily had joined a crowd celebrating Joe Biden's election victory. During this moment, the political class should have been especially sensitive to playing by its own rules, when those rules have been so relatively easy to bear for the elite and so punishing for ordinary workers.

To simplify and generalize, at the start of this year, they downplayed the virus for fear that it would stoke xenophobia. Then, they lurched into five-alarm-fire mode.

They poured cold water on masks before turning around and insisting on them despite ambiguous evidence on the efficacy of cloth masks.

They preached the gospel of social distancing until mass Black Lives Matter protests erupted, blessing these huge, often unruly gatherings because fighting racism is supposedly a paramount public-health issue.

The upshot will be poisonous contention in the months ahead before the advent of that most American solution - the clever technological fix, in the form of transformative vaccines.

Pritzker warns of looming crisis if jobless programs aren't extended

By PETER HANCOCK
Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – Gov. JB Pritzker warned of another looming economic crisis for the state and nation if Congress does not act soon to reauthorize extended unemployment benefits for people displaced from their jobs due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

"I can't overstate the implications of this," Pritzker said. "Without assistance from Congress, four weeks from now there will be no way to replace these benefits for the hundreds of thousands of Illinoisans impacted by these programs, which have become an essential lifeline for people who lost their jobs due to the pandemic. This is incredibly dire."

Pritzker was referring to two programs created under the federal Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security, or CARES Act, which Congress passed in March.

They include the Pandemic Emergency Unemployment Compensation program, which provides an additional 13 weeks of unemployment benefits for people who have exhausted their regular jobless benefits, and the Pandemic Unemployment Assistance program, which provides benefits to gig workers, independent contractors and other self-employed individuals who don't normally qualify for traditional unemployment insurance.

Both of those programs are 100-percent funded by the federal government, although they are administered through state unemployment agencies like IDES, and both are set to expire Dec. 26.

According to U.S. Department of Labor data, more than 204,000 Illinoisans filed new claims for extended benefits under PEUC during the last week of October while another 177,000 self-employed workers were receiving continuing benefits under PUA.

Those numbers were in addition to the more than 337,000 Illinoisans who were receiving continuing benefits under the traditional unemployment insurance program at the end of October.

The Illinois Department of Employment Security reported last week that the state's unemployment rate fell to 6.8 percent in October, down from 10.4 percent in September. At the same time, however, the total number of nonfarm jobs in the state declined by about 1,100, to just over 5.7 million, a sign that a large number of people have fallen out of the workforce.

Although the Democratic-controlled U.S. House passed a bill earlier this year to extend those programs as part of a broader economic stimulus package, the Republican-controlled Senate has not.

Among the issues separating the two sides is whether to provide direct financial help to state and local governments, which many Republicans in the Senate oppose, and whether to provide employers with civil immunity from lawsuits by workers who contract COVID-19, which Republicans have sought but many Democrats oppose.

"So unless the Republican Senate gets a stimulus bill moving in December, Republicans will be putting a big lump of coal in the Christmas stockings of a whole lot of American families," Pritzker said.

Amid the surge in un-

Amid the surge in unemployment claims during the pandemic, IDES has been beset with backlogs and delays in processing the unprecedented volume of claims coming in each week, but the head of that agency said it has been making significant progress to improve the work flow.

Kristin Richards, acting director of IDES, said that during the peak of the pandemic in May, the agency received about 1.8 million phone calls in a single week – or about three per second – with only about 100 staff workers to answer them.

workers to answer them.
Since then, she said, IDES added hundreds of in-house and contractual staff, set up a "callback only" system in which calls are returned in the order they were received, and implemented other changes to streamline the handling of calls based on the nature of a claimant's issue. As a result, she said, many claimants are now receiving callbacks within seven to 10 days.

"There are complex issues in our adjudication process that may require some more patience," Richards said. "But we're happy to say that in many cases, claimants can hear from us within one to two weeks or less."

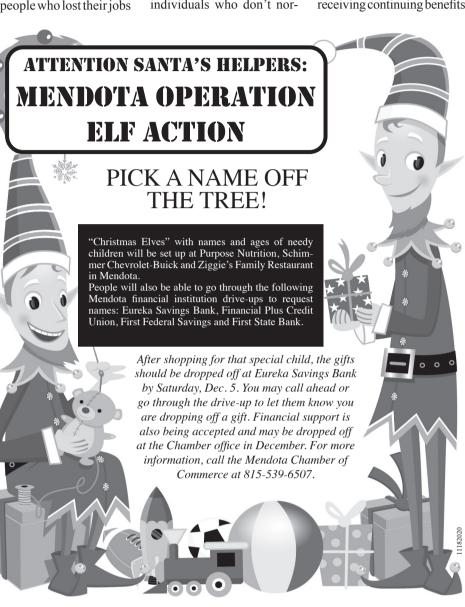

Richards and Illinois
Attorney General Kwame
Raoul also noted that IDES has been dealing with an unprecedented volume of fraudulent claims, mainly as a result of nationwide data breaches that have enabled some to file claims using stolen identities and Social Security numbers.

Pagul raminded Illinois

Raoul reminded Illinoisans that if they receive anything in the mail about an unemployment claim that they did not file, either a debit card or a letter saying they've been approved for benefits, it likely means that an application was filed by an identity thief, and the recipient should not try to access those benefits.

He advised all Illinoisans to closely monitor their financial accounts and credit reports and to put a freeze on their credit cards if they suspect improper activity.

Information about how to report suspected identity theft and how to protect a consumer's information is available on the Attorney General's website.

Spring turkey hunting applications now open

SPRINGFIELD - The Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) is now taking applications from youth and adult turkey hunters for 2021 spring turkey hunting on private land through the Illinois Recreational Access Program (IRAP).

"We've had many hunters and anglers use the program and continue to come back year after year," said IDNR Director Colleen Callahan. "IRAP has been extremely popular and continues to expand as it adds more private property for access by hunters. Through IRAP, landowners allow public access to their property in exchange for a lease payment, a habitat management plan, and assistance with habitat restoration of their property. It is an ideal public/private partnership that delivers wins for the habitat, participants and landowners.3

The IDNR has leased

nearly 19,000 acres of private land for the upcoming 2021 Spring Turkey Hunting Season through IRAP, creating 582 public access turkey hunting sites on those properties in 39 counties. Sites are available during the youth turkey season and during the third and fourth segments of the regular spring turkey season at no cost to the participant.

To take part as a youth hunter (age 17 and under), hunters and their supervisors must complete an IRAP application online and submit it by Feb. 17, 2021 to be eligible for the youth drawing. A total of 224 sites are available for the two-weekend youth season (March 27-28, 2021 and April 3-4, 2020).

Applications for IRAP Turkey Hunting sites can be found online at https:// www2.illinois.gov/dnr/conservation/IRAP/Pages/Firsttime-Adult-turkey-hunting-.

Second firearm deer hunting season is Dec. 3-6

SPRINGFIELD - Hunters in Illinois should think safety before, during and after their time in the field this fall and winter as waterfowl, upland game, furbearer, and firearm and archery deer seasons provide ample opportunity to enjoy time in the outdoors in Illinois.

"We want to encourage hunters to make safety their first priority as they head out to enjoy what we hope will be a successful hunting season for everyone," said Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) Director Colleen Callahan. "Illinois' hunting heritage is best celebrated by making sure hunters can spend their time experiencing the bounty nature provides for us and returning home safely to plan for their next hunting adventure."

Each year, Illinois' busiest hunting season is the firearm deer season. The second firearm deer season is Thursday, Dec. 3 through Sunday, Dec. 6. The Illinois Archery Deer Season opened Oct. 1 and continues through Jan. 17, 2021. Archery deer season is closed during the firearm deer weekends except in those counties where firearm deer hunting is not permitted.

The IDNR Office of Law Enforcement, which administers the state's Hunter Safety Education Program, has investigated seven hunting incidents so far during 2020. In 2019, there were 20 hunting incidents reported in all hunting seasons in Illinois. Among the hunting incidents reported last year, 10 involved hunters using elevated tree stands.

"Many mishaps involving elevated tree stands are preventable, and that's why we remind hunters to use a Fall Arrest System (FAS) safety harness, no matter the type of elevated stand they are using," said Jeff Hopkins, IDNR Safety Education administrator.

When utilizing a tree stand, hunters should check that their stand is installed properly. Hunters should check the harness and straps and replace worn straps if needed-and check the ladder and other equipment before they hunt to make sure they are in working order. Hunters also need to be mindful of weather conditions that could make stands and steps slippery, and they should have a cellphone within easy reach to call for help, if needed. Hunters can review tree stand safety online at http://www.huntercourse. com/treestandsafety/ Safety educators and

• Keep their finger out of the trigger guard and off the trigger until they are ready to shoot.

Other safety considerations include ensuring heating sources are properly ventilated in hunting cabins and boats, wearing appropriate, high visibility clothing while hunting (including blaze orange or blaze pink when required), and being familiar with the area being

Q: When is the new "Wonder Woman" movie coming out? Will it be in theaters or just payper-view at home? I really want to see it on the big screen. I miss going to the movies. -- Y.G.

A: Some cinemas are still open across the country, but there aren't many new releases. Many are showing re-releases with limited seating. "Wonder Woman 1984," again starring Gal Gadot in the title role, was originally set to premiere last December. Since then the film has had six release dates, with the latest being Dec. 25, 2020, both in theaters and

As you can gather from the title, "Wonder Woman 1984" is set in the 1980s. In this sequel, the golden-lasso-swinging superhero faces two new adversaries: Cheetah, played by Kristen Wiig ("Saturday Night Live"), and Max Lord, played by Pedro Pascal ("Game of Thrones," "The Mandalorian").

Q: I love the thrilling mystery series "The Fall" with Gillian Anderson. When will the second season air on TV? -- B.B.

A: The British-Irish crime procedural series starring Gillian Anderson ("X-Files") and Jamie Dornan ("Fifty Shades of Grey") as the serial killer she's pursuing is now airing on the Ovation cable channel in the U.S. Like most British shows, the number of episodes each season is very limited, just five to six each. It's kind of like watching a little miniseries and doesn't drag on long past its prime.

"The Fall" earned much praise during its run. Ovation just began airing the second of three seasons this month. The third and final chapter is scheduled to air in the first quarter of 2021.

If you're a fan of Anderson's, be sure to check her out in the new fourth season of "The Crown" on Netflix, in which she plays British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

A: Before he became an Oscar-winning film director ("A Beautiful Mind"), Ron Howard was an actor. I remember him as teenager Richie Cunningham on the sitcom "Happy Days," but before that he was one of Hollywood's most employable child actors and went by the name of Ronny Howard. Ronny was just 8 years old when he sang a cute but off-key rendition of "Gary, Indiana" in "The Music Man" (1962). He'd started playing little Opie Taylor on 'The Andy Griffith Show" in 1960 and continued until 1968. The youthful-looking Howard played Richie Cunningham on "Happy Days" from age 20 to 30.

He first gained prominence as a director with the mermaid love story "Splash," starring Tom Hanks and Darryl Hannah, and he hasn't stopped since. His daughter, Bryce Dallas Howard, is following in his footsteps, starting out as an actress and has now begun directing.

HOLLYWOOD -- Movie

the last four stars of The Golden Age of Hollywood, scored excellent reviews for her Netflix remake of "Madame Rosa," called "The Life Ahead," which began streaming Nov. 13.

The Washington Post said, "Madame Rosa is a prostitute who becomes a caregiver and mother figure for children of her colleagues in the sex-work industry. Sophia Loren inhabits the role with vulnerability and majesty. As one of the four final links to cinema's Golden Age, she is simply magnificent. She's still got it, and as this performance reminds us, she always did!"

In 1956, Sophia was signed to a five-picture deal by Paramount Pictures. Her first American movie was "Boy on a Dolphin," filmed in the Saronic Islands off Greece in 1957, with Alan Ladd and Clifton Webb, followed by "The Pride and the Passion," shot in Spain and starring Cary Grant and Frank Sinatra. Since she didn't speak any English, she learned her role and all her lines phonetically. During filming, Cary Grant fell in love with her, and in 1958 he replaced his then-wife, Betsy Drake (who actually wrote the script), in "Houseboat," with Sophia. Drake divorced Grant, but in the end Sophia jilted him and returned to her real love, producer Carlo Ponti, in 2007. They were married until his death.

Her role in "The Life Ahead" is akin to "Two Women," for which she won a best actress Oscar in 1962. She skipped the Academy Awards that night because of extreme stage fright. Later, she mustn't have realized how big "Dynasty" would become, because in 1981 she turned down playing Alexis Carrington Colby, which went to Joan Collins and made her a major international television star.

Zac Efron, who recently lent his voice to "Scoob!" (as in Scooby-Doo), with Mark Wahlberg, Will Forte, Tracy Morgan, Ken Jeong, Amanda Seyfried and Gina Rodriguez, has found his next project, the survival thriller "Gold," with Anthony Hayes. They play two strangers traveling through a desert who stumble upon and have to protect the biggest gold nugget ever found. Hope it's a bigger gem than his last film, "Extremely Wicked, Shockingly Evil and Vile"!

Were you pressured to spend Thanksgiving not with a whole passel of siblings, cousins and in-laws but at home isolating with the members of your household? Well, thank you. Whether you are relieved or saddened by the current state, we're all doing our part and making sacrifices. It will get better.

To do my part, I'm offering you a slate of films that feature an isolated main character. Not to make you sad, but for some commiseration, if you will. Whatever your current situation, you haven't been accidentally left behind on Mars, so you have to feel good about that! "127 Hours" -- Director

Danny Boyle's riveting depiction of one man's adventure turned wrong: Mountaineer Aron Ralston (James Franco) is hiking in remote Utah and his arm is pinned by a boulder. He spends five days trapped, facing exposure and dehydration, before confronting his worst-case choice: cut off his own arm or remain trapped and die. "Cast Away"

Hanks (and a volleyball) star in this survival drama from director Robert Zemeckis. FedEx exec Chuck (Hanks) is washed up on a deserted island when his plane crashes en route to a post in Malaysia. He learns to survive and remains put for years with only his trusty companion Wilson, the aforementioned volleyball.

"Life of Pi" -- In a lush sea fantasy by director Ang Lee, Pi, the son of zoo owners, is the sole survivor of a shipwreck -- he and a Bengal tiger -spending months adrift on an unforgiving expanse of ocean. "Locke" -- You have to be Tom Hardy to pull this film off. Hardy stars as Ivan Locke, a construction engineer who is on the eve of a superimportant job and who finds out rather unexpectedly that a one-night stand resulted in a child to be born that night. He undertakes a drive to London to be with the mother. How much can change over a long drive? Turns out, a lot.

"The Martian" -- Matt Damon stars as astronaut Mark Watney, who is inadvertently left behind at a base camp on Mars when the mission crew must vacate the planet. He doesn't have enough supplies, he doesn't have any tools to communicate with Earth. But he's got jokes and some starter potatoes!

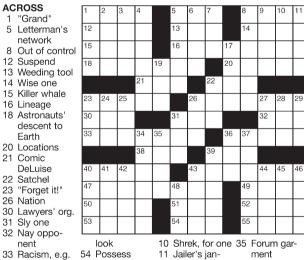

"Wild" -- A divorced woman (Reese Witherspoon) decides to run into the wilderness and hike the Pacific Crest Trail despite any significant experience hiking. Ahead of her is a difficult but rewarding journey.
"The Road" -- Viggo

Mortensen and Kodi Smit-McPhee are just a guy and his son facing danger every moment in a post-apocalyptic wasteland. There is no one to trust, no food and safe spaces are hard to come by. Based on the soul-crushingly sad book of the same name by Cormac McCarthy.

Living in the power of the Holy Spirit

There's nothing more valuable than the presence of God in our lives. And my goal for teaching about God's presence and anointing is to increase your desire to completely and promptly obey Him. Because the more we love, trust and obey God, the stronger His anointing will be in our

Now, God's love for you is perfect, complete, and unconditional. He couldn't love you any more than He does right now, and His love for you never changes. But we can grow in our love for God.

As we learn more about His character and have experience with Him through a personal relationship with Him, our trust in Him and love for Him grows. And this causes more of the anointing of the Holy Spirit to work in us and through us.

The Anointing Abides in You

Jesus Christ is the Anointed One, and when we are born again, His anointing abides in us. The word anoint means "to smear or rub all over." It's wonderful to think about how in Christ, we are "rubbed and smeared all over" with the Holy Spirit.

In one way the anointing is a free gift from God that comes by His grace and mercy, and in another way, there is a price to pay for it.

First John 2:27 (AMP) says, "As for you, the anointing [the special gift, the preparation] which you received from Him remains [permanently] in you...." Notice how this scripture says that the anointing remains permanently—it won't go away.

The terms "special gift" and "the preparation" indicate having Holy Spirit "umph!" or power to do what God is calling us to do. And it's the gentle promptings, urges and leadership of the Holy Spirit in us that shows us how to live.

When we follow the anointing, we feel peace and joy because we're making wise decisions.

It's so valuable for us... and more than anything else, we need to protect the anointing in our lives.

Pay the Price to Have More Power

While the anointing abides in us through our salvation, it can't work through our lives until we are broken before God. That's when the oil of the Holy Spirit in us is poured out and can be a benefit to others.

So, what is it that needs to be broken in us? Things like rebellion, stubbornness, pride and a spirit that's independent from God are a few areas of disobedience that can keep the anointing from working through us. This is because the vehicle that carries the anointing is the soul—our mind, will and emotions. And when we are led by our natural carnal or fleshly impulses, we are not being led by the Holy Spirit.

But as we grow up and mature in Christ, we can be what God wants us to be and live every day empowered by the anointing of the Holy Spirit.

It's Not Just for Spiritual Things

It's important to understand that we need God's anointing every day, in everything we do. And there's an anointing for everything we need to do. It's not just for ministers or for spiritual areas of life.

EVERYDAY LIFE

The anointing is what enables and equips us to do what God asks us to do. You have an anointing to be a parent, husband or wife...to be in business or some kind of organization... whatever you are gifted to do with your life. And it's amazing when God uses someone to do something that you know they don't have the ability to do on their own. That's the power of the anointing!

Jesus Is Our Example

Philippians 2:10 (AMP) says, "At the name of Jesus every knee shall bow [in submission], of those who are in heaven and on earth and under the earth." He is God, and He is all-powerful! Yet, He is also our example in humility.

Verses 5-8 in this same chapter tell us we are to have the same attitude that He demonstrated: Although He is one with God, He stripped Himself of all privileges and became a servant; He abased and humbled Himself and was obedient even to the extreme of death on the cross.

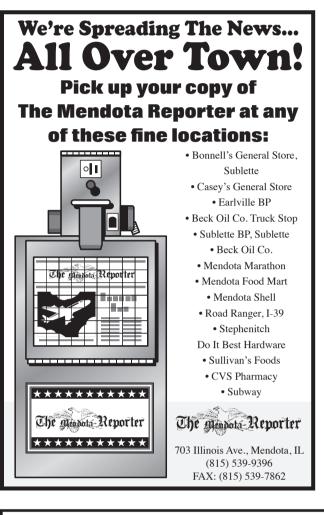

Power is connected to obedience. The anointing is released when we get rid of our selfish, self-centered, independent attitudes and humble ourselves before God.

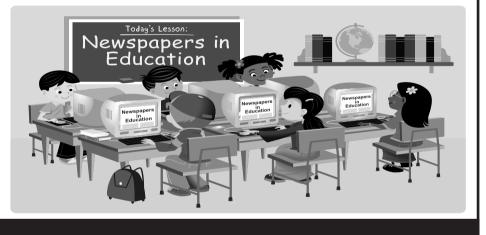

As you choose to be radically obedient to God, you will have the same power that raised Christ from the dead working in and through you. And you'll be amazed by the anointing of the Holy Spirit in your life!

SUNDAY: Worship Sunday School

Written by Thomas Merton, 1968: My Lord God,

I have no idea where I am going. I do not see the road ahead of me. I cannot know for certain where it will end.

Nor do I really know myself, and the fact that I think I am following your will does not mean that I am actually doing so.

But I believe that the desire to please you does in fact please you. And I hope I have that desire in all that I am doing.

I hope that I will never do anything apart from that desire.

And I know that if I do this you will lead me by the right road, though I may know nothing about it.

Therefore will I trust you always though I may soom to be lost and though I may seem to be lost and in the shadow of death.

I will not fear, for you are ever with me, and you will never leave will not fear, for you are ever with me, and you will never leave me to face my perils alone.
