Discovery process ongoing in fatal fire case

Editor

OREGON - The attorney representing the Byron man accused of killing his wife and son in 2016 said the process of going through the discovery proves was "ongoing" at a court hearing on Nov. 2.

Christopher Derango said that the defense has received 800 new pages of discovery in the case of Duane Meyer. Meyer again appeared on a video screen in the courtroom from the Ogle County Jail.

Derango said there are still some items outstanding, but State's Attorney Eric Morrow told Judge John Roe that he believes all of the materials have been provided. He said the problem could be in the way some items are labeled.

Meyer is accused of setting the Oct. 19, 2016 fire in Byron that killed his ex-wife Maggie Meyer and 3-year-old son Amos

He was charged on Oct. 9, 2019 with four counts of first-degree homicide, two counts of aggravated arson and one count of concealment of a homicidal death. He is currently being held in the Ogle County Jail on a $10 million bond.

Judge John Roe set the next pre-trial status hearing for 10 a.m. Dec. 7 at the Ogle County Courthouse.

Hi there! I'm Keto and I'm the bestest boy in town! At least that's what my foster parents tell me. I'm 1 yr. old and life has been a little rough for me up until now. You see, before I got to Tails some nice people in Animal Control had saved me after I had been shot!! My owners back then....well they weren't good people like all the people that helped to save me. Now I've left that all behind me and I gotta say, I'm one Heckin' Good Boy! I love other dogs and love running around and playing ninja warrior in the house, but my foster mom says I'm about as graceful as an elephant in mud. Hey, I don't let that hold me back! Cuddling and fetch and other dogs are about my favorite thing in the whole wide world, so if you're into those things too, I think that we could be the best of friends. Because of some bad habits I learned in the past, I do need someone who has had dogs before. If you think that you might be that person, please come to Tails and meet me! See you soon!

Senior Lifestyles

Different generations can learn and benefit from one another

In the not-so-distant past, extended families frequently lived in close proximity to one another. Such families shared meals and experiences and essentially grew up together. Nowadays, families separate for various reasons, such as job opportunities and cost of living concerns.

While there are advantages to spreading out, there are also some disadvantages, namely that grandparents and grandchildren may not see one another frequently enough. Even though people of different age groups may not entirely have the same interests, the interactions between generations can benefit both young people and their aging relatives.

Finding renewed vigor Senior living and active lifestyle communities provide invaluable care and amenities for seniors. While being around like-minded individuals can be handy, it's also limiting. Seniors who continue to age in place in mixed-age communities can extract joy from watching youthful children and young adults growing up, playing and socializing. Being around multiple generations also can spark interesting conversation, and all parties involved can learn something from one another.

Planning for the future

Younger generations may not understand the concept of "hard times" or "doing without" like a person who has lived through various ups and downs. Passing along advice about economic cycles, saving for the future and maintaining stability is one area of expertise at which many seniors excel.

Practicing interpersonal skills

All the technological savviness in the world cannot compensate for the power of strong interpersonal skills. Being able to address a group of people or speak one-on-one is essential in the workplace and in life. When younger generations speak to older adults, they may become stronger at verbal discourse and have greater perspective of different points of conversation.

Learning new technology Younger generations can impart knowledge of technological devices to older adults. People with skills are usually happy to share their knowledge. Even if seniors aren't ready to purchase tablets or smartphones, they may be excited to have their grandchildren teach them about the latest gadgets.

Providing sense of pur-

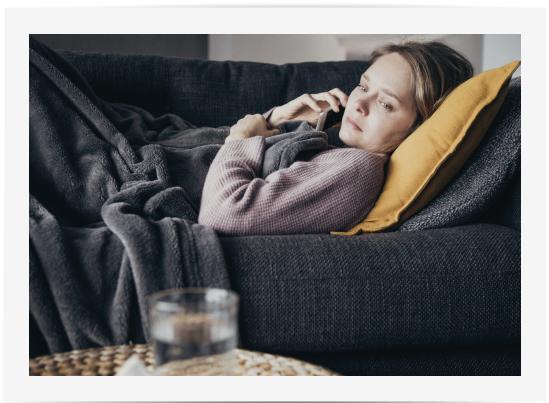

Both seniors and younger generations can realize a greater sense of purpose when interacting with one another

That person may be the reason the other one greets the day with a smile. Visits from grandchildren can reduce the liklihood of isolation and depression in older adults. And younger generations can discover the benefits of personal social interaction rather than communicating exclusively through social media apps.

Fostering intergenerational connections is a great way to broaden social circles improve communication and learn new things.

Adopting an animal

Adding a dog or cat to your home later in life can be great Companion animals bring great joy to their owners. The unconditional love cats and dogs provide appeals to people of all ages.

While many people associate pets with kids who can't wait to welcome the first cat or dog into their homes, pets can benefit aging men and women as well.

It's not uncommon for seniors to feel lonely or depressed when they retire, their children move away or they lose a spouse or close friend or friends. The American Humane Society states that studies show pets help seniors overcome loneliness and depression by providing affection, company and entertainment. Pets also provide much-needed mental stimulation, and many pet owners find their pets help them become more physically active as well.

Seniors who adopt pets may also feel a sense of purpose when helping animals who may not have anywhere to live. This is particularly true of older companion animals, which many young families are understandably hesitant to adopt. Mature pets might be an ideal fit for seniors. When seniors are looking to adopt a pet, there are various reasons why older pets or particular animals might be the perfect fit for them.

- Adult pets may already be house trained, saving seniors the trouble and effort of training them.
- · Seniors may find cats fit their lifestyles more than dogs, as cats are less active and do not need to be walked or played with as much as dogs. Cats also are small and easily maneuverable, meaning even seniors who have arthritis or other physical limitations can easily care for cats. Many cats are also content to spend long periods of time sleeping on their owners' laps.
- Small dogs that can be active within the house might be a good idea as well, especially for seniors with mobility issues. They're also easily transported to and from vet

It's important that seniors carefully weigh the benefits of adopting a pet against any limitations they may have. Having a backup plan for care is advantageous as well. Seniors should not adopt a pet if they anticipate frequent travel or medical care that requires they be away from home for long periods of time.

Innovative fitness programs are available for seniors

It is important to stay active and eat healthy foods in an effort to promote fitness and well-being. This is especially true for seniors, many of whom lead increasingly sedentary lifestyles as they age.

The American Heart Association says adults should get at least 150 minutes of moderate exercise per week, or 75 minutes of vigorous aerobic activity, and a Harvard University study says that exercise can be an insurance policy for heart health.

Today's seniors have more fitness options at their disposal than ever before.

SilverSneakers® is the leading community fitness program for older adults in the United States. SilverSneakers® members can participate in specially curated programs at participating gyms and community centers across the nation. According to the organization, there are more participating fitness locations available than there are Starbucks® coffee establishments. Classes are fit for everyone, no matter their experience level.

Those concerned about gym costs may find that SilverSneakers® already is included in their Medicare Advantage plan for no additional cost. Plus, there is access to healthy living discounts from participating businesses.

Canada has begun to develop its own senior-centric fitness programs. The Healthy, Safe and Strong group exercise program is an introduction to safe exercises available for adults age 60 and older in the province of Ontario. The program can help develop better stamina, maintain or improve balance and increase strength and endurance. StrongerU Senior Fitness is a relatively new program of pre-choreographed group fitness offering instruction in four program types: cardio strength training, stretching, and circuit training. The program addresses a need in Canada for quality and consistent senior fitness programing.

As studies show that engaging in physical activity is the most effective way for aging men and women to stay healthy, more adults may be compelled to join fitness groups that cater to the 50-and-over market.

Why routine checkups are vital to overall health

Regular visits with a medical professional are an important part of a healthy lifestyle. Too often people visit the doctor only when they are ill, as they may not realize just how essential well visits and physical exams are.

Routine checkups are the smartest way for people in all age groups to stay on top of their health, but they can be especially valuable for those age 50 and older. Regular checkups enable physicians to check current health against past visits, ensuring that any anomalies can be investigated and treated efficiently and promptly. This can make the difference in slowing down the progression of a disease that has already developed or prevent something from becoming a full-fledged issue.

The Mayo Clinic says there are no hard and fast rules about how often seniors should visit health care providers. Those who are in generally good health may only require one medical checkup a year. At this point vital signs will be checked, medications reviewed and lifestyle topics discussed. Doctors may even recommend or discuss tests. Patients also can bring up any issues they may be experiencing, however insignificant they may seem. Anything from sleep disturbances to memory loss to unexplained fatigue or pain can be addressed. Sometimes getting everything out in the open and being reassured that there's nothing to worry about can be helpful.

General care and geriatric doctors also are adept at asking questions to get a sense of how patients are faring in the world. This may include topics that seemingly have no relevance to health but can be quite important. A provider may ask about topics such as bathing or dressing. Questions about social interaction or typical routines can paint a better picture of both physical and mental health

The recommended frequency of doctor visits may change as health issues arise or if follow-up is needed after a treatment plan or injury, according to the caregiver company Home Care Assistance. Some seniors may have to visit a provider once a week or once a month. Doctors, nurses and therapists will design a regimen based on a patient's current health needs

The following are some compelling reasons to be diligent with provider visits.

- Frequently health issues can be silent and not noticed early on by a patient, according to Mercy Medical Center in Baltimore.
- Patients will be less likely to forget about important screenings, like mammography, prostate tests, cholesterol tests, and more.
 - Vaccines can be administered, as even adults need certain immunizations to stay healthy.
- Patients can discuss potential lifestyle changes, like going on a diet or taking up a

It is essential to follow through with health care provider visits, even if they seem redundant. Physicians may detect issues that warrant close observation. Patients are urged to have an open dialogue with their doctors so they understand the reason behind health care visits and expectations in the future.

VOP receives 100 Women Who Care of Ogle County Award

OREGON – The Village of Progress was selected by 100 Women Who Care of Ogle County to receive its October 2020 Award, totaling $1100.

The 100 Women Who Care of Ogle County Chapter is one of 900 chapters worldwide that raises money for grassroots charities in their local communities. At each meeting representatives from member-nominated 501(c) 3 nonprofit charities present a project for consideration for the award. During meetings, each member votes for one of the projects and writes a check for $100 to the winning charity.

To adhere to COVID-19 safety guidelines, the Ogle County Chapter has suspended in-person meetings and meets via ZOOM. Information about each nonprofit's goals for the money, should they be the recipient, is given and then each member votes electronically for the charity of their choice.

Since 1969, the Village of Progress has been serving the needs of adults with developmental disabilities in Ogle County. The Village offers innovative vocational skills, exceptional recreational programs, and engaging social activities.

Village of Progress was chosen for the award to help with the continuance of their contract work in packaging of Wahl products, the help in organizing and shipping of donated clothing to third-world countries and the operating of their own Village Bakery during this pandemic.

"We are delighted VOP was the winning charity at our October meeting,' said Arlene Sangmeister, a member of the Ogle County Chapter. "There are over 400 registered charities in Ogle County which are deserving of these donations, especially now when things are more difficult to accomplish during the pandemic."

When asked "Why join 100 WWC", the answer is always three-fold: It is a way to give back to your community without having to attend monthly meetings. (100 WWW meets quarterly); 100 percent of your donation goes directly to the local charity; there are no administration fees or postal fees, and your donation is tax-deductible. (This donation amounts to only 33 and one-third dollars a month); It gives you a sense of satisfaction knowing that you are doing something that has an impact on your friends and neighbors in your county.

You must be a member of 100WWC to nominate a charity for consideration. We are open to any woman who has a desire to help others in need. It is possibly the easiest way to help make a difference. Currently, there are 11 members who started this organization in January, just before the COVID pandemic hit. Many chapters have had to change their names from 100WWC to 100+WWC as they have well over 100 members.

If you are interested in joining the camaraderie of women who want to make a difference locally, please contact Deanna Forrest at forrestdeanna@hotmail. com or call 815-384-5555.

MOMENTS IN TIME

- * On Nov. 28, 1582, William Shakespeare, 18, and Anne Hathaway, 26, pay a 40-pound bond for their marriage license in Stratford-upon-Avon. Six months later, Anne gives birth to their daughter, Susanna, and two years later, to twins.
- * On Nov. 27, 1868, Lt. Col. George Armstrong Custer leads an early-morning attack on a band of Cheyenne in Oklahoma. Custer did not attempt to identify the group of Cheyenne, or to make even a cursory reconnaissance. Had he done so, he would have discovered that they were peaceful people and the village was on reservation soil.
- * On Nov. 26, 1922, in Egypt's Valley of the Kings British archaeologists become the first souls to enter King Tutankhamen's tomb in more than 3,000 years. Inside were several thousand priceless objects, including a gold coffin containing the mummy of the teenage king.
- * On Nov. 29, 1942, coffee joins the list of items rationed in the United States during World War II. Butter, sugar and milk had been rationed earlier. By the end of the year, cars were limited to 3 gallons of gas per week.
- * On Nov. 23, 1966, Elvis Presley's 22nd film, "Spinout," in which Elvis played a singing race car driver, opens in theaters.
- * On Nov. 24, 1971, a hijacker calling himself D.B Cooper parachutes from a Northwest Orient Airlines 727 into a raging thunderstorm over Washington state. He had $200,000 in ransom money and was wearing only wraparound sunglasses, a thin suit and a raincoat. No trace of Cooper was ever found, but in 1980 a child found $5,880 of the ransom money.
- * On Nov. 25, 1990, after a howling wind and rainstorm on Thanksgiving Day, Washington state's historic floating Lacey V. Murrow Memorial Bridge slowly breaks apart and sinks to the bottom of Lake Washington. News crews captured the whole thing

LIFE letters' policy

Concise letters are most likely to be chosen for publication, but the use of any material is at the discretion of management. All letters must be signed or they will not be considered for publication.

During election times, no letters written by the candidates endorsing themselves will be considered

Editing may be necessary for space, clarity or to avoid obscenity or libel, but ideas will not be altered. Writers are urged to use discretion and refrain from sarcasm or personal attacks.

Criticism of individuals or organizations that is not broached tactfully will jeopardize the publication of a letter. Letters will be published in the order that they are received, unless there is a time factor involved, space permitting.

Nothing like election night in a newsroom

There is nothing quite like election night at a daily newspaper.

Newsrooms at daily newspapers buzz with activity on a normal day. There is a lot of bantering back and forth. There is plenty of questioning and second guessing: Do you need that third paragraph? Is that source biased? Where are we going for a beer after work?

You know, the important

Newsrooms are generally also not for the easily offended. People in the business have seen and heard it all - and have been called every name in the book. Yes, I have personally been called every horrible name you can imagine. It was a shock at first, but now I barely notice. That is their problem, not mine.

I will say that police reporters as a group are the most foul-mouthed reporters I have ever known. They also never fail to make me laugh.

Newsrooms on deadline are frantic, loud and fun. People shouting out for last-minute revisions. Late stories getting put in. Copy editors yelling out for help to find the perfect word for a headline. The publisher walking through on his way to the golf course.

But there is nothing like a newsroom on election night. I have worked quite a few and they never fail to be exciting. I remember my first election night well. It was in the early 1990s, and not a presidential election year. I covered county, city, state and federal governments for my Arizona paper, so I was very busy that night.

My day started at about 7 a.m. I finally made it home the next day at about 6 a.m.

And this was before the days of posting things on a Website. There was no Facebook or Twitter, of course. There was only print, and that meant writing stories – a lot of stories.

You prepped all day finding out what the editor was looking for, tracking down where all the candidates would be that night, making sure the photographers knew where to go.

The evening was a blur of talking with candidates, interviewing election officials and getting some color from local events.

That first year I worked with another reporter, Tony. Tony was as sharp as they come but not exactly a people person. Weird for a reporter, I know. But he was very good at his job.

Tony and I made it back to the newsroom about 10 p.m. The photographers were there processing film - yes, film! - so the editors would have the photos for the morning news meeting.

I set about writing. If memory serves, I wrote six or seven stories that night. I also had to call in periodic updates to a news organization that tabulated results. I got an extra $50 for that, which was a lot of money for a dude making $7.25 an hour.

We worked through the night, getting comments from losing candidates never a fun call to make-and gathering up final election numbers. We had everything done and in when the city editor came in about 4 a.m. He gave everything a read, and then it was home to bed.

And what a glorious two hours of sleep it was! Then, back to the newsroom for a day of follow-up stories.

Sound like fun? Seriously, it was a lot of fun. The big bonus was the paper actually bought us all pizza on election night. Free food! Again, we were all pretty poor, so that was awesome.

I worked many elections as an editor too, coordinating team coverage. That was fun and professionally fulfilling, but there is nothing like being a reporter at a daily newspaper on election night. Those are memories I will always cherish.

The futility of trying to change the unchangeable

Non-believers, with no hope of release from failure, sorrow, and pain through the spiritual realm, might look instead to a scientific theory called chaos. We can, when we peer closer, discover that they have more in common than we might think. Reinhold Niebuhr's Serenity Prayer is a good place to start:

"God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, Courage to change the things I can, And wisdom to know the difference.

Reinhold Niebuhr was a Christian, but other religions and philosophies also warn of the futility of trying to change the unchangeable. Buddhism's Four Noble Truths tell us that suffering and unhappiness come from

grasping for what we don't have and from clinging to what we've lost. Ronald Alexander (ronaldalexander. com) explains that, "It's important to balance a thirst for something better with an acceptance of what is, right now...Here's the paradox of change: until you can accept what is, you cannot move into what might be."

The ancient Chinese philosophy of Taoism expresses that principle as living in harmony with what Rory Mackay (unbrokeself.com) describes as the "natural, ever-present and effortless order of the cosmos," called the Tao, or the Way. Happiness comes when we work with the Way instead of trying to overpower it. The Way is like water, "nourishing," said Lao Tzu, "all of creation without trying to compete with it." When martial arts master Bruce Lee said, "Be like water," he was expressing the Taoist ideal of flexibility and adaptability.

This reminds me of my past whitewater canoeing adventures. If you fight the current, you'll fail. If you work with it, you can succeed in getting where you

It also brings to mind my former career as a psychologist, where I learned about the importance of working with people's reluctance to change, instead of trying to overcome it. In confessing his powerlessness, a therapist may become powerful.

This wisdom might seem to be unavailable to those who don't recognize a higher spiritual power. But they too can appreciate their lack of control in a universe that refuses to bend to their commands, and they might see a different, non-spiritual, kind of higher power in the scientific theory called chaos.

Chaos theory originated in the 1960's when the meteorologist Edward Lorenz discovered that a tiny difference at the beginning of a weather event can set in motion extreme and unforeseeable changes over time. He coined the term, "butterfly effect," the fanciful idea that a butterfly flapping its wings $in \, Brazil \, can \, cause \, a \, tornado \,$ in Texas.

In complicated systems like the weather—as well as life itself--the smallest event, the tiniest variation, can have huge and unpredictable consequences. The present always flows from what came before, but the past is unknowable and the future's out of control. We may act in the best of ways but in the end it's Chaos that's in charge.

We're made to believe that we can change the world if we try hard enough, and yet the older we become, the more we realize how little control we truly have over our circumstances, other people, and even at times ourselves. Accepting that reality can help us, believers and non-believers alike, through difficult times like the ones we're now living through, when it's tempting to give in to despair on the one hand, or desperate measures on the other. The remedy lies in the paradoxical power of acceptance. coupled with the rest of Niebuhr's prayer: "Courage to change the things I can; And wisdom to know the difference."

Pork Chop Dinner a success

Dear Editor,

Pegasus Special Riders near Oregon held a Pork Chop Pick-up Dinner at Ralphie and Lulu's in Ashton on Oct. 22. A huge thank you goes out to Dave and Marilyn Balch, owners of Ralphie and Lulu's, and their terrific staff for hosting this event. They continue to be very generous to Pegasus.

Kristie's Sweet Treats in Ashton donated one free soft-serve ice cream cone with each dinner. Those coupons can be redeemed when Kristie's re-opens in the spring. Pegasus greatly appreciates their contribution as well.

Pegasus Special Riders is a non-profit organization providing therapeutic horseback riding to northern Illinois individuals with physical, mental, and emotional challenges. They provide these services with the generous help of individuals, clubs, local businesses, corporations, grants, fundraising and in-kind donations.

Due to Covid-19 Pegasus had to reduce the number of riders and riding lessons for the season. They also had to cancel both regular yearly fundraisers. Pegasus thanks all the big-hearted people who came out and supported their program with the purchase of a wonderful meal.

Pantry seeks holiday meal donations

MOUNT MORRIS - Loaves and Fish Food Pantry is seeking donations to provide holiday meal boxes to local families in need.

As in previous years, the pantry will be providing Thanksgiving meal boxes. The meal boxes, made possible in partnership with Northern Illinois Food Bank, contain a turkey, potatoes, stuffing, gravy, canned fruit and vegetables, coffee and dessert enough to feed a family of eight.

For the first time in the pantry's history, Mt. Morris Loaves and Fish Food Pantry will also be providing Christmas meal boxes to those in need as well. The Christmas meal box will contain a ham and all of the trimmings to feed a family of eight. A $16 donation will allow Mt. Morris Loaves and Fish Food Pantry to provide a local family the opportunity to enjoy a traditional holiday meal with their loved ones this holiday season. A donation of $32 will provide both a Thanksgiving meal and a Christmas meal for a family of eight.

To sponsor one, two or more families, please send your gift to Loaves and Fish Food Pantry, Att: Nelson Miller, Treas., P.O. Box 202, Mt. Morris, IL 61054. Please send your gift by Nov. 15. The Thanksgiving meal boxes will be distributed on Nov. 23 and the Christmas meal boxes will be distributed on Dec. 18.

Author event: Madame President by William Harelgrove

Virtual Program with the Author: November 18th at 6:00pm. Registration required: (815) 732-2724.

After President Woodrow Wilson suffered a paralyzing stroke in the fall of 1919, his wife, First Lady Edith Wilson, began to handle the day-to-day responsibilities of the Executive Office. Mrs. Wilson had had little formal education and had only been married to President Wilson for four years; yet, in the tenuous peace following the end of World War I, Mrs. Wilson dedicated herself to managing the office of the President, reading all correspondence intended for her bedridden husband. Though her Oval Office authority was acknowledged in Washington, D.C. circles at the time—one senator called her "the Presidentress who had fulfilled the dream of suffragettes by changing her title from First Lady to Acting First Man"—her legacy as "First Woman President" is now largely forgotten.

William Hazelgrove's Madam President is a vivid, engaging portrait of the woman who became the acting President of the United States in 1919, months before women officially won the right to vote.

Join him in this informative author presentation and discussion virtually. Zoom information will be given out at the time of registration.

Christmas in America from the 1940s through the 1960s meant aluminum trees, department store Santas, and cartoon specials on TV. Every kid in the suburbs had to have an Easy-Bake Oven, a G.I. Veterans Day facts and figures Veterans Day, once known as Armistice Day, was first celebrated on November 11, 1919, the anniversary of the end of World War I. In 1928, the United States Congress passed a resolution for Armistice Day to be an annual observation, and by 1938, the day became a national holiday.

Differing from Memorial Day in May, Armistice Day, which would be renamed Veterans Day in 1954 under President Dwight Eisenhower, pays tribute to veterans who survived various wars. Memorial Day commemorates those veterans who lost their lives.

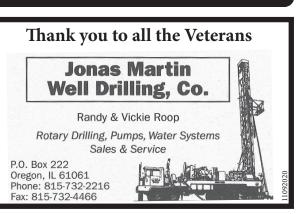

Americans celebrate Veterans Day, while residents of Great Britain, Canada and Australia celebrate Remembrance Day. Those who want to learn more about Veterans Day can consider the following facts.

- According to the American Community Survey, there were 19.3 million military veterans in the United States in 2014. Of those, 1.6 million were female.
- California, Texas and Florida comprise the states with the largest number of veterans, equaling one million or more.
- Veterans consist of people who served in the military. This includes the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, and Coast Guard. Veterans serve in times of war and peace.
- The word "veteran" comes from the Old English language and means "old, experienced soldier." The first use of the word was documented in 1789.
- Although many veterans are working, and the average annual income of male veterans is $37,000, some veterans continue to be unemployed. According to data from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, the overall unemployment rate for veterans rose to 7.6 percent in January 2013. The unemployment rate of post-9/11 veterans or those who participated in the Gulf War reached 6.2 percent.
- Upon retiring or being discharged, veterans may need help acclimating to life outside the military. The Department of Veterans Affairs says about 30 percent of Vietnam Warveterans have been diagnosed with post-traumatic stress disorder, or PTSD.
- Between 1971 and 1977, Veterans Day was celebrated on the fourth Monday in October. It was changed back to its original date, November 11, in 1975 when President Gerald Ford signed bill S.331 into law. The change went into effect beginning in 1978.
- An American soldier was buried at the national cemetery in Arlington on November 11, 1921. His identity was unknown, and the gravesite is known as the "Tomb of the Unknown Soldier." A guard from the Society of the Honor Guard stands watch over the grave each year on Veterans Day, and the president or another high-ranking member of the government places a wreath on the grave.

Veterans Day occurs each year on Nov. 11, marking the end of World War I. The day has evolved into a celebration and remembrance of the heroism of America's brave troops.

There are many ways to remember our veterans

The men and women who defend the liberties and freedoms of the countries they represent hold a special place in people's hearts and an eternal spot in their countries' histories.

Any opportunity is a good time to commemorate the bravery and selfless deeds of military personnel, but certain prominent holidays in November make this an especially important time to thank veterans for their service.

November 11 is Veterans Day in the United States and Remembrance Day in Canada. It's also known as Armistice Day in other parts of the world. These holidays honor all military veterans who have provided service to their countries, and that each falls on November 11 is no coincidence, as the day commemorates the anniversary of the end of World War I on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918.

Many places around the world pause and remember fallen veterans on November 11, but a good majority of Veterans Day and Remembrance Day commemorative events focus on past and current veterans who are still alive. There are many ways to honor the military at home and abroad in time for the November festivities. The following are just a handful of ways to show appreciation for military men and women.

- When dining out, ask your server if you can pay the tab for a soldier or veteran you see in the restaurant.
- Attend a military parade with your family and explain the significance of the day to children in attendance.
- Draft letters and send care packages to soldiers currently in service far away from home.
- Ask your company if Veterans Day or Remembrance Day can be an observed holiday at your place of business each year to pay homage to servicemen and women.

- Visit a military memorial in a city near you. Your town also may have its own memorial.
- Petition town officials to erect a memorial if your town does not already have one. Such memorials can be a source of inspiration for your community.
- Support a military family in your town who may be missing a loved one stationed elsewhere. Make meals, mow the lawn, help with grocery shopping, or simply provide emotional support.
- Volunteer time at a veterans' hospital. You may be able to read with veterans or engage in other activities.
- Get involved with a military support charity that can provide much-needed funds to struggling families or disabled veterans.
- Have children speak with veterans in your family, including grandparents, uncles and aunts or even their own parents. It can help them gain perspective on the important roles the military plays.

- Ask a veteran to give a commencement speech at a school or to be the guest of honor at a special function.
- Drive disabled veterans to doctors' appointments or to run any errands.

- Support a local VFW organization.
- Create a scrapbook for a veteran in your life.
- Cheer for or thank military personnel each time you see them.
- Visit the veterans' portion of a nearby cemetery and place poppies or other flowers on the graves.

How to give back to veterans

Members of the military serve their country proudly, often sacrificing the luxuries of home and time spent with their families to do so. When veterans return home from training or deployment, many people want to show how much they appreciate the sacrifices made by the men and women of the military, but don't know the best way to share that appre-

Donations to a veterans' charity is one measure of support the public can offer. Many charities work to serve the needs of veterans. The Wounded Warrior Project provides rehabilitation, counseling and activities for veterans who were wounded during service, while Homes for Our Troops remodels homes or builds them for troops who were injured and need their homes remodeled as a result of their injuries. The USO provides a variety of services for veterans and can always use donations or volunteers.

Another way to help veterans is to assist with their pets. Some dogs and cats get left behind when troops are deployed or forced to move. Volunteering to foster a pet until a soldier returns is another way to give back. Some military service logs can be injured or traumatized during battle. Working dogs can be rehabilitated or adopted upon returning home.

According to the organization Veterans, Inc., veterans are more at risk of becoming homeless than those who do not serve in the military. Some causes of homelessness include lack of education and transferable skills after returning from Physical and mental health issues can make finding work challenging. Some veterans may cope with trauma resulting from their deployment by leaning on drugs and alcohol, and that can interfere with their ability to get and/or keep jobs. Individuals can help veterans by opening their homes to friends and family members who may need a temporary place to stay. Encourage veterans to embrace job training programs or seek therapy if necessary.

Providing support to military personnel both past and present can mean a world of difference. Correspond with veterans through mail, email or text messages. Operation American Soldier establishes connections between civilians and croops so that all soldiers receive daily mail, whether it's a care package or letter of thanks.

Other simple ways people can give back to troops is to personally thank them for serving their country. Share time ith veterans and ask to spend time listening to their stories and experiences.

A day set aside to honor all veterans

The month of November is a special time for the nation's veterans. While Memorial Day honors fallen soldiers and service people, Veteran's Day, which takes place each November, is an opportunity to commemorate the efforts of all who have been in the armed forces, with a special emphasis on living veterans. While people are encouraged to thank veterans throughout the year, Veteran's Day is a particularly poignant time to show your appreciation for the men and women of the military.

Veteran's Day takes place on November 11 and marks an important moment in history. On November 11, 1918, World War I, known at the time as "The Great War," unofficially ended when an armistice, or temporary cessation of hostilities, took place between Germany and the Allied nations on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month. World War I ended on paper when the Treaty of Versailles was signed on June 28, 1919. In November 1919, President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed November 11 as the first commemoration of Armistice Day, according to the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs.

Armistice Day became a federal holiday in the United States in 1938. However, after subsequent wars, including World War II and the Korean War, veterans' service organizations lobbied for Armistice Day to be revised so it would be more inclusive of all veterans. On June 1, 1954, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed legislation to strike the word "Armistice" from the holiday's name in favor of "Veterans." Since then, November 11 has been known as "Veterans Day" and has honored veterans of all

Veterans Day was moved to the fourth Monday in October for roughly seven years under the Uniform Monday Holiday Act, which sought to ensure three-day weekends for federal employees by celebrating certain national holidays on Mondays. But since November 11 bore such significance, many states disapproved and continued to observe the holiday on November 11. In 1975, President Gerald Ford signed legislation to return the observation of Veterans Day to November 11 beginning in 1978. Should the day fall on a Saturday or Sunday, the federal government observes the holiday on the previous Friday or following Monday, respectively, according to History.com.

The United States isn't the only country to celebrate its veterans. Canada, Great Britain, Australia, and France also commemorate the veterans of World War I and II on or near November 11 as Remembrance Day or Remembrance Sunday.

Q: I've watched most seasons of "The Bachelorette," but not all of them. Has the woman ever proposed to the man, or has it always been traditional, with the man getting down on one knee? — T.I.

A: No, each season, the star of "The Bachelorette" has been the one in control of choosing her suitors the entire season, but none of them has presented a ring from her pocket.

Longtime host Chris Harrison told E!Online that he would love to see the woman take charge someday by getting down on one knee ... "and she pulls out a Chris Harrison collection line ring and delivers the proposal. Why not, right? We talk about equality, we talk about all these things, and I get it -- at the end of the day, there are certain traditions that we love. It's not a bad thing, but maybe someday that will be a part of the show. I would love to be there for that moment."

You probably paused when you read the words "Chris Harrison collection line ring." Yes, Harrison has his own line of wedding rings for men, and he actually envisions men switching out their rings every day like women do with purses. You can check them out at www.manlybands.

The current season of "The Bachelorette" is unusual in that the decider, Clare Crawley, abruptly exits the show before the season is finished. (I won't give away what happens in case her final episode airs before you read this).

Q: When will new episodes of "The Blacklist" and "Blue Bloods" return? -- J.S.

A: Most season premieres have been delayed until mid- or late November, and NBC's "The Blacklist" is no exception. It stars James Spader and will begin its eighth season Friday, Nov. 13. "Blue Bloods," starring Tom Selleck, is still going strong after a decade and will have an abbreviated season of 16 episodes. Its premiere date hasn't been announced, but CBS is holding its Friday 10 p.m. ET timeslot in anticipation.

Q: What was the name of the half-hour soap on CBS after "The Young and the Restless"? It was on for a few years before "The Bold and the Beautiful" replaced it. -- I I

A: "Capitol," which aired from 1982 to 1987, was the daytime soap that preceded "B&B." It had a special primetime premiere before airing in its weekday afternoon timeslot on CBS.

"Capitol" was set in Washington, D.C., and involved an ongoing feud between the McCandless and Clegg families. The two matriarchs were played by Constance Towers, who would later go on to play Helena on "General Hospital," and Marla Adams, who just concluded her run on "Y&R" as Dina.

What many people don't know is that the late James Lipton, who eventually hosted "Inside the Actor's Studio," started out as a writer for soaps, having been the head writer of "Guiding Light," "Another World" and "Capitol."

"Capitol" was never as big a hit as its lead-in, "Y&R." After its cancellation, "B&B" quickly debuted in its place and has been going strong for 34 years.

Couch Theater

By Amy Anderson

Warning: Wholesome content ahead. You can always count on a well-written story to lighten your mood or touch your heart. And, darn it, sometimes you really need it. Here are a few films out in the past year that can give you an hour plus of escape into a better, more heart-touching world

"A Beautiful Day in the Neighborhood" (PG) -- Inspired by real life and written about a real-life inspiration, "A Beautiful Day in the Neighborhood" is a loving biopic of Fred Rogers (Tom Hanks). His story is told through the eyes of an emotional skeptic, Esquire magazine writer Lloyd (Matthew Rhys), who is assigned to write a short article on Rogers as a hero.

"Jumanji: The Next Level" (PG-13) -Spencer Gilpin, home on a college break and missing the confidence boost of being the buff Bravestone of Jumanji, jumps right back into the game. His squad (Bethany, Fridge and Martha) hatch a plot to go after Spencer, but Spencer's grandpa Eddie (Danny Devito) and Eddie's estranged business partner Milo (Danny Glover) are sucked into the game, too. With mixed-up avatars and some fun new additions (Awkwafina joins as new avatar Ming Fleetfoot), this fantasy comedy delivers a racing pace, some rollicking good laughs and a surprisingly sweet ending.

"Little Women" (PG) -- This treasured classic tale of the March sisters has been brought back again by director Greta Gerwig ("Ladybird"), adapted from Louisa

May Alcott's novel and writings. It's a simple coming-of-age tale, from the perspective of Jo (Saoirse Ronan), the family writer, who chronicles her and her sisters' journey to independence. An all-star cast deliver performances that keep this Civil War-set tale as relevant and endearing as it ever was.

"Secret Life of Pets 2" (PG) -- Just when the neurotic Max (now voiced by Patton Oswalt) was getting used to another dog in the family, along comes a baby to look after! When his family sets off for a visit to the country, a sheepdog named Rooster (Harrison Ford) teaches Max to find his inner courage in the face of change. Snowball the bunny (Kevin Hart) pairs with a Shi Tzu named Daisy (Tiffany Haddish) to rescue an adorable white tiger named Hu. These and other storylines converge in a chuckle fest of an ending that the kids will mightily enjoy.

"Frozen 2" (PG) -- Queen Elsa's magic has always been a source of wonder. A mysterious force beckons her from a shrouded forest, threatening Arendale itself and sending Elsa (Idina Menzel) and Anna (Kristen Bell) off into the unknown for answers, with Kristoff (Jonathon Groff) and Olaf (Josh Gad) in tow. They find out more than they bargained for, including revelations from the past and the rediscovery of some forgotten people. The showstopper songs -- "Into the Unknown" and "Show Yourself" -- are every bit as powerful as Frozen's "Let It Go." You'll be singing it for days.
