Dist. 280 prepared for school opening

☐ Board approves calendar changes

By BONNIE MORRIS

MENDOTA - The Mendota High School District 280 Board of Education met on Aug. 17. Discussions included the status of student registration, a revised school calendar and the preliminary budget for 2021.

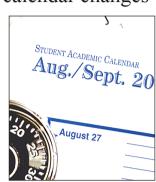

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT

Registration was held online through July and August. Principal Denise Aughenbaugh said freshman students came in on Aug. 12 for their student ID pictures and Chromebook handouts. The high school still hopes to hold a rescheduled Freshman and New Student Orientation night on Wednesday, Sept. 2. This will allow first-time MHS students and families to tour the building and practice their schedule. They also plan to schedule an 8th grade Honors Algebra I orientation program for students.

· As of Aug. 17, MHS has 522 students active in their database. This includes six super-seniors, 126 seniors, 139 juniors, 140 sophomores and 111 freshmen. An additional 25 eighth grade students will take Honors Algebra I with Ms. Barnes.

• The first day of Area Career Center is Aug. 19, and the first day of attendance for Mendota High School students will be Tuesday,

· Aughenbaugh encouraged all MHS families to use the communication resources posted online at www. mendotahs.org. The home page has a Communications 20-21 link, which will take families to all of the documents and forms pertaining to the reopening of school. "We understand it is difficult to keep track of multiple e-mails with attachments and want to streamline communications as much as possible," Aughenbaugh said.

In addition, along the lefthand side of the homepage, there are other resources including the MHS Events Calendar. Aughenbaugh noted that the events printed in the Student Handbook/Planner are not accurate because school and athletic events have been rescheduled. She encouraged families to visit the MHS Events Calendar, which is a Google Calendar, and it will sync activity updates as well as athletic updates entered through different webpages.

Pandemic aid to start flowing to local governments in Illinois

☐ Mendota to receive over $300,000; LaSalle Co. $1.3 million

By PETER HANCOCK Capitoi News IIIInois

SPRINGFIELD — The state of Illinois will soon begin distributing $250 million in federal funds to help cities, counties and other units of local government pay for pandemic-related expenses. The General Assembly's Joint Committee on Administrative Rules cleared the way last week for the Department of Commerce and Economic Opportunity to launch the Local Coronavirus Urgent Remediation Emergency, or Local CURE, program, which state lawmakers authorized in the budget they adopted in May.

Of that money, $200 million will go directly to cities and counties. The rest will be divided between local public health departments and other local units of government such as townships and other special taxing districts.

expenses such as COVID-19 testing and emergency medical expenses; public health expenses, including costs of enforcing orders related to COVID-19; payroll expenses for public safety and other employees whose jobs are mainly focused on mitigating or responding to COVID-19; and other expenses that are "reasonably necessary" for responding to the public health emergency.

DCEO used a formula to determine how much money each city and county will receive. Department spokeswoman Lauren Huffman said the agency will start distributing the money later this month.

The allotment for area counties is: Bureau - $367,234; DeKalb $656,294; LaSalle -$1,323,273; Lee - $548,376. The allotment for area cities

The money can be used for is: Amboy - $103,133; Arlington - $7,962; Earlyille $70,171; LaMoille-$29,950; Leland - $40,304; Mendota - $304,117; Ohio - $21,163; Paw Paw - $35,890; Sublette - $18,523; Troy Grove - $10,313; West Brooklyn - $5,858

> One thing local governments cannot use the money for, however, is direct aid to local businesses that have been impacted by the pandemic. That is something that disappointed some local government leaders.

"The federal government says that communities can use these dollars for local economic support, but DCEO says we can't," Brad Cole, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League, said during an interview after the JCAR meeting.

State releases $46 million split among small businesses reeling from pandemic

By JERRY NOWICKI

Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. JB Pritzker last week announced the release of $46 million in grant funding for small businesses affected by the COVID-19 pandemic, warned of potential further shutdowns if case counts continue to rise and called widespread use of face coverings the key to preventing such action.

The funding comes from the Business Interruption Grant, or BIG, program which is funded through the federal CARES Act.

The initial allotment of $46 million split between 2,655 small businesses is part of $636 million in total funding for the program. Of that funding, $270 million will go to child care providers.

Pritzker said the initial allotments were distributed in 78 of the state's 102 counties.

"The initial focus of these grants has been on businesses that have been most severely impacted by COVID-19 — those that were completely shut down in the spring and those that are in COVID-impacted areas that experienced property damage amidst the looting and civil unrest in June," the governor said at a news conference.

The grants range from $10,000 to "Ultimately, revitalizing our economy must start with getting the pandemic under control. That means following the public health guidelines, wearing a mask, maintaining a safe social distance of six feet and washing your hands regularly."

–Gov. JB Pritzker

$20,000 each per business.

More than $24 million of the first allotment will go to disproportionately impacted areas as designated by the General Assembly. These include areas significantly impacted by COVID-19 and other adverse economic conditions. In total, 30 percent of BIG funds will go to businesses located in those areas.

Endangered Rusty Patched Bumble Bee sighted at Illiniwek Forest Preserve

♦ Western Illinois preserve becomes one of a few places nation-wide with sighting of rare Bombus affinis

HAMPTON - Illiniwek Forest Preserve in Hamilton recently became one of a few sites nationwide with a confirmed sighting of the endangered Rusty Patched Bumble Bee (Bombus affinis). The species has declined by 96 percent in the last 20 years and is likely to be present in only 0.1 percent of its historical

The sighting was confirmed by Isaac Stewart, assistant professor of biology at Black Hawk College's East Campus, and is a milestone moment for the Rock Island County Forest Preserve Districts' conserva-

"I was out walking my dog and happened to see this bee that looked awfully unusual," said Mike Petersen, park ranger at Illiniwek. "I sent a picture of it to Isaac and he came out the next day and identified 10 female and three male Rusty Patched Bumble Bees in under an hour. We are beyond excited that our prairie restoration efforts are paying off in such a big way."

In 2017, the Rusty Patched Bumble Bee was the first bumble bee protected under the Endangered Species Act (ESA). Once common through the United States and Canada, today the species is only found in fragmented populations of the

"This is the best possible indicator that the prairie restorations the Forest Preserve District has been working on are paying off," said Stewart. "Finding this new sighting is really important in our efforts of staving off the extinction of this species."

The Rock Island County Forest Preserve District, which includes Illiniwek, Loud Thunder Forest Preserve, Dorrance Park, Martin Conservation Area, Niabi Zoo and Indian Bluff Golf Course, has been working hard to provide suitable habitats for all plants and animals that call its properties home.

Over the last five years, the Forest

Preserve District has planted 55 acres of prairies between its six properties, and this fall, a season record-breaking 46 acres of prairies are expected to be planted.

Partners in this effort include the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Pheasants Forever, Trees Forever, the Illinois Clean Energy Community Foundation, Monarch Watch, the John Deere local area conservation fund administered by Living Lands and Waters, as well as donations from private contributors. Indian Bluff Golf Course is home to one of the state's rarest native, undisturbed hillside prairies. "Remarkably, prairie once covered 60 percent of Illinois but today, only 1 percent of that land remains," said Jeff Craver, Forest Preserve District director. "It is our organization's goal to re-establish these habitat-rich lands, and to educate our visitors and citizens to do the same in their own backyards.'

Stewart, who has been studying bumble bees since 2007, partnered with the District in 2017 to survey the bee population in the parks and help monitor an increase in diversity. On the same day Stewart spotted the Rusty Patched Bumble Bee on Illiniwek's grounds, he also made a confirmed sighting of another threatened bee species, the bombus pensylvanicus or American Bumblebee.

"We're definitely seeing an increase in diversity in the bee population," said Stewart. "In doing this, we've also created habitat for other species that aren't as well studied, charismatic and well understood. It's very, very exciting to see the efforts paying off."

To help foster an environment that's attractive for endangered bees, Stewart recommends people focus on wildflowers that are native to the region, like beebalms. "There are many very pretty wildflowers at local nurseries, but it's really important the flowers are native to the area. Also, try to plant a selection of wildflowers that bloom through the spring and fall. In addition to summer blooms, the bees need nectar to feed on early in the spring and late into the fall." If you think you've spotted a Rusty Patched Bumble Bee, take a picture of the animal and share it with an expert for confirmation. Websites such as www.bumblebeewatch.org/ have portals to submit photos of bees. Do not attempt to capture, touch or disturb the bee.

Parent Teacher Conferences will be on Nov. 25.

Christmas break will begin on Dec. 23, and school resumes on Jan. 4. The first semester will end on Jan. 15. No traditional spring

No traditional spring break is scheduled, however, there will be several days off surrounding Easter.

Graduation will be Saturday, May 29 and the last day of school if no emergency days are used will be June 4. "That's pretty good for not starting school until Sept. 8," Prusator said. "The last possible day would be June 11 [if emergency days are used]. The sports seasons will be going until the end of June."

• The board approved an addendum with ENGIE regarding the security corridor.

Three projects, the roof, resurfacing of the back parking lot, and the security corridor are all scheduled to be done next summer. The cost is not to exceed $1.5 million.

• Prusator presented the preliminary budget for FY21 and a budget hearing was scheduled for Sept. 21 at 6 p.m. He said most of the funds will be in good shape by the end of the year but noted that the state is still two payments behind in Transportation. If one or both of those are received, the fund will be balanced.

• Board policy updates were approved.

PERSONNEL

The board accepted a retirement notice from custodian Frank Lopez effective Dec. 31. Prusator commended Lopez saying he has been a very dependable worker over the years. "Frankie mostly works at night and he has done a great job," Prusator said. "He will be hard to replace."

The next regular board of education meeting will be held at 6 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 21 at the high school. The meeting will include a budget hearing.

Door-to-door visits begin for 2020 Census

the Census Bureau has a

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The U.S. Census Bureau has begun following up with households nationwide that have not yet responded to the 2020 Census. Based on the current self-response rate of 63.3%, the Census Bureau estimates it will need to visit about 56 million addresses to collect responses in person. Up to 500,000 census takers across the country will go door-to-door to assist people in responding to the 2020 Census.

Census takers began following up with households on July 16 in a limited number of areas and added additional areas each week thereafter. Starting Aug. 9, all remaining offices began following up with households nationwide. Census takers have completed training on social distancing and safety protocols, will follow local public health guidelines, and will be required to wear a face mask when conducting follow-up visits.

"America has answered the call and most households responded to the census online, by phone or by mail," said Census Bureau Director Dr. Steven Dillingham. "To ensure a complete and accurate count, we must now go door-to-door to count all of the households we have not heard back from. During this phase, you can still self-respond online (at 2020census.gov), by phone (at 844-330-2020), or by mailing your completed questionnaire.'

The Nonresponse Followup (NRFU) operation is the final stage of conducting the once-a-decade population count of everyone living in the United States. Households can still respond now by responding online at 2020census.gov, by phone at 844-330-2020, or by completing and mailing back the paper questionnaire they received. Households can respond online or by phone in one of 13 languages and find assistance in many more. Those that respond will not need to be visited to obtain their census response.

What Households Can Expect

In most cases, census workers will make up to six attempts at each housing unit address to count possible residents. This includes leaving notification of the attempted visit on the door. The notification will include reminder information on how to respond online, by paper or by phone. In addition, census workers may try to reach the household by phone to conduct the interview.

Census takers will go to great lengths to ensure that no one is missed in the census. After exhausting their efforts to do an in-person interview with a resident of an occupied housing unit, they will seek out proxy sources—a neighbor, a rental agent, a building manager or some other knowledgeable person familiar with the housing unit—to obtain as much basic information about the occupants as they can.

Census takers are hired

Census takers are hired from local communities. All census takers speak English, and many are bilingual. If a census taker does not speak the householder's language, the household may request a return visit from a census taker who does. Census takers will also have materials on hand to help identify the household's language.

How to Identify Census Takers

Census takers can be easily identified by a valid government ID badge with their photograph, a U.S. Department of Commerce watermark, and an expiration date on the badge. To confirm a census taker's identity, the public may contact their regional census center to speak with a Census Bureau representative.

The Census Bureau Will Follow Up With Some Households by Phone

In order to minimize the need to send census takers to households in person, the Census Bureau is training census takers to follow up with households by phone. Using information provided to the Census Bureau and third-party purchased data, strong contact list for both landlines and cellphones assigned to houses on the Census Bureau's address list. These phone calls will enable the Census Bureau to have maximum flexibility for conducting field operations, and is one more method that census takers can use to reach nonresponding households. Phone calls will be used on an as-needed basis and when in-person contact attempts have not resulted in an interview. If a voicemail is available, the census taker will leave a message asking the household to call one of the Census Bureau's call

Census Response Representatives to Visit Low-Responding Areas

The Mobile Questionnaire Assistance (MQA) program will continue through Sept. 30. This is a separate activity from census takers going door-to-door. MQA representatives are in open, public places in the lowest-responding areas of the nation to encourage people to respond to the 2020 Census. These locations are where people naturally visit when leaving home and can be used to help increase self-response rates. MQA is part of the Census Bureau's final push to encourage people to complete the 2020

"And while the department says that local governments cannot use the funds for that purpose, the state reserves the right to use it."

DCEO set up a separate program to help businesses impacted by the pandemic called the Business Interruption Grant, or BIG, program that will distribute about $636 million to businesses around the state.

Both the aid to local governments and the BIG program are funded with money the state received through the federal CARES Act. The city of Chicago as well as Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake and Will counties are not eligible for the grants because they have populations over 500,000 and therefore received their own direct allocation of CARES Act funding.

Gov. JB Pritzker announced during a COVID-19 briefing in Chicago that DCEO just awarded the first round of those grants totaling $46 million. He said the funding will go to more than 2,600 businesses located in 78 of the state's 102 counties.

An additional round of grants will be awarded soon focusing on child care providers, and further grants will be awarded later in the fiscal year, according to DCEO.

Phil Keshen DCEO's

Phil Keshen, DCEO's chief financial officer, said during the JCAR hearing that there had been many discussions between the agency and IML, and DCEO intends to make up to $30 million available to local communities working in conjunction with local businesses.

The main concern Kesh-

The main concern, Keshen said, is the potential liability to the state and the local governments if the funds are not used in strict accordance with federal rules or with the state's Grant Accountability and Transparency Act, commonly known as GATA.

"The liability does remain on the state for the federal funds," he said. "And so that's part of the process of entering into grant agreement — to make sure that the audit requirements set forth by GATA are in place as well, and...making sure that both the local government knows what their role is in the grant-making process as well as what DCEOs role is."

Grants

The governor's office said more than 5,000 businesses applied for the grants and those who received them were chosen by random lottery.

Michael Negron, acting director of the state's Department of Commerce and Economic Opportunity, acknowledged "there is much more we must do" amid historic impacts felt by the pandemic. DCEO oversees the grants.

"Ultimately, revitalizing our economy must start with getting the pandemic under control," he said at the news conference. "That means following the public health guidelines, wearing a mask, maintaining a safe social distance of six feet and washing your hands regularly."

Dr. Ngozi Ezike, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, said she continues to be troubled by the upward trend in virus cases in the state.

'My concern is growing each day about the direction our numbers are going," Ezike said at the news conference. "Remember that numbers increasing actually represents people infected with this new virus. And those people infected with the new virus can go on to get sick. And those people who are sick can go on to be hospitalized. And those people who are hospitalized can go on to have very severe complications including up to death."

While she said most people have mild to moderate symptoms that last only weeks, the long-term effects of the virus are not yet known.

She once again urged all Illinoisans to wear face coverings and keep distance from others in public.

Pritzker called the news conference to discuss the financial effects of the virus and associated government shutdowns, and when questioned he said he does not want to send the state back down that path. "That's the last thing

that's on my mind if I can avoid it," he said of potential shutdowns. "But the truth is that if we keep going in the wrong direction, we will inevitably get there. That's why I want everybody to take personal responsibility."

A new rule allowing health officials to levy fines against businesses that are against businesses that are lax on social distancing and face-covering requirements will help in that area, he said.

"I want to emphasize again that local officials should pay close attention again that local officials should pay close attention to the data for their communities, and, where necessary, step up and impose greater mitigations on a targeted basis to bring down the number of infections or the positivity rate," he said.

It can happen to anyone

By Scott Reeder

SPRINGFIELD - If it can happen to Art Turner, it can happen to just about anyone.

But it sure is a lot more likely to occur if you happen

Just recently, Turner, who was once the most powerful African American in the Illinois House, was handcuffed and hauled to jail while driving just two blocks from his own Chicago home.

His offense?

Well, that's just it. He did nothing wrong. All the same he ended up locked in a jail cell, stripped of his shoes, belt and more than a bit of his dignity. Here's what happened:

The 69-year-old was driving his BMW to a car dealer to trade it in for a truck. Two Chicago police officers pulled him over and said his car was missing a front license plate. He explained it had just fallen off and he hadn't bothered to put it back on because he was trading it that day. But he produced his title, registration, driver's license and all the other pertinent paperwork.

The police officers ran his driver's license and then said he was wanted for failure to appear in court on a

Turner explained they must be mistaken because he knew he wasn't wanted. He added, "Art Turner" is a common name. Could they double check their information? They refused.

He was then patted down, handcuffed and loaded in the back of a patrol car.

"I kept telling the police officer that the handcuffs were on too tight. That they were really hurting my wrists. I explained to her that I represented the area for 30 years in the legislature when we drove by my old office. And I said that I was certain that I wasn't wanted for anything, could she doublecheck her information?'

The officer didn't respond.

Authority and arrogance often go hand in hand. And let's be honest, some folks can't see past the color of a person's skin. For such individuals, reasoning, accomplishments, empathy mean little.

From my time covering police departments, I can tell you a whole lot of bigots end up in law enforcement. And, no, not all cops are this way. But enough are that fear of law enforcement is pervasive in black communities.

In the wake of George Floyd's death in Minneapolis and Black Lives Matter demonstrations throughout the nation, one might think these officers would be extra careful in how they treat people.

That apparently wasn't the case with the pair who Turner encountered. They could have requested more information on the wanted individual but didn't.

In case you're wondering about Rep. Turner, he has a gentlemanly demeanor and stands a rather unimposing 5 feet, eight inches tall. During his time in the legislature, Turner was known as quiet and cerebral. He wasn't a grandstander. He was a budget nerd.

"I started out in college as a math major and then switched to business. Working on the state budget just seemed like a good fit," he said.

When a handcuffed Turner arrived at the police station, he hollered that he was a former state representative and demanded to see the watch commander. A sergeant heard his voice echoing down the hallway and sought out the commander.

The commander knew him and immediately released

It turns out that there was an Art Turner who was wanted. But this Art Turner is 33 - 36 years younger than the former state representative. The fugitive also is covered with tattoos. And Art, the budget nerd, has none. Oh, and the wanted man is 6 foot, 2 inches tall -6inches taller than the other Art Turner.

If the former state representative wasn't a prominent person in the community and if the watch commander hadn't known him, he might well have spent a night or two in jail before the matter was cleared up.

The commander apologized. But Turner said he never heard from the two officers who locked him up. Now some reading this may say this isn't about race.

Maybe the former state representative was dressed in a manner that caused suspicion.

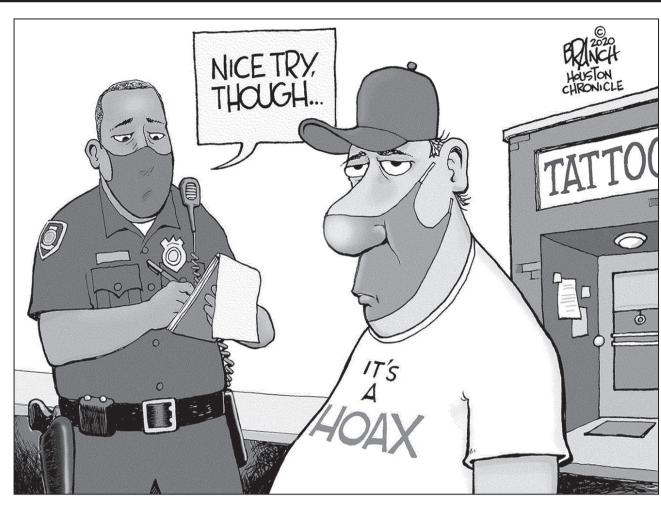

So, just what was he wearing?

"I had on a shirt that says 'Chicago Police Golf Memorial Fund.' On the back of the shirt, it had the Chicago police star and on the front it had the flag colors of the Chicago police. It's a charity I've supported

War news in Mendota –

Backtracks

By Jessica Nashold

In the month of August 1917, Illinois Governor Lowden issued a proclamation urging all communities to honor the young men being called to service. He wanted this done before Sept. 5, the day designated by the President as Mobilization Day for the National Army.

Even before the proclamation was issued, Mendota had scheduled a barbecue and dance at Blackstone Park on Aug. 16 with proceeds to benefit the families of service men. The Mendota Recruits' Welfare Association made the arrangements. A 125-pound roast was baked and "the good housewives of Mendota worked hard preparing good things to eat." A dance platform 32x55 feet was erected and seven long tables set up to accommodate the diners. Music was provided by Mrs. Graves, Axel Anderson, Dr. Wagner and Charles Barr.

It was good and many encores were given by the dancers as well as those who did not care

An estimated 1,500 people came to the park during the evening. Arriving home on furlough in time to greet friends were Second Lt. Robert Black from Fortress Monroe, Va., Second Lt. Allen Cook and Wayne Perkins from Ft. Sheridan.

The Sun-Bulletin published a letter from Tracey Tower, in training at Ft. Sheridan. He said his unit had been started at the University of Illinois the previous year with "no one but university boys in it." But after the declaration of war, others had been added to bring it up to strength."

He reported that his parents together with Mr. and Mrs. Worsley and Miss Theo Truman had visited him the day

It was nice while they were here but today I seem all alone.

The letter was dated Aug. 20, 1917. At war's end, Miss Theo Truman became Mrs. Tracey Tower.

Many Mendotans traveled to Rockford where Camp Grant was under

Sidetracks

The officers in charge will not allow people to roam around this tract of 3,000 acres, but much can be seen from the road passing the place.

Statistics had been released indicating there would be 1,143 buildings, including 180 barracks to house 36,000 men. Officers would be quartered outside the camp. Accommodations for 10,000 horses and mules would be provided. The hospital unit of 61 buildings would cost $500,000, not including equipment. The parade ground would measure 1,000 feet by one mile. The rifle range took up 500 acres.

Mendota's Harris Hospital was under construction and carpenters were at work on the third floor and roof.

The operating room will occupy this lofty place and there will be plenty of light as well as air and freedom from interruption.

An elevator was to be installed. It was believed the building would "soon be enclosed."

The Illinois Central was building two five-room bungalows facing the east and west street running north of the Y. One of the bungalows would be for a foreman

This is a new plan adopted by the I.C. and will save the foreman considerable money in living expenses.

The local Red Cross was bitterly disappointed when headquarters failed to notify the local chapter that two army ambulances were coming to Mendota to demonstrate Red Cross work on the battlefield. At Princeton, where advanced word was received, a crowd of 2,000 turned out for the demonstration. Since Mendota had not been notified, there was no crowd, and the ambulances

This was very aggravating to citizens of Mendota and especially officers and directors of the local Red Cross.

The War Department asked the American Library Association to provide library facilities in army and National Guard training camps. Thousands of books would be needed.

In Mendota, Miss Sadie Wilcox,

the librarian, would accept donation of books during library hours: Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 1-5 and from 6-9. Good books of fiction, stirring poetry, foreign language study books (especially French), travel, history and technical books, good ones about the war and fresh attractive magazines of the better class are wanted. The War Department said it was important that "our soldiers be given intellectual and moral stimulus, and profitable recreation of this character."

The Sun-Bulletin sponsored a tobacco fund for "our soldiers in Europe."

There is nothing you can think of that will give more comfort and solace to soldiers at the front than tobacco.

The Sun-Bulletin would be able to send 50 cents worth of smoking tobacco, chewing tobacco and cigarettes for every 25 cents donated. It was planned to publish the names of all contributors to this fund together with the amounts given from time to time.

An American Purple Cross was being organized to properly embalm and return home the bodies of soldiers who were killed or died abroad while in service. A bill regarding this auxiliary to the Quartermaster General's Department was being presented to Congress.

To ease the minds of families with men overseas, a statement was issued in Washington dated Aug. 23, 1917 that there had been absolutely no American troops in the fighting thus far. Men were being trained and would not be committed to action until more had

The immortal Indianapolis

This summer marks the 75th anniversary of the worst disaster in the history of the United States Navy -- the sinking of the USS Indianapolis.

Three hundred men died in the initial catastrophe on July 30, 1945, then the survivors cast into the sea suffered unimaginable horrors, abandoned for days without food or water in shark-infested waters.

As long as tales of the sea move human hearts, the story of the Indianapolis will shock and inspire.

She was a heavy cruiser, in between a larger battleship and smaller destroyer. Sleek, fast and elegant, she bristled with firepower -- her 8-inch guns could fire a 250-pound shell 18 miles. Franklin Roosevelt made her his ship of state, and she became the flagship of the Navy's 5th Fleet.

During World War II, she saw significant action and suffered a debilitating kamikaze strike at Okinawa. Quickly repaired, she embarked on a secret mission to deliver components of the atom bomb dropped on Hiroshima. She then proceeded unaccompanied to Leyte in the Philippines. A Japanese submarine stumbled upon her on a dark night. It fired six torpedoes, two of which struck the ship in quick succession right after midnight. The ship sank in 12 horrifying minutes. Nine hundred men made it off, suddenly in the middle of the Philippine Sea at night with their home, their weapon, their mistress gone. Only about half had a life jacket or life vest. They were spread over miles. Many were wounded.

At first, they were hopeful about a rescue that didn't come for four excruciating days. The ship's SOS call was picked up at three places, but the message was ignored. A failure in the Navy's tracking system meant no one noticed when the Indianapolis didn't show up at Leyte. Day by day, hundreds

During the day, the sun tortured them. The salt water weakened them. Thirst agonized them. Their life jackets

They died of exposure and exhaustion. They died from the nightmarish attacks of circling sharks. They died from the terrible temptation of drinking salt water. They died from madness. They died from sheer despair, giving up and sinking beneath the waves.

Still, somehow, at the extreme edge of human endurance, 317 men survived when a plane on a surveillance mission finally came across them.

For Capt. Charles McVay, a new agony began. As the Indianapolis sank, he had considered going down with the ship before getting swept away by a wave. At first separated from his men, he had the horrifying thought that he alone might have survived.

The Navy court-martialed him for not having zigzagged to evade attack, even though his orders only made it mandatory during the day, even though the maneuver was of dubious effectiveness, even though the captain of the Japanese sub said he assuredly would have sunk the Indianapolis anyway.

There was a much stronger case that McVay had been let down by the Navy, since he wasn't apprised of reports of Japanese subs operating in his vicinity and the Navy, shockingly, lost track of his ship. Yet McVay was found guilty. A broken man, he took his own life in 1968, and the Navy didn't expunge his record of wrongdoing until 2001.

It's another tragedy associated with a ship whose drama, heartbreaking and astonishing, will never leave us. Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

How adults can find new hobbies

Leisure time can seem like a luxury for many adults. While it can seem like there's little time in the day to do more than tend to responsibilities at work and at home, people may have more time to pursue leisure activities than they realize.

In its 2018 American Time Use Survey, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics found that 96 percent of people age 15 and over engaged in some sort of leisure activity on an average day.

How people spend their leisure time might affect their perceptions about that time. For example, few people may consider watching television an "activity," though the American Time Use Survey found that watching TV occupied more leisure time, nearly three hours per day, than any other leisure activity. Finding new hobbies that encourage active participation can make leisure time more memorable.

Think back to your childhood. Hobbies you once enjoyed as a child may have long since been forgotten, but it can be fun to re-immerse yourself in such interests. Adults who loved to play sports as a child can no doubt find adult leagues in their area, while once budding artists might want to dust off their easels and visit a local paint and sip facility.

· Reinvent something you're already doing. Another way to find a new hobby is to consider the things you already do and see if there's ways to make them better. For example, cooking for a family each night might be made more enjoyable by enrolling in a cooking class, where you can meet fellow foodies while fine-tuning your culinary skills. If you love to read, start a community book club.

 Expand your horizons. It's easy for anyone to say p.m. and begins on Sept. 8.

"no" to something new, but especially so for adults accustomed to their routines. But men and women who are willing to try anything are more likely to find something new to be passionate about than those who shy away from the unknown. You don't have to make a big initial commitment when trying a new hobby, but approach any new ideas or suggestions with an open mind.

Finding a new hobby as an adult can be tricky. But approaching activities with an open mind may help people uncover new hobbies they can be passionate about.

Social Security

See your lifetime earnings with my Social Security

By Mike Weitl

Did you know you can see your work history online all the way back to your first job? Your earnings history is a record of your progress toward your Social Security benefits. We keep track of your earnings so we can pay you the benefits you've earned over your lifetime. This is why reviewing your Social Security earnings record is so important.

If an employer didn't properly report just one year of your earnings to us, your future benefit payments could be less than they should be. Over the course of a lifetime, that could cost you tens of thousands of dollars in retirement or other benefits to which you are entitled. It's important to identify reporting problems as soon as possible. As time passes, you may no longer have easy access to past tax documents, and some employers may no longer exist or be able to provide past payroll information.

While it's your employer's responsibility to provide accurate earnings information to us, you should still review and inform us of any errors or omissions so you get credit for the contributions you've made through payroll taxes. You're the only person who can look at your lifetime earnings record and verify that it's complete and correct.

The easiest way to verify your earnings record is to visit www.ssa.gov/myaccount and set up or sign in to your personal my Social Security account. You should review each year of listed earnings carefully and confirm them using your own records, such as W-2s and tax returns. Keep in mind that earnings from this year and last year may not be listed yet.

You can find detailed instructions on how to correct your Social Security earnings record at www.ssa.gov/pubs/ EN-05-10081.pdf.

Let your friends and family know they can access important information like this any time at www.ssa.gov and do much of their business

No tax increase expected at IVCC

OGLESBY - Illinois Valley Community College's board gave tentative approval to the 2021 budget on Aug. 13 – a plan that is not expected to result in a tax increase, Vice President for Business Services and Finance Cheryl Roelfsema said.

Overall, revenues are projected at $32.1 million, less than one percent over 2020. Expenditures of $32.5 million are up less than one percent over the previous year.

The general fund is $22.5 million, an increase of 1.4 percent. The fund, comprised of the education and operations and maintenance funds, includes a $600,000 contingency to protect the college against a potential enrollment drop during the pandemic and the possibility state support could decrease if the proposed income tax increase fails in the Nov. 3 election.

Final budget passage is expected Sept. 10 following a public hearing. The 80-page document is available for public viewing in the Business Office, Room C338, or online at https://www.ivcc. edu/businessservices/financial-budgets/Budget_FY21_tentative.pdf.

In other business, the board ap-

- The retirement request of Director of Nursing Programs Julie Hogue effective Dec. 31. Hogue taught nursing 12 years before being promoted to director four years ago. - Renewal of premiums with Wright Specialty Insurance and Travelers for $137,822 and workers' compensation insurance with Illinois Counties Risk Management Trust for $80,058.

The board also learned:

- · Erin Templeton has been hired as a full-time administrative assistant in Information Technology Services and Tracy Schwemlein as payroll and benefits coordinator.
- Resignations have been submitted by academic support technologist Marty Makransky, Continuing Education program manager Cathy Buck and Writing Center interim coordinator Christine Stiel. Makransky's resignation is effective Aug. 21.
- Modifications were made to the fall calendar due to IVCC being closed for the Nov. 3 election. • In his report, IVCC President for the clean-up work they performed following the Aug. 10 "derechco" storm. "Facilities takes pride in keeping everyone comfortable, safe and secure," he said.

Jerry Corcoran credited facilities staff

- · Adult Education's July 23 drivethrough recognition event attracted a dozen GED-High School Equivalency graduates, U.S. Citizenship passers, completers of the Bridge to Careers program and completers of the new ICAP program (Integrated Career and Academic Preparation System).

- · Corcoran lauded LaSalle County Health Department Administrator Julie Kerestes for providing "tremendous feedback on IVCC's COVID-19 Operations and Safety Plan."
- Corcoran commended employees for overcoming a myriad of impediments this spring and summer. "A lot of good people have worked hard on marketing, outreach and student support under difficult circumstances. Q: When will "Fixer Upper" return with new episodes? I had read that it merged with the DIY Network and was going to return, but I can't find when and what channel. -- G.W.

Joanna & Chip

A: When "Fixer Upper," starring home-renovation experts Chip and Joanna Gaines, aired its last new episode in 2018, it was supposed to be the end. It had become the No. 1-rated unscripted series in all of cable television, and the married stars needed a break. They eventually struck a deal with the Discovery mass media company to create their own channel, the Magnolia Network, which would replace the DIY Network. Having their own network would allow them to produce many shows starring other talent, and Discovery aimed for an October 2020 launch date. Then the pandemic hit, and Magnolia has postponed its start to early 2021.

With "Fixer Upper" done, the Gaines planned to produce 10 new TV series for the Magnolia Network featuring new stars in front of the cameras. However, they recently surprised Discovery with the news that they themselves were ready to film all-new episodes of "Fixer Upper."

So, to answer your question, Chip and Joanna will be returning sometime in 2021 with new episodes when the Magnolia Network launches. In the meantime, enjoy the reruns, but be sure to check out their official website, Magnolia.com, for updates.

Q: Whatever happened to actress Cameron Diaz? She was one of the biggest movie stars for a while, but I haven't seen her in anything since she got married. Is she still acting? -- P.M.

A: Diaz, star of hit films like "There's Something About Mary" and "The Mask," married rocker Benji Madden in 2015, and their daughter was born late last year. After filming the movie "Annie," Diaz decided to walk away from the spotlight.

She recently told fellow movie star Gwyneth Paltrow that she is at peace with her decision. She also added that she hasn't ruled out a return to acting someday. Coincidentally, it was recently announced that Warner Bros. plans to film two more "Mask" movies. The original starring Jim Carrey and Diaz was a hit back in 1994. If the studio approaches the retired star to reprise her role, then this might be the perfect opportunity for a comeback.

Q: I saw a recent picture of Kelly Osbourne online, and she lost a lot of weight. Did she have weight loss surgery like her mother? -- R.H.

A: The TV personality and daughter of rock legend Ozzy Osbourne, Kelly recently announced on social media that she's lost over 80 pounds this past year. She didn't say how, but I do know that she got sober a couple years ago and had adopted a vegan diet. She decided to make her health a priority earlier this year.

Kelly's family has faced many health battles. Her mom, Sharon, beat colon cancer; her father, Ozzy, has Parkinson's disease; and her brother Jack was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis.

HOLLYWOOD -- Once upon a time, long before the advent of television, people drove cars to a place that had 400 parking spaces and a big white screen that stood 100 feet high and 50 feet wide. The year was 1933, the place was Camden, New Jersey, and they called it a drive-in theater. The first film shown there was the MGM release of a British comedy starring Adolphe Menjou, of the original "A Star Is Born" (1937), "Stage Door" (1937) and his lastfilm, "Pollyanna" (1960). Admission was 25 cents. Today 300 drive-in theaters still exist nationwide and because of COVID-19, drive-in theaters are being revived. The largest in the world is The Wilderness Outdoor Movie Theater in Trenton, Georgia. It has two screens, one for G-rated and the other for R-rated films, that show movies such as "Aladdin," "Dumbo" and "John Wick 3" for $7 per person. The snack bar serves burgers, BBQ sandwiches, hot dogs, nachos, chili, etc., and nothing costs more than

Drive-ins have been featured in classic films such as "Grease," "Pee Wee's Great Adventure" and recently in "Once Upon a Time in H o 11 y wood." In July, the Tribeca Film Festival launched

B. Shelton

"Tribeca Drive-in" in California, Florida, New York and Texas, showing 30 films including "Goldfinger," "Back to the Future" and "Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure."

Within three years, Eustis, Florida, will see the "Lighthouse 5" with five drive-in theaters, camp and RV grounds, restaurants and shops. It will cost $1 million to build. Not to be outdone, the Australian company "Beyond Cinema" plans to invade America in September and October with a floating cinema, which can accommodate 12-14 mini-boats that hold up to eight people. It's booked 16 cities in the U.S., including Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles, Miami, New York,

Couch Theater

San Diego and San Francisco, and Vancouver, Toronto and Calgary in Canada.

Recently drive-ins have been used by superstars such as Blake Shelton, Keith Urban and Garth Brooks. Urban staged a free private concert at The Stardust Drivein Watertown, Tennessee, where cameras broadcast his show with lights and sound streamed into vehicles from FM transmitters and with a full concert PA system onto the big screen. The audience applauded by flashing headlights and honking horns. Garth Brooks gave a onenight-only concert that was simulcast to 300 different drive-ins across America. Shelton predicts, "When this virus is through, I see drive-in theaters having an even bigger resurgence. You can watch a movie and be entertained with your family. It's a new way to do concerts too!"

After months of streaming, families who talk during movies will not get shushed in their own cars! (c) 2020 King Features

(Editor's note: We are at the end of the coronavirus theater movie releases, and what is being released now are direct-to-DVD titles or garbage titles with little to no information. As a result, we will offer themed columns like this one when reviewable movies are not available.) August is an imposing thing. Down where I live, the heat is so fully embodied that it's something you have walk through rather than merely feel. It's its own entity with a trickster personality that encourages poor choices and snap judgments, a dealer of bad moods and a constant source of aggravation -- and I have air conditioning! But I'm not alone in feeling this way. Study after study shows that hot weather can have a powerful effect on a person, and not a positive one. Here are four films where heat had a cameo, if not a headline

"12 Angry Men" (1957) -- A classic by director Sidney Lumet, "12 Angry Men" centers around the jurors in a murder trial where a young man is accused of murdering his father with a knife. The jurors are hung by one man, Juror No. 8 (Henry Fonda), who forces the others, over the course of the hottest day of the year cramped in a stuffy juror's room, to debate and review not only the evidence of the case, but also their own prejudices and motivations. "Body Heat" (1981) --

Sexy and sultry as the sweltering heat of South Florida, Kathleen Turner makes her feature debut as Matty, a young wife to a much older, absentee husband. She finds an ardent and adoring lover in bumbling lawyer Ned (William Hurt), who'd truly do anything for her -- even unburden her of her husband. In true noir fashion, the pair enact a plot to do just that, but you should never trust a dame. This is one hot and steamy thriller! "Do the Right Thing"

(1989) -- A Brooklyn neighborhood finds racial tensions simmering on the hottest day of the year, and there are plenty of spoons to stir the pot of trouble that's ready to boil over. Mookie (Spike Lee) works at a local pizza shop owned by Sal (Danny Aiello). When two neighborhood residents demand Sal add Black celebrities to his Italian-American Wall of Fame and he refuses, the protest turns violent. The story is as relevant today as it was when it hit theaters. "Falling Down" (1993)

 Michael Douglas plays William Foster, laid off from his defense-industry job, who is on the way to his ex-wife's house for his daughter's birthday when his car's AC stops working and he gets caught in endless LA gridlock. In that moment, he goes buck nuts crazy, leaves that junker on the side of the road and tears across the LA landscape with a fierce thirst for vengeance on purveyors of little injustices, like the fast food restaurant that won't serve you breakfast if you're even a minute too late. How God rewards our suffering

I don't know anyone who gets excited about going through hardship, and yet it's unavoidable in everyone's life at some time or other. When trouble comes, a natural response is "Why is this happening?" or "I can't believe this is happening to ME!"

But the Bible tells us that hard times are actually good for us. James 1:2-3 (AMP) says, "Consider it nothing but joy...whenever you fall into various trials. Be assured that the testing of your faith [through experience] produces endurance [leading to spiritual maturity, and inner peace]."

Resist the Urge to Run

When things get tough, our initial reaction is to want to run from the pain and escape the situation, but what we need to do is take a firm stand in our faith and face it. Jesus promises us in John 16:33 that if we will trust Him in the midst of the struggle, we can have peace and confidence that we will overcome it because He is on our side!

Now, we don't just overcome the problem, but in the process of going through it, God uses the very thing that is causing our pain to develop endurance, patience and perseverance in our soul. This is how we build our faith in God and grow up spiritually.

The Value of Patience and Endurance

The Greek Dictionary says patience is a fruit of the Spirit that grows only under trial. In fact, the word patience comes from the root word hupone, which means "to remain under."

Patience has to do with being steadfast, disciplined and committed—not running from difficult things, but sticking with them all the way through. It's about having a good attitude while you're waiting for your breakthrough or the fulfillment of something you desire.

Patience has a lot to do with endurance. I've come up with my own definition of endurance: "to outlast the enemy." It reminds me not to give up when I'm weary because I never want to give in to the temptations Satan brings my way or let him win the battle.

We all get weary at times and wonder if we'll ever get our breakthrough when we've been fighting the same battles for a long time. But the ones who refuse to give up are the ones who will have a testimony in the end!

The Test of My Quality

In 1 Peter 4:12, we see that painful experiences test the quality of our faith. When our quality is tested, we learn things about ourselves, because we don't really know what we would do in a tough situation until we're in it. God allows us to go through hard times to reveal what's in our hearts.

I remember a season in my life when I was praying for God to change me and make me more patient, sweet, merciful and loving. He answered my prayer at the grocery store.

I used to be very impatient when it was time to check out at the supermarket, and I somehow managed to pick the slow line every time. I can vividly remember one day when there was a new clerk being trained and everything was taking longer than usual. I was frustrated, and I made sure they knew it! I sighed loudly and mumbled under my breath.

These times at the grocery store were tests meant to develop patience and endurance in my soul. Over time, as I continued to grow in my relationship with God, I began to pass these tests more often. I came to the point where I could wait in the slow line with a good attitude—without opening my mouth or making a sound.

The Reward Always Outweighs the Pain

My example of developing patience at the grocery store may seem trivial compared to the trial you're facing today. But I want to encourage you to find comfort in the truth that God is with you and He knows exactly what you're going through. He loves you more than you know, and He has the answers you desperately need.

There have been many times when I've walked through devastating pain, and Galatians 6:9 has been an encouragement to me. It says, "Let us not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up" (NIV).

And God promises in Romans 8:28 that if we will trust Him and keep doing what is right in each situation, He will work it all out for our good. He will take every moment of pain and use it to develop priceless fruit, such as love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control in our soul (Galatians 5:22-23).

That's more than enough reason to keep going, one day at a time, and to never give up!

Written by Thomas Merton, 1968: My Lord God,

I have no idea where I am going. I do not see the road ahead of me. I cannot know for certain where it will end.

Nor do I really know myself, and the fact that I think I am following your will does not mean that I am actually doing so.

But I believe that the desire to please you does in fact please you. And I hope I have that desire in all that I am doing.

I hope that I will never do anything apart from that desire.

And I know that if I do this you will lead me by the right road, though I may know nothing about it.

Therefore will I trust you always though I may seem to be lost and in the shadow of death.

I will not fear, for you are ever with me, and you will never leave with me, and you will never leave me to face my perils alone.
