Perryman and Warner Library’s business manager Samantha Rusk will attend a training session later conducted by the Illinois Humanities Council and the Smithsonian Institution. During the session, they will learn about how to set up the exhibit and how to put up the library’s own local exhibition as well, which will go along with the Smithsonian exhibit. The following small-town cultural institutions are scheduled to host the exhibit from April 2021-January 2022:

- April 17-May 29, 2021: General John A. Logan Museum, Murphysboro
- June 5-July 17, 2021: Madison County Historical Society, Edwardsville
- July 24-September 4, 2021: Savanna Museum and Cultural Center, Savanna
- September 11-October 23, 2021: Bryan-Bennett Library, Salem
- October 30-December 11, 2021: Jacksonville Area Museum, Jacksonville
- December 18, 2021-January 29, 2022: Vespasian Warner Public Library District, Clinton.

Twenty-two institutions applied during the first round application process, 13 were invited to advance to the second round.

Illinois Humanities based its decisions on criteria such as each applicant’s organizational capability, its potential to benefit from the experience and the learning and growth opportunities associated with it, its preliminary plans for companion exhibitions and public programs, the suitability of its venue, the likelihood of community support and participation, and geographic distribution. Preference was given to organizations in communities with fewer than 25,000 residents.

“We’re honored to partner with these six organizations to engage Illinoisans in thought and conversation about the vital role of civic participation in our communities, our state, and our nation,” said Gabrielle Lyon, executive director of Illinois Humanities. “All of these institutions make significant contributions to the communities and regions that they serve, and we’re eager to support and learn from their work.”

Museum on Main Street is a program conducted cooperatively by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service and state humanities councils nationwide. It gives rural and small-town Americans opportunities to experience world-class exhibitions in their own communities. It also enables the organizations that host the exhibitions to enhance their skills and expand their capacities in a variety of ways.

Voices and Votes: Democracy in America examines questions stemming from the leap of faith taken by the American revolutionaries who established a government that entrusted the power of the nation not in a monarchy but in its citizens. Who has the right to vote?

What are the freedoms and responsibilities of citizens? Whose voices will be heard?

Voices and Votes addresses the following themes:

- The Great Leap – the origins of America’s democratic system
- A Vote, A Voice – the expansion of the right to vote and challenges related to it, past and present
- The Machinery of Democracy – the institutions and systems through which we participate in the electoral process
- Beyond the Ballot – civic participation, advocacy, and activism beyond the electoral process
- Creating Citizens – perspectives on the rights and responsibilities of citizens and their influence upon our complex national identity.

“Not only are we excited our patrons will be able to visit a Smithsonian exhibition here in our community, we also have a great opportunity to show how ordinary citizens here in DeWitt County affected public policy state-wide,” Perryman said. “I think patrons will be surprised to see how small waves in our community spread so far.”

Matt Meacham, program manager for statewide engagement with the Illinois Humanities Council said the Council was “especially impressed with the library’s well-researched plant to examine several episodes in local political history of significant themes addressed by Voices and Votes.”

This program is for any small business with less than 500 employees (including sole proprietorships, independent contractors and self-employed persons), private non-profit organization or 501(c)(19) veterans organizations affected by coronavirus/COVID-19.

Businesses in certain industries may have more than 500 employees if they meet the SBA’s size standards for those industries. Small businesses in the hospitality and food industry with more than one location could also be eligible if their individual locations employ less than 500 workers.

According to the SBA, the loan will be fully forgiven if the funds are used for payroll costs, interest on mortgages, rent, and utilities (due to likely high subscription, at least 75 percent of the forgiven amount must have been used for payroll).

Loan payments will also be deferred for six months. No collateral or personal guarantees are required. Neither the government nor lenders will charge small businesses any fees.

Forgiveness is based on the employer maintaining or quickly rehiring employees and maintaining salary levels. Forgiveness will be reduced if full-time headcount declines, or if salaries and wages decrease. This loan has a maturity of two years and an interest rate of 1 percent.

“This virus has attacked the things we hold dear: local communities, local businesses, local non-profits and local jobs. Whether a business employs three people or 500, those businesses and those jobs matter to us. Recognizing the importance of the SBA PPP program for our communities, we have had teams working around the clock to allow us to be one of the earliest participants in this unprecedented program,” said Kevin Forristall, Executive Vice President.

“Since the SBA’s final ruling, our number one company priority has been to mobilize resources to make as many PPP loans as possible. I’m proud of the way our teams have risen to the occasion to deliver in our community’s time of need. We want to protect as many paychecks as we possibly can. If your business has been impacted by the virus, we are here to help.”

If you wish to begin the SBA PPP application process at First National Bank, please call 217-935-2148 and ask for Josh Shofner.

There are all sorts of people in this world. It’s as though there’s a scale from 0 to 100 and each of us is somewhere along that line, endeavoring to reach the perfect person God intended us to be. Some people work hard at it. Some, not so much. And some have given up.

As we journey down the many paths our lives take us, we meet lots of people along the way. If we’re lucky, we get to meet very special people who live their lives near the top of that scale. If we’re really, really blessed, we get to be their friend.

Many of us were blessed to know Susie Hulvey. She was one of those people. Always happy, always smiling, always ready with a warm, friendly greeting. She asked about you and truly cared about how you were doing. She walked closely with the Lord and it showed in every aspect of her life. And it wasn’t because her life was perfect or that she was unfamiliar with pain, hardship or suffering. She had plenty of that.

Raised as an only child by parents who loved her but didn’t know God and wanted to protect her from everything, she was encouraged to concentrate on her appearance and femininity. Sequestered from the real world, she was socially distanced and isolated from the normal teenage life of slumber parties and hanging out with friends.

But, then she met Donny Hulvey. From that moment on her life and, as a result, all of our lives, were forever changed.

She learned to shoot guns, bait hooks, throw tomahawks and primitive camp. She was introduced to Jesus, the Bible, and became the person she was always meant to be. The perfect little beauty queen now lived in the country, raised chickens, baked bread, sewed, gardened, canned fruits and vegetables and could shoot a squirrel, skin it, cook it up for dinner, get dressed up in heels and pearls and shoot a coyote from her car on the way down the driveway all in one day! She became a mother and raised her daughters the way she wished she’d grown up.

From her husband, Donnie, her kids and grandkids, her beloved dog Gus, her hosting and entertaining, blackpowder shooting competitions and hunting, Susie was all in. She was never content at doing anything part way. She worked and worked at it until she was the best. Their home is filled with plaques, awards, prizes and thousands of pictures to attest to her amazing skills.

But even this doesn’t fully describe her. What Susie was best at was love. She loved life. She loved God. She loved her family and friends. She loved people she didn’t even know. And she loved with every ounce of her being. When faced with cancer over 30 years ago, she laid her life down before God and asked for His strength and mercy. Together they fought it and won. From that moment on Susie found her voice. She sang like an angel. She sang for the Lord. She wrote mountains of notes to others who were suffering to encourage them to brighten their day, to let them know they weren’t alone, they were stronger than they knew, and she was praying for them.

Her faithfulness to God, her husband, daughters, family and friends is the beautiful, lasting gift she left us all with. Her physical body is gone from our sight, but her sweet, kind smile, her twinkling eyes, her gentle manner, and her boundless love will never be. It will live on forever in all of us whose lives were forever changed by having known her. Her wish would be that we would pass it on to others and be the best that we can be.

Her life here didn’t last nearly long enough, but she made it count. She lived it to the fullest while she was here. Now she sings with the angels, goes on quiet, reflective walks with Jesus in perfect forests, abundant with wildlife and clear, cool streams filled with never-ending love and light.

Susie will no doubt be missed by many, but her and her life will be the topic of discussions for years to come. Keeping our family and friend’s memories alive is the highest tribute that we can pay them. There will be many more tears shed for Susie, but hopefully they will be softened by her laughter, her smile and her genuine love of life.

Thank you, Lord, for sharing Susie with all of us. Until we meet again ...

Amber Waves

Pandemic shows why borders exist

When President Donald Trump announced a restriction on travel from Europe in a mid-March Oval Office address, European Union officials erupted in outrage.

The president of the European Commission, Ursula von der Leyen, issued a joint statement with the president of the European Council, thundering, "The coronavirus is a global crisis, not limited to any continent, and it requires cooperation rather than unilateral action."

Just a few days later, von der Leyen advanced her own proposal to ban nonessential travel into the EU.

We are all restrictionists now. In the coronavirus crisis, everyone realizes the importance of borders, even the people who not long ago were ideologically hostile toward them.

Borders mark off the sovereign territory of one people from another. They are a means -- if they can be enforced and defended -- for a sovereign state to protect its people from invaders, and unwelcome immigrants and goods. They are a tool almost every nation has used to try to keep the coronavirus from gaining a foothold in its population, and to try to keep it from spreading further.

The lyrics of the treacly John Lennon classic

"Imagine" -- recently performed by celebrities organized by actress Gal Gadot as a balm in this time of distress -- have never been so absurdly inapt. If there were really no countries and the world were as one, we'd be even more vulnerable to whatever threat arises in a city in central China, or anywhere else on the globe.

Of course, travel restrictions haven't prevented the spread of the disease -- there's no such thing as an airtight seal. But restrictions at least bought governments some additional time, and openness to foreign travel from China has been an accelerant on its spread.

Such restrictions are the least of it. Italy has had trouble importing masks because European counties have been working to hold on to medical supplies, indeed to hold on to food. According to the Wall Street Journal, "German officials said their restrictions were partly designed to safeguard supplies at German supermarkets from French shoppers."

So much for a new era of European solidarity dissolving historic, centuries-old political and cultural divisions.

In a crisis, everyone realizes their foremost obligation is to their own.

Of course, Trump is naturally inclined to this view. He imposed travel restrictions even before he was truly seized with the seriousness of this crisis. The pandemic gives new credibility to his dim view of our commercial entanglement with China and, before this is all over, there will probably be bipartisan legislation to minimize our dependence on Chinese-manufactured pharmaceuticals and medical equipment.

None of this means that we shouldn't wish other counties well, help them if we can, and share research and technologies. But borders exist for a reason. All peoples have their own governments that, if they are doing their jobs, put the health, safety and welfare of their own people first.

The coronavirus has acted as a solvent on a decade or more of cliches about the arrival of a globalized world where old lines drawn on a map no longer matter. In a crisis, everyone turns to borders as a first line of defense.

New guidance about COVID-19 economic impact payments

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Treasury Department launched a new web tool allowing quick registration for Economic Impact Payments for eligible individuals who do not normally file a tax return, and also announced that it would begin making automatic payments. However, for some people receiving benefits from the Social Security Administration—specifically those who have dependent children under the age of 17—it is to their advantage to go to this portal to ensure they also get the $500 per dependent Economic Impact Payment. I encourage them to do this as soon as possible, and want to provide the following details:

People who receive Social Security retirement, survivors, or disability insurance benefits and who did not file a tax return for 2018 or 2019 and who have qualifying children under age 17 should now go to the IRS’s webpage at www.irs.gov/coronavirus/economic-impact-payments to enter their information instead of waiting for their automatic $1,200 Economic Impact Payment. By taking proactive steps to enter information on the IRS website about them and their qualifying children, they will also receive the $500 per dependent child payment in addition to their $1,200 individual payment. If Social Security beneficiaries in this group do not provide their information to the IRS soon, they will have to wait to receive their $500 per qualifying child.

The same new guidance also applies to SSI recipients, especially those who have qualifying children under age 17. To receive the full amount of the Economic Impact Payments you and your family are eligible for, go to the IRS’s Non-Filers: Enter Payment Info page at www.irs.gov/coronavirus/economic-impact-payments and provide information about yourself and your qualifying children.

Additionally, any new beneficiaries since January 1, 2020, of either Social Security or SSI benefits, who did not file a tax return for 2018 or 2019, will also need to go to the IRS’s Non-Filers website to enter their information.

Lastly, for Social Security retirement, survivors, or disability beneficiaries who do not have qualifying children under age 17, you do not need to take any action with the IRS. You will automatically receive your $1,200 economic impact payment directly from the IRS as long as you received an SSA-1099 for 2019.

For SSI recipients who do not have qualifying children under age 17, we continue to work closely with Treasury in our efforts to make these payments automatically. Please note that we will not consider Economic Impact Payments as income for SSI recipients, and the payments are excluded from resources for 12 months.

The eligibility requirements and other information about the Economic Impact Payments can be found here: www.irs.gov/coronavirus/economic-impact-payment-information-center. In addition, please continue to visit the IRS at www.irs.gov/coronavirus for the latest information.

We will continue to update Social Security’s COVID-19 web page at www.socialsecurity.gov/coronavirus/ as further details become available.”

Three popular oils compared

Welcome to my little corner of culinary delights. There are so many different cooking oils that to list them all lacks good sense. I will then concentrate on the most common and a few specialties because of their unique application.

Animal fats were the first used in antiquities. To this day, they remain valuable in cooking. The oils are rendered from the fat. Hog fat is top on the list. I doubt that beef fat is used much for anything. Bacon fat is often used for frying eggs and other breakfast items. Lard, as an ingredient for pie dough, is another use. It makes for a flakier crust. However, lard is frowned upon due to bad press. Vegetable oils are now seen as better for you. Let us take a hard look at this.

Reading labels is a good practice. Find out what you are putting into your body. My tub of lard states that it has 1.5 grams of Polyunsaturated fats and 5 grams of saturated fats with 5 grams of monounsaturated fats per one serving size of 13 grams. My can of Crisco (which is a solid form of vegetable oil) states that it has 3 grams of saturated fats, 6 grams of polyunsaturated fats with 2.5 grams of monounsaturated fats per one serving size of 12 grams. It seems that the Crisco is lower in saturated than the lard and half as much in monounsaturated fat. Now which is your worse fats?

The Culinary Corner

By Chef Roger Joss

Saturated fats are bad for you. Whereas lard has 38% saturated fats, Crisco has only 25%. 13% more of something bad is not good. However, the good fats would be your unsaturated and monounsaturated fats and lard has 38 percent compared to 21 percent in Crisco; a 17 percent difference. Now that is good. Crisco does have 3 percent more polyunsaturated fats than lard. I would say it is a close call but Crisco does win out. Considering that lard would be a very small percentage of a pie, I might be tempted to use the lard for that flaky crust. Cookies have a higher content percentage of oil and so I would use Crisco for cookies.

Butter would be our next concern. Compared to lard, butter has about as much saturated fats as lard if not a little more, no polyunsaturated and only 2 percent monounsaturated fats. I am afraid that butter is the worse of the three. However, that will not stop me from using it. Naturally, if the oils are used for frying, most of the fat is going to drain off and only small amounts consumed. In the case of oils used as an ingredient, all of it is going to be consumed. That is another factor to consider.

Always be conscious of differences and how used in cooking and baking. It is never enough to simply read the label or accept popular beliefs. It is necessary to know the facts and then compare.

Until next time, peace to all.

Money / from page A1

Illinois spent $1.86 million on such products Monday. Those include gloves, dry erase markers, steno books and hospital supplies for alternate care facilities in Blue Island, Elgin and Melrose Park.

The greatest single-day expenditure came April 10, when the state spent $34.69 million on goggles, face shields, gowns, post-mortem bags, clip boards, testing equipment and other goods. Over $7.45 million was spent that day on ventilators.

The running total of state resources invested was $168.52 million as of Monday.

Gov. JB Pritzker, in nearly each of his daily COVID-19 update briefings, has stressed the importance of protective equipment for health care personnel, first responders and other essential workers, as well as ventilators for those in hospitals' intensive care units.

"We are acquiring whatever we can so that we are ready in the event that there's a spike in ICU beds and need for ventilators," the governor said at his Tuesday COVID-19 briefing.

He also said again that the federal government long ago should have taken a more active role in procuring protective gear and equipment.

"What I would say is that this is the market that every state has been thrown into – this is what I've been talking about for a month now – that had the ... president put in place the Defense Production Act to help us with all of these items, we wouldn't be paying $5 or $6 sometimes for an N95 mask that in a normal circumstance costs 85 cents or $1," he said.

He said the same was true for ventilators, which generally cost $25,000 to $40,000, but the state is paying more for them and bidding against other states and the federal government.

Pritzker said his administration plans to give a budget update later in the week, but the hundreds of millions in added spending, combined with economic fallout from the pandemic and associated stay-at-home orders, will create a "very, very difficult fiscal financial challenge for the state of Illinois."

He said more aid will be needed from the federal government above and beyond the $2.2 trillion CARES Act that has already passed.

"It's one of the reasons why I think all of us should be communicating with our federal representatives here to work hard to get the government in Washington, DC, to help all of the states because we really have this problem in common with all the states," he said. "You hear governors say this all the time. We have big holes in our budgets as a result of what's happened with COVID-19. It's nobody's fault, it just is where it is and we're going to have to deal with it."

Growing a cut flower garden

DECATUR, Ill. — If you love having vases full of fresh flowers around the house, but not the price tag cut flower gardening is for you. A little planning now will have your home full of unique floral arrangements all summer long.

A cut flower is simply any flower or flower bud that is cut from the plant and used decoratively in fresh or dried vase displays, wreaths and garlands. But not every flower makes a good cut flower.

"For instance, many people enjoy daylilies, however they close up when the sun sets and aren't very exciting in a vase at dinner time," said Illinois Extension Horticulture Educator Sarah Vogel. "In addition, some blooms can be too fragile and watery to last long after being cut."

Cut flowers should be planted in a sunny spot in the garden close to a water source. Flowers mature quickly, so plant them somewhere you'll see them often in order to cut them at the right time. You can plant flowers in raised beds if you have poor-quality soil. Ground beds are better for large amounts of flowers. Or, you can incorporate cut flowers into your existing landscape to save space.

Growing from seed saves money and more varieties are available, but you need an appropriate place to start seeds indoors. Transplants are more expensive, but they save time and space. Whatever you choose, try to stagger what you plant by bloom times so you always have flowers available.

- Annual Cut Flowers: Zinnia, Strawflower, Celosia, Cosmos, Black-eyed Susan, Sunflowers.

- Bulbs: Spring Flowering: Tulips, Daffodils, Lily of the Valley; Summer Flowering: Dahlias, Gladiolus, Lilies.

- Perennials: Spring Flowering: Hellebores, Bleeding Heart, Peonies, Lady's Mantle; Summer Flowering: Iris, Liatris, Coneflowers, Eryngium, Poppies, Astilbe, Clematis, Yarrow, Garden Phlox; Late Summer/Fall Flowering: Autumn Joy and Similar type Sedum, Mums, Perennial Black-Eyed Susan.

Hold on to the seed packets or the transplant description for information on when to cut the flower.

Some flowers are best to cut as buds or before the blooms fully develop and some are best cut when they're fully open. It's best to cut flowers in the late afternoon or evening. Cut the stems longer than you will need and place in cool water for one to two hours to let them take up enough water.

To learn more about how to grow a cut flower garden and instructions on setting up a flower vase, read this month's Know How Know More blog post at go.illinois.edu/KHKM

IEMA, IDPH release new campaign to encourage residents to stay home during COVID-19

SPRINGFIELD – As Illinois enters a critical juncture in the fight against COVID-19, the Illinois Emergency Management Agency and Illinois Department of Public Health are launching a new public service campaign to remind Illinois residents to continue to follow the Stay at Home order enacted by the Governor’s executive order to help slow the spread of the novel coronavirus.

This new public service campaign features celebrity Brian Tee. Under normal circumstances, Brian Tee would be shooting scenes for Chicago Med where he plays Dr. Ethan Choi. But in a COVID-19 world, Tee and his family are staying home and following the guidelines set forth by health professional to slow the spread of the coronavirus. Tee and his wife have a 4-year-old daughter and his parents, ages 75 and 85, live with them. In the videos released by the state agencies, Tee is shown teaching his daughter why it’s important to “Do Your Part” and stay home to protect those you love.

“We want to thank Brian Tee for helping us get the word out about the need to do our part and stay home,” said IDPH Director Dr. Ngozi Ezike. “The weather is warming up and many people are starting to feel cooped up, but staying home now will help end this pandemic sooner.”

“These public services announcements are coming online at a crucial phase in our response to this pandemic,” said IEMA Director Alicia Tate-Nadeau. “We must be strong and stay the course for these measures to be effective. Now is not the time to gather with friends or extended relatives. Stay home to protect yourself, your family and your community.”

The new spots started airing recently as part of the Ready Illinois broadcast preparedness campaign, which is aired in cooperation with the Illinois Broadcasters Association (IBA) Public Education Partnership (PEP) program. Brian Tee waived his fee for the Illinois Broadcasters Association in exchange for a donation to a local foodbank.

“I have nothing but gratitude and admiration towards first responders and those on the front lines during this crisis, because they are the true heroes. Instead of just pretending to be one, I’m hoping to help by spreading their advice and donating to those who need it,” said Brian Tee. “There are many amazing organizations out there to support and I recognize that it’s my civic duty for the state of Illinois and this country to do my part, but even more, this is an international crisis and an existential threat that we can all come together on to fight the good fight and help by simply staying home.”

The “Do Your Part” spots will air on more than 200 Illinois radio and television stations. Video links can be found online at <https://www.youtube.com/user/ReadyIllinois>.

COVID-19

What It Is and What To Do

WHAT ARE THE SYMPTOMS?

CALL YOUR DOCTOR:
If you think you have been exposed to COVID-19 and develop a fever and symptoms, such as cough or difficulty breathing, call your healthcare provider for medical advice.

WATCH FOR SYMPTOMS
Reported illnesses have ranged from mild symptoms to severe illness and death for confirmed coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) cases.
The following symptoms may appear 2-14 days after exposure.*

- Fever
  - Cough
  - Shortness of breath
- *This is based on what has been seen previously as the incubation period of MERS-CoV viruses.

If you develop emergency warning signs for COVID-19 get medical attention immediately.

- EMERGENCY WARNING SIGNS INCLUDE*:
- Difficulty breathing or shortness of breath
  - Persistent pain or pressure in the chest
  - New confusion or inability to arouse
  - Bluish lips or face

*This list is not all inclusive. Please consult your medical provider for any other symptoms that are severe or concerning.

IF YOU ARE AT HIGHER RISK

WHO IS AT HIGHER RISK?
Early information out of China, where COVID-19 first started, shows that some people are at higher risk of getting very sick from this illness. This includes:

- Older adults
- People who have serious chronic medical conditions like:
- Heart disease
- Diabetes
- Lung disease

GET READY FOR COVID-19 NOW
Take actions to reduce your risk of getting sick
If you are at higher risk for serious illness from COVID-19 because of your age or because you have a serious long-term health problem, it is extra important for you to take actions to reduce your risk of getting sick with the disease.

- Stock up on supplies.
- Take everyday precautions to keep space between yourself and others.
- When you go out in public, keep away from others who are sick, limit close contact and wash your hands often.
- Avoid crowds as much as possible.
- Avoid cruise travel and non-essential air travel.
- During a COVID-19 outbreak in your community, stay home as much as possible to further reduce your risk of being exposed.

HAVE SUPPLIES ON HAND

- Contact your healthcare provider to ask about obtaining extra necessary medications to have on hand in case there is an outbreak of COVID-19 in your community and you need to stay home for a prolonged period of time.
- If you cannot get extra medications, consider using mail-order for medications.
- Be sure you have over-the-counter medicines and medical supplies (tissues, etc.) to treat fever and other symptoms. Most people will be able to recover from COVID-19 at home.
- Have enough household items and groceries on hand so that you will be prepared to stay at home for a period of time.

TAKE EVERYDAY PRECAUTIONS
Avoid close contact with people who are sick.

- Take everyday preventive actions:
- Clean your hands often
  - Wash your hands often with soap and water for at least 20 seconds, especially after blowing your nose, coughing, or sneezing, or having been in a public place.
  - If soap and water are not available, use a hand sanitizer that contains at least 60% alcohol.
  - To the extent possible, avoid touching high-touch surfaces in public places – elevator buttons, door handles, handrails, handshaking with people, etc. Use a tissue or your sleeve to cover your hand or finger if you must touch something.
  - Wash your hands after touching surfaces in public places.
  - Avoid touching your face, nose, eyes, etc.
  - Clean and disinfect your home to remove germs: practice routine cleaning of frequently touched surfaces (for example: tables, doorknobs, light switches, handles, desks, toilets, faucets, sinks & cell phones)
  - Avoid crowds, especially in poorly ventilated spaces. Your risk of exposure to respiratory viruses like COVID-19 may increase in crowded, closed-in settings with little air circulation if there are people in the crowd who are sick.

Avoid all non-essential travel including plane trips, and especially avoid embarking on cruise ships.

DISINFECTING YOUR HOME IF SOMEONE IS SICK

As part of your everyday prevention actions clean and disinfect frequently touched surfaces and objects. For example: tables, counter tops, light switches, doorknobs, and cabinet handles.

Wear disposable gloves to clean and disinfect.

CLEAN
• Clean surfaces using soap and water. Practice routine cleaning of frequently touched surfaces.
High touch surfaces include:
Tables, doorknobs, light switches, countertops, handles, desks, phones, keyboards, toilets, faucets, sinks, etc.

DISINFECT
• Use diluted household bleach solutions if appropriate for the surface. Check to ensure the product is not past its expiration date. Unexpired household bleach will be effective against coronaviruses when properly diluted.
Follow manufacturer's instructions for application and proper ventilation. Never mix household bleach with ammonia or any other cleanser.

To make a bleach solution, mix:
• 5 tablespoons (1/3rd cup) bleach per gallon of water OR
• 4 teaspoons bleach per quart of water
• Alcohol solutions with at least 70% alcohol.
• Household cleaners and disinfectants: Clean the area or item with soap and water or another detergent if it is dirty. Then, use a household disinfectant.

Follow the instructions on the label to ensure safe and effective use of the product.

Many products recommend:
• Keeping the surface wet for several minutes to ensure germs are killed.
• Precautions such as wearing gloves and making sure you have good ventilation during use of the product.
• Most EPA-registered household disinfectants should be effective.

SOFT SURFACES
For soft surfaces such as carpeted floor, rugs, and drapes
• Clean the surface using soap and water or with cleaners appropriate for use on these surfaces.
• Launder items (if possible) according to the manufacturer's instructions. Use the warmest appropriate water setting and dry items completely.
OR
• Disinfect with an EPA-registered household disinfectant. These disinfectants meet EPA's criteria for use against COVID-19.

LAUNDRY
For clothing, towels, linens and other items
• Wear disposable gloves.
• Wash hands with soap and water as soon as you remove the gloves.
• Do not shake dirty laundry.
• Launder items according to the manufacturer's instructions. Use the warmest appropriate water setting and dry items completely.
• Dirty laundry from an ill person can be washed with other people's items.
• Clean and disinfect clothes hampers according to guidance above for surfaces.

CLEAN HANDS OFTEN
• Wash your hands often with soap and water for 20 seconds.
• Always wash immediately after removing gloves and after contact with an ill person.
• Hand sanitizer: If soap and water are not readily available and hands are not visibly dirty, use a hand sanitizer that contains at least 60% alcohol. However, if hands are visibly dirty, always wash hands with soap and water.

Additional key times to clean hands include:

- After blowing one's nose, coughing, or sneezing
- After using the restroom
- Before eating or preparing food
- After contact with animals or pets
- Before and after providing routine care for another person who needs assistance (e.g. a child)
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth with unwashed hands.

FOOD
• Stay separated: The ill person should eat (or be fed) in their room if possible.
• Wash dishes and utensils using gloves and hot water: Handle any non-disposable used food service items with gloves and wash with hot water or in a dishwasher.
• Clean hands after handling used food service items.

TRASH
• Dedicated, lined trash can: If possible, dedicate a lined trash can for the ill person. Use gloves when removing garbage bags, and handling and disposing of trash. Wash hands afterwards.

4♠ is a precarious contract, and requires careful timing if Declarer is to succeed. West leads the ♦K, which Declarer ruffs in Dummy. What are the dangers, and how will Declarer overcome them?

West, ♣J covered by the King and Ace, Club to Dummy's Queen. Now Declarer has an awkward guess ... if the remaining two enemy trumps are split then Dummy's Ace must be cashed before running the Hearts ... but if East has both missing trumps (the actual case) then the Hearts must be played first. It's better to avoid that guess!

2020 WATER QUALITY REPORT

The City of Clinton’s Water Department is very pleased to provide you with this Annual Quality Water Report. Although the Safe Drinking Water Act requires us to provide an annual report, we want to take the opportunity to keep you informed about the water and services we have delivered to you over the past year.

Our goal is, and always has been, to provide you a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We currently have 3 operators on staff. These Operators are updating their training to keep abreast of all available products, information and regulations, to better protect our valuable water supply. We obtain our water from wells placed in the Mahomet Aquifer. Wells are located in the city limits of Clinton.

If you have any questions about this report or concerns about your water quality, please contact the facility manager, Lloyd Francis, at the Water Plant office (217/935-3679). If you would like to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled council meetings. They are held on the first and third Monday of each month at City Hall, beginning at 7:00pm. To view a summary version of the completed Source Water Assessments, including: Importance of Source Water; Susceptibility to Contamination Determination; and documentation/recommendation of Source Water Protection Efforts, you may access the Illinois EPA website at <http://www.epa.stat.il.us/cgi-bin/wp/swap-fact-sheets.pl>. This report is also available at City Hall, this report will not be mailed.

Contaminants

Contaminants that may be present in source water include: microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife. Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming. Pesticides and herbicides which may come from a variety of sources such agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses. Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff and septic systems; and radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

Drinking Water

All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some constituents. The source of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) includes rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals, and in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Water Safety

In order to insure that water is safe to drink, the Department Of Environment Management and the EPA prescribe regulations, which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for the public health.

For Your Health

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general Population. Immuno compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune systems disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk of infections. These people should seek advice about the drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline 800/426-4791.

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. We cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking and cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

Monitoring

The City of Clinton Water Department routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. This report shows the results of our monitoring for the period January 1 - December 31, 2019. We have learned through our testing and monitoring that some constituents have been detected. It’s important to remember that the presence of these constituents does not necessarily pose a health risk, and the EPA has determined that your water IS SAFE at these levels.

The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency’s Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791. MCLs are set at very stringent levels. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated constituents we have provided the following example. A person would have to drink two liters of water every day at the maximum MCL level for a life time to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.

Source Water Assessment Availability

A Source Water Assessment summary is included for your convenience. The City of Clinton (Facility Number0390050) obtains its water from four community water supply wells. Wells #10, #11, and #12 (Illinois EPA #00394, #00395, and #01962 respectively) provide an average of 873,000 gallons per day to 3,200 services or a population of 7,400. To determine Clinton’s susceptibility to groundwater contamination, a Well Site Survey, published in 1990 by the Illinois EPA, and a potential source inventory conducted by the Illinois Rural Water Association, was reviewed. Based on the information contained in these documents, forty-one potential sources of groundwater contamination are present that could pose a hazard to groundwater pumped by the Clinton community water supply wells. These include eleven below ground fuel storages, four auto repairs, three warehouses, a construction/demolition co., two manufacturing/processing of chemicals, two pesticide/fertilizer commercial applications or warehouses, a hardware store, tow machine shops/sheds, two stores/sales, a foundry/metal working, an equipment/vehicle washing, a fertilizer handling, two auto bodies, an above/below ground fuel storage, two vehicle sales, a mortuary, a manufacturing process, a laundry, and two above ground fuel storages.

The Illinois EPA has determined that Clinton Wells #10, #11, and #12 are not susceptible to IOC, VOC, or SOC contamination. This determination is based on a number of criteria including: monitoring conducted at the wells; monitoring conducted at the entry point to the distribution system; and the available hydrogeological data for the wells. The Illinois Environmental Protection Act provides minimum protection zones of 200 feet for the City of Clinton’s wells. These minimum protection zones are regulated by the Illinois EPA.

To further minimize the risk to the city’s groundwater supply, the Illinois EPA recommends that four additional activities be assessed. First, the city should develop a source water protection program. An approved program may allow the city to receive a monitoring waiver that will reduce the frequency of VOC and/or SOC monitoring. The reduced monitoring frequency may save the city considerable analytical costs. Second, the city may wish to enact a “maximum setback zone” ordinance. These ordinances are authorized by the Illinois Environmental Protection Act and allow county and municipal officials the opportunity to provide additional protection up to a fixed distance, normally 1,000 feet, from their wells. Third, the water supply staff may wish to revisit their contingency planning documents. Contingency planning documents are a primary means to ensure that, through emergency preparedness, a community will minimize their risk of being without safe and adequate water.

Finally, the water supply staff is encouraged to review their cross connection control program to ensure that it remains current and viable. Cross connections to either the water treatment plant (for example, at bulk water loading stations) or in the distribution system may negate all of the source water protection initiatives provided by the community and circumvent the natural Protection provided to the aquifer.

Water Quality Test Results
Definitions:	The following tables contain scientific terms and measures, some of which may require explanation.
AvG:	Regulatory compliance with some MCLs are based on running annual average of monthly samples.
Level 1 Assessment:	A Level 1 assessment is a study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine (if possible) why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system.
Level 2 Assessment:	A Level 2 assessment is a very detailed study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine (if possible) why an E. coli MCL violation has occurred and/or why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system on multiple occasions.
Maximum Contaminant Level or MCL:	The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum Contaminant Level Goal or MCLG:	The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
Maximum residual disinfectant level or MRDL:	The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
Maximum residual disinfectant level goal or MRDLG:	The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
na:	not applicable.
mrem:	millirems per year (a measure of radiation absorbed by the body) ppb:	micrograms per liter or parts per billion - or one ounce in 7,350,000 gallons of water.

ppm:	milligrams per liter or parts per million - or one ounce in 7,350 gallons of water.
Treatment Technique or TT:	A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.
