Gordon Woods

gwoods@theclintonjournal

CLINTON — Wind turbine "curtailment" was the key topic to lead off Monday's hearing for the Alta Farms II wind energy project special use permit. The Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) has hearings for the permit scheduled through Jan. 29.

Hearings that ran through last week and this week involved primarily representatives of Tradewind Energy answering questions residents. Residents also will give testimony to the ZBA as hearings progress.

"Curtailment" is the term used to describe wind farm turbines being slowed during periods of severe weather. Residents directed questions to Tradewind officials about the effectiveness of curtailment.

Several of the residents questioning radar expert Geoff Blackman expressed their concerns that curtailment of turbines during storms, particularly those spawning tornadoes, would not be sufficient to allow weather radar to perform adequately. Blackman is principal consultant and founder of Westslope Consulting, which consults about radar for the government and the wind energy industry. He also testified during hearings last week.

Comptroller to lawmakers: No more pay for time not worked

Rebecca Anzel

Capitol News Illinois ranzel@capitolnewsillinois.com

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois' chief fiscal officer announced a plan this week to remedy the "ridiculous" law that allows legislators to be paid for days they did not hold office.

Representatives senators are paid in 12 equal disbursements on the last working day of each month. Current law allows lawmakers to receive a full salary as long as they hold office at least one day in each pay period.

Comptroller Susana Mendoza proposed prorating legislators' pay, ensuring they are only paid for only the days they hold office. She also wants to shift their salary schedule to be the same as it is for other state officials and employees twice monthly.

Her legislative partner on the initiative, Elgin Democratic Sen. Cristina Castro, said the change would bring the legislative branch in line with the private sector.

"This is a glaring loophole that has been exploited far too many times at the taxpayers' expense, and I'm sick of it. It needs to be closed," Castro said in a news release.

The bill appears to have bipartisan support. Republican Rep. Mike Murphy, of Springfield, proposed a near-identical measure 12 months ago. The initiatives differ in one respect — when they take effect. Murphy's would become bill enforceable immediately; the Democrats' plan would begin at the start of the 102nd General Assembly in January 2021.

Altering lawmakers' pay during terms for which they are elected is unconstitutional, a spokesperson for Mendoza said, which is why the measure's effective date is later.

Murphy said he sent a letter to Mendoza and Castro asking for their support on his bill and offering to help ensure the initiative, in whatever form, is successful this legislative session.

The "bottom line," Murphy said, "is let's just get this done," no matter whose name is on the final

"We have got to do whatever we can to get the trust back of the people, and we have to earn it," he added. "Bills like this show that we're serious about doing the right thing.'

A spokesperson for Mendoza said the resignations of former Chicago Democrats Sen. Martin Sandoval Rep. Luis Arroyo, both "egregious examples," indicate the need for a statutory change.

Sandoval, whose Capitol office and home were raided by federal agents, announced on Nov. 27 he would resign his position to avoid "distraction to the important work that needs be accomplished." His last day as a state lawmaker was Jan. 1.

Arroyo was arrested on federal bribery charges in late October but waited until Nov. 1 — the same day a special investigative panel was to consider whether to expel him from the chamber - to officially resign.

Because both former legislators held office for one day, they were paid the full month's salary in accordance with state law, according to the comptroller's office.

In some instances, a legislator's replacement would get paid for the same full month's work as the retired or resigned official.

"That's ridiculous. I can think of no other enterprise that pays for an ex-employee for work they never performed," Mendoza said in a news release. "Each of these lawmakers left under a cloud but stayed just long enough — the first of the month - to collect an 'exit bonus' from state taxpayers for a month's pay for no work."

The initiative is one Castro said the newlyformed ethics reform commission will consider as part of its recommended ethics overhaul legislative package.

In an interview in November, Murphy said his bill was one of about 30 proposed by Republicans and not addressed by the General Assembly during the fall veto session.

His measure is House Bill 818 — it has eight cosponsors, all Republicans. Castro's measure will be Senate Bill 2456 when it is formally read into the

Wind farm not worth 30 pieces of silver offered

There nothing wrong with saying "no." However, there are those who will try to shame you for saying "no." No, I do not wish to live in Chicago, Bloomington, Decatur or anywhere else for that matter.

I have chosen to live in DeWitt County. There are those who will mock me for wishing to live in a "rural backwater," or for not wanting to embrace their vision of a bright, new future, but, the way it is, DeWitt County suits me fine. I happen to enjoy the unspoiled vista of the sun rising and setting over a landscape that is unmarred by a forest of massive, steel structures. I do not choose to live in the midst of an industrial complex.

Those pushing us to embrace the wind farm have told us of vast fortunes that await. They promise us high-paying jobs and an opportunity to be part of providing the world with clean energy.

However, I question the validity and accuracy of their projected windfall estimates. I also question how they see 36 jobs, Mr. Swierczewski's own figure, spread over the entire state of Illinois as being a boon to local government. That equals less than one job for every three counties. They tell us that their "clean energy" will heal the environment but fail to tell us of the vast pollution that goes into the manufacturing of each wind turbine before they are erected.

Money is always nice to have, but some money comes at a very high cost. One the turbines are standing, they will be with us forever, and once the camel gets its nose in the tent, it will not be long before the whole camel is in the tent.

I cannot believe that the wind farm industry will be content with a small number of turbines in a limited portion of the country. Their vision of the future frightens me. As far as I am concerned, the wind farms can keep the 30 pieces of silver that they wish for me to accept.

Residents asking questions also were concerned that the timing of curtailment as it pertains National Weather Service (NWS) severe storm warnings would not be effective. They felt curtailment would be initiated too late to allow Dopplar weather radar to have an unobstructed view of the area.

Large concentrations of wind turbines are known sometimes erroneous radar images during storm events, according to some experts. Local physicist Donald Waddell testified in Feb. 2019 about the potential of wind towers to "mask" some things from view during severe storms, such as tornadoes.

Tradewind representatives curtailment of the wind farm during severe storms would mitigate such interference.

When asked about the interference caused by the rotating blades, Blackman said by feathering, or reducing, the angle of the blades combined with slowing their rotation to about one RPM, interference would be mitigated.

Olivia Klemm, active with DeWitt County Residents Against Wind Turbines, asked Blackman employing not curtailment during a storm would produce the masking effect, or Dopplar's inability to see parts of a storm, talked about by Waddell. She asked this question in regard to a 2018 Macon County storm that produced a tornado. Curtailment at the E-ON wind farm was not used during that storm and the tornado's presence not necessarily clear to weather radar as forecasters. Although the NWS did issue a warning.

"When curtailment was not used, in regards to your comments, we had no idea what was going on there," Klemm asked.

"Correct," Blackman

"That leaves residents in the footprint, or in the wake of the path, concerned about what happens when severe weather develops inside the project," Klemm said. "I don't think that's likely," Blackman said. "You also agreed that it's not impossible, though."

"It's possible; it might never, ever happen," Blackman said.

Klemm said she was looking for answers about what was possible, what isn't possible."

Klemm and others also expressed concerns about the timing of curtailment. Using Logan County as an example, if a warning were issued in Logan County, Klemm felt that, if DeWitt County turbines were not curtailed until a warning were issued for the DeWitt County, the two to three minutes it takes the system to implement curtailing might be too long.

Blackman pointed out that tornado warnings aren't issued to conform to county lines but are made up of irregular boxes that follow the path of a storm.

Some of these warning boxes might overlap only a small corner of any one county, which, in some cases, could place it a fairly long distance from a neighboring county.

During Tuesday's hearing, Tradewind's shadow flicker expert Bob O'Neill answered questions from residents and the attorney for DeWitt County Residents Against Wind Turbines about various shadow flicker scenarios.

Let's hash it over and see what we get

Welcome to my little culinary of corner delights. Hash browns in its simplest form can be considered a breakfast Although in its item. self it is simply made, I truly lover doing them. Allow me to first give the standard procedure and then graduate on into the involved. From there we will expand.

We begin by peeling the potatoes and medium dice them. Boil them in water until partially done. Drain and blot the excess water between two towels. In a skillet already prepared with hot oil (bacon drippings or clarified butter), cook finely chopped or medium minced yellow onions until translucent. Then add the potatoes and sauté until tender but not soft. We do not want mashed potato consistency. Then season well with appropriate herbs and your salt and pepper. Always use the salt sparingly. Remember, for those who love salt, there is a salt shaker on the table for that purpose. At college, my instructors inevitably told me to add more salt per their taste. I kept protesting that the guests can add more at the table if preferred. It goes without saying that more salt can always be added. But once added, it cannot be taken out.

The above hash browns can be served as a breakfast item. But we can extend it in order to satisfy a lunch or dinner menu. It can even serve as an entrée rather than as a side dish. In this event, we do as we did above with a few changes and additions. We can change the bacon drippings or

CJHS Maroons score big over Monticello

Marc Rogers jmarre@frontier.com

CLINTON — The Clinton Junior High Maroons wrestlers were on their game on January 9 as they were pitted against the Monticello Sages and the Warrwnsburg/Latham Cardinals.

The Maroons sat out the first of three rounds as the opposition teams battled each other. This round was not really a battle, though, as the Sages won all but four of the matches out of approximately 20.

With that in mind, the Maroons' first round was against the Sages, who had just demolished the Cardinals. The home team got off to a good start winning 5 of their first 7 matches. Then the scoring became cloudy with point spreads, pins and so on. Monticello proved a challenge, but the hometown Maroons eked out a 49-45 win over the Sages.

With the heavy work out of the way, the Maroons looked to finish the evening on a positive note. And that they did winning 8 of the first 10 matches with the Cardinals, leading to a 78-24 win. The Maroons were the big winners of the evening at 2-0, with Monticello in second at 1-1, and Warrensburg/Latham Cardinals having their wings clipped at 0-2. The Maroons proved this evening they can hold their own against the tough teams and do not slack off on the easier wins.

Clinton JV loses close game to Tuscola

Varsity falls to Warriors 74-43

Marc Rogers jmarre@frontier.com

CLINTON — January 10 saw much activity at Clinton High School. The Maroons were playing a conference game against the Tuscola Warriors, and the school was posthumously honoring one of Clinton's past graduates with a place on the Wall of

A reception and dedication were done in the district board room Air Force Maj. General Walter E. Willis. Then, during the break between the junior varsity (JV) and varsity games the Clinton Honor Guard presented the colors during the presentation of a ceremonial plaque to the family of Maj. General Willis. The ceremony then concluded with the playing of taps.

As for the games, Clinton was up against one of the top teams in the conference in Tuscola. The JV game began roughly as the Warriors jumped out to a sizable lead which they held for about two and a half quarters, when the Maroons began to narrow the gap. The fight was strong in both teams down to the wire with last minute shots that went awry.

The game clock stopped, and the teams were tied. With a four-minute overtime to play, each team began pulling out the stops. The game was still tied with seconds left when the Maroons missed a last ditch shot and the Warriors went to the three point line and drained the shot for a 3-point basket and win.

The varsity game was not as auspicious though. The Maroons were struggling to find their rhythm and appeared as if in uncharted waters. Zeke Hickman, coming off an injury during the teams last outing, was held in single digits as was Tyrese Petty, who usually hits double figures. However, Skyler Williamson came up with a team high 15 points followed by Clayton Welch with 11 points. This was a valiant effort, but the Warriors were just too much to handle on this meeting. Tuscola won 74-43 and is 13-0 on the season and 1-0 in conference play. The Maroons drop to 4-14 on the season and 0-1 in the conference.

Clinton hosts 'New Years Showdown'

Weather cancels Clinton vs Peoria Heights

Marc Rogers

jmarre@frontier.com

CLINTON — This year was a little different than the past three tournaments. Clinton did not participate on the hardwood this past Saturday. The home team's opponent cancelled due to the inclement weather.

Thus, the team could only play host to the other teams. There were eight teams participating and each one played in a single game with no round robin play or trophies. Just an afternoon of playing basketball and enjoying the camaraderie. Some games were close and exciting, while others were an easy walk on the hard-

First up was St. Thomas More (9-9, 0-1) versus Mt. Zion (4-13, 0-5). Although Mt. Zion had great success on the football field this year, they have been struggling on the hardwood. This afternoon would be different for them, taking the early lead in the first quarter and not stopping until they hit a hiccup in the final quarter. They had built a substantial lead so weathered the final push by St. Thomas More. Mt. Zion took the first game 57-36.

Quarters Final Teams St. Thomas More 18 17 20 Mt. Zion

The second outing of the afternoon pitted Central Catholic (5-8,0-0) against Rochester (1-12, 0-7). Rochester is another powerhouse school having a sour basketball year. This would be another tough afternoon for them as they could not seem to get any offense or defense to work in the game. Central Catholic took the win 43-37.

The third game of the day saw our friends to the south Maroa/Forsyth (5-8, 0-0) play with the team from Seneca (11-6, 2-2). Neither team really ran away with this showing and it was almost exciting to see a close game. Seneca won 42-32 while hitting only one 3-point shot and having no player in double figures. This was a true

The final game of the day was played by Olympia (4-13,0-0) and our northern friends from Heyworth (7-9,0-5). With two struggling teams, this was probably the breakout game of the showdown, or the most surprising. The teams started out evenly enough tied at 15 at the end of the first quarter. But then, Heyworth continued to play very well and Olympia began to falter ever so little, but a little amounted to a lot over several quarters and Heyworth took the win 61-48.

Floors fit for your vehicle

(NAPSI)—Good news for caring car, truck and SUV owners: When you're looking to keep the high-traffic floor areas in your Chrysler, Dodge, Jeep®, Ram or Fiat vehicle as neat and clean as possible, Mopar—the service, parts, accessories and customer-care brand for all FCA vehicles—can have it covered.

"The floor areas in our vehicles certainly take a beating from foot traffic in the various conditions our customers experience," explains Kim Mathers, Head, Mopar Accessories & Performance, FCA North America. "From harsh winter conditions with snow and salt to the warm and sandy conditions at the beach, to the thick mud from off-roading, our line of Mopar all-weather floor mats provide the best solution to prevent damage, maintain cleanliness and maintain a vehicle's resale value."

How It Works

The process starts with the Mopar Product Development Lab, which creates, tests and continuously improves every accessory that wears the Mopar name. While there are numerous aftermarket floor mat options, as the Original Equipment Manufacturer (OEM) source for all FCA vehicles the team at Mopar uses exclusive OEM data and specifications—which no other aftermarket parts company can provide—for true

dimensional accuracy.

Using "factory" data from the vehicle, designers and engineers create an exact fit that's always spot on. There's no guesswork in clearing the brake and accelerator pedals or any other obstructions. An advanced retention system and factory anchors in the floor are maximized in order to eliminate mat shifting. Superior materials are odorless and structurally sound, while mat designs include up to 33 percent thicker mid-section for enhanced comfort and durability. The underside areas of the all-weather floor mats are built up so the fit is level and stable.

These mats are injection molded and designed with deep drain channels, rigid sidewalls and advanced reservoir systems that contain liquids—features that work for you in real-world scenarios. Second-row floor mats use an innovative interlocking design so they can be removed in sections to avoid having to twist or tip the entire mat, which can result in dumping dirt or liquid onto the floor.

Before any all-weather floor mat becomes available, the lab team conducts more than 30 rigorous tests, including:

• Seven-day chamber test in 185°F heat to ensure mats are warp-free • Test in -4°F cold, where the mats are rolled and maneuvered to make sure they don't crack

• Time on a "Taber" table, which involves 2,000 cycles under a friction disc, to ensure high-wear areas can handle the load

 Rigorous stain testing with items such as coffee, chocolate, ketchup and sunblock

From a durability standpoint, the end result is all-weather floor mats that outsmart, outlast, outfit and outperform any others.

Working with the same product design teams that develop FCA vehicles allows Mopar to make the most stylized and functional all-weather floor mats in the industry. Beyond the vehicle brand names, mats include design cues that match the overall interior design of the vehicle. For instance. on Jeep Wrangler and Jeep Gladiator all-weather floor mats, the water channel shows a contour map of Moab, Utah—the famous off-roading destination and home of the annual Easter Jeep Safari. Front mats feature a patented drain plug that covers the floor drain holes to allow draining without removal for easy cleaning.

2011 Jeep Wrang
