Shrek the Musical to take the stage at James Braida Auditorium this weekend

AMBOY — This winter hasn't frozen the spirits of the talented students preparing for the Amboy High School musical production of "Shrek The Musical," produced through special arrangement with Music Theatre International. The Amboy High School production will have 7 p.m. evening performances on Friday, March 8 and Saturday, March 9. Additionally, there is a 2 p.m. matinee performance Sunday, March 10. All performances will be held in the Amboy High School James Braida Auditorium. Audiences will delight in joining Shrek, played by Lucas Blake, the unlikely hero, and his loyal steed, Donkey, played by Dashad Greene, as they set off on a quest to rescue the beautiful, albeit slightly temperamental, Princess Fiona, played by Erin Latta, from her tower guarded by a fire breathing, love-sick dragon. Add the diminutive Lord Farquaad, played by Kelton Schwamberger, and a gang of fairy tale misfits played by students from Amboy High School and Amboy Junior High School, and you've got a must-see musical comedy, "Shrek the Musical."

The set was designed and built by Sue and Brad Latta, Jeff Blake and Deb Cleary. Amy Wittenauer is creating costumes and turning Lucas Blake a hideous green. This performance is directed and choreographed by Amy Schwamberger and the music is under the direction of Travis Kemmerer. Tickets are on sale from 11 a.m. — 1 p.m., Monday through Friday, in the Amboy High School mall area, and also in the AHS office during school hours. Tickets will also be available at the door one hour prior to each performance.

Kinzinger announces 2019 Congressional Art Competition

WASHINGTON, D.C. —Congressman Adam Kinzinger (IL-16) announced the official start of the 2019 Congressional Art Competition and will now be accepting submissions from all high school students that live in the 16th Congressional District. With this announcement, Congressman Kinzinger released the following statement: "Every year, the Congressional Art Competition encourages and recognizes young artists in our community to share their creativity and showcase their talent. I'm always impressed with the artwork we receive, and look forward to seeing the skillful submissions that this year's competition will bring." Now in its 38th year, the U.S. House of Representatives offers talented young artists from across the country an opportunity to showcase their artistic abilities. The first place artwork will be displayed in a year-long exhibit spanning along the walls of the Cannon Tunnel, which leads to the U.S. Capitol Building. And the three runner-up pieces will be displayed in the Congressman's district offices. In addition to having their art displayed, the first place winner will be awarded two tickets to Washington, D.C. to attend the official art show opening and a subsequent reception hosted by the Congressional Institute. The submission deadline for the 38th Annual Congressional Art Competition is at 5 p.m., on Friday, May 3, in the Ottawa District Office. Again, all high school students living in the 16th Congressional District of Illinois are eligible and encouraged, to participate. For more information on the Congressional Art Competition, please see the attached flyer and if you have any additional questions, please call Congressman Kinzinger's Ottawa District Office at 815-431-9271.

CGH announces temporary visitor restrictions during influenza season

STERLING — Due to a rise in widespread influenza activity, not only in the community, but also in patients visiting our Emergency Department and outpatient clinics, CGH Medical Center is implementing temporary visitor restrictions effective immediately. While we realize these temporary steps may result in some inconvenience to family members and other visitors, the safety and well-being of our patients, visitors and staff is our highest priority. Until further notice, visitor restrictions include: Visitors will be limited to two adults per patient at any time. Limiting the number of visitors per patient will help control the spread of the illness. Since children are more likely to get sick and spread influenza, siblings and children under the age of 18 will only be permitted to visit patients in special cases with prior approval from the patients' healthcare team. Patients coming to the CGH ED or outpatient clinics with influenza symptoms will be asked to wear a mask. Wash your hands frequently. See FLU page A2

AMBOY - The Amboy Lions Club will host Dr. Kelly Klein, OD, as part of their Monday, March 11, meeting. The public is invited to join the club at 7:30 p.m. at the Amboy Community Center, 280 W. Dr. Kelly Klein

Demmer champions local government consolidation bill

SPRINGFIELD—State Representative Tom Demmer (R-Dixon) is championing legislation this year that would provide local elected officials and voters with a method for reducing taxes through consolidation of a township that is coterminous with a municipality. "With nearly 7,000 individual units of government in Illinois, we need to be looking for opportunities to consolidate where it makes financial sense," said Demmer. "In instances where a township is located either entirely or almost entirely within a municipality, elected officials and taxpayers should be able to decide if both units of government are necessary." HB2525 is identical to legislation Demmer sponsored in the 100th General Assembly that gained nearly unanimous support in the House, but stalled in the Senate. The legislation provides for two methods through which a township consolidation question would be submitted to voters:

- If a township board or municipal board adopts an ordinance to place the question on a ballot; or
- If a petition signed by 10 percent of the registered voters in a township is submitted to the township board or municipal board

Upon certification of the ordinance or petition, a proposition to discontinue and abolish the township would be put before voters in the next election. If successful, all rights, powers, duties, assets, property, liabilities, obligations, and responsibilities of the township would be transferred to the coterminous municipality. "The idea for this legislation was brought forward as part of the 2015 report by the Task Force on Local Government Consolidation and Unfunded Mandates," Demmer said. "It's common sense legislation that would provide local officials with the tools and resources necessary to provide tax relief to the people they serve." HB2525 is currently pending in the House Rules Committee.

Make sure you clean your hands when entering and leaving the patient's room by washing with soap and water or rubbing your hands together with hand sanitizer (located in every patient room).

Do not visit the hospital if you have symptoms of the flu. Signs of the flu include fever, cough, sneezing, runny nose or sore throat. The flu is easily and most often spread as a result of coughs or sneezes. A sneeze from one person with the flu can spread up to 20,000 flu germs into the air.

If you haven't already, get the flu vaccine. Getting the simple shot can help increase your chances of staying healthy and avoid getting others sick.

Together, we can prevent the spread of the flu in our hospital and our community this season. Thank you for your cooperation and support.

Wingshooting clinics are intended to provide instruction and improve the shooting skills of beginning shooting students as well as experienced hunters.

Youth/Women's Wing-shooting Clinics are designed to provide instruction on safely shooting a shotgun successfully at flying clay targets. Girls and boys ages 10-15, young adults ages 16-18, and women of all ages are eligible to participate. Each clinic starts with a morning shotgun safety presentation, followed by a short small group hands-on shotgun orientation session with each group's wingshooting instructor.

Hunter wingshooting clinics are hands-on and include extensive opportunities to shoot a variety of clay target presentations on sporting clays courses specifically designed for hunters. Hunter wingshooting clinics consist of two wingshooting sessions each day. A short briefing about shotgun safety and handling and on-range safety protocols occurs during the first 15 minutes of each 4-hour shooting session. The clinics are designed primarily to improve the wingshooting skills of hunters but are not limited only to hunters. The clinics are designed for shotgun shooters with reasonable experience. Young shooters ages 12 to 15 must be in at least the "Intermediate" skill level category to enroll in these clinics.

Young shooters 12 to 15 must also be accompanied by and shooting with an adult who is participating in the hunter clinic. Shotgun shooters 16 and older with beginning to advanced wing-shooting skills who want to improve their shotgun shooting skills are encouraged to attend. The hunter clinic fee ranges from $30 to $35 per participant.

Clinics are taught by instructors certified by the IDNR. To access the 2019 IDNR Wingshooting Opportunities Schedule and information on registering for clinics, check the IDNR website at <https://www.dnr.illinois.gov/recreation/wing-shooting/Pages/default.aspx>

Public Enemies

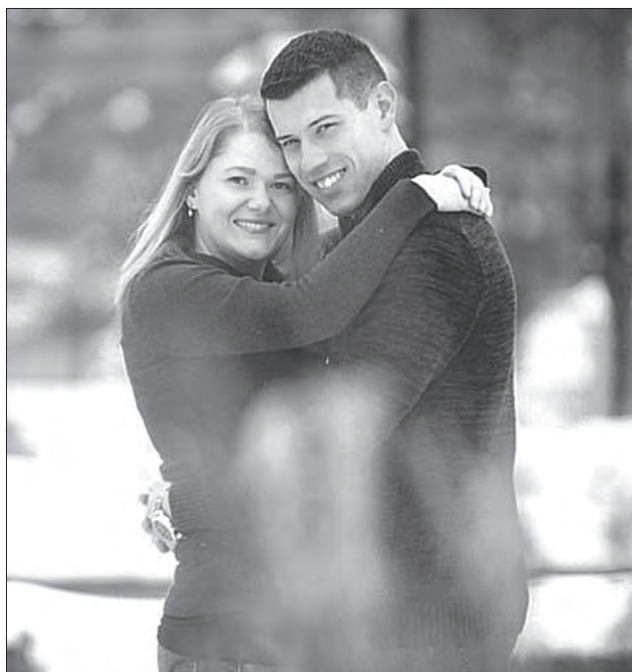

Elmore Leonard's novel, "The Hot Kid" is set in early 1930's Oklahoma, where, according to Leonard who lived there when he was a kid, "It was said that there were probably 20 bank robbers for every doctor in America then, and I was certainly aware of the desperadoes." Like most of Leonard's novels, "The Hot Kid" is based on two notions: "That in this country there is hardly anyone who won't sell his soul for a quick buck and that the consequences of such a transaction are invariably comic and disastrous."

"The Hot Kid" is a tale of outlaws robbing banks, hiding out in warehouses, and shooting down cops, of gun molls and Kansas City speakeasies where the waitresses work in their underwear or in nothing at all, and where a Harvey Girl waitress would "get recognized on the street like a movie star." Competition to become Public Enemy No. 1 is ferocious. Famous desperadoes like "Pretty Boy" Floyd once took his family to town to watch him rob a bank.

At the center of this mayhem is Deputy US Marshal Carl (Carlos) Webster, who at 15 encounters the famous robber Emmett Long in Deering's drugstore in Okmulgee, Oklahoma. Long steals the boy's peach ice cream cone and cold-bloodedly shoots down a policeman entering the drugstore. Shortly thereafter, the boy shoots and kills a thief making off with one of his father's Brahman cows. His father Virgil is amazed: "This boy has a hard bark on him."

Seven years later, Carl, already a rising star in the U.S. Marshall Service, confronts Emmett Long at the home of Emmett's girlfriend, Crystal Davidson, and it's to Emmett that he first issues his trademark line: "If I have to pull my weapon I'll shoot to kill." Tony Antonelli, an aspiring hack who writes for "True Detective" magazine, chronicles in suitable purple prose the crucial moments of the story, as part of "the mythmaking process that turned commonplace crooks into figures of folklore," according to critic Janet Maslin.

Carl's nemesis is Jack Belmont, a truly vile individual. The son of an oil magnate, Jack's road to perdition begins early on when he stands by and watches his little sister drown in the swimming pool. She is revived, but severely brain-damaged. Jack aspires to be the next Public Enemy No. 1, but he is so utterly inept that when he mows down scores of Klansmen, he hardly gets credit. It is the inexorable confrontation of the tall, handsome lawman with his trademark Panama hat and the delusional monster that drives the plot to its rather unexpected conclusion. However, Toni Antonelli decides it needs a bit of tarring up, that his own version "would need dramatic effects, a certain tone and a strong sense of place."

THE PASTOR'S PEN

With God's Help

PASTOR JOHN KALEBAUGH

The Lenten Season, which begins on Ash Wednesday and culminates on Easter Sunday, is a good time for Christians to do some prayerful self-analysis. God has always declared His people "holy" and has required them to be holy. I Peter 1:15 "But as He who called you is holy, you also be holy in all your conduct." The subject of "holiness" can seem a little confusing at times because so many people have their own ideas and opinions of what holiness actually is and means. Even the thought of trying to live a holy life can seem overwhelming. I read a definition for "Holy" in a Bible Dictionary that seems to be a good and workable definition.

It said, "Consecrated or set apart for sacred use, standing apart from sin and evil." In other words, God's people are to be set apart "for" certain things and "from" other things. We should seek to live good and godly lives with God's help, while at the same time strive to resist that which is evil and ungodly.

The key phrase here is, "with God's help." We cannot live a good and holy life apart from God, but numerous Scriptures support the notion that God can and will help us live godly lives if we yield to the work of His Spirit. Philippians 2:13 "For God is working in you, giving you the desire to obey Him and the power to do what pleases Him." It encourages me to know that God himself desires to help me live a godly and holy life for Him. None of us is perfect, of course. We all fail, make mistakes, and sin. But this should not stop us from striving to be the very best that we can be for Him. His forgiveness and grace are available for us if we are sincerely repentant.

While the thought of "being holy" seems like an insurmountable task, one thing I have found helpful is focusing on one occasion or moment at a time. Matthew Kelly says, "a moment when you open yourself to God. You make yourself available to Him. You set aside what you feel like doing in that moment... and for one moment you simply do what you prayerfully believe God is calling you to do in that moment. That is a Holy Moment." And when we add these "Holy Moments" together we begin to see a good and godly pattern develop in our lives which, in turn, becomes a lifestyle.

I encourage you in this Lenten season, to set yourself apart for the Lord in a fresh new way.

Responding to a predator in their midst

Michael Leathers is a good man who did something.

And it cost him his job. Back in 2002, he was the editor of Illinois Baptist, a newspaper covering Southern Baptist congregations across the Land of Lincoln.

When he learned that a pastor, Leslie Mason, was criminally charged with sexually abusing girls in Olney, Ill., he reported it. One of the girls apparently was only 13 years old.

Instead of receiving praise for informing Baptists about a potential predator in their midst, he found himself in a room with a lawyer and his boss Glenn Akins, who then ran the Illinois Baptist State Association.

They wanted him gone.

According to Leathers, Akins offered a peculiar complaint about the story: that writing about one pastor who committed sex crimes was unfair because that “ignores many others who have done the same thing.”

In my 30 years in journalism, I’ve encountered some

Guest Column

By Scott Reeder

I’m an Evangelical Christian and Southern Baptists are the largest Evangelical denomination in the United States.

Of course, the problem of pastors, coaches, teachers, pretty dumb arguments for why a particular story shouldn’t have run. But I have to say, the reason Akins gave Leathers may be the dumbest.

By the way, I reached out to Akins—he didn’t get back to me.

Leathers’ sacrifice for truth was cited in a powerful investigation by The Houston Chronicle and The San Antonio Express-News that found that the Southern Baptist Convention repeatedly tolerated sexual assaults by clergymen and church volunteers. The investigation found 380 credible cases of church leaders and volunteers engaging in sexual misconduct over the past several decades.

The series chronicled how the victims of abuse sometimes are shunned by churches, urged to not report abusers or advised to get abortions.

The investigation hit home with me because physicians, scoutmasters and others abusing their positions of trust to harm children is not a new one.

And yet, when it occurs it often is confronted with silence.

Southern Baptist leaders are hardly unique in how they responded to predators in their midst.

“I think there is a tendency for people in leadership to want to protect the institution by covering things up,” Leathers told me. “The interesting thing is that when I wrote the story, I got plenty of positive feedback from lay people in various congregations. They get it. It was people in positions of authority who had problems with me writing the story.”

Leslie Mason, the pastor Leathers wrote about was sentenced to seven years in prison. He’s now out of prison and again working as a minister in Illinois.

Yes, you read that right.

Glenn Akins, the boss who gave Leathers the boot, is now assistant executive director of the Baptist General Association of Virginia.

And Leathers? His newspaper career ended when he lost the job. For the past 15 years he’s been in public relations.

Illinois facing jobs’ crisis with latest policy initiatives

With no warning, an Illinois community learned this week it is losing almost 1,400 jobs.

Is the decision by Fiat Chrysler to lay off 1,371 workers at its plant in Belvidere in north-central Illinois the result of hurtful policy positions by freshman Gov. J.B. Pritzker and Democratic supermajorities in the General Assembly?

The company isn’t saying that, but the automaker simultaneously announced it is investing $4.5 billion at its Michigan-based plants and creating 4,500 new jobs there.

Illinois’ loss is Michigan’s gain.

And that should make anyone with an interest in the future of Illinois’ economic health to take pause.

For decades, Illinois state government promoted policy positions that created a poor business and jobs climate here. That’s no secret.

The state has the second highest property taxes in the country; the highest workers compensation costs in the Midwest in part because of the state’s abusive legal climate, labeled a judicial hellhole; and a burdensome regulatory climate that hinders small-business growth.

As a result, Illinois’ economic outlook lags behind other states despite the booming national economy.

“Although the economy has strengthened compared with the previous few years, Illinois still trails the rest of the country in most gauges of economic performance,” Moody’s Analytics says in its latest State of Illinois Forecast Report, released this month. “Employment is increasing more slowly than the Midwest and U.S. averages, the labor force is near its lowest point in more than 10 years, and weaker consumer demand than in other states is weighing on population-dependent industries such as retail, leisure/hospitality and real estate.”

Illinois’ jobs climate is bad. It could be getting worse.

This month, Pritzker signed legislation that will raise the state’s minimum wage incrementally to $15 an hour by 2025, despite warnings from downstate business owners that it will result in widespread job cuts.

Since then, the owner of Hopper’s Poppers in Sycamore said he was closing his popcorn store and looking to relocate out of state because he can’t afford the new expense. And the owners of a seasonal business in Wood River decided it also had to shut down and lay off six employees for the same reason.

These are just two small examples in two different regions of the state, but they appear to be omens of things to come.

What happens if Pritzker is successful in having the state’s constitution changed to allow for a progressive income tax? The state’s flat income tax of 4.95 percent is the one advantage it has over its neighbors. A progressive tax will mean higher tax rates for higher wage earners, resulting in tax hikes for middle class families and small businesses.

“Gov. Pritzker’s progressive tax is really a jobs tax,” state Rep. David McSweeney, R-Barrington Hills, said. “Small businesses create 80 percent of the jobs in the state. ... Any basic economy theory is going to say that more taxes and more regulations are going to kill jobs. ... I’m really concerned with the direction we’re heading in.”

Fiat Chrysler’s decision was at least months in the making and not a knee-jerk reaction to anything that happened since Pritzker took office. But the governor has been talking about a $15 minimum wage and progressive tax for well over a year. He ran on the initiative, and made no secret of his intention to force businesses to increase wages.

Prosperous business owners today want to remain prosperous business owners a few years from now. Business owners believe their companies will be ongoing concerns, and make the adjustments necessary to stay ahead of known expense drivers. They pay attention and plan accordingly.

Decision-makers in Springfield need to start paying attention as well.

SOMETHING TO SAY?

The Amboy News encourages responsible letters to the editor on subjects of interest to our readers. Editing may be necessary for space, clarity or to avoid obscenity or libel, but ideas will not be altered.

The limit is 300 words. Letters exceeding this will either be edited to fit or not published. The deadline for letters is noon on Friday.

Letter writers may only have two letters published per month, and the letters will be published on non-consecutive weeks. Letters are printed on a space-available basis.

All letters must bear the handwritten signature of the writer and include address and phone number or e-mail address for verification purposes. Neither the street address nor phone number will be printed. Letters should be typed or legibly handwritten, and no anonymous letters will be published.

Any comments of public officials should be limited to issues related strictly to their position or actions made in office, as personal attacks will not be published. Letters involving private disputes between the writer and a business or individual will not be published.

Political endorsements will be published, however letters from candidates endorsing themselves will not be printed.

Letters may be dropped at the Amboy News office, 245 E. Main Street, mailed to the Amboy News at PO Box 162, Amboy, IL 61310, or emailed to tgreenfield@amboynews.com

The Amboy News reserves the right to edit or reject any letter to the editor for any reason, and letters chosen for publication do not necessarily reflect the views of this newspaper, its management and or ownership.

DODGE BALL TOURNAMENT
There will be a Dodge Ball Tournament at 6 p.m., on Friday, March 15, at the Amboy Junior High. Permission forms and money are due by Wednesday, March 13. Students from other schools may play but they must have signed insurance waivers. Junior High students will play against Junior High students. High School students will play against High School students.

Chaperones are needed so call 815-857-4800 or 815-440-8195 to help out.

FISH FRY
Our annual Fish Fry will be on Friday, March 22, at Teen Turf, 235 West Main Street, Amboy. There will be fish, fries, coleslaw, dessert

DONATIONS
We appreciate all donations but please call 815-440-8195 before dropping things off. When things are left out in the weather things get ruined.

CHAIR AEROBICS
A great group gets together at 10 a.m., every Tuesday and Thursday morning. The goal is to keep moving and healthy. There is no charge but a donation box is set out and the money goes toward the utility bills.

The philosophy is pay or pray. If you can't afford to put some money in the box just say a prayer. Prayers are what have kept Teen Turf going all these years.

TAX FREE DONATIONS
There is an account set up at First Federal Savings and Loan, First National Bank of Amboy, and Pioneer State Bank (former Farmers State Bank of Sublette) if you would like to donate to our programs. All donations are tax deductible as we are a 501(c)3.

Teen Turf has been in existence for over 20 years. Since we do not receive any state or federal money we survive on the generosity of the community. United Way has been a huge supporter for 15 years. If you are able to help us out please send your donations to Teen Turf P.O. Box 321 Amboy, Illinois 61310.

RECYCLED CANS
Yes, we are still recycling cans. Just put your bags behind the fence on the red trailer. The white wire rack is for plastic and paper recycle items. Be sure that all the RECYCLE materials are tied and secured in bags or boxes. High Fives to everyone that donates cans and to Leroy Dukes for elevating them.

It helps our environment and our van upkeep. If you have cans that need to be picked up just call 815-857-4800.

SCHOOL SUPPLIES
If you are in need of a book bag or school supplies throughout the year please call 815-857-4800 and leave your name and number.

LOST & FOUND
Please call 815-857-4800 if you are missing any of the many coats, hats, and gloves that have been left at Teen Turf.

BOARD MEMBERS
Teen Turf is in need of two new board members. If you want to help make a difference in the lives of the youth of our community please call or stop and talk to us. Our current board members are Deb Albee, Kim Watley, Cindy Phillips, Scott and Janine Huffman, Kaylee Jones, and Mark Grossman. Please do not drop off TV's - We cannot recycle them.
