

“I am renewing my call for Illinoisans to take appropriate steps to end the practice of gerrymandering by signing the petition available through my web site tomdemmer.org,” Demmer said. “People need to let lawmakers know that voters should choose their Representatives rather than allowing Representatives to choose their voters.”

University of Illinois Extension offering workshop and meeting

STERLING—University of Illinois Extension is offering the following activities.

Animal Mortality Composting Workshop – Aug. 6 – Jordan Township Building, Sterling

University of Illinois Extension is offering a unique workshop for livestock producers who use or are considering mortality composting.

“This workshop gives livestock producers the opportunity to visit a demonstration composting site and talk with a variety of experts on mortality composting,” said Nesli Akdeniz, a clinical assistant professor with the Department of Agriculture and Biological Engineering at Illinois and a member of the Illinois Extension Livestock Facilities and Manure Management team.

The morning session will include several presentations on different aspects of mortality composting, including new technologies available to help producers. The afternoon session will include a session on mortality management in the event of a major livestock disease outbreak, or significant animal loss due to natural disaster. Following the presentations, the group will move to an active composting site for discussions and demonstrations. Topics will include moisture control, selection and mixing of a carbon source, and measuring temperature in the compost.

“We will conclude the day by turning a compost pile that has already gone through a full heat cycle so that producers can see when they should turn a pile and what it should look like,” according to Stanley Solomon, U of I Extension educator.

This workshop will be held from 9:30 a.m. – 3 p.m., Aug. 5, the fee for the program is $25 for the first registrant and $10 for any additional persons from the same farm. Registration includes lunch. Please register by July 31 at go.illinois.edu/ or by calling Mary Nelson at 815-632-3611.

Industrial Hemp Meeting Aug. 26, 9 a.m. – noon, Rock Falls Community Building

The signing of the Illinois hemp bill has provided opportunities for the cultivation, distribution and processing of hemp for fiber, grain and CBD. This versatile cash crop has the potential to empower small farmers and revitalize the farming communities. Join Phillip Alberti, Extension Commercial Educator on Monday, Aug. 26 for an Intro the Basics and Update on the Industrial Hemp Process. Topics will include; Types of Hemp, Production Systems, Licensing rules and regulations, Value added product and an Update on Hemp in Illinois. The meeting will be held at the Rock Falls Community Building at 601 W. 10th Street from 9 a.m. – noon. There is a $10. fee. Register by Aug. 23 at go.illinois.edu/CLV. For more information, call Mary Nelson at 815-632-3611.

Illinois State Museum Society hosting two day trips on Illinois history

SPRINGFIELD—The Illinois State Museum Society today announced two upcoming day trips that invite participants to explore the history and culture of Illinois by motorcoach.

The first trip on Aug. 10 will feature a visit to the Illinois State Museum (ISM) Lockport Gallery on the banks of the historic I&M Canal in Lockport. Curator John Lustig will give a tour of the current exhibition Rocked and Rolled, which playfully features music-inspired artwork by Illinois artists, and rocks, fossils, and minerals from ISM’s geology collection.

From Lockport, participants will travel to the Old Joliet Prison in Joliet for a 90-minute walking tour. Illinois’ second state prison was in operation from 1858 until 2002 and is historically significant for its architecture, fascinating inmates and the many film and television references, including “The Blues Brothers.” Recently, some parts of the prison were opened for tours that recount the often notorious history associated with the institution.

The cost of the Lockport/Joliet trip is $129 for Society members and $149 for non-members and covers travel, lunch, admission to all facilities, and educational presentations by museum staff and volunteers. Additional information and registration can be found at bit.ly/ismtripaug2019.

The second trip will take place Sept. 14 and will focus on the history of African Americans in the Midwest. The first stop will be New Philadelphia in west central Illinois, the site of the first town platted and registered by an African American. Dr. Terrance Martin, ISM Emeritus Curator of Anthropology, and Claire Martin, ISM Research Associate in Anthropology will host the trip and tell of their experiences participating in the New Philadelphia Archaeological Project, an eight-year study of the site and its founder Free Frank McWorter. Participants will enjoy commentary from members of the New Philadelphia Association and an augmented reality tour of the site.

The group will then travel to Hannibal, Mo., to the Huck Finn Freedom Center, which is dedicated to interpreting the history of segregation, integration, the Jim Crow era, and the Civil Rights movement in Hannibal. The special exhibit Jim’s Journey tells the story of Daniel Quarles, the man who is believed to have been Mark Twain’s inspiration for the character Jim in The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn. Executive Director Faye Dant will introduce the center and talk about its mission. Participants also will have time to explore Hannibal on their own.

The cost of the New Philadelphia/Hannibal trip is $114 for Society members and $129 for non-members and includes travel, lunch, admission to two sites, and educational presentations. Additional information and registration can be found at bit.ly/ismtripsep2019.

White’s office does share information if the subject of a federal agency’s investigation is a potential terrorist or stands accused of a violent crime, Druker said. Legal status, though, is not “an acceptable consideration.”

To comply with a subpoena, the secretary of state’s office conducts a search through its database for the specific person a law enforcement entity is investigating. The office does not grant complete access to its collection of driver’s license photographs, Druker said.

White’s position on this resulted from promises made to “the immigrant community” when the General Assembly was working on the temporary visitor’s driver’s license bill in late 2012 and early 2013, Druker said.

The program was an initiative of Senate President John Cullerton, a Democrat from Chicago, who said at the time it was a highway safety measure — meant to encourage “undocumented immigrants” who may have already been driving a vehicle to apply for a temporary visitor’s license. It requires those who lived in Illinois for at least one year, are not qualified for a Social Security number and do not have documentation from the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services to pass a vision test and a driving test and have proof of car insurance to qualify for a three-year license.

The license is specially marked and cannot be used to board an airplane, purchase a firearm or vote.

Convoy Against Cancer Big Truck Show set

LADD — The 16th annual “Convoy Against Cancer” BIG Truck Show returns to Rte. 89/Main Street in Ladd, on Saturday, July 20, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The show is intended to offer vehicle owners and enthusiasts something different while benefiting a good cause—the American Cancer Society Relay For Life.

There will be all makes and models of new and restored, BIG trucks including truck cranes, fire trucks, wreckers, and big trucks from all over the North Central Illinois area. Pickups and farm tractors—new and antique—are also part of the show.

All entrants will receive a dash plaque donated by Graphic Electronics of Spring Valley. The truck registration fee is a donation to the American Cancer Society.

In addition to lots of chrome and stacks, there will be entertainment for the whole family with music by D. J. Gary Swanson, door prizes, a 50/50 drawing, food, a Relay For Life Team bake sale, and event T-shirts will be for sale. Local businesses have donated door prizes items ranging from toys to motor oil. Admission to the show is free to the public.

Show organizer, Phil Hocking, is grateful to many local businesses and individuals who have supported the Convoy Against Cancer BIG Truck Show over that past sixteen years. He says, “We’ve gotten to know a lot of people who’ve come out every year with their trucks and entries. So many are here in memory or in honor of a loved one effected by cancer. In a way, it’s like a homecoming every year. We laugh and cry and support each other. Everyone is welcome to come out and spend some time, check out the great vehicles and help this cause.”

For entry and general information call 815-488-8245, 815-894-2092, or hocking4@comcast.net. All proceeds benefit the American Cancer Society Relay For Life.

Hocking estimates roughly $62,000 has been raised since the first show in 2003. He’s hoping that the weather will cooperate to help bring out young and old to this year’s truck show. “Every dollar raised at the show will bring us a little closer to a cure for cancer.”

The American Cancer Society is dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by saving lives, diminishing suffering and preventing cancer through research, education, advocacy and service.

For the most up-to-date cancer related information and to join the fight against cancer, call 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

Crop reporting deadline reminders

AMBOY — The Lee County Farm Service Agency (FSA) in Amboy is reminding farmers the deadline for crop acreage certification and reporting for 2019 spring seeded crops. Please contact the office and make an appointment to file your acreage report before the new extended deadline of Monday, July 22.

Acreage reports are required for program eligibility and mandatory for producers who participate in the FSA programs such as the new Price Loss Coverage Program (PLC) and the Agricultural Risk Coverage Program (ARC), Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), Market Assist or Commodity Loans (MAL), Loan Deficiency Payments (LDP), Farm Storage Facility Loan Program (FSFL), Non-insured Assistance Program (NAP), Livestock Forage Program (LFP), Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP), Market Facilitation Program (MFP), and a few other programs offered by the Farm Service Agency.

The new extended deadline to report spring-seeded crops is July 22, for Corn, Grain Sorghum, Green Peas, Hybrid Seed Corn, Spring Oats, Popcorn, Processing Beans, Pumpkins, Soybeans, Sweet Corn, Perennial Forage and Hay, and all other spring seeded crops.

The acreage reporting deadline for the fall-seeded 2020 (crop year) crops is Dec. 16, 2019 for Fall Wheat, Fall Barley and all other Fall-Seeded Small Grains.

Once the final reporting deadline passes, producers will be charged a late filing fee of $46 per farm in order to file a crop report. Acreage reports may be revised at any time without a late filing charge as long as the revision can be filed before the final reporting date. After that date, a filing fee of $46 per farm will be assessed and require a field visit to confirm the changes.

The Lee County FSA Office has established the following hours for producers to come in and file an acreage report; 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., Monday through Friday and is located at 319 South Mason Ave, Amboy.

THE PASTOR'S PEN

To pray always and not lose heart

BY PASTOR JACK M. BRIGGS

One day, a city slicker drove his car into a ditch way out in the countryside. Luckily, a local farmer came to help with his big, strong horse named Buddy. He hitched Buddy up to the car and yelled, "Pull, Nellie, pull!" Buddy didn't move. Then the farmer hollered, "Pull, Buster, pull!" Buddy didn't respond. Once more the farmer commanded, "Pull, Coco, pull!" Nothing. Then the farmer nonchalantly said, "Pull, Buddy, pull!" And the horse easily dragged the car out of the ditch. The motorist was very grateful also curious. He asked the farmer why he called his horse by the wrong name three times. The farmer said, "Oh, Buddy is blind, and if he thought he was the only one pulling, he wouldn't even try!"

From the story of the tortoise and the hare ("plodding wins the race") to the little engine that could ("I think I can, I think I can"), perseverance is an admirable trait. The likely failure rate for those who do not try is exactly 100 percent. On the other hand, those who try and try and try again generally succeed because they don't...give...up. That is the value of perseverance.

At first, Jesus' parable of the widow and the judge (Luke 18:1-8) seems to describe an individual who wouldn't give up until she got what she wanted from an uncaring and unjust judge, who finally granted her request basically so she would quit bugging him. The lesson seems clear: persevere and you will be blessed. Right?

Or is the true meaning something completely different because of a Gracious God who freely gives his people what they need? Because even while we were alienated from Jesus, even while we were sinners, Jesus went to the cross for us. So, it's not about what we do, but what was done for us. It is said that grace is getting what you don't deserve, and mercy is not getting what you do deserve.

When we give ourselves credit, it diminishes the notion that God is loving and giving and reduces the Good News to a merely the works we do. With that in mind, reflect on familiar verses in Ephesians 2:8-9 that remind us "...by grace you have been saved through faith, and that is not your own doing, it is a gift of God."

Yes, persistence and commitment and hard work have value, but that is not the Good News we celebrate. I believe the reason Jesus told this story is revealed in the words with which the story opens: "Then Jesus told them a story about their need to pray always and not to lose heart" and with which it closes: "...and yet when the Son of Man comes, will he find faith on earth?"

Answers to our prayers are a matter of timing, God's timing not ours – that God should act when and how we want God to act according to our timetable and desire. The problem is that our vision is limited in that that we cannot see the ends from the beginning and are not privy to God's Master Plan for our lives.

Pray always and not lose heart. It means praying that thy will, not my will, be done, and continuing to trust God to act in God's way in God's time. It means refusing to give in to appearances that we are alone, that God does not hear, and that injustice and evil are prevailing. But faith goes on praying, with the willingness to live by what we cannot see but believe to be real, rather than by what we can see, and what the world tells us is real.

Do we trust God? Do we believe? Do we pray always and not lose heart? Or do we see this world as all there really is, and only go to God when we can't do anything else, only to give up when God doesn't seem to making things happen as we think they should.

When the Son of Man comes, will he find faith on earth? Or will he find a bunch of folks moping around who have given up and lost heart?

Thanks be to God, day by day.

Former Amboy resident publishes book

AMBOY — Former Amboy resident Marianne Ball has recently published a book called "It's Not Me: It's Jesus."

Ball lived in Amboy for nine and a half years, and managed Rainbow & Roses, at 35 N. Mason Ave. for her friends, Christine and George Filip. She has been a professional artist for 32 years, taught for about nine and has painted more than 5,000 paintings in oils, watercolor and on porcelain. Ball now resides in Janesville, Wis.

Included in her book are testimonies about a couple of people who live in Amboy.

According to her website, a prophecy was given to Ball on Oct. 6, 1998 at "His Church" in Daytona Beach, Fla., where her cousin Bunny attended.

"Daughter, I'm going to bring you to a place that I have called you." The Lord says, "I've given you creative gifting, and they're not just for the people, they're not just for fun, not just for something to do. That creative gifting is part of my personality, and I've given that to you, daughter, to glorify Me." The Lord says, "You've done that, but there's even a greater ministry I have for you in the arts. The Lord says, "There will be an anointing on it, and they will feel the presence of the Lord."

Eight years later, God started giving Ball prophetic visions to paint. Everything is in His timing. And the Lord answered me, and said, "Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it," Habakkuk 2:2

In this book, Ball shares visions and how God has spoken to her in many ways, like the many facets of a diamond.

The book is available at Amazon, Barnes & Noble, Xulon Press and local bookstores.

The new woman

There are some very good historical novels, but no matter how sincere the imitation, they inevitably fall short of a certain authenticity which only a novel of the period can achieve. The French writer Colette is a superb stylist who can bring to life the backstage sounds and smells of a Parisian music hall and with equal facility describe the beauty of the French countryside as seen from a moving train – "pink apple trees which cast a blue shadow." Her justly famous novel "The Vagabond" from 1910 is as fresh now as it was a hundred years ago.

In "The Vagabond" we enter the life – ideas, misgivings, obsessions – of Renee Nere, a dancer and mime at a Paris music hall who at 34 is on the downward slope of her career. Divorced from a disgusting philanderer three years before, Renee has managed to regain her identity, and despite an unforgiving solitude and the insecurities of a veil dancer, prides herself on her independence. Still, when Maxime, a wealthy playboy with the "slightly clumsy air of a wood-cutter on his best behavior," pursues her, she eventually allows herself to fall for him, but not too intimately, too deeply. Maxime offers her social respectability, a chance once again to enter polite society.

When she has a chance to go on tour with the sardonic impresario Brague, her mentor, Renee is faced with a choice between Maxime's offer of marriage and the freedom of life on the road. "I shall have everything and I shall lean over the edge of a white terrace smothered with the roses of my gardens and shall see the lords of the earth, the wanderers, pass by!" She takes off.

The third and final part of this short novel is predominantly the exchange of letters between Renee as she treks from town to town and the forlorn Maxime. After laying plans with Brague for a projected South American tour, she returns alone to Paris. In the cold night she stands on a deserted station platform where "a cracked bell tinkles timidly in the shadows, as though it were hanging from the neck of a paralyzed dog," and she recalls her moments with Maxime: "It is as if I were wounded, and I had received a fresh blow on the wound. Yet I do it purposely. It will hurt less by and by."

Experiences that shape our world view

When I first heard that folks were protesting in front of a Lutheran Church, I couldn't help but wonder about what transgression they were protesting. Did someone come to a potluck without a covered dish? Serve grape Kool Aid instead of sacramental wine? Leave lutefisk in the refrigerator too long? Since when do Lutherans upset anyone? Well, it seems that Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Oak Park has committed heresy. We're not talking the kind of heresy that would have once gotten a person burned at the stake or fed to the lions. No, it's the sort of blasphemy that results in a 10-foot rat being inflated in front of your house of worship. The orthodoxy of organized labor has been offended.

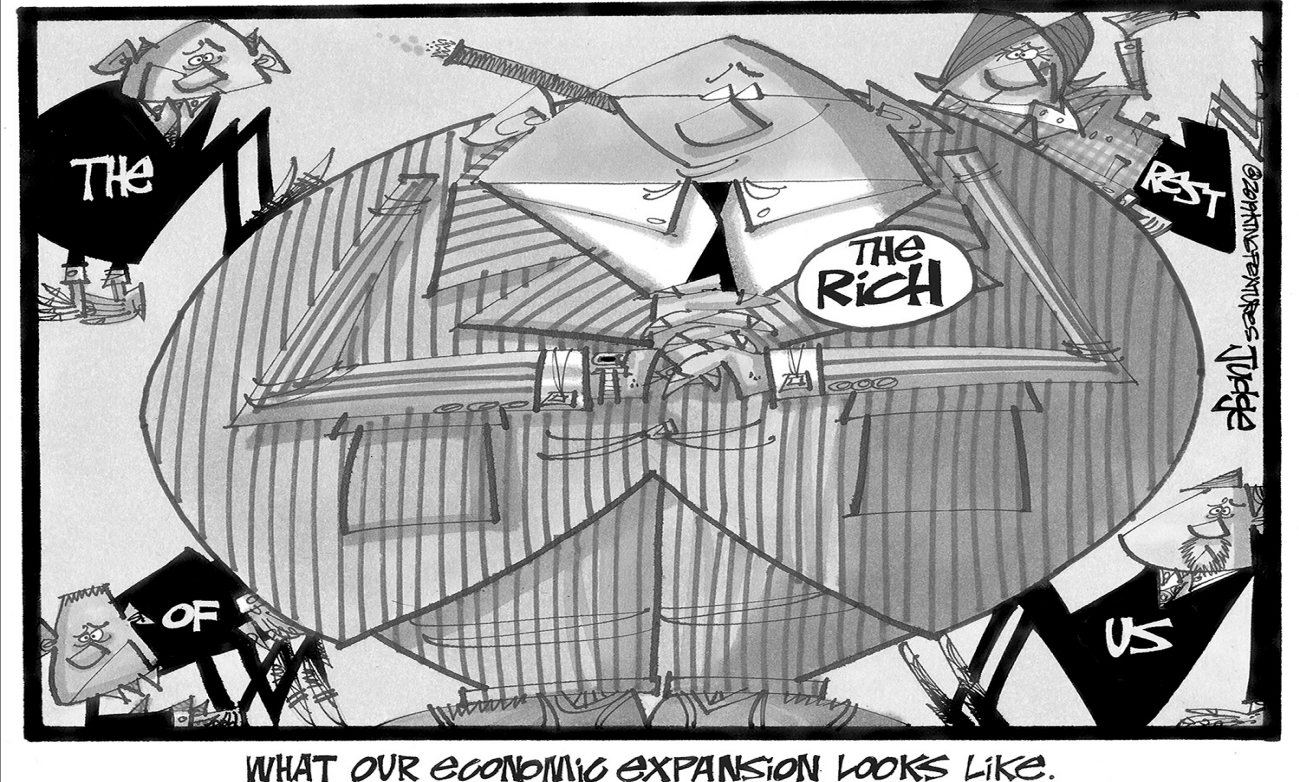

According to Oak Park's Wednesday Journal, last September, the church building was gutted by fire and it is now being rebuilt. Good Shepherd Pastor Rev. Kathy Nolte told the Journal the congregation proactively chose union labor for the $3 million rehab, but discovered only recently that they would have to remove asbestos before embarking on the project.

Guest Column
By Scott Reeder

Nolte said the rehab of the church was supposed to begin July 1, giving the church organizers little time to find a union company to remove the asbestos. She checked with her insurance company and other churches for recommendations and ultimately chose a non-union company out of necessity. The rat was inflated in front of the church by Laborers' International Union of North America Local 225, because $20,000, or 0.66 percent, of the $3 million project is going to non-union labor. The First Amendment that gives the folks at Good Shepherd the right to worship also gives the union the right to protest. No one is arguing that. But is this the smartest public-relations strategy on the part of the union? One can't help but wonder if instead of inflating a giant rat in a church's front yard, if a smarter strategy might have been to drop by and talk to the congregation's leaders about your concerns. After all, the church wanted to use union labor. I called Anthony Cantone, the president of the union, to hear his side of the story. But he didn't call me back.

While this is the first I've heard of a union picketing a place of worship, it is not the first time I've seen them behaving in such a way. When I was 10, my family's small business was picketed by a union. This happened despite my dad and his two partners hiring a union carpenter to put a second story on their veterinary clinic. It seems the carpenters were carrying their own boards. So, the laborers' union picketed because they thought they should have been carrying them. Being a rather nosy child, I walked out in front of the clinic and asked the fellow picketing why he was there. He said, "Unfair labor practices, Kid." I asked what was unfair? The fella wouldn't make eye contact but did tell me to call the union hall. I couldn't help but wonder if he knew why he was picketing. After all, orthodoxies often require blind obedience. We all have experiences that shape our world view. That was one for me. My social studies teacher, Betty Pitman, would extoll the virtues of unions. But it occurred to me that day that maybe I wasn't hearing the whole story at school. One can't help but wonder if similar epiphanies occurred to congregants at Good Shepherd Lutheran as they watched the giant rat rise in the shadow of their steeple. At least he is not contemplating doing this immediately although he could use the room very nicely.

There were eight applications for the position and after careful consideration the board selected Ernest Bridgman. S/Sgt Larry Morrissey left Sunday from O'Hare Field for Seattle, Wash., where he spent two days with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Hawks, and "Chip" before leaving for Bien Hoa Air Force Base in Vietnam, where he was stationed before being granted a 30-day leave to come home to assist in the farming at the home of his brother, John (Tiny) Morrissey who was injured in a tractor accident. Sue Gilbert ordered her classified advertisement cancelled after a single insertion last week. She sold her bicycle quickly and reports that she had six calls for it.
