Students to pitch businesses plans

OREGON – Ever wondered what it would be like to start your own business?

Oregon High School juniors in the Social Entrepreneurship program are doing just that – and the community is invited to come hear their ideas. On Wednesday, Dec. 18, from 7-9 p.m., 12 student enterprises will pitch their business plans and prototypes in an interactive Open House at the Conover Square Community Workspace on Franklin Street.

As a part of the course, each business idea must be based in solving a social or environmental problem. Whether you are a business owner, a community member, or if you've ever wanted to start a business of your own, it's a great opportunity to be inspired by local innovation and initiative.

Students will be seeking feedback on their ideas as well as small-dollar investments to fund their secondsemester startups.

Last year, Social Entrepreneurship startups ranged from power-sports, to apparel, to handcrafted wood work, and two student teams took home 1st and 2nd place prizes at the NIU Pitch With A Cause competition in April. This year, you can expect to see a wide variety of ideas and prototypes, and you may even see the next great startup.

This is a free event.

The Ogle County Solid Waste Management Department (OCSWMD) will once again partner with units of local government and certain high school Future Farmers of America (FFA) chapters to conduct the annual Christmas tree collection and recycling program.

Since the program began in 1999, there have been over 15,000 trees collected, with trees averaging around 50 pounds each, that equates to approximately 375 tons of trees which were all turned into usable mulch.

Starting on Dec. 26, the cities and villages that will have drop-off points include:

Oregon: Park District Maintenance Dept., 507

Byron: Byron boat launch lot, E. Blackhawk Dr. (Rt. 2) Forreston: 407 N. Locust St

Leaf River: 605 Main St. Rochelle: Atwood Park, 10th Ave. & 20th St.

Monroe Center: Lichty's Landscaping, 309 Pacific St. Polo: Southwest corner of E. Colden St. & S. Green Ave.

On Saturday, Jan. 11, 2020, local FFA chapters will provide curbside pickup for trees. Remove all decorations, lights, plastic bags, and place your tree at your curb by 8 a.m. This pick-up service will be offered in Byron, Forreston, Leaf River, Mount Morris, Oregon, and Polo. For Rochelle residents, the Rochelle Street Department will mulch trees at the curb during the first two weeks of January, weather permitting.

All trees should be free of light strands, garland, and other decorations, no wreaths or other designs with wire backings, no artificial trees.

If you have any questions regarding this program, including specific drop-off points for trees or the FFA collection service, please contact the OCSWMD at 815-732-4020, visit the Ogle County Solid Waste Management Dept. on Facebook, or go to the county website: oglecounty.org.

MOMENTS IN TIME

- * On Dec. 28, 1793, British-born American revolutionary Thomas Paine, author of "Common Sense," is arrested in France for treason, having been tried in absentia and convicted. Paine was imprisoned in a former palace, where he had a large room with windows and catered meals.
- * On Dec. 24, 1851, a fire sweeps through the Library of Congress and destroys two-thirds of Thomas Jefferson's personal literary collection. Jefferson had sold his personal library of 6,487 books to Congress after the British burned the Congressional library in 1814.
- * On Dec. 23, 1888, Dutch painter Vincent van Gogh, suffering from severe depression, cuts off the lower part of his left ear with a razor. He later documented the event in a painting titled "Self-Portrait with Bandaged Ear.'
- * On Dec. 27, 1900, prohibitionist Carry Nation smashes up a bar in Wichita, Kansas, causing extensive damage and landing in jail. Nation became famous for carrying a hatchet and wrecking saloons, and sold souvenir hatchets to help fund her anti-alcohol activities.
- * On Dec. 29, 1915, the French National Assembly passes a law formally ceding the land that holds the British war cemeteries to Great Britain, ensuring that its saddest and most sacred monuments would be forever protected.
- * On Dec. 26, 1946, infamous gangster Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel opens his Flamingo Hotel in Las Vegas. The grand opening was a flop, however, and the casino lost $300,000 in the first week. The hotel was named after Siegel's girlfriend, whose nickname was "The Flamingo" because of her red hair and long legs.
- * On Dec. 25, 1962, "To Kill a Mockingbird," a film based on the novel by Harper Lee, opens in theaters. The Great Depression-era story of racial injustice and the loss of childhood innocence is told from the perspective of a young Alabama girl named Scout Finch.

We need a lot less of this campaign malarkey

Oh, Joe. What are you doing?

Joe, Joe, Joe.

Joe Biden is running for president, in case you haven't heard. And he's been trying to make sure people don't focus on the fact that he's 77 years old. I noticed, of course. As I have written before in this space, I believe we need younger, more vital and energetic people in the highest office.

So as far as I am concerned, most of the candidates are too old. Even the president is 73. He loves golf so much he should be spending all of his time on the course, in my opinion.

But Biden recently did something that made me wonder if he had finally lost it for good. He is taking a campaign bus tour - a popular option for people who are not living "normal" lives to try to connect with people who are – with the slogan "No Malarkey!" painted on the side of the bus.

Yes, malarkey.

Right now, there are millennials scratching their heads. Their grandparents don't even use the word

Living the Life

By Brad Jennings

malarkey. I can safely say that as a man in my 50s, I have never used the word malarkey.

Malarkey, as many of you know, basically means nonsense. So, a slogan saying no nonsense make sense. Why didn't the Biden team use that instead of malarkey? Probably because the 77-year-old thought it "Back in high school, we didn't take any malarkey when we listened to our Ricky Nelson and Pat Boone records while discussing the failed Bay of Pigs invasion,' Biden tells his staff as everyone under the age of 40 grabs their smart phone to update their resume.

By the way, malarkey is a word that came into "popular" use in the 1920s. How did anyone think this was a good idea? Is Biden going for the Flapper vote?

Of course, Biden is right in there with many other candidates. I would bet that Bernie Sanders heard that Biden was using the work "malarkey" and instantly called a staff meeting.

"I hear Biden is using the word 'malarkey' on his bus tour! He is apparently going for the hippie vote! From here on out, we are going to put on our glad rags and really razz those Biden voters! I can use outdated words from the 1920s too!"

When I look at 78-yearsold Bernie, I think his slogan should be, "Get off my lawn!"

All these dudes make Elizabeth Warren, at the age of 70, look like a kid. But she is so buried in the weeds of her seemingly 14,000-page policy proposal on health care to even notice. Voters are apparently barely notic-

To make matters worse. in jumps another 77-yearold. To top it all off, he's another New York billionaire. I might side with Biden if he faces off against Michael Bloomberg and screams. 'no malarkey!"

I am trying to use a little humor to make a larger point here. Most of these presidential candidates are woefully out of touch. Younger people are the future of this country and will have to deal with the decisions our political leaders are making today. These are mostly men who are in the last part of their lives. Many are from wealthy backgrounds and don't understand the struggles most Americans face daily at all.

We need a leader who is energetic, engaged with ALL Americans and who deeply cares about the future of our country.

What we don't need is more of the same malarkey we are getting from this

Who do we trust when it comes to climate change?

Back in 1960, when I was 13 years old, a used car salesman said something that remains stubbornly planted in my brain. Seeing my dad peer under the chassis of the flashy '56 Oldsmobile coupe that he'd just bought, and no doubt sensing his misgivings, the salesman put his hand on Dad's shoulder. "Now Carl," he said, "you just drive this car and enjoy it, and don't listen to those experts, they'll tell you anything!

Today the experts in question are climate scientists. Wikipedia's review of a half dozen surveys showed that an overwhelming majority of them, 97 percent, agree that human activity is warming the climate at an alarming pace. And yet...

Scientists are held in high regard by the public. The

Guest Opinion By Lowell Harp

Pew Research Center, using data collected last January, reports that 86 percent of the people express "a great deal" or "a fair amount" of confidence that scientists "act in the best interests of the public." No other group, with the exception of the military, approaches that level of confidence. That includes religious leaders, at 57 percent, the news media, at 47 percent, business leaders, at 46 percent, and politicians who, at 35 percent, come out dead last.

And yet, when it comes to the environment, those same politicians who are held in such low regard often convince large numbers of the public that the scientists are wrong. The Pew survey offers clues as to how that happens.

It shows that people with "high science knowledge" have more confidence that the scientific method "generally produces accurate conclusions" than the general public does. But even the most science-savvy Republicans are less inclined to believe the results of scientific research than most Democrats are. The gaps widen when it comes to the environment. Fewer than 20 percent of Republicans agree that environmental researchers "provide fair and accurate information all or most of the time." For Democrats, agreement ranges from 29 percent for those with low science knowledge to 65 percent for knowledgeable respondents.

These divides seem likely to come down to tribal loyalties. Cognitive scientists Steven Solman and Philip Fernbach, in their book, "The Knowledge Illusion," reveal how little we know as individuals and how much we rely on the "hive mind," made up of all the other people in the world whom we trust to know what we don't. Liberal, conservative, or otherwise, we trust people who are like us and are suspicious of those who are different.

"The Partisan Brain," an article in the December 8, 2018 Economist, reports on research demonstrating our innate bias against scientific findings that fail to support our group's beliefs. One study tracked the flow of blood in the brains of liberal subjects exposed to information that challenged their convictions about guns. The results suggest that evolution has hard-wired our brains to reject facts that threaten group identity and beliefs.

But, although we may instinctively agree, along with my dad's used car salesman, that the experts will tell us anything, the results of the Pew survey suggest that we know otherwise. We understand at some level that only science and the scientific method can guide us to the truth about emotionally loaded issues like climate change. Scientists often challenge our beliefs. Politicians and their allies in the media, on the other hand, make their living telling us what we want to hear. We can place our faith in them, or we can listen to the experts. As for that flashy '56

Oldsmobile of my dad's, the transmission gave out within a year, and the Olds made way for a humble but reliable Volkswagen Beetle.

From 1860 to 2019 the H.I. Lincoln Building, now the Lincoln Highway Interpretive Center, has been a major feature of Franklin Grove's business district.

Building getting facelift

FRANKLIN GROVE – The Historic H.I. Lincoln Building in Franklin Grove is starting a new lease on life.

Originally built in 1860 as a dry goods store by a cousin of Abraham Lincoln, the building served many uses over the next 135 years.

Very seriously deteriorated by 1995 a group of community minded historians began a fiveyear restoration project. When the building reached a usable state in the year 2000 a relationship with the Lincoln Highway Association, that continues to this day, began.

The building is currently closed for installation of new windows interior cleaning and repainting, a new boardwalk, and many other upgrades.

Upon re-opening when renovations are complete, the building will be known as the Lincoln Highway Interpretive Center. New management for both the interpretive center/souvenir sales and the ongoing music shows will be named before re-opening at a date to be determined.

Souvenir selection will be upgraded and significantly expanded in Lincoln Highway items plus a wide selection from other area tourism attractions.

Progress can be monitored on Facebook by going to H.I. Lincoln Building.

Determination that doesn't quit

God is the Chief of Change. He is always doing a new thing...always working in our lives. However, His promises for us don't just automatically happen. All things are possible with God, but not all things will positively happen.

There are some things that can hinder us from moving forward in life. One is an old mindset. Mark 2:22 says, "No one pours new wine into old wineskins. Otherwise, the wine will burst the skins, and both the wine and the wineskins will be ruined. No, they pour the new wine into new wineskins" (NIV).

In other words, your mind needs to be renewed. You need a fresh new outlook based on God's Word and His promises. Knowing God's will for your life will help you in your determination to keep moving.

Opportunity and Opposition

When you decide to move forward, be prepared because you will be opposed. The apostle Paul said in 1 Corinthians 16:9 that "a great door for effective work has opened to me, and there are many who oppose me." I like to call them "giants." Whatever you call it, the enemy will not make it easy for you to do God's will. It will be up to you to stay determined and keep pressing on.

One of the tactics of the enemy is to lie to you. For example, he may tell you, "It's too late." You may be thinking of going back to school after many years. Or maybe you need to make up for some past mistakes. It's not too late. You might have had a big dream at one time that you never fulfilled. It's never too late for you to follow your passion. Don't believe Satan's lies. You can always begin again!

Be Steadfast

One word of caution: Don't start if you aren't determined to finish. The reason I say this is because the enemy certainly won't stop fighting your advancement. He is determined to stop you, so you must be unwavering about moving forward.

I will never forget when I first started talking about the call of God on my life. Some of my friends decided I must be mistaken. They told me I didn't have the personality to do this kind of ministry. It was discouraging to say the least. But I knew God had spoken to me about the ministry He was calling me to do, and I was determined to see it through. I was eventually asked to leave my church, I lost friends, and even some family members turned their backs on me.

I had to press through quite a few obstacles to do what I do now. But what if I had given up when I felt that rejection? I would not be fulfilling God's call on my life today—and I would be miserable, because this is my passion.

Have you asked God to use you?

If you are feeling a real passion to do something that aids or brings peace and encouragement to other people, it's very likely that is from God. And if you don't do it, you will probably live a frustrated life

Also as you move forward, beware: The devil wants to set you up to get upset. That is another part of his strategy to stop you from making progress. He will use people to distract you, criticize you, or outright reject you. And if that doesn't stop you, he will likely attack other areas of your life to try and discourage you.

Keep Moving

Just remember, greater is He that is in you! (See I John 4:4.) You have all you need, through Christ, to endure and outlast the devil. As you press in and press on, don't look at yourself...look at God. Ignore others' criticism and unbelief and follow your God-given dream. Be determined to press past every lie of the enemy, every discouragement, and even rejection from others.

Whatever you do, just keep moving! When you feel disheartened...keep moving. When others condemn you...keep moving. Never give up!

Take a lesson from David who was anointed 20 years before he became king (see I Samuel 17). He endured and overcame many obstacles in the meantime, including a bear, a lion and a giant! Like David, don't be afraid to face your enemy. Remember the things God has brought you through before and talk about your past victories, knowing that He is with you now.

As long as you lean on, trust in, and depend on God, it will never be too late for your victory!

Celebrity Extra

By Dana Jackson

Q: What happened to the game show "Who Wants to Be a Millionaire"? Will it ever return? -- J.A.

A: "Who Wants to Be a Millionaire" debuted 20 years ago with huge ratings in prime time with host Regis Philbin. It then went on to become a weekday syndicated show in 2002 with various hosts over the years, beginning with a long run by Meredith Viera followed by Cedric the Entertainer, Terry Crews and Chris Harrison. Alas, it was canceled in May 2019 and at this time there are no plans to revive it.

According to Slate.com, "At its peak, 'Millionaire' was more popular than 'Monday Night Football.'" This was, of course, the original prime time version.

I think the show just needed a break and could be a big hit again. Perhaps a network will bring it back for occasional special events or for a full season in the summer months instead of a daily syndicated program. In the meantime, keep an eye out for reruns on cable or one of the streaming services, as old episodes also might be available in the future.

Q: Is Al Pacino still acting? I see Robert De Niro all over the place, almost too many movies, but I hardly see Pacino in anything anymore. -- K.Y.

A: Al Pacino does seem to be more selective in the films he accepts roles in, but I have a feeling you're going to like his most recent one. He's currently playing Jimmy Hoffa in the Martin Scorsese film "The Irishman," which recently was made available on Netflix after a brief run in theaters. Coincidentally, De Niro also is in the movie as a World War II veteran turned hitman. Now we'll just have to see if the Academy takes notice and rewards them with more Oscars for their mantles.

Q: I saw the actress who used to play Amanda on "All My Children" on the Netflix show "Selling Sunset" as a real estate agent. Does she really work in that field, or is she just playing a character? -- T.M.

A: Chrishell Stause, who changed her name to Chrishell Hartley after marrying "This Is Us" star Justin Hartley two years ago, has worked as a real estate agent in the Los Angeles area for a while now. When she's not acting on soaps (most recently as Jordan on "Days of Our Lives"), she's selling homes in the Valley.

"Selling Sunset" is produced by Adam Divello, who created the fiction-meets-reality hit series "The Hills." So if you've watched "The Hills" or its predecessor, "Laguna Beach," you know that it's not exactly a straight documentary. Only Chrishell knows how much of herself she's bringing to her character and how much is scripted. If there's another season, it will be interesting to see if Chrishell mentions her recent split with Justin Hartley, who has filed for divorce.

Couch Theater

By Amy Anderson

"Ready or Not" (R) -- Wedding traditions are nothing new; people have been observing them for years. But the Le Domas family, rich and eccentric as they are, have taken the ritual far beyond "something borrowed, something blue" to something dark and dangerous. Blushing bride Grace (Samara Weaving) is feted by new husband Adam (Mark O'Brian) at his family's estate, where each new addition is initiated with a game. Grace's is hide and seek, and she quickly finds out that it's kill or be killed before sunup. Andie MacDowell, Adam Brody and Henry Czerny co-star in a terrifically unapologetic black comedy.

"The Goldfinch" (R) -- Ansel Elgort (and Oakes Fegley, playing the younger years) stars as Theodore Decker, a young man whose mother dies in an explosion at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Theo survives, and retains as a palpable reminder of this event, a painting called "The Goldfinch." His resulting journey -- his homes and relationships collected along the way -- are always colored by the loss of his mother and the retention of the painting. It's based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel of the same name, but boiled down, it lacks the depth of Donna Tartt's 800 pages.

"Killerman" (R) -- Moe Diamond (Liam Hemsworth) has a couple of problems. First, he's a sleazy money launderer who got caught up with some dirty cops in a deal gone wrong. Second, he has amnesia and doesn't know he's a sleazy money launderer who got caught up with some dirty cops in a deal gone wrong. All he does know is that he's got a pile of cash and drugs and a whole lot of trouble. It is shot in a 1970s haze that feels authentically gritty, but the whole business could have been handled in less than 70 minutes, while director Malik Bader stretches it out to nearly 120.

"The Parts You Lose" (NR) -- A young deaf boy (Danny Murphy) finds an injured stranger (Aaron Paul) in the snow. Despite his rough exterior, the boy helps him hide, brings him food and allows him to heal. The criminal -- how could he be anything but -- warms to the youngster, and teaches him some life lessons about triumph, loss and how to handle a bully, be it a classmate or a parent. When the law comes to call, the boy must make choices that put him on the road to becoming a man. Also stars Mary Elizabeth Winstead as the boy's compassionate mother.

Hollywood

By Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- When Warner Brothers produced "Joker," the top-grossing R-rated film of all time, they were certain it was a one-shot film with no sequels. Even the producers admit, "Joker was not set up to have any sequels, so no sequels were in development." But after a month in release and well over $1 billion in box-office receipts, you'd better believe they're talking sequels. That clever guy, Bradley Cooper, produced the film with Todd Phillips (who wrote and directed) and Emma Tillinger Koskoff. Joaquin Phoenix, who is sure to receive his fourth Oscar nomination for his performance as the Joker, just began shooting an untitled Mike Mills project film, shrouded in secrecy, with Gaby Hoffmann.

In 1976, producer Leonard Goldberg (and Aaron Spelling) built the TV series "Charlie's Angels" around Kate Jackson, then cast Jaclyn Smith and finally an unknown unpolished actress/model, Farrah Fawcett. The three stars spent as much time in front of full-length mirrors on the set as they did with their scripts. The show hit big and ran for five years. In 2000, a film version was made with Drew Barrymore (also one of the producers with Leonard Goldberg), Cameron Diaz and Lucy Liu as the "Angels" with Bill Murray as Bosley, Sam Rockwell, Tim Curry and John Forsythe (as "Charlie"). The film cost $93 million and earned $264 million. That prompted a sequel in 2003 with Barrymore, Diaz and Liu, along with Crispin Glover, Bernie Mac as Bosley, Demi Moore, Justin Theroux, Shia LaBeouf and John Forsythe (as "Charlie" again). The sequel cost $120 million and grossed $259 million.

Fast-forward to last month, when the new "Charlie's Angels" (without Leonard Goldberg as a producer) opened with Kristen Stewart, Naomi Scott and Ella Balinska. Kristen Stewart became a star because of "The Twilight Saga" (2008-2012), however, her next 10 films, mostly low-budget, were box-office failures. Elizabeth Banks wrote/co-produced and directed the film, in addition to playing Bosley (the wife of John Bosley, played by Patrick Stewart). Since John Forsythe has passed away, the voice of Charlie is by Robert Clotworthy. Unfortunately Kristen Stewart and this no-star cast couldn't sell tickets and the film, which cost $75 million, has earned less than $50 million.

Also a disappointment at the box office was "Terminator: Dark Force," despite reteaming Arnold Schwarzenegger and Linda Hamilton. It cost $196 million and only earned $234 million. "Doctor Sleep," the sequel to "The Shining," cost $55 million and earned $55 million. The good news is the "Downton Abbey" film, which cost $20 million, has already earned $184 million. There's now no doubt they're planning at least two more sequels, because the public has spoken!

Thieves Stole My Credit Card Number

Sometimes what you think is a scam phone call ... isn't. Sometimes it's the real thing. Like the call I got today.

When the phone rang I didn't rush to answer. The foreign sounding man who left a message said that he needed to verify certain recent transactions on one of my credit cards. The only reason I paid attention was that this same thing happened to Still, I was leery. Instead of calling back at the number he left, I called the number on the back of my card and asked for the fraud department. Sure enough, my card number had somehow gotten out and people were busily trying to make purchases all over the country -- at that very moment! By that time, the attempts to make fraudulent purchases had exceeded $4,000.

The man immediately canceled my card and said that another one would arrive at my door within 48 hours.

I asked him how this could happen. My card was in my hand. I don't keep a list of credit cards on my computer. I shred documents that have personal information. I don't use the card at small mom-and-pop places (which was my mistake 15 years ago) because their security isn't always the best. I don't use the card at ATMs that might have a skimmer. I hadn't fallen for any scammer tricks over the phone. I hadn't clicked links in any suspicious emails.

So, how did that number get out? He couldn't tell me. He said it happens far too often, and it's nothing the card owner has

I suspect that a few months from now we'll learn that there has been another massive security breach, similar to the Target breach of 2013 where the information on 40 million cards was stolen.

Shingles Vaccine Causes Severe Side Effects

DEAR DR. ROACH: I received the first dose of Shingrix this week and had pretty severe side effects, though in the range of what can be expected: high fever (101.5), intense shivering, a severe headache and 12 hours of extreme fatigue. The entire reaction began 11 hours after the shot and ended 18 hours after that. I am 61 and in excellent health, taking only 25

mcg of levothyroxine daily. I have a few questions that I hope you can answer. I've tried looking at the clinical trial results for Shingrix, but I am not qualified to understand the information as presented.

1. Is it likely that I'll have a similar (or worse?) reaction to the second shot? The package insert says one can react to the first, second, neither or

- 2. Are both injections identical?
- 3. When I had chickenpox as a child, I was way sicker than the average kid. Related?
- 4. If I get shingles, do I have a higher risk for a severe case? -- J.G.

ANSWER: Compared with the previous one-time vaccine Zostavax, the new two-dose Shingrix vaccine is much more effective. However, it does have a higher risk of side effects. You have had the most common side effect, though only 10% of people will have symptoms as bad as yours. These symptoms are caused by your body mounting an inflammatory response to the glycoprotein in the vaccine (the new vaccine does not contain a live virus). You clearly have a robust system to fight off infection.

To answer your questions in order: You are at higher risk for a similar reaction for the second shot. I would plan your day accordingly, and premedicate with Tylenol (even though it may make the vaccine slightly less effective). The second vaccine is identical to the first. I have read reports that there have been shortages of the Chickenpox and shingles can affect you both by the virus attacking you and by an exuberant inflammatory and immune reaction. I would guess that you are at lower risk for viral complications (such as infection of the eye, brain or lungs) but at higher risk for symptoms due to your own system, such as high fever. In many cases, the body's response to infection can be as damaging as the infection itself.

DEAR DR. ROACH: Last year I was treated for gout and was prescribed allopurinol (100 mg) once a day. Approximately five to six months after I started taking it, I became lethargic and was not feeling myself (I am a very young 77 years old) and suddenly lost my sense of taste. I was taken off the medicine and still have little taste sensation other than citrus fruits, apples and spices. I was told that this could last for months, years or forever. Do you have any suggestions for me? I am eating as before, hoping that I will recover my taste.

ANSWER: I certainly found that allopurinol can cause loss of taste sensation, but the Food and Drug Administration case reports don't say how long it can last. Unfortunately, I can't find any reliable way (or even plausible way) to increase the likelihood of getting your taste sensation

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGood-Health@med.cornell.edu.

Rochelle couple puts on holiday light extravaganza

By Andrew Heiserman Staff Writer

ROCHELLE – A local couple are spreading Christmas cheer to the entire block with an extravagant light display, while also raising money for an important cause during this season of giving.

This is the 11th year that Ray Voss and his wife, Carolyn, have set up a Christmas light display at their home — 239 Phyllis Avenue — for the community to view. The display consists of more than 23,000 lights timed perfectly to twinkle on and off to the beat of 10 different songs. From beginning to end, the show lasts approximately 25 minutes and even has an FM transmitter so people can listen in their cars.

The idea for the light display began from seeing something similar on television.

"It started with one of those crazy Christmas light shows on T.V. and I thought that would be pretty cool," said Ray. "They said what the program was to run it so I googled it, and here I am with about 23,000 lights."

When the show first began it had two controllers each hooked up to 16 strands of lights, now it has grown to 14 controllers hooked up to more than 120 different strands of lights.

As well as putting the display on for the public to come and see, Voss also has a donation box set up outside in which all of the funds are given to St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital. He has been collecting and donating funds to them for the last 10 years and has donated more than $23,000.

"I chose St. Jude because it is just one of those charities that everybody can relate too." added Yoss.

too," added Voss.

Ray and his wife begin putting the lights up the first week of November and run them from 5 to 10 p.m., Sunday through Thursday and 5 to 11 p.m., Friday and Saturday through the first or second week of January.

Through the years of putting on the light display, the Voss's have heard many different responses from the community when they come to see his lights.

"I have heard many different things from 'my wife died and it was a tradition of ours to come see your lights', to people comments about people who have had children in St. Jude's before," added Voss.

Supreme Governor of the Moose makes stop at Rochelle lodge

By Andrew Heiserman Staff Writer

ROCHELLE – The highest elected official in the Loyal Order of the Moose made a stop at the Rochelle Moose Lodge Thursday morning on his trip to different lodges across the country.

Rodney Hammond, the current Supreme Governor of the Loyal Order of the Moose paid a visit to the Rochelle Moose Lodge while on his way to the Mooseheart Child City and School in Aurora tomorrow. During his one year term as the Supreme Governor of the Moose it is his duty to travel across the country, attempting to his every single state, visiting as many of the Moose lodges as he can.

So far, he has visited approximately 160 lodges in 26 different states

"The primary responsibility of the Supreme Governor is to travel around the country visiting lodges, spreading the good word about the Moose and helping lodges by giving them new ideas," explained Hammond. "For my Illinois visit, I started down south and have been making my way up, I had some free time before heading to Mooseheart, so I thought I would stop in and pay a visit."

By the end of his travels, he will have visited approximately 300 lodges throughout the country.

Once arriving at the Mooseheart in Aurora, the board of directors will meet which will be followed by a tree lighting ceremony. The Mooseheart is a residential childcare facility that aims to provide housing and schooling for children and families in need.

It originally started out just for children and widows of former Moose members that have passed away, but has since opened their doors to anyone in need.

"We don't restrict the Mooseheart to just families of Moose members anymore, we have children as young as toddlers that are taken care of all throughout their lives until high school graduation," said Hammond.

The kids will live in a family type setting in a house with family parents and family teachers, everything that a child would need is provided such as food and clothing.

Along with Mooseheart and the many lodges spread throughout the county, the Loyal Order of the Moose also offers housing, both independent and assisted for senior citizens at their Moosehaven complex in Florida as well as their new Lodgic complexes.

The first ever Lodgic complex recently opened in Champagne, but there are already one in Madison, Wisconsin and Louisville, Kentucky being constructed. The new lodgic buildings were created to both help raise money that will be used to help fund Mooseheart, as well as serve three separate operations under one roof.

"First is flexible childcare for parents, second is a workplace where people who don't work in an office or anything can come use equipment to make phone calls or do networking, and finally is a restaurant where anyone including the public can get anything from a small snack to an upscale dinner," added Hammond.

If the first three Logic building receive the response the Moose is hoping for, there could possibly be more of them being built in the future. Anyone who is over the age of 21, believes in any kind of higher being and has a current member sponsor them is able to join the Loyal Order of the Moose.

Be prepared for winter driving

SPRINGFIELD – As bitter cold creeps into Illinois, the state's frontline weather responders remind motorists that preparation can help take the bite out of winter this

The Illinois Department of Transportation, Illinois State Police and the Illinois Tollway encourage motorists to prepare for wintry driving conditions and remember: "Winter Weather - Get it Together."

"Winter weather can be unpredictable in Illinois, but preparation today will make a safer tomorrow," said Illinois Transportation Secretary Randy Blankenhorn. "Drivers should start easing into those winter driving behaviors now. Our snow-and-ice teams are ready, as always, to make this a safe, successful winter driving season."

Throughout the winter, especially during adverse conditions, motorists should practice basic winter driving skills and build extra time into their schedules. As part of the "Winter Weather - Get it Together" campaign, all travelers are encouraged to follow these simple rules and tips during the coming months:

- Always wear a seat belt. It's the law
- Slow down. Slower speeds, slower acceleration, slower steering and slower braking all are required in winter driving conditions.

- Drop it and drive. Put down the handheld devices – it, too, is the law in Illinois.
- •Don't crowd the plow. As now plow operator's field of vision is restricted. You may see them, but they may not see you.
- Avoid using cruise control in snow and
- Watch out for black ice on roads that appear clear but can be treacherous.
- · Be especially careful approaching intersections, ramps, bridges and shady areas. All are prone to icing.
 - Do not travel during bad weather unless absolutely necessary. If you do have to make a trip, check the forecast and make sure someone is aware of your travel route. Consider taking public transportation if it is an option.

- Prepare an emergency kit that contains jumper cables, flares or reflectors, windshield washer fluid, a small ice scraper, traction material, blankets, non-perishable food and a first-aid kit.
- Carry a cell phone and a car charger in case of emergency.

WINTER: Keep up on your maintenance

• Follow Scott's Law. Slow down and move over for stopped emergency, construction and maintenance vehicles.

• For a list of suggested maintenance for your car, visit the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration's winter driving website.

"Winter weather causes extremely dangerous driving with black ice and white out conditions," said ISP Director Leo P. Schmitz. "Plan ahead by checking your windshield wipers, vehicle fluid levels, proper tire inflation and tread depth. Remember to avoid unnecessary lane changes and as always, reduce your speed and increase following distances.

"Don't crowd the get real-time road condiplow. Give them room to work. A snowplow operator's field of vision is restricted. You may see them, but they may not see you."

Before leaving the house, drivers are encouraged to check Getting Around Illinois. com for continually updated information on winter road conditions, weather radars, road and bridge closures and other traffic-related information. The site was recently redesigned in a mobile-friendly format providing a more convenient way to access important information

The winter road conditions map gives travelers the ability to zoom in to their location, travel route or destination and tions. At any time, motorists can check travel conditions by calling 1-800-452-IDOT (4368) or 1-800-TOLL-FYI.

"Winter weather can make driving challenging for our customers, so our priorities are to keep the roads clear and provide roadway information to help drivers safely reach their destinations," said Illinois Tollway Executive Director Greg Bedalov. "In return, we ask our customers to protect themselves and our workers by slowing down and increasing their distance from other vehicles, particularly during storms and severe weather."

For the upcoming winter, IDOT will have more than 1,700 trucks available for deployment to plow almost 16,000 miles of roads statewide, the equivalent of driving from Springfield to the tip of South America and back.

Last year, IDOT spread almost 305,000 tons of salt statewide. This winter, salt domes throughout the state are at capacity, with more than 550,000 tons on hand.

Four hundred brandnew snow plows are ready to be deployed throughout the state. The new trucks are more energy efficient and will reduce air pollution.

The Illinois Tollway is prepared to deploy its fleet of 196 snowplows for winter storms and has stockpiled more than 87,000 tons of salt to keep its 294-mile system of five tollways clear and safe for its 1.6 million daily drivers.
