Students inspire move to paper straws

MONROE CENTER – What happens when you take an idea, add extreme passion, and then leadership and commitment to get it done?

These 4th graders from Monroe Center Grade School in the Meridian School District could easily tell you. Izzy Cowen, Sydney Frantz and Eeve Layng were concerned about the number of sea turtles that were dying because of the plastic straws disposed of in the ocean. After reading much more about it and doing the research needed, they had several in depth conversations and began their journey.

They put together an entire presentation to share with their principal, Deana Simpson, but it didn't stop there. Their message was shared with Dr. PJ Caposey, the superintendent along with the Food Service Director, Lisa Reber. It didn't take long to see the fruits of their labor. After some conversations, a few videos back and forth, their searching for pricing, and then everyone coming together to decide that not only will Monroe Center Grade School be turning a new leaf using paper straws, but the entire Meridian School District will do the same.

Rockin' River Fest Rain can't stop the fun at Oregon festival

OREGON – A little rain didn't stop Rockin' River Fest in Oregon on June 15.

"We are getting very good at adapting to Mother Nature, that's for certain," said Debbie Dickson, Rockin' River Fest Executive Committee member.

The Adventure Triathlon went off without a hitch, including the ability to put kayaks in the river for the third leg of the race. Despite some unpleasant temporary weather conditions, a lot of folks came out to support the event.

Families with small children took advantage of the "12 and under free" admission, and they all enjoyed a wide variety of games and activities. "Topsy Hog" took first place in the Tug Across the Rock, stealing bragging rights from two time champions, E.D. Etnyre.

"We welcomed lots of out of the area folks, many of them the 'younger crowd' who really enjoyed the live music and adult beverages option," Dickson said.

"Introducing Oregon to a larger tourism base is one of the goals of this festival."

There was a great variety of local food available to the crowd.

Dickson said the festival was very appreciative of the support of dozens of local businesses who contributed cash, goods, and "In Kind" services to make this years' event successful, particularly our third time "Presenting Sponsor," Martin & Company.

"A big thanks is due to our volunteer crew who pitched in over four days of setup and tear down," she said. "We are especially grateful for the generous loan of equipment, and for the enthusiastic spirit and volunteer labor, shared by the Autumn on Parade Committee. It is this combined effort that creates a 'win-win' for our community." For more information on the festival see the Facebook page or www.rockinriverfest.net.

STRAWS: Girls got to scuba dive

Their teacher, Michele Massari, gave her students the time to develop their idea and be creative in a manner that led to solutions to the issue. Because of what these three students did and their leadership efforts, they were not only recognized at the end of the year celebration assembly, but they also caught the attention of their substitute teacher, Bob Kuzlik, as well.

While practicing their presentation and editing their work, Kuzlik connected with their purpose. He works with PADI and is a certified SCUBA instructor. PADI has a longstanding commitment to environmental conservation and Kuzlik wanted to share with the girls and their families an opportunity of a lifetime as a way to say thank you for their efforts. He came back to the school to offer the girls and their families the their first ever scuba diving lesson.

"I'm so proud to see this generation being as passionate as these young ladies are about conservation and I want to give them a chance to see someday firsthand the world they were protecting," Kuzlik said.

Simpson was asked what this meant for her students and staff.

"When you see something as tremendous as this come to fruition simply by these young ladies taking an idea and putting everything they've got into it to stand up for what they believe in in such a professional manner it not only sets an example for all of us, but it makes you proud to know the impact of what your teachers and staff do with children each day matter more than what we could ever imagine,"

she said. "I'm so proud of the girls and those that have encouraged them along the way. They will move mountains I'm sure and this is only the beginning."

"I'm so excited that Monroe Center will be using paper straws," Frantz said. "Our group spent a lot of time making posters and spreading the word that plastic straws aren't recyclable. It feels great to know our school cares and listened to us. Remember skip the straw and save a sea turtle!"

Annual Artifacts Day will be July 6

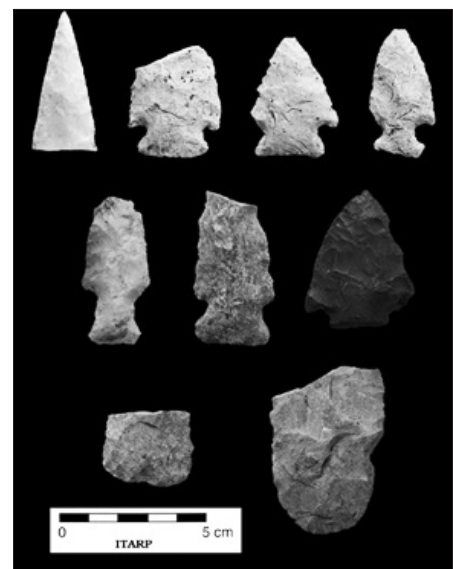

BYRON — The Byron Forest Preserve District will have its 6th Annual Archaeology Artifacts ID Day on Saturday, July 6 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Jarrett Prairie Center, 7993 North River Road in Byron.

Come by and learn about your collection of arrow heads and other Indian artifacts. Talk to professional archaeologists from the Illinois State Archaeological Survey and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee about stone points, prehistoric tools, pottery shards, fossils, animal bones and other items that you have found and are curious about.

If you don't have any items of your own to identify, be sure to stop in any way to see these artifacts and live demonstrations.

Learn more about prehistoric tools and weapons through hands-on demonstrations at this interactive event. There will be special ongoing demonstrations of arrowhead and spearhead making techniques by nationally known flintknapper Larry Kinsella and others.

Kinsella has been teaching flintknapping for over 35 years. He will provide all materials and safety equipment to teach beginning flintknapping, the art of making stone tools from flint.

This is a free family event and no advance registration is required. For more information contact Mark Herman, Superintendent of Education at the Byron Forest Preserve District at 815 234-8535, Ext. 217.

MOMENTS IN TIME

* On July 14, 1099, during the First Crusade, Christian knights from Europe capture Jerusalem after seven weeks of siege and begin massacring the city's Muslim and Jewish population.

* On July 11, 1656, Ann Austin and Mary Fisher, two Englishwomen, become the first Quakers to immigrate to the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Their liberal teachings enraged the Puritan colonial government and they were arrested and jailed. After five years in prison, they were deported.

* On July 12, 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signs into law a measure calling for the awarding of a U.S. Army Medal of Honor. The previous December, Lincoln had approved a provision creating a U.S. Navy Medal of Valor. To date more than 3,400 men and one woman have received the Medal of Honor.

* On July 8, 1951, Paris, the capital city of France, celebrates turning 2,000 years old. However, the City of Lights was most likely founded around 250 B.C., when a Gallic tribe known as the Parisii settled an island (Ile de la Cite) in the Seine River, which runs through present-day Paris.

* On July 9, 1962, Bob Dylan records "Blowin' in the Wind," although it wouldn't be released for another year. The most well-known version was done by Peter, Paul and Mary, which became a hit.

* On July 10, 1985, in Auckland harbor in New Zealand, Greenpeace's Rainbow Warrior sinks after French agents in diving gear plant a bomb on the ship's hull. Although French authorities denied responsibility, a British newspaper later uncovered evidence of French President Francois Mitterrand's authorization of the bombing plan.

* On July 13, 1990, the romantic-thriller "Ghost" opens in theaters. The film, about a woman who communicates with her murdered husband through a sassy psychic, was a box-office hit and received multiple Academy Award nominations.

Google is making us dumb and lazy

Living the Life

By Brad Jennings

Google has made me incredibly, undoubtedly, stupendously lazy. Or lazier.

Yes, lazier. I have always been lazy.

I remember when I used to look at maps – maps! What, am I on the Lewis and Clark expedition? Seriously, when is the last time you looked at a map?

I have always had a bad sense of direction, but as a pizza delivery dude in high school, I had to use maps to memorize nooks and crannies all over my hometown. Eventually, I was a wiz at figuring out where a specific address was. I could find any house, apartment, mobile home, yurt – you name it.

Now? I am convinced I could be dropped off a mile from my house and end up lost and crying on the doorstep of the house two doors down from me and not know where I was. I would be starving with ripped clothes and convinced the world was coming to an end.

I can barely make it to the end of the driveway to put out the garbage without Google Maps.

GPS has made me a moron. Grab my phone, call up an address and follow the nice lady's voice. Very simple. Too simple.

And what about arguments? Remember when you were the smartest person in the room because of your deep pop culture knowledge? Your grasp of current events? Your love of history?

Now even your pretty dumb friends can act smart thanks to Google.

If you notice they are heading to the bathroom as you get into a deep discussion on minor characters in 1970s sitcoms, and they come out miraculously naming one of Fonzie's early girlfriends from "Happy Days," blame Google. There is no way your dumb friend actually knew that.

"Bartender, did you know that Pickett's Charge at the Battle of Gettysburg involved about 15,000 Confederate troops?" If your friend who struggled in freshman history class drops a nugget like that at the bar, check the browsing history on his phone.

Song arguments are what burn me up the most. I have a pretty broad knowledge when it comes to music of a certain age, and that includes band members, songs, producers – you name it I can tell you the year the band's one Top 40 hit came out, the label that released it and that the guitar solo you loved so much was actually played by an uncredited studio musician (I'm looking at you, Aerosmith).

But now? Any galoot with a smartphone can sound intelligent. It has taken the fun out of being a know it all, that's for sure.

Now, People who aren't smart suddenly think they are smart because Google holds all of the answers. It can answer any question. It can play you pretty much any song. It can give you directions to anywhere you might want to go. Google is a genius.

Google has made actually learning facts almost obsolete. If you can simply Google something, why learn it? It is like the calculator that your teacher wouldn't let you use in your high school math class.

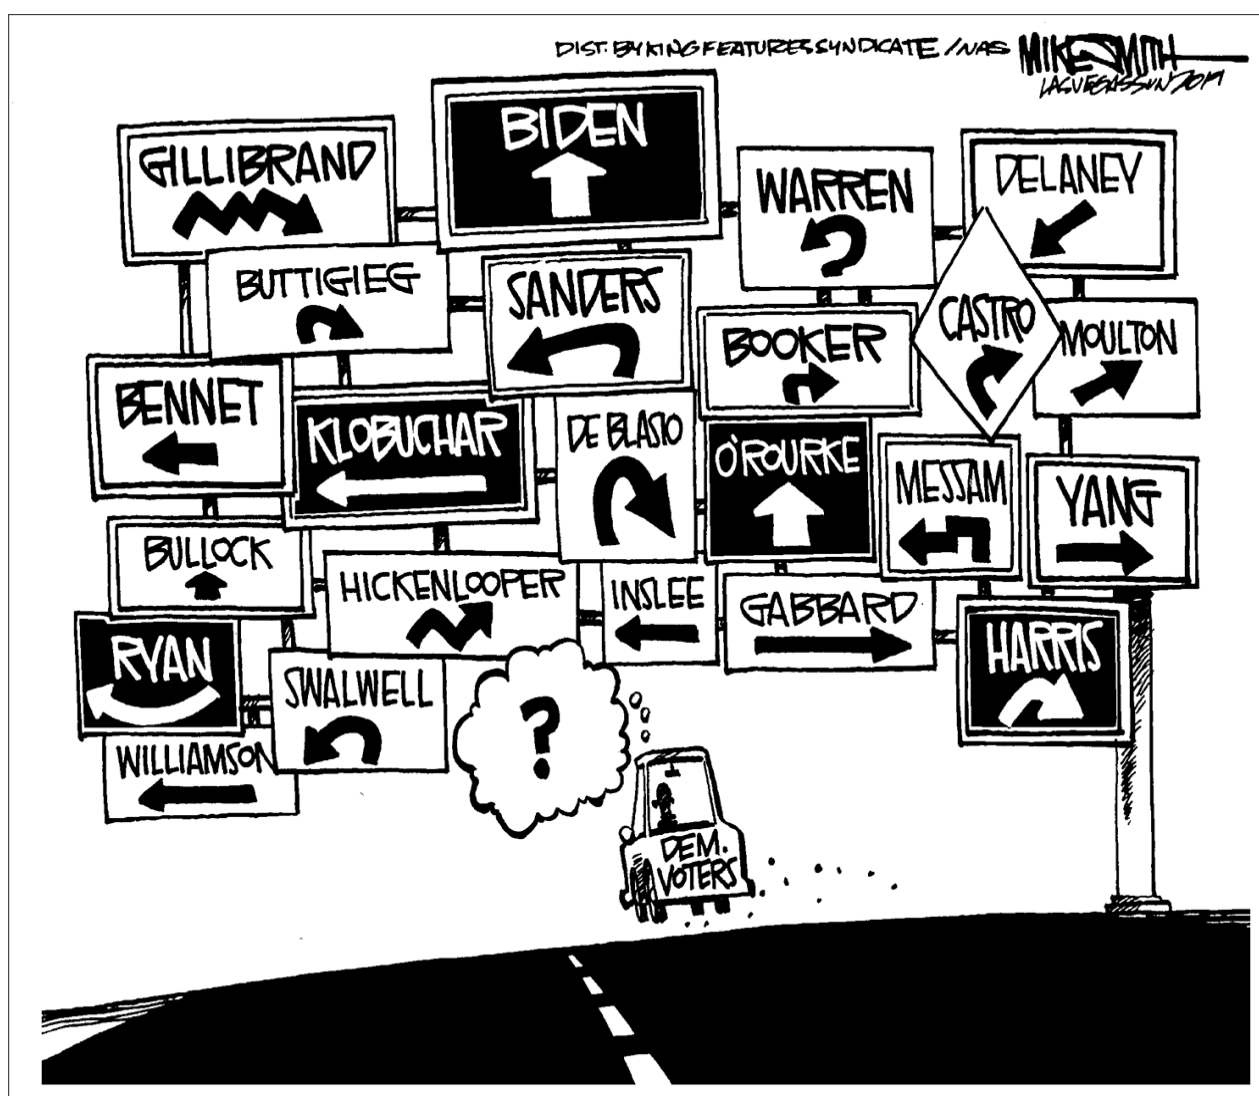

"You won't always have a calculator," she would say. "So, you have to learn how to do it yourself!"

Fast forward a little bit and every phone has a calculator. If not, you can seriously pop the equation into Google and – bam! – instant answer.

My concern isn't that Google will make everyone smart. My concern is that it will make everyone dumb. In 50 years, I wonder if people will be able to function without electronic assistance.

Don't laugh – you know I might be right.

You don't like living here? You can always move

Dear Editor,

I have read many letters to the editor, as well as all the people posting on Facebook, about how terrible it is that the Illinois government passed a balanced budget for the first time in many years. How horrible it is that they passed an infrastructure bill (that most people say we need), but they actually decided we should have to pay for it with some higher taxes and fees. And how dare they decide that the citizens should have a choice of a progressive tax or not. I am sure we know that the wealthiest people have been hurting in this country and couldn't at all afford to pay a couple percentage points more in taxes. Now these people say they want to go to a different state because the grass is greener there, so let's actually look at some facts.

Illinois ranks 29th out of 50 states for poverty level. The Top 15 highest ranking states all come from the South. (These would be all right-to-work states, by the way). Illinois ranks 46th out of 50 state receiving federal subsidies. Of the Top 15 states receiving the highest amounts of federal subsidies, 10 of them come from the South. Now, in looking at the overall tax burden Illinois is one of the highest, as we rank 9th out of 50 states. But guess what? The states that have the highest poverty rates, and get the most federal subsidies, rank middle to near bottom of the tax burden. Guess who gets to subsidize those states with a low tax burden? You guessed it, Illinois residents who pay federal income tax. Illinois ranks 17th out of 50 states for median income. The lowest median income states again come from those pesky Southern right-to-work states that receive the most federal government subsidies. Don't even get me started on minimum wage.

Does Illinois have problems that need fixing Of course it does. But at least this governor is actually trying to straighten the ship and be honest. Unlike Republicans who have previously made the promise that you can cut taxes and it will actually increase revenue and pay for everything we need. If you look at our history, you will see that has never happened. It will never happen.

So I say, if you hate living here so much, go to another state. I'm sure it will be full of unicorns. Roses, roads paved with gold and all will be perfect.

Donald F. Reece, Oregon

We need to focus on the nation's defining principles

Dear Editor,

In response to Lowell Harp's opinion article entitled What Family Therapy Teaches Us About Politics I want to say, "Thanks for the (wink-wink) enlightenment". If I wanted to impulse jump on an anti-Trump rolling vehicle, this would be an easy one.

I have been exposed to the Goldwater Rule, an ethics guideline of the American Psychiatric Association - "... However, it is unethical for a psychiatrist to offer a professional opinion unless he or she has conducted an examination and has been granted proper authorization for such a statement".

It is fair to offer principles and ideas about a subject and speculate about how they may apply to the political arena. It is not fair to conjure scenarios of diagnosis with a named individual as though you are personally aware of all the facts. Downplaying your credentials does not release you from the principle of this guideline.

Continuing with the second paragraph there appears to be an unnamed posse-become-judge, jury, and hopefully voting booth executioner that feels "our Chief Executive is one of the worst ever". In the words of Ben Shapiro, "I don't care about your feelings. I care about facts".

To make it look like there is only one individual who can be "identified" in the total political arena is skewing perception to a preconceived end. There appears an array of grandstanders vying for our attention. What I miss in the Washington Conversation is hearing unified voices expressing limited government, constitutional protection of citizen liberty and property, securing our borders which mark where on this continent the rule of law begins. Because the voices are not unifying, it is a sign of the times that needs correction. If we do not hear those voices in Washington, we need to put them there.

The conversations begin locally. Let us focus on the principles of the Declaration of Independence and provisions of the Constitution. Let us educate on the rulebook of basic government, then take action. Those are the articles that are worthy of ink on paper.

John Dickson, Oregon

Oregon Park District offers Farm to Table dinner on July 26

OREGON – A popular dining trend is the Farm-to-Table Dinner.

These dinners are designed so that the food on the table comes directly from the farm without going through a store, or distributor.

“We come very close to that” said Debbie Leffelman, event coordinator for the Oregon Park District.

The District offered a Farm to Table Dinner Fundraiser last year and it was so popular that the community asked for another one.

“After being recognized by the Illinois Parks & Recreation Association and honored with the award for Outstanding Special Event in 2018, we had to offer the dinner again,” she said.

The event is a win-win for the community. People love to eat good and fresh food.

The Farm to Table Dinner will be on Friday, July 26 at Oak Lane, Oregon. Local celebrity chefs, from local restaurants or businesses, volunteer their time and cooking talents to prepare a fabulous meal with as many of the ingredients as possible harvested locally.

Menu for the evening is appetizers, garden salad, artisan breads, honey butter, ribeye steak, pork kabob, mixed summer vegetables and a dessert sampler.

Several local growers as well as the Oregon Market Vendors donate the items for the dinner and some of the ingredients are grown at the community garden in Oregon. It’s a collaborative effort with many volunteers and a lot of community support. The U of I Extension Master Gardeners work with the Camp OH-PEA-DEE kids to create the centerpieces. The Groenhagen Family and Circle G Farms sponsor the entertainment for the evening which is Dina Bach Music.

Local businesses that are not involved with the cooking side of the event have donated items for the auction. Oregon High School FFA students volunteer as wait staff for the evening. Oak Lane of Oregon provides a wonderful venue for the fundraising dinner.

With the help of many, the Oregon Park District staff look forward to the upcoming 2019 Farm to Table Dinner on July 26. Again, the dinner is a fundraiser for the Oregon Park District Youth Scholarship Fund.

Stop at Nash to purchase tickets or to reserve an entire table of eight. Tickets are $50/person or $400 for table of eight. There is limited seating for this event so be sure to get your tickets now. Reservations can also be made over the phone with a credit card by calling 815-732-3101. For more information visit www.oregon-park.org or contact Leffelman, Event Coordinator at debbie@oregonpark.org.

Soap Opera Update (From C-7) THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS. Despite Sharon's insistence that she didn't have feelings for Adam anymore, Rey confronted him anyway. Amused, Adam realized that he was driving a wedge between the couple and decided to stay at the Tack House to be close to Sharon. Sensing that Jack was feeling more alone since Dina moved out, Lauren vowed to help him through the transition. Meanwhile, Jack met a woman named Mallory who understood what he was going through with his mother's dementia, and the two bonded over coffee. Traci was disappointed when Cane blew her off to talk to Lily. Ana and Mariah decided to put aside their differences and make a video of Tessa's life. Despite everyone's happiness with the finished product, Devon told Ana that she wasn't ready to manage artists on her own. Wait to See: Lola's mother pays her a surprise visit. Olivia Keegan stars as "Claire" on "Days of Our Lives." Photo Credit: Chris Haston/NBC. E-mail news items to bjennings@oglecountylife.com

An Advertising Proverb

When Mark Twain was editing a newspaper in Missouri, one of his subscribers wrote in, saying that he had found a spider in his newspaper and wondered whether it was a sign of good or bad luck. Twain's response: "Finding a spider is neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our newspaper to see which merchant was not advertising, so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."
