MHS grants diplomas to Class of 2024

MENDOTA-Mendota High School granted diplomas to 98 graduates of the Class of 2024 at commencement ceremonies on May 11 in the MHS gymnasium.

Students entered the gym to the playing of the processional by the MHS Band, followed by the welcome address by Principal Joe Masini.

"At the opening assembly of this school year, I challenged our students to Take Care of Business or TCB for short," said Masini. "I cannot thank these seniors enough for their leadership in making my first year as principal so rewarding.

"But enough about me, this is about them. Sitting amongst us this afternoon are Illinois State Scholars, all-conference athletes, academic all-conference award winners, state qualifying athletes, and an Olympic Trials qualifier. The class of 2024 contains all-state musicians, State Seal of Biliteracy achievers and Area Career Center Students of the Year, just to touch on a few of their achievements.

"This dynamic group is going to go on to college, serve our country in the armed forces and go out into the workforce. In short, these students were indeed Taking Care of Business each and every day in every way. This is just the tip of the iceberg for this talented bunch of graduates."

"Wild Bill!"

Actor Willey to portray Hickok during performances in Mendota May 25 & 26

MENDOTA – Wild Bill! An afternoon with James Butler Hickok, will take place Saturday, May 25 and Sunday, May 26 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Hume-Carnegie Museum, 901 Washington St., Mendota, in conjunction with the area's "Wild Bill Hickok Day" celebration of this legend's birthday.

Wild Bill! An afternoon with James Butler Hickok is actor/writer Walt Willey's tribute to Wild West icon James Butler "Wild Bill" Hickok. Willey will be performing the "Special Edition" of his one-person show – emphasizing Hickok's time in Illinois in the Mendota, Troy Grove and Utica areas – at noon, 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Willey, a LaSalle County native born in Ottawa who played Jackson Montgomery on the long-running daytime drama All My Children for almost 25 years, had been looking for a one-man show to take on tour.

"And here was this legend, right in my own backyard. I began to research this man's life and I was fascinated. Even with the myth and fable surrounding him stripped away, his life is as exciting as any of the fiction written about him. And he was six-foot two, blonde and blue, so it wasn't much of a stretch", Willey quipped.

"This is a man who was, in his lifetime, a farmer, a teamster, a trapper, a scout, a spy, a marshal, a sheriff, a gunfighter, an actor and a gambler – and a legend in his own time. And he died at 39. In western movies, when we see gunfighters step into the street for a showdown, it's because Wild Bill did!"

Willey is clearly enthusiastic about his new role. Does he see some of "Wild Bill" in him?

"I guess so. There's the obvious: LaSalle County boys who end up in the spotlight. But there's a war inside Hickok – between the reputation and the truth, the legend and the human being, the role and the one playing it – and that last is something with which I certainly can empathize."

Wild Bill! An afternoon with James Butler Hickok SPECIAL EDITION, "My Time in Illinois," stars Willey as Hickok. "It's Hickok's life story from his own mouth. The sources I've used are the ones that lean on provable truth," said Willey. "Now whether Hickok could separate his truth from legend...well, that's part of the journey."

The first-person narration follows Hickok's life from his birth in 1837 and adventures in Illinois as a youth to his return to the area in 1869.

Northern sky puts on a show

Bryon Walters of Mendota captured stunning images of the Aurora Borealis Northern lights on May 11 southeast of the ADM flour mill on U.S. 34 in Mendota. After patiently waiting, Walters said at 11:35 p.m., a white saucer appeared on the northern horizon. It quickly changed to a deep emerald green and then the colors and rays just exploded. "It was an incredible sight," he said. "It only lasted 10 minutes and then it dissipated." (Photo courtesy of Bryon Walters)

LaSalle County Genealogy Guild welcomes Jim Ridings to discuss his book on the Ottawa Tent Colony

OTTAWA – Jim Ridings will be the guest speaker at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 18 during the LaSalle County Genealogy Guild meeting at 115 W. Glover St., Ottawa.

Ridings has authored many books and will be discussing his book, "The Illustrated History of the Ottawa Tent Colony". At the turn of the century, it was believed that fresh air, rest and a nutritional diet was the best way to treat tuberculosis patients. Since antibiotics had not been developed at that time, TB patients were kept in canvas tents, in freezing winters and blazing hot summers to combat the disease.

Ridings tells an amazing story.

Jim was born in Joliet in 1950. He earned a Bachelor of Science in Journalism with a minor in history from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. He was a reporter at The Daily Times in Ottawa, The Beacon-News in Aurora and several weekly newspapers. He won more than a dozen awards for investigative reporting at both daily newspapers from the Associated Press, United Press International, Copley Press, Illinois PressAssociation, Northern Illinois Newspaper Association, Illinois Department of Mental Health, Aurora Lions Club, and the SDX Society of Professional Journalists.

Ridings, who lives in Herscher with his wife Janet, has authored 32 books of Illinois history, including books about the Cherry Mine Disaster of 1909 and the Ottawa Radium Dial Girls.

The LaSalle County Genealogy Guild hours are Monday and Saturday from 9am to 4pm.

Blackstone School Report Stacy Kelly, Principal

It was Teacher & Staff Appreciation Week May 6-10. We are very blessed to have such a wonderful staff to work with at Blackstone. They were recognized throughout the week in a variety of ways to show our appreciation for all they do. It amazes me the effort they put forth on a daily basis to meet the needs of all of our students. Thank you to all of our parents for all they did to make our teachers and staff feel extra special during this week. Many students brought in notes, cards, pictures or gifts for their teachers as well to show their appreciation. Our staff greatly appreciated all that was done for them throughout the week. Our community is lucky to have such fantastic teachers and support staff!

Mendota OSF works toward overcoming obstacles Hispanic population face

MENDOTA – Graciela Botello needed a new doctor.

Botello's long-time physician was retiring, and the 77-year-old Mendota resident was looking for someone who could not only address her pulmonary fibrosis and other health issues, but who could speak her language, Spanish.

She found Maritza Estrada-O'Brien, MD, who is not only Hispanic, but quite familiar with the struggles many of her Hispanic patients experience when it comes to their well-being.

Botello previously knew Dr. Estrada-O'Brien, which made the transition easier.

"For me to know her and knowing she's Spanish is good because my English is just okay," Botello says. "Sometimes there are words that I can't pronounce, or I don't understand. So, when I ask her something in Spanish, she helps me a lot. And this is good for all the Spanish people in Mendota. They feel comfortable."

Dr. Estrada-O'Brien works at OSF Health-Care Saint Paul Medical Center in Mendota, where 26% of its 7,000 residents are Hispanic. The hospital has five Hispanic physicians and nurse practitioners, some of whom were born and raised in Mendota.

"We're fortunate enough that we have a lot of Spanish speaking providers. I think providers who practice in a community should reflect the population in this area because we do have a higher percentage of Spanish speaking patients," Dr. Estrada-O'Brien said. "I think that has us better equipped to take care of the population. Language barriers as simple as making a phone call to make an appointment can be challenging. Getting your results by being more understanding of your medical conditions is much harder if you don't understand the primary language that your provider speaks. So just being able to speak even a little bit of Spanish is better for patients because they have a better understanding of their medical conditions before they become a problem."

But a language barrier is just the tip of the iceberg.

Dr. Estrada-O'Brien is well versed in the challenges facing those of Hispanic heritage. In fact, she researched many of the issues during her residency program and has been involved in many projects regarding disparities among Hispanics since becoming a physician.

"The state of health among the Latino population depends on location, specifically in rural Illinois," she says. "Latinos or the Hispanic population are at a disadvantage from a health equity standpoint, from a health status standpoint, more so because of access and disparities in health care. It puts Latinos at higher risk for a lower health status. It's mostly because of social determinants of health – access, quality of health care, insurance coverage, language, immigration status, all of which present obstacles with attaining health care."

Among common health issues for the Hispanic population are diabetes, high blood pressure and high cholesterol, which can lead to heart disease, cancer and stroke. For example, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), Hispanics are 50% more likely to die from diabetes or liver disease than non-Hispanic whites. And the number of Hispanics who have died from Alzheimer's disease has risen in the past decade. Genetics, diet, obesity and Type 2 diabetes are thought to be significant risk factors for the spike in Alzheimer's cases.

Experts say problems arise due to a combination of factors including diet, lifestyle and genetics. And if these problems aren't addressed early, they can cause severe complications down the road. That's why early detection and screenings, such as cancer and bone density, are so important.

But that can be difficult, especially if a patient won't seek care in the first place. In general, men are less likely to visit a doctor than women, but it's a far more complex issue with Hispanic men, according to Joy Preciado, a nurse practitioner with OSF HealthCare.

"Many of the men are the head of household and they don't want to take time off work to come in and be seen," said Preciado, who was born and raised in Mendota. "A lot of them say they feel well, so they don't want to come in. Unfortunately, down the line that can lead to diabetes, high blood pressure, things that can be prevented. But if they did a once-a-year checkup they could catch things before they get worse."

Graciela Botello knows this all too well. She's personally had family members who didn't seek proper treatment for cancer and eventually died. Now she tries to educate friends and family about the importance of seeking medical care and practicing self-care.

"When men turn 40, they should go to the doctor to have their prostate checked and women should check their breasts at 30, because you can have cancer and sometimes it can be bad," she says. "And if you don't check yourself out, you can die from it."

OGLESBY - A LaSalle County Farm Bureau donation to Illinois Valley Community College's Eagles Peak Food Pantry will help keep the pantry well stocked.

When Farm Bureau directors visited several area food pantries with donations recently, retired IVCC instructor Doug Stockley returned to the familiar campus to deliver a $400 check to IVCC Foundation Executive Director Tracy Beattie.

"This generous donation will greatly assist us in supporting our students' needs," said Dean of Student Success Crystal Credi. A refrigerator donation in December enabled Eagles Peak to add refrigerated and frozen items in 2024, and the food pantry tries to maintain a sufficient supply of them, Credi said. Canned or dried fruit, shelf-stable milk and other popular products can also be in short supply.

The food pantry is located next to the Counseling Department in CTC 202R and is available to current IVCC students and students enrolled in Illinois High School diploma courses and English as a Second Language courses. Over the last quarter of 2023, the pantry served 213 households, including 200 children.

The Board also renewed a lease for the University of Illinois Extension Program to use six rooms totaling 1,300 square feet in the IVCC main campus building. Annual rent will be $18,204 and the lease extends through June 30, 2027.

In her monthly report, President Dr. Tracy Morris informed Board members:

• Upcoming events include commencement on May 18, nurse pinning ceremonies on May 18 and July 10, Adult Education Recognition on May 22, IVCC Alumni Night at the Illinois Valley Pistol Shrimp game on May 31, and a theater department alumni celebration on June 29.

• Fall enrollment increased in headcount and credit hours over last fall, and summer enrollment also saw increases over a year ago in all categories: traditional credit, dual-credit, and online courses.

• Eagles Peak usage peaked in February and April, averaged 38 visits a month in January through April, and served an average of 24 households occupied by 31 children.

The Board approved a two-year employment contract for Vice President of Business Services Kathryn Ross, and appointed Ellen Evancheck as the Director of Learning Resources. Heather Seghi and Jennifer Scheri were approved to provide interim Workforce Development support while a vacancy in that division is being filled.

The Board learned:

• Katelyn Vigars was appointed head volleyball coach.

 Nursing instructor Marjorie Francisco retires this month after 20 years

 Nursing instructor Cathy Lenkaitis was selected for an Illinois Board of Higher Education Nurse Educator Award. The fellowship awards 10,000 to nursing faculty for professional development, conference expenses, and continuing education. A total of 80 fellowships was awarded.

OGLESBY - This spring, Morgan Phillips and Emily Maze will leave their mark on Illinois Valley Community College in a way neither could have predicted when they were students there.

Stroke by stroke, their brush with history emerges inside a repurposed church in tiny Rutland. The nave now holds a congregation of three and a tall wooden frame that supports an aluminum substrate on which Maze and Phillips are bringing Ray Paseka's vision of IVCC to life.

IVCC commissioned the 10-foot-high-by-20-footwide mural to recognize its 100-year anniversary this year. The art will be mounted above the C-Building entrance, where separate aluminum canvases will span the wall as seamlessly as Paseka's subject has bridged the decades from LaSalle-Peru High School to the 21st century Oglesby campus.

A founder of Westclox Studios in Mendota, Paseka's public art palette includes Cherry's coal history and Streator's trompe l'oeil streetscape in Heritage Park. Phillips and Maze have assisted in recent projects capturing Mendota's railroad history and Seneca's shipbuilding, canal, and transportation past.

Their latest indoor work will be displayed in a unique gallery in full view of streams of college students, parents, alumni, high school tours, arriving freshmen, theater-goers, and campus visitors, Paseka reminds them.

"This is important stuff. It will make a lasting impression on everyone. There will be hundreds of young people walking through the corridor and this will permanently affect them," says Paseka, who is no stranger to how public art projects impact the communities around them.

Maze and Phillips understand because they feel the power too. Maze has been fascinated with public art projects since she saw the Chicago Cows Parade. She likes the idea of "being able to see the physical product of what you create. The community looks better and that makes me excited, which makes others excited."

Phillips agrees. "It's nice to see people excited and feeling better about their community. Some people don't feel like there's a lot out here in rural Illinois for them, but there's more here than they think."

They enjoy the historical insights their mural work has brought them, but learning what has been lost to time also saddens them.

Phillips grew up in IVCC's halls, where she and her brother spent school breaks while their father, Mike, taught his geology classes. "We might have wandered farther afield than he realized," she says. But the exploration paid off later as a student when "finding my classrooms was no problem!"

Maze's IVCC association is more recent, but her family's history in the Illinois Valley began even before the College's. She recently finished a portrait of her many-greats-grandfather Maze on a giant sawblade that hangs in the company office and fuses her family past with her own present.

"She has a gift with scrap metal," Phillips said. Maze welds the assorted odd shapes she collects into pleasing animals and other designs. She became intrigued with metalwork since working with Paseka, who enjoys many varieties of art and sculpting.

Though they dabbled in art as children, degree pursuits pushed them toward tourism and parks administration (Maze) and industrial design (Phillips). Maze still plays French horn in the Illinois Valley Symphony Orchestra. Phillips is seeking political office.

Weeks into the IVCC project, the mural's principal foreground characters are nearly fleshed out. Maze and Phillips, paint-splattered from shoulder to sneaker toe, stand or kneel on a floor protectively sheathed against splashes and drips. Scaffolding has been temporarily set aside but will be used again to complete the complex background.

Maze airbrushes finishing touches on the iconic L-P High School clock tower at her old high school, pausing between bursts to examine the effects. Phillips invites a closer glance at one of the figures, where she has embellished a young man's wristwatch with a tiny "Westclox Studios" on its face in a nod both to her studio and the area's clock-making history. She also laced the modern campus setting with spring buds and foliage, relishing every moment of a full-color splurge after long immersion in vintage monochrome.

Paseka created two couples, one vintage pair comparing ideas over a typewriter with the clock tower behind them and a modern pair collaborating over laptops against a backdrop of IVCC's ultramodern roofline.

Paseka studies his handiwork with satisfaction, noting how postures, props and settings animate and distinguish the eras in both halves before imagery knits them together.

"Brilliant ideas from the past affect today and ideas today owe the past," he said. He encourages his assistants to embrace the past but move beyond it. "Artists don't always like to branch into unusual challenges. I want them to take their skills and accelerate to a higher level and not be afraid of it."

A special person

Every May, women across the world are celebrated for being mothers on Mother's Day.

Usually, for the most part, it's for the mothers who raise and help their own children through life and all its obstacles.

Sometimes, definitely more times than not, the women who guide children, who they did not conceive, are left out or forgotten. If praised, just not enough. Let's face it, it takes a special kind of person to not only raise their own children but then to assist others.

I'm thinking of a special woman who not only raised her own three children, but then took on the responsibility of another child. Not just a child, but a problematic teenage boy who was in and out of trouble every other day.

There wasn't a Saturday he wasn't in school. There wasn't an in-school suspension without his name on the list.

He knew the staff at the detention home, and they knew him.

Many counselors had them in their chairs, whether at school or a clinic.

During a seventh-grade dance, he was banned from all others after knocking down a kid with a swift jab and then dropping a flying elbow on his head in 'Macho Man'' Randy Savage style.

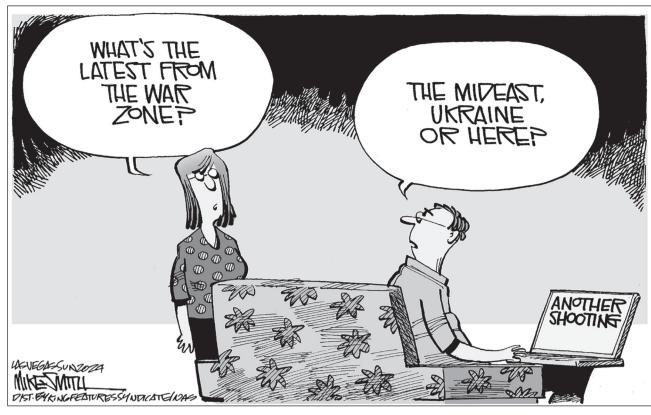

He was kicked out of eighth grade after punching a kid in the stomach and driving his head into a locker after a comment was made about his biological mom. The suspension led to an expulsion.

Without acceptance to public school, the teenager had to ride in a chauffeured van to a school 45 minutes away to learn, study, and take tests on a computer during alternative school hours.

After finishing the program and receiving the junior high diploma, it wasn't long before he was back in the correctional system as the kid joined an older family member he looked at as a role model to steal. The list of stolen property was long, and so was the sentence in juvenile prison as he went to three different institutions throughout the state during his time.

By time he got out of prison, his freshman year had come and gone.

Thankfully, he took tests and was picked on by others in jumpsuits because he studied, but he was allowed back in public school as a sophomore, and although there were a few rough patches, he was able to graduate and was accepted into four different colleges. There were adult pains with a summer in county jail eight hours after freshman year in college ended, DUIs and alcoholic behavior, messy relationship breakups, job firings and quitting, and a car accident.

Classon's & other groceries – 1939-54

(The following is from Jessica Nashold's Backtracks & Sidetracks column reprinted from May 14, 1997.) By Jessica Nashold

On Aug. 10, 1939, The Mendota Reporter announced that Mr. and Mrs. Leo Classon of Sheridan had purchased the King grocery on East Sixth Street. For Mrs. Classon, the former Virginia Ferguson, it was coming home to the community where she had been born and raised.

There was no shortage of grocery stores in Mendota in 1939. Competition for the Classons included another grocery on the east side, North Star Grocery. There were three chain groceries -Kroger's, A & P and National Tea. On Main Street, there were Moller & Sauer and Mildred's. On Washington Street there were the OK Market operated by Charles Montagnoli and Elsesser's Super Service. Frank & Harry Schmitz's Royal Blue Grocery faced Jefferson while Truckbrod's Locker and Kobusch's Mendota Food Market faced Illinois.

In 1939, groceries sold six-bottle cartons of Coca Cola for 25 cents plus deposit. Grocery orders were written down on small pads with a carbon copy and clerks did the addition. Sometimes they were paid in cash. Very often the order would go on a spindle as customers took advantage of credit extended by the grocers.

In the summer of 1940, all grocers, with the exception of three in the downtown area, agreed to close on Thursday afternoon. So the Classons probably had Thursday afternoon off.

That fall, the military draft was inaugurated although were not yet at war. Mendota, 581 registered in the draft.

Bring your own sugar.

In January 1942, M.J. Edwards opened a grocery store on Sixth Street, east of 13th Avenue, but closed it "for the duration" in March 1943.

All applicants for ration books in February 1943 were required to declare any canned and bottle goods they had on their shelves. Registration was in Lincoln School gym and school was closed while 5,000 came in to secure rations. That same month there was a severe shortage of meat.

Patrons had to take the kind of meat they could get, not necessarily what they would have liked.

In April 1943, all eating and drinking establishments were required to file their menus and price lists with the War Price Rationing Board. Point values were assigned to meat, fat (including butter), fish and cheese. These points went into effect June 6, 1943.

That summer, Truckenbrod built an addition to their locker.

On July 29, 1943, came welcome news

Beginning today, coffee is no longer rationed.

A minimum wage was set for workers in the canned fruit and vegetable industry - 40 cents per hour. Corn was canned in Mendota.

A sales tax was imposed on food in adjoining the locker and later expanded again.

With the end of the war, V-E Day was celebrated in May and V-J Day in August. But rationing did not go away overnight. Returning servicemen were told they could obtain ration books though the local office managed by Mrs. Victor Schuhler.

The end of sugar rationing is not in sight.

Richard Edwards opened a grocery store at 205 Fourth Ave. in January 1947. He advertised hours from 7 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. seven days a week.

An ad in The Reporter in 1951 indicated "one of the best grocery stores in town" was for sale. This proved to be Mildred's Grocery at 618 Main St. operated by Mildred Stoldorf. It was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Girsch in November 1951 and was renamed Girsch Pantry.

During that year, the Gallagher subdivision near Lake Mendota was annexed to the city and in November 1951, Block I was designated a business block.

The Woods grocery became Walker's Food Shop, conducted by Ralph Walker. Then in 1952, Henry Sauer sold his grocery on Main Street to George Schuetz, who had been in his employ for five years.

In the summer of 1953, Classons announced their plan to build a supermarket in the Gallagher subdivision to open the following year. They closed their Royal Blue store downtown on Aug. 22, 1953, and in October, John Walked moved his furniture and floor covering business there.

While awaiting the completion of

Throughout everything, absolutely everything described above and way beyond, this woman was there

She talked to him. Told him he was wrong. Gave him examples of what could have been done different or different ways he could have thought about certain situations or actions. Let him know there were different options or paths than the ones he was taking.

There was always a seat at the table for him.

There was always a seat in the car for a fun trip, vacation, or just to ride around.

There was always the warm, welcome embrace of a hug or smile to let him know things would be alright if he wanted them to be.

He always knew he was loved.

He joined the National Guard. He graduated college. He began his journalism career in February 2005 and it hasn't stopped since. He has won eight writing awards. He has been a public speaker for both his career and to young kids to not make the same mistakes he has. He officiates baseball, softball, basketball, and volleyball games to give back to the kids, community, and sports.

The now 30-something man is part of community nonprofit organizations and for-profit associations which help the community grow.

And although it takes something inside an individual to push past demons and to change surroundings and associates, they can't do it without support.

That someone to make them realize they matter, and they can do good things.

From that 12-year-old pain in the butt to the grown man who is determined to do all the good he can in any way possible, thank you. The biggest thank you EVER.

I could never be in the place I am or do the things I'm doing if it wasn't for you.

Happy Mother's Day

John Woods began selling groceries in early 1941 I, the Phillips 66 gas station on 13th Avenue north of Washington Street.

With the declaration of war in December 1941, grocery stores were among the first businesses to be affected. Sugar rationing began in May 1942, followed by coffee rationing in November. Housewives were urged to strain fat and grease and take it to their meat market in tin cans. They would be paid 5 cents per pound

More than a ton of grease has been salvaged here.

When family reunions were announced in the paper there was a new provision.

1944 and since fractions of a cent were involved, grocers were obliged to secure a supply of tokens.

The one point tokens will be needed to make change under the new system.

On Dec. 16, 1944, John Woods opened a second grocery store on the store on Sixth Street vacated by Mr. Edwards. He put Mrs. Arthur Meyer in charge while maintain the grocery in the Phillips 66 station as well

On Feb. 3, 1945, Classons bought the Schmitz Royal Blue grocery and Virginia continued in charge of the Sixth Street store until the lease expired in August.

Truckenbrods bought Lipke's lot their new store, the Classsons found time for special store-related instruction – for example, the Argus training course in meats.

The new store was ready in April 1954. It faced Meriden Street and was also accessible from Lakeshore Drive. A grand opening was held Sunday, April 4, attended by 4,000 former and future customers. On Monday, April 5, Classon's Royal Blue Supermarket opened for business.

Its subsequent history was covered in the April 30, 1997, issue of The Reporter, including sale of the business to Gene and Carolyn Politsch in 1972, and the recent transfer to Thompson Food Basket, a chain of 11 supermarkets.

Biden suffers collapse in his standing

By Rich Lowry

President Joe Biden has suffered a collapse in his standing generally, but, fundamentally, it's because so few people think he's doing a good job that he's in such a perilous state.

Other than that, it's going great.

It's hard to exaggerate how abysmal Biden's polling has been lately.

No incumbent president should ever want to be near 43% in a head-to-head ballot test. Yet here is Joe Biden at 43% in the latest CNN poll, 43% in the latest Morning Consult poll, 43% in the latest Economist/YouGov poll, and 43% in the latest Harvard/Harris poll. (NB: Biden ticked up to 48 when Harvard/Harris pushed respondents to choose between Trump and Biden, and the Economist/YouGov poll had RFK Jr. in the mix.)

Detect a trend? (There are other polls that have Biden a little higher.) It's no mystery why Biden's polling is at crisis levels.

An incumbent president's level of support in a reelection bid is typically tethered closely to his job approval. It's hard to get much more than a couple of points above it. Biden's job approval is at 40% in the RealClearPolitics polling average and at 39.3 in the 538 polling average.

The CNN poll has Biden's job approval right there at 40%, where it's held steady for about a year, with 60% disapproving. The Harvard/Harris has his approval rating a little higher at 44%, even though he's at 43% in the ballot test.

It's not just that Biden's job approval is low; he's trailing Trump on the rather crucial metric of who was or is a successful president.

According to the CNN poll, 55% of the public now considers the Trump presidency a success and 44% look at it as a failure. Biden, in contrast, is upside down. Only 39% say his presidency has been a success, while 61% say it's been a failure.

People may have all sorts of expectations for presidents

-- that they not get indicted, that they not post on TruthSocial in ALL CAPS, that they accept the results of elections, etc., etc. -- but the most important one, surely, is that they succeed at the job.

Being considered a failed president is not, needless to say, a status consistent with winning reelection.

Of course, the economy is the biggest anchor on Biden. His numbers there are in the tank. CNN has his approval on the economy at 34% and inflation at 29%. The Economist/ YouGov poll found the same thing -- 39% approval on the economy and 29% on prices.

In a normal election, these numbers simply wouldn't be survivable. But with two extremely well-known, unpopular candidates, this is not a normal race.

Trump's history and personal radioactivity give Biden a lot of material to work with. And it's a boon to him that his opponent is locked down in a courtroom several days a week.

The problem for Biden is that many of the attacks on Trump -- especially those based on his legal prosecutions feel besides the point compared to the bigger questions in the race. Are more people going to care that Trump has been convicted of felonious bookkeeping related to a payment to a porn star eight years ago or that they think he can do a better job handling inflation?

And there's more bad news for Biden: Besides disapproving of his job performance and his economy, people don't particularly like him, don't think he's a strong leader, and don't think he's fit to be president.

If all that represents trouble for the incumbent, the biggest problem, again, is that he's failing at his job. The most direct way for Joe Biden to improve his chances in November would be to become a good president -- although it's unfair to place such unrealistic expectations on him at this juncture in his presidency and career.

By Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- Shocking news! Martin Scorsese's planning a biopic of Frank Sinatra ... with blue-eyed Leonardo DiCaprio as "Old Blue Eyes!" Even more startling is that he wants Jennifer Lawrence to play the screen goddess Ava Gardner. It'll take a lot more than makeup and intense acting to transform both of them into two Hollywood legends we all remember only too well!

The times that I encountered and photographed Sinatra, he wrote the script for everything happening around him. The night I spent with Gardner on the set of "Earthquake" in 1974, she was every inch an iconic movie star because she truly believed it until the day she died. Her awe-striking presence made you believe it, too.

In 2004, DiCaprio played Howard Hughes in "The Aviator," but Hughes' fame was a whole different ball game than playing Frank Sinatra with all of his complex facets.

If you've seen a trailer online showing Henry Cavill as James Bond (with an American accent, no less), you're looking at a fake AI video. Cavill had no knowledge or input in the video, but his people believe that his overzealous fans, who've been campaigning on his behalf to be cast as 007, took matters into their own capable hands.

Frankly, Cavill, at 41, is already too old. James Bond is supposed to be 37 years old, and the next film won't be out for at least two years. After the dismal box-office takes of "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." (2015) and "Argylle" (2024), the former Superman is an unlikely choice. Still, the "fake" video pulled in 2.3 million viewers.

Academy-Award-winning actor Eddie Redmayne received mixed reviews in the Broadway production of "Cabaret" for his portrayal of The Emcee (played by Joel Grey on Broadway and in the film). Unsuspecting audiences are led into an alley, past garbage cans to a dimly lit lounge, where greeters offer free shots of cherry schnapps. This is followed by 75 minutes of nightclub ambiance in various bars en route to the theater that has been transformed into the actual Kit Kat Club, where the show begins.

Even though Redmayne won the prestigious Laurence Olivier Award (one of seven wins for the show), a New York Times critic wrote, "This all seemed like throat-clearing to me.... The only relevant purpose I can see for this conceptional doodling, however well carried out, is to give the fifth Broadway incarnation of the 1966 show a distinctive profile.'

But the critic for Entertainment Weekly was totally glowing about the show, calling it the hottest ticket on Broadway right now and "an unforgettable, immersive experience that lures audiences in with visions of sweet, sweet hedonism before bowling them over with a harrowing, unflinching tale." See it and decide for yourself if life is a "Cabaret" or a cabernet!

So, Monk submits a stereotypical novel to his publishers as a joke, but when it brings him commercial success, he's forced to become the very idea of what he hates the most -- an inauthentic writer who panders to the wrong community. Q: Is it true that Tracy Morgan is returning to "Saturday Night Live" as part of the cast again? -- K.S.

A: Tracy Morgan spent seven years as a cast member on "Saturday Night Live," but he has no plans to return in that capacity. He has returned to host twice so far and will no doubt host again someday.

Morgan starred in his self-titled sitcom "The Tracy Morgan Show," but it was canceled after one season. He made a much bigger splash playing a hilarious parody of himself in the Tina Fey sitcom "30 Rock." He later went on to star in another successful series "The Last O.G." for four seasons.

You'll likely see him hosting "SNL" to promote his new sitcom "Crutch" when it begins airing on Paramount+. "Crutch" is a spin-off of the hit CBS sitcom "The Neighborhood." Morgan has gueststarred on that show before and played Calvin's (Cedric the Entertainer) wealthy brother, Curtis, but he'll be playing a completely different character on "Crutch."

According to the official logline, Crutch is Cedric's cousin, "a Harlem widower

Q: Whatever happened to the show "Deadliest Catch?" I know that a couple of people who were originally on it have passed away. Is it ever coming back? -- T.A.

A: "Deadliest Catch," a documentary-reality show about the perilous world of crabbing on the high seas, premiered in 2005 on the Discovery Channel. Tragedy has struck the show numerous times in the form of natural causes, overdoses, and accidents involving the ships and their equipment. Despite all the hardship and heartbreak, the show is going on its 20th season this summer.

According to Entertainment Weekly, fan-favorite captains Sig Hansen, Keith Colburn and Wild Bill Wichrowski are all returning and will be competing in a derby-style race to reach a $1 million quota.

Season 20 of "Deadliest Catch" premieres on Tuesday, June 11, at 8 p.m. ET on Discovery and will be available to stream on Max soon afterward.

SPRINGFIELD– In light of the Illinois Department of Natural Resources'

open to Rezin

a possible name change of the famous Starved Rock State Park, Illinois Senate Deputy Republican Leader Sue Rezin (R-Morris) has filed a resolution in support of keeping the park's current name.

"While I recognize desires to create open dialogue on issues such as naming parks and places after Indigenous peoples and their legends, I believe that this well-intended but misguided proposal will result in more harm than good," said Sen. Rezin. "The Starved Rock name has become a treasured part of the local community's identity and brand. There are far too many people who rely on the park's nationally recognized name for their livelihoods." Senate Resolution 956 advocates for the preservation of the state park's historic name. It notes the importance that the Starved Rock name has on the local community and acknowledges the concerns of residents and businesses regarding the potential renaming of the state park. Finally, it encourages open dialogue with relevant stakeholders, including Tribal Nations and Indigenous communities, to address concerns and explore ways to honor the park's heritage while respecting diverse perspectives.

"It is vital that we honor the important history of Starved Rock State Park," said Sen. Rezin. "I truly believe that there is a path to accomplish that goal in a way that preserves the park's iconic name while respecting the heritage of Indigenous people."

The Resolution was filed in the Illinois Senate on April 30 and is currently awaiting assignment.

Mendota's Elam takes first in three events at sectional

Freshman to participate in IHSA state meet May 16-18

ROCHELLE - Mariyah Elam has been stellar all season for the Mendota High School girls' track team, and she was again when it counted the most.

The MHS freshman claimed first place in three events in the Rochelle Class 2A Girls'

Track & Field Sectional on May 8, thus earning a trip to the IHSA State Track & Field Meet. Elam claimed the top spot in the 100-meter hurdles, the high jump and the triple jump.

Her time in the hurdles M. Elam was 15.91, just barely out-racing second-place Katie Kostro of Aurora Rosary, who was clocked in 15.92.

In the high jump, Elam had a winning height of 5-4.5. Second place went to Addison Vicary of Plano at 5-2.5.

Elam capped off her trifecta of first-place finishes in the triple jump with a measurement of 35-8.75 to easily outdistance second-place Eloina Montesinos of Plano, who turned in a distance of 34-10.5.

"Mariyah has been an exceptional athlete to work with all season," said Mendota coach Joe Hughes. "Mariyah has been able to exceed ours and even her own expectations in high jump this year. We knew about her high jump abilities from her eighth-grade year when she placed fourth at state. All of her other skills were a wonderful surprise."

The Lady Trojans' next best finish in the sectional was by the 4x200-meter relay team, which was sixth in a time of 1:54.16. Running for MHS were Elam, Grace Wasmer, Laylie Denault and Aby Buettner.

"Our 4x200 team had a decent chance of advancing out of the sectional as a team," said Hughes. "We ran a PR (personal record) even with a couple of shaky handoffs and finished sixth."

Mendota placed 10th in the team standings with 33 points. Sterling won the sectional title with 97.5 points while Aurora Rosary and Freeport were a distant second with 73 points apiece.

"Our team as a whole did about as much as I could have asked from them at the sectional meet," added Hughes.

The IHSA State Track & Field Meet will be held Thursday, May 16 through Saturday, May 18 at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston.

Heading into the state meet, Elam and fellow freshman Aubrey Holthaus of Macomb are tied for the best sectional high jump in the state at 5-4.5.

May 8 – Rochelle Sectional

Mendota 1st place: Mariyah Elam, 100m hurdles, 15.91; Elam, high jump, 5-4.5; Elam, triple jump, 35-8.75

Mendota 6th place: 4x200m relay (Grace Wasmer, Elam, Laylie Denault, Aby Buettner), 1:54.16

Mendota 9th place: Buettner, 300m hurdles, 52.89; Buettner, long jump, 15-4.25 Mendota 10th place: Harlow Foltynewicz, high jump, 4-6.75

Girls' soccer team falls in regional

very noticeable for anyone

OREGON-The Mendota girls' soccer team had its season come to an end after a 5-1 loss to Aurora Central Catholic in the opening round of the Oregon Class 1A Regional on May 11 at Oregon. The. Lady Trojans closed the season with a 12-7-1 record.

Crystal Garcia scored the lone goal for Mendota.

"Overall we had a successful season," said MHS coach Nick Myers. "It didn't end the way we would have liked or gone as far as we would have liked but looking back on the season as a whole it was a very successful season. The girls were able to finish 12-7 overall, which is our best record since going 14-5 in 2012.

"The improvements were that followed us this year. The girls started to buy in at the beginning of the season and continued to get better and better. Having such a young team I think helped in lots of cases as they were coachable and then they saw the results on the field, which motivated them to keep getting better. With a young team like this gaining knowledge of the sport and certain situations within the games/sport is very important.

"We took a lot of practice time this season to go over quite a few things that are important and will help us develop further going into next year. Some of the girls played indoor soccer in the winter leading up to the season, which helped also. Just getting touches on the ball and being in live game situations even before the season helped us.

"My hope is that a good chunk of our team stays active over the summer, whether that's playing club soccer or just being involved in other sports here at MHS. We continue to push our girls to train in the offseason whether it's conditioning or weightlifting. A lot of them take our strength and conditioning class at MHS, which keeps them active and gets them stronger as well. I hope after a successful season that the girls use that as motivation to take the next step and really want to win a regional and advance to sectionals next spring.'

Northbrook sending four track members to IESA state meet will make the trip to the state

GENOA - Northbrook Middle School's track team competed in the IESA Class 3A Sectional at Genoa-Kingston on May 10. Four of Northbrook's student-athletes qualified for the IESA State Track Meet to be held May 17-18 in East Peoria.

Seventh grader Jeniah Francis participated in the 100-meter dash, the 200-meter dash and the high jump. She finished first in the high jump and was second in both running events.

Axel Ruiz, a seventh grader, ran to a first-place finish in the 400-meter dash to qualify for state.

Two eighth graders also #### first place in the high jump and Lupita Sandoval placed second in the discus. "Jeniah has been going crazy all season. She has taken first or second in the meet. Rylee Woods took 100, 200, and the high jump all season long. She just has fun with it," said coach Heather Friedlein.

Friedlein said Sandoval has been focused on going to state in shot and discus, and threw state qualifying marks early in the season.

"She knew going into the sectional exactly who the competition was," noted Friedlein. "She has been trying to advance her technique and her spin all season long She's one of the most focused on her craft on our team."

Friedlein added that Woods went into the sectional as the number one seed in the high jump and Ruiz has been improving his time in the 400 at almost every meet.

"All four of the athletes going to state have been competing all season long for the state tournament," added Friedlein. "State has been on the plate for them since the first or second meet of the season. All of them put in the work and I'm really excited to see what they can do at state with tough competition to push them."

Trojans survive regional opener

MENDOTA - Mendota survived a late comeback by Oregon to post a 7-4 victory over the Hawks in the opening round of the Sterling Newman Class 2A Regional Baseball

The Trojans (12-8) will meet Newman in the semifinals on Thursday, May 16 at Sterling. First pitch is at 4:30 p.m. The other semifinal game will pit Rock Falls against Pecatonica on May 17, with the semifinal winners to meet for the regional title at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 18.

Staked to the 5-1 lead, Mendota starting pitcher Izaiah Nanez switched places with shortstop Braiden Freeman in the fifth. Oregon struck for three runs off of Freeman and had the bases loaded with one out when Nanez retook the mound. He struck out the next batter on three pitches and then picked off a Hawk baserunner at first to end the threat.

Mendota added single runs in the fifth and sixth innings, getting a sacrifice bunt RBI by Josh Figueroa and an infield ground ball RBI by Nanez.

Nanez earned the victory, allowing six hits, one earned run, walking one and fanning seven.

Area seventh and eighth grade athletes compete at state track meet By BRANDON LaCHANCE

Staff writer

EAST PEORIA - Holy Cross Catholic School in Mendota, Allen Junior High School in LaMoille, and Earlville Junior High all had plenty to celebrate after the  $conclusion\,of the\, IESA Class\, 1 A\, State\, Meet$ on Friday, May 10 and Saturday, May 11 at EastSide Centre in East Peoria.

Komen Denault, an eighth grader at Holy Cross, finished second in the boys' pole vault with a vault of 2.66 meters, while seventh grader Leo Engels competed in the boys' pole vault prelims.

Seventh grader Eva Beetz finished ninth in the 400-meter dash with a time of 1:07.49 and she competed in the long jump prelims.

'I've been the track coach at Holy Cross for two months. Coming in, I didn't know what to expect," said Holy Cross coach Thomas Makransky, who graduated from St. Bede in 2023 after qualifying for the 2023 IHSA Class 1A State Meet. "There were only 13 kids on the team. Having three athletes advance to the state meet is amazing. I had a lot of fun this season and I think they did also.

"It was the first year Holy Cross had to go to state," said Kenny Shrimplin, who coaches LaMoille track with his wife Staci Shrimplin. "We took the 4x1 relay to state last year. We knew we had speed again this year and we knew going to state and placing well was possible. We worked on handoffs, and they've been nailing them all season. It has been a fun season.

"Olivea made it to state last year in shot put. I knew she was the best thrower in the county and in the area. We started workouts in February. She was bound and determined. So was Gage. His main goal was to make it in both shot and discuss. He is a coach's dream because he would go home, research, and then ask me if he could borrow a shot put to throw at home. He would come to practice the next day and show me what he worked on.

"It was amazing to have two throwers, because that doesn't happen often, and a relay team represent LaMoille. Staci and I are proud."

Earlville had three 13th-place finishes as eight grader Audrey Scherer was 13th in both the girls' shot put (8.47 meters) and discus (25.26 meters), and seventh grader Daniel Hoffman was 13th in the boys' shot put with a throw of 8.44 meters.

Take a step into your destiny

When it comes to running their race and fulfilling the dreams that God has placed in their hearts, I believe a lot of Christians are stuck in the starting blocks. They aren't sure how a situation is going to turn out or exactly what they should do...so they do nothing.

Instead of running the race that God has set out for them (Hebrews 12:1), they are letting worry and anxiety keep them frozen at the starting line.

You see, God has an amazing plan for your life and so many good things in store for you... if you are willing to take a step.

God wants you to participate in the miracle He is doing in your life. If you think that you're going to wake up one day and supernaturally be at the finish line, you're going to be disappointed. It doesn't work that way.

In our relationship with God, each one of us is given the great opportunity to walk out our faith. Just as Adam and Eve walked with God in the cool of the garden, or just as the disciples walked with Jesus on the roads of Galilee, we are called to walk with the Lord on a daily basis.

But in order to walk, you have to do something-you have to take the steps that God leads you to take. Every day, God is encouraging you to go-to step out, commit your plans to God, and trust that He can help you be all that you can be, just like it says in Psalm 37 5 (NKJV): Commit your way to the Lord, trust also in Him, and He shall bring it to pass.

But many times, because we aren't sure of all the steps, we don't even take the first one. We're waiting for God to tell us how the next five years of our lives are going to work out, and God is telling us what to do today.

I've learned in my relationship with God that He doesn't always give me the entire plan—He usually just gives me the next step. God keeps secrets and hides things from us so we will walk in faith and continue seeking Him. He always reveals what we need to know at the right time.

Your dream may be to have a ministry that reaches the world, but

God is asking you to take step one-share the Gospel with your neighbor across the street.

You may be praying that God will give you your own business, but God is asking you to take step one-show up for work on time and be faithful at the job you have now.

You may be trying to figure out how to lose a certain amount of weight, but God wants you to take step one—exercise for 20 minutes today.

We have a tendency to get so wrapped up in the destination that we never even begin the journey! So, what is God asking you to do today? Faith is always active-always. It is not passive. Faith requires that you move forward into what God is telling you to do.

Sometimes people say to me, "Joyce, because I'm not one hundred percent sure what God is saying to me, I'm afraid I'm going to take the wrong step.'

I understand this concern, but did you spot a certain word in there? "Afraid." It is not the will of God for fear to rule in any area of your life-especially your walk with Him. Don't be afraid to take a step because you think it will be the wrong one. God sees your heart. He knows that you are trying to please Him and live in obedience to His Word.

He is not a cruel. angry God who is going to punish you if you take a misstep along the way. He sees your heart is right and you are trying to take a step toward His plan for your life...and He is going to bless you for your desire to walk in your destiny.

So, take a step—God is waiting for you!

BIBLE TRIVIA by Wilson Casey

1. Is the book of 2 Thessalonians (KJV) in the Old or New Testament or neither?

lf I Can By William Arthur Ward If I can write one verse of truth today Or give my fellow man a song to sing; If I can push one needless cloud away And help men live as children of the King: If I can lend someone a helping hand Or warm a place where friendship needs to be; If I can build a bridge where fences stand And light a lamp that other men might see; If I can open doors of hope this day By letting someone know that others care; If I can speak in words that seem to say: I know the heavy burdens that you bear. If I can guide a pilgrim on his way Or pause to bid him stay for food and rest; If I can do these, Father, this I pray: "O let me do them with my very best."

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

And if it seems evil to you to serve the Lord, choose for yourselves this day whom you will serve, whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the River, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you dwell. # LAWN & GARDEN

The maintenance required to keep a plant healthy and looking good is a key consideration when designing a landscape.

Tips to pick the right plants for your landscape

Each year, gardening enthusiasts anxiously await the arrival of spring. Spring is a great season to plant new flowers, plants, grasses, and trees, making it a popular time of year to spend sunny days out in the yard.

Veteran gardeners may know their landscapes well and be able to pick the right plants on their own. Novices may need a little help as they look to give their landscapes a whole new look. The following are some helpful tips to help homeowners pick the right plants for their landscapes.

• Conduct a site evaluation. A colorful landscape featuring an array of plants and flowers can be eye-catching and add curb appeal to a property. However, where plants will be planted is a significant variable that must be considered before homeowners choose what to plant. The Center for Agriculture, Food, and the Environment at the University of Massachusetts Amherst notes that site evaluation is the first step when picking plants. A number of factors must be evaluated, including light availability; water availability; exposure to the elements, including wind and extreme temperatures; and competition from existing vegetation, among other things. Document these variables prior to picking plants. For example, take note of the area you plan to plant to see if it is full sun or partial shade, and then pick plants whose growing conditions align with those you observe.

• Look at more than looks. Aesthetic appeal might be what homeowners most desire from their landscapes, but that appeal is only achieved when the right plants are chosen for a space. If the wrong plants are chosen, they're unlikely to thrive or they could threaten existing vegetation, thus compromising the overall appeal of the property. Native plants can often handle local weather conditions, so prioritize natives over more exotic plants whose key attribute is aesthetic appeal. If jaw-dropping aesthetic appeal is your top priority, speak with a local landscaping professional about which natives can provide that without compromising surrounding vegetation.

• Consider maintenance prior to planting. Maintenance is another variable gardeners must consider. Newly planted trees may require substantial watering until they've fully established their roots, and some homeowners may not have time for that. In addition, certain plants may require a considerable amount of pruning in order to create and maintain the look homeowners desire. Individuals must be willing to invest the time and effort necessary to maintain new plantings that require such diligence. If not, look for plants that don't require much maintenance while keeping in mind that even low-maintenance plants still require some effort and attention.

• Consider local wildlife. If your lawn is routinely visited by local wildlife, then look for plants that won't look like a meal to these welcome, if uninvited, guests. For example, if you routinely see deer lounging around in your backyard, look for deer-resistant plants. This is a good way to protect your investment, of both time and money, and ensure minimal wildlife traffic through your newly landscaped yard. Spring gardens are awe-inspiring, especially when homeowners embrace various strategies for successful planting.

Brighten any space with containers of summer-flowering bulbs

By Melinda Myers

Add unexpected beauty to your patio, deck, or balcony with summer-blooming bulbs. You may have grown elephant ears, lilies, dahlias, gladiolus, and caladiums in your garden, but did you know they also thrive in containers? Some summer bulbs grow even better in pots than they do in the garden. These include the exotic-looking flowers of Abyssinian gladiolus, calla lilies, pineapple lilies, and spider lilies.

One of the reasons these bulbs perform so well in containers is that you can be sure they get warm soil, consistent water, and plenty of nutrients. Taller plants like gladiolus, lilies, dahlias, cannas, and elephant ears are the perfect thrillers for large containers. Their bold foliage and extravagant blooms are sure to steal the show. Just plant the bulbs in spring along with your other annuals. As temperatures rise, these heat-loving bulbs will begin to fill in and soon burst into bloom providing added texture and color from late summer through fall.

You may find that summer-blooming bulbs like the pineapple lily (Eucomis), calla lily, and fragrant Hymenocallis perform better in their own containers because there is no competition with other plants for space, nutrients, and moisture. Before the bulbs begin flowering, their foliage provides an attractive backdrop for other container plants that bloom earlier in the season. Once flowering begins, you can move the pots front and center to fully enjoy the show. In cold climates, growing in containers also makes it easier to overwinter the bulbs. Just move the pots indoors to a cool, dark location until it's time to replant the next spring

Combine plants of different sizes and shapes to create visual excitement. Containers filled with tall plants such as gladiolus, cannas, tall varieties of dahlias, and large elephant ears provide striking vertical of the larger pots. Add a few planters filled with your favorite annuals to keep the color going all season long.

Many summer-blooming bulbs are wonderfully fragrant. Growing these plants on a patio, deck, or balcony, ensures you won't miss out on their delightful perfume. Late summer evenings are even sweeter when you are surrounded by containers filled with Oriental lilies, spider lilies, and acidanthera.

Small bulbs can grow into enormous plants, so choosing the right size container is important if you want your summer bulbs to reach their full potential. Longfield Gardens provides helpful tips in its Best Summer Bulbs for Containers article (www. longfield-gardens.com).

Most mid-sized dahlias will grow well in a five-gallon container. Dahlias that get to be more than 3 feet tall need a larger pot as well as sturdy stakes for extra support. Cannas and elephant ears are thirsty plants and can develop a very large root system in just a few short months. For these tropical beauties, the bigger the pot, the better!

Extend the bloom time for gladiolus and its cousin, Abyssinian gladiolus, by planting the bulbs in batches about two weeks apart. Both of these summer bulbs have sword-like foliage that provides vertical interest while you wait for the beautiful blooms. If you like cut flowers, grow a few extra pots of gladiolus so you can include them in summer arrangements.

Calla lilies are easy to grow in pots, even for gardeners in cool climates. Choose from a rainbow of beautiful flower colors, from white and yellow, to peach, red, and nearly black. The blossoms last for a month or more, and the lush foliage stays attractive all season long.

Extend the season into early fall with the exotic-looking flowers of Nerine bowdenii. Plant three or more bulbs per container and look forward to fragrant, candy-pink blossoms in September.

Let the unique flowers of pineapple lily (Eucomis) shine by growing them in their own container. The long-lasting flowers feature a green topknot that makes them resemble a pineapple. As with nerines, callas, and other non-hardy summer bulbs, Eucomis can be overwintered indoors and replanted in spring.

The possibilities are many. No matter which summer bulbs you choose, accents. Shorter plants like caladiums, pineapple lily, and triplet lily (Brodiaea) can be positioned in front growing them in containers is a sure way to add pizzazz to your patio, deck, balcony, or entryway.
