Best and brightest: Hollywood royalty gathers for the 96th Oscars

The calendar has been shaken up this entertainment-award season, but the movie industry's top ceremony is remaining pretty much on time ... while starting an hour earlier than usual.

The 96th edition of The Oscars celebrates the best in the film as ABC televises the event Sunday, March 10, from Hollywood's Dolby Theatre. The network's late-night star, Jimmy Kimmel, will be back for his fourth turn as Oscar host. His wife, Molly McNearney, has her second consecutive year as an executive producer of the event (a job she also performs, along with co-head writer, on her spouse's "Jimmy Kimmel Live!" weeknight program).

Viewers can expect Kimmel to make reference to last year's strikes that upended show business, with the work stoppages by writers and actors delaying – or, in some cases, cancelling – the production of movies and altering release schedules. Some of this year's Academy Award-nominated films had less promotion than they might have received otherwise, since their stars couldn't promote those pictures as part of the union agreement during the actors' strike.

However, a big turnout by Hollywood can be expected now, with the Oscar red-carpet arrivals of many personalities again being the draws for worldwide interest and attention that they typically are. There's also potential for the unexpected, as recent Oscar shows have confirmed, whether that amounts to surprise winners or unanticipated comments or actions by those who take the stage.

"Oppenheimer" leads the current group of nominated films with 13 bids, followed by "Poor Things" with 11, "Killers of the Flower Moon" with 10, "Barbie" with eight — and controversy over its lack of nominations for Margot Robbie as best actress and Greta Gerwig as best director — and "Maestro" with seven.

Following are the nominees in several of the categories in the 96th Oscars.

Best picture: "American Fiction"; "Anatomy of a Fall"; "Barbie"; "The Holdovers"; "Killers of the Flower Moon"; "Maestro"; "Oppenheimer"; "Past Lives"; "Poor Things"; "The Zone of Interest"

Best actor in a leading role: Bradley Cooper, "Maestro"; Colman Domingo, "Rustin"; Paul Giamatti, "The Holdovers"; Cillian Murphy, "Oppenheimer"; Jeffrey Wright, "American Fiction"

Best actress in a leading role: Annette Bening, "Nyad"; Lily Gladstone, "Killers of the Flower Moon"; Sandra Huller, "Anatomy of a Fall"; Carey Mulligan, "Maestro"; Emma Stone, "Poor Things"

Best actor in a supporting role: Sterling K. Brown, "American Fiction"; Robert De Niro, "Killers of the Flower Moon"; Robert Downey Jr., "Oppenheimer"; Ryan Gosling, "Barbie"; Mark Ruffalo, "Poor Things"

Best actress in a supporting role: Emily Blunt, "Oppenheimer"; Danielle Brooks, "The Color Purple"; America Ferrera, "Barbie"; Jodie Foster, "Nyad"; Da'Vine Joy Randolph, "The Holdovers"

Best director: Jonathan Glazer, "The Zone of Interest"; Yorgos Lanthimos, "Poor Things"; Christopher Nolan, "Oppenheimer"; Martin Scorsese, "Killers of the Flower Moon"; Justine Triet, "Anatomy of a Fall"

Keke Palmer has been successful in revising her television career, and she now has a

After briefly being a talk show host by joining Michael Strahan and Sara Haines in ABC's now-defunct "GMA3: Strahan, Sara & Keke," the actress is now fronting a game show — a revival of one of the most popular in TV history, and the one that earned her the Emmy recently. Palmer returns to preside over the Jimmy Fallon-produced "Password" when it starts its second season on NBC, Tuesday, March 12 (also streaming the next day on Peacock).

Fallon participates as one of the celebrities who either provide or respond to their playing partners' clues to guess secret passwords. Among other personalities slated for the new episodes are Fallon's ABC late-night rival Jimmy Kimmel ("Jimmy Kimmel Live!"), "Gilmore Girls" and "Parenthood" alum Lauren Graham, "America's Got Talent" judge Howie Mandel, musician Chance the Rapper, skiing icon Lindsey Vonn and some returnees from Season 1, including singer-songwriter Meghan Trainor and actor-comedian Joel McHale ("Animal Control").

The "Password" Emmy for Outstanding Game Show Host was the second one Palmer won, having gotten her first a year before for Outstanding Actress in a Short Form Comedy or Drama Series for Facebook Watch's "Keke Palmer's Turnt Up With the Taylors" (in which she played all of the characters). She's no stranger to honors in general, having picked up an NAACP Image Award in 2007 for the movie "Akeelah and the Bee," then four more for the Nickelodeon children's series "True Jackson, VP" and another for her voice performance in the animated Disney-Pixar film "Lightyear"

Palmer's journey into the adult phase of her career also has included stints in MTV's "Scream: Resurrection" and Fox's "Star" and "Scream Queens," plus her hosting of a 2022 episode of NBC's "Saturday Night Live" that featured SZA as the musical guest. Now, with "Password" a clearly beneficial showcase for her, that journey seems destined to keep progressing before viewers' eyes for some time.
