County's maintenance of roads in Onalaska city limits to cease

By Emily Banks Wooten
editor@polkenterprise.com

It was standing room only for Tuesday's regular meeting of the Polk County Commissioners Court. The Court convened to a packed house in Suite A of the Polk County Regional Health Building, with the majority of the crowd there for a public hearing to discuss and consider abandoning the maintenance of county roads within the city limits of Onalaska.

"The wording abandoning is a legal term. The purpose of this meeting is to correct the map. The commissioner (Precinct 2) thinks these roads should revert to the city and that the county should not infringe on the city's authority. The city limits are where the authorization of the city begins and where the authorization of the county ends and the map needs to reflect that," Murphy said.

"It doesn't mean we're not going to enter into interlocal agreements or MOUs (memorandums of understanding).

The map also does not reconcile with TxDOT. Who has jurisdiction? Who has ownership? We're trying to clarify the map, and we have to delineate where one begins and where one stops. We're out of compliance with the state and out of compliance with TxDOT," Murphy said.

Nina McAfee, president of the Yaupon Cove Property Owners Association, addressed the Court regarding "the deplorable road conditions in Precinct 2," adding that she is submitting a petition "to have the roads repaired immediately." She touched on street signs that need repair and drainage ditches that no longer drain. She expressed her displeasure with the Court's "pet projects," specifically the museum and the historic renovation of the county courthouse. "Yaupon Cove has 500 homes and residents, and we vote and will be voting strongly in the next election."

Angela Stutts, Onalaska's city administrator, addressed the Court as well. "We were aware when Commissioner Dubose took office this was going to be a priority. He's made it very clear that it's not his responsibility to take care of city streets."

"We're more than happy to be part of the process but right now, we have to correct the map. We will work with you," Murphy said.

Others addressing the Court regarding the matter included Gracie from Bridgeview Landing, Kay Ford, Michael Loftin, Carl Cruse, John Dannon, Rhoan from Impala Woods.

"It will not be instantaneous. This is going to be a long period. We are going to transition it over and it's going to be a long process," Murphy said.

Attorney Michael Matthews, a consultant for the county, agreed. "All it means is the county's maintenance of it will cease. There will still be interlocal agreements and MOUs."

The Court approved "abandoning" maintenance of the roads within the city limits.

Goodrich considers TDA grant

By Brian Besch
pcenewsroom@gmail.com

The Goodrich City Council heard a presentation for grants and discussed the post office water bill last week in their regular meeting for August.

Raymond K. Vann has worked with the city on several grants in the past and was in attendance to discuss the latest from the Texas Department of Agriculture. The grant occurs every couple of years, and this year is the deadline for applying in 2025 and 2026. It is for $750,000, meaning strong competition is likely, according to Vann. "The good thing is, the match is only 2%," Vann told the council. "It depends on the size of your community, but with your population, it is only 2%. If it is Livingston, for example, I think it is around 15%. The local match for Goodrich on a $750,000 grant would be $15,000."

Vann said the typical projects are improvements for water, sewer, streets or drainage. Future steps would include soliciting proposals from grant administrators, selecting a grant administrator, holding a public hearing, a resolution to apply, pre-application and final project application. The final project application would be due in June of 2025 if the council elects to do so. However, its first step of soliciting proposals needs to occur by Aug. 22.

Goodrich Postmaster Rochelle Zeno attended the meeting to ask for the council's assistance on high water bills. She said contractor mowers who cover an area where the post office meter sits have hit the line, causing leaks. The post office received a bill in excess of $1,900 for three months of service.

"I guess this really started in December or January, at the first of it," Zeno said. "It has been three times now. Our water line is out in a pasture on the left side of the post office along (Highway) 59. From what I am told, TxDOT said it is on the state side. A couple of things have happened where the water line has burst. The first time, I didn't even know. The water was running down and ended up on Sam Loggins Road. That is where a man called and said the water was running down there. It was around two weeks that it had been running. I got a bill, and it was maybe $800."

Zeno said fiber optic cables run throughout the city have also added to the leaking issues. Mayor Pro-Tem Bobby Wright wants a marker near the meter to let mowers or anyone digging know what area to avoid. Goodrich Mayor Kelly Nelson said the item would be placed on the agenda for next month to find a solution.

Council approved the purchase of a building at the city sewer plant. City contractors said the size needed was 8 feet by 10 feet but would also need power for cooling and heat. The building is mainly to be used for housing chlorine, meters and solution. Currently, those items are stored near city hall. The building will be purchased from Lowe's for $2,799, which includes delivery and setup.

COUNTY

In budget-related activity, the Court approved the proposed lease rate quotes to be included in the fiscal year 2025 budget and also approved the proposed budget for fiscal year 2025.

During the Court's July 23 meeting, County Judge Sydney Murphy proposed salary increases for all countywide elected officials with the exception of herself, the sheriff and the county court at law judge. She commented that four positions (district clerk, county clerk, treasurer and tax assessor-collector) are the lowest paid in the area for their respective positions, adding that these four positions have countywide responsibilities, unlike the four JPs who only have precinct-wide responsibilities, and that the salaries should reflect that.

Murphy proposed increasing the salaries of those positions from $56,994.59 to $65,000 and increasing the salaries of the JPs from $56,994.59, with a travel allowance of $5,000, to $59,000, with a travel allowance of $5,000.

In keeping with the timelines in which the Court is statutorily bound, the Court is required to publish the proposed increases in salaries, allowances and other expenses of elected county and precinct officers in its newspaper of record which is the Polk County Enterprise. While the item was originally on the agenda for the July 30 court meeting, the item had to be tabled following receipt of a grievance lodged by the four justices of the peace. As a result, a grievance committee was appointed, and a hearing was held on Aug. 5.

Murphy reviewed the recommendations of the grievance committee in which eight members attended the hearing. As for the JPs' salaries, two committee members thought it should be increased to $65,000, one thought it should be increased but didn't specify an amount, and five thought there should be no increase. As for the JPs' travel, one thought it should be increased to $7,500, one thought it should be increased to $10,000, two thought it should be increased but didn't specify an amount, and four thought there should be no increase.

Precinct 4 Commissioner Jerry Cassity made a motion that the JPs' salaries be increased to $65,000 and Precinct 2 Commissioner Mark Dubose seconded it. The vote failed, however, with Cassity and Dubose voting "for," and Precinct 1 Commissioner Guylene Robertson, Precinct 3 Commissioner Milt Purvis and Murphy voting "against."

Cassity then moved to increase the JPs' travel to $7,500, with Dubose seconding the motion. In a mirror image of the salary vote, the travel vote failed as well, with Cassity and Dubose voting "for" and Robertson, Purvis and Murphy voting "against."

A memorandum of agreement with The Burke Center for a mental health deputy program was approved. Through the program, four deputies – one for each shift – will undergo training to become certified mental health officers. The county's match for the program is 25%, which will be funded through the sheriff's office's asset forfeiture funds.

The Court approved advertising a request for bids for the restoration of the creek bank on Kimball Creek at County Line Road in Precinct 4, to be funded from the Precinct 4 operation budget.

A request for the purchase of audio/video equipment and software for the Emergency Operations Center, as included on the fiscal year 2024 capital purchase projections, was approved. Although $150,000 was allotted, the total will be $134,260.29, which includes a three-year maintenance agreement and a little extra for contingencies.

The Court approved the sheriff's and constables' fees effective Jan. 1, 2025, and direct notification to state comptroller, pursuant to Texas Local Government Code 118.131.

The Court entered into an executive session to consult with an attorney on a matter subject to attorney-client confidentiality relating to the volunteer fire department funding. Upon return to open session, the Court approved moving forward with the contract and adjusting the coverage territories, specifically, part of the coverage area previously served by Goodrich Volunteer Fire Department will now be moved to other departments.

In personnel matters, the Court reviewed and approved personnel action form requests submitted since the last meeting and reviewed three emergency hires – one in human resources, one in emergency management and one in maintenance. Additionally, the Court approved the appointment of Jay Diehl, the candidate recommended by the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Office, to the vacant position of Polk County Extension Agent/Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Fiscal year 2024 budget revisions and amendments, as presented by the county auditor's office, were approved.

In old business, the Court approved the minutes of the July 11 regular meeting that was rescheduled from July 9.

Items on the consent agenda included:

Approval of the minutes of the July 23 regular meeting and July 30 special called meeting;

Approval of the corrected minutes of the June 11 regular session;

Approval of the schedules of bills;

Approval of an order designating surplus property;

Recently, while looking through our wedding memory book, and seeing mine and Donald Wayne's engagement announcement from 25 years ago in the Polk County Enterprise, Madison and Jewel decided they would go old-school and have their wedding announcement posted in the local paper also. While social media can be great at times, this is a little keepsake they can have forever and share with their kids one day. Thank you Polk County Enterprise for keeping these classic traditions alive.

A short moment to pause and reflect

There are times, so many times, that I get so completely overwhelmed with the rampant insanity that passes for politics that I have to take what Berke Breathed calls “a dandelion break,” or step off to clear the channels of thought.

See, we’re ramping up the clown cars and circus acts toward the November election, and I’m a little overwhelmed with things that I can’t believe actually happened, and I want to decompress.

So, given that all the children are now back in school, I will inundate myself with movies about school.

Of course, at the top of my, and hopefully everyone’s, list is “Grease.” I even hear that song “Back to School” every August when the ducklings head back to the halls of learning.

The lead male, played by John Travolta, was well-cast, since he got his start in the classroom in the wonderful “Welcome Back, Kotter” sitcom. Yes, he was the lead Sweathog, and once done, gravitated to singing, so he was a lock. No one else can hold a candle to Olivia Newton-John’s Sandy, especially in those final numbers. Still not sure why they cast then-33-year-old Stockard Channing as a high school student, but, hey, the movie was good enough to suspend that disbelief.

Heath Ledger had an amazing turn in a lot of movies, but the first time I saw

My Two Common Sense

By Tony Farkas
tony@polkcountypublishing.com

him act was in “10 Things I Hate About You.” The longer that movie went on, the more it seemed familiar; eventually, I pieced together that the whole thing was inspired by Shakespeare’s “The Taming of the Shrew,” with Julia Stiles as in the Katharina role and Ledger as Petruchio.

Two movies off the beaten path but extremely good Saturday afternoon popcorn fare are “My Science Project” and “Real Genius” (not to be confused with “Weird Science,” which was its own version of strange).

For the first movie, a kid finds some alien artifact while looking for a slam dunk science grade, which warps the entire school into an alien/post-apocalyptic nightmare scenario, and the kids have to battle their way through ever-increasing bad times to win the day. Fisher Stevens does a remarkable turn as that kid — the one you know was born to handle weird. For the second, Val Kilmer does what he does best — chew the scenery while inventing a laser, which was eventually used to fill a house with popcorn.

I can never choose between “Lean on Me” with Morgan Freeman and “Stand and Deliver” with Edward James Olmos. The scene when Freeman first hears the re-worked Alma Mater was transportive, and the compassion and empathy, as well as tough love, exhibited by Olmos with the students he worked with was inspirational. We’ll just watch them both, I’m thinking.

Honorable mentions would go to “Rock ‘n’ Roll High School” with the Ramones; “Conrack” with Jon Voight; “Fast Times at Ridgemont High” with the nostalgic mimeograph scene; “Carrie” for some representation in the horror genre; “Bill & Ted’s Excellent Adventure” with George Carlin; and “Kindergarten Cop” because Ahnold.

Later in the evening, we’ll switch gears and go with “Animal House,” because that is one super funny movie.

Tony Farkas is editor of the San Jacinto News-Times and the Trinity County News-Standard. He can be reached at tony@polkcountypublishing.com.

Want to become a fishing guide? You sure?

Through my career of almost forty years as an outdoors writer, I have fished with and written about countless fishing guides. How many? Well, I can only guess but I'd estimate in excess of one hundred. I've fished with veterans with decades of guiding under their belts and I've fished with great fishermen that were just beginning their guiding career. Most were very experienced fishermen but new to the art of putting paying clients on their boat with the express intent of not only catching fish but enjoying the company of what is hoped to become a new friend and repeat fishing companion.

I believe I have learned what it takes to be a successful fishing guide. As with any career, personality and people skills play a big part but when someone hires a fishing guide, catching fish is usually at the top of the list. Learning new fish catching skills is often important as well. I've fished with guides that were natural entertainers, some could have been stand up comedians but others were introspective thinkers that let their skills do their talking.

Veteran guides learn to 'read' their clients quickly. When guiding experienced fishermen, it's important for a guide not to over instruct with too much emphasis put on basic fishing skills. A seasoned guide can quickly appraise a clients skill level. On the other hand a novice fisherman can benefit greatly by learning the basics from a veteran guide with the patience to teach.

I've learned to 'read' the guides personality quickly through the years and enjoy spending time on the water with someone that is a funny 'showboater' just as much as the quiet but proficient guy or gal.

Getting started as a guide is a challenging endeavor that should only be undertaken by someone with a true passion for both catching fish and the skills to do so on a very regular basis but also enjoy meeting new people and bonding quickly with new clients they are about to spend a few hours with making memories and hopefully, catching fish.

This past week, I spend a morning catching catfish with a young man that I began writing about several years ago when he first began his guiding career on Lake Ray Hubbard, Brandon Sargent. Brandon cut his fishing roots in Florida fishing saltwater but he took to freshwater fishing quickly, and learned the patterns of the white bass and hybrid stripers on Ray Hubbard.

"A good understanding of the bottom structure on a lake is key to consistently catching open water schooling species such as the white bass", says Brandon, "Triangulation with structures on land was the only way to 'get close' to a known piece of fish holding structure back in the day. Anglers would get close to humps, ridges or submerged trees by lining up water towers and other structures on land and then turning on their flasher (old sonar units) or paper graph to get pin point the structure. Today's navionics maps with GPS makes finding topography below the surface easy. With today's technology, an entire lake is mapped out for you and finding a particular piece of bottom structure is as simple as the touch of a button."

For the past few months Brandon has spent time learning about catching catfish on Ray Hubbard. Many of his clients are only interested in catching crappie, white bass and hybrids but he began getting requests for catfish trips. In true Brandon fashion, the guide began quizzing experienced catfish anglers, and spending a great deal of his 'off time' experimenting with the different techniques. When he called early last week and informed me he was on a couple of very dependable channel catfish patterns, I was all in and joined him early the next morning on the dock of Sapphire Bay Marina, where he headquarters. We had the option of fishing deeper water and catching bigger catfish or go for the non-stop action of a shallow water bite he had discovered. I love catching and eating catfish in the one to two pound range, especially when they are in shallow water and I can catch them under a cork.

Brandon had baited an area with cattle range cubes a few yards out from a shoreline lined with rocks placed there as protection from erosion. The water was 4 feet deep with several dead trees along the shoreline; a perfect spot for catching channel catfish. With the boat positioned about 25 yards from the rock lined shoreline. We baited #6 treble hooks with the guides homemade bait that had no rank smell like most cheese based baits. I'm not sure what secret ingredients Brandon uses but the bait looked more like dense bread dough with a pleasant smell than catfish bait. When I first baited the treble hook, I noted it formed a dense ball and looked like it would stay on the hook well but I was a bit dubious, this didn't smell at all like the dough type or "punch baits" I am accustomed to using.

We were using spinning rigs, with the baits set about 3 feet below the cork floaters which kept them just above bottom. Our trip occurred last Thursday and there was an approaching front with scattered thunderstorms approaching from our north. The cloud cover and gentle breeze made it feel almost like fall. Catching was just as predicted. Toss the bait out and watch the cork closely the instant it hit the water, within a few seconds one of the aggressive little catfish would make the cork disappear. Keeping a close eye on the sky and radar on the cell phone, we enjoyed about 1.5 hours of nonstop action and limits of what I consider to be some of the tastiest of fish in fresh water. Just in the nick of time ahead of the approaching squall, we made it back to the marina where we filleted our catch. Brandon's dock is well appointed with cleaning table, couch, freezer, cooking equipment, etc. We were both hungry so we fired up an electric hot plate, heated some cooking oil in a skillet and soon had a big skillet of very fresh catfish fillets sizzling.

Brandon has not added catfish to the species he guides for. He's not studying the patterns of the lakes plentiful big blue catfish and I expect him to have these fish patterned by fall and cooler weather when the big blue bite gets really good.

If you are interested in a fishing trip with Brandon, he can be reached at 469-989-1010 or at www.texasleadslingers.com.

Strong serves boost Onalaska

By Brian Besch
pcnewsroom@gmail.com

The Onalaska Lady Cats got a road win in the season opener and new coach Megan Nichols is 1-0, as they swept Leggett 25-12, 25-12 and 25-13 Tuesday.

Onalaska got out to a quick 8-0 start in the opening set on their way to an easy victory. Faith Tyerman served during the start, and also set well for her teammates. Leggett had trouble with serve-return and serves of their own. Onalaska got another good start, taking a 5-0 lead again behind the serves of Tyerman in the second set. Camryn Thompson also served well, expanding the lead to 13-3. Cheyanne Simon kept volleys alive and produced a kill at the net for the Lady Pirates to secure a couple of points, but Onalaska would roll to a duplicate 25-12 win. Tyerman saved her best for the last set, serving the Lady Cats with a 13-0 cushion. Again, Leggett made a run to make it 16-7, but Onalaska would be too much, sweeping in three.

"We are still growing," Nichols said of her bunch. "Our main focus right now is being mentally tough and playing our game, no matter who we play. We set very high standards and (we) rise a lot. We are working on staying up, and to keep working. We are putting a lot of emphasis on the weightroom and conditioning. That is what we do during the athletic period every single day, and we practice volleyball after school. I think the weightroom and the conditioning has really been a difference maker for them. It is hard, and they learn how to work through the hard."

The coach is trying to push her team through some growing pains that could show further into the season.

"I think I have two seniors and two people who were returning from last year," Nichols said. "The rest are so young that this was their first ever varsity game tonight. They'll have to lift their performance for sure. Faith was actually the setter last year in a 6-2 rotation, so she is learning the 5-1 and getting used to being the one and only and what we emphasize. What she wants to do is also be an offensive threat. She has been doing that, so she wants to hit it. It is nice, because she is left-handed, so she can jump up and turn and hit it with her left hand, which is what we are really working on."

The coach said she is enjoying her first weeks on the job, as she also teaches five classes of eighth-grade English.

After not having volleyball just four years ago, Class 1A Leggett High School has a junior varsity and varsity team.

"I have enough girls. I have four freshmen, four sophomores, four seniors and two juniors," Lady Pirate coach Terri Barlow said. "I definitely have the numbers out this year. I have seen some improvement from last year. We are doing more talking and moving, instead of watching the ball and pointing fingers, thinking someone else was going to get it. We had a couple of them, but there has been an improvement there."

The coach said she will emphasize getting off to a better start in upcoming matches.

"I called timeouts, saying to them when we get in a hole, it is tough to battle all the way back. We have to break that serve and we will be alright."

The Lady Pirates are next off to the Groveton tournament. They are not shying away from challenges, taking on varsity squads from Hudson, Crockett and Groveton in the brackets. It is a tough task that Barlow said will prepare her girls for district. One of four teams in District 26-1A with Goodrich, Chester and Richards, Leggett needs only to avoid last place to reach the postseason.

Soccer star receives Real Madrid invite

By Brian Besch

pcpcnewsroom@gmail.com

At just nine years of age, Neymar Davalos has accomplished plenty on the soccer pitch. He competes on one of the state's best youth teams, and was recently selected to display his talent in Europe with other children from around the world.

"Neymar started playing soccer whenever he was four in Livingston," his father, Rey, said. "His skill and I.Q. level was way up there. We went south and he has been playing the clubs since in Houston. He is playing competitive all the time."

"There is a camp called Real Madrid based out of Spain. They had a camp, and you pay for the camp. The thing about it is, if they like your skills and see that you have potential, they select you to go and compete in a world challenge. They get kids from all over the world to compete in that tournament. They will have 480 kids, and Neymar was selected in that camp in Houston, and he is going to be representing USA."

Rey explained that there are similar camps from many different countries in which children are selected. Neymar got the call for competing in the elite tournament, versus other fourth and fifth graders.

The Polk County Sheriff's Officer said his son also competed in a national tournament that took place in Las Vegas. His team from the Houston area reached the quarterfinals. It is the top-ranked squad in the Houston area and No. 7 in the state.

"You go and try out, and they liked how Neymar played. Basically, Neymar is going to be playing middle defense, and sometimes he goes all the way up to score. He is going to be the one giving passes to kids who can score. There's a lot of competition in that team. They gave him a scholarship, which the max scholarship they give you is 50%. I had to come up with the other. Right now, this coming up weekend, we are going to go to Dallas. At the end of this month, we're going to Dallas again to compete."

There is plenty of travel involved with the league. Neymar's mother, Claudia, shuttles him to Baytown three days a week and will also travel to Katy or Nacogdoches regularly. The Cedar Grove fourth grader is only nine, but soccer programs begin scouting and recruiting kids around 12 and 13. Neymar is also a minor social media star, with 1,300 followers on his Instagram page. You can follow him at neymardavalos_2015 or on TikTok at neymar_davalos to see him in action.

Neymar Davalos has been invited to participate in a tournament hosted by Real Madrid, where he will compete with children selected from 16 different countries.

Coaches look over the Corrigan-Camden offense. The Bulldogs begin competition Thursday versus Buffalo at home, with kickoff set for 6:30 p.m.

Who cares about public notices?

YOU SHOULD

You have the right to know what's happening in your community.

Public notices - information local governments are obligated to provide citizens - are required to be published in local newspapers to provide a public record that's accessible to everyone.

Public notices keep you informed about your government.

But, in some states legislators are trying to keep public notices from appearing in local newspapers. This severely impacts government transparency and, in turn, limits the public's right to hold them accountable for their actions.

Let your state legislators know that you value being able to access notices in your newspaper and that they are worth the investment.

Protect public notices in newspapers and protect your right to know.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

A tax rate of $0.233000 per $100 valuation has been proposed by the governing body of City of Onalaska.

PROPOSED TAX RATE	$0.233000 per $100
NO-NEW-REVENUE TAX RATE	$0.214718 per $100
VOTER-APPROVAL TAX RATE	$0.233320 per $100

The no-new-revenue tax rate is the tax rate for the 2024 tax year that will raise the same amount of property tax revenue for City of Onalaska from the same properties in both the 2023 tax year and the 2024 tax year.

The voter-approval rate is the highest tax rate that City of Onalaska may adopt without holding an election to seek voter approval of the rate.

The proposed tax rate is greater than the no-new-revenue tax rate. This means that City of Onalaska is proposing to increase property taxes for the 2024 tax year.

A PUBLIC HEARING ON THE PROPOSED TAX RATE WILL BE HELD ON August 27, 2024 AT 5:15 PM AT Onalaska City Hall 372 S FM 356, Onalaska, TX 77360.

The proposed tax rate is not greater than the voter-approval tax rate. As a result, City of Onalaska is not required to hold an election at which voters may accept or reject the proposed tax rate. However, you may express your support for or opposition to the proposed tax rate by contacting the members of the City of Onalaska of City of Onalaska at their offices or by attending the public hearing mentioned above. YOUR TAXES OWED UNDER ANY OF THE RATES MENTIONED ABOVE CAN BE CALCULATED AS FOLLOWS:

Property tax amount= (tax rate) x (taxable value of your property)/100

FOR the proposal: Kevin Arnett, Zachary Davies, Shirley Gilmore, T. D. Jennings, Kathy Black Lott
AGAINST the proposal: None
PRESENT and not voting: Kevin Arnett, Zachary Davies, Shirley Gilmore, T. D. Jennings, Kathy Black Lott
ABSENT: None

Visit Texas.gov/PropertyTaxes to find a link to your local property tax database on which you can easily access information regarding your property taxes, including information about proposed tax rates and scheduled public hearings of each entity that taxes your property.

The 86th Texas Legislature modified the manner in which the voter-approval tax rate is calculated to limit the rate of growth of property taxes in the state.

The following table compares the taxes imposed on the average residence homestead by City of Onalaska last year to the taxes proposed to be imposed on the average residence homestead by City of Onalaska this year.

	2023	2024	Change
