It's Tuesday morning, and a line outside has already formed. Inside the Polk County Center of Hope, there are plenty of happy faces, the sound of carts moving through the aisles, and folks yelling toward the back to ask about a certain product.

The volunteers roll up to 600 S. Washington Ave. early to stock shelves and or-Ken and Dawn Schmidt have both volunteered for over a decade. Dawn is at Center of Hope twice per week, while Ken can be there up to six days.

Dawn originally got involved when a family member was utilizing the food bank and living on the streets in another state.

ganize for what will be a busy day. Every Tuesday and Thursday turn out that way, as the Christian-based organization works to break the cycle of poverty, hunger and hopelessness.

The volunteers are many and easily spotted, dressed in blue polos. They can be found in every corner of the building. Each has a position that gets clients into the center, then out quickly with groceries and a smile.

"Other non-profits marvel at our volunteers, both the number and in their devotion and caring spirit," Director of Operations Gloria Barber said. "We have about "I saw how that could make or break somebody," she said. "I thought that maybe I could help the people in our community and give them a hand up."

She now interviews clients who are getting started. She is also the director of the cancer support ministry, which defrays the cost of getting to and from care by providing gas, parking and meals. They regularly host meals and discussion sessions with cancer patients, serving about 80 clients.

2A | POLK COUNTY ENTERPRISE | Thursday, October 3, 2024 easttexasnews.com Pulsed field ablation therapy for atrial fibrillation Introduced to East Texas by The Heart Institute

From Enterprise Staff

East Texas is at the forefront of cardiac care as the Heart Institute of East Texas, in association with CHI St. Luke's Memorial Hospital, introduces Pulse Field Ablation (PFA) therapy for atrial fibrillation (AFib).

Dr. Subramanya Gajaraju Venkata, an electrophysiologist and interventional cardiologist with the Heart Institute, successfully performed the first PFA procedure in Lufkin, marking a new era in electrophysiology. The procedure utilized the Farapulse PFA system by Boston Scientific, a significant advancement in the treatment of AFib.

AFib is a common heart rhythm disorder that affects millions worldwide, causing symptoms like palpitations, shortness of breath and fatigue, while increasing the risk of stroke and heart failure. PFA offers a safer and more efficient alternative to traditional ablation methods.

"The introduction of PFA technology marks a new era in electrophysiology," Venkata said. "This groundbreaking technology uses ultra short-pulsed field energy which selectively targets and ablates cardiac tissue without damaging surrounding structures. This precision allows for a reduced risk of complications associated with traditional AFib ablation methods and shorter procedure times, leading to safer and quicker recovery. This continues to aide our mission of keeping care local so that patients don't have to travel to larger cities for advanced cardiac care."

Dr. Ravinder Bachireddy, Chief of Cardiology at CHI St. Luke's Memorial Hospital, echoed this sentiment, stating, "The introduction of Pulsed Field Ablation at our hospital is a major step forward in cardiac care. This technology enables us to provide the highest level of care to our patients right here in Lufkin."

The Heart Institute of East Texas remains committed to providing the latest and most effective treatments for heart conditions. The introduction of Pulsed Field Ablation at CHI St. Luke's Memorial is a testament to their dedication to advancing cardiac care in the community.

Although the co-defendants' cases are still pending, Meilike's trial concluded Sept. 25 with a jury finding him guilty of burglary of a habitation, a second-degree felony. He was previously convicted of burglary of a habitation in June 2015 in Harris County.

Punishment for both Kimbro and Meilike will be assessed by 411th District Judge John E. Wells III on Nov. 13. When an individual goes to trial, he has the right to elect whether the jury or judge assesses punishment. Both Kimbro and Meilike chose to have the judge assess their punishment.

"The Polk County Sheriff's Office and Livingston Police Department assisted in providing the evidence and support necessary for each case in order to bring justice to the victims and ensure the safety of the people of Polk County," Polk County Criminal District Attorney Shelly Sitton said.

"I would like to thank all the citizens of Polk County who answered their summons for jury duty on Sept 23. I'd particularly like to thank the members of both jury panels for their diligence in listening to the evidence, following the law and rendering a verdict. Justice was served twice this week," Sitton said.

VIEWING IT DIFFERENTLY-

Two long-time newspaper editorial writers have agreed to take on the editorial pages, with their views on a variety of subjects. We welcome your comments.

Should a president be a person of character?

"Nearly all men can stand adversity, but if you want to test a man's character, give him power." - Abraham Lincoln

In the months leading up to the 2024 Presidential election, I've watched numerous interviews with supporters of Donald Trump at his rallies and speeches. A common question posed to these supporters is whether they believe Trump is a man of character. The responses generally fall into a few distinct categories. Some acknowledge Trump's very public character flaws-such as cheating on his wives, his affairs with porn stars, his reputation for stiffing contractors, and his fraud convictions. However, they argue that while they do not condone these actions, they support his policies on immigration, border security, and abortion. For these voters, the ends justify the means. They believe Trump delivers the political results they want, so his character flaws are less important.

Others, particularly evangelical Christians, agree that Trump has significant character issues, but they point to the Old Testament, where God used flawed leaders to accomplish His will. They draw parallels between Trump and these biblical figures, arguing that God works through imperfect people to achieve divine purposes, even if the individuals themselves are far from virtuous.

This is not a candidate, this is a cardboard cutout

А question that has been bouncing around my mind over the last few weeks is, "Is this the best we can do?"

ing specifically of our presidential candidates, of course, but I'm sure that there's quite a few candidates on the lower fight card that we can scratch our heads over.

Given the abysmal state of the national media and its overarching disgust with conservative politics, there's ample "stories" out there describing President Trump as the second coming of Hitler, combined with the antichrist, Stalin and Ron Jeremv

That same abysmal state, however, has left off the non-existent morality and the ever-present lack of veracity of the Democratic opponent, Kamala Harris.

First shots of the Texas Revolution rang out on Oct. 2, 1835

On a foggy morning of October 2, 1835, a fight erupted in Gonzales, marking the beginning of the War for Texas Independence. The conflict began when a Mexican commander, informed that Texas settlers had refused to hand over a small cannon, sent 100 soldiers to reclaim it. Facing them were about 140 Texan rebels, standing their ground under a hastily made flag that defiantly proclaimed, "Come And Take It." With that, the first shots of the Texas Revolution rang out.

This pivotal day would forever change the course of Texas history. The iconic "Come And Take It" flag has since become a lasting symbol of Texas pride, representing the unwavering courage and determination that still define the Texas spirit, nearly two centuries later. The events at Gonzales ignited a movement that ultimately shaped our state's enduring identity.

With that piece of history, we'll step back into our examination of House interim charges ...

House Interim Charge: Ways and Means

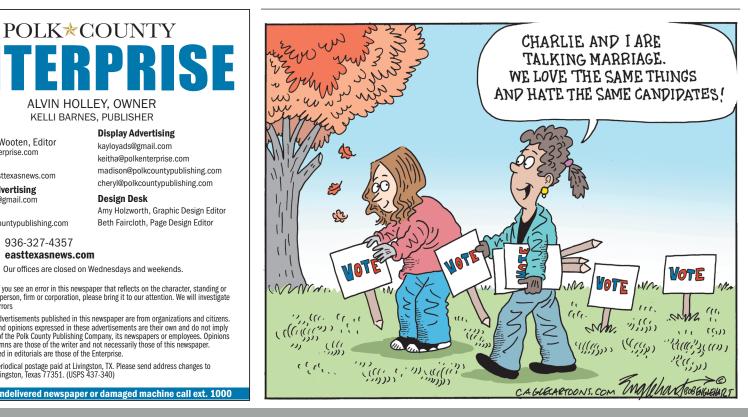

The Texas House Committee on Ways and Means oversees matters related to state revenue, encompassing taxation, state funding, and financial resource administration. The committee has jurisdiction over the Office of Multistate Tax Compact Commissioner for Texas and the Comptroller of Public Accounts. Its primary focus includes shaping economic policy, managing property taxes, and ensuring effective revenue collection for the state budget, playing a pivotal role in the fiscal health of Texas and the allocation of state funds.

During last year's second special session, the committee was instrumental in passing Senate Bill 2, a significant piece of legislation that provided approximately $18 billion in broad property tax relief. This bill reduced school district property tax rates by compressing the maximum tax rate, effectively lowering the overall tax burden for Texas homeowners and businesses. Complementing Senate Bill 2, the committee also advanced Senate Bill 3, which raised the homestead exemption for school district property taxes from $40,000 to $100,000, significantly reducing the taxable value of homes and easing the financial strain on homeowners. Together, these measures reflect the committee's commitment to delivering property tax relief while balancing the needs of school districts and local governments.

Over the interim, the Texas House Committee on Ways and Means has been tasked with monitoring the implementation of key legislation passed by the 88th Legislature, including overseeing the effects of Senate Bill 2 and House Joint Resolution 2, which provide property tax relief through reforms in public school finance and property tax administration.

Rotary Club hosts Wildlife Biologist Chris Gregory

By Mindy Ellis Guest Writer

Wildlife Biologist Chris Gregory, who has served the community since 1989, shared valuable insights on hunting and wildlife management in Texas during a recent meeting of the Rotary Club of Livingston. Gregory expressed his passion for his work and provided an informative update on various hunting regulations and trends, specifically focusing on geese, dove and turkey hunting.

During his talk, Gregory highlighted the significant economic impact of hunting in Polk County. He revealed that deer hunting generates between $20 million and $30 million annually for the local economy. He also shared some fascinating statistics about the local deer population, estimating that Polk County is home to between 20,000 and 40,000 deer. The hunter population fluctuates between 3,500 and 5,000, with hunters spending an average of 10 to 16 days in the field. Each year, the county sees a harvest of around

CANDIDATE

I have yet to hear a cogent policy statement from her that doesn't involve beating up taxpayers. All of them, by the way, not just the billionaires who must be made to pay "their fair share." Moreover, the "candidate" (sarcastic quotes intentional) does have a tendency to co-opt certain policy statements avowed by Trump, such as his idea to stop taxes on tipe 3,500 to 5,000 deer.

Gregory also discussed disease monitoring efforts and reassured attendees that there are no current disease threats to the local deer population. On a statewide level, he noted that deer hunting alone generates a staggering $9.6 billion in revenue annually.

He shared photos of local game wardens taking youth out alligator hunting at Dam B in September. Gregory also touched on changes to the endangered species list, reporting that while loggerhead turtles have been added, timber rattlesnakes have been removed.

As for the wild hog population, Gregory said it continues to be a significant challenge, with numbers too high to accurately count.

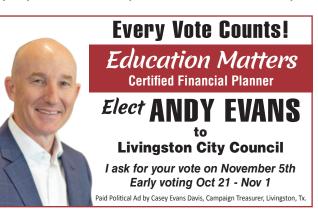

Gregory's presentation offered a valuable glimpse into the current state of wildlife and hunting in the region, reaffirming the importance of conservation efforts and the economic benefits of hunting to the community.

There were four years for the current administration — you know, the one with Harris in it — to affect the change that every elected official campaigns on, and yet, things have gotten worse, and will get even worse under a new Harris regime.

Speaking of which, even the way she became the Democrat candidate flies in the face of the method of electing leaders in this country - anointed instead of elected, and enjoying the full slate of presidential candidate bennies without having to have campaigned for a single primary vote. Say nothing of all of the Democrat donors who expected their dollars to go toward electing the current president. That's Joe Biden, in case you've forgotten. Given the massive shortcomings Harris has, it's astonishing that just like magic she is revered as the candidate to end all candidacy. But to the point, while Trump has a proven record as leader of the free world, his opponent is smoke and mirrors, much ado about nothing, a holographic representation resembling a contender but with absolutely no substance. So to answer my original thought-question, this can't be the best we can do, for if it is, then we are truly doomed.

A further example of her mendacity is that it has been widely reported that she never was made border czar, despite information to the contrary, but she has the audacity to claim she plans to be tough on border crossings.

She repeatedly denies her failings while claiming she has been nothing but successful, that is, when she manages to string together a sentence with meaning (we'll leave the cackling alone).

Perhaps the most egregious example of Harris' failures, though, is that for the last presidential term of which she was the country's second-in-command, nothing has happened to improve the conditions in the country, especially regarding the economy. Inflation is up, production is down, and jobs are being filled by illegal aliens. She is yet casting the blame on her opponent, saying over and over again how inflation was 9 percent when in fact it was less than 2 percent, and that despite the crippling idiocy of the COVID mandates.

Still, others deny Trump's moral failures altogether, with some even believing he is divinely chosen to redeem the world. A few go as far as to claim he is the second coming of the Son of Man—a belief we'll address shortly.

To determine whether a person has character, we can look at core traits that are widely recognized as indicators of moral and ethical integrity:

•Integrity: A foundation for trust and ethical behavior, involving honesty and transparency.

•Honesty: The willingness to tell the truth, even when it is difficult.

•Accountability: Taking responsibility for one's actions and working to correct mistakes.

•Empathy: The ability to connect with others emotionally and respond with compassion.

•Humility: A willingness to learn from others and avoid arrogance.

•Courage: Acting ethically and standing up for what is right, even under pressure.

Respectfulness: Valuing others and fostering positive relationships.

Loyalty: Dedication to maintaining trust and reliability in relationships.

Self-discipline: The ability to control one's emotions and behaviors in line with their values and goals.

Generosity, perseverance, and fairness are additional traits that define a person of strong character.

Donald Trump has been in the public eye for decades, and his moral and ethical shortcomings are well-documented. From his narcissistic tendencies to his dishonest business practices, Trump repeatedly demonstrates that he does not embody these traits of strong character. To suggest he is a man of character is inconsistent with the evidence.

For most voters in the U.S., character does seem to matter. Many polls and interviews suggest that people value integTony Farkas is editor of the Trinity County News-Standard and the San Jacinto News-Times and writes opinion articles. rity and ethics in leadership.

However, for those who believe character is irrelevant, the argument often comes down to either prioritizing political results over morality or believing that God is working through Trump to accomplish a higher purpose. While this belief might seem superficially plausible, it doesn't hold up when examined closely.

It is true that the Old Testament depicts God using flawed leaders to carry out His will. These figures often had significant character flaws, but they were used to deliver God's retribution or guide His people back to righteousness. However, we don't live in the world of the Old Testament. Modern society rejects the brutality of those times and strives to embrace the New Testament message of love, peace, and compassion.

While some believe God continues to use flawed leaders today, there are many modern leaders who possess strong character and Christian morals. Why would God choose someone like Trump—who has shown little regard for Christian values—when there are better candidates who align with His teachings?

If you believe Trump is the second coming of Jesus, you must also believe that Jesus seeks to rule the world as a cruel, despotic king. This contradicts the teachings of Jesus, who was not interested in establishing a kingdom on earth but in guiding his followers to a new heavenly creation. Jesus made it clear that he was not the earthly king that the Old Testament Jews expected.

Democracy in the U.S. is at a critical juncture. The upcoming election will determine the future of the democratic experiment. Now, more than ever, we need leaders who possess the moral and ethical character to guide the country through these challenging times. Leaders of character inspire trust and confidence in their people. We should not settle for agents of chaos in the White House when what we need are agents of integrity.

Ken oversees the warehouse activities, performs building and bus maintenance, and outside loading.

"These are my people and who I feel comfortable with. The people that we have, they have become family," Ken said. "This is our circle of friends now. Heck, this is our recreation."

"It is our entertainment," added Dawn.

There are four to six people who put in six to eight hours each just to open Center of Hope.

"It is just like a grocery store," Ken said. "The pay is great, it's just not monetary."

Kevin and Glenda Seely met while volunteering

A friend encouraged Glenda to volunteer at Center of Hope, and she began by filling boxes. Soon after, she met the man who would be her husband while loading the back of a bus. Conversations on a bench turned into fishing trips at his house on the lake.

They married just a year ago and now lead the Christmas of Hope ministry.

For two years, that program has set up a toy workshop where parents shop for their children. Volunteers then wrap four or five presents for each child. In 2022, the center provided gifts for 600 children. That number increased to 984 children last year.

Glenda is one of the shoppers that helps clients receive groceries.

"They come in after they are interviewed and she or one of them will pick up the paper, call them by name, bring them in, then walk down and get the food," Kevin explained of Glenda's position. "By the time she starts up here and they walk down here, they will know personal stories of those people before they get to the end of that row. By the end, some of them are hugging, some aren't, some are praying, some aren't, but they walk out the door knowing that they were treated as a human being. Some of the people that come in here have not been treated that way in a long time." Dave and Karen Goetz are New Yorkers who have been married 53 years and transplanted to East Texas. Dave runs the pantry, which is the largest in a multi-county area and has grown 15% annually for the last three years. They average over 100 families per day. Karen is the center's volunteer coordinator.

"It is kind of what is wrong with our country right now," Dave says about volunteering. "I think people don't have enough of the giving spirit. Everybody needs some help somewhere along the line, regardless of what lot you have been cast in life. There are just a lot of folks out there that need some help."

Karen said she feels it is important to volunteer because those receiving assistance can then be in a position to help others.

"One of the things that is unique about this place is that it isn't just a food pantry," she said. "There are so many other ministries here, and every one of them is as good as the other."

Dave mentions the Campaign 300 Ministry, that aids 20-25 families each month with unforeseen and crisis needs.

There's just so many things that this place does," he said. "It is very unique and different from every other charity organization that I've ever seen."

"The trend, unfortunately, is increasing, and we need more volunteers," Karen said.

John and Meryl Morgan traveled a bit to reach Polk County. John hails from Oregon and Meryl was born in the African country of Zimbabwe.

"It has given us purpose," John said of spending time at Center of Hope. "Volunteering and contributing to the community are important."

"Another thing too is when you are going through struggles of your own in other personal areas. Giving to others, putting others before yourself, helps to center you," Meryl added. "It helps you be able to go through those areas of your life, because you see others who are going through worse things than you are. It is best to take your mind off of yourself, because (if you don't), you just go through depression."

Lynn and Sandra Sasser are retired missionaries who lived in Mexico City for 25 years. They co-chair the emergency health ministry, which helps clients with their prescription costs, gas to doctor appointments, and medical supply costs. It assists approximately 20-30 clients per month.

Sandra also serves as an interviewer and interpreter.

"It has done so much for us," Sandra said. "When I came back to the United States, I came back kicking and screaming. I did not want to come back. We needed to. When we came back here, this is a community, and this is our community. It has given us that sense of community."

"We have learned that Polk County helps people," Lynn said. "There are so many different agencies and groups to do that."

Some of those other means of help include Center of Hope's disaster response that donated food, materials and money during the spring floods and Hurricane Beryl. The center also operates a bus that delivers food to the homebound and picks clients up to shop for food. Clothing is another area that Center of Hope covers when the need arises.

Eight ministries in all make the non-profit organized in 1985 one of the more unique.

God provides for the Center of Hope in so many ways, but the volunteers are His most cherished provision," Board President Mike Fortney said. "Our volunteers are like a family, and we welcome anyone to come and serve alongside us." Those wishing to volunteer can call 936-327-7634 or visit 600 S. Washington in Livingston any Tuesday or Thursday from 1-3:30 p.m. and ask for Gloria, Mike or Karen. They are always ready to add more members to the family.

possession of a controlled substance. Further investigation revealed that the driver, Toomey, attempted to conceal her identity by providing a false name and date of birth and signed a government document with this false information, resulting in additional charges of forgery and failure to identify/give false information. It was also determined that she was wanted out of Liberty County.

Both individuals are currently in custody and awaiting further legal proceedings.

"The Polk County Sheriff's Office is committed to combating drug-related crimes and fraudulent activity in Polk County," Sottosanti said.

The Texas Department of Public Safety's Criminal Investigation Division assisted with both incidents.

One team will end slump Friday

By Brian Besch

Livingston football has started district play in a 0-1 hole. The opportunity to even that mark will come at home Friday, as they welcome the 0-4 Liberty Panthers. Last week's contest was one the Lions should have won. They outgained Hardin-Jefferson by well over 100 yards, but six turnovers would be their undoing. "That would have taken a lot of pressure off of us right off the bat," Lion coach Finis Vanover said of the district race. "We were well prepared for anything those guys had. It showed, because we dominated them defensively. We were rolling on offense. We have to take care of the ball. I know all people see is the turnovers, but I lived through every one of them a hundred times all weekend. I know the kids did too and it hurt them badly."The Panthers have suffered through similar pains, dropping their first two games of the season by a combined three points. They run a double wing attack that does not put it in the air often."Liberty is a totally different animal," Vanover said of preparing for an offensive look they haven't seen in weeks. "They have a big offensive line. They have a kid that is close (athletically) to the Nacogdoches quarterback. They run everything that we run almost identical to the way that we run it and everything. They run the counter trey and the bootleg passes across the middle and throwing to the tight end."The Panther offense has struggled on offense, currently last in the district. Quarterback Frankie Marez is a dual threat. Though the Panthers do not throw the ball often, Marez is just behind Livingston's Trenden Williams for fifth place in the district's rushing. He has seven total touchdowns on the season.Former Livingston defensive coordinator Andy Garza now holds that position at Liberty."They have a couple of big defensive tackles. They will be in a 3-3 stack, and then in the next series they will be in a wide tackle six (6-2)."Vanover said the Panthers will bring safeties on a blitz, drop defensive tackles into coverage and show several different looks throughout a contest.

They played four different fronts in four games. Liberty has given up an average of 250 yards per game, good for third in the district. Senior Jason Wickliff is the team's leading tackler and also has an interception.Last week, Liberty led Huffman Hargrave for a few quarters. The Falcons were able to win that contest 49-28. The Panthers have also dropped contests to Coldspring (8-6), East Chambers (42-23) and Splendora (28-27)."Somebody is

Lady Hornets spike rivals

By Brian Besch

Goodrich made quick work of archrival Leggett at home Tuesday, sweeping the Lady Pirates 25-11, 25-19 and 25-22.

Goodrich started strong with a 6-0 opening, then cruised to a 20-4 lead before Leggett rallied late to make the score more respectable.

In the second set, the Lady Pirates were within two at 14-12 before the Lady Hornets went on a run to win by six.

Many of Goodrich coach Pinellafie Johnson's junior varsity started the third game. Leggett established a 10-4 lead before Lady Hornet starters entered again. Still, the Lady Pirates fought hard, holding a 14-10 lead midway through. It wasn't until 20-20 that the Lady Hornets would tie and eventually take the lead for good.

"We have had our ups and downs," Leggett coach Terri Barlow said. "We played pretty good in here; we have to close it out and cut back on some of our mistakes.

"On certain days we have different ones standing out. It is between Rilee Carline, Tamera Henderson, Cheyanne Simons and Hannah Hodge (for who has stood out the past few weeks). There are a number of them. We have improved a whole lot in everything since the beginning of the season. We do need to call the ball a little bit more."

Leggett has won just two games so far this year, but hopes to improve upon that record during district play.

Goodrich now improves to 1-1 in district.

"We got our serves over and did much better with them. They are still having problems communicating," Johnson said of her group. "You can't play a team — I don't care how strong or weak they are — if you are not communicating. We missed tons of balls just not talking out on the floor. We got the win, but there were still lots of things that we should have done right that we didn't."

Chester is 2-0, leading the district, while Richards is 1-0. Goodrich will challenge Richards Friday in a battle for second place.

"We can swing, but we won't swing," Johnson said on improvements needed. "We work from the back row swinging and they do it in practice all the time, but they get in the game and they still won't jump and swing. They definitely have to work on that.

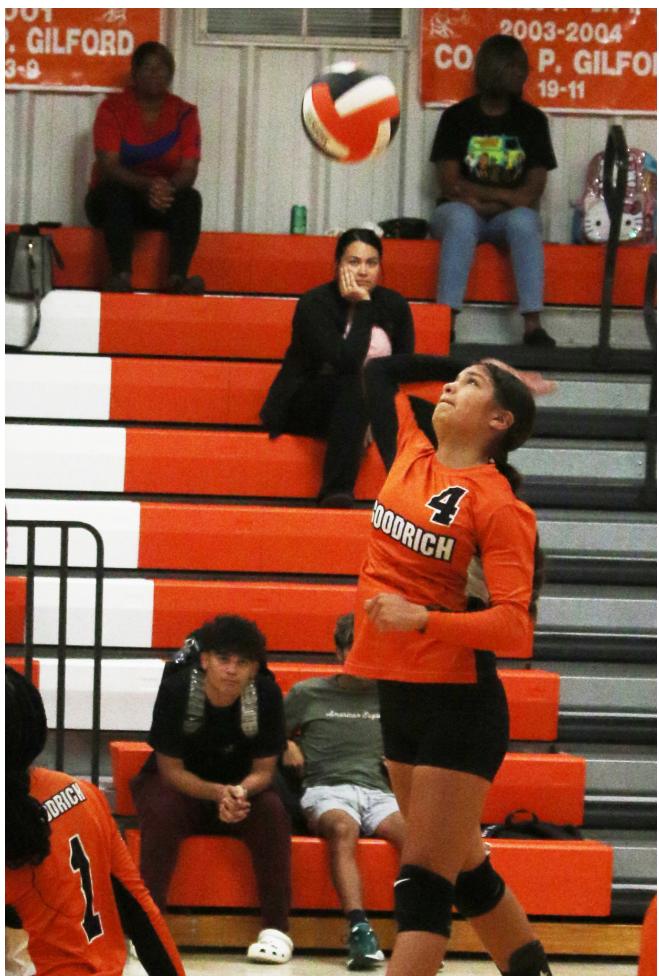

"When we played Chester, we did outstanding with our defense. We lost, but they played well. I told them that if we could play like that and get our serves over, we will be at the top vying for first. All they need to do is keep playing and keep working hard. That is what I'm expecting on Friday when we go over there to Richards. I am expecting to take it."

Johnson bragged on her two setters, Liseidy Balbuena and Tanyreauna Criswell.

"They used to be so afraid, but they are getting more relaxed, even though we still need to work on getting it closer to the net. They did a much better job today and Friday. Tanyreauna did more hitting for me today than what she has done."

Goodrich will next play at home Tuesday, welcoming Chester. Leggett's next opponent will be Friday at home, also versus district leading Chester.

Valerie Jasso comes up with the dig.

Hannah Hodge passes to a teammate.

Phelan's GOP foes back one challenger

Texas House Republicans who want to oust Speaker Dade Phelan have coalesced behind a single opponent: state Rep. David Cook, R-Mansfield. A total of 48 representatives are backing the two-term representative, including four who dropped their own bids for speaker.

Phelan's opponents, including Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick, claim he has given too much power to Democrats by naming some to lead legislative committees.

"This vote highlights the growing momentum for change within the Texas House, as members rally behind a shared vision of a decentralized leadership model that empowers all members," Cook said in a statement.

Phelan is seeking his third term as speaker after narrowly surviving a challenge for re-election to represent his district in the GOP primary, winning a runoff election.

"Not only are their actions disappointing and unacceptable, they are futile, as I proudly have the clear majority votes needed to be the Speaker today and will have the clear majority support needed to become Speaker again come January," Phelan said in a statement.

Polls show near tie in Cruz-Allred race

The U.S. Senate race in Texas has tightened, with a poll last week showing Democratic challenger Colin Allred nearly within the margin of error in his race against incumbent Republican Ted Cruz, the Austin American-Statesman reported. A poll released by the Texas Hispanic Policy Foundation shows Cruz ahead of Allred 48% to 45%, nearly within the margin of error of 2.83%.

Cruz is seeking his third term in the Senate. He won his last race against challenger Beto O' Rourke by just 2.6 points.

The tightening race prompted the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee to announce last week that it is sending millions of advertising dollars to Texas to boost his campaign. The committee plants to put its money toward airing more Allred campaign ads. Committee chair Gary

Texas Supreme Court rules on gun ban at state fair

The State Fair of Texas opened last week with its newly enacted ban on weapons intact after the Texas Supreme Court rejected a challenge by Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton just 13 hours earlier. The Statesman reported the court ridiculed the state's legal arguments in a five-page opinion, with Justice Jimmy Blacklock writing that "the State's filings do not even attempt to answer" the question at the heart of the case.

Two lower courts also rejected Paxton's attempt to lift the ban, enacted after three fairgoers were injured in a shooting incident last year.

The state fair runs through Sunday, Oct. 20.

Party game company sues SpaceX for trespassing

Cards Against Humanity, makers of a humorous adult party game, is suing Elon Musk's SpaceX company for trespassing and damaging land the company purchased in Cameron County. The company purchased the land in 2017 to send a political message to then-President Donald Trump's campaign to not build a border wall.

KUT reported that the company raised money to purchase the land by soliciting $15 donations from 150,000 people. It says the land has been kept in its pristine state, but SpaceX has dumped gravel, tractors, and space garbage on it.

A website maintained by the company announced it is seeking $15 million in damages and displayed photos purportedly showing "before and after" images of its land. SpaceX did not respond for comment from Texas Public Radio.

Texas, campaign is underway, and Texans are urged to turn off unnecessary lights to minimize light pollution. Migrating birds can become disoriented when traveling through densely populated areas.

Up to 1 billion birds are killed each year due to collisions with buildings. Peak migration runs through Oct. 29, with fall migration ending around Nov. 30. One of every four birds migrating through the U.S. passes through Texas, according to Audubon Texas.

Building owners, businesses, developers and homeowners can help protect migrating birds by turning off all nonessential lighting from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. each night. Lighting shields that direct light downward can reduce bird casualties. More information is available at tx.audubon.org.

Looking back on last summer's weather

The summer of 2024 is in the books, and Dr. Mark Wentzel, hydrologist with the Texas Water Development Board, says it ended up in the middle of the pack when compared to the last 25 summers – the 12th most miserable during that time period.

The amount of the state in drought declined to 28 percent from a high of 88 percent during the summer of 2022, Wentzel wrote. Last summer certainly was an improvement over the two previous, which were considered the second and third most miserable in the past quarter century. But they both pale in comparison to the summer of 2011, which had the worst drought conditions in Texas history, and wildfires swept the state.

Relatively plentiful rain made last summer seem more tolerable, but records indicate it was the fourth-hottest summer of the past 25 years.

Thank goodness for autumn.

Playing the 'slots' at Lake Tawakoni

Guide Tony Pennebaker slowed his big catfish guide boat and studied the sonar closely. "This is the spot we fished yesterday and landed limits of 'eater' blue catfish in the slot and a couple of trophy catfish which we released that measured over 30 inches and weighed 35 to 40 pounds apiece."

The water was relatively shallow, about 5 feet deep and we were positioned a long cast from the edge of a big patch of standing timber. Long casts definitely improve the bite when fishing for blue catfish which are sensitive to vibrations. With power poles lowered into the soft lake bottom, the big craft was stationary. Eight rods with fresh shad rigged Santee Cooper style with small floats set about eight inches above the hook to keep the baits dangling up from bottom were positioned around the boat and we didn't wait long before the action to began!

I've fished with Tony many times and he knows ole' Luke is all about a fish fry. I share his love of catching these hard fighting fish and eating those snow-white blue catfish fillets but I won't snub my nose at a platter of tasty channel cat fillets either. We could have baited a spot with cattle range cubes or soured grain, used his Tony P's Punch bait and undoubtedly landed our limits of channel catfish weighing 1.5 to 2 pounds but with the bigger blue catfish on a dependable bite, our choice of species was a no brainer.

At Tawakoni the daily limit on blue and channel catfish is no minimum length limit; daily bag and possession limit is 25 blue and channel catfish in any combination. In the 25fish bag, no more than 5 fish 20 inches or greater in length may be retained, and no more than 1 of those can be 30 inches or longer. This 'slot' between 20 and 30 inches is made up of what we refer to as 'good eaters', fish weighing from about 5 to 15 pounds. Any catfish angler/eater understands that 5 of these 'slot' fish equate to several freezer bags full of tasty fillets.

We were fishing a big shallow flat with what's left of a ditch or old creek channel near the edge of standing timber. Through the years, most of the submerged creek channels have silted in but a close look at sonar will show many of these depressions still visible. It doesn't take much elevation difference in bottom structure to attract and hold not only catfish but the bait fish they feed upon.

This is one style of fishing where I'm convinced more hook ups will occur with the rod in a holder rather than in the fisherman's hands. The drill went like this; heave the baits out far from the boat, as far as we could cast, allow the weight to pull the bait to bottom and the floater suspend it up a few incheswhich makes it easier for the catfish to scent and position in its mouth. With the butt of the rod in a rod holder, crank the reel handle to take up slack.

With all the rods positioned, it was a waiting game. I kept an eye on the rods in front of the boat and Tony watched the rear rods. Blue catfish usually don't 'nibble' a bait as is common with channel catfish. The bigger fish simply grab the bait and run with it. The circle hooks we were using are designed to thread into the corner of the fish's mouth as it swims away. Shaped with a bit of a corkscrew twist, these hooks are ideal for this style fishing. When the rod is bowing heavily toward the water, begin cranking as fast as possible on the reel (with the rod still in the holder). This takes the slack out of the line and ensures pressure is maintained on the fish.

You'll know when the hook set is solid, the rod will be bending in a sharp arc and it's time to reach down and winch the rod from the holder. This can be a trick when a big trophy blue is applying pressure. When fighting these big fish, it's best to grab the rod a few inches forward of the reel and place the butt of the rod somewhere around your beltline. This gives more control, the trick is to let the rod and the reels drag system do the work to tire the fish.

Our goal on this morning was to boat a limit of slot fish for an upcoming fish fry I have planed. If we were lucky enough to catch a trophy, then photographs and quick release was the plan. After only a couple hours fishing we had a big ice cooler filled with big slot fish weighing from about 4 to 15 pounds and were thinking about heading to the marina to transform our catch into several gallon bags of tasty snow white fillets. But our plan changed quickly, the rod on the port side of the bow bowed heavily and there was no need to crank on the reel to take up slack line. The big blue had already accomplished this! My goal was to get the action on video and as Tony muscled the rod out of the holder, I grabbed the video camera and had it rolling on the action. Big blues are known for making long, strong runs and this one didn't disappoint. We were lucky it didn't tangle up with a couple of lines still in the water.

As the fish began to tire, it was time for the net man to go to work. Because there were only two of us in the boat, the cameraman (me) had to do double duty with the net. I was able to get most of the fight on camera before setting the video camera down and reaching for the net. With the big blue in the boat, I resumed filming duties for our TV show "A Sportsmans Life". The action should now be on YouTube as well as Carbon TV www.carbontv.com.

Tony says the blue catfish bite is right on schedule, the majority of fish he's landing now are in the slot but as the water continues to cool more and more of the trophy class fish weighing from 25 to 50 pounds will begin taking the bait. It's a challenge for some of us to get out of the fall woods and go fishing but take it from me, a few hours on the water with someone like Pennebaker is likely to pay off in not only a box full of some of the best eating in freshwater but memories to last a lifetime as well.

Original Texans only knew how to lose

The Dallas Texans, first pro football team in the Southwest, proved their season opening defeat was no fluke by losing 37-14 to and the visitors coasted to a 24-6 triumph. the red by early November, they asked the Matty Bell, athletic director at Southern Citizens Association for a $250,000 loan Methodist, generously blamed the disap- to tide them over, but the unelected city fa-the San Francisco 49'ers on Oct. 5, 1952.

Seventy-two years ago, the National Football League did not remotely resemble the sports spectacle of today. No Monday Night Football, no Super Bowl and no fat contracts for gridiron gladiators who risked crippling injury every Sunday.

There were 12 teams instead of the current 31 and none between Chicago and California. The idea of selling new franchises to pigskin hungry cities had yet to dawn on current owners, so the rest of the country had to wait until a team became available.

At the end of the1951 season, singer Kate Smith's manager begged the league office to take the money losing New York Yankees off his hands. Commissioner Bert Bell was happy to oblige because he had a buyer in football crazy Texas.

A group of businessmen headed by Giles Martin, 31-year-old heir to a textiles fortune, paid $300,000 for the privilege of moving the club to Dallas. Since no selfrespecting resident of the Lone Star State would root for a team called the Yankees, the name was changed to the Texans.

Unlike the expansion teams to come, the Dallas Texans were not a bunch of overthe-hill veterans and green-as-grass rookies. Talent may have been in short supply, but Buddy Young was a nifty little runner and two linemen, Gino Marchetti and Art Donovan, were destined for the Hall of Fame.

Thirty-three players survived a scorching training camp in Kerrville and a flurry of cuts and trades. Six Southwest Conference alumni were on the opening-day roster: fullback Dick McKissack (SMU), ends Bruce Alford (TCU) and Stanley Williams (Baylor), guard Weldon Humble (Rice) and UT tackles Ken Jackson and Jim Lansford.

The 17,500 curious spectators, who showed up at the Cotton Bowl on the last Sunday of September, had lots of elbow room in the stadium built for 75,000. Gov. Allan Shivers hailed "this new era in sports in Texas," and a beauty queen released helium-filled balloons that soared skyward with a gold football entitling the finder to an undisclosed prize.

Tom Landry fumbled the opening kickoff on the New York Giants' 22-yard line to set up the hosts' sole score. Crowd favorite Kyle Rote, Doak Walker's running mate at SMU, received the biggest cheer of the day with an exciting 52-yard touchdown dash, pointing turnout for the pro debut on football fatigue. The SMU-Georgia Tech game attracted 40,000 to the Cotton Bowl on Friday night, and the Texas Aggies packed the place the next afternoon for their contest with Oklahoma A&M.

Excuses were harder to come by the following Sunday, when the Texans' tussle with the 49'ers drew 2,500 fewer fans. Y.A. Tittle, Marshall native and Louisiana State signal-caller, picked apart the Dallas defense as San Francisco rolled to a 23-point victory.

A change of scene failed to alter the outcome a week later in Chicago. The Texans managed to muster 20 points at Wrigley Field, but the Bears were 18 points better.

Returning to the wide-open spaces of the Cotton Bowl, the Texans actually led Green Bay 14-7 at halftime much to the surprise of the sparse crowd of 14,000. But the Rice Institute pass-and-catch combination of Tobin Rote and Bill Howton powered the Packers past the hapless home team 24-14.

The Texans suffered their fifth and sixth defeats on a road trip to the West Coast. The 49'ers ran wild in a 48-21 rout, and the Los Angeles Rams shellacked them 42-20.

Giles and his partners had bought the franchise in the naive belief they would at least break even that initial season. Finding themselves a quarter of a million dollars in thers turned them down flat.

Ten thousand hardy souls braved the cold and rain to see what most expected to be the Texans' last game in Dallas. The Rams won the muddy melee by three TD's.

Three days later, Giles Miller dumped the team in Bert Bell's lap. The commissioner gave Coach Jimmy Phelan marching orders for Hershey, Pennsylvania, which the strays called home for the rest of the strange season

The orphans were adopted by Baltimore and "became heroes for life," as colorful Art Donovan put it. Renamed the Colts, they developed into the NFL's best winning back-to-back championships in 1958 and 1959

Dallasites did not miss the original Texans, though in private they probably envied Baltimore's luck. The NFL gave the city a second chance in 1960 by awarding an expansion franchise to oilman Clint Murchison. Lamar Hunt, founder of the rival American Football League, countered with the second coming of the Texans, and for the next three seasons Big D had its choice of two professional football teams.

Strength Training

My mom knew me well. So well, in fact, that as I left for college she outfitted me not only in the latest fashions for my body but she also armed me for life by the gift of a ceramic "book, a slightly worn piece that had resided on the kitchen window sill as long as I had memory. She knew me well. The "Serenity Prayer, in faded gilt script has resided with me ever since, on dorm dressers, in apartment alcoves and finally, on my own kitchen windowsills.

The "Serenity Prayer, known to millions, was written by Reinhold Niebuhr, in the early 1940s. In original form it reads, "God, give us the grace to accept with serenity the things that cannot be changed, courage to change the things which should be changed, and the wisdom to distinguish the one from the other. It speaks to important, even lifesaving, skills everyone who lives life successfully must develop. My mom had already seen to it that I had the models for courage, for wisdom, acceptance and serenity that I needed to learn those skills. The prayer, given to her by her mom, was to serve me as a reminder to use these skills.

How do children develop the strengths they will need to become successful, happy, contributing adults? Where do the models for learning courage, serenity, wisdom and acceptance come from? Parents, obviously, are an important source. Children who live with kindness become kind, children who live with acceptance learn to love and children who live with anger become bitter. Beyond parents are aunts, uncles, grandparents and teachers, all who serve as examples for children to copy. Uncles who always have time for nieces and nephews teach them most of all the importance of having a caring special person who thinks they are important. There are others, those important members of our "extended families, the friends so close our children call them "aunt" or "uncle" and daily interact in our lives and from whom our children take their cues about the kinds of adults they will become. Our children watch and copy ... and they copy everything, good or bad.

Adults are the mirrors for what children will alter become; good examples are critical. By watching grown-ups cope successfully with joblessness, sorrow, hard times, death, disaster, children learn that adverse circumstances can be overcome, changed or accepted. By observing adults who look beyond imperfection of body to the inside perfection of spirit, who love the unlovable and forgive the unforgivable, children learn to do the same. Young people copy the way adults react to difficult situations ... by blaming or by problem solving. When their own tough times come, they remember and reach for the strengths that were planted in years past by the strong adults about them. They cannot use what we have not given them.
