New stars

Col. Jon Harrison, a Purcell native, receives the stars of a brigadier general from his children, JT and Haley, during a February 1 ceremony in Oklahoma City. Harrison is director of joint staff for the Oklahoma National Guard and serves as primary assistant to another Purcell native, Maj. Gen. Michael C. Thompson, Oklahoma's adjutant general.

Purcell native receives stars

Purcell's ties to the Oklahoma National Guard have never been stronger.

In late 2017 Gov. Mary Fallin selected a Purcell native son, Maj. Gen. Michael C. Thompson, as Oklahoma's adjutant general.

And now another Purcell native, Jon M. Harrison, recently promoted to the rank of brigadier general, is Thompson's second in command as joint director for the Guard.

"If I could choose any officer in the Army to be the director of my staff, I would choose Jon Harrison without hesitation," Thompson said. "He is quite simply a professional through and through and an invaluable resource to me."

With more than three decades in the Oklahoma National Guard, Harrison has served as an Army aviator and senior leader.

In the classroom of 2018 and beyond, one size does not fit all.

That was the message educators brought before the Purcell Public Schools board Monday evening.

After a lengthy discussion, board members unanimously approved the school's request to add a Personalized Learning Path for students who fall outside the mid-range in core classes required for graduation.

Principal Bret Petty said for generations teachers have taught to the middle of the class.

What PLP does is offer a different path to graduation for top and bottom tier students.

Agents seize 10 kilos of drug

Another major drug bust – this one involving 10 kilos of methamphetamine – by the District 21 Drug Task Force has landed two Dallas men in the McClain County Detention Center.

Street value of the confiscated drugs was reported to be $77,000. The methamphetamine was packaged in gallon size bags.

Ismael Avila, 37, and Felipe Zamora-Guardiola, 34, are charged in McClain County District Court with aggravated trafficking in illegal drugs.

They are being held on $200,000 bond each. Preliminary hearing conferences for both defendants will be at 9 a.m. March 7.

According to court documents, they were southbound on Interstate 35 in a Volvo belonging to Zamora-Guardiola when a task force officer stopped them for speeding near mile marker 88.

A dog handler with the task force worked his dog around the vehicle. When the dog indicated the presence of narcotics, the first officer obtained the men's permission to search the Volvo.

According to the affidavit, a hidden compartment was found under the carpet from beneath the front passenger seat to the back seat.

The compartment was locked with an electronic trunk latch. With no code available to unlock the latch, an officer cut wires and forced the latch open.

Inside the compartment was

PLS Big Read looks to "Five Skies"

For the 12th consecutive year, the Pioneer Library System will be celebrating literature with its PLS Big Read, inspired by the National Endowment for the Arts' initiative, The Big Read.

The Big Read is a celebration of literature started by the NEA as a way for communities to get together for activities centered around classic literature. The featured book selected by PLS representatives for this year is "Five Skies" by Ron Carlson.

The Purcell Public Library will host a scholar-led discussion of the book at 5:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 1, and leading the discussion will be award-winning author Rilla Askew.

Copies of the book are available from the library's front desk in advance of the discussion.

Carlson is a longtime and award-winning short story writer who wrote "Five Skies" after a break of about 30 years from novel writing. It tells the story of three men from different backgrounds brought together for a summer construction project in the Rocky Mountains.

It builds a story from how their collective pasts intertwine.

"The opportunities in a novel are so different from those in a story," Carlson said in a review. "The world is larger and requires patience in every way. The writing isn't full of sudden surprises, but discoveries that evolve credibly over time."

The NEA has funded five Big Read projects for PLS: The Grapes of Wrath in 2007; Bless Me, Ultima in 2008; The Maltese Falcon in 2010, Old School in 2013 and A Wizard of Earthsea in 2015. PLS Big Reads produced solely with state and local funding include were To Kill a Mockingbird in 2009; The Things They Carried in 2011, The Joy Luck Club in 2012, True Grit in 2014, Fahrenheit 451 in 2016, Being Mortal in 2017 and this year's project.

Sponsors for this year's activities are the Anne and Henry Zarrow Foundation, Norman Arts Council, Pioneer Library System Foundation and the Pioneer Library System.

What's good for the goose...

In the interest of fairness to everyone, why can one group of people dictate who can and cannot speak on college campuses?

It's happening from coast to coast and right here in River City.

Conservative values and practices are not welcome on many college campuses.

You've read in the newspaper or seen on the news about conservative speakers being spurned at campuses on each coast.

Now it has happened in Edmond at The University of Central Oklahoma.

The UCO Student Association has rescinded its speaking invitation to Ken Ham, a well known Christian apologist.

That comes from pressure from the BGLTQ+ Student Center at UCO.

The President of the UCO Student Body Stockton Duvall said he was bullied by members of the student body for inviting Ham to speak.

Ham was to speak March 5 but now he will speak at

Editor's Notebook

John D.
Montgomery

Paul Blair's Fairview Baptist Church in Edmond that day.

It is open to the public.

The question is why is it that one group can dictate who can speak on any given college campus?

Why is it that a group that wants to be inclusive and a part of the crowd doesn't want to allow anyone with diverse ideas to speak?

Where is the first Amendment? Where is the Freedom of Speech?

What's good for the goose is good for the gander in most cases.

But apparently not when it comes to conservative values.

We are only allowed to be tolerant of what some people want but they are not tolerant of what others may want.

There is something dreadfully wrong with that.

It is high time certain people need stand up and fight for their rights.

If a speaker is invited to speak to the BGLTQ+ supporters, folks that don't feel that way don't have to go listen.

Likewise, if a conservative is speaking to a group, the BGLTQ+ supporters don't have to listen.

But for one group or the other to bully people to get their way, maybe they should look into the dictionary to look up the word inclusive.

The Merriam-Webster dictionary online even uses the LGBT as an example.

"The Christian Science Monitor, 'In LGBT-welcoming Britain, Church of England tries to find its path,' 22 Dec. 2017."

What's good for the goose...

Congressman Tom Cole

Congress has passed yet another continuing resolution to temporarily fund the government and avert a shutdown. The agreement secures funding to ensure the President's defense priorities can be met.

It also ends a months-long impasse on spending priorities and provides for a path ahead to undo the damaging cuts that have hindered our armed forces and diminished our ability to meet security threats around the globe.

The bipartisan agreement passed last week includes a deal to bring total defense spending over two years to $700 billion and $716 billion, respectively.

It reverses the caps on defense funding to ensure it matches the Trump Administration's request for fiscal year 2019.

And it also breaks the parity that Democrats have demanded for non-defense discretionary funding – a demand that has damaged the process of moving forward with the appropriations process.

The budget agreement include a $63 billion increase for non-defense discretionary for fiscal year 2018, and a $68 billion increase for fiscal year 2019.

In addition to fully funding the military, this budget agreement addresses domestic priorities for taxes, health programs, veterans, disaster relief and the federal debt. Over $40 billion in fiscal year 2018 and fiscal year 2019 will support National Institutes of Health research, combat opioids and support mental health programs.

A number of tax credits are extended for small wind energy projects and other energy production. Health care programs like the Children's Health Insurance Program and Community Health Centers will receive reauthorized extensions and funding so that they continue to serve the millions of people that rely on them.

Additionally, $6 billion is allocated over two years to fight the opioid addiction crisis crippling our communities, with money directed toward prevention programs and law enforcement operations.

Funding for the Veterans Affairs' (VA) backlog issue is doubled at $4 billion over two years, which will help the more than 400,000 claims at the VA. Most importantly, this bill will give the people of Puerto Rico, Texas, Florida, the U.S. Virgin Islands and California the emergency funding they need to recover, repair and rebuild from last year's devastating natural disasters.

Despite this deal, the reality is that debt and the expensive interest on that debt is still being accumulated every year. We are still spending excessively on entitlements—particularly Social Security and Medicare – more than ever before.

However, the long-term debt crisis on our hands is one that can only be solved by finding common ground and striking true compromise to deal with the drivers of our debt.

There is hard and critical work ahead in order to fulfill promises made to older generations, preserve the same promise for future generations and pay down our massive debt.

Taking politics out of politics

The Oklahoma Academy has a pretty good idea. And since Tuesday is an election day, it's a good time to take note.

Participants in the most recent Oklahoma Academy Town Hall, Oklahomans who represent all corners of the state and all walks of life, tackled the voting process and attempted to identify what would make it better. The group consisted of 260 men and 201 women; 216 Republicans, 204 Democrats and 40 independents and Libertarians. Ninety-five percent of them voted in the 2016 presidential election. That group held 24 listening sessions and were asked to list the top three barriers and solutions regarding the election process, voter access, and voter engagement.

If it's possible to summarize what the group concluded, it might be that Oklahoma should take some of the politics out of politics.

To simplify the election process the Academy recommended open primaries, a nonpartisan group to review the wording of state questions, and automatic voter registrations with a driver's license or state ID, as well as the ability to register online.

Voter access could be improved, the group said, with more early voting sites, online voting or mail-in voting without notarization, and free public transportation on election days.

Thirdly, the Academy said voter engagement would be improved by requiring K-12 civics education in public schools, a central location for unbiased information, and open primaries.

Note that open primaries – more specifically, the Academy is calling for a nonpartisan blanket primary – came up as a solution in two categories, voter engagement and a simplified election process. Under that system, candidates from all parties would appear on a single ballot with the top two vote-getters moving on to the general election. That system tends to reduce partisanship among voters, reduce the number of elections voters are asked to participate in, and open the

Step up becomes step down in OKC

After the failure Monday to come to an agreement on the Step Up Oklahoma plan one has to wonder what the chances are of getting a budget going.

Oh wait, we still don't have a budget for last year.

It seems there should be no other measures tended to at the State Capitol until a budget is struck.

That would eliminate the last minute budget deals that end up being struck down by the Oklahoma Supreme Court.

In kindergarten the students must learn their letters, then sight words and then reading.

It's a step by step procedure that seems to have worked since goodness knows when.

Legislators need to get their work in order, get a budget for last year and then this year and then move on to other matters.

Daylight saving time, teenagers and a few great ideas

The problem is, a lot of things are too short. Last week I wrote about the really great ideas some of our legislators have put forth for the upcoming session, but there were so many I ran out of room. Fortunately, there's always another paper.

Among the things that are too short: days. It's dark when you get out of bed in the morning, dark when you go to bed at night. How are you supposed to get any meaningful work done? Fortunately, Sen. Ervin Yen came up with a way to fix that. Senate Bill 1108 would put Oklahoma on permanent daylight saving time. The economic benefits are obvious. For example, we'd only be in the same time zone as Texas for about half the year. That's brilliant! All winter we'll be an hour ahead, so when that stream of cars from Dallas drives across the Red River to drop a little coin in Thackerville or Durant it will be an hour later and they'll want to eat in one of our restaurants right away. Then, when it's 2 a.m. in the casino, they'll remember they're going to gain an hour when they go back across the bridge, so it will be OK to stay and play an extra 60 minutes without losing any sleep.

What fun they'll have in the Panhandle. Not only will they be able to sit on that cement tristate post and be in three states at once, their butt will stick out a whole hour behind their feet.

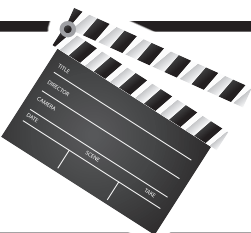

It's going to take a little getting used to for those flight connections at DFW, but we'll adjust. And think of the money we'll save on night lights! In fact, this is such a good idea that Sen. Joseph Silk introduced the very same bill as Senate Bill 1309. And Silk always has good ideas. You might remember him as the vacation rental manager in Broken Bow who in 2016 filed the Right of Conscience Act, which would have let business owners discriminate against gay people if God told them to. I'll admit that I was at first a little slow to come around to the perpetual daylight saving time idea. It took a couple of politicians to explain to me that if you take a 24-foot-long rope, cut one foot off one end and tie it to the other end, you end up with a longer rope. I sure wish I'd understood that sooner.

Rep. William Fourkiller found a great use for that extra hour too. Beginning drivers, those safety-conscious teenagers bearing learner's permits, are only allowed to drive between 5 a.m. and 10 p.m. Since no teenagers are up at 5 a.m. and it will still be daylight at 10 p.m. during the summer, those newly minted drivers won't have the challenges presented by driving in the dark. All the more reason, then, to let those teenagers get started even younger. Fourkiller's bill, HB 2616, would lower the age to enroll in driving school to 14 and the age for a learner's permit to 14-and-a-half. Fortunately, the barely-eligible-for-high-school set is too young to have discovered things like texting or Snapchat, so we won't have to worry about their laser focus on that upcoming HOLY CRAP THAT LIGHT IS RED OH MY GOD WE'RE GOING TO DIE intersection. Fourteen-year-old boys are especially focused. They love cars and are rarely distracted. Fourteen-year-old girls over there by the convenience store have OH MY GOD WATCH WHERE YOU'RE GOING YOU'RE GOING TO HIT THAT TRUCK AND KILL US no effect whatsoever on their concentration.

MOVIES WITH DAVE

By David Stull

I don't have much to say after last week's gargantuan column. I'm glad I only have to make a top 10 list once a year. There's always new movies to talk about though so let's get right to them.

First up is "Fifty Shades Freed."

In this final chapter of the Fifty Shades series, newly-weds Christian (Jamie Dornan) and Anastasia (Dakota Johnson) finally begin their new life together as husband and wife.

But despite their shared life of luxury, the newly joined couple still have a few relationship kinks to iron out, and when unsavory elements from their past reappear, the stress threatens to drive a wedge between the pair forever.

I'm not even sure how to talk about this film. Honestly even calling it a film seems like a stretch.

This is pornography. It's as simple as that. I still have a hard time wrapping my head around it.

I went to a giant, family friendly movie theater in the heart of Moore, Oklahoma and watched an 105 minute feature length porn.

Unreal. The movie just goes from one sex scene to the next. I'm no prude, but some elements of a regular film would be nice.

You know, like a story, an interesting plot that drives the movie, actors that can read lines and not sound like emotionless husks. I'm not asking for much here.

The performances are terrible all around, but none stands out more than Dakota Johnson.

It's like she just gave up. Frankly after starring in three of these movies, I can't say I blame her.

Simple things like the inflection in her words were just flat out wrong. She doesn't sound the least bit natural.

The real question though is why didn't the director (James Foley) bother to get better takes after Johnson repeatedly flubs her lines?

I guess he gave up too.

Jamie Dornan's acting might be the slightest bit better, but his character remains the most despicable element of this entire series.

It's like Christian Grey googled the signs of an abusive partner and made mastering those traits his highest aspiration.

He's overly controlling, prone to jealousy, punishes Anna when she doesn't do exactly what he commands, and when he doesn't get his way he pouts about it.

Who on Earth finds this whiny, psychologically underdeveloped, poor excuse of a man attractive?

But I can't very well blame the actors for their character's terrible dialog, no matter how poorly they deliver it.

It's like this movie was written by an imbecilic middle schooler.

All the drama is frivolous nonsense.

What's that you say? Anna didn't change her last name on her work email address after getting married and now Christian's upset?! Oh my goodness! That's certainly a good reason for him to travel all the way to where she works and scold her for it!

What kind of hack writer comes up with this asinine, half-witted drivel? E. L. James and her screenwriter husband Niall Leonard apparently.

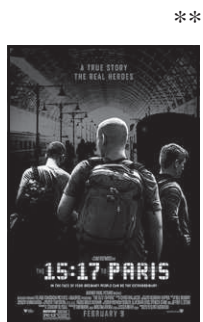

The only good thing about this movie is it's the final film in this ill-conceived "romantic" series.

If you liked the last two movies, I don't see any reason you wouldn't like this one too. They're all the same as far as quality's concerned.

Far be it from me to stop you from watching your porno at the movie theater.

"Fifty Shades Freed" is rated R.

Next up is "The 15:17 to Paris."

Based on a true story, this film stars the real heroes Spencer Stone, Anthony Sadler, and Alek Skarlatos, their lives leading up to boarding the Thalys train bound for Paris and their courage in preventing what could have been a massive tragedy.

Before I say anything about this movie first let me make something very clear.

The men who risked their lives to stop Ayoub El Khazzani during the 2015 Thalys train attack are heroes.

The actions they took during that day back in August of 2015 we're incredibly courageous and for risking their lives they deserve all the recognition and praise they've received.

That said, these men are not actors and they never should have been cast to play themselves.

None of their performances are the least bit natural. They show almost no emotion in the way they talk and practically every line of dialogue is horribly stilted and wooden.

Exactly what you'd expect from three guys with no acting experience.

I have no idea what Clint Eastwood, the director of this film, was thinking.

If I ever do something heroic or anything meaningful that's worth making a movie about, I sure as heck wouldn't want to star as myself.

This film doesn't do anything to honor these men. All it does is make them out to be emotionless robots.

Extended conversations between these guys is downright painful to listen to. Heck, they can't even pretend to get excited about a dang football game. For goodness sake show some kind emotion!

But to be fair, I don't even think it's all their fault that they delivered such bad performances. Most the acting in this movie, even by experienced actors, is downright terrible. The children who play these men as kids are especially bad.

You know last week when I reviewed "The Florida Project" and kept going on and on about how authentic the child acting was? Yeah, this movie's the exact opposite.

None of the kids' dialogue feels the least bit natural. I don't think they could have sounded any more unauthentic if they tried.

This isn't an actor problem. When you have a film with this many constantly poor performances, that's all on the director.

I can't believe this movie was made by the same man who directed "Letters from Iwo Jima" and "Million Dollar Baby." What the heck are you doing Eastwood?

The story itself isn't too bad. It's structured fine for the most part with the film cutting between the men's lives leading up to the incident and the day of the attack itself, much like Eastwood's last film "Sully."

What I don't understand is why the filmmakers thought it necessary to show 30 full minutes of the guys' European vacation leading up to the train attack.

Nothing happens. It's just them going around, seeing the sites, and making random comments in bored, monotone voices for nearly a third of the movie's runtime.

I understand showing the guys as kids and joining the military. You know, giving the audience a glimpse of what made these men the heroes that they are.

But do we really need to see their entire EU holiday?

They can't even claim it's for character development. Sure there's one scene where they talk about life and what greater purpose it might have for them, but that's just a single two minute scene.

What's the other 28 minutes for? So we knew how bored they sounded when they saw the Colosseum or Trevi Fountain? Or how much Anthony Sadler loves his selfie stick? Does this really contribute to the story?

The more I think about this movie, the less I like it.

Honestly it almost feels exploitative. Like the filmmakers are using these heroes as a gimmick to make a quick buck.

I have the utmost respect for these men and their bravery, but to me this movie feels like a soulless cash grab.

"The 15:17 to Paris" is rated PG-13.

Last this week is "Peter Rabbit."

Based on the classic children's books, this film follows Peter Rabbit (James Corden) and his sisters Mopsy (Elizabeth Debicki), Flopsy (Margot Robbie), and Cottontail (Daisy Ridley).

In this film Peter's feud with a new Mr. McGregor (Domhnall Gleeson) escalates to new heights when the pair find themselves fighting for the affection of the warm-hearted animal lover who lives next door (Rose Byrne).

This movie is Peter Rabbit in name only. Sure it has all the characters from the classic story, heck I think just about every little beastly from Beatrix Potter's bibliography makes an appearance.

The story has nothing to do with the original books though beyond a few references thrown in here and there.

I don't think that's necessarily a bad thing. I'm sure there's plenty of stories you tell with these characters. Stories that would resonate more with modern audiences.

Heck, the people behind "Paddington 2" managed to take the classic children's character and craft a story about the young bear being sent to prison. And it was one of the most loveable and wholesome films I've seen since the last Paddington movie.

This movie is no "Paddington 2" though.

Instead of embracing what made the original books special, this film is dead set on subverting anything they had to offer.

It's like the filmmakers are obsessed with proving how much their film isn't like the original tale.

That wouldn't necessary bother me, but the story they came up with to replace it is about as uninspired and unoriginal as you could possibly get.

I swear it feels like I've seen this exact narrative a dozen times.

Two guys battling for the love of a woman while both making themselves look like system to a wider variety of candidates.

The other big issue discussed in the Academy's Issue Brief was that an independent, non-partisan commission should be established to set voting districts and minimize gerrymandering, which was found to discourage both voters and potential candidates from participating.

Oklahoma ranks 51st of the 50 states and District of Columbia in voter engagement. The Academy's well-researched opinion is that party roles are too strong in state and that more people would be involved if voting was easier and the process less partisan.

We support the Academy's conclusions and favor greater balance in Oklahoma's political system.

Will replacement heifers be big enough to breed in April or May?

Wes Lee
Extension Ag Educator

Growing programs for weaned replacement heifers must be adequate to provide enough gain from weaning to 13 months of age to allow a high percentage of heifers to begin cycling.

About 90 percent of most beef breed heifers will be cycling when they weigh 65 percent of their mature weight. Since most replacement heifer calves will need to gain 240 pounds between weaning and breeding, the heifers must gain at least 1.33 pounds per day.

Heifers wintered on warm-season pasture and/or hay will need enough protein and energy supplement to achieve the desired rate of gain.

Often, to accomplish the 1.33 average daily gain, ranchers find it necessary to feed about one percent of the heifer's body

Simple strategies for successfully saving your cents

Brenda Hill
Extension Educator

The truth is, spending money is often a lot easier than trying to save even a few dollars. But, it is also true that it is never too late to start socking something away for the future.

Saving is important because it provides a cushion from unexpected life events such as job loss, expensive car repairs or serious illness.

Without the safety net that savings can provide, people may be forced into taking on debt.

The good news is families can and should start saving at any time with any amount of money.

With national American Saves Week set for February 26-March 3 and many Americans seeing an increase in their take-home pay, thanks to recently passed federal tax legislation, it is a perfect time to establish or expand on that savings habit.

Most successful savers begin with a goal and plan. In fact, according to www.americasaves.org people with a plan are twice as likely to have saving success. The goal can be anything.

Examples, include saving for a vacation, a down payment on a new car, creating an emergency fund or establishing a retirement fund.

Once a goal and plan are in place, families can begin putting aside a set amount of money each month. Don't forget to set up an account at a bank to collect the funds you save.

Creating an automatic transfer to your savings account whenever you get paid is an easy way to help you stay on track. You probably won't miss the money you don't see.

Eliminating debt is another way families can boost their savings. Quickly getting rid of high-interest debt is usually cheaper in the long term. For example, paying the minimum amount on a $3,000 credit card balance at 19.8 percent interest will take 39 years to clear and cost more than $10,000 in interest paid.

Finally, it is important for savers to track their progress using a method that works best for their needs such as a ledger, bar graph or an app on the phone, computer or other device.

Monitoring your savings will tell you if your plan is working or if you need to make an adjustment. It can also be very motivating to see that you're making progress toward your goal.

fools in the process? Really? That's the story you come up with for "Peter Rabbit?"

But I'll give this movie some credit. Every once in a while one of their subversive jokes or a bit of the meta humor did get a chuckle out of me.

The real meat of the movie's comedy comes from slapstick though.

If you want to see Domhnall Gleeson torched by wild animals and survive cartoon violence in the same vein as the "Home Alone" films, then this is the movie for you.

I'd be lying if I said I didn't laugh. It was pretty funny and the physical humor is fairly well executed.

It is a bit odd to see cute little bunnies attempt to murder a grown man though, going as far to take advantage of a food allergy. As silly and cartoony as the rest of the movie comes across, that one scene felt a bit too real.

I also have to admit that I really liked the soundtrack. It didn't fit a "Peter Rabbit" movie in the slightest, lots of modern pop songs and radio hits, but they're songs I enjoy so that was a plus for me at least.

I don't know. It's not a ringing endorsement, but this is probably an okay movie for kids. It's far from the worst children's film I've seen.

It's definitely not nearly as clever as it thinks it is though. "Peter Rabbit" is rated PG.

Asian and American Christian Speakers Toastmasters Club

By Xiaoming Hu

Asian & American Christian Speakers Toastmasters met February 10 at the National Weather Center Conference Room on David Boren Parkway and Jenkins in Norman.

Nineteen members attended, including three visitors, Xiaoling Wan, Juan Ling and Honggang Zhanz.

Sergeant At Arms, Eric Chen opened the meeting, Jin-Song Chen gave the Invocation, and President Aifen Zhou welcomed the visitors and members. She called on us all to introduce ourselves.

Toastmaster of the Day was Harley Bromley. Yuanwei Qin was Humorist. He told about a lady coming to the doctor for help in losing weight.

The doctor gave her a prescription to help her control her appetite. She came back in 30 days very happy at losing 30 pounds. The doctor was surprised at her getting such good results in such a short time. Tell me what you did. She replied, proudly, I followed your directions to the letter. I took two pills and "skipped each day" before taking the next two pills. I feel so much better!

Chengsi Liu introduced the Word of the Day, perseverance, and urged us to use it as we had the opportunity to speak.

Aifen Zhou said she would keep track of our "Ahs" and as Grammarian offer helpful advice if we did poorly or praise when we did great.

Yiyun Li took the challenging job of Timer keeping track of how well we managed our time in our speeches, evaluations and Table Topics.

Table Topics Master was Xiaoming Hu, who recently returned from his trip to China. He asked the following about what they liked or disliked about traveling in China and whether winter weather was a good traveling time. His last question was dealing with the past and present help for elderly and disabled that traveled in the USA. Hao Feng, Yuanwei Qin, Honggang Zhanz and Leslie Gillies spoke fluently on their topic.

Prepared Speakers expounded with excellent advice as to how to communicate, where to go and what to remember. Eric Chen: "Stop & Take Some Time to Be Clear" His 10th project in the CC Manuel, Hao Li: "My Trip to Mount Tai," his third project in the CC Manuel, and Beulah Bromley: "Our Perse-

Explanation of use tax:

(This is in addition to the sales tax reported monthly.) Every state with a sales tax has a companion tax for outside the state. In Oklahoma, that tax is called "use tax."

Those having purchased items for use in Oklahoma from retailers who do not collect Oklahoma sales tax, the buyer owes the state use tax on those items.

The use tax in the state was first enacted in 1937.

weight in the form of a 16-20 percent supplement in addition to the free-choice grass hay diet. The addition of approved levels of ionophores such as monensin (Rumensin®) or lasalocid (Bovatec®) to the ration will improve the average daily gain and enhance onset of puberty.

Replacement heifers need to be fed separately from the rest of the herd. Because of their size and age, as well as higher nutritional demands, they simply cannot compete with the rest of the cowherd, nor can they be expected to efficiently utilize poorer quality forages and still breed as yearlings.

If there are wide ranges between the smaller and larger heifers, they should be divided into two feeding groups to reach their desired weight by breeding time.

The heifers should be bred for 45-60 days, starting three to four weeks before breeding the cows. All heifers should be pregnancy checked about 60 days after the breeding season. Any heifer not bred should be culled.

This is the easiest breeding season she will face in her lifetime. High percentages of the open heifers after the first breeding season are sub-fertile and will be slow to rebreed much of their productive lives.

Age, weight, breed, and adverse environmental stresses such as temperature and parasitism affect when heifers first begin cycling. Of these factors, weight is the one that most producers can readily influence.

A random sample of the heifers could be weighed every 30 days to check growth rates. If growth rates are not being attained, the ration must be adjusted.

According to the McClain County Election Board, Tate led in absentee ballots and early voting, garnering 50 votes to 35 for Engert. But the incumbent piled up a 36-vote lead on election day, capturing 227 of the 418 votes cast.

Voters in Wayne showed strong support for a $1.14 million bond package that included $650,000 for improvements to the district's aging football stadium.

An $890,000 proposition received 76.49 percent of the vote, 192 to 59.

By law, bond issues must receive at least 60 percent of the vote to pass.

The football stadium project will include demolishing the existing concrete structure, installing new bleachers and construction of a new concession and rest rooms on the home side.

community. The aim is to help students develop job skills in an area that interests them.

Superintendent Jason Midkiff said parents will know the first week that a student is not on pace with his or her assignments through the PLP.

In addition, rigor is built in to prevent students from speeding through a semester's work in just a few weeks.

In other business, the board approved a contract and engagement letter with Sanders, Bledsoe & Hewett to conduct the district's 2-17-18 audit.

They also approved hiring William Bebout as a custodian.

In his report, Midkiff expressed disappointment at the Oklahoma House of Representative's failure on Monday to approve the Step Up budget proposal.

"Both of the representatives (for) our district (Tim Downing and Bobby Cleveland) voted against this measure," Midkiff said.

"Once again the teacher shortage and operational funding of our public schools has not been supported," he continued.

Midkiff said the district is "holding on" and is projected to finish the year similar to a year ago.

"Our teachers have gone over 10 years without a raise and we rank 49th or 50th in teacher pay and #1 in the nation to cuts to public education," he said. "Nothing will change until the people we send to represent us do."

DRAGONS

DISTRICT

Harding Fine Arts will play here Friday night

With their 45-43 victory at The Reimer Center Tuesday, coach Roger Raper's Dragons won the south division of the Canadian Valley Conference.

The Dragons missed five free throws in the final quarter but were still able to hang on for the tough, nip and tuck victory.

Adam Wells led the Dragon offense with 15 points. He was joined in double figures by Gavin Nation with 11 and Jake Berrey with 10.

The Dragons jumped out to a four point lead at the end of the first quarter but that was the last time they would have the lead until the end of the game.

Marlow knotted the score at 24 all at halftime and the two teams remained deadlocked at 35 each at the end of three quarters.

A 10-8 fourth quarter by the Dragons proved to be the difference.

That victory set up a showdown with Kingfisher Saturday night at Washington for the conference championship.

The Dragons were slow out of the gate and eventually trailed 51-15 at half-time before losing 89-37.

Purcell bounced back Monday night making short work of Lexington in the regular season finale, 71-39.

Devon Allen was on fire from downtown cutting the strings for seven treys including six in the first half. Allen led all scorers with 23 points. Joining him in double figures were Nation with 12 and Reece Milner with 10, all in the fourth quarter.

"I was pleased with the win," Raper said. "After a slow start, we really picked up the intensity in the third quarter."

"Our defense gave us opportunities to pick up some easy baskets. It was also nice to have Devon Allen shoot the ball well," Raper said.

Lauren Beason did all she could to try and help her team win its regular-season finale.

But, in the end, her heroic fell short as the Lexington girls' basketball team lost to cross-bridge rival Purcell, 58-45, in their home finale.

Beason poured in 25 points for the game as the Lady 'Dawgs were leading, 15-13, after the first quarter.

But, the Lady Dragons came on strong in the second quarter and led Lex, 33-23, going into the locker rooms at halftime.

From there, Purcell took control.

Beason made four three-pointers in the contest and was 7-for-8 from the free throw line.

Emilee Jenks was next behind Beason on the scoresheet with seven points while Ciara Winterton checked in with four points for Lexington, which is now 10-12 on the year.

"We've been playing well as a team all season," Perry said. "We have played some good teams down the stretch." Perry spoke in reference to teams like Class 2A No. 20 Konawa and Class 6A No. 18 Yukon.

Lex lost to Konawa, 51-20, without an ill Beason on Jan. 30. The Lady 'Dawgs lost to the Millers, 72-34, during the Heart of Oklahoma tournament on Jan. 18.

"There have been several games that we haven't played some starters because of illness," Perry said. "The girls have been playing well overall, though."

Now, it's time for the post season and Perry is confident his team is ready and hopefully healthy.

Lex will play at Marlow at 6:30 p.m. on Friday to begin district play.

The Lady Outlaws are 15-8. "Marlow is a good team," Perry said. "They will come to play. We will have to play our best to beat them."

They came out hot in the third period and out-scored Marlow 15-8, closing the gap to six, but eventually lost 47-40.

In that quarter Cady Wollenberg splashed a pair of treys, Alicia Baker canned one and Haylee Swayze made four of her team-high 15 points.

Wollenberg finished with a dozen but it wasn't enough.

Saturday at Washington, the girls came up on the short end of a 39-27 count at the hands of Kingfisher. Swayze led all scorers with 12 points.

"We played horrible," Sikes said. "There's was no sense of urgency and my girls acted like they didn't want to be there."

"We have to be better, especially at this time of year," the coach said.

Sikes' Dragons did play better against Lexington, posting a 58-45 victory to finish the regular season on a positive note.

Swayze led all scorers with 25 points and Kora Keith finished with 14.

Lauren Beason led the Lady Bulldogs with 25 points.

Swayze was 10-11 at the line and had a huge second quarter when she scored 12 of her 25.

She also splashed three from beyond the arc.

"I thought even though we started slow, we found our groove before the first quarter was over," Sikes said.

"We were short handed and had a lot of kids step up including Kora Keith and Emily Madden," the coach said.

"Haylee played great and came out ready and determined to play.

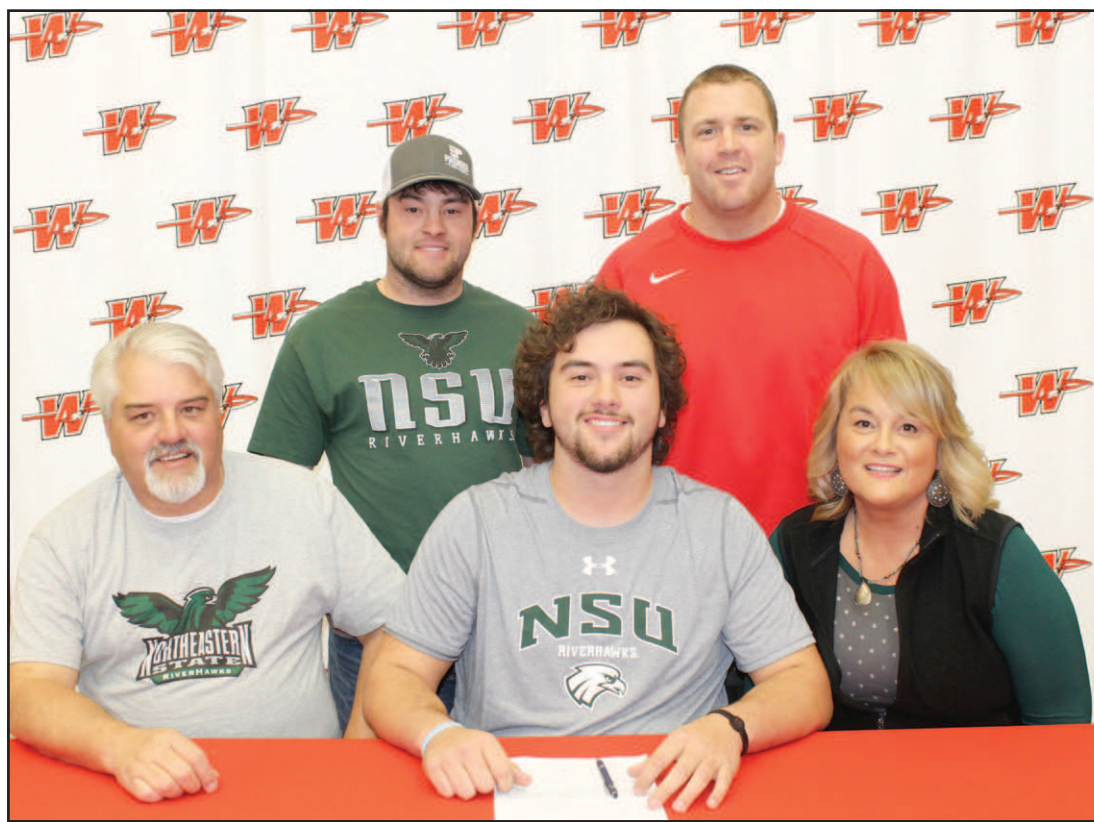

"Now it's time to focus n the playoffs," Sikes confirmed.

Dragon notes:

Purcell will host Harding Fine Arts Friday night in the District Tournament. David Sikes' Dragons are taking a 10-11 season mark into the tournament while Roger Raper's Dragons are 13-9 heading into the district affair.

Change for church

New to Purcell's Emmanuel Baptist Church is the Rev. Wally Kelly, who will begin preaching as the church's senior pastor on Sunday. Kelly and his wife, Wendy, are pictured with their three children, Mackynzie, Kiley and Emmaus.

The Rev. Wally Kelly is the new senior pastor at Emmanuel Baptist Church.

The North Carolina native will begin in his new post with the church at 2705 N. Green Ave., on Sunday.

With a deep devotion to the Word of God and to Christ, Kelly's first love in ministry is disciple making – the Biblical model of multiplying God's image bearers through the proclamation of the Gospel to people of all nations.

Kelly has taught the Bible in Haiti and India, as well as in various parts of the United States.

"We, like the Apostles in the book of Acts, have been instructed, entrusted and empowered to be Christ's witnesses in concentric circles around our place of origin," Kelly said. "For the Apostles, it started in Jerusalem and moved outward to Judea, Samaria and to the ends of the earth.

"Purcell is our Jerusalem. Oklahoma is our Judea. The United States is our Samaria. And like the Apostles, we must go to the ends of the earth, where no one else is willing to go, making disciples.

"God desires to be known among all people."

A lifelong learner, Kelly holds three degrees – an as-

Lexington Westside Church of Christ

Good week to all. Welcome to the "front porch."

For this week, let's go back to one of the great men of old who is well known for a blazing fire deep down inside: the great prophet Jeremiah. He is often called the "prophet of fire," and for a reason!

He is an old-fashioned, tell-it-like-it-is, no-holds-barred preacher who spends a lifetime trumpeting God's message. He has a scorching fire about him toward spreading God's word that puts most of us to shame! He preaches hard and long, and he always carries a good supply of zeal and courage in his satchel.

But it isn't easy. He watches for a good part of his life as God's people go backward and not forward, trusting in the imagination of their own hearts and turning to other gods.

He observes as they are busy at work digging "their own cisterns, broken cisterns, which hold no water," despite having access to a fountain of living water through the Lord (Jeremiah 2:13).

He sees them reject the balm God offers for the healing of their souls, and he can do nothing except stand by and watch them destroy themselves spiritually.

Even a man of fire such as Jeremiah has a breaking point, and he reaches his one day. He has taken all he can take. He can take no more. So he makes this resolve, and I think he means it with every fiber in his being!

"I will not make mention of him (God), nor speak any more in his name" (Jeremiah 20:9).

Who among us would not have said the same? For years he preaches his heart out and nobody listens! So he washes his hands of the people and of preaching. I suppose he goes to look for another job, the door slamming behind him as he heads toward the nearest town to find other employment. He'll show the world!

But he doesn't climb too many dusty hills and round too many curves before he stops right in his tracks!

Something is wrong. Something inside him just doesn't feel right. He has a burning sensation inside that just will not go away! No way is it going to let up. The words he had vowed – I will not make mention of him nor speak any more in his name! – echo in his head!

Maybe he turns around for that day and thinks, "All right. I'll go back home and relax today and, after a good night's rest, I'll go find me a good job tomorrow."

But all he has coming is a night on a boisterous sea. Guilt has set in, and an aching inside him will not let him rest.

Perhaps it is there, in the middle of a restless night, that he gets up and makes another resolve. He has learned something important, and it is a lesson he can never forget:

"His word is in my heart like a fire," he says, "no doubt through gritted teeth, "a fire shut up in my bones, and I was weary with holding it in; indeed, I cannot!" (Jeremiah 20:9).

That's what I admire about Jeremiah! He has a burning desire to spread the Master's word. And even though he tries to shut it out, he cannot. It is in his bones; and when it's down that deep, it won't come out!

Be sure to keep that fire burning this week, good friends! Perhaps, the Lord willing, we can help you in that task again next week...here on the "front porch." God bless!

Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church

By Fr. Jim Chamberlain

On my trips to Africa or Central America, after a few weeks, I sometimes ask my students: "What do you notice about the villagers that we have been talking with? What do you observe?" They will often say things like: "He wore the same shirt for many days." "The mother is working all the time. She seems to have very little time to herself." "They eat the same foods each day." In Ethiopia we eat teff for every meal. In El Salvador, we eat corn tortillas with every meal.

In these countries, people do not have many choices about food, clothing or time. We live in a country where we do have many choices. We can choose from a variety of foods to eat. We can choose from many clothes to wear. Most of us can choose how we spend our money and spend our time.

Lent is a 40-day retreat in which we practice making better choices. Instead of reaching for a sweet snack, we reach for a piece of fruit, or we skip eating between meals completely.

Instead of spending money at a restaurant, we put money in the Rice Bowl for Catholic Relief Services. Instead of watching 30 minutes of television, we give 30 minutes to the prayer corner in our room, being quiet and reading the Bible. Or we spend that time reading a good spiritual book. We fast on two days—Ash Wednesday and Good Friday, and we abstain from meat on all Fridays in Lent.

We make these better choices – not because we want to lose weight or to live more healthily, even though these things may happen. We make these choices because they are the way we show our willingness to allow God to do something new in our lives. We create an empty space – a place of hunger or want – so that the Holy Spirit can fill it with whatever the Spirit desires.

With each choice we become more aware. With each choice we become weak. With each choice we acknowledge our dependence upon God. The ashes of Ash Wednesday mark us as ambassadors for Christ. The ashes remind us that we are weak, and that we need to practice making better choices. St. Paul says that we are ambassadors for Christ (2 Cor. 5:20).

On Ash Wednesday, we were made ambassadors by the ashes. Through the rest of Lent, we are ambassadors for Christ by centering our lives on different choices. We choose Christ. We choose a richer, deeper life—one small choice at a time.

Many thanks to the women of the Altar Society for their Mardi Gras celebration last weekend.

Johnson Road Baptist Church

We have experienced several days of windy and cold weather. From what the forecasters tell us, God is in the process of sending us some warmer-weather and some much needed rain.

We were blessed Sunday morning with two additional young ladies from the Oklahoma Horseshoeing School. Both of the ladies came a long way from their home in Gettysburg, Penn. Purcell is blessed to have the farrier school in this area of the country.

The Purcell School System has been blessed during past decades and present days with some excellent athletic coaches, band directors, teachers and administrators.

The Agricultural Education Department has also been blessed with great instructors. We want to commend and support the instructors and students in the present FFA and 4-H programs during their upcoming livestock shows on February 18 and 28 and auction on February 20.

Special music Sunday morning was provided by Gynean Gentry.

Scripture text for the morning sermon was taken from the Book of Exodus, chapters 24 and 32. God kept Moses 40 day and nights on Mount Sinai giving him instructions on the way the people should live.

While Moses was away, God's Chosen People floundered in the valley below and turned to a fake god.

We are reminded of the drastic contrast between what happened on Mount Sinai and what happened at the campground of God's Chosen People.

Turning from the Living God to worship a golden calf is always dangerous, deadly and deceitful.

No one is immune from the behavior that took place centuries ago at Mount Sinai. God works overtime to train Christians in the art of good living. Over the past centuries God has given us 66 books of instruction has provided us with the Holy Spirit and sent messengers to teach us.

We know cell phones can track our every move, but we forget God has always possessed an unequalled tracing system.

Until the Lord comes again, man will have the tendency to think God is dead; tendency to replace God with idols; and a tendency to incur God's wrath. We should be thankful that God forgives and leads us on to the Promised Land.

Sermon title for this Sunday is "Hit Me Once; Hit Me Twice."

The Wednesday evening Bible study for this week will be the 14th chapter of The Acts of the Apostles.

Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship begins at 11 a.m.

Come eat with us and enjoy the fellowship around the table.

The Horseman's Corner

Oklahoma Quarter Horse Association 2018 Convention and Hall of Fame

Last week we had information on the Oklahoma Quarter Horse Association's annual convention and Hall of Fame inductions. Purcell-Wayne horseman Luke Castle was profiled for his Hall of Fame induction. Following is the biography for one of Purcell's equine royalty, Miss Olene, owned and raced by A.B. Green.

Miss Olene

1957 Black Mare (Leo X Barbara L. By Patriotic) 2018 Oklahoma Quarter Horse Hall of Fame Inductee

Miss Olene was a product and a producer of American Quarter Horse racing royalty.

Bred and raced by A.B. and Kathalyn Green, owners of the Green Pastures Stud Farm in Purcell, Miss Olene was by Leo, and her dam was the Patriotic (TB) mare Barbara L. Both are members of the American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame and the Oklahoma Quarter Horse Hall of Fame. A.B. Green named the mare for his wife's best friend, Olene Cobb.

Miss Olene was a winner on the Quarter Horse tracks, where she earned $31,022 while compiling a record of 11-3-3 in 33 starts. However, the mare is remembered most for the biggest race she didn't win, the first running of the All American Futurity. Earlier that summer, Miss Olene finished third in the Ruidoso Futurity and went to post as the favorite in the 11th race at Ruidoso Downs on Labor Day 1959.

With Richard Lujan in the irons for trainer Jerry Fisher, Miss Olene took the early lead out of the gate, while Tonta Lass broke so hard she lost her rider. But Miss Olene could not maintain the pace and faded to finish third in what would become Quarter Horse Racing's signature event.

In the 1959 trials to the Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Association Futurity in California that followed, Miss Olene won the Bardella Handicap at Los Alamitos.

Owned for a time by Vernon Pool and Henry Hurd, both of Oklahoma, the mare later went

Hall of Fame winner

Miss Olene placed third in the inaugural All American Futurity on Labor Day, 1959.

to New Mexico, where Sarah Henderson and Harriett Peckham made her a mainstay at the Buena Suerte Ranch at Roswell.

It was her ability, as a broodmare that made Miss Olene a Hall of Famer. The dam of the earners of $700,673 on the track in the 1960s and 1970s, Miss Olene produced 17 foals, of which 15 started on the track and 10 came back as winners, four of those in stakes races.

Little Blue Sheep, Miss Olene's 1972 foal by St Bar, was the world champion aged mare twice and produced stakes winners Browns Dasher and Rheatta, and the stakes-placed The Louisiana Girl, whose six stakes winners include the track-record-setting champion Jess Louisiana Blue, who has sired the earners of more than $7.2 million.

Miss Olene produced Little Blue Sheep's full sisters Miss Angel Eyes, who won the Kansas Futurity and was third in Hall of Famer Rocket Wrangler's Rainbow Futurity, and went on to produce one stakes winner and three other winners from five starters; and Takeme Freely, who won the Debutante Handicap and was third in Game Plan's Bay Meadows Futurity, and produced three starters, all winners. Miss Olene was also the dam of the Rillito Derby winner Master's Angel by Master Hand (TB), who produced six winners from seven starters.

Miss Olene also produced the stakes-placed Bar Tonto mare Prissy Olene and Little Bar Olene, a Three Bars (TB) filly who was second in the 1965 Rainbow Futurity and earned points at halter to become an AQHA Champion. And one of her unraced foals went on to produce a black-type performer, Teenie Weenie, becoming the dam of the stakes-winning Cashcan ($114,012).

Miss Olene was inducted into the American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame in 2013. Tonight Miss Olene continues her royal ways by being inducted into the Oklahoma Quarter Horse Hall of Fame.

Accepting the 2018 Oklahoma Quarter Horse Hall of Fame trophy on behalf of Miss Olene was Vickie Tebow for Kathe Green, widow of A.B. and Kathalyn Green's son, Bruce.

Dale K. Graham Veteran's Foundation

For those of you who have not visited our location in Norman at 1268 North Interstate Drive on Tuesday or Thursday morning, please do so. You will probably run into some of your friends and neighbors who are there for help with their VA claims and questions.

Our Veteran of the Week, Ray Tolle Jr of Oklahoma City, served during the Korean War in the United States Navy. We presented Mr. Tolle with a cap representing his service to our military. Each week we recognize the veterans who served in World War II and the Korean War. When they visit us for the first time, we give them a new cap and introduce them to their veteran brothers and sisters who are present.

On an average Tuesday and Thursday morning, there will be from 135 to 140 veterans and spouses assisted with their VA claims and questions. As our organization continues to grow there will be a need for others to join us as a volunteer helping those who have served our nation's military. As I have said many times before this is the most rewarding job I have ever had in my life.

Veteran of the Week

Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation Veteran of the Week is Ray Tolle Jr. of Oklahoma City who served during the Korean War in the United States Navy. We appreciate Mr. Tolle for his service to our country.

As a 501(c)(3), the donations that we receive from you are tax deductible. Your gift enables our volunteers to make a difference in the lives of all veterans and their families. Each week many of the men and women who visit us are facing financial difficulties, and your donations are helping us help them.

On a monthly average, we are spending more than $25,000 in aid to the men and women who have served or continue to serve in our military. All of us working each Tuesday and Thursday mornings are volunteers who are here for only one reason, and that is to improve the lives of veterans and their surviving spouses. We have several different ways for you to help us to make a difference. One is to make a monthly contribution that can be set up as an automatic donation using a credit card or bank account.

Another is the donation of cars, trucks, motorcycles, boats, tractors or anything that can be given to veterans or sold to raise funds for veterans. Last year we gave needy veterans several cars and trucks that were donated to our organization. We also sold several of them and used the money to pay for services for veterans.

There are veterans and their families who are suffering every day from disabilities that have been caused by their military service. Some of them have been diagnosed with PTSD or other types of mental health issues as well as physical disabilities. We have been working with a lot of young men and women who are unable to find and keep employment because of things that happened in the military.

Some organizations will never encourage veterans to obtain evidence that might help them when applying for service-connection of a disability. We almost always ask the veteran to obtain all of the evidence available that will support their claims for VA benefits. Sometimes we will also ask the veteran to obtain statements from people with whom they served or from friends or family with whom the veteran shared their story about their military service.

Some of the services we provide are transportation to their VA medical appointments or our facility for help with their VA claims. Some of them are given one of the food sacks that we provide to veterans and their families who don't have enough to eat.

As we all know the cost for a medical diagnosis keeps many veterans from obtaining VA compensation for an injury that occurred while in the military. One of the key things a diagnosis could give the veteran is a nexus letter linking their disability to an event or injury that occurred in the military.

Some organizations will never encourage veterans to obtain evidence that might help them when applying for service-connection of a disability. We almost always ask the veteran to obtain all of the evidence available that will support their claims for VA benefits. Sometimes we will also ask the veteran to obtain statements from people with whom they served or from friends or family with whom the veteran shared their story about their military service.

One of the questions I receive many times each week is whether spouses will receive VA benefits when the veteran is deceased. Nothing is going to happen unless the spouse files a VA Form 21-534EZ requesting either DIC or Pension benefits. The DIC may be payable if the veteran was rated 100 percent disabled for 10 years or their cause of death was a service-connected disability or one that was presumptive to military service. The service-connected disability must be listed on the death certificate as the primary or contributing cause of death.

One of the suggestions we have for surviving spouses where the veteran's service-connected disability was not listed on the death certificate is to have the death certificate amended to list those conditions. Most times the attending physician does not know about the veteran's service-connected disabilities and will list only a main cause of death.

Spousal Pension benefits are based on when the veteran served and the income and assets of a surviving spouse. To understand what may be available, I always urge surviving spouses to come in and visit with our volunteers.

As the Accredited VAAgent, I receive copies of the award letters sent to those we are helping with their VA claims and questions. Last week there were seven veterans who received a rating of 100 percent. These folks will receive $271,868 on an annual basis. There were 19 folks who were rated at 10-90 percent. These folks will receive $272,066 on an annual basis.

I'm very proud of everyone who has dedicated their time to help us make a difference in the lives of all veterans and their spouses. Two of those volunteers are our drivers who spent 74 hours transporting 21 folks 1,150 miles. We appreciate Clayton and Louie!

Another volunteer shared a Winston Churchill quote with me. It certainly echoes we at our Foundation feel. Churchill said, "We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give."

Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation has food boxes available to those in need. An application for this type of assistance will be available on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. A DD-214 or military discharge will be necessary to apply. Please contact Rhonda (405) 550-8806 Extension 103 to request a food box.

If you need a ride to and from a VA Medical Appointment, please contact (405) 550-8806 to reach Clayton at Extension 105 or Louie at Ext. 106.

We are at 1268 North Interstate Drive in Norman, Exit 110 off of I-35 each Tuesday and Thursday morning at 5:30 a.m. Please arrive by 8 a.m. Contact Dale with any questions at (405) 550-8806 Extension 101 or dale@dalekgrahamveteransfoundation.org or Shirley Clark-Cowdin for spouse benefits at Extension 104. AMENDED NOTICE TO DEFENDANTS

THE STATE OF OKLAHOMA, TO THE ABOVE-NAMED DEFENDANTS:
You are hereby notified that the Department of Transportation of the State of Oklahoma, acting under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Oklahoma, has filed legal proceedings in the above-named Court. In those proceedings, the State of Oklahoma, ex rel. Department of Transportation, is the Plaintiff. You are the Defendant(s).

The Department of Transportation, acting under the laws of the State of Oklahoma, has determined to establish, maintain and/or upgrade a public State Highway, and/or facilities incidental thereto, on the property described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto.

Because the Plaintiff has been unable to acquire that property from you by private purchase, all previous negotiations and/or agreements made by the Department of Transportation prior to this date are considered void, but will be reconsidered during the course of these legal proceedings. A hearing will be held on the 9th day of March, 2018, at the hour of 11:00 o'clock a.m. (or as soon thereafter as this matter may be heard) before Judge Gray of the District Court of McClain County, Oklahoma, in the Courthouse at Purcell, Oklahoma.

At this hearing, the Court will issue an Order appointing three (3) disinterested freeholders of that County to act as Commissioners. The Commissioners shall be ordered to inspect the property described in Exhibit "A" and to determine the just compensation to which the Defendant(s) are entitled by reason of its appropriation.

Said appropriation is to be in fee simple, unless specified otherwise in Exhibit "A" in which case the quality of title or interest to be acquired shall be as so stated, excluding mineral interests. The appropriation also includes the right to use and remove any and all road-building materials from the fee, as well as from any easement described, for the aforementioned public State Transportation System purposes.

The Commissioners shall further be ordered to return their Report to the Court Clerk. The Court Clerk will within ten (10) days forward Notice of filing with a copy of the Report to all parties. Within thirty (30) days after the filing of the Report of Commissioners, any party to this proceeding may file a written exception. Within sixty (60) days from the filing of said Report of Commissioners, any party to this proceeding may also file a written demand for a trial by jury of the issues involved. If neither party files exception to the Report of Commissioners nor demands a trial by jury within the time limitations set out above, the Report of Commissioners shall be approved and confirmed by the Court and the determination of just compensation shall be final and the case shall be closed.

You may be present at the time set forth above for the appointment of the Commissioners, if you so desire. Should you have questions regarding these proceedings, you should seek the advice of legal counsel.

ARTesian Gallery and Studios to host Stuart Sampson art reception February 17

The Chickasaw Nation will host a reception for Native American artist Stuart Sampson open to the public at no charge from 5-7 p.m. on Saturday, February 17, at the ARTesian Gallery and Studios, 100 W. Muskogee St., in Sulphur.

Sampson is a self-taught visual artist based in Edmond and a proud member of the Citizen Potawatomi Nation. Stuart is known for painting on wood panels. The natural grain of the wood reveals itself in his work's composition, which often depicts both historical and modern Native American figures.

His artistic expressions reflect a deep appreciation of the culture his grandfather taught him.

Mostly working from photographs, his work captures life-like emotions translated through his art in both expressive and realistic ways.

Stuart's exhibit at the ARTesian Gallery and Studios will last until mid-March.

In addition to browsing Stuart's work, guests at the reception will be able to snack on finger foods and refreshments like tea and lemonade. The ARTesian's retail shop will be open and offering a 40 percent discount to teachers and students and a 20 percent discount to artists.

There is always art on the walls and in the showcases of the ARTesian Gallery and Studios. Currently available to peruse are the works of Paula Lof-tin, Billy Hensley, Joanna Underwood, Mary Ruth Barnes, Brent Greenwood, Elihu Johnson and Tanya Lowrance, among others. Their creations consist of photographs, paintings, jewelry, basketry, pottery and beadwork.

Eighth Grade Spotlight

In our Wayne Middle School eighth grade spotlight this week we have Brayden Force and Shyleigh Mantooth.

Brayden has attended Wayne Public Schools for two years and he is active in basketball and baseball. The one thing Brayden likes most about school is hanging with his friends and playing sports. Brayden's favorite teachers are Ms. Michelle Matthews because she is very funny and Mrs. Emma Patton because she was there for him at a funeral when he was in a dark place and she is very different than all the other teachers and family friends.

Shyleigh has attended Wayne Public Schools for 10 years and is active in basketball. The one thing Shyleigh likes most about school is being able to hang out with her friends. She loves her math and science classes. Her favorite teacher is Mrs. Jennifer Osborne because she was always in a good mood and she never got in trouble. The thing she will miss the most about middle school is the teachers and she does not want to graduate from high school.

Wayne High School Senior Spotlight

This week's Wayne High School senior spotlight features Brody Duff and Baylea Brooksher.

Brody has attended Wayne Public School for 12 years. The one thing Brody likes the most about school is hanging out with everyone and the vending machines. His favorite teacher is Mark Davis because he is a very smart man who has taught him a lot and he enjoys talking to him. The one thing Brody will miss the most about school is not having to pay bills. Brody's plans for after graduation are to attend college and go into the cattle business.

Baylea has attended Wayne Public Schools for 13 years. Her favorite teacher is Mrs. Tanya Mantooth because she takes the worst subjects and makes them better. She always tries to help out students and makes it at least a little better. The one thing Baylea will miss most about high school are her friends. Baylea's plans for after high school are to attend Oklahoma State University and Major in Elementary Education.

Math Hall of Fame

At Wayne Elementary we know the importance of students knowing all of their math facts. Students who know their math facts have a great foundation ready to build new math skills as they grow.

As an added award, students receive a medal, school and local recognition, and a pizza party with Principal Donna Souttee at the end of the school year.

Wayne Elementary is proud to announce our newest members into the Math Hall of Fame are Ryli Taylor, Colt McGee, Cylie Jones, Audra Watts, and Adelyn Morris.

Kings and Queens of Shoe Strings

Mrs. Fisher's and Mrs. Patton's kindergarten classes were able to crown 23 Kings and Queens of Strings on Thursday.

Students who were crowned are those who can tie their own shoes! Thanks go to all parents who worked with their children to help them achieve this skill which is helpful in first grade and well, the rest of their lives.

These students were rewarded with a party in which they took turns tying up the principal, Mrs. Souttee, with yarn and then crepe paper streamers. It was a great time of fun and laughter.

After getting Mrs. Souttee all tied up, the kings and queens finished out the party with ice cream sundaes with all the trimmings.

Warriors:

Washington only trailed by three points at halftime.

Turnovers plagued Washington in the game and the Warriors finished the night with 19 turnovers.

"Turnovers cost us", Scholz said.

Washington had their opportunities to win the game and trailed by only three points in the fourth quarter.

"We had chances, easy bumps in the paint that could have gone in," Scholz said.

Scholz was happy with his team's defense, especially their press.

"We created a lot of turnovers. Conner Kirtley did a good job on steals," Scholz said.

Tyler Knight and Kirtley were especially effective for the Warriors in their press.

"They gave us a chance to stay in the game," Scholz said.

The Warriors didn't convert points off steals.

"Bethany converted steals into points but we didn't," Scholz said.

Kade Hendrix and Manny Trejo with 13 and 11 points respectively.

"They led us on offense," Scholz said.

The coach also said Harrison Keeler shot the ball well. He scored eight points.

"Hope we continue shooting well," Scholz said.

LHS:

Monday.

Seth Comer and Caden Jones each had six points to lead the 'Dawgs.

Hayden Pruitt and Brett Johnson chipped in five points each for Lexington, which is now 4-18 on the season.

It's been a tough season for first-year Lexington coach J.D. Beck's squad.

But, he still likes the way his team is battling as they enter post-season play.

Lex will play the Marlow Outlaws at 8 p.m. Friday at Marlow. The Outlaws will be tough as they are ranked No. 17 in Class 3A with a 17-6 record.

"I'm very proud of how much effort the team is playing with," Beck said. "We have faced some adversity but we have never quit. We have some growing to do, but we realize it is a process and we must invest in the product to become successful."

"The District game this Friday will be tough. Marlow has won nine out of its last 10 games here towards the end of their schedule. We look forward to the challenge."
