Cat line

Unsuspecting felines wait in carriers and cages to be checked in at Sunday's townwide free spay and neuter clinic at Wayne.

Surgery day

69 cats spayed/neutered in Wayne

Jeanne Grimes The Purcell Register

Two unaltered cats and their offspring reproducing unchecked for six years will result in 66,088 kittens being born.

Seven years and the total swells to 370,392.

And at year eight, the progeny of the original two cats will number 2,072,514.

Those are startling figures from the North Shore Animal League.

And it is numbers like that which prompted the community of Wayne to break that reproductive cycle on Sunday.

Townspokane came together to get a handle on controlling cat numbers with a free spay and neuter clinic.

Local veterinarian Dr. Wendy Howard performed the surgeries on 69 cats, many of which were feral animals that were released after recovering from the procedure.

A who's who event

Parading Christmas in Who-ville

Jeanne Grimes The Purcell Register

Let's get this straight.

Calling your annual holiday parade Christmas in Who-ville does NOT mean The Who will make an appearance.

But who will reads like an A-list of yuletide celebrities.

Confirmed - that jolly ol' elf himself, Santa Claus.

Pending - The Grinch, or possibly a passel of grinches and grinchettes. His dog, Max. Cindy Lou-Who. All the Whos, oh my this is getting confusing, from Who-ville.

Purcell's annual Christmas parade will transform Main Street at 6 p.m. December 5.

As of Monday, 30 floats were entered, according to Elisabeth Baker, executive director of the Heart of Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce.

The book will remain open for parade entries until close of business Tuesday.

So if you know who about strutting your stuff for Christmas, call 527-3093 to get signed up.

After all, it's shaping up to be a who's who kind of event!

Drug case

Three face methamphetamine felonies

Jeanne Grimes The Purcell Register

A Purcell pair are in the McClain County Detention Center on drug charges following an investigation by the Oklahoma Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

Luie L. Booth, 47, is held in lieu of bonds totaling $204,000.

He is charged in McClain County District Court with aggravated trafficking in illegal drugs, acquiring proceeds from drug activity, trafficking in illegal drugs and possession of a firearm after a former felony conviction.

Heather R. Garcia, 32, is charged with aggravated trafficking in illegal drugs. Her bond is $100,000.

She has been declared indigent.

Preliminary hearing conferences for both defendants will be at 9 a.m. December 4.

A third defendant, Brandy M. Smock, 40, of Dibble is charged with conspiracy. She is free after posting a $25,000 bond.

Her preliminary hearing conference will be at 9 a.m. December 18.

According to an affidavit, two OBND agents and two McClain County sheriff's deputies witnessed a confidential informant pay $375 to purchase 29.4 grams of methamphetamine from Booth in August.

Booth was seen by investigators leaving Smock's residence before driving directly to the intersection of State Highways 39 and 76 where the alleged drug buy occurred.

Authorities served a search warrant at Booth's home at

Read on the move at downtown "Story Walk"

Downtown Purcell has a story to tell – a literal story, in fact, as the Purcell Public Library presents its "Story Walk" along the streets of downtown this November and December. Readers are invited to follow the physical "path" of a holiday story as large pages are posted in more than a dozen storefronts along west Main Street. The story path begins at Savvy Parke, 222 W. Main St., winds its way two blocks east, then across the street and back to the west before finishing at Ron Davis Shelter Insurance, 227 W. Main St. In November, the story being displayed is "Turk and Runt: A Thanksgiving Comedy," by Lisa Wheeler. In December, a holiday book will be featured. The focus for the Story Walk is to get families out and active and to get a look at Purcell's downtown area. Walkers are encouraged to post about their experience on social media and use the hashtag #Purcell-StoryWalk. This walk is being done in preview of the library's plans to put in a permanent Story Walk at the Purcell Lake Walking Trail, which currently is under construction. The permanent Story Walk will be made possible by funding from the Institute of Museum and Library Services administered through the Health Literacy Grant by the Oklahoma Department of Libraries. Get more information on the Story Walks by contacting the library at 527-5546. And find out more about any of the library's services at www.pioneerlibrarysystem.org/purcell.

Purcell Senior Citizens

By Fredda Perry

The Purcell senior citizens are looking forward to their Christmas Bazaar. They are working on the bazaar which will be Saturday, December 7, at the Senior Citizens Center. At the present time, there are 16 vendors with crafts planning on being present for the bazaar. The seniors will be selling pizza by the slice for lunch on the day of the bazaar. Lunch will include pizza, cookies and tea or coffee for $2. Come by and check out the crafts and eat lunch with the seniors. We're planning on having good weather for the day. No matter what the weather is outside, it is always warm at the senior center. There are always card games, dominoes and daily pool table games in a friendly atmosphere. All seniors are welcome to come in, eat a warm meal and warm their soul and body. We want the people to feel free to stay and play games after lunch is served. The center is open until 3 p.m. every day except Friday at which time we set up for the Friday night dance. The dance is every Friday night from 6:30-9:30 p.m. The ticket charge is $6 per person. We love having guests for lunch. If you are planning to eat with the seniors, it is imperative to call and make a reservation by 8 a.m. that day or the afternoon before. If you do not have a reservation you will have to wait until all the people who have a reservation are fed. Call Evelyn or John at 527-9462 to make a reservation. If there is no answer call 527-5070. This is an alternate number so please use the 527-9462 number first. There is an electric wheelchair at the center that is free to anyone who would like to pick it up. All you would need is to purchase a battery. Lately there have been some items left on the carport at the senior building. We ask if you need to leave something over the weekend, you call 990-1840 and let someone meet you before you just dump it. If you need a place for a special celebration, birthday party, family reunion or any type of class, check out the senior center. Call the center at 527-5070 and ask for Fredda or Hester. Menu for the week of December 2-6: Monday—Chili dog with cheese, diced onions, tater tots, peaches, oatmeal raisin cookies. Tuesday—Swiss steak, baked potato, cabbage, hot roll, margarine, lemon delight. Wednesday—Sausage gravy, hash browns, orange juice, biscuit, fruited gelatin. News from District 43

• Senator Paul Scott •

A time to be thankful

I don't know about you, but this year has flown by. While 2019 is winding down, things are still full steam ahead in the legislative world as we look to start a new decade and convene at the Capitol in February for the Second Session of the 57th legislature.

Interim studies wrapped up earlier this month in the Senate, and the deadline to request a bill is Friday, December 13. Once bills are requested, they must be filed by January 16 to be heard during this legislative session that begins February 3. Although February seems far away, it will be here before we know it.

The Republican Caucus of the state senate recently held our caucus retreat on the campus of Oklahoma State University. During the retreat, Senate Republicans gathered to plan our caucus goals and set the course for the upcoming legislative session.

We had the opportunity to hear from Gov. Kevin Stitt and review a successful 2019, as well as discuss ideas for the upcoming year. We also heard from Lt. Gov. Matt Pinnell and the efforts his office is making to promote tourism, expand our economy and create jobs.

It was a great few days of brainstorming with some sharp minds, and I look forward to working with my colleagues this year to craft meaningful legislation that will move Oklahoma forward and continue us down the path of becoming a Top 10 State.

I also spoke to a science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) class in Rush Springs this month. It was a great opportunity to visit with some extremely bright students. Each time I get a chance to visit our schools, I'm continually impressed with our young people and their academic and social abilities.

I'm also impressed with the teachers who are teaching important life skills, as well as academics. There is no doubt our state has a bright future ahead of it with these young leaders gearing up to take the reins.

I was also happy to attend the Association of County Commissioners of Oklahoma (ACCO) Fall Conference this month where the main theme was economic growth. In our educational sessions, we heard from accomplished speakers including the Secretary of Commerce, the Cherokee Nation Principal Chief and the Secretary of the State Election Board.

It was an interesting two days full of personal development and networking opportunities with county commissioners and personnel from across the state.

Lastly, I would like to wish you and your families a very happy Thanksgiving. With the recent tragedies in Duncan and at Vance Air Force Base, I've taken a moment to sit back and appreciate the value of life and importance of family.

We never know which day will be our last, so I'm challenging myself to end each day with my tank empty, but my bucket full. I hope you will take this challenge as well. My family is my greatest treasure, and I'm looking forward to celebrating the Thanksgiving holiday with my wife, children and their families.

As always, thank you for allowing me the opportunity to serve you. I'm looking forward to a great legislative session.

To contact me at the Capitol, please write to Senator Paul Scott, State Capitol, 2300 N. Lincoln Blvd. Room 428, Oklahoma City, OK, 73105 or call (405) 521-5522.

Dogs sprayed

Felony animal cruelty case filed against Blanchard men

Thou shalt not spray thy customer's dogs in lieu of weeds.

That is the heart of a felony animal cruelty case filed last week in McClain County District Court.

Prosecutors charged Douglas A. Rose, 57, and his employee, Caleb J. Keith, 23, both of Blanchard. Arrest warrants for both men are outstanding.

According to court documents, the charges stem from an incident July 6 at a Newcastle residence.

Newcastle police learned of the alleged dog spraying by the homeowner that evening.

According to an affidavit, Keri Cobb witnessed lawn company employees kicking at her two dogs before turning the chemical spray on them.

Cobb said she was out-of-state, but saw the incident while checking her security cameras.

Although Cobb and her husband had hired the lawn company, no one was supposed to be at the house while the couple was away.

Police went to the house and Rose, owner of the lawn company, was still at the property. He said Cobb's husband had hired him to spray the lawn.

He also admitted the dogs got some of the chemical on them, but added it contained nothing that would be harmful to dogs.

An officer noted that the dogs were wet, but were wagging their tails.

Cobb again contacted police on July 14 after returning home. She said both dogs had matted eyes. When she called Rose, he refused to say what chemicals were in the spray mixture, according to the affidavit.

She next called the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture and asked about the company's licensing and the spray contents.

Further investigation found Rose was in violation of the state's Combined Pesticide Law, according to the affidavit.

Happy Thanksgiving

As far as holidays go, Thanksgiving is my favorite.

Most holidays are celebrated on Monday which is a very inconvenient day of the week for us in the weekly newspaper business.

Thanksgiving falls at the end of the week so we really have a couple of days away from the office, which is nice.

Thanksgiving is just that, a time for giving thanks.

It is a lot more relaxing than the hustle and bustle of Christmas with all the shopping, wrapping and decorating.

The awesome smells associated with all the cooking Gracie does makes the day fabulous.

There is always great anticipation for the parades, especially The Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

I always am happy to comfortably watch the parade on the tube in the comfy confines of a living room and not braving the elements and crowd in downtown New York City.

There is generally at least one more run to the store to snatch up whatever has been forgotten before a late lunch and watching football on TV.

Seems like every Thanksgiving many folks get a little sleepy as the afternoon wears on.

Can't beat a good nap.

I feel sorry for employees of some retail stores that have to report for work on Thanksgiving.

Seems like people should get the holiday off to be with their families and let the shoppers do their thing on Black Friday.

Now Black Friday has been underway for a couple of weeks.

Problem for retailers is that on-line shopping never ceases.

In fact, the on-line shopping is damaging to retail and hurting other industries as well.

Even though Thanksgiving is getting so commercialized it's still my favorite holiday.

Happy Thanksgiving!

The march of time

Middle age doesn't prepare you for what's ahead

When you reach middle age and view your life from that vantage, there are things you need to know.

Like what to expect on the downhill slide that you never thought of on the climb up your mountain of time.

For years I believed I would die in my 30s. Why? Because I could never picture myself or my life past the age of 39.

Even lying about my age – which I did regularly – would only buy me an extra seven or eight years.

I was pleasantly surprised to be wrong.

I turned 40. And then 50. My 60s came. And went.

When I was 67, I attended my 50th high school reunion.

There were 390-some in my class. About 65 made it to the reunion.

I expected people to change in 50 years, but was surprised they'd grown old while I aged hardly at all.

A few names were vaguely familiar, but the same didn't hold for the faces.

There are other "surprises" that come with the passing of time.

Your health takes a few hits. So, too, does the health of your friends.

You wonder why one person seems to have dropped off the radar and then one day you open an email and discover she has stage 4 cancer and has started chemotherapy.

Another writes that a heart issue put her in the hospital for a couple of days but she's back home now.

Store clerks give you the senior discount without asking to see your driver's license.

You turn around and notice things that need fixing in your home. Unfinished tasks which you have neither the energy nor inclination to tackle.

In childhood an hour's wait was a lifetime or close to it.

Now seasons pass in the blinking of an eye and years run together.

There's no stopping time, either.

It may not be full twilight yet but like cloud cover, the years block more of the light than they used to.

NEWS FROM CAPITOL HILL

A unifying tradition

Congressman Tom Cole

Each year in the United States of America, we observe the special tradition of coming together around a table of food to reflect on our blessings.

Especially during a time of great division and polarization, it is important for Americans to join in collective gratitude this year.

This unique American tradition is ages old, even predating the birth of our nation. As we remember, the very first Thanksgiving feast took place centuries ago in 1621 at Plymouth Rock, when the Pilgrims celebrated a bountiful harvest after experiencing devastating trials and loss.

The resilience of the Pilgrims in dire circumstances and their providential partnership with Native Americans still serves as a reminder of divine provision. Indeed, that same favor has carried us through many challenges in our nation's history and brought us together in gratitude time and again.

When America was still a young nation in 1789, President George Washington rightly declared "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many and signal favors of Almighty God, especially affording them an opportunity peaceably to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness."

And in the thick of the Civil War that threatened to tear our nation apart, President Abraham Lincoln reaffirmed the need for a national observance every year.

Many Thanksgivings later, it remains true that we live in a truly blessed nation with precious freedoms for which we can all be grateful.

Even when trials, disagreements and differing points of view seek to divide us, this annual celebration reminds us to take a step back, pause in reflection and remember that we are stronger together.

As our nation joins to give thanks this week, I hope you're fortunate to spend it with your family, friends and loved ones.

And in gathering with those closest to you, please take a moment to lift up in prayer our brave military service members, especially those who are stationed in dangerous places around the world and separated from their families this year.

It's because of their sacrifice that we can share this joyous holiday with our own families in peace and freedom.

The Douglas Family

From the mouths of babes

Dear Editor:

Sunday October 27, while attending Mass at Our Lady of Victory Church, I witnessed the purest declaration of love, through the eyes of a child.

Chelle McCaskill is a very active member of our parish. From duties as a Eucharist minister, to a liturgical reader. She coordinates the youths' mission trips. She and Kevin have a post confirmation Bible study class for the high school students on Wednesday nights. She especially makes herself present to the little kids attending mass.

Two-year-old (maybe three) Thomas Montgomery reaches his arms out from the pew to shake hands and/or hug Chelle. She stopped at the pew Thomas was sitting at with his grandparents, John D. Montgomery and his wife, Gracie. Thomas's eyes twinkled as Chelle stopped to hug him.

His soft wavy light brown hair, brushed against her shoulders when she held him tenderly in a tight squeeze. The beaming smile on his face made his eyes appear to be closed. The beige color pants, crimson polo shirt and white athletic shoes, resembled a little man instead of a two-year-old boy.

As Chelle was walking away, he turned to his grandma, Gracie, and said proudly, "My Michelle!" Gracie replied, with a raised eyebrow, "Your Michelle?" With such joy in his tender voice he replied, "Yes! My Michelle!"

I smiled as I thought God places love in our hearts since birth. After Mass I walked to the pew where the Montgomerys were sitting. I said to Thomas, "I heard you say Michelle is 'Your Michelle.'" He smiled lovingly and said, "I LOVE Michelle!" As I made my way towards the exit walking down the steps outside of the church, my face was frozen with a smile, feeling the presence of the Holy Spirit within me.

Thinking to myself, the innocence of children and their meaning of true love! God bless the children. May they remain children as they keep love in their hearts, praise God and grow up to be loving adults.

Thomas is a prime example of what our world is in desperate need of today.

Sincerely,
Sylvia Morales

Pausing to be thankful

This time of year, I find plenty for which to be thankful – my husband, our family, our community. I'm thankful for the amazing state in which I live and its incredible diversity.

I'm thankful I was born in this nation, which is still one nation under God, and for the freedoms we still enjoy.

I'm especially thankful for the men and women who serve in our military, many of whom are on duty far from home and from family and friends who love them – all to keep us safe and to protect our liberty.

Likewise, I am thankful for the many civil servants who take care of us every day – law enforcement officers, firemen and other first responders, teachers, road maintenance crews, healthcare workers and so many more. Many of our public safety officers are on duty today as well, and I appreciate their sacrifice.

I also can't let this holiday pass without at least a passing nod to the food we will all enjoy – the turkey, stuffing, sweet potatoes and pie.

And let us not forget the football games to which many will be glued, the parades we will enjoy or the early Christmas shopping if you are inclined to boost your local economy and support your small businesses.

But this year, as I pause to consider the list of things for which I am thankful, I find myself considering something a bit deeper. The holiday season always prompts thoughts about the goodness in our lives, and encourages us to brush off the troubles we have faced in the last year.

As we prepare to gather around our Thanksgiving feast, surrounded by our loved ones, let us think on the countless moments of laughter, love, hope and joy that each of us has experienced this year. Let us be grateful to one another and to life for providing us with

MOVIES WITH DAVE

By David Stull

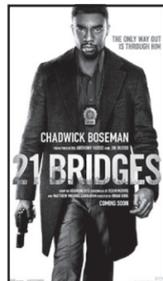

Well, it's Thanksgiving, and you know what that means. Time for family films to stake their claims and attempt to strike box office gold in the busy, turkey fueled, holiday weekend.

This past week saw the release of two such films. One is a tale starring Tom Hanks as everyone's favorite neighbor, the other is the sequel to one of the highest grossing animated films of all time.

But first a crime thriller starring Chadwick Boseman as a detective thrust into a citywide manhunt.

Let's get to the reviews.

First up is "21 Bridges."

This film follows an embattled NYPD detective (Chadwick Boseman), who is thrust into a citywide manhunt for a pair of cop killers.

As the night unfolds, lines become blurred on who he is pursuing, and who is in pursuit of him. When the search intensifies, extreme measures are taken to prevent the killers from escaping Manhattan as the authorities close all 21 bridges to prevent any entry or exit from the iconic island.

This movie is basically the definition of just 'okay.'

How's the action? It's okay.

You can actually tell what's going on most of the time, so that puts this film above many of its contemporaries. It's effective, even tense at times, but nothing to write home about.

The best scene is probably the one that jumpstarts the story in the first place, when our pair of criminals find themselves in a shootout with over a dozen police officers.

It's also a pretty violent movie. Though it's not overly gory, the filmmakers made no effort to turn away from blood and death. In that sense it feels fairly realistic.

How's the acting? Well it's okay too.

With Chadwick Boseman being nothing but Black Panther in the Marvel Cinematic Universe for the past couple years, it does feel a little odd to see him in this role as a New York City detective. But he's fine here.

Boseman's character, Andre, has this whole backstory about how his dad was a cop who died in the line of duty when he was young. Because of that, and his sizable body count, Andre has this reputation for not leaving criminals alive.

I never really felt a connect with his character though. He just felt kind of flat. Not good, not bad, just okay.

Frankly, I didn't really care for any of the other law enforcement in this movie.

With the exception of Andre, they all seemed ridiculously bloodthirsty and ready to murder at the drop of a hat. It's weird. Andre has this reputation excitement and fun.

Life is not always easy—it often catches us by surprise in the worst ways. However, with each mountain we face, we must also remember to value the memories we share with our friends and families and maintain our thankfulness for the possibilities available to us.

Happy Thanksgiving to all in House District 42. I hope you will each take time to think over your own Thanksgiving lists and thank those who deserve it. I am thankful for each of you.

Rep. Cynthia Roe, a Republican, represents District 42 in the Oklahoma House of Representatives, which includes Garvin and McClain Counties.

for being a cold hearted killer, yet he seems to be the only sane one on the force.

Sure, the officers' murderous tendencies does make sense in the context of the larger story, but it really doesn't make for sympathetic characters overall.

Oddly, the two people I ended up being the most invested in were our pair of cop killers, played by Stephan James and Taylor Kitsch, Though they're clearly the bad guys, they both ended up feeling much more like the film's protagonists than Boseman's character ever did.

Then, of course, there's the story. And guess what? It's okay too.

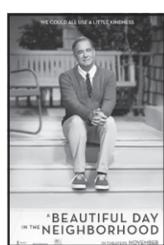

Despite leading with a compelling concept, like shutting down all traffic in and out of Manhattan to perform a manhunt, the movie ends up devolving into this very familiar, and overused, corruption angle.

Again, it's fine. It's just a little disappointing that the story ended up being so conventional after starting so strong.

Overall, if you're looking for a perfectly decent cop thriller with acceptable performances, competent action scenes, and a middling story, this movie just might be right up your alley.

I don't think I'd actually pay money to see it, but if it was already on, it probably wouldn't be the worst two hours of your life.

"21 Bridges" is rated R.

Next is "A Beautiful Day in the Neighborhood."

Inspired by a true story, this film follows Lloyd Vogel (Matthew Rhys), a jaded magazine writer, who is assigned to write a profile about Fred Rogers (Tom Hanks).

Forced to confront deep-seated issues involving his estranged father, Lloyd is taught to forgive by America's most beloved neighbor.

So let me establish a few things right off the bat. This is not a biopic about everyone's favorite children's television personality, Mister Rogers.

If you're more interested in a film that delves into the history and legacy of the man's life, I'd highly recommend a documentary released last year called "Won't You Be My Neighbor?" Even if you only have a passing interest in Mister Rogers it's definitely worth a watch.

And another thing, many movies say they're "inspired by a true story," but this film really pushes that idea to its breaking point.

The inspiration for this movie comes from an article in Esquire from 1998 titled "Can

You Say...Hero?," an article by a man named Tom Junod, not Lloyd Vogel as he's called in this movie.

And they changed his name for good reason. Because while Tom and Mister Rogers did form a friendship that lasted until Fred's death in 2003, Tom flat out didn't experience most of the drama Lloyd does in this film, especially anything involving his father.

Lloyd is essentially a made up character. But frankly, that doesn't bother me too much. Because while the overall narrative here is largely fictional, this film still does a wonderful job showcasing who the man Fred Rogers was.

And Tom Hanks does an absolutely brilliant job personifying Mister Rogers in this film.

Everything about him, from the way he talked with his very soft spoken voice and deliberate pauses, to his mannerisms, and most of all, how he managed to make everyone he had a conversation with feel like the single most important person on the entire planet. It's all here.

No surprise. Tom Hanks knocks it out of the park once again.

But like I said, this movie isn't a profile about Fred Rogers. It's more a tale showing how Fred affected everyone around him, viewed through the eyes of a single fictional character named Lloyd Vogel.

And though a story about a son who hates his father is far from a new concept, the way the narrative is framed is quite a bit more unique. And it's in the way this film incorporates elements of the TV show "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" that really make it stand out.

You know how in the old show, at the beginning of every episode you'd see a little miniature of the neighborhood, eventually zooming in on Fred's house? Filmmakers call that an "establishing shot" because it establishes where a scene is taking place.

Well this movie takes the notion of using rinky-dink little miniatures for establishing shots and runs with it.

Of course they recreated the old neighborhood for the opening of the show, but they also made little miniatures of New York City and Pittsburgh, models of little cars pulled by string, and tiny airplanes attached to the tip of a rod for takeoffs and landings.

It's such a wonderful, yet obviously time consuming, little touch that really helps set the tone for the entire story.

And what an effective narrative it is. I think you'd be hard pressed to find someone who doesn't resonate with the characters in the film one way or another. I myself cried no less than a dozen times while watching this movie.

There's so many other little details I'd love to share about this film, but frankly I'd rather you experience them for yourself.

Going into this movie I knew it'd be good, but I was shocked by how far it exceeded my expectations. There is so much creativity packed into this wonderfully charming film I was blown away.

Even if it isn't a completely true story, it's true to the spirit of Mister Rogers. That alone makes this film a must watch.

"A Beautiful Day in the Neighborhood" is rated PG.

Last this week is "Frozen II." Set three years after the events of the first film, this new tale follows Elsa (Idina Menzel), Anna (Kristen Bell), Kristoff (Jonathan Groff), Olaf (Josh Gad), and Sven as they embark on a journey beyond their kingdom of Arendelle in order to discover the origin of Elsa's magical powers and save their kingdom after a mysterious voice calls out to Elsa.

Oh Disney. What am I gonna do with you?

I swear I don't enjoy being a Disney hater as often as I am.

Over the decades Walt Disney Pictures has been responsible for many of my all time favorite films. I love their movies, especially their animated ones. Including many of their most recent ones, like "Tangled," "Wreck-It Ralph," "Zootopia," and yes "Frozen."

Sadly, that makes it all the more frustrating when a sequel to one of these films I adore, ends up failing so spectacularly on so many levels.

Up front it's very clear the writer for this film had absolutely no idea where to continue the story after the first movie.

The narrative here is shockingly unfocused, and the pacing is terrible.

At times the movie feels ridiculously rushed, to the point where it seemed like entire sections of the film were cut for time. Important scenes that should have connected the story together, yet were noticeably missing.

Other times the movie is nothing but pointless fluff, with song after song that add nothing to the story.

Worst of all, while they do come up with something for Elsa to occupy her time, her companions could not have felt any more shoehorned in.

Anna almost feels like a shell of her former lively self. For some reason her personality has been boiled down to an extreme obsession with protecting her sister.

And if Elsa wasn't a superhero with incredibly powerful world altering ice powers, this new fixation of Anna's might not seem completely ridiculous. But she is, and it does.

Kristoff is even less useful here. He could have easily been cut from the film entirely for all he adds to the story.

His only motivation in the movie is to propose to Anna. That's it. That's all he has. Sure he talks about it a lot, and even sings about it, but every time he appears in the movie it always feels pointless.

Olaf is here too, and he basically serves the same purpose he did in the first film. He's comic relief and nothing else. If you're into his schtick, more power to ya. Personally, I thought it got old early on in the last movie.

It's almost like the characters here are searching for a reason to exist in this story, but failing miserably. After the events of "Frozen," there's just nothing for them to do.

So in the absence of a story and a compelling new adventure for our characters, they instead opted to throw in as many new songs as possible.

And to the movie's credit, there are a couple of wonderful songs buried in this film's half baked story. Both of which are sung by the voice of Elsa, Idina Menzel.

But most of the music here only worsens the movie's already terrible pacing.

Instead of the songs moving the story forward like you would expect in a good musical, most of the music numbers make the film's narrative come to a screeching halt.

There is only one thing "Frozen II" improves on its predecessor, and that's the animation.

This movie is undeniably beautiful. From the character designs, to the incredible looking new locations, and the way every element comes to life. No other studio even comes close to Disney when it comes to animation. With the possible exception of Pixar, but that's also Disney, and I'm not going to count it when Disney is beating Disney.

Unfortunately, it's all for a narrative that felt like it could have used a few more years to refine the story.

Can you believe the first "Frozen" came out all the way back in 2013? You'd think in all that time, and with all the money they made, Disney could have at least come up with a halfway decent part two.

I know every sequel is the result of the previous film being a financial success of some kind, but here it's very clear "Frozen II" wouldn't exist if the last movie didn't make over $1 billion at the box office, and five times that amount in merchandise.

I imagine if all you, or your child, want out of a "Frozen" sequel is to revisit the Kingdom of Arendelle, and to see Elsa, Anna, Kristoff, Olaf and Sven together again, along with heaps and heaps of new songs, you'll probably enjoy this just fine.

As for me, like any good Disney princess, I want more.

I want a well paced story. I want compelling characters that have purpose. I want Disney to do better. Because I know they can. And fans of their films deserve better.

"Frozen II" is rated PG.

Readers are invited to follow the physical "path" of a holiday story as large pages are posted in more than a dozen storefronts along west Main Street.

Mothers Entwined Club will hold its 2019 Goldsby Country Christmas Home Tour Sunday, December 8, from 1-3:30 p.m. The home of Greg and Mary Ann Sutterfield, 29530 Chloe Way, in Goldsby is one of the four featured homes and one bonus location, Hillside Manor Wedding Venue.

Mothers Entwined Club Goldsby Country Christmas Home Tour

Mark your calendars for the Mothers Entwined 2019 Christmas Home Tour which is scheduled for Sunday, December 8, from 1-3:30 p.m.

The home highlighted this week for the Mothers Entwined 2019 Goldsby Country Christmas Home Tour is the home of Greg and Mary Ann Sutterfield. The Sutterfields home is located at 29530 Chloe Way in Goldsby.

The Sutterfields home is a custom built that they built themselves and have lived in for three years.

They describe their home as Southern Living with upper and lower porches in the front and back.

The home is decorated in traditional/Southern Living colors with deep toned walls with white trim and cabinetry.

"I'm a fan of Christopher Radko ornaments that I would like tour participants to take note of," Mrs. Sutterfield said.

"The home features an elevated view of Norman, the University of Oklahoma and downtown Oklahoma City," Mrs. Sutterfield said.

"My inspiration for building the home with porches came from time spent as a young girl with my grandparents, Ervon and Mae Moody, when my grandfather was foreman of Johnson Ranch," she concluded.

The Sutterfield home will be the site of a country kitchen that will be stocked with home baked goods.

This is only one of the four fabulous homes and one wedding venue on the Mothers Entwined 2019 Goldsby Country Christmas Home Tour.

You can purchase your tickets for $15 from any Mothers Entwined Club member, Goldsby Town Hall, the office of Roger Cudd, Marcum's Nursery, at the home tour or online at <https://mothersentwined1.ticketleap.com> and there is a link on the club's Facebook page.

Keep foodborne illness off the holiday menu

The holiday season brings friends, family and lots of good food. From cooking the turkey to homemade pies, it is easy to forget safe food handling practices during the hustle and bustle.

Every year, approximately 48 million people become ill with a foodborne illness. The Oklahoma State Department of Health (OSDH) reminds everyone to practice food safety when preparing holiday foods.

The OSDH recommends the following food safety tips to prepare a turkey and keep holiday gatherings free of foodborne illness:

- Clean: Wash hands with soap and warm water for 20 seconds before, during and after handling food. Wash cutting boards, dishes, utensils and counter tops with hot soapy water after preparing each food item and before you go on to the next food.

- Separate: Disease-causing germs can spread from raw food to other foods. Use separate cutting boards, and keep raw meats and their juices away from fruits and vegetables.

- Cook: Always check the internal temperature of cooked meat, poultry and egg dishes with a food thermometer to ensure the food is cooked to a safe temperature.

- Chill: Be safe with leftovers. Refrigerate leftover foods promptly. When foods are left out unrefrigerated, harmful germs multiply quickly. Discard any food left out more than two hours.

- Illness: Anyone who has been sick with diarrhea or vomiting should not prepare food for at least 24 hours after symptoms have stopped.

Tips for Preparing and Reheating Turkey

- Thaw: Allow enough time for a frozen turkey to defrost. Incorrectly thawed turkey can look safe to eat but actually will be undercooked, allowing disease-causing germs to survive inside.

- For more information about how to properly thaw a turkey based on weight and time in the refrigerator, in cold water, or using the microwave, please visit Safe Holiday Cooking.

- Cook: Use a meat thermometer to ensure the internal temperature of the turkey is at least 165 degrees Fahrenheit. For stuffed turkeys, the internal temperature of the stuffing must reach 165 degrees before it is safe to eat; however, the safest way to cook stuffing is to cook in a separate casserole dish.

- Store: After preparing the meal, refrigerate remaining foods and leftover turkey within two hours. Eat leftover turkey, stuffing and gravy within three to four days.

Reheat leftover gravy to a rolling boil, and thoroughly reheat other leftovers to 165 degrees.

For more safe holiday food preparation details, please visit the OSDH Acute Disease Service "Food Safety and Foodborne Diseases" website at <http://ads.health.ok.gov>.

Stitt visits U.S. Capitol to testify in front of Senate

By Addison Kliever
Gaylord News

Oklahoma Gov. Kevin Stitt told a Senate committee that some states are blocking energy projects due to personal environmental politics of state leaders.

Sen. John Barrasso, (R-Wyo.), chairman of the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works, on Tuesday said states like Washington and New York have denied so-called 401 certificates to natural gas pipelines, which he said could generate jobs, increase exports and boost the U.S. economy.

Under Section 401 of the Clean Water Act, any person seeking a federal license to construct an object that may pollute navigable waters must receive a license from the state it is constructed in.

"It prevents Oklahoma from achieving all it can be because a loophole within Section 401 is allowing a small handful of coastal states to dictate the future for all 40-plus states," said Stitt.

Barrasso said: "The lack of natural gas is causing more homes and businesses to rely on fuel oil—a fuel that emits 38% more CO2 than natural gas."

Stitt said Oklahoma is the pipeline capital of the world and is currently enjoying some of the cleanest drinking water in the state's history. He also said the state has reduced its CO2 emissions by 37% since 2011.

"A lot of our colleagues often claim that Republicans don't care about the environment, and it couldn't be further from the truth," said senior committee member Sen. Jim Inhofe (R-Okla.), who introduced Stitt during the hearing.

But Sen. Kirsten Gillibrand (D-N.Y.) pushed back on Stitt's claims, saying Oklahoma's water quality is "challenged."

"I'm grateful that you have made progress in eliminating some contaminants—and that's a good thing—but it may be because you are starting from a worse off place," said Gillibrand.

Stitt said he believes regulations should be left to the states as often as possible, but demands such as this require larger action.

Create holiday memories with kids in the kitchen

Brenda Hill
Extension Educator

Ah, the holidays. For many families, this means spending time in the kitchen preparing tasty family recipes. It also is the perfect time to teach children about cooking, nutrition and food safety.

Letting your children help in the kitchen not only opens their minds to trying new foods, but it also can boost their confidence.

Children get excited when they see friends and family enjoying what they created in the kitchen. It gives them a sense of pride.

And, spending time in the kitchen cooking with your kids helps them learn the importance of nutrition and develops healthy eating habits early on.

Before you break out the mixing bowls and turn on the oven, start with some safety precautions and ground rules. Which pieces of kitchen equipment the child can use will depend on their age.

Be sure and talk about the importance of washing hands before getting started on a cooking project, as well as keeping a clean work surface.

Start with the basics such as cracking an egg or gathering the ingredients for the favorite family recipe.

Although the child may not realize it, measuring ingredients is a great introduction to some math concepts. Talk about the importance of correctly measuring each ingredient so the recipe turns out just right.

Based on the child's age and abilities, assign different tasks related to the recipe. Children ages three to five can stir together simple ingredients, press cookie cutters into pre-rolled dough, snap beans or tear lettuce for salad.

Measuring ingredients, taking the seeds out of winter squash, greasing a pan, cracking eggs and using a vegetable peeler are age-appropriate kitchen skills for six to seven year old children.

Eight to nine year olds are capable of using a can opener, juicing citrus fruits, checking food temperature with a thermometer and using the mixer.

Older children can do more advanced jobs in the kitchen, such as slicing or chopping vegetables, microwaving foods, simmering ingredients on the stove and baking foods in the oven.

It is important to help children build confidence in the kitchen and help them master cooking and baking skills over time.

Traditional family recipes are important all year long, but especially during the holidays. Spending time in the kitchen with your children will help ensure these recipes continue for generations to come. Plus, you will be creating lifelong memories.

Six things to help evergreens through winter

By Melinda Myers

Prepare your evergreens now before winter weather takes its toll on your boxwood, arborvitae and rhododendrons. Winter wind, sun, frozen soil, snow and ice can wreak havoc on our plants, especially evergreens.

Water plants, especially evergreens and new plantings, thoroughly before the ground freezes.

Evergreens continue to lose moisture throughout the winter even when the soil is frozen or dry.

Apply a layer of mulch to the soil under and around trees and shrubs or freshen existing mulch. A two- to three-inch layer of woodchips or shredded bark insulates roots from temperature extremes, conserves moisture, suppresses weeds during the growing season and improves the soil as it breaks down in the future.

Keep mulch several inches away from the trunk of trees and stems of shrubs.

Shelter evergreens from winter winds and sun that increase moisture lost through evergreen needles and leaves. Broadleaf evergreens like rhododendrons and boxwoods are most susceptible and benefit from shelter when planted in exposed locations.

Create an attractive winter shelter with one of the commercially available winterizing products or build your own. Use a bit of decorative fencing or recycle a locally grown Christmas tree to cast a bit of shade and block the wind. Christmas tree windbreaks also add greenery to the winter landscape and shelter for visiting birds.

Loosely tie together stems of upright arborvitae, junipers and yew hedges subject to heavy snow and ice loads. As the snow and ice pile on, it can

A 21-year-old Norman man faces a minimum $739 fine after he was ticketed for hunting without the landowner's consent and illegally taking a whitetail deer.

A hearing in McClain County District Court for John D. Rogers will be at 1:30 p.m. December 17.

He was arrested at 6:30 a.m.

November 16 by Oklahoma Department of Wildlife Conservation Game Ranger Brian Meskimen.

According to the two citations, the game ranger encountered Rogers hunting on the east side of Bryant Avenue one-half mile south of 220th Street.

Rogers allegedly stabbed a nine-point buck to death. He told Meskimen that the deer had been shot by someone else.

cause these plants to split. The shrubs often recover in spring, but years of repeated damage can eventually disfigure these plants.

Use strips of cotton to loosely tie the multiple stems together so the snow rolls off the plant. Or wrap the whole shrub or hedge in bird netting. The netting blends in with the foliage so the plants are secure and still add beauty to the winter landscape. The netting also helps discourage hungry wildlife.

Install fencing, apply repellents or enlist scare tactics to reduce the risk of damage from hungry animals. Applying wildlife protection before critters start feeding increases your chance of success. Monitor plantings for damage, adjust as needed and consider using a combination of animal protections.

Delay major pruning until the worst of winter weather has passed. The inner needles and leaves of evergreens have been sheltered by the outer layer of growth.

Removing the outermost growth in fall exposes the tender inner growth to the harsh weather, increasing the risk of winter damage.

It's better to wait until early spring to shape, if needed, while correcting any winter damage.

A few hours spent preparing evergreens for winter now can save you hours repairing damage next spring and money spent on replacement plants.

Domestic violence

Couple's verbal quarrel escalates

Jeanne Grimes
The Purcell Register

A Lindsay man is in the McClain County Detention Center after being charged in McClain County District Court with domestic violence.

Kenneth R. Holman, 44, is being held in lieu of a $100,000 bond.

Prosecutors charged him with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, domestic assault and battery by strangulation and domestic abuse/assault and battery.

According to an affidavit, Det. Lt. Chris Grace with the McClain County Sheriff's Department was called to the home in Wayne of Holman's wife on November 7.

The wife told Grace she and her husband got into a verbal argument that turned physical.

Holman reportedly grabbed his wife by the back of her neck and threw her to the floor.

He also allegedly struck her numerous times on the back of the head and genital area before threatening to shoot her with a .45 caliber handgun.

The victim reported that he fired a round through the floor of their upstairs bedroom.

He then reportedly threatened to shoot her with a 9 mm pistol.

Grace recovered a copper jacket of a hollow point bullet from a trash can in the entry way of the McClain County Courthouse after the victim said she disposed of it on her way into the courthouse.

Cats:

Tammey Little, a rural mail carrier and founder of Goin to the Dogs rescue, proclaimed the day a success.

"It worked really well," she said.

Large cages were set up across town a week before the event and volunteers baited them daily with food to get feral cats used to going in.

On Sunday, the cage doors were closed behind them.

SpayFirst! founder Ruth Steinberger of Bristow sent a mobile veterinary surgical van which Howard used.

Staff members from Spay-First! and the Oklahoma Spay Network in Tulsa assisted in surgery.

Steinberger also furnished all of the medication.

In addition to undergoing the spay/neuter surgeries, all cats were wormed and given a rabies shot.

An ear was tipped on each of the feral cats, so they can be instantly identifiable as spayed or neutered.

As the surgeries were completed, the unconscious cats were taken by 4-H volunteers from Blanchard, Newcastle and Wayne to the town's community building which was transformed into a large recovery ward.

Two women from Oklahoma City also worked as volunteers in the makeshift recovery ward.

There the cats were placed on heated blankets. Volunteers turned their charges every five minutes until the cats were awake enough to be placed in cages.

"We had the entire community building full of cages of cats," Little said.

Public input needed on multimodal transportation plan

The Oklahoma Department of Transportation wants to hear from the public about the state's planned transportation projects and programs for various modes of travel over the next four years.

The agency is currently seeking feedback on the Statewide Transportation Improvement Program for Federal Fiscal Year 2020 through 2023.

The STIP is a planning document required by federal guidelines that details a list of upcoming projects using federal funds by the state, local and tribal governments.

The FFY 2020 through 2023 STIP includes:

- Highway and interstate projects by ODOT;
- Federal programs administered by ODOT, including county and small city, railroad crossing safety, active transportation and enhancement projects;
- Tribal transportation projects;
- Local government projects by member communities of the Association of Central Oklahoma Governments in the Oklahoma City metro area, the Indian Nations Council of Governments in the greater Tulsa area, the Lawton Metropolitan Planning Organization and the Frontier Metropolitan Planning Organization, which includes Oklahoma cities and towns in the Fort Smith, Ark. area; and

- Public transit programs administered by ODOT.

"The STIP gives the public a great snapshot of the federally-funded projects and programs across multiple modes of transportation that they can expect to see in their communities during the next few years," Deputy Director Dawn Sullivan said. "Federal funds are essential for improving our transportation system, so we hope Oklahomans will take time to review this plan to see how those dollars are going to be spent."

The full proposed STIP can be viewed online at www.odot.org by clicking the Programs and Projects tab and then clicking Transportation Programs.

A printed copy of the STIP can be requested by contacting ODOT's Strategic Asset and Performance Management Division at 405-521-6433.

Comments may be made via email to smcelroy@odot.org or in writing to the Oklahoma Department of Transportation, SAPM Division, 200 N.E. 21st St., Oklahoma City, OK 73105. Comments will be taken through December 6.

Substantive comments will be addressed and will be incorporated into the final document that will be forwarded to the Federal Highway Administration and the Federal Transit Administration later in December for review and approval.

Asian and American Christian Speakers Toastmasters Club

By Xiaoming Hu

Asian & American Christian Speakers (AACs) Toastmasters Club met Nov. 23, 2019 at the National Weather Center in Norman.

Paul, served at the Toastmaster and humorist, opened the meeting and performed a magic show with a coin and a pen. It was absolutely astounding and showed his efforts of practicing over the past 15 years.

The Wordmaster Jin-Song gave the Word of the Day "Thankful." It was used many times during the meeting as Thanksgiving is approaching.

Paul also served as the Table Topics Master. He called Shannon to talk about her favorite object made of wood, which recalled her memories of national parks; and Jin-Song to speak about his favorite piece of furniture, which turned out it was his book shelf and not the timing machine!

We had four very well prepared speeches today.

Xiaoming gave a speech titled "Unforgettable Birthday." He brought his three daughters to Target for his birthday gifts, but his daughter accidentally left a white dent on a black car when she opened the door. They were worried about the accident but the owner was very nice and asked them to pay the goodness to the next person.

Tengfei (Victor) gave his icebreaker speech titled "The First Half of My Life." He studied geology in college, which was not his favorite subject. Then he talked about his journey from Beijing to Colorado then to OU to pursue his PhD. The icebreaker is the hardest one and he did a really good job! Keep on rolling!

Harley gave a speech titled "Believe." He made us believe that we could make history. He used his example that when the silverware dropped on the floor, he got frustrated at first but then was able to pick it up. He also reminded us that "You have to know the history so you don't make the same mistakes twice!"

Leslie gave us a speech titled "Off the Cuff." She was trying very hard to get rid of her old 2013 Ford car in the past six months. She tried to give it to her brother, the 19 years old college student, the kids' aunt, but all the attempts were unsuccessful. So if you don't have a car and want a car, please contact Leslie!

We had four evaluators, Lingshan, Shannon, Paul and Xiaoming, evaluate the prepared speeches. They congratulated the speakers for their great job and also provided their evaluations with constructive feedbacks.

Our general evaluator Leslie gave her suggestions for today's meeting. Jin-Song gave timer's report and Word of the Day report. Harley gave the Ah Counter and Grammarian's report.

Our meeting in December will be rescheduled to the first and third Saturday due to the holiday season. Our next meeting will be on Dec. 7, 2019. Look forward to seeing you all then! Have a safe and happy holidays!

Asian & American Christian Speakers meet every second and fourth Saturday (first and third in November and December) from 9:45 to 11:30 a.m. in the National Weather Center conference room in Norman.

Our Club Website is aacs.toastmastersclubs.org.

Club members want to invite all their friends to join us who are interested in improving their speaking English and communication.

Brighten your spirits and indoor decor with a colorful cyclamen

By Melinda Myers

Add some unique beauty to your indoor décor or give the gift of low maintenance splendor with the easy-care cyclamen.

You'll enjoy the colorful plain or ruffled white, pink, rose or lavender flowers that look like shooting stars hovering over heart shaped leaves with silvery highlights.

Best of all, there's a size for every home and occasion. Use miniatures as a place card holder at your next gathering, for added color in a terrarium or to brighten any small space. Dress up the dinner table, mantle or side table with one of the larger varieties.

Large or small, they make wonderful party favors and hostess gifts. Place the plants in a decorative container, basket or colorful tin for an even more impressive display.

Grow your cyclamen in a cool bright location. These Mediterranean plants thrive in cooler temperatures and should be kept out of drafts of hot and cold air.

Consider moving your plant to an even cooler room at night to extend the bloom time.

Use your finger to monitor soil moisture. Water thoroughly when the potting mix that's just below the soil surface is starting to dry. Pour off any excess water that collects in the saucer, decorative basket or foil wrap.

Allowing plants to sit in water leads to soggy soil and the decline of the plant's health and beauty.

Or set the plant on a saucer of pebbles. The excess water will collect in the saucer while the pebbles elevate the pot above the water. You'll reduce the risk of root rot and save time by eliminating the need to pour off this excess water.

Remove any yellow leaves to keep your plant looking its best. Adjust watering frequency and growing conditions if this is a frequent problem.

Overwatering or allowing the soil to dry to the point of wilting can cause the leaves to yellow. Low light and drafts of hot and cold air can do the same.

Remove flowers as they fade. Gently twist and pull off or cut spent flower stems back at their base in the foliage. Regular deadheading will increase the number of flowers and length of bloom. With proper care, you will be enjoying flowers for four weeks or more.

Don't be alarmed when the leaves yellow and dry soon after the plant stops flowering. It is entering a natural dormant period. If you like a challenge, try forcing it into bloom a second time.

Simply cut back on watering when you notice the leaves begin to yellow. Then stop watering once all the leaves have dried.

Move the plant to a cool dark location for several months. After the rest period, bring your plant out of dormancy and encourage it to bloom. Begin watering, fertilize once new growth appears and place it in a sunny window. Then wait for a beautiful floral display.

12-0 Pirates up next after exciting win over Holland Hall

Washington's 17-14 come-from-behind victory over Holland Hall last Friday night sets up a showdown with No. 1 Metro Christian this Friday.

Kickoff with the Pirates is at 7 p.m. for the pair of 12-0 teams at Metro Christian.

The Pirates operate out of a spread formation on offense and have arguably one of the best quarterbacks in Oklahoma in Asher Link.

He led all classes in the state last year in passing yards.

"He does a great job of hitting the short routes but he also can hit the screens and the deep balls," Washington Head Coach Brad Beller said. "He's a big, tall kid with a strong arm. He has great accuracy and is also the team's leading rusher."

Link was a state finalist in the 100 meters at the State Track Meet last spring and will present a myriad of challenges for the Warrior defenders.

When the Pirates are on defense they base out of an Okie 5-2.

"But they are very multiple," Beller notes. "They move their front around. They have very big, strong kids that are very quick. They are also very athletic at the linebacker position."

Beller said his squad will have to tackle well in space and try to get pressure on Link.

"We can't let him just sit back there and pick us to death. We have to put pressure on him because they like to stretch their routes and get vertical getting their athletes in space."

Last year the Warriors were seven yards shy of getting the winning score so they are very interested in making up those seven yards this year.

Last Friday night at Reed Field the Warriors overcame countless errors to advance in the 17-14 victory.

With 5:14 left in the final period, Washington trailed the Dutch 14-10 and hadn't really threatened in the second half.

Wayne out at Pawnee

Seven game win streak snapped in second round

John D. Montgomery
The Purcell Register

Wayne was defeated 44-21 by Pawnee Friday night in the second round of the State Playoffs.

The loss was their first since Sept. 27 when they narrowly lost to Stroud.

They had reeled off seven straight wins after losing three in a row to begin the season.

Wayne fought the injury bug early but became an imposing force this season once they hit their stride with a full roster.

"The kids could have laid down (early in the season) and quit but they showed their character and rolled off seven straight," said Wayne Head Coach Brandon Sharp. "Friday just didn't go our way."

Wayne wasn't able to get their potent ground game rolling Friday like they have much of the season.

"Pawnee is a good team and they caused us problems with their defense," Sharp said. "We couldn't get going."

The game was closer than the final score indicated and Wayne had a chance to tie or take the lead in the third quarter until a fumble killed the drive.

"We were in the game," Sharp said.

Despite the off game for the Bulldog's offense, sophomore sensation quarterback Ethan Mullins still ran for 220 yards on 29 carries. He scored two touchdowns on the ground and threw another touchdown to fellow sophomore Kolton

Miller in the first quarter of the game.

Mullins finished the season with 2,849 yards rushing on

Post season CC honors

Post season cross country honors are coming in for Purcell runners.

Coach Randy Belicek said Gavin Nation and Alicia Baker were selected for the 2019 Senior All Star Team by the Oklahoma Cross Country/Track Coaches Association.

Belicek reported Kyle Ginn was selected and ran at the Oklahoma High School Cross Country Meet of Champions at Carl Albert.

Ginn was also selected to run in the Oklahoma/Arkansas Cross Country Meet held last week at Shilo Christian School at Springdale, Arkansas.

But Washington, ranked No. 3, put together a drive that ended with an 18-yard game winning touchdown pass from Devin Orr to Kobe Scott.

"We knew we had time for the entire playbook to be open," Beller said when his club took over at the 5:14 mark.

"We had shot ourselves in the foot all night offensively. We just told the kids to make plays when they come to you. We had been really good until the Red Zone.

"The biggest thing was we just wanted to pass protect so we could get Kobe in isolation. We struggled blocking (Owen) Ostroski, but Devin threw a great ball and Kobe made an even better catch," Beller said.

"Give Holland Hall all the credit in the world," Beller said. "But we had a lot of busted assignments and didn't play all that well. I think we showed a lot of resilience. We showed we have a lot of fight in us even though we didn't play our best.

"We had a lot of fight and grit but we left a lot of points on the field," the coach said.

The Warriors amassed 423 yards of total offense yet only had 17 points on the scoreboard.

"We did a lot of good things, but there is a lot we can be better at," Beller said.

The coach said on defense sans two deep pass plays his club played pretty well.

"We got beat on a hitch and go and once on a fade route. Other than that is was kinda' bend but don't break," he said.

One of those don't break moments came when Emmitt Wilk went up and battled for an interception in the Warrior end zone.

"I thought Logan Lile was a handful for their offensive line," Beller said. "And Alberto Aguirre and Gavin Grimsey did a good job. It was an overall team effort holding them to 14 points."

Holland Hall had been averaging 40 points a game offensively.

Beller pointed to the play of his offensive line that opened up lanes for Lance Spaulding.

Spaulding rushed the pigskin 36 times for 262 total yards. Orr passed for 141 yards and the winning touchdown while rushing for 43 yards.

Those linemen Beller was referring to were Justin Simmons, Seth Tague, Conner Bruce, Logan Lile and Luke Steele.

"At the end we were trying to do clock management but we weren't doing a great job of bleeding off time," he said.

It was good enough. Win and advance.

349 carries.

He scored 38 touchdowns.

Pawnee was the more physical team Friday night and used their offensive line to control the game.

"They got in double tight (formation) and were just like a road grader with their splits foot to foot," Sharp said. "Their offense is really difficult to defend and they have good running backs and we struggled to get them to the ground."

Pawnee finished the night with 378 total yards to Wayne's 294.

Brannon Lewelling recorded a team-high 17 tackles in the game, followed by Connor Crawford with 11.

James Spencer registered eight tackles and Rhett Kennedy had seven stops.

"It was a good season but we didn't achieve everything we wanted," Sharp said. "I'm really proud of the boys and their toughness this year. We had guys banged up all season. They showed resolve and their attitudes were good. It's a great group of kids."

Wayne finished the season 7-4.

Crossing the River of "If Only"

The widest river in the world is not the Mississippi, Amazon or Nile. The widest river on earth is a body of water called the If Only River. Throngs of people stand on its banks and cast longing eyes over the waters. They long to cross but can't seem to find the ferry.

They are convinced that the If Only River separates them from the good life. If only I were thinner, I'd have the good life. If only I were richer, I'd have the good life. If only the kids would come. If only the kids were gone.

If only I could leave home, move home, get married, get divorced. If only my skin were clear of pimples, my calendar free of people, my profession immune to layoffs, then I would have the good life.

The If Only River.

This Thanksgiving, are you standing on its shore? Does it seem that the good life is always one giant step away? One purchase away? One promotion away? One election, transition or romance away?

If so, then we've traced your anxiety back to one of its sources. You're in a hurry to cross the river and worried that you never will. Consequently, you work long hours, borrow more money, take on new projects and pile on more responsibilities.

Stress. Debt. Short nights. Long days. These are all part of the cost to the land of the good life, right? Not exactly, said the Apostle Paul. The good life begins, not when circumstances change, but when our attitude toward them does.

"Be anxious for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known to God; and the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus" (Phil. 4:6).

May you turn away from the looking across the If Only River. May you look around and see the little treasures in the life that you are currently living. May you have this peace this Thanksgiving. (Taken from a published work by Max Lucado.)

Our parish will have a Thanksgiving Day Mass on Thursday, November 28, at 11 a.m. (bilingual). All are welcome to come and give thanks to the God of many blessings.

We welcome all visitors to our services! Our weekly Mass schedule is Saturday at 5 p.m. (English), Sunday at 11 a.m. (English) and 1 p.m. (Spanish). All are welcome to join our parish family!

This Sunday, December 1, begins the season of Advent when we start the countdown to Christmas. Advent is the beginning of the new church year. Please join us for this joyful celebration!

Today is the American holiday of Thanksgiving. Every culture I know of has some sort of festival celebrating the harvest. We tie ours to the first harvest of the Pilgrims in 1621. The feast lasted for three days. The New England colonists often celebrated "thanksgivings", which were days of prayer thanking God for blessings such as military victories or the end of a drought.

In the U.S., Thanksgiving has been celebrated off and on since 1789, after George Washington issued a proclamation at the request of Congress. Observation of the holiday was intermittent until Abraham Lincoln proclaimed it a federal holiday in 1863, during the American Civil War.

He declared a national day of "Thanksgiving and Praise to our beneficent Father who dwelleth in the Heavens," to be celebrated on the last Thursday in November. The date was changed in 1939 and 1941 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in an atmosphere of controversy. From 1942 it has been celebrated on the fourth Thursday of November as proclaimed by Congress.

In the American culture, Thanksgiving is now regarded at the beginning of the fall—winter holiday season, along with Christmas and the New Year. The day following Thanksgiving is known as "Black Friday," when merchants cut prices in hopes of making profits to make up for the possible losses during the rest of the year. In the age of the Internet and computerized shopping, the Monday following Thanksgiving has become known as "Cyber Monday."

In this season of Thanksgiving, we may lose the emphasis on thanking God for all the blessings we've been given. Some families may have a prayer before the feast. Many people get up early to watch Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, with Santa Claus bringing up the rear to welcome the beginning of the commercial Christmas season. Others watch sports, especially football.

Yet, if a church schedules a service on that day, it is likely to be sparsely attended. We find the same reluctance to be at church worship on other special Sundays such as that before Memorial Day, Labor Day, or even Christmas Day itself. We often hear the excuse that "I have family visiting and will be preparing our meal."

Why can't we attend a worship service with those visitors and family? It usually takes only an hour mid-morning, unless it has been planned for a late afternoon or evening. Even then, it may not be too much over an hour. With our society's emphasis on multi-tasking, surely we can figure out a way to get the turkey and the yams cooked while we meet with our church.

We often see the phrase "Put the Christ back in Christmas." What if we "Put the thanks back in Thanksgiving" and count all the blessings that God has given us?

Come worship with us at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday, with church

Green Avenue Church of Christ

The Wednesday evening adult Bible class discussed personal evangelism.

The Sunday morning auditorium class studied the last two chapters of First John and the short book of Second John where the apostle John continues to encourage the Christians he is writing to love each other then goes on to warn them that many deceivers have gone out into the world who do not confess the coming of Jesus Christ in the flesh.

During the Sunday morning assembly Keith Shackelford brought a lesson on the prayer that Jesus taught His disciples to pray as recorded in the first thirteen verses of the eleventh chapter of Luke. The sermon continued with the parable of the man who gave his persistent friend what he needed.

The Sunday evening message was on the relationship between love and fear beginning with the reading of 1 John 4:17-18.

Johnson Road Baptist Church

This week is a time of celebration for the pastor and his wife of Johnson Road Baptist Church. Monday Carol Brown will celebrate her 79th birthday. The same day the Browns will observe their 61st Wedding Anniversary.

On Wednesday the pastor will observe his 83rd birthday. On Wednesday the pastor and his wife will travel south to Texas for a two-day Thanksgiving holiday visit with family at McKinney, Texas.

As pastor, I want our church family and friends to enjoy the big meals and family gatherings on Thanksgiving Day.

God has been so good to provide Americans with the essentials of life and an added abundance of blessings.

Before you delve into the luscious foods on your table, let there be silence as you bow your head and offer thanks to God.

It is always a joy to visit with God's children. Saturday it was my privilege and joy to visit with Mitch and Donna Harrel and Henry and Pat Ketchum. Special music Sunday morning was provided by Gynean Gentry.

The scripture text for the Sunday's sermon was taken from the first and third chapters of Hosea.

Hosea was an eighth century B.C. prophet that used his own personal experience of a failed marriage to compare it with God's dealings with the wayward nation of Israel.

Hosea loved and married Gomer who became unfaithful and an adulterous wife. Gomer became the mother of two sons and one daughter.

The names of the three children reflected the disgraceful behavior of Israel and the impending destruction of a people.

Hosea never lost his love for his wife, Gomer. In spite of her disgraceful behavior, Hosea went to the slave market and paid 15 pieces of silver to reclaim his wife.

The story of Hosea and Gomer is a warning to any nation, including America, that forsakes the laws of Godliness and replaces it with activities of worldliness.

The 14 chapters in the Book of Hosea is a story of an unfaithful wife and a faithful husband.

The Book of Hosea also tell the story of an unfaithful nation and our faithful God. In spite of our shortcomings, God loves, forgives and blesses a repentant sinful human race.

Dale K. Graham Veteran's Foundation

As this is Thanksgiving week, I want everyone to know we will be closed this Thursday so that our volunteers can spend the holiday with their families.

We will also be closed on both Tuesday and Thursday of Christmas week. When planning your visit to our location for assistance, please remember we will not be open during those holidays.

During the last couple of weeks, we have received several donations of the following handicap items: adjustable hospital bed, electric wheelchair, and a small scooter with receiver type carriers and those that mount in a pickup bed. These types of items are free to veterans and their families at no charge.

Our only goal is to recycle them to the next veteran when they are no longer needed. We also have other items such as push wheelchairs, shower chairs, and canes that are available for those who are in need.

As many of you are aware, we spend a lot of money on copy paper, printer toner and other types of consumable items that any office uses. We make up a wish list of these types of items that are needed daily and print them occasionally in our newsletters. This enables some of the men and women who we help each week to give back in a way that is affordable and needed.

We want to spend as much of our monies as possible in direct support of the veterans and their families.

Congratulations to our Veteran of the week Jonathan Hernandez, who served in the Gulf War as a member of the United States Army. Mr. Hernandez makes his home in Elgin, Okla.

For those of you who were reading this column last January we wrote that during 2018, we assisted over 1,000 veterans in receiving a 100 percent disability rating. We are very proud

Preacher Miller Walks the Line

Happy Thanksgiving to all! It was Thanksgiving, 1997, when we first shared the following story -- and that was about the time many of you and I first met. I'd say that is a special blessing, too, and something else to give thanks for today. So, let's turn back the clock this week and re-visit the story that helped teach me what true thanksgiving means.

I think of this story every year around this time. It's an account in the life of one of my heroes, my grandfather, Preacher Miller. The preacher preached thousands of sermons in his days; but one of the best sermons of his life wasn't one he preached. It was one he lived!

In the mid-60s, Preacher Miller, Grandma, and Uncle Angus and Eunice Shelnett got in a bad car accident driving home from a revival in Marietta, Georgia. Two cars were drag racing that fateful night on the two-lane Atlanta highway, and Preacher Miller met the car in his lane when he topped a hill.

"It happened so fast," he later would say, "that we didn't even have time to swerve."

I still remember the phone ringing late that night at our little house on Juniper Street.

The news wasn't good for anyone, but the four in Granddad's car were the fortunate ones.

Those riding with the preacher had numerous injuries, but Preacher Miller was hurt the worst. The impact was so great that his shoe melted to the gas pedal, and the workers had to pull his foot out of his shoe to get him and his broken hip out of the burning car.

The doctor did all he could for the preacher for several days, but one morning he walked into his second-floor LaGrange hospital room and delivered the news:

"Preacher Miller," he said, "I'm sorry, but I don't think you'll ever walk again."

The preacher didn't buy it. He said, "Doc, you, me, and the Lord can do better than that."

And they did.

In a month he was walking -- and preaching -- on crutches. In three months, he was walking with a walker. In six he walked, period. Just with a limp.

While he was a man of great faith, he also became discouraged often during his rehabilitation. One day when he was really feeling sorry for himself, he started wheeling through the hospital, looking around. He was surprised by what he saw.

He saw a man who was missing a limb. He saw another who couldn't get out of bed. He saw one he could tell wouldn't see too many more sunsets. So, he went back to his room, closed the door, and gave thanks.

He never took walking for granted again, and he reminded the congregation over at Murphy Avenue of this story many times -- just to make sure they stayed thankful, too. From that time on -- showing his thankfulness for being able to walk -- he walked stairs almost every day of his life, back when walking really wasn't the "in" thing.

Walking stairs, of course, isn't something you can do at home. So, every day he'd go out and find one of the tallest buildings in LaGrange and walk the stairs there. It was a place he knew well. He went there every day in his daily visits anyway; and it was a place where he could go and never feel sorry for himself. He had already tried that and found it didn't work.

He learned quickly that he couldn't feel sorry for himself as long as he was able to walk the stairs up at this tall building: the LaGrange hospital where he once spent a week or two. coachbowen1984@gmail.com to announce that 2019 is going to be another record year as we near our goal of 1,200 veterans receiving that coveted one hundred percent rating. When 2020 rolls around I will give a breakdown on the number who are Oklahomans.

This past week we had 26 veterans rated at 100%, and they will receive a combined $1,066,279 a year. Year to date for 2019, 1,112 veterans have been rated at 100 percent and receive a combined $44,830,184 yearly. Last week 66 veterans were rated 10-90 percent and will receive an annual combined $1,022,469. Year to date this group of 2271 veterans is receiving a combined yearly $36,283,328.

Another positive thing that is starting next week is the lease on the building next door, which will enable us to add more volunteers. As we start setting up the added volunteer workstations, there will be a need to add more laptop computers and printers. If any of you would like to help with the cost or to purchase some of them, please visit with Lora Malone our Executive Director, about the types needed.

We prefer to use the same types of laser printers to cut down on the many types of cartridges. Hopefully, in the near future we will be able to reduce the wait time that many of our veterans must endure.

Our drivers have been working overtime, transporting veterans to our location, and to and from their VA medical appointments. We appreciate each of them for their many hours on the road.

We are a 501(c)(3) non-profit, which means our services are free to everyone we assist. We operate on the donations from individuals, business or grants that we receive. Our budget each month to provide services such as rents, utilities, transportation, and medical expenses for the men and women we assist is over $25,000. This equates to over $300,000 per year in services to veterans and their families. For those of you who want to help us help others, please consider becoming a donor. Your gifts should be tax-deductible. You can donate directly on our website or mail to PO Box 592, Washington, OK 73093.

We are available every Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 1268 North Interstate Drive, Norman, OK 73072. We open the doors by 5:30 a.m., and we begin working as soon as volunteers have their computers ready.

Visit our website at dalekgrahmveteransfoundation.org for more information. There you will find a section on Frequently Asked Questions. You may also contact us at (405) 550-8806 for information or to schedule transportation.

Oklahoma Tribes Deliver STATEWIDE GROWTH

ALL OVER OKLAHOMA, TRIBAL INVESTMENTS ARE CREATING JOBS, IMPROVING LIVES AND STRENGTHENING COMMUNITIES.

Oklahoma City

“Here in Oklahoma City, we’ve grown to depend on the philanthropic generosity of the tribal nations. And time and again, they have answered that call.”

DAVID HOLT Mayor

Pryor

“We’re able to attract a better teaching force than we would be able to without some of those resources. So it’s all interwoven, and people don’t understand how big of a component that the tribe plays in our successes.”

DON RALEIGH
Superintendent,
Pryor Public Schools

Canton

“50 jobs isn’t that many jobs in a big metro area, but in our community when you have 600 people, it’s very significant. It’s a boost that you can’t replace.”

TROY EVERETT Vice President,
Canton Chamber of Commerce

Anadarko

“It makes a huge difference working with tribal governments because we’re talking millions of dollars in infrastructure investment. We’re not talking about $10,000 that helped us do one small project in one neighborhood, we’re talking about community-wide infrastructure improvements.”

KYLE EASTWOOD Mayor

Durant

“I’ve had many acquaintances that have grown up in Durant, moved away to go to college, never had the intention of moving back, and have. They are finding these fulfilling jobs that they didn’t think would be in Durant, and a lot of those jobs have been provided by the tribe.”

STEPHANIE GARNER Director, Durant Main Street

Tulsa

“I see the tribes investing in Oklahoma, in health care, in roads, in education, in mental health, in every way to build a better place for all our children to live.”

ALISON ANTHONY
President and CEO,
Tulsa Area United Way
