Setting twin vaults

Randy Davis, owner of R&T Backhoe in Marlow, guides a second vault into a double grave at Purcell's Hillside Cemetery on Friday. The unusual double grave was for Charles and Lurene Boydston who died within two days of one another. Jason McGrew, cemetery sexton, is at the controls of the backhoe.

Till death do us part

Couple buried in same grave

Not even death could separate a Purcell couple.

The couple, who had been married for 64 years, died just days apart.

Funeral services for Charles Boydston, who died December 19, were scheduled for 10 a.m. December 21 but his wife Lurene Boydston died that morning.

Thus, a joint service was held at 1 p.m. Friday at the Bethlehem Primitive Baptist Church.

Interment side-by-side in the same grave was held at Hillside Cemetery.

The couple had lived in Purcell since 1963 after returning from a military obligation. They also lived in Muleshoe, Texas, and Lawton for a while before moving back to Purcell.

Even death could not separate the couple.

A complete obituary can be found on page 7A of this week's Purcell Register.

An Interesting Neighbor
Everyone has a story

Jeanne Grimes

For Jo Kelly, a breakthrough medical procedure means she no longer has to worry about the risk of having another stroke.

That isn't something she takes lightly.

The risk that another stroke could end her life was real. You see, Jo suffered four strokes in the past eight years. And she lost both parents to strokes.

The threat to her own life was very real.

That was before.

Before she saw an online advertisement about a study on atrial fibrillation at the Baylor Southwest Research Institute.

Before she met Dr. Brian DeVille, a Baylor physician specializing in arrhythmia management and electrophysiology who would change her life, literally.

"I had Afib almost 10 years," she said. "My first stroke was crippling."

It affected all of her left side.

Jo's life was that of an invalid.

After learning of the Baylor study, Jo consulted her cardiologist in Norman, Dr. Muhammad Anwar.

He forwarded all of her medical records to the institute.

Though she wasn't accepted for the study, Jo learned she was a candidate for a new medical stroke prevention procedure at the new heart hospital adjacent to the institute.

Jo was admitted to the heart hospital.

There she was placed on a heart monitor and began three days of treatment with a new drug, Tikosyn, which regulates the heart's rhythm.

For the procedure DeVille went into Jo's heart through her groin. Inside the heart,

Charge filed in accident death

The District Attorney's office has filed a charge in the death of a Purcell three-year-old.

DA officials report a misdemeanor charge of negligent homicide-motor vehicle has been filed against Marilyn McReynolds of Purcell in connection with a fatal accident in north Purcell September 1.

According to a probable cause affidavit, the victim, age 3, was on her bicycle about 7:18 p.m. September 1 at Arbor Drive and Bluestem Court, just a little south of the corner on the east side of the roadway.

The affidavit states she was in the northbound lane of the roadway. A 2002 GMC Yukon driven by Mrs. McReynolds turned onto Arbor Drive from North Ninth traveling west.

The vehicle turned south onto Bluestem Court. Mrs. McReynolds said the setting sun made it difficult to see when she struck the victim.

Registration deadline near

January 18 is the last day to apply for voter registration to be eligible to vote in the February 12 Board of Education Primary and or the Purcell Municipal Election.

That's the word from McClain County Election Board Secretary Karen Haley.

Mrs. Haley said persons who are United States citizens, residents of Oklahoma and at least 18 years old may apply to become registered voters.

Those who aren't registered or need to change their registration may apply by filling out and mailing an Oklahoma

Voter Registration Application form in time for it to be postmarked no later than midnight January 18.

Mrs. Haley said applications postmarked after that time will be accepted and processed, but not until after February 12.

The County Election Board responds in writing to every person who submits an application for voter registration. The response is either a voter identification card listing the new voter's precinct number and polling place location or a letter that explains the reason or reasons the application for voter registration was not approved.

Mrs. Haley said any person who has submitted a voter registration application and who has not received a response within 30 days should contact the election board office.

Oklahoma Voter Registration Application forms are available at the election board office located at 121 N Second Avenue, Purcell, and at most post offices, tag agencies and public libraries in the county.

Applications also are available at www.elections.ok.gov.

Sen. Boren gets multiple committee assignments

State Sen. Mary Boren has received her committee appointments for the 57th Legislature which includes the 2019 and 2020 legislative sessions.

Boren, D-Norman, will serve on the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Education, the Agriculture and Wildlife Committee, the Energy Committee and the Judiciary Committee.

"I'm extremely gratified by each of these assignments. These areas are extremely important to District 16 and will enable me to have a vote on hundreds of proposed laws that could have a direct impact on the people who live here," Boren said. "My guiding force in deciding my votes in each of these committees will be whether this will be good public policy for the citizens I represent in the Senate."

Boren's diverse professional background resulted in her appointments on the Appropriations Subcommittee on Education and the Judiciary Committee.

Boren is an attorney, having earned her Juris Doctorate from the University of Oklahoma. She's currently completing a Master's in Education at the university.

"I'm very pleased to bring my legal background to the Judiciary Committee. Likewise, my experience in education has well prepared me for my work on the Subcommittee on Education," Boren said. "While the teacher pay raises approved in the 2018 session were a long-overdue investment, we must continue to build on that momentum. A quality education for Oklahoma students is directly tied to being able to attract and keep gifted, professional educators."

"One of the unique things about Senate District 16 is how it includes not only the city of Norman but rural communities as well, including Noble, Lexington and Slaughterville. Within those communities and surrounding areas farming, ranching and wildlife are extremely important. Having a seat on the Agriculture and Wildlife Committee will help me better represent the rural areas within this district and their concerns," Boren said.

"Oil and gas are major drivers in our state's economy and impact every Senate District, including this one—but District 16 also has a great interest in renewable energy sources, including solar. It's an important component in a comprehensive energy plan, so I am looking forward to helping shape policy through my work on the Senate Energy Committee," Boren said.

For more information, contact Sen. Mary Boren at 405-521-5553, or email mary.boren@oksenate.gov.

Here are a few dates seniors might want to mark on their calendars: Monday, December 31, New Year's Eve, center open; Tuesday, January 1, center closed.

We had a great day of partying before we closed for Christmas. Some of the ladies had made some really sharp table decorations. You would have never guessed they were made from tin cans.

Next on the agenda was the Ugly Sweater Contest and then Old Saint Nick had left gift sacks for all and Wadley's Funeral Home joined in with fruit and candy sacks for all the seniors. What a full day we had and everyone was ready to go home and take a nap.

We still have some seniors who are doing rehab, but everyone is out of the hospital at this time.

Staci has made it to Purcell. She still has some therapy to do. Eulalia is at Sunset Estates. Feel free to go by and stick your head in and say hello.

Remember, if you are planning to eat with the seniors, it is necessary to call and make a reservation by 8 a.m. that day or the afternoon before. This is a state law and the cooks are being encouraged to follow the rule. If you do not have a reservation you will have to wait until last to eat and there may not be food enough for extras. The cooks need to be able to get a correct count for lunch. Call Evelyn or John at 527-9462 to make a reservation.

The senior garage sale for this week will be Thursday, January 3. It will start at 8 a.m. and last until 3 p.m. Check it out. There may be some good sales.

If you need a place for a special celebration, birthday party, family reunion or any type of class, check out the senior center. Call the center at 527-5070 and ask for Fredda or Hester.

Menu for the week of December 31-January 4:

Monday—Steak sandwich with lettuce, tomato and mayo, fruit cup, bun, tomato soup, crackers, chocolate chip cookie.

Tuesday—Center closed.

Wednesday—Breaded fish with tarter sauce, potato casserole, cooked cabbage, hush puppies or cornbread, margarine, assorted red gelatin.

Thursday—Chicken a la king, Harvard beets, oven biscuit, fruit crisp.

Friday—Meatloaf, mashed potatoes with gravy, green beans, dinner roll, margarine, pudding swirl.

It's Christmas Break

Among things I don't like are the little twisty ties that keep your cleaning hangers together.

They are a pain in the back side when you are separating your clothes but I'm sure it's necessary for the cleaners.

Another thing I don't like is decorating for Christmas.

The holiday is fine but decorating is just not my cup of tea.

The Captain of our decorating team always does a good job but this year she put the tree on me.

I had the extreme pleasure of decorating the entire tree solo.

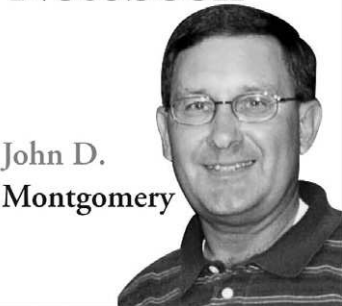

It seemed easy enough.

Tree with only three sections. Lights already on it.

I didn't really have the foggiest idea how to get the lights to come on since merely plugging them in didn't do the trick.

Turns out there is a series of plug-ins and a certain order to make the lights do their twinkling job.

Editor's Notebook

John D.
Montgomery

My plea for help fell on deaf ears.

I finally did put two and two together but only about 3/4 of them actually worked.

A few days later another quarter of the little rascals decided to go on Christmas vacation.

So now we're having to add lights to a pre-lit tree.

It was a treat trying to string lights on a tree that was already sporting the trinkets and bobbles.

Ahh the joys of decorating for Christmas.

That's just another reason Thanksgiving is my favorite holiday.

No decorating and no wrapping.

Just family.

And that's what it's all about anyway.

And that won't change whether you are decorating or not.

Gathering together is the best.

And remember, it's Merry Christmas not Happy Holidays.

The schools are not out on happy holiday break.

And it's Christmas not holiday.

Hope you all had a great one and we look forward to covering you and yours for the coming year.

Happy New Year, also.

Not Happy Holiday Year.

It's resolution time Confessions of a lifelong procrastinator

I'm hesitant to bring this up, but the days remaining in 2018 are dwindling down which means Tuesday is the deadline for making those New Year's resolutions.

If you are inclined to make one – or more – I hope you choose wisely and follow through.

Lord knows, I never could.

Oh, these were always made with the best of intentions. But we both know where good intentions lead, especially when they are used as paving stones into the future.

Still I tried.

Sort of.
When I was growing up it was like a prerequisite before you and the new year could set out together on a 365-day adventure.

Start the year without resolving to do or stop doing something and you'd throw a permanent kink into your personal time-space continuum. Everyday having to relive anew the fact that you were/are resolution-less.

Rather like Groundhog Day

MUCH ADO

Jeanne Grimes

without the comedy.

I used to sweat out the final hours, minutes and even seconds of the year just ending, desperate to resolve something. Anything, really.

At the time, I was lean and not fluffy like I am now. So I couldn't resolve to lose weight.

I didn't smoke and never drank to excess. So those were out, too.

There was, however, one area that could stand improvement. I procrastinate.

Not on occasion. Almost always.

Give me an opening to put off til tomorrow instead of tackling a task right now and nine times out of 10, I'll take it.

There's something in my psyche that drives me to put things off. It's an "if-the-world-ends-tomorrow,-what-does-it-matter-that-I-never-finished-painting-the-living-room" mentality.

One thing proficiency in procrastination has taught me, however, is doing my best work against a deadline.

And as a journalist, that's worked pretty well for me for more than 30 years now.

So here's my dilemma. Procrastination might be a character flaw, but it's not one I really want to change at this point in my life.

Still, I have to keep my time-space continuum on track, so some years back, I came up with a resolution unique to me and one I could keep:

I resolve to not make a New Year's resolution this year.

I wish each of you find such a keeper before Tuesday.

Lawmakers craft legislation ahead of looming session

By Joe Dorman, CEO
Oklahoma Institute for Child Advocacy

With the holiday season coming to a close, those who work in and around the State Capitol will now heavily focus on what lies in wait: the 2019 regular session of the Oklahoma Legislature.

The work will continue at a furious pace, with our next deadline falling on December 28 to have language for bill suggestions to legislative staff so they can begin the work of drafting potential new laws.

The Oklahoma Institute for Child Advocacy (OICA) has been working cooperatively with lawmakers to file a variety of ideas to support the children of our state.

Our policy agenda, largely shaped by the work done at the OICA Fall Forum, includes several key areas of focus, including: Childhood Services, Health Care, Prevention Education, Criminal Justice Reform, Poverty, Transportation and Housing Barriers.

Within these categories, we have generated about 50 proposed policy and law modifications to improve the quality of life for Oklahoma's children. I am very thankful for the lawmakers who not only agreed to file bills for specific ideas, but also the legislators who filed "placeholder" bills for OICA to ensure that something could be considered this session.

A "placeholder" bill is one that a lawmaker will give to the staff to draft, with the intention of finding another lawmaker who can shepherd it through the legislative process.

In addition to pushing our own policy agenda, OICA will also assist lawmakers with their own ideas, work with constituents who have recommended changes, or other partner organizations that are seeking a mission-specific change to state law.

We were proud to assist several organizations this past session who successfully pushed for policy changes, and we hope to continue that effort.

In fact, OICA will hold regular lunch meetings with partner organizations to meet with our Capitol team to discuss how the session is progressing and what is going on with child-related legislation. Our goal is to promote a dialogue on how advocates can work together to ensure success for policies that are needed for our state's children.

If you have an interest in attending these every-other-week luncheons, contact the OICA office for more details, or email me at jdorman@oica.org for more information.

I also encourage you to save the date for our annual advo-

Stop impaired driving

Dear Editor:

Oklahoma holiday festivities that include alcohol will be setting up prime opportunities for impaired motorists to be on our roads. AAA Oklahoma warns, if you feel differently, you're going to drive differently.

During National Impaired Driving Prevention Month drivers need to remember that illicit drugs and also prescription and over-the-counter medications can impair their ability to drive safely. When combined with alcohol, they can be even more deadly.

AAA's free RoadwiseRx.com allows you to enter prescription and over-the-counter drugs to learn if they may have an effect on safe driving as well as their interactions with each other.

The responsibility to drive sober or not drive at all if you have been drinking can't be neglected. Have a game plan before heading out the door.

These days, there is no excuse to get behind the wheel while buzzed when there are so many alternative options to get home safely – designated driver, taxis and ride shares such as Uber and Lyft. You can also call a sober family member or friend for a ride home.

While it might not be a happy conversation, they will be thankful they received a call from you rather than a knock at the door from a police officer.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), 885 people nationwide lost their lives in traffic crashes involving a drunk driver during December 2017. Three died in alcohol/drug-related crashes on Oklahoma roads during the Christmas holiday period last year, according to the Oklahoma Highway Safety Office. Fourteen were seriously injured.

Be a responsible host if the celebration is at your home: keep plenty of non-alcoholic beverages on hand and be prepared to take the keys away from any of your impaired guests and arrange for them to get home safely or make them spend the night on your sofa.

Oklahoma law enforcement agencies are increasing patrols and checkpoints throughout the holiday season to keep our roads safe, according to the Oklahoma Highway Safety Office. Several ENDUI activities are planned across the state during the holiday season as a part of the national "Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over" campaign. These high-visibility patrols and sobriety checkpoints have demonstrated success in getting impaired drivers off our roads.

If you see someone driving that you suspect is impaired, ask a passenger to call *55 or 911 or pull over to a safe spot on the side of the road to make the call.

During the 2017 New Year's holiday period, zero alcohol-related fatalities were reported by the Oklahoma Highway Patrol! Let's start now with focused attention on safe celebrating to prevent unnecessary loss of lives the entire 2018 holiday season.

MOVIES WITH DAVE

By David
Stull

Things are going to be a bit different for my column this week.

Thanks to Christmas and early deadlines I wasn't able to see any of the many new releases that came out over the holiday weekend, not before publishing time at least.

Fortunately I did have the chance to see early screenings for two movies that released this past week, "Bumblebee" and "Aquaman," so at least I don't feel completely negligent.

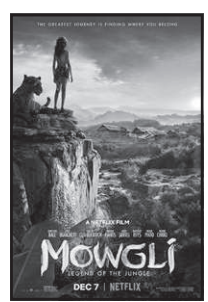

Sadly, reviews for "Mary Poppins Returns" and "Welcome to Marwen" will have to wait until my next column.

In the meantime though, I'm hitting the old reliable Netflix well for something to write about.

One is a retelling of the classic tale of "The Jungle Book" and the other is the latest film from critically acclaimed writer/director Alfonso Cuarón.

So, no sense in wasting anymore time. Let's get to the reviews.

***

First up is "Mowgli: Legend of the Jungle."

A boy torn between two worlds must accept his destiny and becomes a legend.

Mowgli (Rohan Chand) has never truly belonged in either the wilds of the jungle or the civilized world of man. Now he must navigate the inherent dangers of each on a journey to discover where he truly belongs.

What a rocky journey this film has had.

Headed up by acclaimed motion capture artist, Andy Serkis, this latest live action telling of "The Jungle Book" was originally set to be released by Warner Bros. in October of 2016

Unfortunately over time though, the movie's theatrical opening kept getting pushed back further and further.

First to October 2017 to allow more time for visual effects work, then delayed again to 2018 after the huge success of Disney's remake of "The Jungle Book," based on the same source material.

Finally in July 2018, Warner Bros. announced that Netflix had acquired the distribution rights of the film.

It seems the folks at Warner Bros. saw the writing on the wall, assumed they had a box office bomb on their hands, and wanted to cut their losses.

This isn't the first time Netflix has stepped in to take a film off a major studio's hands.

Just earlier this year, Paramount sold the rights to "The Cloverfield Paradox" to Netflix, a move that was repeated by Paramount when they pawned off the international rights for "Annihilation" to the online streaming service once again.

These days, it seems like if a studio has zero faith in a film, they just ship it off to Netflix.

And honestly I don't blame them.

Regardless of quality, all these films that were sold to Netflix in the 11th hour of production have had "box office timebomb" written all over them.

With a traditional theatrical release these studios could have potentially lost tens of millions of dollars. For them it's a no brainer to peddle off an inevitable failure like that to someone willing to cover production costs.

On the other hand though, I'm not convinced this arrangement benefits Netflix terribly well.

Often times these studios are trying to rid themselves of these films for good reason. With the exception of "Annihilation," the movies Netflix has been buying up haven't exactly been high quality films.

Which brings me to this movie.

I love Andy Serkis. From his role as Gollum in "Lord of the Rings" to Caesar in the recent "Planet of the Apes" films, every single one of his motion capture performances have been absolutely incredible.

Even his live action performances, like his role as Ulysses Klaue in the Marvel Cinematic Universe, have been a lot of fun to watch.

Unfortunately it seems motion capture technology can only go so far, especially when it comes to portraying characters without human like features.

The animation for the animals in this film is just plain creepy.

There's just something really unsettling about the look and facial movement for the computer generated characters in this film.

It's almost like they look too human.

The best of the lot was probably Andy Serkis as Baloo the bear, no surprise there, but most of the other motion capture performances just look off somehow.

The effect is most notable with the wolf characters in the film, especially the young albino wolf pup named Bhoot, who was played by Andy Serkis's son Louis.

To be clear, Louis's vocal performance was fine, but I had a deep seeded aversion to the appearance of that little white wolf. I wanted to look away every time he was on screen. He was just plain disturbing to me.

On the other hand, I thought the voice acting overall was quite good.

This movie has an all-star cast including Christian Bale as Bagheera the panther, Cate Blanchett as Kaa the snake, Naomie Harris as Nisha the wolf, and of course Benedict Cumberbatch as Shere Khan the tiger.

I was very disappointed with Cumberbatch's recent vocal performance in Illumination's "The Grinch," but he more than makes up for it here as Shere Khan.

There's so much ferocity to his voice, so much presence and weight to it. He definitely gives Idris Elba's version of Shere Khan from Disney's "The Jungle Book" a run for its money.

Sadly there's only so much a star studded voice cast can do for a film. Especially when the performance of the title character leaves a lot to be desired.

I hate to pick on younger actors too much, but Rohan Chand wasn't all that good of a Mowgli. He just doesn't have the range for the character and he completely fell flat during any emotional scenes.

But a single mediocre performance isn't enough to kill a film, and I could ignore creepy visual effects if the film had a compelling narrative. But unfortunately that leads me to my biggest problem with this movie.

The story here is just a mess. Anyone who's seen "The Jungle Book" has a decent idea of how this film goes.

Raised by wolves, Mowgli is determined to live his life in the jungle, despite urgings from Bagheera to join his own kind due to the constant threat of Shere Khan, who has a deep hatred for man.

But from there the story differs quite drastically from Disney's version of the tale. Mostly due to the personalities of the characters.

Instead of being lazy, the Baloo here is more like a drill sergeant, pushing Mowgli to be stronger and more adept in surviving the dangers of the jungle. Basically taking Bagheera's personality from Disney's version.

And instead of a bumbling sweet talker, Kaa is more of a wise old sage who is said to be as old as the jungle itself.

Changes like this are fine with me, plus apparently they're closer to the original source material. But then there's other additions that don't serve the story very well.

This movie adds more villains, including giving a hyena ally (Tom Hollander) to Shere Khan plus a colonial hunter named John Lockwood (Matthew Rhys).

Even though the hyena's character is featured in the original tale, both baddies are completely pointless additions to the film, and do nothing more than add unnecessary bloat to the story.

Shere Khan doesn't need a bumbling sidekick, that just makes him seem less intimidating. Frankly, I understand why Disney's versions never included the character.

And the character of Lockwood doesn't even make an appearance until halfway through the film. By then the threat of Shere Khan is already well established. There's no point of adding another antagonist.

Also Lockwood is essentially irrelevant to the plot. His character could have easily been cut from the script and the film would have been better off for it.

There's just no flow to the narrative. Near the midway point of the movie, the story feels like it suddenly hits a brick wall and just meanders around for the next 30 minutes.

I found it really hard to stay focused on the film. Even once the climax finally came, I was just ready for the movie to be over.

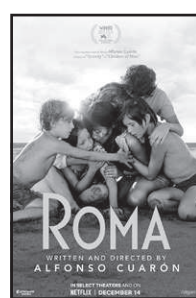

At the end of the day, this film is going to be compared to the Disney's own remake of "The Jungle Book," and sadly it just doesn't stack up.

There's an argument to be made for better voice acting, but the characters are poorer overall, the story is less compelling, and despite releasing over two years after Disney's version, the animation looks decidedly worse.

Unfortunately for Andy Serkis, if you're looking to watch the story of Mowgli, you're much better off sticking with Disney.

"Mowgli: Legend of the Jungle" is rated PG-13.

The other movie this week is "Roma."

This film follows Cleo (Yalitza Aparicio), a young household worker for a family in the middle-class neighborhood of Roma in Mexico City.

What follows is a vivid and emotional tale of domestic strife and social hierarchy amidst political turmoil of the 1970s.

Man oh man, is it good seeing Alfonso Cuarón back making movies.

Best known for films like "Children of Men," "Gravity," and "Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban," the best Harry Potter movie in my opinion, Cuarón is a ridiculously talented filmmaker notorious for crafting instantly captivating scenes that are impossible to look away from.

Seriously, if you've never watched "Children of Men," you're missing out on one of the best shot movies of all time.

And Cuarón continues that trend of beautiful looking films here. "Roma" is a stunningly well filmed movie.

Though the movie is entirely shot in black and white, it's still a marvel to look at.

Every single scene has so many small details packed into

it. There's so many moving parts, dozens of actors that need to be in the right place at the right time, but Cuarón makes it look effortless.

Heck, in one scene, there's an entire wedding party happening in the background. It has nothing to do with the story. It's just the backdrop for a few seconds while our main characters eat some ice cream.

As time consuming as it must have been to set up something like a wedding party, details like that really make the settings for Cuarón's movies feel alive.

Unfortunately, there is a pretty massive barrier to entry for this film, beyond the fact that it's black and white, one that would keep many people from watching.

This movie is almost entirely in Spanish. Yeah, there's subtitles, but still that'll understandably quash many people's interest in this film.

There's also an odd extended scene near the beginning of the movie which featured the most full frontal male nudity I've ever seen in a feature film. I could see that putting some people off as well.

In addition, the overall story is probably a little on the slow side for many would-be viewers.

It's fairly mundane at times, just following Cleo and the family she works for in their day to day lives.

Even so it's still beautiful to watch. And the movie does pick up eventually.

About two thirds of the way into the film, all of the sudden it's like the movie slams you with a brick to the face, just when you didn't expect it.

Intense scenes like those are captivating in a way you rarely see from other filmmakers.

And at the end of the day, that's truly what make Cuarón's films worth watching. They're always filled with mesmerizing moments that don't allow you look away.

I wouldn't recommend this film to most people. If you're looking to watch Cuarón's work, many of his other movies are much more accessible to English speaking audiences.

But for those who can't get enough of Alfonso Cuarón's unmistakable style, this film is a no brainer.

"Roma" is rated R.

New Hoopla, Kanopy services add to library customer experience

The Pioneer Library System is offering an early Christmas present to its cardholders in the form of two new services debuting this month.

Hoopla and Kanopy, a pair of services for viewing movies and other digital media, each became available for use by PLS cardholders on December 17.

The services come in addition to all of the other benefits for PLS cardholders, including use of the existing OverDrive service for downloadable materials.

Hoopla features more than 650,000 movies, television episodes, audiobooks, comic books and eBooks that are available for download immediately with no wait list. Cardholders will be able to borrow up to six items per month from Hoopla.

Most movies and TV episodes are available for 72 hours from the borrowing time, while most music albums are available for seven days and most audiobooks, comic books and eBooks available for 21 days.

Cardholders need to visit www.hoopladigital.com or download the Hoopla app to set up their account using their Pioneer Library System library card number.

For the Kanopy service, accessible at pioneer.kanopy.com, cardholders similarly will be able to watch movies and television shows directly through the Kanopy program.

Kanopy features about 30,000 movies including feature films, documentaries and many other topics. Like Hoopla, cardholders will be able to view six movies per month which are viewed directly through the site rather than downloaded.

It also features a "Kanopy Kids" section with a collection of age-appropriate movies separated into age groups, themes and topics.

Find out more about the new services, or any of the programs and services offered through the Pioneer Library System by visiting any of its 12 libraries, going online to www.pioneerlibrarysystem.org, or through the Pioneer Library System Connect App, available through the App Store for Apple devices or Google Play for Android devices.

FIVE THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT HYDRAULIC FRACTURING:

WHAT IS IT?

Developed in Oklahoma over 50 years ago, hydraulic fracturing uses water, sand and additives under high pressure to unlock oil and natural gas trapped in rock formations that would otherwise be impossible to produce.

IS IT REGULATED?

Yes. Both state and federal agencies regulate the entire process to ensure it is done safely and responsibly while protecting our environment.

HOW LONG DOES IT TAKE?

After the three to four days of activity more than a mile below ground, trucks haul in essentials like hydraulic fracturing fluid; 90% water, 9.5% proppant (usually sand) and 0.5% chemicals, which are used to lower pumping pressure and prevent bacteria and corrosion from forming underground. The 'water hauling' part of the process involves the most trucks and lasts less than a week.

DOES IT IMPACT GROUNDWATER?

No. Each well drilled in Oklahoma is lined with three layers of steel casing separated by an additional three layers of cement for six solid layers of freshwater protection.

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT?

Combined with horizontal drilling, hydraulic fracturing has greatly increased America's oil and natural gas production, allowing Oklahoma to play a leading role in advancing our nation.

Neighbor:

Jo said, are "fingers" hanging down. The doctor tied those.
 Then he shocked her heart.
 "It got my heart back in perfect rhythm for the first time since my big stroke eight years ago," Jo said.
 "I came home with more energy than I ever had."
 The Baylor heart hospital is one of just three hospitals in the United States where this procedure is performed.
 It has given Jo back her life.
 "I will never have another blood clot or stroke," she said.
 She will remain on Tikosyn for the rest of her life, taking twice daily doses of the medication exactly 12 hours apart.
 "The Baylor Heart Hospital is brand new and I was on the newest wing," she said. "I never had such care in my life."
 Six months after the procedure, Jo will be off all blood thinner medicines forever.

 She returned to her home south of Purcell with strict instructions, including a diet change.
 She no longer eats any processed food and has eliminated salt and sugar from her diet.
 She cooks everything from scratch.
 "I don't buy anything in a bag, box, etc.," she said. "The energy I've had. I really didn't know my house was that dirty."
 She started getting up at 4:30 a.m., taking time to read and study Scripture and then clean house.
 That is a never-ending chore.
 "I live in the middle of a plowed field," she explained.
 Jo and her husband, Felix, are "city people living in the country."
 They bought her grandparents' place, interest-free - 100 acres and a house. Her grandmother paid for the homestead back in the day for $5,000 she earned by picking up pecans.

 The couple adopted their son, Mike, from an Indian reservation when he was 3 years old.
 He suffered from fetal alcohol syndrome and has an IQ of 57. Still, he has what Jo calls "work integrity" that serves him well in his job at Walmart.
 Mike, 50, cannot read or write, but has learned to stock shelves in the store by barcodes.
 The couple recently moved him to town and got him an electric tricycle for transportation.
 Jo tells people Felix spent 30 years in jail - as an investigator for the Pardon and Parole Board.
 He recently retired.
 The Kellys are members of Union Hill Baptist Church, which Jo says is a "fantastic, loving church."
 Now 76, she enjoys her health and new life every day.

 The thing that McGowen is most proud of in his 24-year career is the construction of 20 bridges in his district and acquiring the Continental Gateway property.

McGowen said. "We also remodeled the courthouse."
 The most challenging aspect of governing McClain County for the past 24 years is a no-brainer, funding.
 About 40 or more people attended the retirement party that was held from 3-5 p.m. with refreshments.

Dragons burn Bridge Creek 52-37

Garrett Galyean's 31 points almost matched the team total for Bridge Creek last Tuesday handing the Dragons their third victory in a row, 52-37.

Jake Berrey was also in double figures with 13 points.

Coach David Sikes Baker's 19 points but came up just a bit short against the Lady Bobcats, 34-30.

"We didn't play with a sense of urgency until the fourth quarter," Sikes said. "We have to stick to the plan and be patient and let the game come to us."

"It's going to happen. We just have to work until it does," the coach said.

The Dragons are off until January 4 when they travel to Lindsay.

Lindsay stayed in a 3-2 zone and Washington took advantage of a hot hand from downtown.

Washington starters sat the entire fourth quarter.

The Washington defense was stout once again as they held Lindsay to under 40 points.

"We did a good job holding them," Scholz said.

Christmas season

Celebrating the birth of Jesus Christ, the Nativity Scene at Our Lady of Victory at the corner of Jefferson and Third shows the barn-yard stable where Christ was born.

Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church

By Fr. Jim Chamberlain

What would our world be like if there were no Christmas? What would our world be like if God had not come among us as a child?

Of course, if there were no Christmas there would also be no Easter. There would be no parable of the Good Samaritan and the Prodigal Son or Sermon on the Mount. There would be no Pentecost because there would be no followers of Jesus.

For believers, most all of us would believe in the one God, the God of Abraham, Moses and the prophets. We would still be good people, of course, but the God that we pray to would be the God of the Old Testament.

He is a God who created a world that is good, yes. But he is also a God who destroys his people by a flood. He is a God who tests Abraham by telling him to sacrifice his only son. He is a warrior God who encourages Joshua to burn down the walls of Jericho killing all those who were inside the walls, except for the one prostitute who had assisted Joshua's army in its plans.

They put to the sword all the men, women, children, oxen, sheep and goats. But they spared all the gold, silver and bronze so that these could be put in the Temple of the Lord. (Josh. 6) This was all done with God's approval.

He is a God whom we know mostly by poetic metaphor - a Shepherd, a Mother, a Father, a Spirit. He is a God who lives in the clouds and whose name cannot be pronounced. He is a God who is distant to us, and sometimes cold. Yes, he is sometimes compassionate and forgiving, like a mother with her child. But he is often fickle and vengeful and full of anger, slow in mercy.

But then, on or about the winter solstice, a child was born in a makeshift manger in Bethlehem. This child prayed to the same God as did Abraham and Moses and the prophets. But this child understood God to be closer, more accessible, more intimate. This child completed the full picture of God.

This child prayed to God every night and spoke of God as if God were a father to him, a father that was loving and tender. This child spoke of God as being a father who welcomed home a wayward child, a father who knew each of us intimately, knowing even the number of hairs on our head. This father has desires for our happiness, both as individuals and as a people.

It was as if God wanted to know personally our hopes and dreams, our fears, our suffering, even our death. He wants to be as close to us as he can possibly be.

And so God became one of us. He became the child Jesus.

And now when we pray, along with praying to Our Father in heaven we can pray to Our God, the son Jesus, who has lived on this earth and has passed through the valley of tears. As the song says "He knows our need, to our weakness no stranger." He knows our deepest longings. He is the Christ.

Blessed are you who believe that the Word of God, spoken once in time, in the child born on Christmas Day, desires to be born again in your hearts.

We celebrate the Feast of the Holy Family on the Sunday after Christmas, December 30.

Our Mass schedule is Saturday at 5 p.m. (English), Sunday at 11 a.m. (English) and 1 p.m. (Spanish).

Dale K. Graham Veteran's Foundation

We will be closed on Christmas Day and on New Year's Day.

I hope that each of you will be able to spend time with your families on Christmas Day and over the upcoming New Year's Celebrations. During this time of year, I always remember what it was like for me and the other service men and women who spent their holidays in distant lands. In today's world with email and cell phones I'm sure that many of those serving will be talking with their families and friends who are here at home.

All of us at our Veterans Foundation understand the sacrifices that many of those in uniform are facing each day. We are very thankful for their military service for all of us who are living under the Stars and Stripes of this great country. Without their service and veterans who have served before we would not be living in the greatest nation that ever was.

Our Veteran of the Week is Korean War Veteran Leonard Tucker of Oklahoma City. We were able express our appreciation to him as we introduced him to over 150 fellow veterans. We also presented a military cap representing his service during the Korean War. Many of those who we have recognized over the years tell me that no one had ever said thank you for your service before we did.

There were over 280 veterans and surviving spouses who were assisted last week with their claims and questions. When we first started helping veterans and their families, I thought that we would have everyone in our community taken care of within 10 years. Needless to say, that did not happen, and each week we are continuing to have from 40 to 50 veterans who never had a claim for VA benefits before.

Many of them are from our surrounding three or four counties who never thought they deserved benefits even though they suffered injuries while on active duty. Another group we are seeing increased numbers who are filing for benefits are members of the National Guard and Reserve.

One of the reasons for this is the large number of them who have been activated to serve overseas. Many of them who were not activated are only recently finding out that they are eligible to file for VA benefits if they were injured while traveling to or from their unit. Veterans can file for disability from an injury that occurred on federal orders (summer camp).

A few years ago I worked a veteran who was injured in a deadly auto accident in 1959 while traveling to his summer camp. He had been released from the Oklahoma Guard because of his permanent disability. We obtained a Line of Duty report and requested service connection of the disability that occurred back then. When his claim for VA benefits was approved, he was rated at 100 percent. His question to me was why did not anyone let him that he could have been receiving that benefit for the last 50 years?

My answer is what I tell our visitors each week. The VA is not going to knock on any one's door to tell them that they may be eligible for VA Benefits. It's up to the veteran or surviving spouse to find someone or an organization like ours whose only goal is to help them with their VA claims and questions.

There should never be a cost from anyone to help you to file for benefits. One thing that we do differently than most other organizations is we file evidenced based claims. Before the 21-526 EZ form is sent to VA we are going to ask you to provide medical evidence that supports your request for service-connection of a disability.

In places that veterans go for assistance the person helping them will only list disabilities that they believe may be approved by VA. This may work on some disabilities, but not very many. We will ask you to either provide a VA Disability Benefits Questionnaire filled out by a medical provider and possibly statements from people who knew about your injuries during military service. We have found that by encouraging veterans to use this procedure, most of their claims for service-connection of disability will have a better chance of being approved.

We are excited to tell you we reached our goal of 1,000 veterans this year who have received a 100 percent rating. Congratulations to each of you and we are thankful we were able to help you receive the benefits you are entitled to.

Please remember if you need a ride to visit us contact our drivers at (405) 550-8806, extension 105 and 106. These very dedicated volunteers logged almost 80 hours last week transporting 40 veterans more than 1200 miles.

In the mailbag from the VA this week we received more 350 pieces of mail including VA decision letters for 30 veterans who received a rating at 100 percent. These folks will receive $1,207,395 on an annual basis. Sixty-seven veterans were awarded benefits at the rate of 10-90 percent and will receive $1,178,670 on an annual basis. Four surviving spouses were awarded benefits and will annually receive $59,450.

Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation has food sacks available to those in need. An application for this type of assistance will be available on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. A DD-214 or military discharge will be necessary to apply. Please contact 405-550-8806 Extension 103 to request a food sack.

If you need a ride to and from a VA Medical Appointment, please contact 405-550-8806 to reach Clayton at Extension 105 or Louie at Ext. 106.

We are available every Tuesday and Thursday morning with the doors opening at 5:30 a.m. We begin working as soon as volunteers have their computers ready. We stop taking clients as soon as we reach the quota for the day, and that time varies depending on the number of visitors and the number of available volunteers, which usually occurs around 7 a.m.

Wayne Senior Citizens

By John Webb

The Wayne Senior Citizen Center has a wonderful group of seniors who meet for lunch and conversation, and would be delighted to add new personalities to our current group of participants. Lunch is served at 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday, excluding holidays.

Our attendance is down a bit during this time of year, but we are averaging more folks now than at this time last year. We were in danger of closing our center last year because of low attendance. But your friends and neighbors worked very hard to increase participation, and we have been able to stay open.

So come and check out your Senior Center, and stay for a good meal. If you would like to join us for lunch, please call the kitchen in Purcell at 527-9462 by a.m. 8:30 and ask for Connie, Evelyn or John to reserve your meal for the day. And if you are a senior who would benefit from a home delivered meal, please call the center at 449-3079 to see if you qualify.

We look forward to seeing you at your Wayne Senior Citizens Center.
