A little bit of cleanup about the election earlier this month.

The state election board released the turnout percentage, which topped every year since 1986.

A total of 1,185,185 votes were cast in the gubernatorial race or 56.09 percent.

The next best percentage turnout was in the 2002 race for governor when 50.08 percent of the registered voters cast a ballot.

Our Views

Well Thanksgiving came fight, he is up against the chaland went and with the holiday a whole new barrage of new films this week.

We have the eighth film in And amid all the mayhem the Rocky franchise, a sequel to Disney's animated video game adventure "Wreck-It Ralph," a film featuring a new take on everyone's favorite bow and arrow welding outlaw, and a movie about a black pianist going on tour through the deep south during the Jim Crow era.

Let's get right to the reviews.

First up is 'Creed II." Life has become a balanc-Adonis Creed (Michael B. Jordan). Between personal obligations and training for his next big lenge of his life. Facing an opponent with ties to his family's past only intensifies his impending battle in the ring.

Through it all Rocky Balboa (Sylvester Stallone) is there by his side, and together Rocky and Adonis will confront their shared legacy.

After eight films total over the span of 42 years, I just can't help but admire the Rocky franchise.

Sure it's had its ups and downs, but despite some lower quality entries to the series the filmmakers behind all the Rocky movies have never tried to brush any of their films under the rug.

It's not like the "Halloween" ing act for horror film series where every few movies they decide to ignore the last few films and reboot the franchise. In fact

No more free advertising for the President

Dear Editor,

For more than three years we have seen how the media, press, radio, television, etc., has been giving free publicity to the candidate and now President, repeating his name and surname constantly. The free advertising provided during the election campaign is valued at more than 2,000,000,000.00.

Repeat constantly the name of the president, according to accredited psychologists, has a double effect, for some it produces attraction and support for his ideas, for others produce conformism and resignation. This gives electoral advantage to his person and the Republican Party. The President accuses the media in the most blatant, insulting and aggressive manner of being the number one enemies of the American people. The aggression to the media is increasing, reaching extreme situations, such as not allowing the presence or even expelling journalists from their press conferences or presentations.

This fanfare is extremely harmful to journalists in the United States and the world. Perhaps we could relate this to the recent horrible attacks with bomb packages that suffered the press in Annapolis, Maryland.

Attacks on the press are an attack on the Constitution, freedom of expression and the right of every citizen to be well informed. The damage that is being done to the country in general, and to the press in particular, must stop immediately and definitively. The media, press, radio, TV, etc., should stop constantly repeating the President's name. In cases where there is no other choice, they can use alternatives such as President, the Executive, the Administration, etc.

Please, for the sake of our democracy, of our country, for our families and future generations, do not repeat constantly the name or surname of the President. Please no more free publicity to the President.

this series actually has a surprising amount of continuity.

Take "Rocky IV." Critically, it's far from a good movie. A fun, over-the-top piece of pure distilled 80s-ness with an amazing soundtrack, certainly. But there's no way I could actually call it a well made film.

Nevertheless, that hasn't stopped both "Creed" and "Creed II" from heavily basing their stories on events from "Rocky IV."

"Creed II" even brings back infamous USSR boxer, Ivan Drago, with Dolph Lundgren reprising his role as the inhuman Russian killing machine. But instead of boxing himself, he's now the experienced men-Munteanu), much like Rocky is for Adonis.

Storywise this movie isn't breaking any new ground. The plot feels like a mix of the interpersonal elements of "Rocky II," the fighting arc of "Rocky III," plus the villain Disney Studios umbrella. from "Rocky IV" thrown in for good measure.

There isn't really anything here we haven't seen from previous films of the series. If you're someone who's tired of the standard Rocky formula, this isn't going to be the film series.

For the most part "Creed II" is more of the same, but for fans of the franchise a familiar story is far from a bad thing. Plus it still has all the big emotional moments Rocky movies are known for, and an inspiring heartfelt ending long time fans will love.

While "Creed II" might not be as strong of an entry in the series as the the first one, Steven Caple Jr. just doesn't nearly have the directing talent Ryan Coogler has, this is still a worthy and entertaining addition to the Rocky legacy.

One that is very easy to recommend.

"Creed II" is rated PG-13.

Next is "Ralph Breaks the Internet."

Six years after the events of "Wreck-It Ralph," video-game bad guy Ralph (John C. Reilly) and best friend Vanellope von Schweetz (Sarah Silverman) leave the comforts of their arcade in an attempt to save Vanellope's game, Sugar about this movie.

On one hand the filmmakers get so many little details right on the internet.

Cute things like the search engine auto-filling your queries, sometimes annoyingly so, and the realistic jerky movement of online video game avatars, with their constant fidgeting and jumping around.

This movie probably features the best personification of the internet I've ever seen, and anyone who has spent a sizable amount of their daily life online will find a lot to laugh at here.

On the other hand, the storytelling for this film is incredibly weak, much of it retreading my least favorite aspects of the first movie. Noticeably Ralph doing something impulsive and poorly thought out, leading to harm his friendship with Vanellope.

I didn't like it in the original film and sure as heck didn't like seeing it again here. I really wish the writers could have found a different way to add conflict to this film, but tor for his son Viktor (Florian here we are once again putting Ralph and Vanellope at odds.

And this time it's even worse Sure, tonality it is a bit odd. as the film's entire climax wouldn't even happen without Ralph's hasty, and quite frankly moronic, actions.

Right now it seems there's that brings you back to the nothing Disney loves more than to relentlessly poke fun at themselves. I think it started with their 2007 live action fairy-tale "Enchanted," with that movie lightheartedly mocking many of the common tropes Disney is well known for.

could barely catch my breath. Every scene with the princesses was incredibly entertaining. My only complaint is that they weren't in the movie more.

Right now, more than anything, I want Disney to produce an Avengers style teamup movie with all the Disney Princesses. I need a Princess Cinematic Universe.

Please Disney, this is a financial no brainer.

It'd make for the perfect tease at the end of "Frozen 2." It can be just like the postcredits scene in "Iron Man," just replace Nick Fury with say Rapunzel.

I can see it now. Rapunzel sitting in a darkened room telling Elsa and Anna, in the gruffest voice she can muster, about a Princess Initiative.

Don't let me down Disney. Back to the actual movie Their quest takes them to I'm supposed to be reviewing though, while "Ralph Breaks the Internet" is very weak on story, characters, and overall message, there's still a lot of I have some mixed feelings fun moments to be had for both young and old children of the tary? Third this week is "Robin Hood."

After reurning home to England from fighting in the Crusades, Robin of Loxley (Taron Egerton) begins training with Little John (Jamie Foxx), an Arab fighter befriended during battle.

Together, they team up with Marian (Eve Hewson), Robin's former love, in an effort to take down the corrupt Sheriff of Nottingham (Ben Mendelsohn).

I was completely baffled when I first heard about this movie. Is there really that much demand for another Robin Hood movie?

I've said multiple times I'm not opposed to taking old stories and making new movies from them, but after the utter failure that "King Arthur: Legend of the Sword" was last year I figured studios would perhaps smarten up and pump the brakes on future remade classics set in medieval times.

Heck, even the last "Robin Hood" movie, starring Russell Crowe, disappointed financially. It should be a surprise to no one that this latest film to feature the hooded outlaw is also bombing spectacularly at the box office.

I can hardly lay all the blame on the studio though. After all, if the filmmakers behind this movie had actually made a decent film, there's a chance it might not have been such a financial flop.

Sadly though, they didn't. This movie ended up being just plain terrible.

Production wise, this film is a incoherent disaster. It's like they just hit a randomize button on every visual aspect of this movie.

The combat looked like something out of "American Sniper," but with bows. Yes, it's as terrible as it sounds, and naturally most of it was overcut, hard to follow, and had poor scene composition to boot.

the place too, with one of the straight out of "The Great a fantastic performer.

I can't remember the last I was laughing so hard I time I saw a film with production design this disjointed. It was just absurd.

But the look of this film was far from the most ridiculous aspect of this movie. No, that would be the filmmaker's clumsy attempt to make the Sheriff of Nottingham a medieval version of Presidents George W. Bush and Donald Trump.

It was patently absurd.

During a big speech they had the Sheriff on stage saying stuff like "The Arabians hate our freedom," and that the Arabians will overrun England unless the common folk give their support to the Sheriff of course.

I couldn't believe how ridiculous it was. It felt more like a parody than anything.

And his speech about the invading Arabians doesn't even end up amounting to anything. It's just thrown in and never once mentioned again.

What was the point? Did they really think they were being clever with such hamhanded surface level commencould have been a sketch com-However, if you don't have edy skit if this movie didn't take itself so dang seriously.

Beyond that, the characters here are boring, the romance between Robin and Marian is just plain frustrating, and the plot, while probably a bit less dull than last year's "King Arthur," is still completely forgettable.

movie you can see in theaters right now.

Even "The Nutcracker and the Four Realms" has decent production design despite all its other flaws. "Robin Hood" doesn't even have that going for it, nor does it have any other redeeming qualities.

Last this week "Green Book.' When Tony Val-

(Viggo Mortensen), an Italian-American bouncer from the Bronx, is hired to drive Dr. Don Shirley (Mahershala Ali), a world-class African American pianist, on a concert tour from Manhattan to the Deep South, they must rely on "The Green Book" to guide them to the few establishments that were then safe for black people. Confronted with racism, danger-as well as unexpected humanity and humor-they are forced to set aside differences to survive and thrive on the journey of a lifetime.

Now this is a movie I've been looking forward to for a while now. A period piece history. based on a true story, set during the height of racial tensions 1960s, all starring two amazing, well talented actors. What's not to love?

I've been a huge fan of Viggo Mortensen ever since his role as Aragorn in Peter Jackson's "Lord of the Rings" trilogy. I haven't nearly seen all Viggo's movies, but every time I've see him in a film, he's always one of the major highlights.

The same can be said for Mahershala Ali. While his film "Moonlight" definitely wasn't my choice for number one film of 2016, despite being awarded the Oscar for Best Picture, Mahershala was by far my favorite aspect of that movie.

There's a reason he walked The costuming was all over away with an Oscar of his own for Best Supporting Acscenes feeling like something tor in "Moonlight." He's just Honestly, I don't think I could have asked for better casting. And both Viggo and Mahershala absolutely deliver on their roles.

The two of them are simply sensational here.

Viggo basically disappears into his character entirely. As far as I'm concerned, he is Tony Vallelonga. He's just plain perfect. Not only in the way he talks, but the way walks, his posture, how he carries himself.

It'd be an injustice if Viggo didn't at the very least come away with Oscar nomination for his role here. He's that While I don't think Mahershala quite transformed into his role like Viggo did, he's still absolutely excellent here.

I just love watching these two great actors interact with each other. And luckily for me, this movie ends up being almost nothing but the two of them hanging out, sorting out each other's differences during this extremely racially charged era, and just shooting the breeze together. What more can a guy like me ask for?

This movie also gives a lot of insight on not only what it was like to live in the deep south as an African-American, but also what it was like to travel in some of the most racially hostile areas of the United States during the mid-20th

In fact, that's where this movie gets its namesake. Published by a New York

Green Book" was an annual guidebook specifically made for African-American road-

This guidebook's goal was to highlight gas stations, restaurants, hotels, and even private residents who were willing to serve and accommodate black people.

Back then, not only did African Americans face potential embarrassment for being refused service, but they also dealt with threats of violence and even arrests for being in the wrong town when the sun went down.

For many black motorists, that little green book was a saving grace.

This movie paints a very clear picture on how African Americans were treated on the road back in those days.

Even someone like Dr. Shirley, a man who talked with an upper-class diction and was always very well dressed, wasn't allowed to visit many establishments simply because he was black.

There were even times when Shirley wasn't allowed to eat at the very restaurants 1966, "The Negro Motorist he performed at, or even use their restrooms.

And why? To quote a character in this movie, simply because "that's just how things are done."

Ridiculous. Utterly maddening. To think, a little over 50 years ago, not all that much time in the grand scheme of things, these practices were accepted as the norm in many areas of this country. That's just baffling to me.

But despite a constant backdrop of racial tension, this film still ends up being incredibly heartwarming. Through it all, the real star of the show here is the friendship between Tony and Dr. Shirley. It's just a joy to watch their relationship grow and develop as the movie goes on. The final scene is guaranteed to leave you with a your eye, and warm feeling in your heart. This is easily one of my favorite films of the year, and it is certainly a must watch for anyone who enjoys high quality character driven dramas. "Green Book" is rated

Purcell Senior Citizens

By Fredda Perry

Despite snow, rain and gusting winds, we managed to have a beautiful day for Thanksgiving.

It is time to start thinking about Christmas. We have been putting away the pumpkins and bringing out the Christmas decorations. The Senior Citizen Christmas Craft Bazaar has been canceled due to the lack of interest from vendors on that day. Our plan right now is to make next year's bizaar bigger and better.

We have had a few ill with colds and what have you that has been going around. However, we do have two who are seriously recuperating. We are remembering Eulalia who is at Sunset Estates for therapy and Staci who is at Norman Regional Hospital doing therapy after having surgery on both knees.

Our daily number is holding in the 50s. We are so pleased to have some new people who are becoming regulars.

Remember, if you plan to eat with the seniors, it is necessary to call and make a reservation by 8 a.m. that day or the afternoon before. This is a state law and the cooks are being encouraged to follow the rule. If you do not have a reservation you will have to wait until last to eat and there may not be enough food. The cooks need to be able to get a correct count for lunch. Call Evelyn or John at 527-9462 to make a reservation.

The senior garage sale for this week will be Thursday, November 29, and Friday, November 30. It will start at 8 a.m. and last until 3 p.m. Come by and check out the items in the garage sale building. We have had some really nice donations the past three weeks, including Christmas decor.

If you need a place for a special celebration, birthday party, family reunion or any type of class, check out the senior center. Call the center at 527-5070 and ask for Fredda or Hester.

Menu for the week of December 3-7:

Monday—Chili dog on bun with cheese and diced onions, tater tots, carrots, snickerdoodle cookies.

Tuesday—Baked chicken, broccoli and rice casserole, pickled beets, sliced bread, margarine, gelatin with topping.

Wednesday—King Ranch casserole, tossed salad with dressing, sliced bread or dinner roll, margarine, yellow cake with frosting.

Thursday—Ham and beans with sliced onions, spinach, tomato spoon relish, cornbread, margarine, bread pudding with lemon sauce.

Friday—Swiss steak with tomatoes, baked potato, cooked cabbage, hot roll, margarine, rosy pears.

Thought for the Week: Always treat people the way you want to be treated. Talk to people the way you want to be talked to. Respect is earned. Not given.

Cloris Davis

Cloris Davis, 87, passed away peacefully surrounded by family on November 26, 2018 in Perkins, Oklahoma. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. on Friday, November 30, 2018 at the Strode Funeral Home Chapel. Interment will follow at Oak Grove Cemetery.

Cloris was born on January 20, 1931 in Stillwater, Oklahoma, the older of two children and the only daughter of Ruben and Laura (Biberdorf) Trompler. She was raised in Coyle and went to school at Payne Center and Paradise. After graduating from Coyle High school, class of 1950, on October 5, 1950, she married Vernon Davis. They set up home, and before long added two sons, Ronnie (1953) and Jimmy (1957).

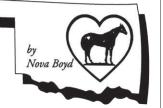

Cloris loved her boys, but also had a great love of animals. The boys have many memories of her bringing in struggling newborn piglets to bottle feed them. Cloris was well known in her community for her beautiful quilting abilities. She would work year around on making lovely quilts and gifting them to her family at Christmas. Her quilts would always award a large sum of money for the yearly 4-H and FFA Auction.

At holidays, her family always gathered around for her homemade noodles, peanut butter fudge and peanut brittle. Out of all the fond memories, she will mostly be remembered for her sweet and gentle spirit. She was a very loved mother, grandmother, sister and aunt; she will be greatly missed.

Cloris was preceded in death by her husband, May 22, 1972. Cloris is survived by two sons, Ron Davis and wife, Sherre, of Purcell, Oklahoma, and Jim Davis and wife, Diana, of Coyle, Okla.; one brother, Jr. (Ruben) Trompler, of Laurie, Mo.; four grandchildren, John Davis and wife, Melissa, of Coyle, Okla., Maegan Tompkins and husband, Rodney, of Newcastle, Okla., Sabrina Legget and husband, Jeff, of Stillwater, Okla., and Abby Sizelove and husband, Blake, of Purcell, Okla.; eight great-grandchildren, Landon, Gage, Landri, Elbryan, Haddy, Truett, Jasper and lvy; a host of nieces, nephews, family and friends.

Condolences may be emailed to the family and an online obituary may be viewed at www.strodefh.com.

Horseman's

2018 All American Quarter Horse Congress Show Completed Results

reported. This will complete the results for the rest of the

All American Quarter Horse Congress has encouraged participation by the future generation of the Quarter Horse industry through a variety of youth activities. Aside from competing on a horse, there are many skills professional horsemen and women must possess. These youth activities help prepare young participants for a bright future, whether it is in or out of the equine industry.

Contests include horse judging, in which all teams in both youth and intercollegiate place four halter classes and eight performance classes, with specific classes designated as 'oral reasons" classes; Horse Bowl, where contestants answer equine-related questions in a "game show" format; Hippology, which covers many of the same topics as Horse Bowl, but asks students to apply their knowledge in a written exam, identify slides, identify different equine-related items from bones to types of grass, judge four horse show classes, this culminating in a single question requiring an impromptu answer or prep and explanations.

The Congress also holds speech and demonstration contests to help develop public speaking skills and selfconfidence.

Our historical capital of Oklahoma's horse industry has been very well represented at this show over the years in the area of demos and lectures, and with judges for the show. And always, we are very well represented by trainers, owners, amateurs and youth from here annually bring the pride home.

Although the Congress is billed as the largest single breed show in the nation, and it draws the best horses and top trainers to showcase the horses they have trained over the past year, it is for some disciplines only a regional show.

To earn a Congress Championship is a hallmark any horse owner and trainer strive for.

Explanation of use tax:

(This is in addition to the sales tax reported monthly.) Every state with a sales tax has a companion tax for outside the state. In Oklahoma, that tax is called "use tax."

Those having purchased items for use in Oklahoma from retailers who do not collect Oklahoma sales tax, the buyer owes the state use tax on those items.

The use tax in the state was first enacted in 1937.

The Lexington girls basketball team is looking forward to a promising season this year. The Lady 'Dawgs opened their season Tuesday night at Lindsay. The 'Dawgs had a nice year as they went 10-14. They had a winning record until the last two weeks of the season, when injuries and illness unfortunately took over. That was last year, though. This year, the 'Dawgs have a new head coach in Derek Clark and the girls are ready to get after it once again. Clark is taking over for Ryan Perry, whom he assisted last season. He previously was an assistant coach at Clinton for three seasons. Clark also has previous coaching experience at Dibble and Chickasha as an assistant coach.

"The girls were really young last year," Clark said. "We started a lot of sophomores but this year we have a lot of them coming back. That is a good sign for us. We have a lot of experience."

Among those returning is Lauren Beason, the top scorer for the 'Dawgs a year ago.

Amanda Graddy, Anna Sample, Ciara Winterton, and Brianna Webster are also a few of Lexington's key returners.

"Lauren Beason will certainly be one of our top players," Clark said. "Amanda Graddy will be back for us this year and that will help us a lot, too. Ciara Winterton and Bri Webster will be back

Patriots oust Washington

Passing game couldn't get off the ground in 34-28 loss

Metro Christian ended Washington's run through the State Class 2A playoffs last Friday night at Tulsa, 34-28.

The Warriors took the opening kickoff and drove 74 yards for the game's opening score.

Metro Christian matched the Warrior drive with a touchdown drive of their own and started blitzing on defense.

"We couldn't get our passing game going enough to keep nine defenders in the box to get out of it." head coach Brad Beller said.

"We were 4-16 passing and admitted. had five drops including one in the end zone that would have given us the opportunity to kick the PAT and take a lead," Beller said.

Trevor Stuever tallied the other touchdown on a 13 yard

The Warriors twice drove inside the Patriot 20 yard line and came up empty both times.

"That was really the difference in the game," Beller

The Warriors ended the season 10-3.

"I can't say enough about our senior class," Beller said. "There is only nine of them but they are an amazing class."

That group won 41 games in their career. They went to three state quarterfinal games, were state finalists once, won three bi-district championships and one district championship.

"They are a great class," Beller said.

The seniors include Joseph David, John Routt, Trestin Miller, Justin McKay, Tyler Beller, Austin Burch, Trevor Stuever, Marc Turbyfill and Nathan Ladlee.

Lexington boys basketball coach J.D. Beck and his team are looking forward to bigger and better things this season.

Lexington opened the season at Lindsay Tuesday evening.

Beck is entering his second season as the head coach for Lexington. The 'Dawgs went just 4-20.

"We won four games last year and it definitely wasn't the record we had hoped for," Beck said.

"It was the first year for me coming in. I threw some stuff at them and I had my own set of expectations set for the kids. I know it was tough on them. But, they persevered."

The 'Dawgs will miss big man Caden Jones on the inside and guard Hunter Findley.

But, Lexington has plenty of returning players to lay its hopes other guys who helped us," Beck said. "One thing I was very proud of was the commitment that the kids gave me. This year, we return a lot of guys with a lot of experience.

"A lot of guys behind (last year's seniors) helped fill those voids when they weren't playing and I think they will do well this season. We have eight or nine kids coming back who got significant playing time last year. through some growing pains a I'mhoping to see them succeed."

Toby Prevost, Seth Comer, Jordan Land, Andre Ibarra, and Hayden Pruitt are five seniors with valuable varsity experience. Jaylen Cottrell, Colton Penner, Colby Bear, and Emmanuel Ocampo will give his team some underclassmen leadership and strong efforts on the court.

Plus, the sophomores are promising, too.

"We have a lot of stuff we need to work on still," Beck said. "When it comes to knowing the system that we run and how to run it, these guys have a good head start on that. I hope we can compete in our last year in the Big "We'll miss Caden Jones and Eight Conference. We're joining the new conference with Purcell and Washington next year which we're calling the Washita Valley Conference.

"We're excited about that venture next year. This year, though, we are hoping to do well in the Big Eight. We have a chance to win the conference with our experience. We should compete with the kids that we have coming back. We've scheduled some good teams this year, too, and that should make us tough toward playoff time."

> With our Foundation only open on Tuesday last week for the holiday, we assisted as many veterans and surviving spouses as possible. We were able to process 175 at our location Tuesday with nine veterans assisted electronically. That number does not include the 20 or so who were turned away after we reached the maximum for the day.

Each month our average Union Hill Baptist Church expenditures is more than Sundays—Age Group Bible $25,000 to help veterans and their families. Our funding for service-connection of a comes from the men and women we help and from the grants we receive from local charitable organizations. The needs of many of the men and women who served in our military continue to grow due to the almost 17-year war in Afghanistan along with the ones in Iraq and other parts of the Middle East spanning the early 90s.

For those of you who would like to help us, we are a 501(C) (3) non-profit where your donations should be tax deductible. We also have our automobile donation program where we accept cars, trucks, tractors, motorcycles and handicap equipment that can be given to veterans and their families

As many of the men and women who have assisted are no longer working and are on a fixed income, it is sometimes a life-changing event when they start receiving from a few hundred dollars to more than $3,000 each month. Some of the men and women we assist are not able to join the workforce and are living on from under $1,000 up to $2,000 per month with most of them

I then ask them if they are married. If their answer is yes, I tell them about the surviving spouses of veterans who visit us each week that need the VA benefits that may have been available to them. These surviving spouses could have been entitled to benefits if the veteran had taken action. If a veteran's serviceconnected disability is listed on their Death Certificate as a primary or contributing condition to their cause of death the spouse will probably receive the DIC benefit which is from $1,200-1,500 per month plus possible Champ VA Medical Insurance. We have found that it is a lot easier to assist a surviving spouse if the veteran had already been approved

One of the things we do each week is to provide transportation for veterans who need to see us or have appointments at the VA hospital. Currently, we have two full time and one part-time driver who are averaging 1,500 miles each week. Last week they spent 61 hours transporting 17 veterans. I would like to add another fulltime driver to take some of the load off our current volunteers. If you are interested in joining our program, please visit with Lora Malone any Tuesday or Thursday morning.

I would also encourage others to join our team of volunteers who are helping to change the lives of veterans and their families. Our mission will never be complete until every veteran in Oklahoma has passed through our doors. We have assisted veterans from all 77 counties in this state along with veterans from more than 47 other states and four countries. We are assisting an average of more than 300 veterans and surviving spouses each week.

Front-Porch Gospel: Can we know we are saved?

Good day to all. Welcome to the "front porch."

Our voyage through the word of God has taken us all the way to the first epistle of John. It is a difficult task to survey the major lessons in a book of this magnitude in a couple of sermons, but we made that attempt this past Sunday. In that study, we considered this key question: Can we know we are saved?

That question was our Lord's Day morning focus. At the 3 tables and looked at the other side: Can we know we are not saved?

The morning audience and news" while reserving the handled (1:1). negative for the afternoon. We understand, though, that we cannot choose the sections of scriptures we like the best and glaze over the rest. Yes, we do love the good news, such as when John writes near the end of his letter, "These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God" (1 John 5:13).

much as he does in the gospel

the late first-century that they can know they have eternal life through their faith in the name of Jesus Christ. His emphasis on their believing is in stark contrast to many of the religious bodies that were invading the church of their day, most of denied the deity of Jesus.

Just in case even one Christian has begun to buy into the heresy being spread in the churches of Asia, and beyond, John states over and over that p.m. service, we turned the our faith is in Jesus Christ. Jesus is the one who will give you full assurance of eternal life, John says, He Who is the Logos, the "Word of Life" He whom we I shared more of the "good have heard, seen, beheld, and

There in the first verse of the book, John demolishes many of the heresies of these religious groups. Some of that day claimed that Jesus did not come actually in the flesh. John disputes that, saying that they had seen Him, and they had handled Him (Luke 24:39).

Some claimed that He is not Deity. Again, John disputes that notion, calling Jesus "that eternal life, which was with the Father" (1:2). "With" in that John states the thesis of his statement literally means "face letter there at the latter end, to face." Jesus is the eternal One who has gazed in the face of of John, over in John 20:31. the Father eternally. No, says John is writing, as evidenced in John, let's not hear anymore that thesis statement of 1 John about Jesus neither being part 5:13, to assure the Christians in of humanity nor part of the Godhead, of Deity.

Very expertly, the apostle, with one profound thought after another, takes down many of the modern-day heresies. He does not mention them by name. Instead, he declares a truth and lets that truth comb the them akin to the Gnostics who river-bottom of error and clean up any debris polluting the churches of Christ in that day.

> In doing so, John, in part, answers the question, "Can we know we are NOT saved?" This we know: If a man promotes a false doctrine, then that man is not saved. That man is lost and even may be categorized as an antichrist (2:18-19 / 4:1-6).

John includes other answers to the question, including participating in continual sin (3:8), sinning a sin "unto death" (5:16-17), hating our brother (3:15), and, by implication, failing to come in contact with the blood of Jesus (1:7).

But how can we know we are saved?

John explores that question in depth in his epistle, and I invite you all to spend a little time exploring it over the next week in your personal studies. Lord willing, we will explore the question more fully with you on our next visit together.

Thanks for reading. God

Samuel warned them that having a king was not a good idea. This king would eventually take away everything that was valuable, and he would treat the people as slaves. An earthly king is always nervous about others trying to oppose him or take his power.

But the people insisted. And so, Saul first and then David were anointed as the first kings of Israel. At first, it seemed like a good thing. But it would not be a long time before the people regretted that they had an earthly king. King David became like all other earthly Jesus looked upon people of Israel wanted to be a sinner with compassion. Jesus washed the feet of his disciples to show them that service was the mark of both a true king and disciple. Jesus preached that we must turn the other cheek when our enemy slaps us. And Jesus practiced what he preached.

People obeyed Jesus not out of fear but because he told them the truth. He told them the truth about their own lives. He told them the truth about God his Heavenly Father. He spoke of generosity and forgiveness. He spoke about love and sacrifice in a way that resonated deep within the hearts of his followers. About him they would say "this man is speaking the truth."

another in the way that God has first loved us. Some people are difficult to love. When we are together with family and extended family at holidays, we know that some people are difficult to love.

But to acknowledge Jesus as King is to acknowledge him as King – not as a king of fear or intimidation or power, but as a King of Truth, a King of Love. When we receive Holy Communion, we are receiving this King of Love into our hearts. Let us pray that he may transform us into persons of deeper truth and of greater love.

The Wednesday evening auditorium class concluded a study of First Corinthians 14 with the Apostle Paul's final exhortations to the church in Corinth and a closing greeting from churches in the province of Asia. This week the class will begin studying the 17th chapter.

The Sunday morning adult class looked at the trials of Jesus before the high priest and Pilate just before His crucifixion as recorded in Matthew 27, Mark 15, Luke 22 and 23 and John 18.

During the Sunday morning assembly Keith Shackleford examined the word "boldness" and various synonyms such as open, blunt, plain and confident translated from the same Greek word in the New Testament as it applied to the apostles' and evangelists' preaching which is recorded in the New Testament.

The Sunday evening sermon was a review of recent Sunday morning Bible class lessons where Jesus met with resistance to His teaching against the sinful practices of the people He taught, with emphasis on the envy they practiced.

As Christians we are fighting daily to save men, women and children from the fires of hell. Jude would liked to have talked about the wonders of salvation, but he chose to talk about the evil doers of the world and the call for Christians to remain true to the Gospel and to exhibit a proper attitude toward others.

In dealing with sinners we must be merciful to the ignorant, snatch them from the fires of hell and have mercy on the corrupted people of the world.

Fanny J. Cosby in one of her hymns encouraged us to "care for the dying, snatch them in pity from sin and the grave, weep o'er the erring one, lift up the fallen and tell them of Jesus the mighty to save."
