 The Purcell RegisterThe beginning of a college career can be a daunting task for many young people. Taking difficult classes, studying long hours, meeting new people (and making new friends) are just a few of the obstacles freshmen face when making the transition from high school to the big campus. For James Cox the tran sition from Purcell High School to the University of Oklahoma in Norman has been rather smooth. He's found a way to blend in with the bustling masses but in a most conspicuous manner. As a member of one of college football's most iconic and recognizable symbols of school pirit, Cox has found his niche on the sidelines of historic Owen Field during Sooner football games. Cox is a proud freshman member of the Oklahoma RUF/NEKS.

Bryan and Sherry Landers are hoping the visitors to their place make a big splash
Well, a lot of big splashes, actually.
The Landers and their 15 -yearold daughter, Faith, are hosting the inaugural Oklahoma Thunderbolt Classic Wild Card dock dog competition Friday through Sunday behind their home west of Purcell.
The competition-ready4-footdeep pool is filled with 28,000 gallons of clear, filtered water. The construction includes a regulation dock at one end. Landers said he and his wife were hooked on dock dogs the first time they saw an event. They took the plunge into the sport about three years ago, making regular trips south of Fort Worth to practice because there was no facility in Oklahoma.
They began competing at events in Kansas, Texas and Missouri.
Oklahoma was a void on the dock dogs' map.

Tired of the long drives to Texas for practice, they decided to build their own facility.
They opened it to the public on Memorial Day weekend, relyingon social media to spread the word.

News from Capitol hill

No freedom for terrorists

Abstract

Congressman Tom Cole Even before he was elected President, Barack Obama had advocated the closure of Guan tanamo Bay Detention Camp. Guantanamo is a U.S. Military Prison which incarcerates terrorists who have either plotted terrorism against the United States, or actually carried it out. To be clear, the inmates of Guantanamo are not men who committed crimes in America, they are men who have commit ted acts of war againstAmerica They are not entitled to the Constitutional protections that every other American enjoy because they are not citizens of America, they are enemie of America. Some of the illustrious "residents" of Guantanamo include Khalid Shaikh Mohammad who is considered to be the architect of the September 11 th attacks. Ahmed Umar Abdullah al Hikimi was a body guard for Osama bin Laden. The list could go on and on. Suffice it to say, these are not men who should ever see the other side of the Guantanamo security fence Yet President Obama would like to treatthese men as though accused of a crim citizen is given the right crime they are given the right to an attorney and if they cannot afford an attorney "one will be appointed to you before any questioning if you wish." Foreign nationals who commitacts of terror againstAmerican citizens have no right to the protections that our Constitution provides to our citizens. Rights that American patriots have fought and died for. President Obama is hell-bent on closing down Guantanamo and relocating the terrorists who are currently held there beore his term in office expires Some he would return to their home countries - countries like Iran, Syria, Afghanistan and Saudi Arabia. This despite the fact that the Obama Administration itself believes at least 12 prisoners of Guantanamo who have been released from Guantanamo have returned to terrorist activities against the U.S. or our allied forces. Others he would relocate the Uniter Stison facilities

hey were common criminals,

 entitled to their day in court When an Am ary in court. I have tremendous faith in theoutstanding professionals who versee our Federal Bureau of Prisons.
Anyone who finds themselves behind the bars of a United States "Super Max" is highly unlikely to ever see the other side of those bars. But I also am deeply concerned about the communities in which these ederal facilities are located.
By relocating the most dangerous terrorists in the world into American communities, President Obama would put a bullseye on them and their itizens.
Last week the House of Representatives passed legislation that would bar President Obama from releasing any more prisoners from Guantanamo Bay
Unfortunately, this measure is not likely to be passed by the Senate and it has no chance of being signed into law by this president.
Americans can only hope that our next Commander-inChief shows more concern for citizens than for the rights of hose who wish to destroy us.

Two revenue streams

Congratulations to the community of Purcell for overwhelmingly supporting Purcell Municipal Hospital in passing the sales tax a few weeks ago. This health care financial support will benefit citizens of Purcell as well as all of McClain County. It may also spur additional economic development in Purcell and McClain County in general.
The "no" voters for the sales tax increase for Purcell Municipal Hospital probably do support health care services and he hospital, but simply do no support using sales tax for it. They most likely know that our do-nothing legislature has let us down once again, and failed to balance the state budget. They know that if our legislature had been forward thinking and stopped big government spending - on the 612 state agencies, boards, and commis sions ... then this sales tax vote could have been avoided. The state budget catastroph could have been avoided, and our state services such as health care (hospitals, county health departments, senior citizens' centers), roads and bridges, public schools, and corrections could have been appropriately unded
It's not too late to force the government to stop spending and balance the state budget for the future though. Elect only those state lawmakers who know how to add, subtract, multiply, and divide, and care about the citizens of our communities. Do not elect big spenders and those who only care about themselves. I will give you information on how to tell the difference before the November 8 election.
My advocacy for our local public schools, students and teachers sometimes upsets those that would like to see the demise of our public education systems, so I often become the target of corporate "dark money" groups. Dark money groups such as the Washington D.C. based American Federation of Children and Catalyst Oklahoma have poured more than $$ 100,000$ into Oklahoma those that advocate for our ublic schools.
In my case, this anti-public school effort hasn't worked since I continue to shine a light in the "dark" by exposing these anti-public school groups for what they're all about.
Aseveryone probably knows, a one cent sales tax increase for a teacher pay raise is on the datto be voted on November David Oklahoma Governor supportsoren initiated and while Governor Mary Fallin opposes the proposal.
Both have very good reasons for their respective positions, as Mary Fallin says a sales tax increase will hurt our local businesses, which is true. She also ays that a sales tax increase will affect our poorest Oklahomans more than our wealthier citizens (it's regressive), which is also true, so it should not be used to fund teacher pay raises. In addition, municipalities have the sales tax as the sole

David Boren says that the Republican led governor's office and state legislature have had eight years to provide a teacher pay raise and just won't do it. Some of the last few years were economically very good (oil $100 a barrel etc.) but the legislature even pay increases - thus the sales tax proposal.

In my opinion, both Fallin and Boren are correct in their assumptions, so who's faul it really that we re using a bad idea" to fund teacher pay raises? Again, in my opinion plus 50 cents will buy you a cup of coffee) the responsibility for this very bad idea falls directly on our state legislature. Governor Fallin encouraged the legislators during last session to pass a teacher pay raise bill to her office that she would sign into law, but they just could not do it. First of all, none of them had any idea how to balance the state budget and provide teachers a pay rais most of them are lawyers who know how to spend public tax dollars, but not how to save tax dollars).
As an example, our legisla ture allowed the Attorney General's office (a state agency) to increase spending from $20 million in 2008 to $$ 40$ million in 2015, a 100 percent increase. Mary Fallin and David Boren are understandably angry with our big-spending legislature for getting us into this economic mess, and I am too. Most Republican legislators and candidates are publically opposed to the one-cent sales tax for teacher pay raises, but secretly hoping it passes - so the pressure will be off them. Jim Beckham might have ended before it began. After prayers by Raymond Cooper and Dick Bland incited a near riot in the Methodist church fellowship hall, voice quickly dulled to whispers as Juliet Stoughton took her place behind the podiummoment to regain conieted, Stoughton took a herself.

The Good Folks of Lennox Valley

For a while it seemed as if the mayoral debate

"Hello. My name is Juliet Stoughton," she began. "I know most of you don't know me, and you are probably wondering what I am doing on this stage with the other candidates for mayor." "We sure are!" shouted Marvin Walsh to the delight of his fellow Cooper supporters. Cackles were heard in the VFW section as control by reminding the audience the timer would restart at 60 seconds due to the interruption. That silenced the crowd. No one likes being chastised by a famous celebrity.
Juliet continued. "I'm here," pausing to catch her breath, "because I remember all the wonderful stories I was told about this place."
You could have heard a pin drop as the audience

Explanation of use tax

(This is in addition to the sales tax reported monthly.) Every state with a sales tax has a companion tax for outside the state. In Oklahoma, that tax is called "use tax."
Those having purchased items for use in Oklahoma from retailers who do not collect Oklahoma sales tax, the buyer owes the state use tax on those items.
The use tax in the state was first enacted in 1937

Choosing the optimal size cow

Wes Lee
Extension Ag Educator
The debate over profitability and cow size has been discussed for decades. Now, a research study in Wyoming shows that maller cows can produce more beef per acre and potentially more income.
The research report shows that 1,000 -pound cows on the working ranch in Wyoming are weaning more pounds of beef than any other weight group of cows up to 1,400 pounds.
This is because the smaller cows can be run at a higher produce more total pounds of produce more total pounds of beef per acre and for the whole operation

A 1,400-pound cow will require 1.4 times the nutrients of a 1,000-pound cow. Keep in mind most research on stocking rates and feeding requirements are made on one animal unit which is a 1,000 -pound cow and calf. If your animals are larger then you need to be stocking less and feeding more than most charts indicate.
Researchers divided the herd into five weight classes and then treated each class as a whole ranch for comparison. The study was done from 2011 to 2014 which included a drought year in 2012 and a wet year in 2014.
When using the pounds weaned for the different scenarios with an average price for all four years the gross sales value can be calculated for the big and small cow operations. The big cow operation had a four-year average of $$ 139,024$. The small cow operation had a four-year average of $$ 173,753$. Management of the cow herds did not change for the different cow sizes.
So this suggests that there is potential for greater profi using smaller cows.
If you look back over history cow size has changed dramatically over time. In the past decade we have seen average cow size creep up to where it is not uncommon to see whole herds of 1,400 pound cows with exceptions reaching as high as ,800 pounds.

Going into Tuesday's dou ble header with McLoud coach Sarah Jones' Dragons were sitting pretty in the number two spot in the fourteam district race.
A new format this season puts a premium on regular season district contests with only the top four teams in each district advancing to Regionals.
Jones said if the Drag ons hold onto the second slot they would travel to Chickasha for Regional October 5-7.
Purcell and McLoud, coached by former Purcell Dragon J.D. Widner, were to play two varsity games since one of the district encounters earlier in the year was cancelled.
Last Thursday's district match up with Newcastle was rained out and moved to next Monday.

Abstract

Sunday was a peacefulLord's Day at Johnson Road. There was a little sadness about the loss to Ohio State and much joy with the big win for the Oklahoma State Cowboys The pizza and swim party last Sunday afternoon was a big success Ann Gilman was recognized for having celebrated another birthday. This will be a busy week for Ann and her husband, Clyde. They will help their grandson and his family in their move to a new home in Muskogee. The children provided special music. Herb Weidman and the pastor also sang "Victory in Jesus." Scripture text for the morning sermon was taken from John 10:24-25 and John 21:25. The congregation was reminded that Jesus is God and proved his deity by the miracles he performed. Monday, Aug. 6, 1945, was another day for the young 19-year-old infantry soldier stationed in the Philippines. C.D.had come a long way since being drafted as a farm boy in southwestern Oklahoma into the U.S.Army. What the young soldier witnessed at 8:16 a.m., apanese time, has never faded in his memory. The large orange glow in he northeastern sky was the explosion of the atom bomb dropped from a B-29 bomber over the Japanese city of Hirover the Japanese city of Hiroshima. About the vivid scene the old veteran soldier said last Thursday,"I never want to see that again." The awful event ended war and brought victory. The awful death of Jesus, the miracle man, defeated sin and brought victory for mankind. The four Gospels, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, record 37 miracles Jesus performed during his three-year ministry in this world. note when fashioned together produced the world's greatest symphony of peace and good

Sunday evening scripture study was a discussion of the 4th chapter of the Gospel According to John. The topic for the evening discussion was the Early on in a role model. Early on in his ministry,Jesus told a group of young men to follow him. For some three years Jesus set the example for his followers. Because Chris his followers. Because Chrisians exemplify the life of their Master Jesus, they should never be ashamed or hesitant to ask thers to follow their example. Being a good role model is not an option for a Christian. t is an imperative. Our current Bible study during Wednesday's prayer service the Book of First John. "front porch" time. It's amazing to me how different parts of the scriptures cross paths, sometimes hundreds of pages apart. I noticed this in particular in studying the Old Testament and seeing the same themes in the New. A few weeks ago we studied with brethren in Little Rock regarding the church at Corinth beginning with its inception in the eighteenth chapter of Acts. As you study a little of the history of Corinth, moving into those two ominous letters the apostle has to write, we recognize the severe and numerous problems that visited the church soon after its origin. One writer used a header to discuss the Corinthian church that read, "Elitist Snobbery in the Church.'
Our first thought is, "How can this be? Elitism? Snobbery? In the church?" It really is baf fling. Yet if we pause just for

By Fr. Jim Chamberlain

In the parable of the Dishonest Steward (Luke 16:1-13), Jesus gives us a puzzling story. It seems as though he is encouraging us o be dishonest! But let's look a little more closely at the story. The parable begins with a rich man firing his steward (manager) for squandering his property. The steward realizes that working with money is all that he knows how to do - "I am not strong enough to dig and I am ashamed to beg." So he devises a scheme by which he will have friends who may hire him when his term is up. He calls in his master's debtors, one by one, and gives them a smaller bill to pay, and receives payment on the pot. These were collections that were not being made before. Perhaps the steward was adding on his own commission, or additional interest. But now he is able to collect at least the principal that is owed. In the end, every party benefits. The Master gets back what he is owed, each debtor pays a smaller sum, and the steward has friends to call upon when he needs a job. This clever scheme is "the way the world works."

Jesus calls it "prudence," a virtue that someone like Benjamin Franklin would espouse. We might also call it "compromise." For isn't this what the steward is doing? He meets all the debtors half-way so that a collection can be made, is reached.
Compromise is so important in much of life-in marriage, in political life, at work, in almost every relationship. There will often be a need to meet someone halfway in order that both may benefit a least a little bit.

mine. Sammy's life was altered by that life-changing event, yet he continues to be a Marine at heart, with that "can do" attitude
We would also like to recog As Walter Shaw from Alex WWII, he wanted to serve this country. He could not join the regular Army, so he signed up with the Merchant Marines to serve until he was old enough for the Army. When he turned 17, he switched to the Army where he served in the European theater during the wa and was part of the forces until 1946.

or rent, food items, utility payments, medical testing and host of other unmet needs. To provide these services, we count on the men and women we have helped, to pay it forward to help the next person The number of veterans and The nuiving spouses requesting assistance from us requesting assistance from us continues to be more than the onations we receive fro people we have helped. Personally, I would like to currently, wen each month Currently, we are spendin $$ 10,000$ more each month than is being donated to us.I believe if just 25 percent of the people we help could pay it forward with a $$ 50$ or $$ 100$ monthly donation, we would be able to nd sur nd surving spouses who are n need in our area ne-year move closer to our Pointe B anniversary at Faith ointe Baptist Church, we are than to have assisted more than 10,000 veterans and surviving spouses. Our volunteer don't have to ask if they made a difference in a veteran's life because they see it every Tues day and Thursday morning when 200 people are waiting their turn to see one of them. believe our move to the church was one of the most positive hings we have ever done Where else can anyone go for help with their VA paperwork and have a chance to have thei spiritual paperwork taken car of at the same time?
On each and every visit veterans should bring all of heir DD-214's (discharge papers), all VA rating letters, and all VA forms that have bee filed. A couple of things are sometimes needed to file for VA benefits are D214 discharge papers, bank account informa ion (voided check), marriag information, social security information, and all VA rating decisions.

Points:

- number $44 \mathrm{~S}^{\dagger}$ - in the pure stock class.
What that means, Scott said is the car "isn't modified a lot as far as the engine goes" compared to other classes of race cars.
The points championship came at the end of his third season at the track
In his first season at Okla homa Sports Park, Scott drove just five races.
Scott said he drives two races a night. The heat race runs eight laps, while the feature race covers 20 laps.
Points are awarded for order of finish in each race.
In his successful bid for the championship, Scott drove all but one race this year.
With the help of his wife Misty, Scott does all of the mechanic work on: 44 S :

I want to keep racing in my class a couple more years," he said,"and see about moving up to a faster class
"I will end up building a dif ferent car.
