Tougher reading test means more students could be held back

Jennifer Palmer
Oklahoma Watch

Oklahoma is raising the bar on its pivotal, high-stakes reading test administered to third graders, which is likely to leave more students at risk of repeating the third grade.

Twelve percent of third graders, those who scored “unsatisfactory” – the lowest level – did not meet criteria for automatic promotion in 2016.

Beginning in 2017-18, students will have to score “proficient” in reading to receive automatic promotion to fourth grade — a level above what is required now. Twenty-eight percent of third grade students, or about 14,900, did not score proficient on the English/language arts exam, a portion of which determines their reading score.

A disproportionate number of low-income, black and Hispanic students have scored poorly on the test each year since 2014 and were subject to retention.

“We know the bar has been raised, and families will begin to appreciate even more strongly the need to be reading earlier,” said state Superintendent of Public Instruction Joy Hofmeister.

Results from 2017, which were tested under new, more rigorous English/language arts standards, and from 2018, in which the higher proficiency level will apply, are likely to identify more students in need of reading support, she said.

offering

The entertainment and education Science Museum Oklahoma brings to its events during the Summer Reading Program in hometown libraries isn’t just limited to children or teens.

There also is a chance for adults ages 18 and up to take in an activity just for them. The Purcell Public Library presents the SMO program “Escaping the Carroll House,” at 6 p.m. Monday, June 26, at the library, 919 N. Ninth St.

The program is based off the idea of the escape rooms that are challenging people and growing in popularity. They will be a puzzling escape challenge to test the abilities of the group while the clock counts down to zero.

Best of all, unlike the escape rooms that are popping up around Oklahoma, this activity is offered free of charge.

Space for the program is limited to 10, so registration in advance is required.

Sponsors for this year’s Summer Reading Program are the Anne and Henry Zarrow Foundation, Friends of the Library groups, Hitachi Computer Products of America Inc., the Institute of Museum and Library Services, Oklahoma Arts Council, Oklahoma College Savings Plan, Pioneer Library System, Pioneer Library System Foundation, SONIC, the Oklahoma Department of Libraries and The Oklahoman Newspapers in Education.

When flat isn’t

Superintendent Midkiff fears more cuts coming

Jeanne Grimes
The Purcell Register

How many ways are there to define flat?

Oklahoma’s legislators claim they passed a flat budget for common education.

Purcell Public Schools Superintendent Jason Midkiff begs to differ.

“Last year’s flat budget was at minimum a 5 percent cut in revenue to the district,” Midkiff told school board members Monday evening. “Once again I feel the legislature has padded ‘estimates’ and don’t see the revenue coming in that they predict. They have been over $2.2 billion wrong the last two years on their estimates.

“I don’t put a lot of weight in the flat budget. I don’t see next year any different than this year.”

Midkiff is bracing for another budget shortfall next year due to the legislators’ reliance on one-time money to fund ongoing needs in the budget.

There is one glimmer of hope for Purcell – at least temporarily.

“Fiscal year 2017 is not closed yet, but we are estimating a carry forward of a little over 12 percent,” Midkiff said, calling that a “minor miracle.”

“The beginning of the year estimates were in the 10 percent range, so coupled with the fact our carryover dropped over $200,000 the previous year and we lost over $370,000 in revenue during the year, I feel really good about where we will end the year financially.”

During the three months since the majority of LED lights were installed across the district, electric bills have dropped an average of $4,500 per month.

However, he warned the board members the district is at most one to two years away from drastic staff cuts if state revenues don’t rebound.

The board did what they could to save some money, voting to change insurance carriers for an annual savings of $10,108.

The annual premium from Oklahoma Schools Risk Management Trust will be $96,920.

The present carrier, Oklahoma Schools Insurance Group, bid $107,028.

In other business, the board hired Alan Ogles as a teacher and assistant coach.

Ogles’ coaching assignment will be announced later.

Happy Father's Day

Even though my father passed away in 2008 he is still remembered and very much a part of our family.

He was the very first John Denny. Now there is a fourth.

He was a model father who never missed a little league game. He even coached, although he really didn't like baseball at all. He never missed a high school wrestling match, cheerleading competition, music recital or whatever my sister and I were participating in.

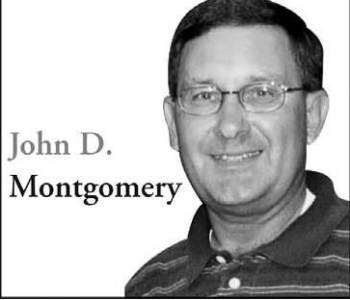

He made sure we knew the Lord and made certain that on Sundays we were ensconced in our family pew at church.

He showed what it means to have a stable marriage and how that affects the entire family unit.

He volunteered in the community and served on the church board.

He also served on state boards in different capacities in Oklahoma.

He set the standard that I've tried to adhere to and now John Denny III is following in the same path.

Someday, I'm sure Matt will utilize the same guidelines should he and Caitlin have children.

It's a legacy that has been handed down from generation to generation on both sides of our family, which is a tradition we are all proud of.

So on Father's Day this Sunday thank your Dad for the example he set for you.

Thank him for all he does for you, your mother and your siblings.

And to you current fathers, whether you have young children, grown children or grandchildren make sure they see in you what it takes to be a good parent, grandparent and mentor.

You never know who's watching or who might carry on your legacy in generations yet to come.

Being a father is a full-time job and one for which there is no orientation.

It's all on-the-job training and you hope you make most of the correct decisions.

A Happy Father's Day to all of you!

NEWS FROM CAPITOL HILL

After Paris Climate Agreement, America will continue to lead

Congressman Tom Cole

President Trump has come under fire recently because of his decision to withdraw the United States from the Paris Climate Agreement. I believe he was right to do so. The agreement would have damaged the U.S. economy, eliminated millions of jobs, and drastically increased the cost of energy for American consumers.

It also would have required the United States to shoulder the costs in a manner far disproportionate to the amount of greenhouse gasses we produce. Perhaps most importantly, the Paris Agreement was a treaty that should have been subjected to Senate ratification, yet former President Obama simply signed the agreement.

More than likely because he knew that it could never pass the Senate, which the Republican Party controlled at the time.

In 1992, President George H.W. Bush entered the United States into a treaty with the United Nations called the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC). He did so only after seeking the support of two-thirds of the U.S. Senate, as is required by the U.S. Constitution.

In 1998, President Bill Clinton signed the precursor to the Paris Agreement, the Kyoto Protocol, but failed to get Senate approval. In both of these cases, the process worked exactly as the founders intended. Both presidents adhered to the Constitutional precedence to truly serve the best interests of the American people through their elected representatives.

Paris, on the other hand, was negotiated by President Obama in a way that was clearly in the best interest of China, India, and Europe. His agreement forced the United States to make sharper reductions in our greenhouse emissions than our European allies, it committed the United States to picking up far more than our fair share of the expenses associated with compliance, and it allowed China and India to actually increase their emissions until 2030.

It's no wonder President Obama neglected to submit this detrimental agreement to the United States Senate. It would have been soundly rejected. Ask any of the critics of Trump's decision to withdraw from Paris if they would like to see the agreement Obama negotiated submitted to the Senate for ratification. They wouldn't because they also know it would never pass.

To be clear, I believe the United States should take steps to curb our greenhouse gas emissions. While there is robust debate over the degree that these emissions contribute to climate change, as well as the impact reducing them would have on slowing or reversing such change, there is no debate about the fact that these emissions are damaging to the environment and to human health.

America is, and should continue to be, the undisputed leader when it comes to innovative advances in technology to help keep our planet healthy. Harnessing clean and renewable energy is something the United States will continue to take the lead on. We were doing it before Paris, and we will continue to do so as we move into the future.

Meeting my father

I sat on the chair fidgeting with the fishing poles while the stranger hooked up the trolling motor to the battery.

It was awkward.

I was nervous because it was my first time going fishing. And even more nervous because it was the first time being alone with this stranger, who was my biological father.

My parents weren't married when I was born, and after my mother died I was adopted by her brother and his family. It wasn't until I was 18, when I graduated high school and moved to Oklahoma, that I started the journey of meeting my biological paternal family.

This new adventure was something that I did not know how to face.

How do you relate to 15 people who share your blood but not your past? How does one jump into being a part of a family when they were missing for so long?

All my life I had questions about the mystery man who was my father.

I wanted to know why he didn't marry my mother, why he let me go, if he knew where I was or even cared.

I didn't know what he looked like until I was 13, when I saw a picture of him and my mother together.

By spending my days with him on the Blackfork River, I finally received the long-awaited answers to my questions.

Fishing helped me integrate back into the family. For some, fishing may be a hobby that is a splendid way to waste time, but to me, fishing has become a passion, a way for me to connect with each individual member of my family.

I have been able to fish with past generations, like my great Uncle Hank and coming generations, like my younger cousin, Blayne.

Over four years, I have learned where all the good fishing holes are. I have learned where crawdads can be found. I have learned how to set up trot lines and limb lines.

But most importantly, I have learned about my biological father.

Although I have missed 18 years' worth of memories, I know every time I step onto the barge with my pole in hand, I get to create my own memories with my long-lost family.

The hardest session ever?

Dear Editor,

I'm so glad to see our area lawmakers, specifically Tim Downing (R) Purcell, Bobby Cleveland (R) Slaughterville and Senator Paul Scott (R) Duncan, have adequately recovered from their self described "hardest session ever" to inform us about their incredible work on our behalf.

I simply don't know how to adequately thank these three politicians for their remarkable performances during the just completed and apparently grueling four month, three day a week legislative confab in faraway Oklahoma City. Just the drive itself up Interstate 35 must have be exhausting.

In their columns last week to The Purcell Register all three were most proud of herculean efforts to close another huge budget gap that threatened to further shred core state services such as educating children, providing health care to the sick, maintaining our eight year road program and of course protecting all of us from lawbreakers near and far. Wow a tough job indeed so just how did our fiscal wizards accomplish such an incredible task over a very short period of time?

Good question. Here's how.

Turns out it was pretty simple. They passed a budget beginning in two weeks that is nothing more than a phony, unlawful and soon to collapse house of cards. Why? It is riddled with unconstitutional funding mechanisms already under assault from those affected and thus is guaranteed to be struck down by the Oklahoma Supreme Court...probably unanimously.

Saddest of all is the fact that our well paid solons knew, or should have known, that their fiscally foolish slight of hand was and is illegal.

Therefore within a few months they will either be back in an expensive special session or, by law, across the board cuts will be imposed upon the very core services legislators claim to have protected. Either way we lose and they win...again.

I'm no legal beagle, not even a lawyer as is Rep. Downing, but I did serve 28 sessions in the Oklahoma Legislature during recessions, and even a depression, so if they think this last session was the "hardest ever" it just underscores how little they do know.

Therefore, since it is not an election year, let me suggest a little political fun this summer. I challenge any, or all three of these fellas, to debate me anytime during July on Main Street in Purcell off the back of my 2000 Sonoma pickup truck. I'll stick to the issues that should matter most to our folks - things like education, health care, transportation, public safety and how to pay for them - or not.

So Bob or Tim or Paul, or all, how about an answer to my offer in your next report to the people in The Purcell Register? You pick the time and date. I've named the place. Maybe few citizens will come to watch the show but hopefully your busy schedule will allow you to go.

If so I'll pay for your gasoline since we have the lowest fuel tax in the country...and as a consequence some of the worst roads.

Drive carefully and I hope to see you in July.

Sincerely,
Cal Hobson

Letting the government do it

Fifth District Rep. Steve Russell on Saturday told members of the Oklahoma Press Association that privatizing air traffic control was a dumb idea. We couldn't agree more.

As Russell said, there are plenty of ways to reduce the role of government by eliminating the things government does poorly. Air traffic control isn't one of those, and when the government is good at something - national defense, food safety, and space exploration come to mind - the best idea is to let the government do it.

The president has cited Canada's privatization through Nav Canada, which has been successful by any measure. But as Russell pointed out, Canada's vast land mass is populated by fewer souls than California claims and only slightly more than Texas. The United States is home to eight of the world's 10 busiest airports. Canada has just one in the top 30; Toronto Pearson International Airport comes in at No. 16.

"After billions and billions of tax dollars spent and the many years of delays we're still stuck with an ancient, broken, antiquated, horrible system that doesn't work," Trump said.

MOVIES WITH DAVE

By David Stull

It seems change isn't coming to the Moore Warren as drastically as I feared.

Not only did they reduce the amount of trailers before movies back down to three from the six they played last week, but they also brought back the voice of the theater, a disembodied voice who makes announcements before features at the Warren.

I'm not sure if the reversion is permanent, but it gives me hope that the transition from Warren to Regal won't be as bad as I worried it would be.

Anyway, here's what I saw this week.

Secure in their house located in the middle of the woods, Paul (Joel Edgerton) and his family take every precaution to avoid catching the deadly contagion.

But when a desperate young family happens upon Paul and his family, tensions rise and the consequences will test the limits of their humanity.

This movie was not what I expected at all.

With a title like "It Comes At Night," I was expecting more of a traditional horror film. Maybe a movie with a monster that only comes out at night or something cheesy like that.

I couldn't have been any-more wrong.

Far from typical scary movie, this film is more tense, psychological thriller than straight horror.

I'm not sure what I think about it to be honest.

It certainly has an interesting concept. Instead of showing the effect of a catastrophic plague on a global scale like 2011s "Contagion," this movie is just about how it affects this one family.

Unlike some films, "It Comes At Night" doesn't care to explain how or why the disease started. I suppose in the end that makes it all the more mysterious and terrifying.

It adds to the overwhelming sense of unease throughout the whole film.

Also to its credit, this movie is very well acted.

I'm not terribly familiar with any of the cast members, but they all had really good performances with very believable dialog to boot.

Some of the scenes between the characters were incredibly tense, especially towards the end.

But with all that said I still have a hard time recommending this movie.

Even though it's a very well made film, it's not one that will appeal to most people.

For most horror fans it'll be too slow and boring since it has very few traditional scares. For everyone else it'll just be too darn unpleasant to sit through.

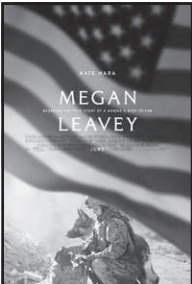

From a critic's perspective I did like this movie and I'm glad I saw it, but I didn't really enjoy the experience if that makes sense.

I know there's a very niche audience that love psychological, slow moving horror films like this. If that's you, great, you'll love this one too.

For most people though, you'll probably have a better time spent elsewhere.

"It Comes At Night" is rated R.

Next I saw "Megan Leavey." Based on a true story, this film follows Megan Leavey ing the beginning of the Iraq war.

Trying to find her place, she ends up paired with a bomb sniffing dog named Rex. Unknown to her at the time, the two of them will end up forming a bond together that will last a lifetime.

This is one of those movies that I feel bad for not loving.

Don't get me wrong, it's not bad, but I definitely had some issues with it.

To give credit where it's due, I thought Kate Mara was great in this role. She really nailed the emotional parts of her character and I thought she made for a pretty convincing Marine.

The movie is probably at it's best when Megan and Rex get deployed to Iraq. That section of the movie is really tense and Mara has some great moments with her character there.

Now on to what I didn't like.

I know it's going to sound unfair, and maybe it is, but my biggest problem with the movie was with Rex. I just didn't buy the dog's performance at all.

When I was watching the film, I couldn't figure out why the emotional scenes weren't working for me, but it was all because of the dog.

For example, there's a few scenes where you see Megan and Rex being reunited after not seeing each other for a long time.

I've seen videos of dogs being reunited with their owners after being away from them for months or years. The sheer joy you see from the dogs is just overwhelming.

There is none of that in this movie.

The dog couldn't care less about Mara or what she was doing in this film. Sure he can run to her on command and let her pet him, but you can tell there was no emotional connection from the dog based on how he acted. The whole thing completely took me out of the movie.

Another thing that bothered me was the wasted character arc between Megan and her mother.

Throughout the movie the two of them constantly butt heads whenever they're around each other, both of them never seeming to see eye to eye. But instead of having a scene where they try to hash out their issues and maybe growing as people, they just show Megan's mother suddenly happy for her at the end, despite the two of them having a huge fight in their previous scene together. What a waste.

I also really didn't like the camera work in this film. To this day I don't understand why a filmmaker feels the need to shake the camera constantly.

Sure I understand doing it during an intense and chaotic action scene, but there is zero reason to shake the camera while two people are just sitting down talking to each other. It's one of my biggest pet peeves in movies.

Overall though, I don't think the issues I have with this film will bother most people.

Despite the problems I had with it, it certainly ended on a high note and I doubt there were many dry eyes in the audience. I just wish the previous emotional scenes had hit as hard.

If you liked the trailer, I'm guessing you'll enjoy the movie too. For me though, it just missed the mark.

"Megan Leavey" is rated PG-13.

Last this week I saw "The Mummy."

Hoping to start a cinematic universe of their own, dubbed "Dark Universe," Universal has kicked it off with a reboot the classic Mummy franchise.

Tom Cruise plays an intrepid treasure hunter or grave robber depending on who you ask. Unaware of the gravity of his latest find, he unearths the tomb of Ahmanet (Sofia Boutella), an ancient Egyptian princess and unleashes an evil the world hasn't known in millennia.

I'm going to be upfront. This is not a good movie. Not at all.

For all the bad though, there is still some fun to be had with it.

I can't help but like Cruise here. There's a reason he's been a top billed actor for the last 20 plus years.

He's always charismatic and fun to watch. Say what you will about the man's personal life, but the guy can act.

Unfortunately, he's given absolutely nothing good to work with in this movie.

The dialog is laughably awful. Though on the plus side it makes for some great unintentionally funny moments.

If there was an award for dumbest screenwriting this movie would be a strong contender.

The movie starts with a straight 10 minute dump of information right off the bat. Why leave anything to mystery when you can just have Russell Crowe narrate and explain away every little detail I guess? At least the plot wasn't hard to follow I suppose.

Honestly though, out of everyone I think I ended up enjoying Crowe's character the most. Sure, he's mostly there to explain everything, but I'm just a sucker for the infamous character he portrays. I don't think I'd mind getting more of this cinematic universe, if only to see him in this role again.

I also kind of liked Sofia Boutella as the ancient Egyptian princess. She certainly looked the part I'll give her that.

Speaking of Ahmanet, this is a movie about an undead mummy, so it's not surprising that there are some horror elements to the film along with the action and adventure. It fails spectacularly at those as well though.

Sure, it had a few jump scares. They may have even been a little scary if the filmmakers weren't blatantly obvious with them and practically knocking you over the head when they were about to happen.

The funniest part for me though has to be with the undead people Ahmanet has fighting for her. I was cracking up every time they showed up. Just watching them do their funky little undead walk was hilarious.

I'm not sure if they were supposed to be scary or creepy, but I couldn't help but laugh whenever they were on the screen.

Like I said this is hardly a good film, but for those who enjoy movies that are so bad they end up being funny, this one will be right up your alley.

I doubt that's the reaction Universal was hoping for with the start of their new cinematic universe though.

"The Mummy" is rated PG-13.

The Good Folks of Lennox Valley

Maxine Miller was more than a little concerned. For the past 20 years she had gotten her best material for "Rumor Has It" from Jessie Taylor, waitress at the Hoffbrau. Jessie overheard the conversations of just about everyone in town as she refilled coffees and served blue plate specials. Between Jessie's insights and A.J. Fryerson's complaints, Maxine always seemed to have enough material for her weekly column.

Those who didn't know Jessie very well might have been surprised by her thoughtful insights. More than once, Maxine picked up on something Jessie said and wrote it as her own.

In 1992, she penned words still taped to refrigerator doors throughout The Valley. "Sometimes you find yourself in the middle of nowhere, and sometimes in the middle of nowhere, you find yourself."

By late October, something had changed. Maxine assumed Jessie was upset by Miller's betrayal of Iris Long, editor of the Hometown News. Now, when Maxine pried for information, Jessie either pretended not to notice or answered, "I wouldn't know."

Richard Armour, humorist, is remembered for his 1949 quote, "Hindsight is 20-20." Maxine was starting to think Armour was on to something. She was beginning to wonder if jumping ship to write for Raymond Cooper's paper had been a good idea after all.

Sources for material were drying up. It seemed Iris had a lot of friends in The Valley. To make matters worse, after only two issues, The Valley Patriot seemed to be losing steam. The Tuesday publication needed help immediately.

While not poor by any means, Raymond Cooper couldn't keep producing a paper with almost no paid advertising. If he wanted the folks of Lennox Valley to read his paper, he would eventually have to write about something besides Iris Long, A.J. Fryerson and himself.

With no photographer, no writers, no designers and no editors, other than himself, The Patriot already looked like what it was – a worthless rag created to stroke the ego of Raymond Cooper and punish his longtime

The president's plan would transfer about 30,000 employees to a new government-sanctioned corporation. Commercial airlines are the plan's biggest proponents, arguing that a private entity would be better able to acquire and implement new technology, thus improving safety and reducing congestion. That claim is based on the idea that the new entity would enjoy more reliable funding through a system of user fees rather than the whims of Congress at budget time. The FAA is mostly funded by airline ticket and fuel taxes.

Opponents contend the idea heavily favors those commercial airlines at the expense of general

The table of contents now took up the full bottom-right quarter of the page. Local news consisted of an A.J. Fryerson update, a brief story about the new barber in town and an interview with Earl Goodman concerning the upcoming postal increase, from 32 cents to 33 cents, for a first-class stamp. The only photo on the front page was of Goodman holding a blank postcard with the caption, "Postcard rates are still a bargain!"

Pages 4 and 5 were filled with an ad for Farley Puckett's Hardware Store. It was the only paid ad in the issue, costing Farley all of $35. Page 8 was a full page ad for Cooper's radio show.

Maxine's column was already showing signs of decline. Her juiciest tidbit involved Frank Bell. "It seems our new barber found a place on the second row at the Methodist Church this week," she began. "Could it be his eyesight is failing from staring so closely at hair all week, or could something else, or someone, be the motivation for his proximity to the pulpit?"

Yes, Maxine was worried as she sat in her booth at the 'Brau on Wednesday morning, waiting for the latest issue of Hometown News to arrive. She wondered if it was too late to ask Iris for her old job back, assuming Long would ever forgive her.

Not wanting to seem too anxious, Maxine waited a few minutes after a stack of newspapers landed on the counter. Opening her copy, her face turned flush as she saw the headline on page 2:

University of Oklahoma's School of Dance announces SummerWind Youth Ballet event

SummerWind Youth Ballet is a two-week dance intensive sponsored and staffed by the University of Oklahoma School of Dance (SOD). The training program will conclude with a performance by SummerWind participants Saturday, June 24, 2017, at 1 p.m. in historic Holmberg Hall located in the Donald W. Reynolds Performing Arts Center.

Admission to the concert is open to the public free of charge.

The performance will include demonstrations of dance techniques and repertoire students learned during the SummerWind intensive experience, and will also feature select SOD college ballet majors performing excerpts of original works by Mary Margaret Holt and Ilya Kozadayevev.

Thirty dance students ranging in age from 11 to 17 were selected to participate in SummerWind Youth Ballet through a national audition process. Attendees have come from across Oklahoma as well as Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska, and Texas. Curriculum includes a variety of dance classes and seminars taught by SOD faculty and guest artists.

This comprehensive ballet program is aimed at educating the complete young dancer in techniques of ballet, pointe and variations, modern dance, jazz, and character dance, as well as instruction in yoga and Pilates. SummerWind participants also enhance their general dance knowledge by studying the topics of dance history, injury prevention, dancer nutrition, dance composition, music, belly dance, body science and stage makeup.

Rebecca Herrin, SOD faculty member who coordinates SummerWind Youth Ballet observed, "Watching these young dancers from throughout the region is very rewarding, as all develop their understanding of ballet technique and artistry during the SummerWind program.

"The final performance is open to the public and students are always very excited to share what they have learned. We hope their experience is positive and that all will return to home studios with fresh knowledge and experiences to share with other dancers," she concluded

SummerWind Youth Ballet faculty includes Dean of the Weitzenhoffer Family College of Fine Arts, Mary Margaret Holt (ballet), Carol Anglin (jazz), Aboubacar Camara (music), Dr. Richard Carlson (injury prevention), Donna Hamilton (Pilates).

And Rebecca Herrin (ballet), Darli Iakovleva (ballet), Anton Iakovlev (character dance), Pamela Kozadayev (ballet), Kerri Lambert (ballet and yoga), Tye Love (character), Roxanne Lyst (dance composition and modern dance), Barbara Marangon (ballet), Kelleigh Whaley (dancer nutrition).

Also Kathleen Redwine (modern dance and belly dance), Kelsey Schwenker (ballet and stage makeup), Jane Vorburger (ballet), Carla Winters (body science) and Sarah Worden (ballet).

In addition, the SummerWind staff includes chaperones Kelsey Schwenker, Brittany Bonafas and Darli Iakovleva, as well as musical accompanists Xiangyu Bing and Allison Naifeh.

The University of Oklahoma's program in dance was founded in 1963 by Yvonne Chouteau and Miguel Terekhov, former principal dancers with Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. What had been a department became the School of Dance in 1998, with Mary Margaret Holt as Director.

Undergraduate and graduate dance majors, along with general education students, total approximately 1000 enrollees in dance classes per semester.

The School of Dance's state-of-the-art facility in the Donald W. Reynolds Performing Arts Center was completed in 2005.

Tough:

before third grade to be reading at grade level or above,” Hofmeister said.

While research shows early reading skills are critical to academic success, there are also studies that point to the ill effects of retention. A 2014 study by a Notre Dame sociologist found that students retained in elementary school were less likely to graduate from high school, even when compared to siblings in the same family.

Oklahoma is one of 24 states and Washington, D.C., that require or recommend that third-grade students pass a reading test to be promoted to fourth grade, which is when students transition from “learning to read” to “reading to learn,” according to research.

Students’ scores have ticked upward since 2014, when 16.3 percent did not pass the exam.

Oklahoma’s Reading Sufficiency Act allows students who didn’t pass the reading portion of the English/language arts exam who didn’t pass to receive a probationary promotion if recommended by a team of parents, teachers and a reading specialist. English language learners and special education students can also receive exemptions. Data from the state Department of Education shows most students who fail the test advance to fourth grade with an exemption: Of the 6,476 students who scored unsatisfactory, 1,674, or 26 percent, were actually retained.

Parental inclusion in the teams that evaluate students for retention were originally set to sunset this year, but legislation introduced by Rep. Katie Henke, R-Tulsa, and signed into law made parents’ involvement in the groups permanent. The move was celebrated by education advocates.

The higher level of reading skills required in 2017-18 were originally supposed to start in 2016-17, but were delayed a year at Hofmeister’s request. She said she was concerned about raising the proficiency level the same year that the more rigorous academic standards were implemented. Oklahoma’s standards in reading were revised in 2016-17 for all grade levels.

Rep. Dennis Casey, R-Morrison, a former school superintendent who in 2015 carried a bill to extend the retention committees, said he believes involving parents and teachers is a critical part of the process, especially with the higher proficiency level going into effect.

“People are not black and white. There’s a lot of gray,” he said. “You have to let people evaluate each individual situation and determine what’s best for the child.”

Educators are sometimes critical of the pass-fail nature of the reading test, saying it puts too much pressure on young students. But there is widespread support for measures to identify students at risk of retention beginning in kindergarten and provide additional supports to improve their reading skills before third grade.

The added support requires more money, educators say, but that funding is declining.

School districts received $77 per at-risk student in fiscal year 2016, but that dropped to $56 in 2017. The amount dedicated to the program for fiscal 2018, which begins July 1, has not yet been determined.

Hofmeister said the funding for reading support is jeopardized by a thinning of state dollars as well as a possible reduction of federal money for education. (While the state Education Department was essentially held flat for next fiscal year, the student population keeps growing.)

Rick Cobb, superintendent of Mid-Del Schools, said that especially in large districts, the amount of time and effort that goes into complying is substantial, and committee members often meet in the summer.

“It’s a year-round monitoring process for us,” he said. “In a large district, it takes a lot of time and effort. Added staff. Constant testing ... tutoring time. It all costs money.”

Students have already been placed in grade levels for next year and staffing decisions were made accordingly. Yet school districts won’t find out the results of the third-grade reading test until at least July because along with the new standards came new tests. That is adding uncertainty to next school year, Cobb said.

The pass-fail test portion of the reading act went into effect in 2014. Lawmakers, particularly former educators, fought to soften the hard hammer of retention with the addition of the parent-teacher groups. The groups were added in a temporary basis in 2014 after an override of Gov. Mary Fallin’s veto but were set to dissolve at the close of the 2017-18 school year.

Honored:

Network Oklahoma Grassroots Manager Paula Warlick said. “Oklahoma is proud to call him one of our own.”

ACSCAN volunteer and cancer survivor Carrie Mayes of Purcell presented the award to Rep. Cole in Washington, D.C. Nearly 20 years ago, Mayes was diagnosed with melanoma of the retina.

She traveled to Philadelphia for a revolutionary laser treatment that allowed her to keep her eye.

When the cancer returned in 2008, a radiation plaque was surgically attached to her eye for five days and removed. She is cancer-free and has her eye thanks to cancer research and innovation.

Mayes, along with 18 fellow ACS CAN volunteers and other cancer patients, survivors, caregivers, physicians and researchers, attended the 18th annual OVAC lobby day to ask their legislators to fund cancer research at the National Cancer Institute (NCI) and the NIH. Together, they urged Congress to:

- Support a $36.2 billion budget for NIH in FY18, including funding provided from the 21st Century Cures Act;
- Support $6 billion for NCI; and
- Support $514 million for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention cancer programs.

An overwhelming 90 percent of voters favor federal funding for medical research and 75 percent want Congress to significantly increase NIH funding, per new research commissioned by OVAC. Cancer is expected to kill nearly 600,000 people in America this year – more than 1,600 today. It has also been projected that 2.1 million people in the United States will be diagnosed in 2030.

This year in Oklahoma, it is estimated that 18,710 people will be diagnosed with cancer and 8,200 will die from the disease. Federal funding for medical research and cancer prevention programs has had a role in every major advance against this disease.

Lexington Community News
By Hazel Shockey

All is going well at the center. Meals are good, and the visiting is great. If you are new in our community, come on down to the Lexington Community Center on Wednesday and Thursday for a good home cooked meal and make new friends or visit with old ones. If you have news for this column, we will be glad to include it. The exercise program is still available. The present schedule for exercise is 9 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and for the early risers and professional people, you can get in at 6 a.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Friday mornings. Plans are underway to have the building open for evening people at a later date. You can call Sue Peery at (405) 830-8507 if you have questions about any of the exercise schedules. If you are interested in playing table games, cards and dominoes, just ask someone at the center and they will let you know when. There is some interest in playing dominoes, so if you have friends interested you can make it happen. We would like to see more participation in the game time and a schedule of events will be made available. Lunch is served from 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday for a $6 donation. To-go orders are $7. The lunch is open to the public and home cooked and served by the volunteers at Lexington Community Center, 131 S. Main. All menus are subject to change. Menu for June 15, 21 and 22: Thursday, June 15—Hamburger steak with onions, gravy, mashed potatoes, cabbage, corn, rolls, salad bar, carrot cake. Wednesday, June 21—Barbeque, potato salad, baked beans, coleslaw, beets, Texas toast, lemon or millionaire pies. Purcell Senior Citizens
By Fredda Perry

The senior center has started turning red, white and blue. Seniors have started preparing for July 4. However, before they celebrate July 4, the seniors took time on June 14 to honor our veterans on Flag Day. There are already flags in every flower pot and anywhere a flag would stand up. With Flag Day over, the seniors will be making plans to celebrate July 4. Due to the center being closed on July 4, the seniors will actually celebrate on Monday, July 3. Hope everyone will come out and help the seniors celebrate. Don't forget the City of Purcell will be celebrating with fireworks at the lake on Saturday, July 1. Come out and join in all these activities. The senior's next garage sale will be Friday, June 16, starting at 8 a.m. and lasting until 3 p.m. There have been several large donations in the past few weeks. There are new items most every week. Come by and check out all of the items. Thursday is bingo day every week. Bingo starts promptly at 10 a.m. Everyone needs to be in their chair at 10 a.m. so the games can begin on time. Everyone is a winner before we are finished. We have been having a full house each week. Thursday morning is an exciting time at the center as we usually have new people. The walking program is still going strong. There are several members who are walking on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at 10:30 a.m. The program is based on your abilities and if you use a cane or a walker, it will be geared so you can use your assistance. We invite everyone to come and join us. The seniors will also be celebrating Father's Day on Friday, June 16. We would not want to forget that celebration. It seems that Mother's Day is always remembered but fathers are sometimes passed over. If you know someone who needs help with their noon meal at home, call the Delta Nutrition Center at 527-9462 and ask for Rebecca. Calls have been coming in for reservations for the senior building for family reunions. If you are looking for a place to have something special, the center is available for $70 a day. If you're interested call 527-5070. Call early so you can get the date you want. Saturday, June 17, is the only date in June available. There are two Saturday dates available at this time. Check us out if you need a large room for a party or reunion. The seniors invite anyone 60 or above to visit the center where there is always something cooking and plenty of activities. Lunch is $2 for all seniors. If you are sitting at home bored and lonesome, come to the senior center and meet some new friends. We guarantee there will be something going on that you can enjoy. You will not be bored or lonesome for very long. Thought for the Week: "Winners are not people who never fail, but people who never quit."

the NFL Foundation. Superintendent Jason Midkiff announced the 3-year award at Monday’s school board meeting. The district asked for $48,100 and will receive $36,000. The award will pay $20,000 the first year, $11,000 in year two and $5,000 in the final year. Midkiff and Tim Arnold worked together on the grant application. The grant will enable Purcell Schools to “expand the care we give our student athletes and also help and students who might be interested in going into the (athletic trainer) field,” the superintendent explained. The pilot program targeted just four states – Oklahoma, Arizona, Illinois and Oregon. The grant program is administered by the Korey Stringer Institute at the University of Connecticut, which will research the program’s impact and impact of athletic trainers on the health outcomes of student athletes. The institute is named for a former Minnesota Viking professional football player who died from exertional heatstroke in 2001.

Chickasaw Nation announces candidates for general election

Chickasaw Nation Election Secretary Rita Loder announced today the candidates seeking four legislative seats and one judicial seat within the Chickasaw Nation. The filing period closed at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 7, 2017. Incumbent Supreme Court Justice Cheri L. Bellefeuille-Gordon of Sulphur was unchallenged and will retain Seat 3 on the court. Pontotoc District Seat 4 will be filled by Karen Goodnight of Goldsby, as she was unchallenged for the seat. J. Lisa Impson of Ada and

“The massive responsibility of keeping many hundreds of athletes safe at a particular high school should never be the responsibility of a sport coach or the athletic director, they have no training to properly handle this task,” said Douglas Casa, chief executive officer of KSI. “We are very proud to partner with this grant program that has a primary goal of increasing the number of schools serviced by an athletic trainer and to enhance the amount of medical care for those that already have some.” In its application, Purcell Public Schools reported high school enrollment of 320. Of that number, 150 students – or 46.9 percent – participate in sports. There are 10 sports offered at the high school. Co-sponsors with the NFL Foundation and KSI are Gatorade, the National Athletic Trainers’ Association and Professional Football Athletic Trainers Society. Expenditures from the initial $20,000 will include an ice machine, $5,000; automated external defibrillators, $3,500; ellipticals, $2,000; upper extremity bike and treadmills, $1,500 each; electrical stimulation, treatment tables (football), and hydrocollator, $1,000 each; equipment/supply bags, $750; baps board, $650; locking cabinets (football), $600; and foam rollers, TheraBands and airex pad, $500 each. In the second year, the grant allocation is ice machine (baseball, softball, track complex), $5,000; AED machines, $3,500; water bottles/stands/jugs, $1,000; crutches/splints/braces, $900; and locking cabinets (basketball), $600. The totals for year three are AED (baseball/softball complex), $2,900; training tables (basketball/baseball-softball complex), $1,500; and locking cabinets (baseball-softball complex), $600. According to KSI, an athletic trainer is a licensed medical professional who has specific expertise in preventing, recognizing, treating and rehabilitating athletic injuries. However, nearly two-thirds of high schools across the country lack a full-time athletic trainer and almost 30 percent of high schools do not have any athletic trainer at all.

Kymberly Hazlett of Purcell filed for Pontotoc District Seat 3. Pickens District Seat 2 incumbent legislator Connie Barker of Marietta will face challenger Michael Thomas Watson of Ardmore. Incumbent legislator Steven Woods of Davis will retain Tishomingo District Seat 3 as no challengers filed for the position. Voter registration closes July 5. Registered Chickasaw voters will vote by mail ballots, with ballots being mailed to registered Chickasaw voters

July 6, 2017. Ballots must be returned to the Chickasaw Nation Election Commission no later than 10:30 a.m. July 25, 2017. No hand delivered ballots will be accepted. The Chickasaw Nation Election Commission shall conduct and supervise the ballot counting beginning at 11 a.m. July 25, 2017, at the Chickasaw Community Center in Ada. Results of the elections shall be announced the same day. For more information, contact Ms. Loder at (580) 310-6475.

Homicide:

authorities think is the victim of the crime. McClain County Sheriff Don Hewett has confirmed the remains of a white male was due to foul play. Hewett’s staff and the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation confirmed the badly decomposed body, that was found in woods just west of Lilac Road, was due to a homicide with a gunshot to the head. “The body was so badly decomposed we will have to wait until the state medical examiner confirms the identity,” Hewett said. Hewett said Allen, 56, of the rural area of Dibble has been missing and sought by members of his family since last Thursday. Hewett said his office had already been investigating Lowe since she reportedly stole Allen’s vehicle last week. There was also an altercation between the two, Hewett said. Allen resided at 21217 Lilac Road, the mobile home where Hewett believes the homicide occurred. “They then took the body about 100 yards to the west in the woods and left it under a tree,” the sheriff said. The body was discovered by family members. Lowe and Thacker were taken into custody in south Oklahoma City Monday night. Hewett said the male suspect had methamphetamine on his person. “We don’t have a motive, yet, but are working on that,” Hewett confirmed.

Don Goelz

A Celebration of Life Service for Don Goelz, 76, of Purcell was held Wednesday, June 7, 2017 at the Wilson-Little Funeral Home Chapel in Purcell. Interment was June 8, 2017 at the Somerford Cemetery in Sargent, Neb. Services were under the arrangement of Wilson-Little Funeral Home in Purcell.

Mr. Goelz passed away Friday, June 2, 2017.

Goelz, it's easy. The "O" is silent, as in Gelz. And if you want, change the "Z" to "S", Gels. There, that's all cleared up, now read the rest of the boring stuff, or cut to the comics as usual.

It is with little sadness, I am finally able to announce my final journey is complete. I am now in the arms of my Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. I will once more walk with my beloved wife, Mary Lou (Dowse) Goelz, who made this very journey on January 21, 1992.

I was born to Don and Vera Goelz on September 16, 1940 in Belmond, Iowa, cold country. Living the first thirteen years on God's green earth in Des Moines, Iowa. We moved to Denver, Colo., in 1954. I got in and out of trouble at Smiley Jr. and East High, graduating in the lower 10% of my class of 1958. Freshman year of college was most pleasantly spent at Colorado State University. They asked me to skip the remainder of my higher education. They had some rule about 1.2 GPA's or something. They never made it real clear, but honoring their request, I traveled with a small construction company for eleven years. I loved traveling the country I had the privilege to live in. Those years were like a paid vacation.

I moved to Lawton, Okla., in 1960, and then to Nebraska in 1970. After two winters there, I promised God if he let live through the winter I was trying to survive at the moment, I would go back to being a proud Okie. He would never again be bothered by another of my whiny prayers concerning freezing my booty off. I moved to Purcell in 1981, then moved my family up here in 1983. My small town dream came true that June day we unloaded our possessions at our new home. Since that day, we never considered moving again. Purcell would be our home for the remainder of the time left to us.

The little sadness I spoke of, is leaving my first born, Christy L. Goelz, who lives in Fort Worth, Texas. I will miss the chances to be with her, the talks we shared and the joy she gave me all of her life. Watching her compete in sports was what dreams are made of. She earned two degrees from OU, and later a Masters in Psychology while she lived in Texas.

The birth of my son Craig C. Goelz closed our family circle, making it complete. The first three years of his life he would have nothing to do with me. His grandmother said I was ignoring him, and I of course had to agree, that was easier than a howling kid to deal with. When he turned fourteen, my life went to hell, and it wasn't until he moved out after graduating high school, that I had a sound night's sleep. When he asked about moving home three or so months later, I said no. I had my computer in his room and he had nowhere to sleep. From that time on, we became friends again and is my best friend today. His wife, Christine, is also my friend, I am proud to say. Their daughter, Savanna, and son, Colton, have treated me more like a friend than their far more advanced superior. Watching both of my grandchildren compete in various sports and participate in things like band and award ceremonies, has been a special privilege for me. These are the reasons for hanging on. But they no longer need my wisdom as they grow up, seemed less like wisdom, and more like the Three Stooges. They just need now to struggle on their own.

There are so many nieces and nephews, sister-in-law, I wish I could say "Aloha" to each. I wish every friend that made me laugh could have told me just one more joke. Could have made fun of me again, as we laughed together. I thank all who walked through my life and affected it, and helped me to see the joy they came with. I can assure any hurt I caused was accidental, but let me say now I am sorry to each, it was unintentional. I hope the only memories of me, are the joy you readily gave me, the fun of shared laughter and finally, the love of family. Bye y'all!

Tracie Lee Harryman

Funeral services for Tracie Lee Harryman, 46, of Lexington were held Tuesday, June 13, 2017 at the Wilson-Little Funeral Home Chapel. Interment was at Lexington Cemetery under the arrangement of Wilson-Little Funeral Home in Purcell.

Ms. Harryman passed away Saturday, June 10, 2017 after a two year battle with cancer.

She was born October 24, 1970 in Purcell, Oklahoma. She was the second child of two children born to Ron Harryman and Mickey (Donathan) Harryman.

Tracie grew up in Lexington and attended 12 years of schooling at the Canadian Valley Co-Op for Special Ed students. For the past 24 years, Tracie lived and worked at ABLE in Norman.

Tracie loved listening to music, spending time in the outdoors swinging on her yard swing, and attending church with her family.

Merle Marie Glover

Merle Marie Glover of Lexington, Oklahoma was called home to the Lord on June 4, 2017. Merle was born on the Osage Lands at Pawhuska, Oklahoma on July 25, 1935 to William and Nellie (Bumble) Brasier. She spent several years with her family near the Concho Sand and Gravel Facility where her father was the superintendent. The facility supplied materials for WPA road building and crop fertilization during the Great Depression. When demand was finished there, they moved to a new plant near Homestead, Okla. The only available housing was a group of boxcars that had been remodeled into living quarters for the workers. The growing Brasier family had the use of two box cars but the only water had to be hauled from near Okeene and installed in a large cistern.

The family was later able to purchase a farm near Cane Hill, Arkansas and Merle rode the school bus to attend her first few years at the Cane Hill school. After living in the western Oklahoma sand, she was so happy to walk in a shady lane to attend Sunday School at the old Fly Creek school building, stopping to play in the creek after church.

World War II caused the need for able-bodied men to work in the mines at Pitcher, Okla., while young men went off to war, so the family moved back to Oklahoma on Quapaw Lands near Lincolnville. The kids enjoyed many excursions with picnics and exploration along the nearby Spring River. Merle's father and brothers had joined the call to the mines until her older brother was drafted. Her brother had bought a garage and had three children by that time. Merle's father left the mines to take over the garage when his son was drafted.

Merle's mother had thought the farm would be an ideal place to live as some of the girls were in high school by then. When the children, left behind by Merle's brother, needed more food than was available during rationing, the decision was made to move them and their mother to the farm also. The garage was sold and William and Nellie rented a farm in the same general area of the property the family still owned in Akansas. In a beautiful valley called "Greasy Valley" the family raised broiler chickens, tomatoes for the canning factory, and all the farm produce they needed. Plenty of water was available with a spring house nearby and hard-working little Merle carried small buckets of water to the house.

Merle was always in on the fun of teasing with the family and seemed to find joy in almost everything. She was an obedient little worker helping with chickens, farm chores, and carrying wood into the house. One of her favorite chores was feeding the new chickens that the hens hatched. However, her favorite chicken, Roanie, was pecked on because it had many red feathers. Merle decided to make a little sun suit for it with her newly acquired Home-EC skills. The family teased her unmercifully. She loved to walk the four miles to New Hope Church where she and her sisters sang together.

Her father had to seek a job in Oklahoma City when the income was not sufficient from their farm endeavors. Her mother had developed a blood disorder, so needing closer medical care, they left the farm and moved the family back to Oklahoma. Merle finished Webster Junior High and during her teenage years found many things to do in the big city with her sisters. Taking a city bus to Spring Lake and Lincoln Park were great outings to go with friends. She worked as a car hop at the Triple AAA drive-in on NE 13th and Broadway where she met the love of her life, John Glover.

She graduated from Central High and went to work as a long distance phone operator. Merle and John were married in the Walnut Grove Baptist Church where her family had attended for many years. They spent their married life in the greater Oklahoma City area, where their son Michael was born, and eventually bought a home in Moore, Oklahoma.

Merle took many business courses to improve her advancement opportunities for the company where she worked after the phone company went automatic. Merle was very intelligent and became a successful businesswoman. She faithfully studied instruction manuals for her next day presentations and then relaxed with a Gothic romance book after her jobs as mom, wife, and housekeeper were over for the day. She learned to do intricate bead work with tiny beads and it is believed that she embroidered the dress Miss Indian Oklahoma wore to be presented at the White House.

Merle spent her last few years in Georgia with a niece or in Arizona with sisters. After her health and memory started going downhill, she wanted to return to Oklahoma where she became a resident of Lexington Nursing Home.

Merle's husband, John; son, Michael, and granddaughter Venus preceded her in death. Her mom, dad, brothers Glen and Gale Brasier, sisters Mona Belt, Myrna Carpentier and Wilma Richards, had also passed away prior to Merle's departure from this earth.

She is survived by grandson, Stanley Loughmiller; granddaughter, Charesa Glover; grandson-in-law, Eric O'Dell; great-grandchildren, Jordan, Trevyan, and McKayla O'Dell and two surviving sisters, Alma Ann Luder and Wanda Sanford in Arizona.

No public services to be held. Cremation by John Ireland Funeral Home.

Rex E. Floyd

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday, June 15, 2017 at the First Baptist Church of Norman for Rex E. Floyd, a longtime Oklahoma businessman, entrepreneur, civic leader and most importantly, loving family man who passed away Friday, June 9, 2017 in Norman, Okla.

Floyd, 81, was the founder of Floyd's Recreational Vehicles in Goldsby. He began selling campers in 1969 in Pauls Valley, then from a small rented lot on North Porter across from Norman Regional Hospital. The company soon outgrew that space and built on Interstate 35 in Goldsby, Okla., where it remains today.

Floyd was active in the national RV industry and was named to the Hall of Fame of Recreational Vehicle Dealers. He was also active in the state's tourism industry. He served 12 years on the RVDA National Board including three as an officer during the downturn of the early 80s. He was awarded the "Jim Summers Award" by the RVDA and RV dealers throughout the United States for contributing the most to the RV industry. Floyd was the first active dealer to receive the recognition.

Floyd was commonly referred to as a pioneer in the RV industry. He was a leader in the early days of organizing a national market expansion program which became today's Go RVing effort. During his tenure as president of Central RVDA, the chapter received the National Chapter of the Year Award. He served the national association as director, vice president, president and chairman. He has also been on several committees such as the legislative, educational and insurance trust. Additional positions included chairman of the Recreation Vehicle Assistance Corp, the board of RVDA Education Foundation and MEP Committee to help other dealers with strong consumer care programs.

Floyd was specially recognized for his effort as co-coordinator of Central OK RV dealers to raise thousands of dollars for underprivileged children in cooperation with the Christmas Connection and Channel 9.

Before following his passion of camping and RV travel he worked for 13 years as an engineer on the Apollo, Titan and Gemini rockets and in the early planning of the NASA Space Shuttle program. As a teenager, he worked with his father and brothers on a broom corn cutter crew where they were raised on Wild Horse Creek in Garvin County. He was president of his 4-H Club and graduated from Wayne High School in 1954.

The Floyd family was the first family honored as a Distinguished Family in 2008 by East Central University in Ada. Rex attended ECU, Central State University in Edmond and the University of Oklahoma. Rex's parents, his brothers and over 50 family members graduated from East Central University.

Floyd was a longtime supporter of Feed the Children, Christmas Connection, the Habitat House, Katrina Relief, Matamoros Children's Home in Mexico and many local and national charitable causes. He enjoyed hunting, jeep riding in Colorado, horse riding, snow skiing, beekeeper, photography, and farming. He served on multiple committees and was a deacon of the First Baptist Church. His biggest joy and number one priority was being married to the love of his life, Helen and spending time with his children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. His giving heart and love for the Lord were the inspiration for his life.

He was born June 4, 1936 in Bakersfield, Mo., to Webster Clay Floyd and Hettie Rose (Dale) Floyd.

He is survived by his wife of 58 years, Helen (Jones) Floyd, of Norman; daughters Debbie Spearing of Norman, and Carol Behrens and Doug of San Antonio, Texas; three sons, Michael Floyd of Colorado, Kenneth Floyd and Valerie of Yukon and Robert Floyd and Tina of Newcastle; a sister, Carolyn Walker and Wayne of Hot Springs, Ark.; two brothers, Glenn Floyd and Judy of Norman and Dr. Koy Floyd and Kay of Norman; a sister-in-law, Juanita Ratliff of Norman; 15 grandchildren: Jeremy Spearing, Allen Spearing and Krystle, Stormi Wester and Jeremy, Nathan Behrens, Rachel Behrens, Trent Stout, Cale Stout, Ashlee Floyd, Bryce Floyd, Jeffrey Shaw, Madison Floyd, Megan Floyd and Allyson Shaw; six great-grandchildren: Emma, Kolbie, Hetti Rose (Bean), Boone, Noah and Lucas.

Whitten:

prisons with revolving doors. Whitten, with more than a quarter century experience in corrections – both for the state and a private prison – is the new deputy warden at Lexington Assessment & Reception Center.

It has been up through the ranks for Whitten since 1990 when he became a correctional officer at James Crabtree Correctional Center in Helena. He stayed at that facility until 2004 when the DOC transferred him to Oklahoma City to work as a private prison contract monitor. Whitten stayed in that job until 2006 when he was transferred again to serve as deputy warden at the Oklahoma State Reformatory at Granite. He kept that post until 2011. That’s when he accepted a job offer from GEO at the private prison company’s facility at Lawton. In 2015, he returned to DOC. From day one, Whitten loved working corrections – calling it a “career that provides a valuable service to the public.” “That sense of service is something corrections folks enjoy,” he explained. “And it’s a chance to help others and be a positive role model.” At LARC, he shares a similar background with warden Jeorld Braggs Jr., and the two work closely together. “But it’s not about me or him,” he said. “All we do is provide the vision. It’s about the employees here. They do such a great job.”

Whitten said his time is largely spent dealing with staff issues and offender issues and making sure all operations at the facility are running smooth. “Priorities change constantly in corrections, (but) the first concern is always the safety and security of the citizens of the state and our staff,” he said. Whitten and family have settled into the deputy warden’s residence at LARC. His wife, Amanda, will start work in August as a teacher’s assistant for Purcell Public Schools. A daughter, England Davison, will be a high school senior. Whitten also has two adult children. A daughter, Kayla Shetley, lives in Oklahoma City with her husband, Lantz, and children Nolan and Luca. A son, Wyatt, also lives in Oklahoma City. Whitten said his wife has been very supportive as his career moved him about the state. He anticipates remaining at LARC “as long as I’m needed here.” “This is a great facility, a great staff,” he said. “I’m very happy here and blessed to have this job.”

Cimarron Opera presentation celebrates “The New Kid”

For more than 40 years, Cimarron Opera has taken its performances throughout central Oklahoma communities, educating and entertaining through musical theater.

And this summer, its actors will visit the hometown libraries of the Pioneer Library System as part of the annual Summer Reading Program.

“Cimarron Opera and The New Kid” comes to the Purcell Public Library at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, June 20.

This summer’s production looks into how being different is not such a bad thing and is what makes each person special and unique. The production is geared to ages 11 and under.

The Norman-based group was founded in 1975 by Thomas Carey and Carol Brice Carey and first called the Church Circuit Opera Company. It was renamed Cimarron Circuit Opera Company in 1981 and has grown into today’s Cimarron Opera while serving and entertaining thousands in the region.

Cimarron seeks to provide opportunities for its performers to get stage experience, as well as giving workshops and performances geared primarily to children in an effort to build their enthusiasm and understanding of the arts.

More information on Cimarron Opera is available through the group’s website, www.cimarronopera.org.

Sponsors for this year’s

Summer Reading Program are the Anne and Henry Zarrow Foundation, Friends of the Library groups, Hitachi Computer Products of America Inc., the Institute of Museum and Library Services, Oklahoma Arts Council, Oklahoma College Savings Plan, Pioneer Library System Foundation, SONIC, the Oklahoma Department of Libraries and The Oklahoman Newspapers in Education.

Lexington Westside Church of Christ

As always, we want to thank you for joining us for our weekly front porch visit. For today, “A fire in our bones!”

One of the great men of old who is well known for a blazing fire deep down inside is the great prophet Jeremiah. He is often called the “prophet of fire,” and for a reason! He is an old-fashioned, tell-it-like-it-is, no-holds-barred preacher who spends a lifetime trumpeting God’s message. He has a scorching fire about him toward spreading God’s word that puts most of us to shame! He preaches hard and long, and he always carries a good supply of zeal and courage in his satchel. But it isn’t easy.

He watches for a good part of his life as God’s people go backward and not forward, trusting in the imagination of their own hearts and turning to other gods.

He observes as they are busy at work digging “their own cisterns, broken cisterns, which hold no water,” despite having access to a fountain of living water through the Lord (Jeremiah 2:13).

He sees them reject the balm God offers for the healing of their souls, and he can do nothing except stand by and watch them destroy themselves spiritually.

Even a man of fire such as Jeremiah has a breaking point, and he reaches his one day. He has taken all he can take. He can take no more. So he makes this resolve, and I think he means it with every fiber in his being!

“I will not make mention of him (God), nor speak any more in his name” (Jeremiah 20:9).

Who can blame him? Who among us would not have said the same? For years he preaches his heart out and nobody listens! So he washes his hands of the people and of preaching. I suppose he goes to look for another job, the door slamming behind him as he heads toward the nearest town to find other employment. He’ll show the world!

But he doesn’t climb too many dusty hills and round too many curves before he stops right in his tracks! Something is wrong. Something inside him just doesn’t feel right.

He has a burning sensation inside that just will not go away! No way is it going to let up. The words he had vowed – I will not make mention of him nor speak any more in his name! – echo in his head!

Maybe he turns around for that day and thinks, “All right. I’ll go back home and relax today and, after a good night’s rest, I’ll go find me a good job tomorrow.”

But all he has coming is a night on a boisterous sea. Guilt has set in, and an aching inside him will not let him rest.

Perhaps it is there, in the middle of a restless night, that he gets up and makes another resolve. He has learned something important, and it is a lesson he can never forget:

“His word is in my heart like a fire,” he says, no doubt through gritted teeth, “a fire shut up in my bones, and I was weary with holding it in; indeed, I cannot!” (Jeremiah 20:9).

That’s what I admire about Jeremiah! He has a burning desire to spread the Master’s word. And even though he tries to shut it out, he cannot. It is in his bones; and when it’s down that deep, it won’t come out!

Be sure to keep that fire burning this week, good friends! Perhaps, the Lord willing, we can help you in that task again next week ... here on the “front porch.” God bless!

Johnson Road Baptist

This Sunday is Father’s Day and a big day at Johnson Road. Mike Cagle and his crew are ready for the 26th Annual Carnie Barnes and Herb Weidman Fish Fry at Johnson Road.

The catfish and hush puppies have been purchased. The cookers, filled propane bottles and cooking oil are ready for service. Now that the great feast is good to go, we want every father and family to be present on Father’s Day, June 18, at 5 p.m. We will be honored to have your presence.

Gynean Gentry was recognized Sunday morning at Johnson Road for having celebrated a big birthday. Gynean has worked many years for an attorney in Pauls Valley.

Gynean always has a full week as secretary, daily drive to and from Pauls Valley, chief cook at the Murphy House, caretaker of two granddaughters and music director at Johnson Road.

We appreciate The Purcell Register for the big photo and recognition of Henry Ketchum for his 51 years of service at The Purcell Register. Our prayer is always for Henry, the oldest child in the Ketchum family, and his wife, Pat. Henry’s public service will not be forgotten.

The children of the church sang Sunday morning. Gynean Gentry and the pastor also provided special music.

The sermon text for morning worship was taken from Proverbs 6:16-19. The writer of Proverbs listed six things that God hates. Five synonyms for the word hate are loathe, detest, despise,

Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church

By Fr. Jim Chamberlain

There is so much theological richness in the Pentecost story! Remember the Tower of Babel way back in the book of Genesis (Gen 11)? At that time, the whole world spoke the same language. Some men, who had settled in the valley of Shinar, in modern-day Iraq, came up with this grand scheme of building a tower all the way up into the clouds. They would show the rest of the world, and God(!), just how powerful they were by displaying this great tower, a magnificent achievement.

But God spoiled their plans. He sent his angels down to “confuse their language” so that they began to speak many different languages and did not understand one another. He was punishing them for their great sin of pride.

We have inherited the punishment for this sin as we know what a challenge it is to work and live with someone who speaks a totally different language. In the event of Pentecost, this great scene is reversed! Now, with the coming of the Holy Spirit, men continue to speak in various languages, but now they understand one another!

The diversity of tongues is no longer a punishment, but a sign of the vitality and diversity of the many gifts of the Holy Spirit. We are many peoples, of many tongues and talents, but we are all part of the one Body of Christ by virtue of our Baptism into the faith.

The Church is a microcosm of what the rest of the world is meant to be. We live and work together as people of many tongues - a truly catholic Church - so that we might be an example for the rest of the world.

As St. Paul writes: “As a body is one though it has many parts...so also Christ. For in one Spirit we were all baptized into one body...and we were all given to drink of one Spirit.” (1 Cor. 12)

Let us today and every day drink deeply of this Holy Spirit! Our weekend Mass schedule is Saturday at 5 p.m. (English), Sunday at 11 a.m. (English) and 1 p.m. (Spanish).

For more information, call our church office at 527-3077. Please visit our parish, and like us on Facebook.

Johnson Road:

dislike and abhor.

If God uses the word hate, there is no reason for omitting the word from our vocabulary. The danger comes when we apply the word to our dislike for a person or a group of people.

We must caution ourselves to find a balanced approach to our use of the term. We can hate the production, action or dysfunction without name calling.

The Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Pastor of the Riverside Church in New York City said, “Hating people is like burning down your own house to get rid of a rat.”

Mahatma Gandhi said, “Hate the sin; love the sinner.”

The writer of Ecclesiastes said, “there is a time to love and a time to hate.”

The Bible says, “Whosoever hates his brother is a murderer.”

We are perfectly correct to follow God’s usage of the word to describe behavior, outcome or action. Hate drunkenness, drug addiction, gluttony, smoking, hazing and gambling, but only in a balanced manner.

A plan of “Balanced Hate” can foster redemption, save lives and remedy a multitude of social issues. President and General Dwight D. Eisenhower expressed a balanced hate when he said, “I hate war as only a soldier who has lived it can, only as one who has seen its brutality, its futility, its stupidity.”

Title of the sermon this Sunday is “Twelve Month Challenge.”

The Wednesday evening Bible study for several weeks will be a study of the second chapter of the Gospel according to John.

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship begins at 11 a.m.

Our youth will be attending Falls Creek Monday through Saturday, July 24-29. Student registration forms are now available at the church.

Sam Noble’s ‘Ugly Bugs’ exhibit extended through Labor Day

The larger-than-life insect photos inside the Sam Noble Museum of Natural History aren’t going anywhere anytime soon.

Originally set for departure on June 18, the photography-focused exhibit, “Ugly Bugs! Celebrating 20 Years of the Oklahoma Microscopy Society’s Ugly Bug Contest” now will stick around through September.

Open to all Oklahoma elementary schools, the annual “Ugly Bug” competition is designed to get students interested in microscopy and entomology at a young age. The rules are simple: Each school can submit one bug — the “uglier,” the better.

Entries are processed at scanning electron microscope labs across the state, currently including Oklahoma State University, Phillips 66 and the Samuel Roberts Noble Microscopy Laboratory on the University of Oklahoma Norman campus, and imaged by a scanning electron microscope.

The school with the winning entry, judged by a group of OMS members, scientists and volunteer judges, receives a Leica stereomicroscope.

The resulting images from 20 of the contest’s past winners are weird, strangely fascinating and, well, downright ugly, and they’re all on display inside the museum’s second-floor Higinbotham Gallery.

The exhibit also incorporates displays that educate about entomology, physics, microscopy and mathematics. And, in addition to the ugly bug photos, the exhibit will feature packaging used to transport the bugs from the classroom through the postal service and to the lab.

Classmates often brainstorm the best ways to ship each bug. Visitors also can see the real bugs that were scanned and imaged to create the photographs.

The exhibit is sponsored by Love’s Travel Stops & Country Stores.

Phillips 66, Leica and SEM labs across the state currently provide support for the Oklahoma Ugly Bug contest.

The Sam Noble Oklahoma Museum of Natural History is located on the University of Oklahoma Norman campus at J. Willis Stovall Road and Chautauqua Avenue. For accommodations, call (405) 325-4712 or visit SamNobleMuseum.ou.edu.

Protecting children from lice during summer camp

Leilana McKindra
Communications Specialist

With school out, many youths may be heading off to camps and conferences for part of their summer break. If that is the case, both children and parents should know how to protect against head lice.

Because there are so many kids from different home environments coming together at one focal point, children’s risk of being exposed to lice tends to go up when they are in camp settings, said Justin Talley, Oklahoma State University Cooperative Extension livestock entomologist.

“Lice are a common problem throughout the United States. Anyone can get head lice.

It’s not about cleanliness or where you live. It’s a matter of who you come into close contact with,” Talley said.

Head lice are a blood sucking insect that can only be transmitted from person to person through direct contact such as through sharing a pillow, a brush or by having head to head contact with someone who has lice.

There are some key preventative measures families can put in place.

“Parents should talk to their children about not sharing personal items such as combs, brushes and bed linens, especially pillows,” Talley said. “The more they share those types of items, the more likely there will be a transmission of lice.”

Infestations can take between five and 10 days to develop after exposure, depending on the temperature and condition of the infested person’s hair.

The camp or conference medical staff should be trained to identify lice.

However, as soon as children return home, parents should immediately check them for lice, especially if kids are exhibiting abnormal behavior by flicking their hair or scratching more than usual.

To properly check for head lice, part the hair all the way to the scalp every two to three inches all over the head, and especially in the back toward the neck.

Head lice range in color from creamy white to brown and are visible with the naked eye.

“They’ll be active, crawling on and near the scalp,” Talley said.

Also, when children return home, families should immediately wash all clothing and bedding, and especially the pillowcases. These items should be laundered separately from the rest of the laundry in hot water above 125F and dried on a high heat setting.

In cases of a suspected infestation, over-the-counter lice control shampoos may be purchased for use.

If the infestation is severe or if the over-the-counter product does not work, stronger alternatives may be obtained by prescription from a medical professional.

Lice control products typically require two applications – one initially and a second one about 10 to 14 days later.

“Regardless of the product you’re using, the second application is critically important because the first application doesn’t kill the eggs. Reapplying the product after about 10 days allows those eggs to hatch so you’re killing the remaining nymphs,” Talley said.
