AG cites Bosse in high court petition

Arguing Oklahoma’s rights to due process were “severely taken” by the U.S. Supreme Court’s McGirt’s ruling in 2020, Oklahoma Attorney General John O’Connor is asking the justices to overturn that ruling.

O’Connor cited the McClain County death penalty case of convicted killer Shaun Bosse, a non-Native American, who brutally

Brief power interruption

In parts of Purcell last Thursday around noon

John D. Montgomery
The Purcell Register

Some parts of Purcell experienced a brief power outage last Thursday just before noon during a monsoon type of rain storm that blew through the area.

The rain was scattered with the downtown area getting the lions’ share of the much needed and unusual August rain.

A rain gauge on north 8th recorded 1/2” of rain but a lot more than that fell in downtown Purcell in a fairly short period of time.

A gauge in far north Purcell only picked up .2”.

While it was flooding in the downtown area no rain was falling in the north part of town and the electricity never went off during the last day of the Purcell Basketball Camp at The Reimer Center.

Power was off in some residential areas and in downtown for at least eight minutes.

Purcell Electric Department Supervisor Trey Phillips said it was the middle of town and the south part of town that were affected.

“It was caused by a bad insulator on a pole on Van Buren,” Phillips said. “When it got wet, it exploded and knocked the wire onto a wooden cross arm and we just happened to be in the area.”

Hotter temperatures and drier conditions have lingered this week.

OMRF to investigate link between viral infection, autoimmunity

The National Institutes of Health has awarded the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation $480,000 to investigate the long-term effects of viral infections on autoimmunity.

OMRF scientist Umesh Deshmukh, Ph.D., received the two-year grant to study how viral infections such as Covid-19 can influence the development of autoimmune diseases.

Specifically, his lab will study the effects of a hyperactivated immune system on salivary glands that can ultimately lead to Sjögren’s syndrome.

In Sjögren’s syndrome, immune cells attack moisture-producing glands, leading to painful dryness and decreased ability to produce tears or saliva. Common symptoms include severe dry eyes and mouth, fatigue, arthritis, and memory problems.

Sjögren’s may affect up to 4 million Americans, according to the Sjögren’s Syndrome Foundation. While its causes are not fully understood, environmental triggers, such as viral infections, are believed to contribute to the development of the disease in individuals who carry certain genetic risk factors.

“We are learning more every day about the long-term side effects of SARS-CoV-2 infection, and specifically, we have learned the virus has found a niche in the salivary glands,” said Deshmukh, who joined OMRF from the University of Virginia in 2013. “While most people associate the virus with the lungs, we continue to see more areas of the body that are impacted in the long term. Salivary glands appear to be one of the organs at risk.”

Deshmukh said they are particularly interested in seeing how the “cytokine storm” the virus can cause in the body activates genes and immune factors that already put certain individuals at risk for Sjögren’s.

A cytokine storm happens when the body senses danger and rapidly generates a class of proteins, called cytokines, that help the immune cells to kill invading viruses or bacteria, explained Deshmukh.

“When the body overproduces these cytokines, it can lead to unintended damage,” he said. “This response is what causes a fever when you are fighting infection. It’s a good thing, but you can, unfortunately, have too much of a good thing.”

To understand the effects of cytokine storms downstream regarding autoimmunity, Deshmukh and his lab

Some relief from heat on way

After a week of heat and substantial moisture, the forecast looks to be kind and is allowing us some relief as we head into this weekend.

Thursday is going to be much like the last week or so, with highs in the middle-90’s, but a heat index that could push the 105 range.

A pattern change moves in Friday, however, as we push the heat dome away for a few days and begin seeing some cooler high temperatures and some good rain chances.

Though there’s a chance every day between Friday and Monday, it likely will not rain every day, though the chance is highest Saturday and Sunday.

This pattern will keep our highs into the mid-80’s, and some good cloud cover will keep it feeling very seasonably comfortable.

The heat dome looks to return sometime into the next Tuesday-to-Wednesday timeframe.

Red Cross offers 10 tips to keep children safe as they return to school

As the coronavirus pandemic eases its hold in some areas of the country, most schools will be calling students back to the classroom soon after months of virtual learning. The American Red Cross wants to make sure your student is safe as they head back to school for the upcoming year.

“Parents and kids are both eager to get back to normal and return to the classroom as a new school year starts,” said Brittney Rochell, Chief Communications Officer. “But don’t forget to make safety a top priority.”

The American Red Cross offers these steps to help make the trip back to the classroom a safe one.

• If your student rides a bus to school, they should plan to get to their bus stop early and stand away from the curb while waiting for the bus to arrive.

• Students should board the bus only after it has come to a complete stop and the driver or attendant has instructed them to get on. They should only board their bus, never an alternate one.

• All students should stay in clear view of the bus driver and never walk behind the bus.

• Cross the street at the corner, obey traffic signals and stay in the crosswalk.

• Never dart out into the street or cross between parked cars.

• If children go to school in a car, they should always wear a seat belt. Younger children should use car seats or booster seats until the lap-shoulder belt fits properly (typically for children ages 8-12 and over 4’9”), and ride in the back seat until they are at least 13 years old.

• If a teenager is going to drive to school, parents should mandate that they use seat belts. Drivers should not use their cell phone to text or make calls, and avoid eating or drinking while driving.

• Some students ride their bike to school. They should always wear a helmet and ride on the right, in the same direction as the traffic is going.

• When children are walking to school, they should only cross the street at an intersection, and use a route along which the school has placed crossing guards.

Tips:

- Parents should walk young children to school, along with children taking new routes or attending new schools, for the first week to ensure safe arrival. Arrange for students to walk to school with a friend or classmate.

In addition, parents of younger kids and those headed to school for the first time, should also take a few special steps.

Make sure the child knows their phone number, address, how to get in touch with their parents at work, how to get in touch with another trusted adult and how to dial 911. Teach children not to talk to strangers or accept rides from someone they don't know.

Drivers, slow down!

Drivers should be aware that children are out walking or biking to school and slow down, especially in residential areas and school zones. Motorists should know what yellow and red bus signals mean.

Yellow flashing lights indicate the bus is going to stop and motorists should slow down. Red flashing lights and an extended stop sign indicate a stopped bus and children getting on or off.

Motorists must stop behind a bus, meeting the bus or approaching an intersection where a bus is stopped.

Motorists must also stop until the red lights have stopped flashing, the stop arm is withdrawn, and all children have reached safety. This includes two and four-lane highways.

If physical barriers such as grassy medians, guide rails or concrete median barriers separate oncoming traffic from the bus, motorists in the opposing lanes may proceed without stopping. Do not proceed until all the children have reached a place of safety.

Prepare for emergencies

Know what the emergency plan is at your child's school. Develop a family emergency plan so everyone will know who to contact and where to go if something happens while children are at school and parents are at work. Details are available at redcross.org/prepare.

Take a first aid class

The Red Cross First Aid App provides instant access to information on handling the most common first aid emergencies whether it be before, during or after school. Download the app for free by searching for 'American Red Cross' in your app store or at redcross.org/apps.

Learn and practice first aid and CPR skills by taking a course (redcross.org/takeaclass) so you can help save a life.

What life requires

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

Willingness to try and to learn new skills is imperative to navigating life. There is always more to learn.

Learning happens in school, through trial and error, personal research and time spent with others who already know what you need to learn.

You can learn a lot from listening to others. Listening is one of the greatest tools of financial and life security. If you will listen you will know what you know plus what you are hearing.

The ability to listen and focus in a class is essential for a student’s success. Listening to your workplace boss, or someone who is training you is imperative.

When someone is telling you how to do something you have potential to grow as a person. Someone is giving you knowledge that will provide you with the ability to perform a task.

A major detriment to the success of learning from teachers, mentors and trainers is distraction. Many people struggle with this problem naturally. Attention Deficit, Hyperactivity Disorder plagues millions of America’s children and adults.

Too often school children are never diagnosed and struggle all through school. Adults carry this problem with them in different ways for years and sometimes most of their lives. Understanding that you, a family member or someone you work with has this problem at least gives you a better perspective.

Diagnosis by a trained professional can be extremely helpful to the individual, family, teachers and those impacted in the workplace. Everyone has a chance of dealing with what they know.

New forms of distraction have come on the scene in recent years. Spam telephone calls seem to come at me 10 or more times a day.

Unwanted text messages, spam email and social media distraction bombard us.

Too many times we have heard of auto accidents because someone was trying to read or send a text message while driving. Cars now have bigger screens, wi-fi, telephones, hundreds of radio stations. There’s a lot to distract us.

While distraction is a major source of some of our problems, focus is the key to solving many of our problems. The problem with focus is that we can’t focus on everything.

Determining our priorities is essential and sometimes that’s where life is difficult. Too often we have a list of many priorities. The only way to really accomplish and succeed is to determine what is most important and to put our energy and minds into making the “most important” successful.

Family, school, career, sports, business, hobbies and more provide us with many choices to make every day. You have to decide which is most important and put your heart and strength into it. Whatever it is will work out better.

Jesus understood this. He told his followers the greatest commandment is to love the Lord your God with all of your heart, soul, mind and strength.

That is focus. Focus is what anything worth doing normally requires.

Serving veterans

Carl Ellison is honored VSO

Legion taps him for award

Purcell resident Carl Ellison’s dedication to military veterans hasn’t gone unnoticed.

The senior Veteran Service Officer for Norman’s American Legion Post 88 was recently named “Veteran Service Officer of the Year.

Ellison accepted the award during the Oklahoma American Legion’s recent annual conference in Shawnee.

For more than 30 years, Ellison has been assisting veterans and their dependents with applying and processing claims for VA compensation, pension and death benefits, plus accessing additional government programs and local emergency assistance.

The Army and Oklahoma Air National Guard veteran led the post’s VA-certified VSO team for the past four years.

And he didn’t let up, even throughout the COVID-19 pandemic.

“It is very important to me to give back to those who served our country,” he said. “They answered the call when our country was in need, and now they and their families deserve to be helped when they need medical care and other support.

“That is what keeps me going, knowing I can help make their lives better and easier.”

Post 88 Commander Ernest Martin said Ellison is very deserving of the award.

“Carl Ellison is one of those people always willing to help anyone at any time,” Martin said. “During the pandemic he worked tirelessly, regardless of his personal risk, in order to help veterans and their family members in need, and he has not stopped. He is a true example of selfless service, and someone I am proud to call my friend.”

Ellison and other VSOs at the Norman Post continue to be available to assist service members and their dependents, free of charge.

“We are veterans helping veterans and their families, and those needs have not stopped because of the COVID-19 situation,” Ellison said. “If anything, the need is even greater, which is why we have not halted our efforts since the beginning. We have an outstanding team of veteran service officers at our Post ready and available, and this recent award reflects on them as much as it does me.”

The Post is located at 710 E. Main St., and is open Mondays, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and other times by appointment.

Founded after World War I, the American Legion is the nation’s largest and most powerful organization working on behalf of all U.S. servicemen and women. Norman’s Post 88 is actively seeking donations, which are tax exempt, in support of its community outreach efforts. Tax deductible donations may be sent to: American Legion Post 88, P.O. Box 11, Norman, OK 73070.

partisan support and ensured the conscience rights of all Americans are protected. I am deeply disappointed by Democrats’ decision to remove the longstanding and traditionally bipartisan Hyde and Weldon amendments.

Since 1976, the Hyde Amendment has prevented federal tax dollars from funding abortions and has been included in appropriations bills every year since then with bipartisan, bicameral support.

First authored in 2005 and included in annual appropriations every year since then, the Weldon Amendment protects American doctors, nurses and other health care professionals from participating in or providing an abortion if they have a moral objection.

Unless these and other key pro-life protections are restored and bipartisan agreement is struck on funding levels, Republicans cannot come to the table or vote on final appropriations.

Democrats had the opportunity to change course and restore the Hyde and Weldon amendments – first when I offered an amendment to do so in a House Appropriations Committee bill markup, second when I filed an amendment with unanimous Republican support during Rules Committee consideration and then again on the House floor.

Sadly, they chose to block every single effort to restore decades of bipartisan precedent and support the will of the majority of Americans.

The reality is that Democrats chose to pick a fight, even though they do not have the votes needed to advance funding bills to the president’s desk on their own.

At the end of the day, if Democrats continue to refuse to compromise and fail to work with Republicans, in either chamber, then they will have only themselves to blame. And they will bear the responsibility for the inevitable consequences: a continuing resolution, or even worse, a government shutdown. The American people deserve better.

Garvin:

ever wants to run for office, they should be supportive; I want young women to know that if they want to be a wife, a mother, AND a state senator, that it’s possible, and that they don’t have to pick between the two.

Additionally, I want those students to know that if I’ve gotten to know them, and they call me for a reference letter, I’m going to take the time to personally write one.

Oklahoma Secretary of Agriculture, Blayne Arthur, shared on social media on July 28, “It’s always important to remember those who have opened doors

This statement summarizes the “science” behind how I prioritize events. I want to be the person who opened the door for your children, grandchildren, nieces and nephews, students, neighbors, and friends, so that someday, they feel called to open the door for someone else.

I want to be enveloped in your lives; I want to volunteer alongside you and be so entrenched in your community that people forget I don’t live there.

If you have an important event or volunteer opportunity coming up, whether it’s for afford legal fees, why not go to a lending institution and borrow funds to pay for the development expenses like other “folks” do in McClain County?

(4) Why does McClain County need to incur legal costs in order for a private developer to develop their privately owned land?

(5) Are the McClain County Commissioners going to make agreements with all McClain County individuals, who have land that could be developed by using county taxes instead of borrowing or paying back funding, to do this?

(6) Why hire a development firm for the private developer and give to both an undisclosed amount of tax dollars without any repayment of the tax dollars used except receipt of the “new” taxes that will eventually come to the county when this pristine fairytale paradise is completely developed? After forking over hundreds of thousands or millions of “new” tax dollars, how long before the county starts getting the “new” taxes instead of the developer?

(7) Is this seriously a “free gratis” without any repayment deal? A McClain County Taxpayer, Karen Masterson

Sitting patiently, a youngster waits for a Landmark Church volunteer to add a few brush strokes to the facial art on his cheek. The boy was one of many participants who turned out Saturday evening for the annual Back 2 School Bash in downtown Purcell.

Purcell and Wayne Senior Citizens

By Val Blackburn

A big welcome goes to all the new folks coming to the center. It's great getting to know new friends along with getting reacquainted with old friends. Everyone over 60 has a standing invitation to come visit and participate in fellowship, meals and activities. If you have any questions about the senior center, the activities we offer or coming for a visit, call Val at 405-527-5070.

The new activity program has begun. On Monday a Crafts Class is offered at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday and Friday is Light and Lively Exercise at 10 a.m. Wednesday brings "Music Speaks" at 10:45 a.m. Bingo is played Thursday mornings at 10 a.m. Next week a new group called "Everyone Has a Story" starts. New ideas and new people are always invited and happily welcomed.

It's Back to School time! The senior center garage sale has lots of jeans and T-shirts. The sale is every Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. A large inventory of clothing, household items, toys and decorative pieces are available. We have recently received a large quantity of baby and children's clothing. On Thursdays a paper bag full of clothing is on sale for $5. Donations are always appreciated and used for our local seniors. Much appreciation goes to every one who donates items to the center for the sale. All donations can be dropped at the center and left under the awning by the south door. Donations boxes at the front of our parking lot also benefit the senior center. The items you donate to the sale and in the boxes help many of your Purcell friends and neighbors.

Lunch meals are offered at both the Purcell and Wayne Senior Centers by Delta Nutrition. The ability to offer reasonable and nutritious meals on weekdays to our citizens is very much appreciated. The tricky part is judging the amount of food to prepare each day.

Delta never wants to make too much food and not be able to serve it. On the other hand, not to have enough to serve everyone is not an option anyone wants. To avoid either of these occurrences, steps have been put in place by the Delta Nutrition program.

They ask anyone who is going to dine to just let them know. A phone call to 405-527-9462 is great before 8:30 a.m. to let them know you're coming for that day.

Signup sheets are also available inside the senior center. You can sign up to eat for a day, a week or a month if you want to. Delta can also help you do the paperwork to receive a meal for a $2 donation. Your assistance is important for the success of the meal program and your presence is welcome and appreciated at every meal. Lunch is served beginning at 11:30 a.m. Of course you are

Cleveland County requests public input

Cleveland County leadership is asking for public input to identify needs and to suggest solutions for addressing the impact of the pandemic.

This information will be used to help the county develop a response and recovery strategy consistent with federal guidelines.

Cleveland County is receiving $55 million in federal dollars to address impacts of COVID-19 and to promote recovery throughout our communities.

County representatives are meeting with a wide range of stakeholders throughout the county to identify areas of need based on the impact of COVID-19, but the county's public survey, now available online, allows for feedback from all Cleveland County residents.

"We want to hear from the public," said Board of County Commissioners chair, Darry Stacy. "We are implementing a process that allows for the widest range of public input available, regardless of where someone lives or what hours they work."

The county contracted with 929 Strategies to assist it through the process of checking requests for eligibility in accordance with federal guidelines and in distributing funds on an equitable basis.

Pauls Valley Opry has fabulous show

• Photo provided

Pauls Valley Opry

Wayne Gibbs will be one of the performers lined up for the September 4 edition of the Pauls Valley Opry. The show begins at 6:30 p.m. at the Pauls Valley High School auditorium.

The August edition of the Pauls Valley Opry proved to be a fabulous night of entertainment.

The Pauls Valley Opry welcomed newcomer, Randall Armstrong. Randall hails from Carthage, Texas, the final resting spot for superstar Jim Reeves and the home to the Texas Country Music Hall of Fame.

Randall is doing his best to carve his own notch into Country Music history as an exceptional singer/musician/entertainer/actor. He certainly entertained the crowd with a hit from one of his fellow Texans, Waylon Jennings, “Luckenbach, Texas.” Randall got us all heavenly minded with the Vince Gill smash hit, “Go Rest High on That Mountain.”

Betty Archer is a favorite and voted by the patrons the 2017 Female Vocalist of the Year. At the August edition of the Opry, she did an outstanding job. Betty got us in a country state of mind with the Loretta Lynn hit, “Table for Two,” then she took us all to church with the Mike Purkey song, “I Call it Home.”

We coaxed Dallas Richardson

out from behind the sound board and onto the stage. Once Dallas took to the stage, he rocked! He lit up the crowd with an Elvis medley that included “Teddy Bear-Don’t Be Cruel & Steamroller Blues.” He then kicked into overdrive with the Toby Keith hit, “Big Dog Daddy.”

Mary’s Music Barn is a special place for country music. What makes it so special is the lady who brings quality entertainment to the small southeastern community of Stonewall, Okla. She is none other than Mary McDonald. We were excited to have Mary on the stage of the Pauls Valley Opry! Her bluegrass roots came out as she gave a soulful performance of the lonesome Dolly Parton tune, “In the Pines.” Mary, who is country to the bone, sang her version of “Heart We Did All That We Could.” You could have heard a pin drop in the auditorium!

Terry Wilson was back and he entertained the crowd with the Waylon Jennings hit, “Rose in Paradise.” He sent chills up and down our spines with the Vern Gosdin megahit, “Chiseled in Stone.” There wasn’t a dry eye in the house!

It’s been over a year since Annie Reed has blessed us with her presence at the Pauls Valley Opry. We can’t believe it has happened, but it did – Annie sings better than ever! Annie is a singer’s “Singer” and this country gal can get you out on the dance floor or bring tears to your eyes.

She did that with the Dawn Sears’ classic, “A-11” and took us back in time with the Martina McBride rendition of Buddy Holly’s tune of “True Love Ways.” Annie has an amazing voice and an amazing heart.

Tanner Young is the Pauls Valley Opry’s reigning Entertainer of the Year and on Saturday night, Tanner did not disappoint. Tanner is a star in the making and we are so honored to have been a part of his musical history.

Tanner knocked it out of the park with the Alan Jackson smash hit, “Mercury Blues” and then he kicked it up a couple of notches and rocked the house with the Ricky Skaggs hit, “Highway 40 Blues.”

One of the most special moments in the history of the Pauls Valley Opry was last Saturday night. We introduced a young man who is also very dear to us - Chandler Elliott. Chandler does the videography for the Opry, but we pulled him out of the video room upstairs and brought him on stage.

It was truly a magical moment when Chandler Elliott, Tanner Young, Marty McDonald joined Woodie Hill on the Allman Brothers tune, “Ramblin’ Man.” The band was cooking and they just brought down the house with their amazing abilities.

As always, emcee John Williams kept the crowd entertained and kept the show flowing and the Memory Makers Band added a few selections to the mix including selections from Tanya Tucker, Shannon McNally and Linda Ronstadt.

Please join us next month on Saturday, September 4, when our guests will be Anne Young, Gunner Shi Donham, April Davis, Larry Damell, Cara Belt, Wayne Gibbs and Molly Herrod.

We’ll see you at the Opry!

According to federal guidelines, the funds can be used to support public health expenditures to mitigate COVID-19

HOW WILL YOUR NEWSPAPER ENLIGHTEN YOU TODAY?

Will Rogers’ flying fever transformed travel

Bruce Springsteen was “Born to Run,” while Will Rogers was “Born to Fly.”

But Rogers was 24 and drawing crowds to Wild West shows and New York stages before the Wright Brothers gave us wings Dec. 17, 1903.

“Will Rogers was the No. 1 air passenger of the United States,” biographer P. J. O’Brien wrote in 1935, just months after Rogers and famed aviator Wiley Post died in a plane crash near Barrow, Alaska. The close friends were testing a shorter route from America to Russia.

Will got a unique permit to airmail himself anywhere a Post Office plane was headed. He had no fear of flying.

When asked just before that final trip when he’d write his memoirs, he replied, “I don’t know. I ain’t near enough dead yet.”

Classic airplanes will fly-in at the Dog Iron Ranch just outside Oologah, Okla., beginning at 7:30 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 14 to commemorate the tragic crash. The free event uses the 2,000-foot grass landing strip at Rogers’ birthplace ranch.

Up to 100 classic airplanes attend the annual event. Pilots explain to visitors how the aircraft work. In the past 25 years the fly-in has drawn single-wing, bi-plane, tri-plane, experimental and World War Two-era aircraft.

Some pilots perform aerobatics over Oologah Lake, which was the Verdigris River Valley as Will grew up.

Actors portraying Will and Wiley Post will land about 9 a.m., followed at 10 by a Day of Remembrance dedication. It will run live on links listed at Willrogers.com.

WILL ROGERS MEMORIAL MUSEUM

Will Rogers and Wiley Post

Planes, a kids’ play area, Thunderbird Car Club show and Cherokee storyteller Robert Lewis will continue until noon.

After the fly-in, visitors are invited to visit the Historical Museum and statue of Will Rogers and his horse, Comanche, getting a cool drink at the Town pump in historic downtown Oologah.

The Cherokee Nation is committed to continuing to use the birthplace ranch to share Will’s roots. Those include his father, Clem, a Cherokee Nation leader and key figure in bringing Indian and Oklahoma Territories together as a state.

O’Brien observed, “(T)he whole world grieved at the passing of Rogers...No private citizen ever before was accorded so many millions of words of eulogy.”

But Rogers never worried about flying. When he wasn’t admiring the natural beauty or city lights below, he was typing his features on his manual laptop.

“You got to trust aviation in war. Why can’t you trust it in peace?” he asked in a Daily Telegram Dec. 8, 1928.

Now you can.

Challenge: Did Will Rogers ever fly in to your community?

Chickasaw Nation committed to public safety and effective law enforcement

While slightly more than one year has passed since the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in McGirt v. Oklahoma, the Chickasaw Nation began making preparations years earlier.

In 2017, the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in Murphy v. Royal that the Muscogee Creek reservation was never disestablished and its treaty territory remains Indian Country for purposes of criminal jurisdiction.

Understanding the potential for significant changes in its criminal justice duties if the ruling was confirmed by the Supreme Court, the Chickasaw Nation leadership team began planning to meet those additional duties responsibly.

In McGirt, the Court accordingly held, consistent with existing law, that Oklahoma lacks criminal jurisdiction over crimes involving Indians committed within the Muscogee Creek reservation.

Jurisdiction over those crimes instead rests with the Muscogee Nation and the United States. The convict in this case successfully challenged his State court conviction and sentence, but he has since been recharged, retried, and reconvicted in Federal court and now resides in a Federal penitentiary.

On March 11, the Oklahoma Court of Criminal Appeals applied the McGirt ruling to the Chickasaw Nation and concluded Chickasaw Nation treaty territory also constitutes a reservation under Federal law.

The Court of Criminal Appeals’ ruling means the federal rules allocating criminal jurisdiction in Indian country apply within Chickasaw Nation treaty territory as they do within Muscogee Creek Nation.

Oklahoma has indicated it will seek to appeal the case to the U.S. Supreme Court as part of its efforts to relitigate McGirt. In the meantime, the Chickasaw Nation remains focused on implementing the law as it is and to ensure Chickasaw Nation sovereignty is protected.

The same day the Oklahoma Court of Criminal Appeals ruled, Chickasaw Nation Governor Bill Anoatubby issued an executive proclamation confirming the Chickasaw Nation’s treaty territory as “Indian Country” for purposes of Tribal law.

His proclamation directed all officials, employees, officers, departments, commissions and agencies of the Chickasaw Nation’s Executive Department to act in accordance with the ruling and “a sovereign interest in public safety throughout our treaty homeland.”

Within the Executive Department, these duties have fallen primarily to the Lighthorse Police and Office of Tribal Justice Administration. Governor Anoatubby has also continued to work closely with leaders of the Legislative and Judicial Departments of Chickasaw Nation government to ensure proper implementation of the Tribe’s responsibilities.

While the rulings of the past year have expanded public safety responsibilities from approximately 280 square miles of lands held in trust or restricted status to the entire 7,648 square miles of Chickasaw Nation treaty territory, Chickasaw Nation officials had long been working to ensure they were prepared for the changes.

“Our Chickasaw Nation executive, legislative and judicial departments continue

Dibble Senior Citizens

By Eddie Cantrell

Greetings to the Seniors of the Dibble Community!
We had 59 folks last Friday at our monthly Steak and Potato luncheon. It was also silly hat day and Mary Ratliff took first prize as her hat was the “CoronaVirus.” She is not afraid of anything! Fun was had by all.
The Dibble Dance on Friday night was fun but slightly down in number. So don't forget this Friday to join us at 7 p.m. in the Dibble Middle School Gym. It is a barrel of fun!
Remember our field trip to see the Express Clydesdales at Yukon on Tuesday. Mexican food afterward. There is no charge for the trip itself but you will need to pay for your own food. The Shuttle Bus will leave at 9:30 am. If you are not vaccinated, at least wear a mask! Be there or be square!
The following is the start of our resurrection of the “Senior of the Month” program. Linda Bourne has worked hard to get the biography of individual seniors and it will be a regular feature of our newsletter. (See the attached story and pictures)
My cousin Oscar has decided to be a low-impact man. He says he is getting completely off the grid and will live his life with nothing to impact the environment in which he lives. He still puts all of his dirty dishes in the dishwasher to be washed, but now he does not turn the dishwasher on but puts his cat inside of it. He says his dishes come out clean and doesn't use any electricity whatsoever. Besides he says, he hasn't bought any cat food in three months! He ain't right!
All for now...
The menu includes:
Monday—Soup and sandwich.
Thursday—Mexican.
Friday—Pork chops.

Dibble Senior Spotlight

By James Lee Godwin

I imagine I have lived a life as rich as most anyone. Along the way there have been surprises, a few disappointments and many, many joys When I recount the finest pleasures of my life, the greatest by far, was the day I met my wife. So, sit a spell as I recall a bit of my life and the one true love who has shared it with me.
I grew up the oldest child on a small farm in McClain County with my dad Ernest Godwin, my mom Edna Faye, my sister Kay Donna, and my younger brother, Robert Lynn. I went to primary school in Dare, Okla., where I “graduated” the eighth grade.
As a result, I guess I finished my post graduate work at Dibble High School. I played both basketball and baseball and worked part-time for a bridge construction company. Upon graduation in 1950, I had several opportunities working for various bridge and road construction companies.
Working for a company out of Ada, I commuted back and forth. One day on my way home, I stopped by The Custard Cup in downtown Lindsay where I saw Ermalene Henry, by far the prettiest girl in town, working behind the counter. She was making $.25 an hour and would not give me a $.05 ice cream for free, no matter how many times I asked. But I remained persistent.
While a free ice cream sounded mighty good, I knew Ermalene was the real prize. Day after day, I returned and although she never did give me that free ice cream, she did give me her hand in marriage. Eventually.
Drafted on Jan. 26, 1953, at the tail-end of the Korean War,
I reported to basic training in Colorado Springs just three days later. Although Ermalene was still a senior in high school when I left, we married right after her graduation on my first leave in June of 1953. Our honeymoon was short and sweet as I immediately had to report for a 10-day mission upon our return to Colorado.
In my absence, Ermalene had rented an apartment and found a job. My homecoming was a beautiful new bride, seated in the kitchen with her first paycheck proudly displayed on the table next to a cold beer. I knew right then how blessed I was to have this little spiffire in my life! Within a year the Korean War ended, and I was transferred to Fort Sill, Okla. Our first child was born on base, Pamela Dawn (1954), who just happened to be six months older than my little brother. I guess it was a busy year for everyone!
After fulfilling my military obligation in 1955, I was discharged from the Army and moved my family back to the Dare-Dibble area. Our second child, Laura Beth, was born in November of that same year. Unsure what I wanted to do for a living, I began farming watermelons and raising cattle. I farmed for almost a year before going to work for the City of Oklahoma City Public Works in 1956.
My family of four relocated to Oklahoma City where we put down roots. Here, we welcomed our three remaining children, Terry Lee (1959), Angela Kay (1961) and Gregory Brent (1962).
While raising my family in Oklahoma City, I had the pleasure of coaching my kids in little league, watching them play high school ball or march in the band, attending many band concerts (not always a pleasure), cutting it up on the square-dance floor (always a pleasure with Ermalene), raising bird dogs, camping with friends and family, boating, and setting out thousands of trout-lines. I learned to cherish the simple pleasure of creating lifelong friendships and spending time watching my family grow.
To be honest, at the time, I thought I was only going to work for the City of Oklahoma City Public Works long enough to get through the winter of 1956. But life being what it is, I stayed for 31 years before retiring in 1987.
From the moment I left, I always had a vested interest in the family farm and spent my weekends working it with my dad and my brother. Once I even tried to corner the okra market in one summer, but that is a story for another time. Eventually, my brother Robert and my brother-in-law Ernie Graham and I formed a company called “Three G Land and Cattle Co.” which we ran for years while we continued working at our “real jobs.”
After my retirement, Ermalene and I returned to the area we left 32 years prior.
Here I had control of 1,200 acres and 200 head of cattle.
That can hardly be called retirement in 2003. In addition, in 1993, the Rural Electric Corporation recruited me to sit on the Board of Directors, which I graciously did for 11 years, before my second retirement in 2003. I found serving my community while making lifelong friends to be truly gratifying. You know, retirement is a funny thing that I just could not get the hang of because I continued to run cattle from the Godwin Farm until the spring of 2020.
On July 11, 2021, I turned 89 years old. Ermalene and I live in the same house I was born in and I have the pleasure to watch my grandkids and great-grandkids play on the same land as my sister and my brother did so many years ago. I find each new day a wonder that never grows old and try to always see the good in all.
I have been told by some that my that my jokester nature is infectious; all I can say is, I do know the value to laughter, a good joke and hard work. Of all the pleasures in my life, and as you know there have been many, the biggest of all was the chance meeting at The Custard Cup almost 70 years ago. What a full and beautiful life that meeting led to.
Ermalene and I have been married for 68 years, we have five children, 13 grandchildren, 13 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren. Including Ermalene and me and the rest of the clan, our humble family welcomed our 50th member this summer and have more on the way.
It has been a pleasure to tell you my story, but just know I ain't done yet. I think I might start a run on the tomato market!

Harvest and enjoy mint from the garden

By Melinda Myers

Add a bit of cool flavor to your beverages, meals and desserts this summer with homegrown mint. Try using peppermint leaves in fruit cocktails and ice cream.

Add spearmint to your tea or use the leaves to season lamb and jelly. Or try chocolate mint for a unique, sweet and refreshing flavor in desserts and drinks.

Mint is easy to grow and suited to container gardens. In fact, growing it in a pot will help keep this vigorous herb contained. Or sink a container of mint in the garden or plant where surrounding walks and walls will keep it in check. Keep a watchful eye and remove any unwanted plants as they appear.

Grow mint in a full sun to partial shade location with moist, well-drained soil. Mulch the soil to conserve moisture.

Though hardy in zones 3 to 11, you will need to provide a bit of winter protection when growing mint in containers in colder regions.

Either sink the container in a vacant spot in the garden or move the planter into an unheated garage.

Water thoroughly whenever the soil is thawed and dry. Gardeners lacking outdoor growing space or in areas with cold winters can also grow this herb indoors.

Grow mint in a quality well-drained potting mix. Place in a sunny window or under artificial lights and keep the soil evenly moist.

Harvest the mint leaves as needed. Cut leafy stems off the plant just above a healthy leaf or bud so the wound closes faster and the remaining plant will look better.

Rinse off the clippings and remove tough stems and bad leaves before adding mint to your favorite beverage or dish.

You’ll enjoy the most intense flavor when harvesting mint just before the plants begin to flower. This is the best time to make larger harvests for drying and freezing.

Fortunately, you can remove up to 75 percent of foliage from an established plant. Watch for fresh, new growth and continue to harvest as needed.

Store any extra mint cuttings in a vase of water, loosely cover with a plastic bag and place in the refrigerator.

Consider including mint in your patio, balcony or deck plantings. Keeping it close to the kitchen and outdoor living space will make it easy for you to harvest and use.

Plus, your guests will enjoy plucking a few fresh mint leaves to add to their iced tea, mojito, other favorite summer beverage or salad.

Not only does this easy-to-grow herb add flavor, but it also aids digestion. Add a garnish of mint to dress up the dessert plate and calm a queasy stomach.

And use it to increase the manganese, vitamin C and vitamin A levels in your diet.

Make this the year you plant, harvest and enjoy some minty fresh flavor straight from the garden.

Myers is the author of more than 20 gardening books, including Small Space Gardening.

She hosts The Great Courses “How to Grow Anything” DVD series and the nationally-syndicated “Melinda’s Garden Moment” TV & radio program.

Myers is a columnist and contributing editor for Birds & Blooms magazine and her web site is www.MelindaMyers.com.

exercising due diligence as we accept this new duty in a responsible manner,” Governor Anoatubby wrote in his proclamation. “We have enhanced our criminal code, expanded our court system and reinforced our relationships with federal, state and local law enforcement agencies to ensure we maintain law and order in the Chickasaw Nation.”

Chickasaw Lighthorse Police Department added a dozen law enforcement professionals to its force, which now totals 77 officers. Since confirmation of the Chickasaw Nation reservation in mid-March and through August 1, Chickasaw Lighthorse responded to 15,728 calls for assistance and made 1,037 arrests on more than 1,663 charges.

Meanwhile, Tribal law enforcement and prosecutors have filed 678 criminal cases and 145 traffic citations in Chickasaw Nation Tribal Court. The department remains focused on ensuring the public’s safety and meeting the Chickasaw Nation’s responsibilities under the law.

In this work, Chickasaw Nation law enforcement cross-deputation agreements are a critical tool. The Chickasaw Nation currently has 67 cross-deputation agreements with non-Tribal law enforcement agencies and police departments throughout their reservation.

Those agreements include 499 cross-commissioned officers. We work continuously to expand and deepen those relationships.

Starting last fall, the Chickasaw Nation Tribal Legislature reviewed and updated much of the Nation criminal code, and this work continues. Newly enacted legislation empowers Chickasaw Lighthorse and prosecutors to rely on elements of Oklahoma’s criminal statutes to ensure consistency in Tribal prosecutions and law enforcement.

Other more substantive reforms address specific subject matters or procedural matters designed to enhance the criminal justice system’s operation.

More recently, the Chickasaw Nation established a hotline for crime victims and their families. Designed to provide information and to connect victims with programs and services offering support, the new hotline also serves as an important source of real-time information for Chickasaw Nation law enforcement.

In all the Chickasaw Nation’s efforts on these matters, Gov. Anoatubby emphasizes the value of deepening cooperation across jurisdictional lines. With the best interests of the Chickasaw Nation and the Chickasaw people foremost in mind, Gov. Anoatubby has prioritized intergovernmental cooperation among the Nation, Oklahoma, local jurisdictions, and the United States.

“We live and work in broader communities, and what affects one of us tends to affect all of us,” said Gov. Anoatubby. “Working effectively with Federal, State, and local policing and prosecuting agencies helps ensure those affected by the criminal justice system, both victims and perpetrators, have access to the services they may need to restore their lives or to put their lives back on track.”

Part of this work includes continuing the Chickasaw Nation’s efforts to expand opportunities for intergovernmental cooperation.

“Our goal is to develop and implement comprehensive policies to preserve public safety, maintain law and order and enhance the overall quality of life of the Chickasaw people and all Oklahomans,” said Gov. Anoatubby. “We have a long history of working well with Oklahoma to address shared challenges and to develop solutions that benefit all Oklahomans.

“Given our history, we believe we can best serve all Oklahomans by working together in a manner that respects tribal, state and federal sovereignty.”

Summer landscapes prone to bagworm, webworm infestations

Gail Ellis
Agricultural Communications

In Rogers County, Billy Clark stood in his pecan orchard surveying the thousands of bagworm sacks hanging from tree branches. Bagworms and webworms are a common sight on trees and other plants in late summer, but why they are more prominent in certain years is a mystery. One is mostly harmless to host plants while the other can be quite destructive. Clark spoke recently on Oklahoma State University’s SUNUPtelevision show about how he contacted Oklahoma State University Extension when he noticed the severe infestation.

“I was under the impression they only attacked cedar trees, but to my alarm, that’s not the case,” Clark said. Although he doesn’t expect much of a crop this year thanks to a spring freeze, he wonders if the bagworms will affect pecan tree yields next season. Becky Carroll, an OSU Extension fruit and nut specialist, said many growers who annually manage their crops for an insect called the pecan nut casebearer don’t see bagworm problems. Insecticides applied in late May or early June for the pecan nut casebearer can also effectively control bagworms and webworms, but extreme weather has played a role in the recent bagworm uprising.

“The past two years, we’ve had early fall freezes and late spring freezes, so some of our producers who’ve lost their crop haven’t been spraying for pecan nut casebearer,” Carroll said. “Once you miss a couple of years, those bagworm populations start to build.” Bagworms will feed on foliage and are active year-round, said Eric Rebek, an what they feed on as well as their natural enemies, such as predators, parasites and pathogens,” he said. “It’s a complex interaction that determines the ups and downs of their population cycle we see over time.” The feeding damage of bagworms is a serious threat to evergreen trees that keep their leaves year-round; more are considered primarily an aesthetic problem, Rebek said pecan producers are at risk of webworm invasions. Any pest that feeds on leaves can affect overall yields and diminish pecan crop returns. While insecticides are an effective treatment for webworms on deciduous trees, they are not necessary. Burning the insects out of tree

Prune out the webs as they start to appear or use a stick to break open the webs. This exposes the caterpillars to wasps and other arthropod predators that will feed on them.

— Erik Rebek, entomology specialist

OSU Extension entomology specialist. Males and females mate, die and leave their eggs in the unsightly bags that hang from tree branches. The bags, made of foliage the worms have weaved together with silk produced by special glands, are used for protection and are typically seen on cedars, junipers and other evergreen trees. This year, the bagworm population has increased to the point they are now expanding their host range to other plants, such as rose bushes and oak trees. Rebek said it is difficult to identify one factor that creates such an abundance. “It’s something with the environment, weather or moisture related, that affects time is required for regrowth to replace leaves destroyed by the pest. On the other hand, webworm damage is more temporary. The red-headed and black-headed races of webworms are both present in Oklahoma and build nests on deciduous trees from early July into the fall. “These trees have produced the photosynthate they will use for food and lose their leaves in the fall anyway,” Rebek said. Webworm caterpillars drop from the webs and enter a stage of wandering, searching for a place to burrow underground for the winter. The following summer, they emerge as adult moths to mate and begin laying eggs in host trees. Even though webworms canopies or any other kind of fire treatment is strongly discouraged. “Prune out the webs as they start to appear or use a stick to break open the webs,” Rebek said. “This exposes the caterpillars to wasps and other arthropod predators that will feed on them.” Bagworm management is ideal in the winter when the bags can be handpicked off trees and placed in bags for disposal offsite. For large infestations, Rebek recommends consulting an arborist or landscape professional. Also, local Extension educators can provide the most up-to-date information on reduced-risk insecticides for evergreen trees.

Chromebooks:

Swayze described the deal as an “incredible price” in line with what the district paid for the first Chromebooks eight years ago. Chromebooks are used by students in grades three through 12. The board also approved the following hires – Rachel Barnett, special education teacher at the high school; Tim Swann, administration building custodian/bus driver; Janell Percey, intermediate school custodian and bus driver, and Jerry Hailley, bus driver. Also approved was the district’s certified and non-certified salary schedules for 2021-22. “We were able to give $300 per step (certified) and a 2 percent increase for non-certified,” superintendent Dr. Sheli McAdoo said. The board approved a critical race theory policy and complaint procedure. The approval is required by law and the State Department of Education. The new school year brings with it a consolidated student handbook, which received board approval, along with a resolution adopting the McClain County Hazard Mitigation Plan. McAdoo noted the end of the summer meal program which provided more than 38,000 meals to eligible youngsters. She called the plan a “real blessing.” The superintendent encouraged parents to fill out free and reduced meal forms. Those forms determine the district’s funding eligibility for a number of programs, she said.

at Little Axe Elementary. She will teach fifth grade reading and writing. “I want to be part of our wonderful community,” she said. My husband (Justin) and I moved to Wayne four years ago and truly love it here.” In addition to teaching in the classroom, Denison teaches horsemanship at her “little business,” Life’s A Ride. Lyles is teaching first grade. She is a graduate of Washington High School and University of Science and Arts of Oklahoma in Chickasha. She previously taught first grade at Purcell. “I love the small town feel Wayne has and the community involvement,” she said. “My new co-workers are amazing and have already made me feel at home. I am so excited for this school year.” Madden is a first year teacher and will teach second grade. She is a graduate of Wayne High School and Southwestern Oklahoma State University. She and her husband, Nicholas, have a daughter, Kinsley. “I have lived in Wayne all my life,” she said. “I’ve always wanted to be able to teach and give back to my hometown. Really, it was a no-brainer to accept the job. Once a Bulldog, always a Bulldog!” Shofner, another first-year teacher, will teach third grade. She is a graduate of Lexington High School and USAO. She and her husband, Cameron, have one child, Barrett. “I chose to take this position because my husband grew up in Wayne and my child attends school here. It’s a great community,” she said. Ridgway is teaching math and STEM at the middle school. He is a graduate of Wayne High School and the University of Oklahoma. He and his wife, Rachel, are expecting a son. A first-year teacher, he looks forward to engaging students in mathematics and fostering a new love for STEM. “I’m excited to be a Bulldog again,” he said. “I look forward to teaching my favorite subject, math.”

Thomas will teach special education for all grades at the middle school. He is a graduate of Lexington High School and received bachelor’s and master’s degrees from East Central University in Ada and Southwestern Oklahoma State University at Weatherford, respectively. He and his wife, Missy, have two sons, Derek and Andrew. He previously taught special education at Little Axe, Lexington, Wanette and Purcell and most recently retired from teaching for the Oklahoma Department of Corrections. “I wanted to come back to teaching in a small community and Wayne has been a place I feel would be the right fit for me,” he said. “I have been in this area most of my life. I know a lot of people here and could not pick a better place to teach because of them.” Burnett returns to the high school to coach girls basketball after a 10-year hiatus. He is a graduate of Elmore City High School and ECU. He and his wife, Karen, have two daughters, Brooke Burnett and Alisha Dupuis and four grandchildren. “I am excited about coming back to Wayne after being away to help carry on the tradition of Wayne girls basketball,” he said. Embry is teaching English I and II, in addition to coaching boys basketball. He is a graduate of Wayne High School and ECU. “It’s a dream come true to come back home and teach, as well as becoming the head boys basketball coach,” he said. “I chose to become a teacher to have an impact on kids the same way my teachers did for me.” He is married to Gracie Embry. Russell is teaching high school science. She previously taught reading at Lindsay Middle School and science at Harrah Junior High School. “I enjoy a small school environment and my degree is in science and that’s what I love to teach the most,” she said. She has two children, Makena and Kheen.

McGirt:

murdered a Chickasaw mother and her two young children. In May, the Supreme Court agreed to keep Bosse on Oklahoma’s death row while they considered reviewing questions about Oklahoma’s criminal jurisdiction. Included in the petition is evidence of the decision’s drastic consequences in Oklahoma. “Oklahomans were not notified or afforded due process before their rights were so severely taken,” O’Connor said, adding the Biden administration was quick to cite McGirt and assert control over Oklahoma surface mining. He subsequently sued the administration to undo that incursion into Oklahoma’s sovereignty over land within its borders. “McGirt was wrongly decided, and its disruptive effects in Oklahoma are unprecedented,” the petition reads. “While the Court believed that compromise or congressional action could limit the disruption from its decision, it is now clear that neither is forthcoming.” Indeed, the tribes do not agree among themselves, much less with the state, on the proper path forward. “Only the Court can remedy the problems it has created, and this case provides it with an opportunity to do so before the damage becomes irreversible,” the petition states. By narrowing any application of the McGirt decision, the state could continue to imprison felons convicted before the McGirt ruling. Also, the petition asks the court to affirm the state’s authority to prosecute non-Native Americans who commit crimes against Native Americans in the former Muscogee (Creek) reservation revived by the Court in McGirt. As it stands, Oklahomans have no law enforcement respond to their calls for help. “Victims of atrocious crimes are being re-victimized by going through the legal process a second time, and, in some instances, seeing their loved one’s killer set free because federal prosecutors cannot file the claims against the released convicts,” O’Connor said. “Some theories sound good in concept but don’t work in the real world. The U.S. Supreme Court got this decision wrong and we are respectfully asking the Court to overturn its decision or to limit it to certain federal crimes. The most effective way to right this terrible wrong is for the court to overturn the McGirt decision. Without action, the negative consequences will damage Oklahomans for years to come.”

Dragons overcome jitters

Post season opening victory over Davis 10-5

John D. Montgomery
The Purcell Register

After spotting Davis to a 5-0 lead in the top of the third inning, Purcell went to work and fashioned a 10-5 victory to open the 2021 fast-pitch softball season. “We started off a little rocky in the first few innings and Davis took advantage,” head coach Sarah Jones said. “We had a few little miscommunications and first game jitters but they held their composure well.”

The Dragons started their comeback in the bottom of the third when they pushed across three runs cutting the gap to only two that they quickly made up the very next at bat.

Purcell split the game wide open with a five-run fifth inning. Led by a pair of freshmen, the Dragons pounded out 15 hits.

Hadleigh Harp and Coty Sessions both went 3-4 in their first varsity game. Sessions, who pitched two scoreless innings and played second base, also had an RBI.

Freshman Hannah Whitaker started the game in the circle and went three innings before Sessions came in. Freshman Ella Resendiz relieved Sessions to throw two scoreless innings.

Jones had six players swat doubles including KK Eck, Savanna Edwards, Resendiz, Sessions, Brynley Jennings and Harp.

Edwards had a two-run double going 1-4 at the plate while Eck was 1-2 with an RBI double.

Resendiz was 2-3 and Lauren Holmes had a 2-3 outing that included a team-high three RBIs. Jennings was 2-4 at the plate and knocked in a run.

Payci Constant also had a hit in the contest.

“From the first pitch we were making solid contact,” Jones said. “They made a few good catches, but we took off from there.

“Our kids got more comfortable at the plate and we settled in on defense.

“Hannah Whitaker started us off in the circle and did great, we just didn’t back her on defense,” the coach said. “Coty Sessions came in and did her job and Ella Resendiz closed for us. I had Kailynn Helton staying loose also in case we needed her step in as well.

Washington swung the bat well with 12 hits in the game.

It wasn’t a bad day, especially against a lineup like Tuttle.

— Tylor Lampkin, head coach

“I’m not sure if we were a little nervous but it was a little shaky at first,” said Warrior head coach Tylor Lampkin. “We settled in and never got too worked up.”

Tuttle scored two runs in the third inning and Washington held them scoreless the remainder of the game.

Junior Maggie Place got the start in the circle and threw six strikeouts while only giving up two walks.

Lampkin said the team got better at the plate after they batted through the order.

“We did a good job of making the Tuttle pitcher throw strikes that we wanted to hit,” he said.

Abby Wood, Ellie Loveless, Tinley Lucas, Place and Allison each had two hits.

Washington plays in the Chisholm Trail Classic at Tuttle today (Thursday). They face Cache at 4 p.m.

The Lady Bulldogs are set to travel to Prague on Tuesday, Bethel on Thursday and Purcell next Monday before returning home to host Little Axe next Tuesday.

James Kyzer sang “‘Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus” for the special at our morning service.

Brother David used II Thessalonians 1:11-12 for his sermon. He explained that terrible times we go through give us something to pray for. Prayer is very important.

We are to trust God through our trials. Our faith won’t get stronger unless it is tested. He blesses us, walking close to us if we trust Him.

It seems that several in our church family have been tested recently with family problems and sickness. Our prayers are that God will deliver us from these things.

We enjoyed a pizza lunch after worship. There was no evening service.

Upcoming events include a senior adult trip and lunch at Golden Corral at 11 a.m.,

August 20. Our youth group will be going to see the Harlem Globetrotters on August 21. We will be observing the Lord’s Supper at our evening service on August 29.

Pastor David Pickard and the church family at Sunray Baptist Church invite you to Sunday School, worship and all activities. We are located at 2223 North 9th Street in Purcell. For additional information call 527-6808.

Lexington Westside Church of Christ

Good week to all: Welcome to the front porch.

As we continue reflecting on our teaching time on the first Sunday of worship in Lexington, we had so much we wanted to share. The amazing blonde and I had just flown in from California late Saturday evening, so it was a quick turnaround to fly from Red Oak to Lexington Sunday morning.

But while in California, and then on the plane ride home, I decided that on the Lord’s Day I wanted to share some of the spiritual lessons we learned on that once-in-a-lifetime (we hope) trip to Yellowstone. One thing I’ve found with sermons is that most of the time they come to you, you don’t have to go to them. Such was the case here.

Besides that, we had spent a good two weeks trying to soak up exactly what all we went through on that getting-lost-in-Yellowstone hike, in addition to beginning to write a book on the adventure. The six points that we settled on came very easily, enabling us to share some of the Lord’s work with the congregation as we came back home to them for the first time since the trip.

And that’s really the point: Whatever we do, wherever we go, we should come back with a greater understanding of how the Lord works. I hope that in our short reflections here we can draw at least a vague picture of that for you.

The first lesson, as we introduced last week, was this: Let us walk and not faint, referring to grand old passage in the fortieth chapter of Isaiah: They that wait on the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint.”

It is impossible, I suppose, to describe the weariness in a six-day hiking adventure lugging an unwieldy 30-pound backpack through uneven terrain, suffocating heat, swarming mosquitoes, and uphill struggles. To walk 10 hours a day under those conditions and not faint. I must say, something bigger than you and me had to step in.

But then to take that difficult journey, and apply it to the Christian walk, and to understand that the Christian walk is very much like that, hat is the lesson I want to leave with those with whom we have influence.

Think of the apostle Paul: When he pens those words describing his horrible difficulties on his missionary journeys over in 2 Cor. 11, from shipwreck to being beaten with rods, we can read those words and sympathize to some degree.

Truth is, we can only vaguely relate, not unless we have spent a day and a night in the middle of the sea hanging onto a plank from the ship, or been beaten to within a short, shallow breath of your life. Yet, through unimaginable difficulties, Paul could walk and not faint.

I think I grew to understand that phenomenon better whenever I’ve tried to describe my own physical (and spiritual) journey that turned out differently than we ever expected. I’ve found it impossible to put those things into words.

But one thing happened for me, I am sure: It made me understand much better what the old prophet meant when he encouraged his brethren to wait on the Lord so they could find a way to walk and not faint; and it helped me dig down within myself and share with as much passion as I have the importance for us to keep on walking, keep on going, not pulling up short, not getting discouraged, staying in the race and running it with patience.

Take that lesson with you today, and this week, until we meet next week – on the ‘front porch.’ God bless!

Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church

By Stella Bledsoe

August 15 of every year is the date we recognize The Solemnity of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The Catholic teaching states: “On 1 November 1950, in the Apostolic Constitution Munificentissimus Deus Pope Pius XII declared the Assumption of Mary as a dogma: By the authority of our Lord Jesus Christ, of the Blessed Apostles Peter and Paul, and by our own authority, we pronounce, declare, and define it to be a divinely revealed dogma: that the Immaculate Mother of God, the ever Virgin Mary, having completed the course of her earthly life, was assumed body and soul into heavenly glory.”

In preparation to write this weekly column, I read numerous homilies (sermons). This week I was comforted to see that some priests find the subject perplexing. “To be honest, I’ve never quite known what to say when it comes to preaching about the Immaculate Conception, the Virgin Birth, or today’s feast, the Assumption of Mary into heaven.” Fr Frank Brennan SJ.

As Christians, we believe that Jesus is the son of God, he was born of the virgin Mary, he was crucified, and three days later he rose from the grave. He was seen on earth by many people after his resurrection and he ascended into heaven. Not all Christian faiths honor Mary to the extent that Catholics do. Nonetheless, all recognize that she was chosen by God to bring his son into the world. We all recognize that she played a significant role in all of his life including being at the foot of the cross when he died.

In the gospel reading, Luke 1:39-56, Mary traveled to Judah to visit her cousin Elizabeth. Elizabeth was pregnant, at an advanced age, with the boy who became John the Baptist. When Elizabeth saw Mary, the baby John leapt in her womb. Elizabeth said, ‘Of all women you are the most blessed, and blessed is the fruit of your womb.

43 Why should I be honoured with a visit from the mother of my Lord? 44 Look, the moment your greeting reached my ears, the child in my womb leapt for joy. 45 Yes, blessed is she who believed that the promise made her by the Lord would be fulfilled.’

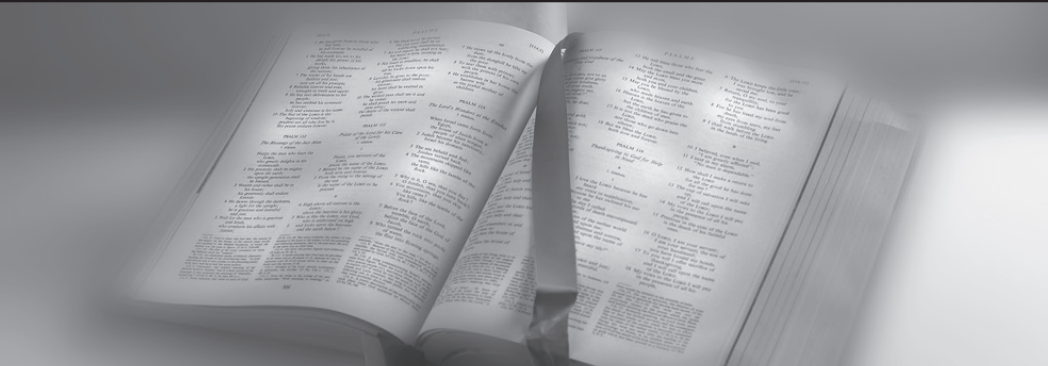

Mary replied, “My soul proclaims the greatness of the Lord 47 and my spirit rejoices in God my Saviour; 48 because he has looked upon the humiliation of his servant. Yes, from now onwards all generations will call me blessed, 49 for the Almighty has done great things for me. Holy is his name, 50 and his faithful love extends age after age to those who fear him.”

So, when I get to heaven, right after I get to see Jesus, I am going to find Mary.

Our Lady of Victory parish is located at the southwest corner of 3rd Street and Jefferson. The office is open weekday mornings. The phone number is 527-3077.

Weekend mass services are English Saturday, 5 p.m.; Sunday, 11 a.m.; Spanish Sunday, 1 p.m. Daily masses are Tuesday, 9 a.m.; Wednesday, 12 noon; Thursday, 7 p.m. (Spanish), and Friday, 9 a.m.

Peace be with you.

Green Avenue Church of Christ

The Wednesday evening Bible class examined four more songs in the song book the congregation uses, comparing the words of the songs with scripture.

The Sunday morning adult Bible class, still studying persecution and it’s relation to race, looked at some of the extra-biblical theories of race evolving Shem, Ham and Cannan.

During the Sunday morning assembly Keith Shackelford presented a lesson which closely examined the words of Jesus as He hung on the cross, primarily from Luke 23:32-49. Among other things, He referred to His relationship with God (verse 34), His humanity (verses 26 and 28) and His power and prerogative to forgive sins (verse 43).

The lesson also noted the words of one of the thieves who hung beside Jesus who expressed belief and confession the divinity of Jesus and probable repentance of his sins (verses 40-42).

The Sunday evening sermon dealt with a couple of false doctrines which are being taught today. One is that part of the law of Moses, the first ten commandments recorded in Exodus 20 and Deuteronomy 5, was not taken away when the rest of the law was taken away (Colossians 2:14).

The other false doctrine was that modern day revelation is required because the bible is not sufficient to guide us today. It was noted that 2 Peter 1:3 and Ephesians 3:3-5 say otherwise. The lesson also pointed out that the law of Moses was given only to the descendants of Jacob (Israel), not to Gentiles or Christians (Exodus 20:1-2; Deuteronomy 5:1-3).

The church is located at the intersection of Jackson Street and Green Avenue in Purcell. Worship services are at 10:45 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. each Sunday with Bible classes at 9:45 Sunday morning and 7 each Wednesday evening.

You can call the office at 527-4052 or email cofc_purcell@hotmail.com for correspondence courses or other information.

Our next Food Bank Give Away will be Saturday, August 21, from 12 p.m. to 4 p.m. We are asking everyone to go back to wearing masks because of the wide presence of the Delta variant of COVID-19. It has been found to be more contagious than the original and can be carried by even those who have been vaccinated. Masks can be provided if you do not have one, and hand sanitizer will also be available.

Our sermon this past Sunday was on the book of Jonah in the Old Testament. It’s a short story, with only four chapters, and talks about God calling Jonah to go to the city of Nineveh. There he was to draw attention to the sins happening there and to lead the people back to God.

There are a number of different ideas in Jonah that we could discuss, but I’d like to concentrate on one. Just because Jonah led the Ninevites to recognize God doesn’t mean that they were converted and made lasting changes to their lives.

When we need to make changes in our lives, we go through a few stages in accomplishing those changes. These stages apply to any change we need to make, no matter whether it is quitting smoking, starting an exercise program, or even deciding to turn to God.

To begin with, we may not even be aware that we need to make a change. We, like the Ninevites, go about our lives, doing what we always do. We might call this the “ignorance is bliss” stage, without seeing that there’s anything wrong in our lives.

Jonah’s job was to point out to the Ninevites that they were sinning and needed to repent of doing those wrongs. This stage is one of being “convicted” and realizing that we need to make a change in our lives. We now have a choice to make: stay the same or change.

If we choose to change, we make a commitment to a new behavior. The king of Nineveh and all its citizens saw the errors in their lives. A symbol of this was to wear sackcloth (burlap) and pour ashes over their bodies. As a part of the action plan, a new behavior has to be practiced. Finally, we again have a choice: to maintain the new behavior or to relapse into the old pattern.

There are a lot of things we can learn from Jonah, and the rest of the Bible for that matter. For me, the major one is that I have decided to commit myself to following Jesus. This should be reflected in the choices I make in my everyday life. I should honor God above all things and show love to others as I want to be loved. Everything I do should trace back to how Jesus shows us to live.

Recognizing that I may need to change my behavior in a situation is a first step. But I may forget in this midst of the madness of my human life. It’s sort of like forgetting to wear my mask in situations where I am in a larger group who can’t keep three to six feet apart. Then I choose to go back to get my mask from the car to protect myself and others.

When we dedicate ourselves to become a Christian, it calls for new behavior. At that moment of decision, we are sincere. But what about the next morning? We may find that we may backslide into our old habits.

The Ninevites took the first step with the symbols of mourning their behavior, and a number of them probably continued to pay attention to worshipping God. But I’m sure another part weren’t able to continue the new habit. Maybe it was too hard to do or too hard to remember.

The bottom line is: just because we recognize a mistake or a bad way of living doesn’t mean that we have a “forever” conversion from that way of behaving. We may have to confess that we’ve sinned when the Spirit tells us that we’ve returned to a bad habit or even developed a new (bad) habit.

That’s the neat thing about communion, that re-uniting with God. As part of the ritual, we confess to God that we messed up. Maybe we committed something we shouldn’t do, or maybe we omitted doing something we should have done. But we ask God to forgive us and to help us do better. We come away feeling renewed and can take a deep breath to start over again. Isn’t God’s loving grace wonderful?

We invite all of you to worship and have fellowship with us at 9:30 a.m on Sunday, followed by Sunday school at 11 a.m. Our address is 631 East Ash, just west of Lexington High School. For more information, please call the church at (405) 527-3506 to leave a message, or contact Pastor David directly at (405) 406-6174.

OMRF scientist connects gut health to ability to heal

New findings from the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation suggest the gut microbiome may impact wound healing and cartilage regrowth.

The research from OMRF physician-scientist Matlock Jeffries, M.D., could lead to new treatment for skin wounds, severe injuries and post-traumatic arthritis, a form of osteoarthritis (OA) that develops after an injury or reconstructive surgery.

Post-traumatic arthritis makes up more than 10 percent of OA cases and is one of the top reasons for injury-related discharge among active-duty U.S. soldiers.

Stemming from the loss of cartilage between bones and joints, OA affects an estimated 27 million Americans and is the leading cause of disability in adults in the U.S. With no way yet to regenerate cartilage, the only treatment is a joint replacement.

“Knee replacements caused by OA are the number one procedure expense to Medicare each year,” said Jeffries, a board-certified rheumatologist who treats patients in OMRF’s Rheumatology Research Center of Excellence. “But there are no drugs that stop or slow the progression of the disease.”

While most OA research focuses on genetics and blood, Jeffries turned his attention to the gut microbiome. Composed of thousands of tiny organisms in our digestive tracts, scientists increasingly suspect the microbiome as a key player in numerous conditions.

Jeffries’ lab looked at a unique strain of mouse called a “superhealer” that naturally, and unusually, heals wounds to its ear cartilage. Ear cartilage shares many similarities to knee cartilage.

Jeffries transplanted microbiome from the healer mice into a group of mice with average healing capabilities. After the transplant, the “non-healer” mice demonstrated an increased ability to generate new ear cartilage, as did their offspring.

The results, published in the journal PLOS One, indicate the gut microbiome has far more influence on the immune response to injury than previously understood.

“It was a completely unexpected finding,” said Jeffries, noting the idea among scientists had long been that healer mice owe their abilities purely to genetics.

Jeffries’ lab will now study if this healing ability is related to specific microbiome organisms, how long the healing boost lasts and how it may impact outcomes for OA.

“More study is needed, but potentially,” said Jeffries, “if an injury was caught in time, a microbiome transplant could change someone’s outcome.”

The research was conducted in partnership with the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center and funded by National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases grant No. 7K08AR070891-05, U.S. Department of Defense Congressionally Directed Medical Research Program award W81XWH-20-1-0002, and the Presbyterian Health Foundation.
