Break in the line

A utility company installing a new 12-inch water main along 9th Avenue north of the new hospital cut the existing water main in early April. The broken main left most of north Purcell without water for most of the day. Water lines and gas lines have been breached all over town.

interchange at Grant Street

Project to go out for bid in 2025

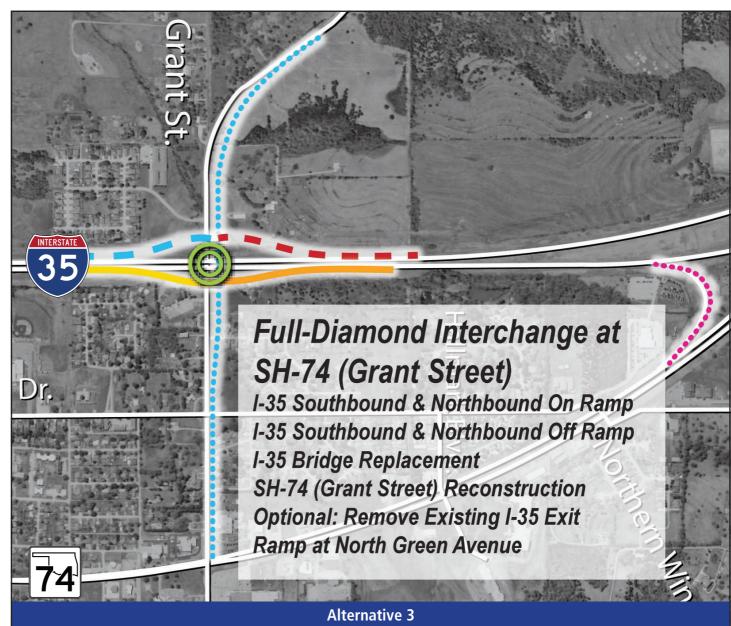

Following input from the public and stakeholders received earlier this year, the Oklahoma Department of Transportation and City of Purcell have announced their preferred alternative for a new I-35 interchange to be constructed at SH-74/ Grant Street on the north side of Purcell.

The project will now move forward to the next phases of development, which include detailed design and environmental review in preparation for future construction.

Alternative 3 adds a full diamond interchange at I-35 and SH-74/Grant St. with both north and southbound I-35 on- and off-ramps.

SH-74/Grant St. will be reconstructed with an added center turn lane between Green Avenue and Westbrook Boulevard to help accommodate traffic at

5 questions with Savannah Pyle

Editor's note: Answering The Purcell Register's five questions this week is Purcell merchant Savannah Pyle.

Q: What did you do before you got into retail? After graduating with a degree in retail fashion merchandising?

A: I managed a home decor store and did some interior decorating. I also worked at a bank.

Q: How long have you had Savvy Parke?

A: I opened Savvy Parke in May of 2012, 9 years.

Q: How has the supply chain issue affected you? A: Not too bad. I tried to keep orders with smaller companies that has seemed to help keep things moving! A couple of the bigger companies is where I had issues . I had to cancel

Christmas orders that I had made in July because they never came.

Q: What's the most challenging aspect of your job?

A: For me the most challenging aspect is just trying to stay on top of everything from answering people to orders to posting on social

Big difference between peaceful assembly and riot

The right to protest is one of the oldest and most-respected rights in the American democratic system.

The right of citizens to peacefully protest is protected by the First Amendment. But there are limits to even the most important rights.

Protests that turn violent are called "riots."

First Amendment rights aside, there are laws against rioting and inciting others

Next Thursday will be the first anniversary of one of the darkest days in the history of the United States.

It was Jan. 6, 2020 when anarchists stormed the U.S. Capitol resulting in members having to be sequestered.

Four people died and thousands of dollars of damage to the Capitol was inflicted by the rioters.

If he did incite the riot, then President Trump, should be facing the penalties of such a crime and not be allowed to run for office again.

to address vaccine mandates.

I've had numerous discusboth sides of the issue – some believe that the government should not get involved, while others believe the I even choose to run again, government should interject and stop individuals from private businesses.

Some ask that I sign on, which supports the idea that a private business owner's personal freedom doesn't matter. I cannot fathom telling someone that they don't have the authority to make decisions regarding their own business.

with people losing their jobs nately, I'm challenged with deciding whose personal freedoms are more important – the employee or employer. Each decision will result in someone being angry, but I equal rights.

Last session, I voted to create a fund for our Attorney General to fight against federal overreach, like that of the vaccine mandates. As Republicans, we believe the government shouldn't interfere in business operations.

However, there is a group of Republicans requesting the Legislature go into special session to do just that. Republicans have many core values, two of those being limited government and personal freedom. Now these in conflict.

I cannot tell you how many times over the past months that people have 'threatened' to run a candidate against me in 2024 because of my decision to not yet support a special session.

However, our attorney general has been successful in his pursuit to stop the federal government's unconstitutional mandates.

A week of special session would cost approximately $120,000; and it's difficult justifying spending additional funds to address an issue that our attorney general is already fighting with lawsuits that have been successful Blvd. Room 237, Oklahoma so far.

I've been praying over what term is over, I know God has decision to make regarding a plan for me. I don't know the call for a special session if He'll even call me to run again, but I have peace in knowing that He has a plan, sions with constituents on and I'm confident in knowing that His plan is perfect.

> Because of that confidence, threats of an opponent, should don't bother me.

I've been considering the mandating vaccines in their difference between politics and public policy. Larry Hosek of Wayne recently sent an email regarding legislation a colleague has filed to 'fix' education.

With his permission, I'm sharing a part of that email: "This bill is for nothing more than cheap political points and does not change anything. However, I'm also not okay It is political pandering by someone who does not know over their medical choices, what really goes on in a classwhich should always remain room, to people who also do a personal decision. Unfortu- not know... It will reflect the will of the ruling party."

To Mr. Hosek's point, there are some bills filed for 'political pandering,' and those bills are just politics. He also mentioned that bills such as believe both individuals have these "reflect the will of the ruling party." I couldn't have defined politics any better.

> This type of law is simply overturned if and when a different party takes control. They often appeal to a legislator's voter base, earn publicity, and look good on a mailer during campaign season. I'm not here to rack up points for campaign season.

Public policy is timeless. So unfortunately for those who are recruiting a candidate for the next election, I'm not focused on that. I believe that I was called to do the two fundamental beliefs are right thing, right now, and to spend my four years in office creating public policy that will benefit all Oklahomans, regardless of their political party, while using my conservative beliefs as the foundation for my decisions.

Although Mr. Hosek was referring to an education bill, I believe his points apply to everything we do in the legislature and is a good reminder to focus on good public policy, not politics.

If you have any questions or concerns on legislative matters, please contact me at the Capitol. Please write to Senator Jessica Garvin, State Capitol, 2300 N. By Dr. Glenn Mollette 2022 will be over almost quicker than you can say Happy New Year! Just look how fast 2021 sped by us all. Time rarely feels as if it's standing still unless we are waiting on something to happen.

Time only drags when we need something to happen like a cure for a disease, a job to open or a relative to come home. When time drags, we make the mistake of wishing it away.

We only have a little bit of time. We all have the same in a day, a week or a year. Every year that we live we are extended the same number of days and minutes.

We do all kinds of things with time. We waste time, kill time, try to make up time, lose track of time or don't pay attention hourglass one grain or second at a time.

Regardless of how we treat

I'm thankful for time. I'm grateful for time with my wife and each family member. I'm grateful for this moment to sit here and type a few words out on my keyboard.

I suppose one of my problems is how do I fit all I want to do into my time? I guess I enjoy doing too much. If I only enjoyed doing one or two things then my time spent might be a little easier.

Each day and moment I would simply devote my full attention to one particular aspect of life. Actually, that might not be a bad idea.

Could I devote 24 hours a day to my family? I could, but they really don't want me in their hair 24/7.

I could devote 24 hours a day time it's only doing one thing to prayer and reading the Bible moving swiftly through the or reading other good books. But then, I don't want to be an isolated religious person who never enjoys this incredible world or people.

> I could devote 24 hours a day to my educational work and do a lot of the work that others do. However, institutions are stronger and better when the work is spread around to others.

I could spend more time simply writing books or pursuing other hobbies I enjoy. Somehow, we have to determine what is best. I heard about this farmer who hired a man to sort potatoes. The man's job was to put the bad potatoes in one pile, the good potatoes in another pile and the best potatoes in another pile. The man agreed to the job.

News from Capitol Hill

Biden's destructive first year

Congressman Tom Cole

At the beginning of 2021, President Joe Biden entered office as the 46th President of the United States promising to usher in hope, bipartisanship and to rebuild our country after the coronavirus pandemic.

However, his first year has unfortunately been fixated on partisan, out-of-touch polices that have triggered several converging crises nationwide. Sadly, President Biden has managed to push our nation into a worse place than it was

Over the past several months, Americans have felt the dramatic rise of prices on almost everything. Moreover, there have been nationwide reports of empty shelves in stores due to the labor shortages caused by Democrats' damaging policies.

All the while, Americans' real wages are falling. In fact, under President Biden, real wages have decreased eight out of 10 months since his first full month in office.

This comes at a time of alarming economic reports that indicate that the problem is not only getting worse, but here to stay for the next few years. The staggering 39-year high of the Consumer Price Index reveals that the reckless spending and damaging policies of President Biden and Democrats are exacerbating the nation's inflationary and supply chain crises.

When President Biden assumed office, he inherited a country that was energy independent and even an energy exporter. In just 11 months though, he has effectively ruined our nation's energy independence with his antienergy agenda.

On his first day in office, he eliminated nearly 11,000 American jobs by halting work on the Keystone XL pipeline. His following executive orders banned new oil and gas leasing on U.S. lands and waters, which is projected to cost approximately one million American jobs and decrease U.S. Gross Domestic Product by $700 billion.

Because of these actions, Americans are paying 50 percent more for a gallon of gas and home heating costs are projected to rise by as much as 59 percent this winter. However, instead of making it easier for American companies to increase domestic oil and gas production and hire more American workers. President Biden has begged OPEC and Russia to increase oil output, increased the cost of oil by canceling leases, stalled new lease sales, proposed sky-high taxes on oil and gas production and directed the U.S. Department of Energy to release 50 million barrels of oil held for emergency use in the U.S. Strategic Petroleum

President Biden has also dismantled prior policies to keep the southern border secure and to discourage illegal entry.

Since the beginning of his presidency, 1.7 million illegal immigrants have been apprehended at our southern border, and documents from Border Patrol agents show at least 160,000 illegal immigrants have been released into our country with little to no supervision since March.

This has created the most troubling humanitarian, security and health crisis at our southern border in our nation's history. It has also created a fentanyl crisis with this year having the biggest increase in flow of counterfeit pills, fentanyl and fentanyl related poisons across the border in many years.

As fentanyl overdoses spike in the United States, even the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration has issued its first public safety alert in six years

Finally, Americans still mourn the loss of 13 U.S. military service members from a preventable terrorist attack at the Kabul airport after President Biden's botched withdrawal of U.S. troops from the region in August.

Since then, the Taliban has effectively taken over Afghanistan, a country America has spent two decades in and billions of dollars on trying to secure. Now in possession of United States weapons, this leaves us and our allies in the region susceptible to terror attacks.

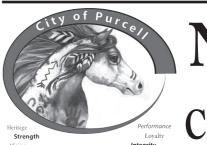

President Biden's weak leadership on the international stage has also encouraged bad actors in other areas to test the limits. For example, adversaries like China and Russia continue to test and provoke neighboring countries. This is happening warning the public about fake Middle East, Afghanistan and the Taiwan Strait.

Moreover, as Russianbacked cyber-attacks rise and Russian President Vladimir Putin inches closer to a possible second invasion of Ukraine, President Biden rewarded him by failing to enact sanctions on Russia's Nord Stream II pipeline, giving Russia a stranglehold on European energy supplies.

Instead of focusing on the real issues that are hurting our country and the American people, President Biden and congressional Democrats have solely focused on peddling multi-trillion-dollar spending bills full of radical big government policies. This is weak leadership and a complete lack of governing from the Democratic party that controls the House, Senate and the presidency. I hope over the next year,

During the remainder of the year, the City of Purcell will do brush pickup by work order only. This means that the customer has to call in to City Hall to request pickup with charges to be assessed to the customer utility account. The charges may range from $15 for a small load up to $50

Another deadly crash

Edmond woman killed in five car pile-up on I-35

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol investigated a five-vehicle fatality accident on Interstate 35 December 22 just before 7 p.m.

The patrol reported 24-yearold Chandra Crutasinger died at the scene. She was driving a 2015 Acura MDX. Two passengers in her vehicle were treated and released at OU Medical Center.

Lead investigator Mat Conway said a 2015 Ford F150 driven by Boyd Andrea, 35, of Springdale AR., struck a Chevrolet Tahoe in the rear to start the chain reaction accident.

The Tahoe left the scene but the Ford F150 went through the cable barrier and entered into oncoming southbound traffic. The Andrea vehicle then struck vehicles three, four and five before rolling onto its driver's side blocking both lanes of I-35.

Vehicle three was a 2020 Dodge Ram 1500 driven by Jeffery Levingston, 53, of Sulphur Springs, TX. Both he and a passenger, Debbie Levingston, 59, of Sulphur Springs were treated and released at Purcell Municipal Hospital.

Vehicle four was a 2007 Freightliner driven by Abdisamad Yasin, 42, of Burnsville, MN. He was not injured.

Vehicle five was the Crutsinger vehicle. Amber Scholl, 27, of Edmond and Ericka Scholl, 23, of Edmond were passengers in the vehicle.

Assisting Conway at the scene were Troopers Mike Wallace, Lt. Andre Rawls, Lt. Mike Abernathy, Caleb Scott Jarrod Terry, Destiny Terry, Dylan Wright, Purcell Firefighters and Wadley's EMS.

The accident remains under investigation.

Purcell Register Obituaries

Terry Randol McCaskill

Funeral services for Terry Randol McCaskill, 71, of Purcell will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, December 30, 2021 at the Wilson-Little Funeral Home Chapel. Interment will be at Hillside Cemetery in Purcell under the direction of the Wilson-

Little Funeral Home in Purcell.

Mr. McCaskill passed away on December 24, 2021 at Norman Regional Hospital.

Terry was born the oldest of six on June 2, 1950 to Bobby Francis McCaskill and Melba Rahe McCaskill (Cariker). He moved around a bit in his early childhood before his family finally settled in Purcell. Terry attended Purcell Schools and graduated with the Dragon class of 1968.

In the summer of 1969, Terry married his high school sweetheart and the love of his life, Sandra Kay Whatley on June 21, at Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church in Purcell. They were blessed with four children and made their home in Purcell.

Terry was in the lumber business for 52 years. He began at Sutherlands Lumber, Carey Lumber Co., and Blanchard Building Center before spending the majority of his career at Fox Building Supply. For many years he served on the board of the Lumberman's Association, having achieved lifetime membership of service. He also received many sales accolades, including the Top Salesman awards for several years. Terry even enjoyed bringing his work home with him, building handcrafted toys, swords and furniture for his kids and grandkids.

When he wasn't working, Terry enjoyed spending his free time playing a variety of sports with many of his lifelong friends and family members. As he got older, he became an avid golfer, which allowed him the ability to spend time with his two sons and many others he considered his family and dearest friends.

He loved coaching his children when they played little league sports, and he remained active in adult league sports himself playing softball, basketball, and bowling. He was a true family man and loved spending time with his wife and kids, especially while enjoying a good meal together.

Terry was a musical man as well, he played guitar and even played with a rock n' roll group in his younger years called The Renegades. He had a long-time association with Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church in Purcell as he grew closer to the Lord. Terry will be missed by all those who knew and loved him.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Bobby and Melba McCaskill, and his two-year-old son, Kevin Scott McCaskill.

Pets play vital role in mental health

Trisha Gedon Extension Educator

Pets are cute and cuddly, but they serve a bigger purpose beyond companionship. Research has shown pets are good for both mental and physical health.

What do researchers mean when saying pets are good for health? It means they can improve the mental and physical wellbeing of any pet owners, not just those who are facing health challenges such as cancer, depression or some other illness, said Rachel Morse, Oklahoma State University Extension mental health specialist with the Oklahoma 4-H Youth Development program.

"Research has shown that pet owners had greater self-esteem, were more physically fit, tended to be less lonely, were more conscientious, tended to be less fearful and were more extroverted," Morse said.

"Pets also have been a great source of comfort and company for individuals who have had to transition from a bustling office space to their own quiet living room during the COVID-19 pandemic. Others may have still been able to go into the office for work but have otherwise kept themselves close to home," she said.

It's no secret pets help relieve stress their owners are experiencing. Pets are good, they're intuitive. They can as well as happiness and joy. Research has shown therapy animals have proven to decrease stress levels even hours campus. after a short interaction.

body cues and know when to visits are increasing signifi-

Morse recalled while working at home during the pandemic, she would get wrapped up in her work all day. Her cat, Miriam, could sense Morse needed a break and would repeatedly paw at her.

"It annoyed me at first, but I realized I hadn't taken a break all day. It's so easy to go for days without stepping outside, so I started taking Miriam outside daily so we both could get some fresh air and sunshine to change up our routine," she said. "Pets and their owners take care of each other. They really can help us through tough times."

While most studies focus on traditional pets like dogs and cats, any animal can be a therapy pet. Some people find birds to be calming, or perhaps a hedgehog, a bearded dragon or even a tarantula. It's important to find the pet that works for each individual.

Recognizing the role of pets in mental health, this fall the OSU Center for Pet Therapy opened to help meet the emotional needs of students, faculty and staff. What started as a vision from former First Cowgirl, Ann Hargis, Pete's Pet Posse began in 2013 with eight dogs as a way to focus on students' mental health.

The program has since grown non-judgmental listeners, and into a successful pet therapy program with nearly 60 dog/ sense stress, fear and sadness, owner teams, said Kendria Cost, director of the OSU Center for Pet Therapy, located at 224 Student Union on the OSU

"We see every day the impact these dogs have on not only the students, but also the faculty and staff," Cost said. "The dogs create smiles, laughter and a welcome distraction from whatever they are dealing with on that particular day. Research has shown animals have the ability to help with depression, loneliness and increase mood."

The owners/handlers of the dogs in the program serve as ambassadors on behalf of the university, actively listening to students' concerns and offering resources as appropriate. They make public appearances on campus as well as private visits to organizations, classrooms and special events that can be scheduled when dogs are

"We make the students aware of the services that are available to them. The dogs allow students to be more receptive and help open up dialogue,"

To date, the program has touched 263,000 lives and made 4,400 special appearances. At OSU, eight classes of therapy teams have been trained. OSU-Tulsa and the OSU Center for Health Sciences have trained three classes of therapy teams.

Pete's Pet Posse has been rated among the most popular programs for student satisfaction and retention in the annual OSU Student Satisfaction

Oklahoma's white-tailed deer population has increased from 40,000 to more than 250,000 since the 1960s. As the deer population expanded, deer moved into peripheral fence or eight-foot high, deersuburban areas.

As deer begin moving into an area, homeowners initially enjoy seeing them and may actually encourage deer to come into their yard by feeding them. Rural subdivisions may ban hunting or place restrictions on firearm use to protect deer or for safety reasons.

Homeowner attitudes begin repellents repel by taste; changing after deer numbers increase to the extent that shrubbery shows heavy browsing and gardens become difficult to grow because of continued depredation. In addition to browsing, damage may occur in the fall when bucks begin rubbing antlers on small trees or young nursery stock.

The problem of damage control is not an easy one to solve. Trapping and moving excess deer is often suggested by homeowners as a humane alternative to hunting with guns or even limited hunting with archery tackle.

However, the cost to move Oklahoma are well populated misapplied.

of chronic malnutrition. At best, trapping and relocating problem deer is only a shortterm solution.

Deer damage control methods fit into six categories:

- Exclusion—by electric proof fence;
- Scare or frightening tactics—with tethered dogs, gas exploders, fireworks or discharging firearms;
 - Habitat modification;
- Population reduction through sport hunting;
- Repellents—area repellents repel by smell and contact
- Alternative plantings.

Control methods other than an eight-foot high, deer-proof fence or an electric fence reduce damage by 50 to 75 percent at best, and often much less. A deer-proof fence does not fit well with most landscaping plans and can be expensive if large areas are to be protected. For small gardens, a deer-proof fence can be cost effective. For best results they should be constructed before serious damage occurs. Scare tactics work for only short periods of time, but may be useful by providing enough deer to lower damage enough protection to allow the to tolerable levels is definitely crop to be harvested. Habitat prohibitive. It should be rec-modification is expensive and ognized that most areas of may actually attract deer if

A professional wildlife bi-Any deer moved to another ologist should be consulted Repellents which provide an unpleasant taste or odor can be used, but damage will not be entirely eliminated. Effectiveness will vary with deer density, season and availability of alternate foods.

Bear in mind that repellents will not completely eliminate damage and that a given method's effectiveness will change seasonally, based on what natural foods are available to deer. Many repellents do not weather well and will need to be reapplied after a rain.

There are several plants that deer do not prefer to feed on. You may have very little damage on ornamental grasses, but have to fence fruit trees and most garden crops (some of their favorites include okra, peas, beans, and watermelons), tulips and hydrangeas.

A sample of deer resistant plants is listed in the OSU Fact Sheet, HLA-6427 Ornamental and Garden Plants: Controlling Deer Damage.

Late summer and early fall is when bucks like to rub their velvet covered antlers on small trees. I recommend that you wrap or cover the trunks of these to discourage this activity.

I like to use a 4 foot section of 6" perforated black drain pipe for this. Split it down the middle and it makes a cheap, reusable, easy to install protector for your tree trunks.

While deer are beautiful animals to look at, they can be devastating to managed landscapes. With a little preparation, planning, and maybe hardware you can learn to coexist and share your environment with them.

I would like to see all our veteran organizations be more engaged in local communities.

Our volunteers work very hard to process the many veterans and surviving spouse applications for benefits. I encourage all veterans and their families to consider being a part of what we do for the men and women who have served in the military.

We have training weekly that can either be in person or digital on your computer or tablet. With our new computer programs, volunteers can work from home or at our Foundation. Many veterans in our community need our help to navigate the VA claims process.

As always, we need more volunteers to help us to make a difference in the lives of veterans and their families. Please consider being a volunteer to enable us to change the lives of the men and women who have served in our armed forces.

Every week we receive calls from veterans or surviving spouses who want to file a claim for benefits. My answer to all of them is if you don't have an open claim, call VA at 1-800-827-1000 to ask them to start a claim for you. Doing this will give the veteran a start date of the following month and give them one year from that date to file the VA application for Beginning an open claim neans that if the veteran made that call in December 2021 and it took them six months to gather evidence and file their claim, benefits would begin Feb. 1, 2022, if their application for benefits was approved.

With so many of our veterans dying from COVID and the different variants, we see an increased number of surviving spouses applying for VA benefits. I encourage all spouses to know for what their veteran is service-connected.

If the service-connected disability is listed on their death certificate as their cause of death or is listed under the contributing condition section. In that case, the spouse should be able to receive VA DIC compensation ranging from $1,200 to $1,600 per month.

Banquet honors graduates

Although the University of Science & Arts of Oklahoma has shifted to a single commencement ceremony held each spring, the institution still celebrated those who completed their degrees in the fall 2021 term during a recent graduate banquet.

Among those students were Lyca Balbuena of Wayne, Arizona Ridgway of Byars and Mandy Ozment and McKenzie Smith, both of Purcell.

Balbuena earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in economics; Ridgway earned a Bachelor of Science degree in early childhood education; Ozment earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in history with a teacher certification in social studies; and Smith earned a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in art.

"The students we are honoring this evening have shown that, despite a global health crisis, they find a superlative value in the special way that this university operates, and in the interdisciplinary methodology designed to launch them into their chosen career path with the utmost proficiency," said President John Feaver. "Every student here tonight has worked exceptionally hard to achieve their baccalaureate degree, and standing here, shaking their hand as they become alumni of this esteemed institution has always been one of my greatest joys as its president."

Northwestern honor roll students

Fall semester honor rolls at Northwestern Oklahoma State University have been announced by the Office of the Executive Vice President. Those on the President's Honor Roll earned all A's, or a 4.0 grade point average (GPA), in a minimum of 12 undergraduate or nine graduate hours. Those on the Vice President's list had grade point averages of 3.5 or better in a minimum of 12 undergraduate or nine graduate hours. Undergraduate students on the honorable mention lists had 4.0 or 3.5 GPAs, respectively, in a minimum of three to a maximum of 11 semester hours. Graduate students on those rolls were enrolled in a minimum of three to a maximum of eight semester hours.

Named to the President's Honorable Mention Honor Roll, undergraduate students, were Lacy McCornack of Dibble and Luke Sinclair and Ethan Spruill, both of Lexington. Named to the Vice President's Honorable Mention Honor Roll, undergraduate students, was Koalten Orr of Lexington.

Chair exercises are beneficial for older adults

"OSU Extension offers organized classes such as Walk with Ease and Tai Chi: Moving for Better Balance, but some older adults may have mobility issues that make it difficult to get out of the house.' If that's the case, all they need is a sturdy chair and a couple of full water bottles or cans of vegetables to get started. Chair exercises are a great alternative for older adults who have difficulty moving around. Leg, arm and core muscles can get a workout from a seated position, which can help reduce the risk of injury from a fall. Easy stretching exercises are also beneficial for mobility.

Peek provided several example activities to start off the new year:

Arm exercises

• Seated shoulder press: Work on arm muscles by sitting in a comfortable chair and raising your arms above your head. To kick it up a notch, hold a water or can of vegetables in each hand for weight resistance.

• Seated chest press: Start with arms at a 90-degree angle and bring them out in front of the body, then relax and pull them back in. Again, adding weight is an option.

• Bicep curls: With arms at a 90-degree angle, raise and lower the forearm.

Do you recall reading the short story, "The Gift of the Magi," in school? It is a story of newlyweds Della and Jim memorable Christmas gifts but they are poor.

Jim has a silver pocket watch which had been his father's and his grandfather's and it was his pride and jov.

Della is a lovely girl with long beautiful hair. Della sold her hair and used the money to purchase a beautiful chain for Jim's pocket watch. Jim sold his treasured watch to buy Della exquisite combs frankincense, and myrrh.

Do you have something you treasure? Maybe it is a quilt made by your mother or the family Bible handed down for generations. Perhaps it is who want to give each other favorite author or your firstborn's bronzed baby shoes. The things we treasure are almost always one of a kind and cannot be replaced. If we choose to part with them, it is to give them to someone we treasure.

On the Epiphany of the Lord, we recall the Magi travelling from the east to pay homage to the Christ child. They brought him their finest treasures: gold,

We have just celebrated Christmas. God sent Jesus to us. It would not be a stretch to believe God treasured Jesus more than anything else. Giving our time, talent, and a first edition book by your treasure back to God demonstrates how grateful we are for God's gift to us.

Start seeds outdoors with winter sowing

MelindaMyers

The Purcell Register

Save money and indoor space used for starting seeds indoors with winter sowing. This easy technique allows you to start transplants from seeds outdoors without a greenhouse or cold frame.

Growing your own transplants from seeds can save you money and is often the only option for new, unique, and other hard to find plants. Not everyone has the time, equipment, and dedication to watering that's needed to start plants indoors.

All you need are flower and vegetable seeds, milk jugs or two-liter soda bottles, duct tape and a quality potting mix. Check the seed packet for information on planting details and timing.

Winter sowing dates vary with the growing climate, individual gardener, and seed variety you are planting.

Try starting hardy perennials and self-seeding annuals sometime winter through early spring. Other flowers and vegetables seeds are typically winter sown about the same time you would plant them indoors or a month or two before the transplants get moved into the garden.

Keep a record of your planting dates and results to help you fine tune your planting schedule and increase future success.

Drill four to 12 small holes in the bottom of the jug for drainage. One winter sower fills the container with water and pops it into the freezer or outside in below freezing temperatures.

Once frozen solid, he drills the holes into the container.

The ice prevents the plastic container from collapsing during the process.

Next, partially cut the jug to create a hinged lid. Make your cut about three to four inches above the bottom, leaving the area by the handle attached so it forms a hinge. The bottom of the milk jug handle is usually a good guide.

Fill the bottom with moist potting mix. Plant seeds according to the package directions. Gently water until the excess runs out the bottom of the container.

Fellow gardener, Patricia, uses rolled newspaper or the cardboard tubes from toilet paper to help space and eventually transplant her winter sown seedlings. She makes newspaper pots by wrapping 22 ½" x 5" strips of newspaper around a 2½" diameter x 4" tall jar. She folds the end to create the bottom for a 3 ½" tall pot.

Secured with staples, she sets the pots or toilet paper rolls in the milk jug, fills with potting mix, tops them off with about half an inch of seed starting mix and then plants her seeds.

Label the inside and outside of the jug with a permanent marker. Close the lid and seal it shut with duct tape.

Remove the cap before setting your milk jugs in a sunny location outdoors where rain and snow can reach it. Keep them handy to prevent waterlogged soil during extremely wet weather.

Water your outdoor seed starting chambers during snowfree and dry weather. This will be much less often than those

Her maternal grandfather, Harrel McManus, was a sign painter and dabbled in artistic endeavors. Her mother, Karen Goodnight, a Chickasaw Nation legislator, business executive and 2014 Chickasaw Nation Dynamic Woman of the Year, studied art in college before devoting herself to education.

"I love my family. I grew up in Konawa, then we moved to Goldsby, and I graduated high school in Norman," she said. "Art has always been a huge part of my life since a very early age. My parents encouraged it, and art figures prominently in my family, especially on mom's side."

Her twin sister, Katie, and brother, Kyle "are every bit as artistic as me but chose other professional career paths," Goodnight proclaimed.

Her parents' home in Norman even has a painting hanging on its wall by her father, Stan, an oil field executive, avid cyclist and business entrepreneur.

She signed a Last Will and Testament dated 10/11/2007 which was validly executed according to the laws of the state of California where the decedent was domiciled at that time. The Petitioner has asked that this Court to order summary proceedings pursuant to 58 O.S. § 245, et seg. and that the estates be combined into one case pursuant to 58 O.S. § 714.

In an Order for Combined Notice entered herein, the Court found that it should dispense with the regular estate proceedings prescribed by law and order notice to creditors and issue an order for hearing upon the Petition, and "Final Accounting and Petition for Determination of Heirs, Legatees and Devisees and Distribution". Pursuant to the Order for Combined Notice, all creditors having claims against William Jack Stephens and Joan Beulah Stephens deceased, are required to present

At the hearing the Court will decide whether to approve the Petition and final inventory and accounting and petition for determination of heirs, and distribution.

You are hereby advised that you must file objections to the Petition and the final account and petition for determination of heirs, legatees and devisees and distribution at least ten (10) days before the hearing and send a copy to the Petitioner's attorney or you will be deemed to have waived any objections. If you have no objections, you need not appear at the hearing or make any filings with the Court.

If an objection is filed at least ten (10) days before the hearing, the Court will determine at the hearing whether the will attached to the petition shall be admitted to probate, whether summary proceedings are appropriate and. if so, whether the estate will be distributed and to whom the estate will be distributed.
