Bone dry

McClain County joins some 22 other Oklahoma Counties in the extreme drought category. The area received an inch of rain overnight Friday and into Saturday morning but it wasn't enough to put a dent in the problem. Tinder dry conditions are making for extremely high fire danger so residents are encouraged to be extra cautious.

Another fatality

Sixth in this area since December 2

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol investigated yet another fatality traffic accident in this area early Monday morning.

The OHP said a 2002 Ford Van driven by Gabriel Williams, 18, of Oklahoma City rolled 3 1/2 times, ejecting three passengers and pinning Williams.

Williams was pronounced dead at the scene. He was pinned in the vehicle for 1 hour and 30 minutes before being extricated by the Goldsby Fire Department.

Anthony Greco, 18, of Oklahoma City and two 17-year-old males (names withheld) were all ejected

Temperatures up and down

Today (Thursday) setting up for brutal wind chills

A cooler week is setting up here in Oklahoma to break in the new year.

A cold front will swing through, bringing temperatures Thursday that will fail to get above freezing.

Combined with gusts in the 20-25 m.p.h. range, wind chills

Thursday will struggle to climb out of the teens.

A cooler morning Friday will bring highs in the lower-to-mid 40's, but will make way for a five-star day on Saturday, with highs in the 60s throughout the day.

Another cold front will push through overnight Saturday into Sunday, bringing more brisk northerly winds and cooler air behind it, as Sunday and Monday will not break 50. The middle of next week looks to rebound with more above average temperatures.

Grow herbs year-round

Growing indoors for 12-month enjoyment

Melinda Myers
For The Purcell Register

Add garden fresh flavor to your meals year-round. Grow a few of your favorite herbs indoors, harvest and enjoy.

Select a variety of herbs you and your family enjoy and use for cooking, decoration, or fragrance. Basil, chives, cilantro, oregano, marjoram, mint, parsley, sage and thyme are some of the easier herbs to grow indoors. Purchase plants or seeds from your local garden center, favorite garden catalog or produce section of the grocery store.

Most herbs need six to eight hours of bright light each day. A south-facing window in winter is best but an east- or west-facing window may be sufficient. Increase success with artificial lights. Set the timer for 14 to 16 hours a day and keep lights 6 to 12" above the plants.

You will find lots of energy efficient and stylish options for just about any space. Sleeker designs like Gardener's Supply Micro Grow Light Garden can be placed on the kitchen counter or a small table. Furniture grade options like Bamboo LED Grow Light Garden (gardeners.com) make it easy to grow herbs in just about any room in the house.

Use a variety of plants to create an attractive display in a large windowsill planter. Combine plants that have the same growing requirements to ensure success.

Or place each herb plant in its own container. A four- to seven-inch pot is a good size when starting with smaller plants. Growing individual plants in their own container allows you to provide the specific watering, care and transplanting they need.

Select containers with drainage holes or reduce maintenance and increase success with self-watering containers like Viva self-watering planters. Just fill the water reservoir that gradually releases water into the soil for the plants to use. You will need to water less often.

Fill the container with a well-drained quality potting mix. Many contain a slow-release fertilizer, providing weeks or even several months of nutrients for your plants. Just check the label for details and adjust fertilization as needed.

Water the containers thor-

City of Purcell

It is the responsibility of the home owner and or renter to maintain your property, from the street to the middle of the alley. You are required to keep mowed any grass, weeds, or similar vegetation in that area between the property line and the street. And from the property line to the center of the alley way. This includes keeping trees trimmed.

Vehicles, trailers, tractors etc. are not allowed to be parked in the alley. This is very important for emergency vehicles such as fire trucks, ambulances and police. Keeping the alleys clean and free and open also allow for the city's work trucks to have access to utility poles, water mains, sewer etc.

In cases of emergencies these vehicles need to have quick and easy access for service and to save lives.

Winter is a good time for cedar control

Justin McDaniel
Extension Ag Educator

The bright green of eastern red cedar can certainly brighten up the dull landscape of winter. In their place, cedar trees can be a welcome addition to the scenic landscape of a home or farmstead. However, they also have become a huge problem in pastures, rangelands and hardwood forests.

Cedars are native to all of Oklahoma, but historically they were limited to steep bluffs along river systems where they were protected from naturally occurring fires.

Today, after many years of suppressing wild land fires, cedar trees have become insidious invaders of native habitats where they do not belong. Given a chance, cedar trees will take over and dominate a pasture in as little as 10 to 20 years.

Winter is an excellent time of year to practice mechanical control of cedar since its evergreen color stands out in the brown winter vegetation. This makes small cedar trees easy to identify and then to cut down.

A tree less than three feet tall can easily be cut with an axe or pair of handheld loppers.

Many producers will cut down 30 or 40 trees every time they go out to feed their livestock. Over a winter feeding period, this can mean the destruction of many unwanted cedars in a fence line or pasture.

On warmer days, a sturdy brush hog behind a tractor can be utilized to control cedars of up to 6 foot in height. The producer can drive around the pasture until a cedar is encountered, the mower can then be engaged, and the offending tree backed over and chopped up.

It is a non sprouter so if all the green growing points are removed from above ground the tree will not have the ability to grow back.

Commercial mechanical cutters can also be utilized at this time of year without the worry of yellow jackets, snakes and hot temperatures making the operator feel uncomfortable.

These trees can then be piled and burned when snow or light winter rains are falling or in the spring after complete greenup. This allows for the safe removal of the downed trees without the worry of uncontrolled pasture fires starting.

There are a few chemical control options for cedar trees, but they are best used in late winter or early spring. Most require the placement of undiluted chemicals such as Velpar® or Tordon® under the drip line of the tree followed up by a good soaking spring rain.

Give me a call if you would like more information on chemical use.

Cedar trees have their place in Oklahoma's landscape, but that does not mean we should allow them to continue to take over Oklahoma's entire prairie habitat.

Next time you feel like you are getting the winter doldrums, go out and cut down a few cedars. Maybe it will improve your mood on one of those gray winter days.

Herbs:

oughly whenever the top inch of soil is dry. Pour off excess water so the plant does not sit in the excess and succumb to root rot. Or place pebbles in the tray to elevate the pot above any water that collects in the saucer or tray. This means less work for you and better growing conditions for the plant.

Incorporate a slow-release fertilizer or use a dilute solution of any indoor houseplant fertilizer once the nutrients in the potting mix are spent. Follow label directions and do not overdo as too much fertilizer can harm your plants.

Begin harvesting most herbs when they reach six to eight inches in height and as needed. Use a sharp pair of garden scissors, snips, or hand pruners. Make cuts above a set of healthy leaves so the remaining plant is neater and tidier in appearance. As the plant grows, you will be able to harvest larger quantities and more often.

Start with a few of your favorite herbs and expand your collection as you gain experience. Soon you will be confident and eager to try more challenging favorites.

Winter preparedness

In light of what happened earlier this week in Virginia when hundreds of motorists were stranded overnight on the highway, here are some winter driving tips.

In your vehicle have a phone charging block.

Always have a phone when you drive. If your car breaks down you will want to get help as soon as possible.

You will want your phone to stay charged long enough for people to find you.

Have a shovel, scraper and pick axe in your car. In a severe snow storm a lot of snow can accumulate while you wait.

Snow socks are an inexpensive quick way to get more traction if you find yourself in slippery conditions.

Have a warm blanket, sleeping bag and extra clothes. If you find yourself in a rapidly chilling car you will be glad to have all the extra layers like long underwear, warm sweats, socks and mittens.

Editor's Notebook

John D. Montgomery

Have cat litter on hand for getting traction out of a slippery situation.

Have high calorie snacks and water.

Burning calories helps your body stay warmer and staying hydrated helps keep you warmer.

Another good idea is to have battery powered road flares. They are easily packed and usually come in packs. The best part is they warm up so they won't become obscured by falling snow.

Another necessity is having a battery powered flashlight and extra batteries.

Having a flashlight in your car is a good idea year round but especially in the winter months when it gets dark so early.

Sunglasses are another good suggestion.

Snow and ice reflect a lot of light. Sunglasses can protect your eyes from glare.

Hello from District 43

• Senator Jessica Garvin •

Update from the Capitol

Happy New Year! I hope everyone had a wonderful holiday weekend, celebrating with friends and family while also getting some rest as we kick off 2022.

With the new year comes new laws. There are three main dates when laws go into effect, July 1, November 1, and January 1. This week, we saw nearly 20 officially go on the books, including one I served as the principal Senate author on. House Bill 1062 extends the homestead tax exemption for 100 percent disabled veterans, their surviving spouses, or the surviving spouse of someone who died while in the line of duty to include those who own homes located on land owned by a city or town.

HB 1009 provides further financial relief by increasing the maximum gross household income to qualify for an additional homestead exemption of $1,000 from $20,000 to $25,000. Any federal stimulus or relief payments related to the COVID-19 virus are excluded from the calculation.

Oklahomans will also be getting some much-needed tax relief thanks to two other new laws. The top personal income tax rate will be reduced from five percent to 4.75 percent, impacting more than 1.5 million Oklahomans who on average will save about $130 annually.

The Earned Income Tax Credit refundability has been restored, providing tax relief to low- and moderate-income working families. The corporate income tax will also be lowered from six percent to four percent, providing tremendous tax relief to our business community.

Several important health laws also went into effect. Telemedicine will now be covered under all health benefit plans in Oklahoma. This will help improve our state's health outcomes as so many more citizens will be able to access mental health services and meet with their primary care physician from the comfort and safety of their home.

Many individuals, who never sought healthcare services prior to the pandemic, are now taking advantage of telehealth services. The new law also will ensure payment parity for physicians who care for patients using telemedicine.

NEWS FROM CAPITOL HILL

Work left to be done

Congressman Tom Cole

The activity during the first session of the 117th Congress last year was unfortunately marked by partisanship and political games.

Controlling both chambers of Congress and the White House, Democrats focused primarily on advancing radical and expensive policy items, irresponsibly neglecting to complete basic functions of Congress or to address actual challenges facing the American people.

Indeed, going into the second session this year, there is still much work to be done. However, it can only be accomplished through bipartisan and bicameral cooperation.

Because Democrats have been so focused on peddling their multi-trillion-dollar big government wish lists, Congress has still yet to complete its most fundamental job of passing the 12 annual appropriations bills that provide full-year government funding for fiscal year 2022.

Since the previous fiscal year began on October 1, the government has instead been funded by two short-term continuing resolutions – the current one lasting until February 18. In the days and weeks ahead, I remain hopeful that lawmakers can come to agreement and fulfill this critical function.

However, a lot must change in terms of the approach taken by Democrats. First, the funding levels as proposed are unacceptable, with too much going toward domestic and too little toward our national defense.

Before anything can reach the president's desk, defense spending must go up and domestic must come down.

Moreover, in order for there to be bipartisan support for annual funding, the long-standing Hyde and Weldon amendments, which protect the conscious rights of millions of Americans opposed to taxpayer-funded abortions, must be restored.

Indeed, both parties have proven they can work together on and pass significant and bipartisan legislation. Remember, Congress managed to pass five bipartisan coronavirus relief bills in 2020.

And in recent weeks, lawmakers advanced and President Joe Biden signed into law the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) for fiscal year 2022, which demonstrates what can be achieved with commonsense cooperation.

However, although the NDAA authorizes more funding and resources than outlined in President Biden's budget and in current versions of the defense appropriations bill, Congress must act to actually deliver the funding resources our military needs.

Finally, Congress must get to work on solutions to address the numerous crises Americans face – including 39-year-high inflation, labor and supply chain shortages, a growing fentanyl crisis, an open border and unfolding dangers and threats around the world.

The last thing the American people need right now is big government, high-tax legislation that would not only further increase prices on nearly every good, but also leave less money in the pockets of hardworking families.

Your Views

Blame to go around

Dear Gracie and John D.,

Wow what gall my Congressman Tom Cole (R) Moore, displayed in his column last week titled "Biden's destructive first year."

From the Mexican border to Afghanistan to Russia and multiple stops in between all the ails of the world are laid at the feet of good old Joe by good old Tom who himself has been in Congress going on now 20 years.

My view is there is plenty of blame to go around so let me heap a little on Tom himself beginning with him ignoring his oath of office when he voted not to seat President Biden on January 6.

Having known the Congressman for nearly 40 years I assure you he can count to 100 or even 306 which is the number of electors Biden earned to win the presidency; he has a Phd in English history; I know he was an elected state senator and appointed Secretary of State in the Keating Administration; he has run a well respected polling company; he was national chairman of the Republican Party's organization that tries to elect more elephants to the Congress, etc., etc.

So you see my friend Tom is smart, talented, experienced and well-educated but what he isn't anymore is a legislator for all his constituents, just those in the Party of Lincoln, and sadly Donald John Trump.

Tom knows who won in November 2020 but he votes like a clueless dummy who can't, or won't respect and follow the Constitution as written by our forefathers. He should be ashamed... but he isn't and is just a mirror reflection of the empty suits who put party over people, self-preservation over the good of our nation.

I'm ashamed of him and I'll bet his mother, Helen, is too.

Sincerely,
Cal Hobson

Legislative process starts with constituent ideas

I hope everyone had a merry Christmas with their loved ones! It's always a joy to spend time with friends and family, especially during the holiday season.

I want to thank everyone who attended the medical marijuana townhall in Pauls Valley on December 16. We had a great turnout!

I especially want to recognize the officials from the Oklahoma Medical Marijuana Authority, the Oklahoma Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs Control, and local law enforcement who answered the many questions from attendees.

Many constituents voiced concerns about the number of grow facilities, property values and the illegal operations within the state. I have heard similar worries from constituents who have contacted my office, and I am working with my fellow legislators and officials to determine potential courses of action.

I plan to organize a second townhall in the future so that those who were not able to attend this month may have another opportunity. I will keep you updated with details once plans are set.

At the State Capitol, the next legislative session is just over a month away. We passed another deadline on Thursday, December 30.

Members submitted detailed information about the purpose of the legislation they have requested, as well as included any model legislation or existing bill drafts.

I have met with numerous stakeholders and state officials to prepare for our next legislative deadline, which is the bill introduction deadline on January 20. Members must formally file the legislation they plan to pursue in the upcoming session by this deadline.

We are already preparing to start the budget hearing process. The Oklahoma Board of Equalization met December 27 to approve the preliminary appropriation budget for Fiscal Year 2023, which runs from July 1, 2022 to June 30, 2023.

The current estimate is just over $10 billion, which is the largest budget we've had in state history. However, $9.1 billion of the current estimate is in recurring sources and the remaining $1.2 billion comes in the form of cash reserves that are nonrecurring.

So while it looks like we'll have the largest budget in state history, we must ensure that the Beginnings of the state budget

The state Board of Equalization met last week estimating $9.1 billion in recurring revenue will be available for legislators to appropriate for Fiscal Year 2023. We also have about $1.2 billion in non-recurring cash on hand—money we saved over the previous two years. At more than $10 billion, this puts lawmakers on track for the largest budget in state history. While it’s nice to be in such a position, we know we must show some conservative restraint. This is still taxpayer money after all.

First, it should be noted, that we’ve cut both individual income taxes and corporate taxes beginning Jan. 1. This will right-size our coffers a bit. Second, we’ve saved the last two years, and budget leaders fully expect to save again this year. This is prudent, as we all know what a rainy day feels like.

We also have to keep an eye on increasing inflation, and we’re receiving record amounts of federal money right now in the form of pandemic relief. While that will help with economic recovery, these two factors eventually are expected to impact taxpayers and consumers.

Hence the aforementioned rainy day. We also must ensure we don’t spend non-recurring dollars on recurring expenses. Still, this budget estimate puts us in a healthy position. We can prioritize education, transportation, health care and public safety spending.

We might be able to devote more money toward mental health care and pay raises for Oklahoma Highway Patrol troopers and other public servants.

With the estimate for the Board of Equalization, the governor will be able to draft his executive budget. He will present this in his annual State of the State address the first day of the legislative session – February 7.

While he’ll outline his priorities, it will be up to the Legislature to draft the final appropriations bill. This will detail how much funding each appropriated state agency will receive for the next fiscal year. Such funding is spent on programs and services that benefit Oklahomans such as our public schools, roads, health care, law enforcement and more.

Right now, legislative Appropriation and Budget subcommittees are meeting to hear budget requests and spending reports from these state agencies.

Later this month, the House will hold public budget performance reviews with the six agencies that receive the largest share of state funds.

All of this will inform our work as we draft the state budget for FY23, which starts July 1. The Board of Equalization next meets in February when they will finalize revenue figures showing the Legislature how much it is authorized to appropriate in the state budget. Stay tuned. This is always an interesting topic.

Typically, insurance companies have paid doctors a lower amount for telemedicine visits compared to in-person office visits for the same services. Under the governor’s emergency orders during the pandemic, doctors received the same amount for telemedicine, and that change will now be permanent.

Another healthcare-related law now requires health insurers to make direct payments or reimbursements to licensed pharmacists for providing covered healthcare services to individuals whose health benefit policy, contract, or patient agreement provides for such payments or reimbursements for the services.

This year, Oklahoma’s civil service or merit system for state agency employees is also getting modernized. State employees will no longer be categorized as classified or non-classified, which will allow them more freedom career-wise within the state system.

Agencies will also have more flexibility in hiring, compensating, and promoting their employees. The new law further expands state employees’ rights by creating a fair process to dispute adverse actions taken against them.

$1.2 billion in one-time money is not allocated to recurring costs but instead goes to one-time expenses.

We also anticipate setting aside a portion of our appropriations into a rainy-day fund to aid us in a future economic downturn.

As session approaches, I’ll be back with another update on the bills that I am filing this year and any other important pieces of legislation.

Congress must devote time to legislation that will actually get Americans back to work, restore our economy, secure the border and ensure our military is ready to face any of our dangerous adversaries around the globe.

Lawmakers on both sides of the aisle and across the Capitol must work together to solve these crises and provide the critical and adequate full-year government funding.

Although 2021 was unfortunately primarily marked by unsuccessful legislating from one side of the aisle, 2022 presents an opportunity for Democrats to change that and work with Republicans to get things that matter done for the American people.

And I urge my Democratic colleagues to do just that.

Budget break down

By Sen. Roger Thompson
Senate Appropriations Chair

For several months now, state revenues have been rolling in above the estimates, pointing to a bright economic future for Oklahoma.

On December 27, the state Board of Equalization (BOE) verified the positive fiscal outlook by certifying their preliminary revenue estimate for Fiscal Year 2023. We will hit another historic high next year as they estimate the Legislature could have just over $10.3 billion to appropriate this coming session.

While this is wonderful news, it’s important that we proceed with caution and not spend all of these funds. Only about $9 billion of this total is from recurring revenue, while nearly $1.3 billion is one-time carryover funds and special cash from previous sessions.

For this reason, I believe that we must not spend the full $10.3 billion, but instead further build up our state savings to protect us from future financial downturns.

Last year, you’ll remember we passed a historic $8.3 billion budget and put about $800 million into state savings, bringing our total savings to just over $1 billion.

Because of increasing inflation, currently sitting at six percent, and the approximately $5 billion Oklahoma has received through the federal American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) and last year’s CARES Act funding, we need to make sure we are prepared for future years.

I’d like to get our state savings as close to $2.3 billion as possible, which is the amount needed in savings as we stress test our budget.

Given that our main source of revenue comes from the oil and gas industry, our economy is a cycle of mountain tops and valleys. In the last decade, our state has seen many valleys.

We faced $2.7 billion in budget shortfalls my first three years in office – $600 million in 2015, $800 million in 2016 and $1.3 billion in 2017. The Legislature had to make some very difficult decisions.

This past two years (FY’21-22) was another great example of the importance of saving. We had no idea that there would be a worldwide pandemic that would have such a strong impact on our national and state economy.

Fortunately, unlike many other states, we had over $1 billion in savings that allowed us to absorb the financial blow, protecting our state agencies and helping our state economy recover much faster than many others.

Now we find ourselves on the mountain top, but the valley will come. My job as appropriations chairman is not to just look at next year but to look at what’s best financially for Oklahoma 5, 10, 20 years down the road. We need to continue being fiscally conservative, which calls for passing a mostly flat budget.

This means most state agencies would receive the same amount in FY’23 as they did this fiscal year, which was an average seven percent increase over their budgets from last year.

Our national economy is still reeling from the pandemic; and it’d be in our best interests, if we paused one more year to see how everything is going to play out.

We have approximately 60 state agencies that provide thousands of government services for the citizens of Oklahoma. We have learned from our state history and will work to always be good stewards of taxpayers’ money, protecting Oklahoma’s families, the business community, and our vital government services.

The BOE will meet again in February to certify the official revenue amount we will use to craft the FY’23 budget.

All economic indicators show that revenues should continue increasing in the coming months, and we hope that proves true.

Two victims

Dear Editor:

On or around December 26 a Lexington convenience store clerk’s phone was stolen. The thief set up a new cash App account using my granddaughter’s name and stole money from the store clerk’s account.

The store clerk then posted on the Lexington Community page, my granddaughter’s name accusing her of the theft and threatening her with going to jail.

On or around December 28 the clerk posted a video of a tall slender man stealing the phone. His identity has been reported to the police.

Both the store clerk and my granddaughter are victims. The store clerk was a victim of thievery. My granddaughter was the victim of identity theft.

Working with local legislators for us all

By Dusty Ricks,
Manager/CEO
Rural Electric Cooperative

“All politics is local.” This observation by the late Thomas P. “Tip” O’Neill, Jr., former Speaker of the House of Representatives, means even national politics have a local impact, and people care most about issues directly affecting them. Indirectly, this famous adage underscores the importance and value of local politics.

At Rural Electric, we think it is critical to develop and cultivate relationships with local legislators because they craft, introduce and vote on legislation impacting he local business climate, the environment and quality of life for our community.

This is why we work closely with our local elected officials. After all, our purpose is to provide safe, reliable, affordable electricity, but our mission is to help the communities we serve thrive.

REC is a local business powering economic development and prosperity for our region. As a cooperative, we have deep roots here, and we listen closely to our members to better understand the needs of the community. Our leadership, Board of Trustees and employees live and work right here in the communities we serve.

We strive to be an advocate for our community, ensuring local legislators know, understand and act on the issues important to our area.

As a practical matter, we recognize most legislators are “generalists,” yet they vote on a wide range of issues.

Their expertise may not include the changing energy industry, which is why Rural Electric provides guidance and expertise from subject matter experts who have been in the energy industry for many years.

Today’s energy landscape is an increasingly complex topic covering not only the traditional engineering and vegetation management aspects of the industry, but also encompasses technology, cybersecurity, the electrification of the transportation sector and more.

Our experts provide briefings and backgrounders to legislators, committees and staff, and we offer expert testimony for hearings and other legislative or regulatory meetings or gatherings.

Since we are involved in economic development and we know local community leaders, we can provide insight on how issues and policies under discussion might impact our region.

Dibble Senior Citizens

By Eddie Cantrell

Greetings to the Seniors of the Dibble Community!

Last week of 2021 and oh what a relief it was!

We have had a lot of good stuff and some bad stuff. We are all still dealing with the plague of COVID and looks like we will continue for a while. On the other hand, we have accomplished a lot of positive things also.

We now have our own, paid for, building and have managed to keep it all going so far. It is helping with our ongoing mission and together we have helped a lot of folks. We are proud of the work of our volunteers and others for having the gumption to keep it all going. We need to take time to thank those who have helped us this year.

First, we want to express our appreciation to the McClain County inmates and Sheriff Landy Offolter along with the entire Sheriff's Department for providing the much needed muscle to move the heavy equipment. Also the three churches that provide donations monthly are New Beginnings Church, New Home Full Gospel and Midway Baptist Church.

Also Ovitiv Oil Company along with OEC and REC have helped a lot also along with the First National Bank and various individuals of the Dibble School Staff has helped also. We appreciate everyone for helping us with our mission. 2022 will be a break-thru year for us!

We are also saddened with the loss of some of our long-time folks. Bill Harmon is missed every day along with Patsy Koerner, Larry Yates and our one and only, Charlotte Offolter.

We also need to express our appreciation to Ronnie Hawkins and his helper, Gary, for getting our wash area going and Ted Robles for doing a great job of remodeling everything.

Again, we really appreciate our volunteers for keeping it all going too. So bring on 2022...we are ready for you!

My cousin Oscar has quit his job at the carwash and is now a professional basketball player! However, he has to start at the bottom as he is new to the rotation. Actually he is in charge of the mop and towel crew that runs out on the floor and wipes up the sweat when a player falls down. He says, "You gotta start somewhere!" He ain't right!

All for now...

E.C./G.G.T.W.

The menu includes:

Monday—Spaghetti.

Wednesday—Fajitas.

Friday—Bob's grilled pork chops.

Expanded testing effort

The Oklahoma State Department of Health (OSDH) is extending COVID-19 testing hours at local county health departments as cases continue to rise in the state. Variant sequencing at the OSDH Public Health lab of most recent specimens from over the holidays shows a mix of omicron (57 percent) and delta (43 percent).

select locations. Additionally, mobile units will be deployed to various locations throughout the state. Testing locations and hours can be found by visiting oklahoma.gov/covid19/testing-sites or county health department Facebook pages. Oklahomans can also call their local county health department or 2-1-1 for hours and locations. “While at-home testing is convenient, and rapid testing provides an immediate result, it is important to remember PCR tests provide the most accurate results, allow for variant sequencing and the ability to contact trace,” said Jolianne Stone, Oklahoma state epidemiologist. “PCR test results are typically available within 24-48 hours and are highly encouraged for accurate testing.” PCR test results are reported to OSDH, automatically entering the result into the OSDHCI self-service case investigation system. This system allows Oklahomans to do their own contact tracing through an automated process. Public health workers are still available to assist as needed. “Like other states, Oklahoma is seeing a rise in COVID-19 cases, however many other respiratory illnesses are occurring as well,” stated Keith Reed, interim commissioner of health. “We highly encourage anyone who is feeling ill to stay home from work, school and other activities and schedule a COVID-19 test or appointment with their physician. Staying home while awaiting your appointment, results and for your symptoms to clear is important for your health and will help prevent the spread of illness,” Reed concluded. The Oklahoma State Department of Health (OSDH) protects and improves public health through its system of local health services and strategies focused on preventing disease. OSDH provides technical support and guidance to 68 county health departments in Oklahoma, as well as guidance and consultation to the two independent city-county health departments in Oklahoma City and Tulsa. the bids at a special meeting scheduled at 1 p.m. Friday at city hall. It first appeared the trustees were ready to accept the low bid of $700,260.32 on Monday evening. They want city attorney Greg Dixon’s opinion on objections raised by a representative from GFL, the present contractor. The low bid was submitted by Waste Disposal Services located in Lexington. City manager Dale Bunn pointed out there was “no reason to deny the low bid.” The GFL representative cited state law which states contracts should be awarded to the “lowest responsible bid.” “We are not the lowest bid,” he acknowledged. GFL’s base bid of $710,588.80 is $10,328.48 more than Waste Disposal Services. That figures out to less than $2,066 per year over the course of the contract which will run from July 1, 2022 through June 30, 2027. He maintained that GFL, which has held the contract for many years, was the only bidder to sign and notarize an

Both GFL and Waste Disposal Services were invited to Friday’s special meeting. Purcell City Council heard a report from Traffic Engineering Consultants and Sullivan Engineering on options to improve congestion in the area of Purcell Elementary School. A TEC spokesman said part of the existing problem is that 9th Avenue in front of the school is one-way at certain times of the day. Signs pointing this out are part of the problem in that there is no uniformity and many are faded and hard to read. There is also an issue with parents who don’t follow the existing rules requiring them to remain in vehicles when dropping off and picking up students. The study yielded three options – improve signage, improve the drop off/pick up bound weaving in and out of traffic. Investigators said the Ford struck another northbound vehicle and went off the roadway crossing over the cable barrier and crashing into the other southbound vehicles, including the 2015 Acura MDX driven by Crutsinger. Conway said the Ford came to rest on top of the Acura, killing Crutsinger and injuring her two passengers, Amber Scholl, 27, and Ericka Scholl, 23, both of Edmond. During the investigation at OU Medical Center the affidavit reported Trooper Michael Wallace noticed Boyd’s eyes procedures and reduce “sign clutter” in the area by making Harrison and Van Buren one-way permanently. Among other considerations is to build a paved parking lot adjacent to the elementary school. At issue there is the cost. “It’s all about the funding,” he said. In comparison, the procedure to drop off and pick up students at the Intermediate School operates “great.” In other business, the council: • adopted two ordinances establishing a capital reserve fund and stabilization reserve fund between the city and Public Works Authority; • corrected the Library Advisory Board term for Mayra Munoz to run through Dec. 31, 2025; • approved a $26,018 change order for the new hospital; • declared 605 Jefferson a dilapidated structure; and • denied a $250 claim by David McLain regarding a backed up sewer main in the 1200 block of N. 8th Avenue on December 11.

Assisting them at the scene was the McClain County Sheriff’s Department, Lighthorse Police Department, EMSTAT and ODOT. Trooper May reported the driver, “was apparently sleepy and inattentive. Vehicle 1 departed the roadway to the left, over corrected and departed the roadway to the right, rolled 3 1/2 times ejecting passenger 2, passenger 3 and passenger 4. “The driver and passenger 1 were using their seat belts,” the trooper said.

Troopers said when the vehicles met they both swerved to the south side of the highway and hit head-on. The Nissan rotated around back into the roadway and struck the rear fender of a 2022 GMC Sierra driven by Keith Frazier, 34, of Purcell. He was not injured, the OHP reported. Also, a two-year-old in the Hartline vehicle sustained minor injuries, Trooper Shayne Ballard reported. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of McLoed.

The affidavit said Boyd admitted, “to smoking marijuana multiple times that day and had recently smoked just a couple of hours before in Davis.” “Boyd also stated that he knew he was not supposed to be driving because his Driver’s License was suspended for possession of THC but he needed to help a friend move to Texas,” the affidavit said. Troopers found multiple containers of marijuana located throughout the vehicle along with the THC vape pens. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Boyd, the DA’s office said.

lows him the opportunity to compete next June at nationals in Grand Island, Neb.

“I was really surprised,” he said.

He has honed his skills on the range since he was 10 years old. That is when he joined the shooting sports program offered by 4-H. He has been active in the program for eight years.

His gun of choice is a Browning over & under shotgun.

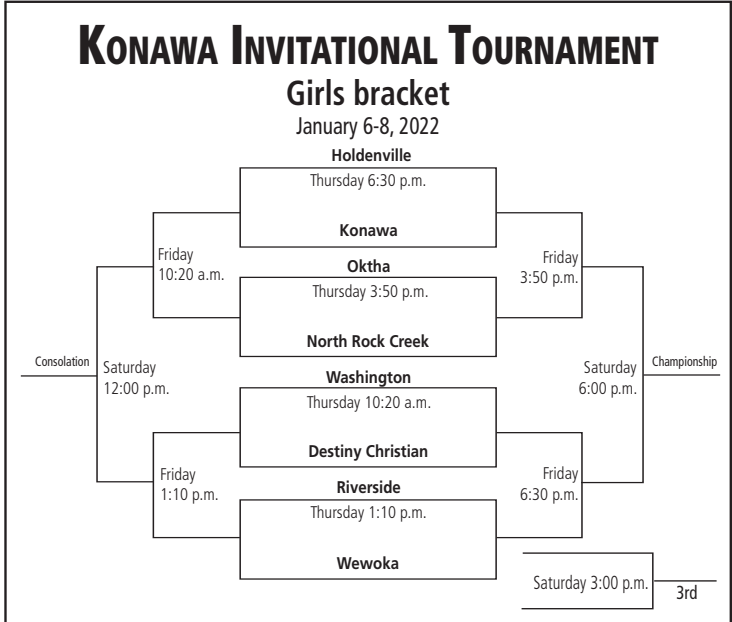

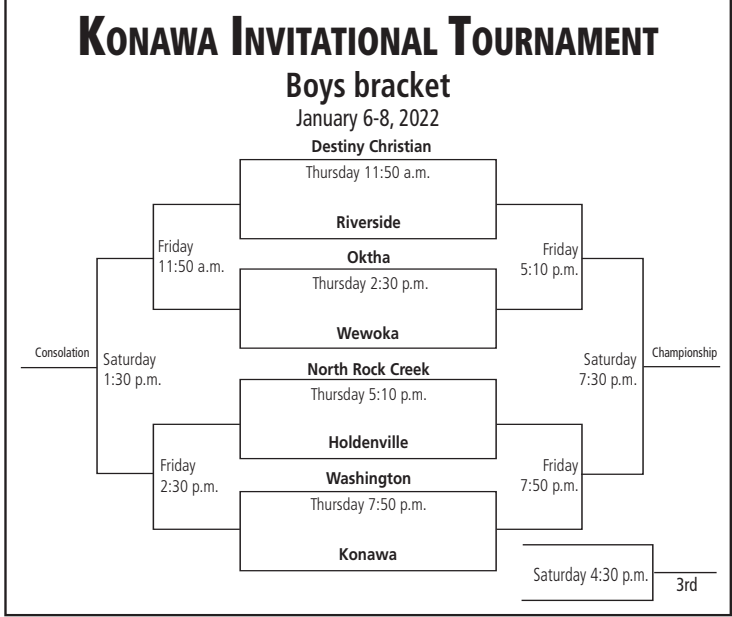

The young champion clay-breaker trains alongside his father, Russell Andrews, a Tri-City Gun Club member.

When Andrews was shooting in tournaments he was shooting two or three times a week.

He says his top discipline is skeet while the most difficult is trap shooting.

“Skeet has been a favorite of mine,” Andrews said. “I’ve never shot 50 straight but I did 49 one time.”

At the Oklahoma Senior 4-H High Over-All Andrews placed first in both skeet and clays and tied for second in trap.

Congratulations to our own DKG Board Member and OU Law Assistant Dean Stanley Evans on being honored as a 2021 Oklahoman of the Year. Colonel Evans retired from the United States Army.

Role models are essential, Stan Evans says, because “young people need a picture of what they can become. It’s more about understanding that if you can see the success, you can be the success.”

As we start the year 2022, all our volunteers are ready to help as many veterans and sur-living spouses receive the VA benefits that they are eligible for as we have been doing for over the last 20 years.

Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation Board Member Colonel Stanley Evans— U.S Army (retired), Assistant Dean, OU College of Law, was selected as a 2021 Oklahoman of the Year.

This year we will have seven more volunteers accredited by the VA to serve our veterans and surviving spouses with all of their claims and questions. They have undergone many hours of training that will enable them to be able to assist veterans in all aspects of their claims process. They will be able to represent veterans and their families with their claims at the Decision Review Officer level and the Board of Veterans Appeals.

Their accreditation will enable our veteran’s organization to be able to assist more veterans with their appeals. When we began our mission to make a difference in the lives of the men and women who served in the military, I would have never dreamed years later we would continue to have more requests for help than we could accommodate.

Hopefully, with our move in the next few weeks to our new location in Norman at 1233 West Lindsay, we will be able to be open five days a week to serve the needs of our veterans and their families. Currently, we have volunteers who are in several other states helping us to clear up our list of veterans whose claims we have not completed.

My question to our readers today, would you take a few hours each week to help the men and women who have served in the military? We provide training either in person or digitally for each position we have. There has never been a bigger need to be a part of what we do since we started in my workshop many years ago.

There are many veterans and their families who are suffering from both physical disabilities and PTSD, or Depression caused by veteran’s injuries that occurred while in the military. Today I’m asking you to consider being a volunteer to help us change the lives of veterans and their families.

Did you know that over 30,000 veterans have committed suicide since 9/11? As far as we know none of the thousands of veterans we have assisted have taken their lives. We believe that part of the reason they don’t is when we help them most of them will be approved for VA benefits. Taking the time to be around other veterans and knowing someone truly cares makes all the difference.

To donate to our Foundation, you can do so online at dalekgrahamveteransfoundation.org or mail a check to Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation, 1233 West Lindsay, Norman, OK, 73069. You can contact us on our website or by calling 405-550-8806.

COVID-19 variants in Oklahoma mix of omicron and delta

Variant sequencing at the OSDH Public Health (PHL) lab of most recent specimens from over the holidays shows a mix of omicron (57 percent) and delta (43 percent).

This surveillance data is important to providers and the public to understand what is going on in the state.

“Our team continues to monitor cases and hospitalizations to provide critical data that allows Oklahomans to make the best decisions for themselves,” stated Keith Reed, interim commissioner of health.

“Coinciding with our increased case count and what other states are seeing, current data shows omicron is increasing in Oklahoma, and we anticipate that will continue,” he said.

Variant sequencing continues to be conducted on all positive COVID-19 tests provided to the PHL. This full sequencing process can take up to four days for completion.

James and Pam Kyzer sang “Heaven Will Surely Be Worth It All” for our morning special.

Brother David used Matthew 3:1-12 for his sermon and told the story of John the Baptist who preached in the wilderness of Judea preparing the people for the arrival of the King.

We, in 2022, need to be getting ready for the King also. We should repent, turn to Jesus, and live the Kingdom’s values. We need to be the Kingdom’s kind of people.

The devotion at our evening service was from Matthew 7:7-11. We should pray humbly, with sincerity and persistence. We were reminded about Zacharias and his persistence in asking God for a son. Both he and his wife were quite old, but God blessed them with the birth of their son, John. God will answer prayers.

We ended our day with our quarterly business meeting and a snack fellowship.

This coming Sunday, our youth will be sponsoring our annual Men’s Chili Cookoff after morning worship. There will be a devotion after lunch and no evening service.

On Friday, January 14, at 6 p.m. we will welcome the legendary Kingsmen Quartet for a special evening of gospel singing. On January 16 Jeff and Melisa Dubbs will be serving breakfast at 9 a.m. to our children and youth. January 17 at 11 a.m. our senior adults will be taking a van trip to eat lunch at Chelino’s in Norman.

Please join us for Sunday School and worship at Sunray Baptist Church. We are located at 2223 North 9th Street in Purcell. We are a small traditional church with a lot of friendly people. For additional information call 527-6808.

One of the biggest events growing up is turning 16. With the privilege of driving came several responsibilities. Of course, there were traffic rules to obey but there were some others, too. My dad (and my brother) loved cars.

When I got my first car (1955 Chevy Bel-Air), there were some rules. Do not put bumper stickers on your car because it is not a billboard. Do not leave paper, cups, straws, or anything else inside your car because it is not a trash bin.

Do not keep anything in your trunk (except a spare tire and jack) because it is not a storage facility. And finally, do not eat in your car because it is not a restaurant. More than 50 years later, I still follow my father’s teachings.

Because I had learned to be obedient at a young age, I respected things my parents taught me. They loved me and I knew they only wanted the best for me. When I became an adult, I continued to respect them even though at that point I could have thought (or maybe said), “I make my own choices and you can’t tell me what to do.”

Almost everyone accepts the presumption that God loves us. He issued rules too. The Ten Commandments are not suggestions. Three obviously are about our relationship to God. The other seven, however, concern how we deal with others.

In a nutshell, don’t kill, lie, steal, or covet. These are good rules for living. In America, we have many freedoms that residents of some countries do not have. With that privilege comes responsibility.

Lately, there have been an abundance of people saying, “This is America. I can do what I want. You can’t make me do _____ (fill in the blank).”

Maybe this rebellious behavior stems back to lax adherence to parental rules. Maybe TV, maybe video games, maybe whatever. However, the fact is this: obedience is a good thing. As an adult, having a good moral compass is a result of learning obedience.

For some reason, even as adults, we think someone else’s poor behavior is an excuse for us to behave badly. We quickly reach a point where we don’t even realize we are breaking a Very happy New Year to all of you. Thanks for including reading our column here as part of your new year!

For this week’s thought: Begin, and spend, and conclude each day with God.

More on that thought here ... One of the big new things we are diving into this year is doing a series of Bible study courses for any at the Westside Church of Christ, the other two churches with whom we work, and any number of Facebook friends. You should be able to access the studies on my Facebook, at Steven Ray Bowen. If you would like to study with us, send an email at bowen@redoakisd.org; and I will email the studies to you.

The first course is a study in the book of Mark, with Matthew Henry’s commentary being a secondary source. You can find his commentary online if you do not have a copy.

I can share here portions of our first session, which is primarily a devotion, so it fits well here. We begin with a brief introduction to Matthew Henry. To begin, we all understand that men are fallible; so, we weigh everything we read with the word of God. Through the years, Matthew Henry has been my number-one outside reading source.

He is unlike some of the other major classic commentators – such as Albert Barnes and Adam Clark – in that his notes look more like sermon notes than an academic commentary. He does not do a great deal with Greek or Hebrew and word studies but focuses more on the practical lessons from each section (He goes by sections, not verse by verse, too.)

Besides the fact that I like Matthew Henry’s approach, I chose him for this first course here in 2022 to introduce an old writer to my ‘original student’ Seth Johnson, from my ‘other’ home church in Red Oak, Texas.

Seth and I are studying in person weekly; and I wanted to introduce him to some classic writers, beginning here with Matthew Henry. Future courses we plan to read are from men such as J.W. McGarvey, an old-time church of Christ preacher who lived during the turn of the twentieth century.

There is a great amount of information out there on podcasts and the internet, but I think it is hard to beat the scholarship of these old writers.

When you read Mr. Henry, you will note that the syntax of his writing carries a more

Our next Food Give Away will be Saturday, January 15, from 12 to 4 p.m. We are still asking people to be cautious by wearing masks and distancing in crowds, and if you haven’t done so, please consider getting yourself and your family vaccinated. Masks can be provided if you do not have one (especially for those who have certain medical conditions), and hand sanitizer is also available.

Most of us think that the Christmas holiday season is all over since we’ve done the gift thing and we’ve celebrated the beginning of the new year with partying. But for many Christians, there’s a bit more.

Today (Thursday, January 6) we celebrate or observe a special day called Epiphany. Many know it as the day marking 12 days after Christmas and the time to take down the Christmas tree and decorations. However, it’s actually a holiday with significant meaning.

Epiphany celebrates God revealing himself to the creation. Since epiphany means manifestation or appearance, early celebrations honored any of the four manifestations of Christ which revealed him to humankind.

First, at his birth, the angels bore witness, and the shepherds, representing Israel, bowed before Jesus. Second, the visit of the Magi revealed Jesus to the Gentiles and showed that God’s message was for all people. Third, at his baptism, the Holy Spirit descended, and God declared Jesus’ identity.

Finally, the first miracle at the Wedding in Cana revealed Jesus’ divinity over nature. God made Jesus known to our world in these ways so that we might build a loving relationship with God.

Epiphany is also called Three Kings’ Day, Theophany, Denha, Little Christmas, or the Baptism of Jesus. It is celebrated on January 6th each rule or selecting an incorrect moral choice.

For example, in some states, groceries are taxed but medicinal supplies are not. Did you know in those states no one needs mouthwash for bad breath because they all say they are using it for sore throat? If a cashier gives you too much change, do you just put it in your pocket?

If you are doing self-check-out, do you sometimes “accidentally” not scan an item? Do you blame a child, the cat, or the dog for a stain you made? This moral slippage is not excused by “everyone else is doing it.” As my mother used to say, “If they stuck their head in the fire, would you?”

Granted, there are some rules which need to be changed. However, we seem to spend a great deal of time talking about those rules while we break rules that we clearly should follow. Maybe we should not be allowed to talk about a bad rule until we consistently are obedient to all the other rules.

There are many Biblical references to obedience. In 2 John 1:6, we are told, “And this is love: that we walk in obedience to his commands. As you have heard from the beginning, his command is that you walk in love.”

We celebrate the love of Jesus at Our Lady of Victory parish all year long. Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church is located at the 307 West Jefferson. The office is open weekday mornings (405-527-3077). Weekend mass services are Saturday, 5 p.m.; Sunday, 11 a.m.; and Sunday, 1 p.m. (Spanish). Daily masses are Tuesday, 9 a.m.; Wednesday, 12 noon; Thursday, 7 p.m. (Spanish), and Friday, 9 a.m.

Peace be with you.

year according to the Gregorian calendar and what most Western Christian Churches follow. Many Eastern Christian Churches will celebrate Epiphany on January 19 because they follow the Julian calendar.

If it is celebrated on January 6, it is known as the Twelfth Day and sometimes marks the end of the Christmas season with feasts and masquerades. Others take down their Christmas decorations and store them away for the next year. In some Western Churches the day starts the liturgical season of Epiphanytide that follows Christmastide and ends on different days depending on the practices of the particular church denomination.

Not all Christians celebrate Epiphany, but many do. Roman Catholics, Lutherans, Anglicans, Methodists and Eastern Orthodox Christians observe it. Whether someone celebrates Epiphany depends on their own personal choice or whether or not their church observes it. Either way, it is a great way to close out the Christmas season and turn our hearts towards keeping Jesus at the center of our lives.

Lord Jesus, thank you for revealing yourself to us. We shout for joy and worship you with gladness. We come before you with joyful songs and join with the angels as they say, “Glory to God in the highest and peace on earth to men.” We receive your peace and comfort.

We ask that as we continue into the new year that we would remember your divinity and revel in your identity. You are a miracle working God, and so we ask you to do a mighty work of internal transformation in our life. Change us to be more like you. Let our words and the meditation of our hearts be pleasing to you.

Just as the wise men followed the star, so we commit to following you. Lead and guide us. Comfort and heal us. Let our hearts be set on you as you reveal more and more of yourself to us. We adore you and give you glory. In your name, Amen.

We invite you to worship with us at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday to see how we’re different from other churches. Sunday School starts at 11 a.m. Our address is 631 East Ash, just west of Lexington High School. For more information, please call the church at (405) 527-3506 to leave a message, or contact Pastor David Cook directly at (405) 406-6174.

with prayer.”

Dr. Hamilton himself, explains the source of the grace in Mr. Henry’s life:

“What incomes of grace, yea, and outward good things, as far as they are indeed good for us, have we by an access to God in Christ! Such have a companion ready in all their solitudes, a counselor in all their doubts, a comforter in all their sorrows, a supply in all their wants, a support under all their burdens, a shelter in all their dangers, strength for all their performances, and salvation insured by a sweet undeceiving earnest. What is heaven but an everlasting access to God?” (static1.squarespace.com)

Appropriately, a verse right from the first chapter of Mark fits snugly in with the devotional thought of beginning, spending, and concluding each day with God: “And in the morning, rising up a great while before day, (Jesus) went out, and departed into a solitary place, and there prayed” ~ Mark 1:35.

Thanks for joining us here for our first front-porch visit of 2022. God bless! P.S. By the way, thanks are in order to The Purcell Register for allowing us to meet right here each week for another year.

There's no time like the present to quit tobacco

The start of a new year is the perfect time for McClain County residents to kick old habits and create new ones. For those thinking about quitting tobacco, programs like the Oklahoma Tobacco Helpline can more than double the likelihood of success.

The Helpline is a program of the Tobacco Settlement Endowment Trust (TSET).

"The New Year is a time of new beginnings. Quitting tobacco is the most impactful thing people can do to see immediate improvements in their health in the new year," said Ariel Anglin, McClain County TSET Healthy Living Program Manager. "Within 20 minutes of quitting, your body will start repairing itself from the harmful effects of tobacco. You'll have more energy, greater lung capacity and extra money in your pocket."

The CDC reports that programs like the Helpline increase a tobacco user's chances of successfully quitting by 60 percent. TSET has funded the Oklahoma Tobacco Helpline since 2003, and more than 470,000 Oklahomans have registered for the free services – and free patches, gum or lozenges – during that time.

The Helpline's customizable services include three plans: All Access, Web Coach and Individual Services. In addition to phone coaching, web coaching, motivational texts and email support, the Helpline provides free patches, gum or lozenges. These customizable options give Oklahomans the flexibility and making 2022 the start of a healthier life."

For those in the early stages of quitting, the Helpline offers information and resources to prepare for the next step.

Tobacco users are encouraged to take the Helpline's Readiness Quiz to help them decide which quitting services would be right for them.

For teens who may already be addicted to nicotine, TSET recently launched My Life, My Quit to provide quit services to Oklahomans ages 13-17. My Life, My Quit is a text-based service to help youth quit tobacco, including vaping.

To sign up for services, simply text "Start My Quit" to 36072 or visit MyLifeMyQuit.com.

Healthy lifestyles go beyond quitting tobacco. The Helpline also encourages Oklahomans to build healthy habits through small changes in everyday routines.

Small changes generate positive momentum and build over time to create long-term healthy lifestyles. Follow Shape Your Future's 5 Step Guide to build an action plan and track healthy changes through the Healthy Habits Rewards Card.

Call 1-800-QUIT NOW (1-800-784-8669) or visit OKhelpline.com to explore all the free services and resources available to Oklahomans.

You can also connect with the Helpline through Facebook or by following us @ OKhelpline on Twitter and Instagram.

to create a Quit Plan that fits their needs.

"With so many free resources available, the Oklahoma Tobacco Helpline has support to offer all Oklahomans, no matter where they are in their own quit journey or the journey of a loved one," said Jon Hart, Ph.D., Oklahoma Tobacco Helpline director. "This New Year, consider reaching out to the Helpline
