Homeland Security has joined in the investigation to the alleged human smuggling case that broke open early last week in Wayne.

Several law enforcement agencies are assisting the McClain County Sheriff's Office with an investigation into human smuggling.

Sheriff deputies were called to 28030 SH 59 in the Wayne area just before 9:30 p.m. March 28 to investigate a semi-trailer truck that was parked with its lights off.

Deputies were told 40-50 persons were seen exiting the semi, all running in different directions.

In addition to deputies, the Oklahoma Highway Patrol and Chickasaw Nation Lighthorse Police were involved in the investigation.

McClain County Sheriff Landy Offolter said three foreign national females were located at a nearby business requesting assistance from the

Chickasaw Nation storm shelter program

When spring arrives with brightly colored daffodils and jonquils, a danger to Chickasaw citizens presents itself as well.

Tornadoes are more likely to strike in April, May and June, according to the National Weather Service in Norman, Oklahoma.

Storms have become less frequent in recent years, and the state has not experienced the record 171 tornadoes recorded in 1999.

Oklahoma experienced only 52 tornadoes in 2021 with no deaths, but it is best to be prepared.

Andrew Scribner, assistant director of housing management services for the Chickasaw Nation and Deana Ray, admissions/certification section head for the Chickasaw Nation Department of Community Services, are prepared to give Chickasaw citizens some peace of mind.

Qualifying Chickasaws living within the historic treaty territory and citizens living outside of it, are eligible for a tornado shelter to be professionally placed on their property. At-large citizens who qualify may apply for a onetime grant of up to $2,500, according to Scribner and Ray.

Chickasaws living within the nation’s 13-county treaty territory may make application for a storm shelter. Based upon income, the shelters could be provided entirely at no cost or at greatly reduced prices, according to Mr. Scribner.

Applications must be submitted to the Chickasaw Nation Housing Administration to determine eligibility. Chickasaws should know within 10 days if they qualify, according to Ms. Ray.

Last year, approximately 40 families living inside the Chickasaw Nation qualified. Additionally, as many as 60 at large families received a storm shelter.

“We are busy from February into August each year processing applications,” Ms. Ray said. “Citizens may come into the office to make application or go online.”

Be prepared to provide:

- CDIB/citizenship card for applicant
- Social Security cards of all

Spring temps here to stay?

After some welcomed rain-fall, springtime continues with high temperatures ranging from the lower 60s to the mid 80s!

The rest of this week is calm and quiet, as we have a high pressure dominant pattern. That will bring sunny skies and temperatures in the 70s for Saturday.

Sunday, as the high pressure begins to exit our region, temperatures will jump into the lower 80s and cloud cover will build.

Monday, our next round of severe weather is expected to arrive. At the time of writing, the Storm Prediction Center has issued a 15% risk of severe weather. When this is issued a week away, that means confidence is already fairly high that severe weather is going to develop. This is something to certainly keep an eye on.

Later next week, conditions show a return to quiet, with some clouds hanging around and temperatures in the 70s and 80s.

Years taught at Purcell: This is my 2nd year

Currently Teaching: Special education at Purcell High School

Favorite Memory from Teaching: I have so many memories from working in education. I learn a lot from all my students. When you actually get the chance to sit down and talk to kids you can learn a lot about them and their interests. When I worked in Ponca City as a SLPA I had a student who LOVED Big Ben in London. Every time I would see him he would tell me random facts about Big Ben and would have a picture for me that he drew of Big Ben (I still have all the pictures he drew for me.. there's about 100!) but in that time frame of working with him I learned that Big Ben has Pennies in the pendulum and that it was not designed by a clockmaker. His drawings were very unique and I loved all the facts he would share. It is now on my bucket list to go and see Big Ben someday!

Roe welcomes Redlands Nursing students to Capitol March 8

Rep. Cynthia Roe, R-Lindsay, welcomed a group of nursing program students from Redlands Community College, El Reno, to the State Capitol on Nurses Day, March 8. Roe, the chair of the House Public Health Committee and herself a Registered Nurse and a Nurse Practitioner, said it was particularly gratifying to meet with students in her chosen career field. "Nursing is hard work but overall a very gratifying career," Roe said. "You often get to see the immediate result of your work in the relief and care you are able to provide your patients. And at a time when Oklahoma is facing a critical shortage in the number of nurses we have in our state, it was especially timely to welcome these new students who will help us meet our future health care needs," she concluded.

Getting old not for sissies

Happy Birthday to my room-

Speaking of Gracie...my better half has been suggesting I get a hearing test for quite some time.

I had put it off for quite a while but decided to take her advice to get a check on the old eardrums.

Sure enough Gracie was right. I do, in fact, have some hearing loss and am now the proud owner of a pair of hearing aids.

Getting old is not for sissies and not a lot of fun at the same time.

That was an awesome 24 hours of rain we received Sunday night and most all day

Editor's Notebook

It pinned a hardship on spring accidents on I-35.

But, according to McClain

none of the mostly one-vehicle crashes involved injuries.

Simply folks driving too fast in inclement weather conditions.

We definitely needed the technically in a drought.

Too bad our neighbors to the west and northwest portions of the state didn't get the same

Our thoughts and prayers

Ukrainian President Volodysobering news this week.

He told the U.N. Security

It's sickening and heartbreak-

Hello from District 43

• Senator Jessica Garvin •

Update from the Capitol

One of the top priorities this legislative session has been addressing problems that have arisen since the state's medical marijuana industry was approved by voters in 2018.

While this has been a welcome new revenue source for the state, it's also led to many public safety and other issues because the state question was so vague.

It forced the Legislature to quickly create a framework for a massive industry instead of being able to take the time to study other successful state models and figure out every detail before approving a new industry.

Because a complete legal framework wasn't in place when the industry launched, we've now found ourselves with more dispensaries than California, Colorado and Oregon combined.

We're also becoming renowned for having more than 8,300 grows, which is seven times more than California and considerably more than the eight in Arkansas. We're being referred to as the Wild West of the industry, which sums up the laundry list of issues that must be addressed as quickly as possible.

Public safety has become the top concern as the state has been flooded with illegal grows, black market sales, questionable land grabs, increased theft, violence, and human trafficking. Last session, we approved additional funds to hire more law enforcement officers, and many bills are in the works to increase fines and penalties to further support this effort, including legislation to increase the fine for the first offense to $400 for someone with a medical marijuana card illegally giving an unlicensed individual product and then to at least $1,000 for doing it a second time. Another bill will increase the fine to $5,000 for the first-time offense of unauthorized sells or transfers of product to unlicensed individuals by licensed businesses, and subsequent offenses will be increased to a $15,000 penalty.

Further violations could result in license revocation for all parties.

Legislation is also working its way through that would separate the Oklahoma Medical Marijuana Authority (OMMA) from the state health department. Given the sheer size and high level of criminal activity taking place in the industry, the OMMA needs more power to regulate and enforce the law. By allowing them to be autonomous, they'll be better able to control illegal activity while protecting legitimate businesses.

NEWS FROM CAPITOL HILL

Biden's busted budget

Congressman Tom Cole

Last week, President Joe Biden submitted to Congress his budget proposal for fiscal year (FY) 2023 that plainly states his funding priorities and goals. Like all presidential budgets, it is simply a request and is not enforceable by law. In fact, several policies recommended in this budget stand no chance of passing both chambers or being signed into law.

Unfortunately, the wish list reveals President Biden's desire to double down on his out-of-touch policies and out-of-control spending from his failed budget proposal from the previous fiscal year and the wildly unpopular Build Back Better bill.

Clearly, in ignoring the actual priorities of the American people in his dead-on-arrival budget, the president has learned nothing from his first year.

With a price tag of $5.8

trillion, President Biden's proposed budget would spend $73 trillion over the next 10 years, a 66 percent increase from the previous 10 years. This would be the highest sustained level of government spending in American history and would also lead to the highest level of deficits ever.

Although President Biden claims that this budget plan would reduce our national debt, it would lead to the accumulation of $16 trillion in new public debt and $1.1 trillion in yearly debt interest payments by 2032.

At a time when inflation is costing the average household nearly $3,500 extra a year, President Biden's budget outlined that he wants to collect $58 trillion in taxes on hard-working Americans, families and businesses over the next 10 years—the highest sustained tax burden in American history.
This would only further strap their wallets, lessen their purchasing power and further fuel the inflationary crisis.

While President Biden proposed an increase in the base budget for the U.S. Department of Defense for the next fiscal year, it is still not enough to keep pace with the rate at which inflation is rising.

In fact, the so-called increase could actually result in a net cut in funding for our national defense. In addition to not providing enough funding to keep up with the devaluation of the U.S. dollar, President Biden also proposed a decrease

Interesting reading

Dear Editor:

Recently, in visiting my friend/neighbor, I spotted the March 24 edition of your newspaper. Her brother lives in Purcell, and he sent her a gift subscription. I think I also read a paper from a small town in California that she had finished reading (some months ago).

Having grown up in Barstow, Calif., (which was about 5,000 population when my brother and I were born, and increased to about 15,000 when I graduated high school) I was used to a small town newspaper.

Since last November, I've lived in Dallas, Ore., for 50 years.
Again, it was about 5,000 population when my husband and I moved here, and before the latest census, was at about 15,000.
(I don't remember the listing of the latest numbers.)

I loved the story (and photos of volunteering girls) for trash pick up around Purcell Lake. I chuckled with John D. Mont-gomery's history of being at an OU's softball game. I noticed four Montgomerys listed as employees of the paper.

I loved the "An Interesting Neighbor" column by Jeanne Grimes. Being a former (disabled) RN, I especially enjoyed the story about the RN Chris Wright who is also the local small hospital's CEO.

Coming on-line to write this letter, I read the story about James Snow.

You have a good mix of articles, ads, and obituaries. I think I'll show the I-O (Itemizer-Observer, the small local paper in Dallas, that also covers the three surrounding small towns of Independence, Monmouth, and Falls City) your listing of OKTREASURE.com "the notice of persons appearing to be owners of abandoned property."

Congratulations on a fine paper!

Alopecia

Dear Editor:

With all the hype of the incident that occurred at the Oscars, I decided to share this narrative with you now. Everyone has an opinion, who is right, who is wrong, I will not form an opinion about righteousness. My goal is to educate the public how it feels to live with the disease.

I was entering third grade when doctors diagnosed alopecia.
My mother administered the treatments recommended by the specialist. An awful smelling shampoo was prescribed. The concoction was to remain in my hair 20 minutes with each procedure.

The remedy could not work fast enough for me. I alienated myself from my friends, covered my head with a scarf, painted my scalp using eye liner. Each day that passed it became extremely difficult to hide the bald spots. It seemed like they became wider and longer every night.

Living in a small town where everyone knows everybody, the jokes, ridicule, teasing and bullying became unbearable. The few friends I did have started calling me "pelona" i.e. (bald headed).

Too weak to stand up to bullying, my parents sent me St.
John's Catholic School in Gulfport, Miss. I attended fourth and half of fifth grade there. I found peace, acceptance and friends at St. John's. Every student at that school looked like me. They too were bald and felt no need to hide it.

Alopecia can become dormant, this happened to me. In 1994 as I was going through a stressful terminal illness with my husband, the condition resurfaced. At the same time, my daughter Emily Avila El-Assi was attending cosmetology school. She began treating my scalp with products she purchased at the beauty supply store. Six months later my hair quickly started growing back.

Two years ago, I donated 14 inches of my hair to "Locks of Love" an organization that takes donated hair to make wigs for the cancer patients.

Alopecia is no joking matter. Try being the subject matter of that joke.

Cryptocurrency bill passes House

While the busyness of session continues, I want to take some time to explain one of the more confusing parts of the legislative process: “striking title.”

The Oklahoma Constitution requires that each bill have a statement at the beginning to briefly summarize the bill’s subject, referred to as the “title.”

If the title is “stricken,” that means the bill has been amended to remove this introductory definition, which makes the bill out of compliance with the Constitution.

Striking the title is done intentionally so that the bill cannot become law until it returns to the chamber of origin for another vote, when its title is added back or “restored.”

We struck title on many House bills ahead of last week’s legislative deadline, and those bills that pass the Senate will come back to the House to have their titles restored and receive a final vote before they can be sent to the Governor’s desk.

Most bills that are passed with title off are expected to have a fiscal impact to the state budget, either positive or negative. We strike title on these so it’s easier to make changes as we go through the budget process.

However, sometimes bills without a fiscal impact have their title struck as well. The author may choose to strike title if they are still working on the language but need to keep the bill moving to meet deadlines so it doesn’t die.

Striking title allows the bill to continue in the legislative process while acknowledging it needs further changes before its final approval.

When a bill comes up on the House floor that has its title off, I will usually vote to advance the bill so the author can keep working on it. When the bill returns to the House, I’ll take a look at any changes made while it was in the Senate before determining how I’ll vote.

Ahead of last week’s deadline, the House passed House Bill 3279, the Oklahoma Distributed Ledger Technology Assets Offering Act, which deals with cryptocurrency.

The bill allows the state to enter into contracts to explore the development of a software to utilize blockchains within a unique cryptocurrency to be used for certain purposes within the state.

This legislation could be game-changing for the regulation of the medical marijuana industry, both to facilitate legal medical marijuana businesses and to combat illegal ones.

Blockchain technology uses decentralized networks of nodes or access points to provide simultaneous access, validation and record updating.

In a blockchain, every single transaction is recorded. This would make it easier for the state to track grows from seed-to-sale. There’s no way to circumvent the blockchain, which means there’d be no way to sell the product on the black market.

The bill is the first step to making that happen by allowing the state to enter into contracts to explore the development of a unique cryptocurrency to be used within the state.

This technology could be capable of monitoring all aspects of a marijuana business, from seed-to-sale tracking to utility usage and taxes. It’s currently eligible to be heard in the Senate.

We’re working hard to send bills to the Governor’s desk, and he’s begun to sign several pieces of legislation. On Wednesday, the Governor signed the Save Women’s Sports Act.

I was very proud to support this bill, and I was among the first people to sign on as a co-author. When we heard Senate Bill 2 in the House last year, I debated in favor of the bill and used my debate to point out the biological differences between males and females.

Many of these differences are unaffected or not significantly affected by hormone treatments. It’s unfair to expect our girls to compete in athletics against biological males, and I’m very glad the Governor signed this bill.

As always, thank you for the opportunity to represent you at the State Capitol, and please reach out with any questions or concerns about legislation.

You can reach out to me at cynthia.roe@okhouse.gov or (405) 557-7365.

Bad jokes and slapping people

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

In a civil, polite society we shouldn’t run around slapping comedians, politicians, radio or television personalities, or musical performers. The list goes on and includes everyone.

Will Smith’s stunt of slapping comedian Chris Rock at the 2022 Oscars was a bad idea. It was only by the grace of God and mainly the grace of Chris Rock that Smith was not arrested or sued.

Before this is all over, Rock could still take him to court. At this point in time, it doesn’t seem likely.

On the other hand, it was a bad idea for Chris Rock to use Will Smith’s wife, Jada Pinkett Smith, in a joke that highlighted alopecia, the disease that has been tormenting her. Diseases and disabilities are issues with which people struggle.

The joke angered Will Smith. His feelings got totally out of control as he bounded on stage to slap Chris Rock.

While many people understand how Smith must have felt and may have thought Rock deserved it, we still have to restrain ourselves.

I suspect there are people who probably have wanted to slap a politician or two. You can’t do that because you would go to jail. Furthermore, that is the wrong way to conduct our behavior. What about Vladimir Putin?

You couldn’t get by with that in Russia. Regardless of how evil and heinous an individual is, if you slapped him while walking down Broadway in

New York City, a policeman would most likely arrest you. This is a far-fetched scenario even though most of the free world is ready for Putin to be totally removed.

If you have been working on your list of people to slap you might as well put it away. It won’t work. You will eventually end up in jail, in court, or both.

We do have free speech in America. People can hurl words freer than hurling punches. Words can and do hurt. There are repercussions if you slander, malign or use your speech against others in a way that “hurts” them.

However, television, radio, and political events frequently allow the rhetoric to go way out of bounds.

the ongoing staffing shortages, funding and unfunded mandates coming down from the federal government, and how it all plays into what we’re seeing in the industry in our state.

Last Tuesday, I attended the Rural Electric Co-Op (REC) Youth Banquet in Lindsay, where the REC gave over $10,000 in scholarships to area students and awarded six students with trips to Washington D.C. and Colorado for conferences to learn about energy co-ops across the country.

Finally, last Wednesday eve-

An idea for us all is to control our tongues and our actions. Most of us have spoken before we thought. We may have reacted in a way without seriously considering the action. Too often a fast mouth or quick action may have brought regret.

There are lessons to be learned from this year’s Academy Awards. Mainly, don’t act like those people.

ning, I also had the honor of speaking at the National Technical Honor Society induction ceremony at Mid-America Technology Center. I want to thank these organizations for letting me participate in their special events.

If you have any questions or concerns on legislative matters, please contact me at the Capitol by writing to Senator Jessica Garvin, State Capitol, 2300 N. Lincoln Blvd. Room 237, Oklahoma City, OK, 73105, emailing Jessica.Garvin@oksenate.gov or calling (405) 521-5522.

such as Canada. Now, as revealed in his budget, President Biden wants to increase this burden by adding $45 billion in new taxes on domestic energy production.

President Biden has delivered yet another busted budget that would continue to bankrupt our nation, make inflation worse on hardworking Americans, leave us with a weak national defense and keep us at the mercy of tyrants and state sponsors of terrorism for our energy needs.

President Biden introduced a similar budget last year. It did not work then, and it will not work now.

In addition to work on legislation, I was happy to welcome visitors from the district to the Capitol. Karen LaNell-Taylor, MS, RN, of Rush Springs served as Nurse of the Day on March 22.

Last week, I also got to meet two extremely bright young 1940, totaling with Guard and Reserve at only 998,500, down from 1,010,500.

His budget proposal would also reduce our Air Force’s aircraft production and inventory for many platforms such as the F-35, E-3 and MQ-9. In the meantime, he recommends non-national security agencies receive a 12 percent average increase.

With ongoing international crises and growing tensions around the globe, this only shows that this administration is unwilling to prepare our military to confront the strategic threats we face.

Furthermore, after Democrats were forced to restore longstanding pro-life protections in the FY 2022 omnibus funding package recently signed into law, President Biden chose to pick the same losing fight against those protections in his FY 2023 budget.

For example, he removed the longstanding Hyde Amendment which rightly prevents taxpayer dollars from funding abortions and protects the conscience rights of all Americans. Additionally, his budget proposal calls for a $400 million increase for Title X funding to go toward Planned Parenthood and other entities that perform abortions.

Finally, while Americans struggle to afford to fill their gas tanks and power their homes because of high energy costs, President Biden wants to push our country further away from energy independence with more anti-American energy policies.

After shutting down the North American Keystone XL pipeline and preventing energy leasing on federal lands and waters on day one of his presidency, gas prices have reached the highest level ever.

During the Trump Administration, America produced more at home and bought more from our allies and neighbors

End of state questions? Experts say legislation could doom many

Trevor Brown
Oklahoma Watch

A package of bills moving through the Legislature could block all but the most well-funded groups from getting a question on the ballot through Oklahoma’s initiative and referendum process, experts and advocates are warning.

The Senate is set to consider four joint resolutions that would make it more difficult for state questions to pass or be voted on.

The proposals have already passed the state House of Representatives and could take effect as early as 2023 if they clear the Legislature and are approved by voters later this year.

Perhaps the most far-reaching is House Joint Resolution 1002. It would require citizen-led groups to collect a set number of signatures from each of the state’s 77 counties.

It specifically would require enough signatures of registered voters to equal eight percent or 15 percent of votes cast in the most recent gubernatorial election, depending on if it’s a statutory or constitutional change, in every county.

Currently, signature gathers the need to meet that eight percent or 15 percent target regardless of where someone lives in the state.

That means even if signature collectors gathered thousands of verified signatures beyond the current requirement, their effort would be doomed if they fall short in any county.

Other proposals would require constitutional amendments to receive over 55 percent of the vote and make the state auditor responsible for determining projected costs of state questions.

Professor John G. Matsusaka, executive director of the non-partisan Initiative and Referendum Institute at the University of Southern California, said Oklahoma’s initiative laws already are among the nation’s most restrictive.

If these measures pass, he said groups will struggle even more. “The way I see it, this will just make everything more expensive,” Matsusaka said. “And it could really make it where only really rich people or groups will be able to use this process.”

The Legislature’s interest in these proposals follows passage of several high-profile state questions opposed by the governor and many in the GOP-dominated Legislature.

Since 2016, voters through citizen-led initiatives have expanded Medicaid to more than 200,000 low-income Oklahomans, changed several drug and non-violent crimes from felonies to misdemeanors and made Oklahoma one of the nation’s largest and most accessible medical marijuana markets.

Republican lawmakers pushing legislation to make state questions more difficult say Oklahomans, especially those in rural communities, should have more information about what’s on the ballot before Election Day. The geographical requirement, they say, will prevent groups from focusing signature collection efforts on more liberal areas in Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

At stake is whether the Oklahoma’s state question process, a cornerstone of state founder’s beliefs in direct democracy and their populist roots, should continue as is or include new roadblocks to make getting on the ballot tougher.

“If I were an Oklahoma voter, I would ask what problem this is trying to solve,” Matsusaka said. “It’s not that there’s been too many questions since I counted and there has been only 10 (citizen-led initiatives) on the ballot in the 21st Century, and that’s not many at all.”

The Path to the Ballot

Oklahoma is one of 28 states with an initiative process, according to the National Conference of State Legislatures. Oklahoma’s is more restrictive than many.

Based on the votes cast in the most recent gubernatorial election, citizen-led campaigns for the 2022 election would need nearly 95,000 signatures for statutory changes and almost 178,000 for constitutional ones.

All of that must be completed in a 90-day window starting when the state approves a petition application.

certain low-level drug and property crimes from a felony to a misdemeanor.

It appears no citizen-led efforts will make the 2022 ballot.

The only measures filed with the Secretary of State’s office are marijuana legalization proposals. Signature collecting has not started as they have been tied up in court for months.

A group calling itself Oklahoma Historical Society is attempting to get a pair of state questions on the ballot, including a constitutional change that would legalize recreational marijuana sales.

Jed Green, director of the group, said the number of legal, technical and logistical challenges already in place proves stricter rules are unnecessary.

“It’s very hard to organize on a 77-county level,” he said. “And I think that is the point to all this.”

Cindy Nguyen, policy director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Oklahoma, agreed. Oklahoma’s ACLU chapter has been involved in a number of state question campaigns, including 2016 criminal justice

April edition of Pauls Valley Opry

Pauls Valley Opry

Wayne Gibbs will be back at the Pauls Valley Opry on Saturday, May 7. The show begins at 6:30 p.m. at the Pauls Valley Junior High School auditorium.

The April edition of the Pauls Valley Opry was a night to be remembered! Just as spring is a time of refreshing and rebirth, the homegrown and transplanted talent took root and sprang up and blossomed, right in front of our eyes!

2021 was a big year for Bailey Wesberry! In July, she became Bailey Wesberry Washburn and she and Landon are now expecting their new blessing, a baby girl, from the Lord in July of 2022.

However, the trooper that Bailey is, she knocked it out of the park on Saturday night! She rocked the house with the Bonnie Raitt hit, “Something to Talk About” and then she poured her out into the Adele smash, “Make You Feel My Love.”

It always such a treat for Becky and I when our very dear friends from the Hank Williams Museum, Jeff and Beth Petty make the trip from Montgomery, Ala. to Pauls Valley! We affectionately refer to Jeff Petty as the “Alabama Honky-Tonk Man” because when it comes to singing honky-tonk music Jeff is in a category by himself!

If we had a dance floor, Jeff would have had us on it when he kicked into the Brooks & Dunn classic, “A Man This Lonely.” Then he took us back to the golden years of rock & roll with the Everly Brothers timeless tune of “All I Have to Do is Dream.”

Annie Reed is truly one of the most gifted vocalists to ever cross the stage of the Pauls Valley Opry or for that matter, any stage! It’s like a reunion when we get to see Annie and her tall drink of a cowboy, Dwayne! Annie has a way of delivering a song like no other and when you heard Annie singing the Lorrie Morgan hit, “A Picture of Me Without You” and then Merle Haggard classic, “A Place to Fall Apart” you could have heard a pin drop in the auditorium!

We are always honored to have any of our Nation’s many heroes at the Pauls Valley Opry, but when Paul Lopez is on the show it’s special! Paul is recognized nationally for his many musical accomplishments.

Paul nailed the Gabe Garcia hit “Missing” and then he got us out into the aisle with the Eric Heatherly version and remake of the Statler Brothers defining song which launched them into stardom, “Flowers on the Wall.”

Cathy Lake is one of the purest vocalists that you will ever hear and she is an anointed songwriter too! When Cathy grasped the mic and sang the Anne Murray classic, “Snowbird” you would have sworn that Anne Murray was in the house! Then, Cathy brought us into a moment of worship and praise with her self-penned,

“When I Get Home.”

The “Gentle Giant of the Pauls Valley Opry” was back last Saturday night and this guy proved why he has won so many awards for his God-given talent! Wiley Winters is from Pauls Valley and he is one of its hidden treasures. He and his sister Missy are part of the worship team at “The House” in Pauls Valley and we always know it’s going to be a great show when Wiley is at home at the Pauls Valley Opry!

Wiley crooned his way into all of our hearts when he sang the Josh Turner hit, “Your Man” and he got us into a two-steppin’ mood with the George Strait classic, “All My Ex’s.” Awesome job, Wiley!

Missy Ride was inducted into the Pauls Valley Opry Hall of Fame in 2015 along with being the Female Vocalist of that year! She has won numerous awards at the McSwain Theatre in Ada as well! Missy is always our “go to gal” whenever we need anything! On Saturday night, Missy was simply fantastic! Missy blew us away with her rendition of the LeAnn Rimes hit, “Blue” and then she took the roof off with the Trisha Yearwood smash hit, “Heaven, Heartache and the Power of Love.”

Our “Friendly Undertaker”, “Voice of the Pauls Valley Opry” and Hall of Fame Member, John Williams was at a Funeral Director’s convention and we certainly missed him, but the remarkable Pauls Valley Opry Hall of Fame Member, Mike Deviney stepped in and he didn’t miss a beat! He did an excellent job handling all of the on-stage and back-stage duties!

Mike also pastors the First United Methodist Church in Maysville.

We appreciate our wonderful friend and Pauls Valley Opry “Hall of Fame Member” Mitch Sasseen along with Chandler Elliott for doing an excellent job with the sound and lighting!

Thanks to the Memory Makers Band. They are great musicians and include Shannon Herrod, Susanne Woolley, Mike Price, Larry Kent, Gary Bryan, Paul Pratt and Wayne Morton.

Join us for the May edition of the Pauls Valley Opry on Saturday, May 7.

changes (State Question 780) and State Question 805, which sought to reclassify more criminal charges but failed in 2020. With financial support from its parent organization, the ACLU was able to hire hundreds of signature collectors to canvas the state and collect tens of thousands of signatures. Nguyen said groups without those types of resources face substantial challenges. And if the 77-county requirement was put in place, it would be out of reach for many groups.

“It is a concern because this provides an opportunity for those who are especially impacted by the state questions to not only get involved in the democratic process, but also to have their voices heard,” she said. Oklahoma’s veto referendum process would also be impacted by the geographical requirements. The state allows citizens to try to repeal recently passed legislation through the state question process. Groups need to collect fewer signatures than initiatives, just five percent of votes in the last gubernatorial election, which would be 59,320 this year. These have been even rarer since the state requires that all signatures be collected within 90 days of the end of that year’s session.

There have been 20 veto referendums in Oklahoma history, the last coming in 1970, according to Ballotpedia. Several attempts have been made since. All failed. This includes an unsuccessful attempt to repeal a 2021 bill that cracks down on protesters by increasing penalties for blocking roadways and granting immunity to motorists who kill or injure rioters. Joshua Harris-Till, a Democratic activist who recently announced plans to run for the party’s nomination in the Fifth District congressional race, led that effort. Adding geographical requirements would effectively keep almost any citizen-led referendum off the ballot, he said. “Many of these counties don’t have a convention center you can line up outside of or these big events where you can get signatures,” he said. “So what they are trying to do is just make it more costly and make it, I would argue, impossible to get the signatures you need.”

Part of a National Trend? Oklahoma is not the only state looking at making it harder for citizens to place questions on the ballot. Kelly Hall is the executive director of the Fairness Project, a progressive organization that has helped pass ballot measures in a number of states, including Oklahoma’s Medicaid expansion measure. She said there has been “an unprecedented attack” on direct democracy laws across the country. This includes attempts to require a 60 percent vote threshold in Arizona, mandate citizens to gather signatures from six percent of voters in each of Idaho’s 35 state legislative districts and a Missouri effort to raise the number of needed signatures. Hall said she sees many of these attempts as retribution for successful state questions some lawmakers didn’t support. “This is not specific to one issue, but rather where ballot measures demonstrate a disconnect between what matters to voters and what their elected leaders are doing in the halls of power,” she said.

What Comes Next? There is still a lot of work before the Oklahoma proposals could take effect. They need to be heard and passed in the state Senate before getting a final vote in the House. If they make it through the Legislature, the proposals will go to a vote of the people under the current state questions requirements.

Hall said she is hopeful that voters would want to protect their voice. But their passage poses a real threat. “I think one of the ways our rights get taken away from us inch by inch is because they are wrapped up in jargon, hard to understand processes and a slow attrition of our rights,” she said. “My concern is that with all the things voters are focused on, the economy, health care, wages, that Oklahoma voters may not be aware of the implications of what a slow attrition of their rights means.”

Matsusaka, with USC’s Initiative and Referendum Institute, agreed that voters theoretically wouldn’t want to take power away from themselves. But it happens. Florida voters approved a 2006 initiative increasing the votes required to approve a constitutional amendment from 50 percent to 60 percent. “It’s not inconceivable that (Oklahoma’s proposals) could pass,” he said. “It could be a low-turnout election or maybe there isn’t a well-funded opposition campaign, that could happen.”

High input costs require a ‘sharp pencil’ to assess farming operations

Gail Ellis
Agricultural Communications

The escalating price of fuel and fertilizer is a major concern for agricultural producers. High grain and cattle prices don’t turn profits when input costs keep farmers and ranchers in the red.

Want a snapshot of a farmer’s checkbook? As of December 2021, the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Economic Research Service estimates an annual price increase of 235 percent for anhydrous ammonia, 149 percent for urea and 192 percent for liquid nitrogen.

Soil testing To combat skyrocketing input costs, Oklahoma State University Extension specialists recommend evaluating operations and taking an honest look at management practices. For farmers, that starts with a basic soil test.

“This high fertilizer trend is not a short-term situation,” said Brian Arnall, OSU Extension specialist in precision nutrient management. “For such a cheap cost, the value of a soil test has an extremely good return on investment to know what you need and where you need it.”

Inexpensive soil and forage testing is offered at each of Oklahoma’s 77 county Extension offices where samples are collected and submitted to the Soil, Water & Forage Analytical Laboratory at OSU.

For producers who’ve done composite soil tests in the past, now is the time to consider grid sampling or submitting samples from several zones. Soil analyses help implement smarter and more efficient application strategies. For example, when tests indicate low phosphorous and potassium values, farmers can improve the soil’s quality by applying phosphorous in a band instead of a broadcast.

Amid expensive inputs, more specialized fertilizers and microbial products are hitting the market at a lower price point. However, Arnall said there isn’t enough information known yet about the new products to fully understand their benefits.

“We’re still learning. OSU Extension is trying to get a handle on what works well for Oklahoma soils because many biological products may not be developed for our Great Plains environment,” he said.

The price of herbicides has also increased, and limited quantities are available. Locking in a set price for fertilizer or herbicide months in advance saves money, but some suppliers don’t offer that option. When products can be purchased in bulk at a reasonable cost, Arnall recommends on-farm storage.

Developing a crop rotation plan and identifying what products will be needed to improve soil quality and treat weeds are basic practices all farmers should follow when facing unpredictable input expenses.

Livestock and forage management

For cattle producers battling high costs, Brian Pugh, OSU Extension northeast area agronomy specialist, said it’s a matter of knowing the numbers.

The spike in prices led Pugh and several other Extension specialists to organize a series of workshops through April 27 on how to mitigate rising costs. The six-module curriculum focuses on animal health, general livestock, ag economics and agronomy.

“We recommend every producer sit down and complete a forage budget – how much forage can you produce on your acreage in a year and how much forage does your cowherd need?” Pugh said. “What we find is a lot of producers are overstocked, but they don’t know it because they haven’t done a basic calculation to determine a forage surplus or deficit.”

In addition to a forage quality analysis, AgSense workshop participants are also asked to use a ration/nutrition calculator to understand what feed or supplements cows need to meet their daily protein and energy requirements.

The hands-on exercises teach ranchers what management practices to use based on their forage quality. Pugh said many producers don’t know they’re losing money on their cow/calf operations because they haven’t analyzed their budgets.

“It’s a hard conversation when the numbers show it might be critical to reduce cattle numbers,” he said. “We try to promote first and foremost to make the cow do the work. Make the cow harvest her own forage as many days as possible, and that adds up to a lot of savings.”

Pugh said research shows spending less on feedstuffs results in a more profitable operation even if ranchers must spend more money upfront on fertilizer for their forage. Varieties introduced to Oklahoma pastures 30 years ago produced more forage than native grasses, allowing ranchers to increase herd numbers. Also, throughout the 1980s and 1990s, fuel, feed and fertilizer were relatively cheap, Pugh said, making it cost-effective to run more cattle on the same amount of land.

“Now we’re in a scenario where we just can’t afford those inputs and we need to destock or stock at an optimum,” he said. “Many people have grown up with this overstock mindset, but in this situation cattle performance declines, and body condition and conception rates go down.”

When cattle markets are high like they are today, cow fertility and sound herd health are more important than herd numbers. The AgSense workshops challenge ranchers to examine their operations and closely follow cash flow. Pugh explained more cattle doesn’t necessarily mean more profit.

“Having more cows can actually result in more losses for the operation,” he said. “Learning how to be efficient with forage and cows, genetics, economic decisions – all the little things that add up – it’s helpful to put a sharp pencil to all of those factors.”

“A lot of our turfgrasses can get by with a lot less fertilizer than what we think,” Hillock said. “A soil test can show how much fertilizer is needed, if any.”

Higher pesticide and herbicide prices will trickle down through the horticulture industry, Hillock said, and that could increase the cost of plants. This growing season, he suggested teaming up with fellow gardeners to purchase plants that can be divided and shared to minimize expenses.

Sharon Kay (West) Pierce

Sharon Kay (West) Pierce entered everlasting life, April 1, 2022 in Norman, Oklahoma, at the age of 79 years 1 month 7 days. Funeral Services are scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday, April 9, 2022 at Wadley's Funeral Chapel. Interment will follow at Hillside Cemetery, entrusted to the care of Wadley's Funeral Service. Online condolences may be made, and service livestreamed and www.wadleysfuneralservice.com.

With her name inspired by the scripture, our "rose of Sharon" was born February, 25, 1943, to Theron and Leatha (Thomas) West in Clovis, New Mexico. She grew up with her older brothers, Ray and Gene, in Muleshoe, Texas.

Sharon married Mickey Max Pierce on September 18, 1958. After moving during Mickey's Air Force career, they settled in Norman, with their four children: Mitzi, Mickey, Max and Melisa. Before entering the full-time workforce, Sharon had an in-home bakery, where she specialized in birthday and wedding cakes.

Inside and outside the home, she dedicated herself to excellence at anything she set out to accomplish. After successfully managing floor covering businesses in the Oklahoma City area, Sharon worked as a field representative for Devry University. She would say her true heart's calling was to counsel women in health and nutrition. Her program and in-home counseling service sought to guide women through a healthy way of life and lifestyle in all aspects-physical, mental, spiritual (if they chose) and emotional. Sharon worked with clients and their physicians to create a personalized plan for success according to their medical needs or any other considerations.

Her love for God and passion for life made her a dynamic presence in the lives of those who knew her. Considering Psalms 1 "the key to success," Sharon loved to care for others, to share her faith and whatever skill or wisdom she could with anyone. She could never stand to see anyone go hungry and sought to bless others whenever or wherever she saw a need.

Sharon loved to dance and loved music. After suffering an injury that altered her physical ability to walk, she remarked, "I may never walk again. But I will dance." This was her approach to life and its challenges. Sharon loved to celebrate life and its special moments with her loved ones and friends. She knew how to celebrate well. From making our favorite treats or dishes at holidays to spending quality time or giving gifts, everything she did for others showcased her love and thoughtfulness for that individual. The love and lessons she taught will live on by those who knew her.

Sharon was preceded in death by her parents, Theron and Leatha and her eldest daughter, Mitzi Springs.

Survivors include her three children, Mickey Pierce of Norman, Max Pierce and wife, Elizabeth, of Norman and Lisa Chamberlain and husband, Phillip of Lexington; her brothers, Ray West and wife, Donna, of Midland, Texas, and Gene West and wife, Donna, of Lubbock, Texas; her 11 grandchildren; her nine great-grandchildren; and many other relatives and friends.

Joseph Ezekiel Dover

Graveside services for Joseph Ezekiel Dover, 88 of Purcell were held Wednesday, April 6, 2022 at the Washington Cemetery. Services were under the direction of the Wilson-Little Funeral Home in Purcell.

Mr. Dover passed away Saturday, April 2, 2022 at Sunset Estates Nursing Home.

Joe was born September 11, 1933 in Goldsby, Okla., the oldest of eight children born to Joseph and Pauline (Nelson) Dover. He was raised in the Goldsby/Washington area and attended Washington Schools.

Joe married his best friend and life partner, Mary Ruth Andrews, on November 7, 1953 in Purcell. They first made their home in Washington, where they raised their only son, Larry.

Joe answered the call of service, and joined the Norman Police Department in 1961. He proudly served as a Law Enforcement officer for 20 years, retiring in 1981. At the urging of some of his department friends, he jumped back into community service as a Deputy for the Cleveland County Sheriff's department.

In Joe's heart though, he was always destined to be a farmer. Throughout the years, he and Mary dabbled in it, farming some on the side. Although, Mary recalls that they might starve if it ever became a day job.

Away from work, Joe enjoyed traveling. He and Mary liked traveling to Bluegrass festivals, and he never missed a chance to camp the Arkansas River with Lem Nelson. Joe was a good man, husband, father and friend. He will be dearly missed!

He was preceded in death by his son, Larry Dover; parents, Joseph and Pauline Dover and siblings, Vera Madden, Margie Yeary and Robert Dover.

Joe is survived by his wife of 68 years, Mary Dover; sisters, Carolyn Felton of Norman, Linda Bridwell of Goldsby and Ruth Madden of Goldsby; brother, James Dover of Garfield, Ark., and a host of other family and friends.

Dibble Senior Citizens

By Eddie Cantrell

Greetings to the Seniors of the Dibble Community!

If you didn't go to the circus you missed a fun time! Numbers were down, but still enough to have fun. Yes, they shot the girl out of the cannon! We ended up at Cattleman's for a nice lunch.

Remember, we are going to Medicine Park sometime in April. Those trips are always a lot of fun! Stay tuned!

Our lunches at Dessie's Diner have been pretty full of all the old regulars and quite a few new ones, with 15 to 25 folks on Mondays and Wednesdays and 35 to 50 on Fridays. Be there or be square!

My cousin Oscar says everybody is getting into antiques. Everybody wants something old and ugly and doesn't work anymore. His wife says she calls that a husband! Neither one of them ain't right!

All for now...

The Washington Warriors are focused on the task at hand. The task is District 3A-2 and it's the key to postseason play for Washington head coach Jeff Kulbeth's team.

"The name of the game in high school baseball is the District schedule," Kulbeth said. "You try to win a District title and it helps with Regionals."

The Warriors are back to the District grind after finishing 1-2 at the Marlow tournament. They defeated Mount St. Mary in the opening round, 10-4.

"We got a good win against St. Mary," Kulbeth said.

Marlon Moore got the nod to start on the bump. He was replaced by Canon Stewart.

Dragons took two from CHA in make up contests

Purcell will be playing in the Newcastle wooden bat festival this week.

The Dragons will play today (Thursday) at 11 a.m. against Newcastle.

Friday they will play Mt. Saint Mary and Saturday CHA.

Tucker Bloodworth and Zach Idlett combined to toss a three hitter March 29 when Lexington paid a call on the Dragons.

Bloodworth struck out six and Idlett fanned five, limiting Lexington to just a pair of runs in a 12-2 run-rule victory.

Jett Tyler was a perfect 2-2 in the contest. Jorge Munoz was 2-3 with an RBI. Idlett helped his own cause going 2-2 including a double with three RBIs. Bloodworth, who was the winning pitcher, was 1-1 with an RBI. Creed Smith had a hit in four trips to the plate and knocked in a pair of base runners.

Purcell neatly tucked away a pair of district victories last Thursday and Friday.

The Dragons edged CHA last Thursday riding the pitching arms of Brodrick Smith and Drew Kimbrell.

"Brodrick got the start and Drew came in and got the win," head coach Cole Sharp said. "I thought Drew did a good job competing on the mound. He attacked the zone and made them swing the bats.

"We were very aggressive on the base paths," Sharp said.

The Dragons swiped eight bases.

"Our bats were kind of quiet for the majority of the game but came around and found a way to polite out in the end."

The Dragons backed that victory up with a 7-2 victory over CHA on Friday.

The Washington slow-pitch softball team completed a head-spinning six day stretch, ending as Turnpike Showdown champions on Saturday.

They earned wins over Harrah, Bethel (twice), Tecumseh, Dale, Ada, Calera, Roff, Sulphur, Caddo and Silo.

The lone loss in the stretch was a 9-8 finish against Rattan.

"We played a lot of games," head coach Tylor Lampkin said. "It got us all caught up on games we needed to play."

The Turnpike Showdown, which had games played in Roff and Sulphur, was loaded with top teams.

"There were some really good teams in it," Lampkin said. "There were four fast-pitch State champions in it."

Lampkin was especially happy with the way his team played on Saturday of the tournament against Sulphur, Caddo and Silo.

Close play

Lexington sophomore Drew Dierking waits for the ball to arrive at second base during the Bulldogs’ game against Dibble. Lexington fell 10-3. Dierking had two hits in the game.

Busy week for ‘Dawgs

Lexington started strong last Friday jumping out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning but ended up on the wrong end of a 10-3 count.

Drew Dierking led the offense going 2-3 with a triple and an RBI. Zeke Faulkenberry and Ty Mixon both had hits in the game.

“After we started strong we cooled off from there,” head coach Jarod Ennis said. “Dibble put the ball in play.

We will bounce back and be ready to go this week.”

Bethel pinned a pair of losses on the Bulldogs, 7-4, in the opener and 17-7 in the nightcap March 31.

Skylar Rollins had a three run home run in the fourth inning of the opener with Zeke and Dierking on base.

Zeke, Dierking, Ezra Faulkenberry and Jacob Turnpaugh also had hits in the game.

Purcell knocked off the Bulldogs 12-3 earlier in the week.

Weather played havoc on Monday with a scheduled game at Marietta.

Lexington made the trip on Tuesday for a make-up game.

The Bulldogs are scheduled to play at Wayne Thursday and at Asher Friday. The ‘Dawgs are scheduled to play at Heritage Hall next Monday and host the Chargers on Tuesday.

Full slate for the week

Play tourney host Washington today (Thursday) at noon

Emily Montgomery

Four Lady Bulldogs were chosen for the Canadian Valley All-Star team. They are Leslie Barber, Ryli Harmon, Izzy Pack and Abby Turnpaugh.

The All-Star game was scheduled for Monday night in Dale, but heavy rains canceled the event.

Tuesday evening, Lexington’s slow-pitch team was supposed to be in Davis. But wet fields canceled yet another game.

Last week, Lexington dropped a 12-0 game with Class 4A #1 Dale.

They also lost to Harrah, 9-6 last Tuesday.

The Lady Panthers jumped out from, scoring one run in each of the first three innings.

Lexington finally got on the board in the fourth when Pack and Abby Sample each scored runs.

They added three more in the fifth to take the 5-3 lead.

But, Harrah didn’t go away quietly, scoring five in the sixth to pull away.

The Lady ‘Dawgs added one more run from Marisa Northrup, but couldn’t get the win in the end.

Several Lady ‘Dawgs finished the game with two hits, including Pack, Sample, Harmon, Northrup, Madilyn Dunn and Emilee Pierce.

Last Thursday, Lexington lost to Dibble, 17-9.

With three runs scored in the first inning, the Lady ‘Dawgs were holding a 3-2 lead.

But, the Lady Demons broke the game wide open, scoring 10 runs in the second.

Their scoring onslaught was too much for Lexington.

The Lady ‘Dawgs have a 5-9 record and were scheduled to play in Davis on Tuesday.

They play the Lady Warriors at noon in the first round of the Washington tournament on Thursday.

Kane Springer went 2-4 with a triple.

Washington was defeated 9-0 by Ft. Cobb-Broxtton in the next game and 16-4 by Bishop McGuinness in the next two games.

The score was 0-0 until Ft. Cobb broke it open in the fourth inning.

“They put up some runs and we didn’t answer,” Kulbeth said.

In the loss to Bishop McGuinness the Warriors had problems finding the strike zone.

“We walked 13 on Saturday,” Kulbeth said. “You can’t give teams that caliber 13 extra guys. We have to pitch better.”

The coach thought his team hit the baseball well at times but they weren’t able to string together hits to produce runs.

“We swung it pretty good at times but we’re not coming up with timely base hits,” he said. “We also need to pitch better and be more efficient on the mound. We’ll have to keep pitch counts down.”

Now it’s back to District play.

Monday’s scheduled game against Comanche was rained out but they were able to play Tuesday.

The Warriors are 10-7 overall.

Purcell slow-pitch schedule changes

Purcell’s slow-pitch softball team was scheduled to play in the Norman Festival Monday but Mother Nature had other ideas.

They played Latta last week and came up on the short end of an 11-0 count.

Purcell’s game with Lexington April 7 has been cancelled.

Their next action on the schedule is April 12 at Norman North.

Monday’s game with Wynnewood was canceled due to heavy rain and wet fields. Last Thursday’s game with Alex was also axed.

Add Thackerville to that list of canceled games as they were called off Tuesday morning.

Last week, Wayne lost to Rush Springs on Tuesday, 21-18. They had 15 hits in the loss, including three apiece from Rhett Kennedy, Andy Lee and Ethan Mullins.

They also had 14 RBIs in the loss with Mullins’ four leading the team. Jaxon Dill had three.

Friday’s game with Pauls Valley was another heartbreaker, falling to the Panthers 10-5.

Pitching seems to be the Achilles heel for the Bulldogs.

“In both games we came out and threw well for the first two or three innings. Then we have an inning where we just cannot hit the strike zone and we give up several runs. Then, we get back to throwing strikes,” head coach Shane Collins said.

Mullins and Kennedy were leaders at the plate for the Bulldogs in the game with Pauls Valley. Each had two hits.

Kennedy had an RBI and scored two runs while Mullins had two RBIs and scored one run.

Kaleb Madden scored Wayne’s other two runs.

Collins singled out Kennedy, Mullins and Jr. Perez.

“Ethan has been great for us at short stop and Rhett, too, at catcher. And, Jr. Perez is holding it down in the outfield.

“I’ve put a lot on his shoulders, asking him to track down all of the balls hit out there and he does a good job doing just that.”

Wayne is scheduled for games with Lexington and Asher today (Thursday). The site was to be either Lexington or Asher, but was not yet decided as of press time.

Chickasaw Nation celebrates Women’s History Month

Ruby (Gipson) Horse shares her milestones in life

Ruby (Gipson) Horse lived through exciting times within the Chickasaw Nation. A small-town girl, she has witnessed pivotal events for the tribe throughout her life. She wrote down her experiences and thoughts to be shared with future generations of Chickasaws.

Mrs. Horse was born March 4, 1940, to Bob and Marie Gipson at Talihina Indian Hospital. A Chickasaw, she attended elementary school in Pontotoc, Okla., and high school in Bromide, Okla. She graduated in 1957 at the young age of 17.

“As a child, I wondered what I would be able to do when I graduated from high school,” Mrs. Horse said. “I knew at an early age I wanted to be employed by the federal government.

“Upon graduation, my mother sent a letter to the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Muskogee, Oklahoma, requesting an application for me to attend Haskell Institute. I anxiously awaited the mailman every day. It took 10 days, but it seemed like a year waiting. I cried with joy when mom said I had been accepted.”

Mrs. Horse took a two-year business course that prepared her for government service while at Haskell. She graduated in 1959. She then took her civil service test required to work for the federal government, and moved to Dallas for a year. Completing another life goal, she returned to Oklahoma and was hired at Tinker Air Force Base.

“The next goal in my career was to get to a GS-11 (a ranking system within the government) without a single college hour,” Mrs. Horse said. “I had to work 18 years, but I reached that milestone in my federal career. I retired from Tinker in January of 1995 with 34 years of service. My husband, Sam, is also retired from Tinker.”

Fairy tale endings

Mrs. Horse fondly remembers her home church, Seeley Chapel. She received a firm foundation for her spiritual journey at the church. Her earliest recollection of the church was going by wagon to services.

“It was never too hot, too cold or rainy when it came time to go to church,” Mrs. Horse said. “We didn’t stay one or two hours, which I do now (at church), it was early morning to late at night. My mother and grandmother always managed to have food for us.”

Mrs. Horse became aware of unemployment and inadequate housing when she started school in Pontotoc. She became conscious of her own social standing as she explained that her clothes, while clean and mended, were not of the same quality as the other children of the community at the time.

In the 1950s, her family helped prepare and serve a traditional meal of pashofa for a meeting at their home church, Seeley Chapel, where Chickasaws gathered to talk about their shared vision for the future, including goals for housing, health care and education.

Only 12 at the time, Mrs. Horse remembered the excitement in the air during the day of the meeting. It opened with a prayer in the Chickasaw language. Mrs. Horse’s impression of the meeting at the time was that of a fairy tale.

Speakers described a time when, “Brick homes were to be made available that included electricity, indoor plumbing,” and Mrs. Horse was also able to learn a new concept of health care, with a local hospital serving Chickasaws and other First Americans.

“My thought on this was that it sounded too good to be true. This sure sounded great to a Chickasaw girl who had rarely seen a doctor in her short lifetime.”

Education was the final topic of discussion for the day.

“Education was a means that would enable the Chickasaws to be in charge of their own destiny,” Mrs. Horse said. “At the end of the day, this young girl’s head was swirling with all these fairy tales. From a young girl’s standpoint, this vision was not even a reality.”

By the 1960’s, Mrs. Horse had reached her goal of working for the government in the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Her supervisor informed her that Overton James was appointed as Governor of the Chickasaw Nation.

She was tasked to type a letter to be signed by President John F. Kennedy, approving James — and the will of the Chickasaw people — in the appointment of Governor. In later life, she personally saw how the continued dreams of Chickasaw leadership within the Chickasaw Nation came to fruition.

The late 1960’s and early 70’s is when Mrs. Horse saw the first of these “fairy tales” come to realization. The Chickasaw Nation, through federal programs, began providing homes to First Americans. These homes had modern amenities and were built to higher standards than what many rural Chickasaws had been living in.

Numerous programs and services have been created to ensure quality affordable housing is available to Chickasaws and other First Americans.

According to Mrs. Horse, one of the most exciting times she remembers is when the Carl Albert Indian Hospital was built.

“We are serving our own people,” Mrs. Horse said. “It was Native Americans taking care of Native Americans. From the start the hospital was busy. It’s amazing to see the medical programs we have now. Facilities, specialty doctors and prescriptions are mailed straight to our house.”

Mrs. Horse is thankful for the current leadership within the Chickasaw Nation. She believes they have built upon the vision of those who came before. She attributes education as the foundation of the growth of the Chickasaw Nation. Educated Chickasaws allow the tribe to grow and choose their own destinies.

“I know Governor Anoatubby and he is a fine man,” Mrs. Horse said. “The tribe has grown so much under his leadership.”

“Brick homes, medical [care] (the Chickasaw Nation medical facility) the best — and educational opportunities unlimited. Employment opportunities, not only for tribal citizens but all people. I thank God that I have lived long enough to see this fairy tale come true. I am so glad to be a Chickasaw.”

Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation

Since moving to our new Norman location at 1233 West Lindsay the number of veterans and surviving spouses asking for help with their VA claims has increased.

To be able to complete all the claims that we have started, a moratorium for accepting new clients is closed until July. The Foundation will open on July 11 to begin taking new claims.

I believe that our reputation for being to help veterans and surviving spouses to receive VA benefits is the reason that so many are requesting our help. As we can train more volunteers to assist veterans using our evidence-based system, we will be able to reduce the backlog clients.

I would like to share what a veteran said to me last week. He is a member of a local church and their associate pastor and music director decided that having the American Flag in their sanctuary made them feel uneasy and they moved it out. Maybe they would not be so uneasy in another country. Personally, I believe that if it were not for our veterans there would not be any choices for any of us.

For those of you who want to assist us there are several ways that are needed. One of those is by helping our organization financially or by donating that used car or truck that can be given to a veteran in need or sold to raise operational funds.

Our drivers are assisting veterans and surviving spouses on a daily basis by transporting them to our location or to their VA appointments. We also have some handicapped items that we recycle to other veterans who are in need.

We are continually looking for others who would like to be a part of what we do for veterans and their families. Training is provided in person or digitally on a weekly basis. Please consider becoming a volunteer with the Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation. Volunteer applications are available on our website.

To donate to our Foundation, you can do so online at dalekgrahamveteransfoundation.org or mail a check to James Kyzer sang “Let Me Tell You What He Did For Me” for the morning special.

Brother David Clark brought his sermon from Luke 11:5-10 and spoke of “The Ministry of Intercession.”

Many times we don’t know how to pray, to know God’s will in a certain situation. If our hearts are right with God, He will make intercession for us. The prayer of intercession is touching someone’s life without them even knowing it.

A big boldness, certain amount of stubbornness and sacrifice are characteristic of one who intercedes. Jesus made intercession for us.

The evening message used several scriptures and spoke of the legacy we should leave our children and grandchildren. Our lives should honor God and we are to train our children in the ways of the Lord, pointing them in the right direction.

We should teach them integrity, faithfulness to God and a love of His word. We should equip them to live for Him.

We are to give our children an unconditional love and be recognized as one who trusts God in all things. We should have a desire to fellowship with God’s people. We should show them the importance of being obedient to God.

This Saturday, April 9, Sunray will be hosting the BMA of Oklahoma Mid-Year Meeting On Sunday, April 10, at 5 p.m. we will have a quarterly business meeting, followed by a time of snacks and fellowship.

You are always welcome at Sunray Baptist Church. We are located at 2223 North 9th Street in Purcell. Please join us for Sunday school, worship and all activities. For additional information call 405-527-6808.

Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church

By Stella Bledsoe

April 10, 2022 is Palm Sunday. This is the last Sunday during Lent. It is a season of penance, reflection, and fasting which prepares us for Christ’s Resurrection on Easter Sunday, through which we attain redemption.

By participating in the services before Easter, we experience the heart wrenching sadness of the events leading to the crucifixion. Easter is the sweetest of all Christian holidays and is made even better by the time we spend in serious contemplation of what Jesus did for us.

Holy Week begins on Palm Sunday and ends on Holy Saturday. Easter Sunday is not part of Lent but is the beginning of the season of Easter. Palm Sunday, also known as Passion Sunday, is a celebration that commemorates and honors Jesus Christ’s victorious entry into Jerusalem. It is an event that is in all the four Gospels. It was a joyful occasion as Jesus rode into Jerusalem as a conquering King, and the people shouted His praises and worshiped Him.

The masses for Palm Sunday are Saturday, April 9, at 5 p.m. and Sunday April 10, at 11 a.m. (English) and 1 p.m. (Spanish). There will be a procession with the palms from the Marian grotto outside church into the church at all masses. (If you are not sure where this is, just follow the others.)

Holy Thursday is April 14. Services on Holy Thursday will be at 7 p.m. during which we will have the washing of the feet of the members of our parish. We will have a special offertory procession during which those who have saved their coins throughout Lent may bring them to the altar.

At the end of the Mass, there will be the Eucharistic Procession from the Altar to the side altar by Our Lady of Guadalupe statue where we will have adoration of the Blessed Sacrament until 10 p.m.

Good Friday is April 15. At 7 p.m. we will have the Liturgy of the Veneration of the Cross followed by Stations of the Cross. The Hispanic Community will have their Stations of the Cross in Spanish at 2:30 p.m.

Easter Schedule: At 8 p.m., Saturday, April 16, we will begin the Easter Vigil during which we will be welcoming the five new members into the church by way of administering the required sacraments on them. On Easter Sunday, April 17, the Mass in English will be at 11 a.m., and the Mass in Spanish will be at 1 p.m.

We celebrate the love of Jesus at Our Lady of Victory parish all year long. Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church is located at the 307 West Jefferson. The office is open weekday mornings (405-527-3077). Weekend mass services are Saturday, 5 p.m.; Sunday, 11 a.m.; and Sunday, 1 p.m. (Spanish). Daily masses are Tuesday, 9 a.m.; Wednesday, 12 noon; Thursday, 7 p.m. (Spanish), and Friday, 9 a.m. Peace be with you.

Green Avenue Church of Christ

This past Wednesday we held our fifth-Wednesday singing. It was good and we got to sing songs we haven’t sung in quite a while.

This coming Wednesday we will hold our monthly song class which is an in-depth examination of four of the songs in our book.

Sunday morning in our Bible study we continued with the issue of “communication.” We learned that eloquence is nice but not totally necessary in order to have good communication. We also learned that there are a number of things which impair good communication, like anger, deceit, bad language and such like.

Jude, verse 20, served as the text for Keith Shackleford’s Sunday morning sermon, “Building Up Yourselves On Your Most Holy Faith.” He examined the whole brief letter emphasizing that the problems Jude warned of stemmed from some who had snuck in among the Christians but who were really ungodly ‘wolves in sheep’s clothing’.

These individuals corrupted the gospel (“the faith once delivered,” v. 3) for their own personal gain. They made a mockery of the truth and the church. So, Jude exhorted the Christians in v. 20-23 to labor at building up themselves on the foundation of their faith and being watchful to save others. They would need this strength to stand against the corrupted teachings of evil.

Sunday night the sermon added to the idea of things

Christians need built up in. The subject was “Kindness.” We learned that kindness is a character trait of God (Lk. 6:35) and that Christians should develop and increase in it so as to be like Him.

It was pointed out that there are many practical illustrations of kindness in the Bible, and some of these come under the headlines of generosity, hospitality, and goodness. Unselfish love is very much a motivating factor of kindness (1 Cor. 13:4).

We invite you to meet with us for Bible study at 7 p.m. Wednesday night and 9:45 a.m. Sunday and our worship services on Sundays are 10:45 a.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Bible correspondence courses are available, call 527-4052.

Jehovah’s going to in-person

Purcell’s congregations of Jehovah’s Witnesses will be joining churches around the world for in-person meetings starting April 1.

That’s the word from Public Communications Representative Brandon Walk.

For most of the last two years, buildings for worship have remained closed globally due to the risks associated with meeting in person. Jehovah’s Witnesses in the U.S. also suspended their public ministry on March 20, 2020.

Since then, they have carried on their ministry through letters and phone calls while holding twice-weekly meetings in a virtual format.

“There is a collective shout of joy among Jehovah’s Witnesses around the world right now,” said Robert Hendriks, U.S. Spokesman for Jehovah’s Witnesses. “While we have prospered in many ways as individuals and congregations using technology to bring us together, nothing can adequately replace being together in person. We have longed for this moment for the better part of two years.”

“The timing of resuming in-person meetings could not be better,” said Hendriks. “Bringing everyone back together for these special events will have a powerful effect on the worldwide congregation.”

Guidelines for holding “hybrid” meetings have been sent to all congregations in the United States. Over the past six months, many Kingdom Halls have been equipped with the required technology to hold a productive meeting that allows for in-person and remote attendees, all of whom can participate in the discussions.

“It has been heartwarming to see the peace and unity among Jehovah’s Witnesses during this very divisive time,” said Hendriks. “We know resuming in-person meetings will bring us even closer together. We’re anxious to see one another again.”

As of now, Jehovah’s Witnesses have no plans to resume their public ministry, though their “alternative” ministry

A Flame Still Burns on Washington Hill

Good day to all: Welcome to the ‘front porch.’

With all that’s going on, and has been going on for a long time, I thought about our country, its old-time values from 300 years ago, and its steady decline. The flame even flickers dim, sometimes. We’ll have to keep it fanned.

Those recent thoughts took me back to the summer of 2003, when we wrote these words. That was five years before we penned our first word for our Purcell hometown paper. But they’re as true now as then. Read on:

The amazin’ blonde and I took in a good part of our country’s history this summer, the summer of 2003. Our first order of business was to visit our son Malachi who was working in that part of the world at the time.

Seeing him far from home, then having to leave him more than a thousand miles from your home, is more than enough to make you nostalgic. On top of that, however, we also were able to take in some of America’s rich history. Before we left, those powerful sights would grip us and change us, just a bit, forever.

There were so many great sights to behold on this northern tour, sights and scenes that still float through my mind on a quiet day:

We saw the hills of Virginia, the Shenandoah Valley, Delaware, and New Jersey. We saw New York City, and the Statue of Liberty standing proudly in the fog. And we saw the emptiness of a place called Ground Zero.

But I think the most gripping scenes from this historical tour were those in Washington D.C. We stood in front of Mr. Lincoln, sitting every bit as tall and proud as the lady in the Hudson Bay. His famous speech is engraved on a huge nearby wall: Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty...” You know the occasion.

Standing where Abraham Lincoln sat, and looking out as he looked, we saw the Washington Monument stretching up 550 towering feet. It’s not much more than a couple of stone throws from the majestic White House tucked away nicely in the middle of the city, like a child in a blanket.

Those scenes were inspiring, but it would be the next scene that was the most awe-inspiring of all. And the most convicting, too.

About a mile from Mr. Lincoln, just across the Potomac River, is a cemetery where men who lived serving their country and many who died doing the same now rest.

Crossing the Potomac, as our first president did in time of war, and heading uphill amidst a thousand white markers, you soon find yourself up at the peak of Arlington. It is there that we saw the scene that brought a little lump to my throat. I don’t know exactly what it was about it.

It could have been the quiet respect of those dozens of Americans milling around viewing

This Sunday is Palm Sunday, the beginning of what the Christian church celebrates as Holy Week. It is a bittersweet time that starts with the remembrance of Jesus’ joyful entrance into Jerusalem, with his followers scattering palm leaves and cloaks in the road before him.

He came to the city riding on a humble donkey, but the ones looking for the Messiah were expecting him to arrive on a shimmering white stallion, coming to usher in the new kingdom. But Jesus was a different kind of king...

Following the triumphal entry were the activities of Passover, with the Jews’ remembrance of their years of slavery in Egypt. God, through Moses, brought freedom by sending various plagues to the Egyptians. The Jews, who had smeared sacrificial blood over their doors to indicate the Spirit was to “pass over” their homes, escaped these harassments and were led from Egypt toward their Promised Land.

Later in Holy Week we Christians remember the bitterness of Judas’ (and Peter’s) betrayal on “Spy Wednesday,” when Judas bargained with the Jewish leaders. On the following day (Thursday) which we sometimes call Maundy Thursday, we commemorate the Last Supper, which was the Passover Seder.

The Seder is a ceremonial dinner for the first or second night of Passover that uses various foods to represent the story of the Passover. (Unleavened bread and wine are two of these foods.) It was the final earthly meal Jesus shared with his disciples, when Jesus washed the dust from the disciples’ feet, representing his removal of the sin from their (and our) lives.

Maundy is taken from the Latin word for “command” and refers to the new commandment that Jesus gave to the disciples: “Love one another as I have loved you.”

Good Friday follows, although it doesn’t seem to be particularly “good.” This leads us to remember the falsified trial and horrible crucifixion of Jesus. However, three days continues.

“No time was wasted in the past two years,” said Hendriks. “Our congregants have been busy and productive helping each other and their neighbors through this most challenging time. That’s what love and unity are all about.”
