Prison lockdowns continue

The lockdown at Joseph Harp and the Lexington Assessment and Reception Center continues.

Officials at both prisons were contacted earlier this week and said there was no end of the lockdown on the horizon.

All Department of Corrections facilities were locked down last Friday evening due to a fatal stabbing at the Dick Conner Correctional Center in Hominy.

According to the ODOC the agency is continuously evaluating the situation to determine when to release the lockdown.

The lockdown was lifted Monday for Mabel Bassett Correctional Center in McLoud and Eddie Warrior Correctional Center in Taft.

An ODOC release said visitation at all facilities is expected to return to normal by Friday.

Sen. Garvin receives the 2023 Prevention Pioneer Award

The Oklahoma Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse recently honored Sen. Jessica Garvin with their 2023 Prevention Pioneer Award.

The Duncan Republican was chosen for her outstanding commitment, dedication, and leadership in the area of mental health and substance abuse.

“Having worked in the healthcare industry for years, I’ve seen the mental health and addiction crisis our state is facing, and I’ve worked hard to find ways for us to better help those in need,” Garvin said. “It’s important that we do all we can to support these individuals before their issues reach crisis level because without proper treatment and support, those issues can lead to unemployment, homelessness, incarceration, self-harm, and even death.

“No one should have to suffer in silence or simply because they don’t have access to or can’t afford appropriate mental or behavioral healthcare. I’ve focused on authoring and supporting legislation to improve access to and affordability of such services, and I’ll continue to do so because our fight is far from over,” she concluded.

This session, Garvin authored Senate Bill 254, requiring insurance companies to assist individuals in quickly finding out-of-network mental and behavioral healthcare when patients cannot find such services in-network. The bill further prohibits insurers from charging a higher price for out-of-network services in such cases.

Garvin serves as the co-chair of the Senate Mental Health Caucus and is a member of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Health and Human Services. During her tenure, she has advocated for and supported using federal ARPA funding to assist in building two new behavioral health hospitals in Tulsa and Norman and address behavioral health workforce shortages, among other important reforms.

The department presented the award to Garvin at their Overdose Awareness Day at the state Capitol on May 11.

The centers assist survivors affected by the severe storms, straight-line winds and tornadoes that occurred April 19-20. Survivors can meet face to face with specialists from FEMA, the Small Business Administration (SBA) and state and local agencies to have their questions about disaster assistance answered. They may also upload any documents needed for their applications at the centers.

The hours at the Cleveland County recovery center remains the same.

They are 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday-Saturday and Wednesday, 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Closed Sunday.

How long have you been in law enforcement?
I have been in law enforcement for 8 years.

I was born in Oklahoma City but raised in McKinney, Texas. In 2015, my sister married and moved to Oklahoma where I followed and then shortly after my parents did too.

What is the most rewarding part of your job?
The most rewarding part of being a Deputy is getting to witness the good in the world, getting to spend time with the future of this community and witnessing my K9, Spike, do type of work that is physically impossible for a human to do to keep the county safe.

What is the most challenging part of your job?

Chikasha Anokfilli “thinking Chickasaw” initiative provides strength, balance and harmony

Important goals of Mental Health Awareness Month include developing a better understanding of the widespread nature of mental health issues, reducing stigma, and raising awareness about available services.

Mental Health Awareness Month allows those who experience mental illness to know they are not alone, including those who may not be aware of their illness, and that there are programs and services designed with their specific needs in mind.

“Mental Health Awareness Month aids in reducing the stigma surrounding mental health,” Samantha Renfrow, mental health services advisor at the Chickasaw Nation, said. “It’s an opportunity to let everyone know mental health conditions can affect any individual, family or community regardless of age and race. Mental illnesses are common and treatable. There is help available for those in need.” The Chickasaw Nation regularly offers mental health services to all Chickasaw citizens, other First Americans, and Chickasaw Nation employees. These include the Chickasaw Nation’s Outpatient Therapy, Psychosocial Unit, Medical Family Therapy, Prevention and Behavioral Health Services. Each specializes in care provided to patients.

To address core mental health issues, the Chickasaw Nation created the Chikasha Anokfilli “thinking Chickasaw” initiative. This initiative ensures the Chickasaw Nation promotes available mental health resources year-round, helping improve the overall mental stability of Chickasaw citizens, First Americans and employees of the tribe.

“It is essential to recognize the importance of mental health as a component of our overall health and well-being,” Renfrow said. “It’s just as important as physical health. Chikasha Anokfilli ‘thinking Chickasaw’ is a mental health initiative visioned by (Chickasaw Nation) Governor Bill Anoatubby in 2019. Chikasha Anokfilli was developed and proclaimed to support and promote mental health and wellness.”

Emphasizing prevention and early intervention, the Chikasha Anokfilli initiative seamlessly integrates mental health into the Chickasaw Nation’s overall health services.

Located at Chickasaw.net/MentalWellness, the Chikasha Anokfilli page includes resources from mental health professionals offering support for trauma, grief, suicide awareness and prevention, financial and cultural wellness, and more.

Reevaluate your church mission spending

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

For 50years of my life, I’ve been associated with churches that have given over four million dollars collectively to outside denominational endeavors.

The typical mainline denominational church/parish will collect weekly offerings from their members. A percentage of this money each month is given to a state office.

The state office will in turn keep a large percentage of the money for state denominational purposes. The rest of it will be sent to the national office. Some denominations have an international mission office and an American denominational office.

Local churches are always encouraged to give more of their weekly offerings to the state and national causes. The state and national entities employ people who do denominational work.

They have full time salaries, medical insurance, retirement plans and usually newer model cars to drive. They need more money like most everyone else.

Many churches will give ten and often as high as 25 percent of their general offering to these outside entities.

The denomination rewards the church by praising them. Patting them on the back. They will usually list the top 100 giving churches on their denominational website or state publication piece.

They will work hard to enlist the pastor of the church to serve on state committees. This is done to make the pastor feel important and to keep their hand in the local church through the church’s pastor. Executives from the denomination will come a couple of times a year to visit the church and praise them for their generosity.

This usually is about the summation of what the local church gets back from their sacrificial 10 to 25 percent giving.

In far too many cases the local church deprives itself of needed money to fund their own local needs. The local minister often has to scrape to get by while the church is mailing a big check to the denominational hierarchy.

I’ve been a strong advocate of International and state missions most of my life. However, I’m tired of seeing so many small churches do without while the state and national entities regardless of the denomination, do and have more.

If your church has been mailing 15 percent of its money down to the state office every month then why not keep eight percent of that to do local mission work in your neighborhood?

Will the state or national office come to your town and help the homeless? Are they in your town helping unwed mothers and ministering to pregnant teenagers? Are they supporting the local halfway house for drug addicts and safe house for abuse victims?

Are they going door to door in your neighborhood telling people about God’s love? Too many churches rationalize, “We are doing mission work by sending our money to the state office.”

Churches should use more of their mission money at home. Your local area has needs. Jesus gave The Great Commission to go into the world but too often we miss what is right in our face.

I’m for supporting mission work around the world but your greatest mission work is in your neighborhood.

Remembering Americans who lost their lives for America

By Joe Guzzardi, Society for American Baseball Research member

Mark Edward Vanderheid was born in Tonawanda, New York, on February 11, 1949. Four months after his 20th birthday, and only six months after he arrived in South Vietnam in 1968, Vanderheid, a U.S. Marine Corps Lance Corporal, lay dead on the Quang Tri battle field; mortar shell fragments had torn his body open.

Young Mark was one of the 40,934 American military personnel killed in action. Other fatalities included those who perished from wounds, suicides, homicides, accidents and illnesses. Their bodies never recovered, another 91 are presumed dead.

Aiding combatants, eight female nurses lost their lives. Among the enemy, an estimated 1.1 million North Vietnamese and Viet Cong fighters were killed; 250,000 South Vietnamese soldiers died, and more than 2 million innocent civilians were killed.

In all, 58,222 Americans died during a futile war that began in 1959 when the first U.S. soldiers were killed during a guerrilla raid on their quarters near Saigon; the war ended ignominiously in 1975. U.S. forces never had a chance.

President Lyndon Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, the powers that escalated the war, had no exit strategy, and knew that Americans back home would be unwilling to make a sustainable commitment to victory.

Such a pledge would mean higher taxes to support Johnson’s guns and butter economy, thousands more lost lives and more domestic turmoil.

In 1997, during a meeting with McNamara, Vietnamese General Vo Nguyen Giap told his foe that the U.S. could never have won. The Vietnamese, Giap said, were willing to fight for 100 years.

At different times and to different degrees, Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon – the war’s architects – realized that Vietnam was a morass, a disaster in the making, and defeat, inevitable. McNamara: “We were wrong, terribly wrong.”

Their too-late awakening was cold comfort to Lillian and Edward Vanderheid, Mark’s parents, as well as to the other families whose loved ones, while defending a misguided, and ultimately failed cause, died too young.

Mark’s body was returned to Tonawanda in July, and he was buried with military services at Elmlawn Cemetery.

On December 19, 1968, the Tonawanda News published a letter from the Vanderheid family in which they shared memories of their hero son, and expressed gratitude for the two memorials that had recently been dedicated to Mark, one an award given in his name to the most spirited Tonawanda High School varsity football player.

The other memorial, Lillian and Edward wrote, is the Payne Avenue Christian Church’s “beautiful stained-glass window.”

The letter continued: “Words just can’t express the deep feeling within us as we sat in church listening to the memorial dedication service the young friends of Mark’s had to dedicate the stained-glass window that has been put in our church in memory of him. May God Bless you all.”

Grieving Lillian and Edward remembered how Mark loved to play sports and teach other young boys how to play. He coached Little League and also umpired games.

Lillian thought back to one day when Mark was home on leave and said, “Mom, someone has to help those people over there. Those kids have never known anything but war. If I can do even a small part to help them to someday just be kids and enjoy a childhood like I did, to be able to throw baseballs and footballs instead of hand grenades, I’ll have done my part.”

Lance Corporal Vanderheid did more than his part, and deserved to live a full, rewarding life. The Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon Vietnam war-obsessed White Houses stole from Mark, and from other thousands, that basic privilege.

Mark’s name is on the Vietnam Veteran’s Memorial in Washington, D.C., panel W54, line 8. His biography appeared in Gary Bedingfield’s “Baseball’s Greatest Sacrifice,” dedicated to the 500 players who died in service to America.

Finally, to raise awareness for this cause, I have consistently joined resolutions recognizing the crisis of violence against Native women and girls and recognizing May 5 of each year as the National Day of Awareness for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls.

And in 2013, I was proud to work across the aisle to include historic provisions in the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) reauthorization that recognized the inherent authority of participating tribes to exercise “special domestic violence criminal jurisdiction” over certain defendants, regardless of their native or non-native status, who commit acts of domestic violence or dating violence or violate certain protection orders in Indian country.

Ending the violence against indigenous women and girls will take the work and partnership from federal, state and local leaders and law enforcement. As a member of the Chickasaw Nation of Oklahoma and Co-Chair of the Congressional Native American Caucus, this is an issue that I understand the importance of and am proud to champion. By strengthening resources for law enforcement, victims and survivors, we can aim to end this crisis.

Cherokee Chief Hoskin, other tribal leaders hope to improve Indian Arts and Crafts Act

BlakeMarieMullen
Gaylord News

Native American artists say they continue to struggle with the theft of their work, and tribal leaders are urging Congress to strengthen the Indian Arts and Crafts Act.

IACA was passed in 1990 to prohibit any advertisement and all sales of counterfeit Indian arts and crafts. Choctaw Nation artist D.G. Smalling says the IACA must adapt to the new ways of buying and selling art through online sales.

“We have just a very different kind of engagement with intellectual property now,” Smalling said. “This is why my principal attorney is an expert in intellectual property. It is to defend what I create and to defend what is mine.”

Cherokee Nation Chief Chuck Hoskin Jr. urged Congress to strengthen the IACA during the recent Cherokee Days in Washington D.C.

He is working with members of Congress on a proposed ARTIST Act of 2023 (Amendments to Respect Traditional Indigenous Skill and Talent).

“We haven’t engaged the delegation just yet,” Hoskin said. “We will be setting up some opportunities to visit with them. The Senate Committee on Indian Affairs is where this matter sits at the moment.

:The chair of that committee is Chairman (Brian) Schatz of Hawaii and he and ranking member Sen. (Lisa) Murkowski have asked for input on the ARTIST Act, so that is the particular forum through which we are channeling our advocacy,” he continued.

OMRF study finds potential target for successful ovarian cancer treatment

An Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation scientist has discovered that an overactive gene appears to play a role in the development of ovarian cancer and that it can be targeted to kill the cancer cells the gene is connected to.

The gene, SDHA, produces an enzyme called SDH that causes ovarian tumor cells to grow and migrate. OMRF scientist Magdalena Bieniasz, Ph.D., found that in research models, about 20 percent of ovarian tumors have large quantities of that enzyme.

“What this means is that in females, the tumors have a high metabolism and develop fast,” said Bieniasz, who joined OMRF in 2014 from the Huntsman Cancer Institute.

She called the gene a “double-edged sword,” because while it promotes growth in ovarian tumors, tumors with high levels of SDH seem to respond more favorably to chemotherapy than those with low levels of SDH.

About 20,000 U.S. women are diagnosed with ovarian cancer annually, according to the American Cancer Society. Because women frequently overlook the early symptoms of ovarian cancer, patients are often not diagnosed until it has spread throughout the pelvis and abdomen.

As a result, the five-year survival rate following diagnosis is about 50 percent – far below the survival rate for most other cancer types. Among women, it is the fifth-leading cause of cancer-related death.

Previous research found a connection between a deficiency of SDH and rare cancer types as well as neurodevelopmental disorders. However, scientists had not yet studied the link between too much of the enzyme and ovarian cancer, Bieniasz said.

Bieniasz used a library of compounds and found that several, including a plant-based compound, that could improve killing ovarian cancer cells with high levels of SDH by disrupting their energy production.

“This tells us that targeting this gene could be part of an effective treatment in certain ovarian tumors,” said Bieniasz, whose lab is in OMRF’s Aging and Metabolism Research Program. “The next phase of this work is to optimize targeting the gene in ovarian tumors while minimizing effects on other cells.”

OMRF scientist Benjamin Miller, Ph.D., who chairs the program, said both discoveries advanced existing knowledge about ovarian cancer.

“These are important findings not only for the genetic connection Dr. Bieniasz has found but also for this very early indication regarding one piece of a potential therapy,” Miller said. “These insights reveal more about how ovarian cancer cells use energy and suggest new ways to target their metabolism for more effective treatment options.”

The Pioneer Library System's Summer Learning Challenge 2023 has begun!

"Summer is such an important time! Our goal with SLC is to prevent summer learning loss and engage community members of all ages in connecting, reading, and learning. Research shows that students who fall behind over the summer are less likely to graduate from high school or go on to college," said Ashley Welke, Director of Community Engagement & Learning at PLS. Running through August 15, SLC encourages participants to log their time spent reading and learning. Once logged, each minute of learning becomes one point, and that point goes toward a community goal of 11 million points.

OMRF experts say hope is on the horizon for RSV

Controlling a sometimes-deadly respiratory virus is a step closer to reality following U.S. Food and Drug Administration approval of the first preventive vaccine for older adults, Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation scientists say.

The FDA this month approved a vaccine to prevent respiratory syncytial virus, better known as RSV, in people aged 60 and older. The vaccine is made by the British pharmaceutical company GlaxoSmith-Kline (GSK).

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is expected to follow the FDA's approval, clearing the way for RSV vaccines for older adults to be available in the U.S. this fall. Drugmakers Pfizer and Moderna are also in the late stages of developing RSV vaccines, including one for pregnant women.

"This is a major step, and even more progress against this virus appears to be on the horizon," said OMRF physician-scientist Hal Scofield, M.D. "RSV annually kills thousands of seniors in the U.S. and has recently played a big part in stressing global health care systems, so this first vaccine approval is welcome news."

RSV typically produces a cold-like illness, but it can cause lower respiratory infections like bronchiolitis and pneumonia. At greatest risk of RSV complications are older adults with chronic lung or heart disease, those with weakened immune systems, and young children. Scofield said the virus is "woefully underdiagnosed" in adults.

The CDC estimates that RSV leads to more than 60,000 hospitalizations and over 6,000 deaths among adults 65 years and older annually. According to GSK, in a clinical trial of 25,000 adults, its vaccine was more than 94% effective in preventing severe RSV.

GSK's shot involves technology dating to the 1980s. Called a recombinant subunit vaccine, it is used in numerous immunizations, including those for hepatitis B and whooping cough.

OMRF scientist Susan Kovats, Ph.D., studies RSV. She is working to understand why the virus impacts children more frequently, with more than 2 million outpatient visits for children under age 5 annually, but generally hits older adults harder. The work is setting the stage for better treatments and will aid in vaccine design.

"There seems to be a correlation between virus load and age," she said. "The preliminary data in our models of older adults shows that the older you are, the harder it is to eliminate the virus."

Scofield and Kovats said the approval of the first vaccine for RSV is good news, as long as those eligible take advantage.

"Time will tell how widespread uptake of the vaccine will be," said Scofield, "But for older adults most at risk of a bad outcome from RSV, I hope that getting vaccinated when it becomes available will be an easy decision."

Spray calibration is a must

Justin McDaniel
Extension Ag Educator

With some warm weather, the weeds in the pastures are already off to a good start. Also, with the price of fertilizer you must ask yourself “do you want to fertilize the weeds?”

If you do your own weed spraying, how much liquid do you apply per acre? How much chemical do you put out per acre? Are you following the recommended rate listed on the label? Are you controlling the weeds as cost effectively as possible? Are you getting the results you want?

Studies show that only one in four sprayers actually apply the amount of chemical that the operator had intended. The other three either over or under apply by at least 33 percent.

Over application can result in (1) unnecessary chemical cost, (2) risk of crop damage, (3) environmental risk, and (4) applicator safety, while under application can result in failure to achieve desired control and the risk of developed tolerance or immunity by target weeds.

To achieve the proper application rate, you must have the right tank mixture of the chemical. This cannot be done without knowing exactly how much water your sprayer applies per acre. Nozzle flow rate, ground speed and effective spray width all affect the amount of water applied per acre.

Many producers generally assume that the easiest way to change sprayer output is to change pressure. Changes in pressure must be increased 4 times to double output, but if speed is changed, even one mile and hour, chemicals can be over-applied and costs can be increased by 33 percent.

Before calibrating the sprayer, you should service the entire unit. Clean all lines and strainers, making sure that the strainers are in good condition and are the correct size and type for the chemicals that are to be applied. Inspect all hoses for signs of aging, damage, corroded fittings, or leaks.

Check the pressure gauges to determine if they are working properly. The actual accuracy of the gauge is not as important as is its ability to give the same reading each time the same pressure is produced. Check that all the nozzles are the same size and that they are not worn or damaged.

Check for uniform nozzle output and pattern by filling the tank with clean water and operate the sprayer at a pressure within the recommended range. If you are using a boom type sprayer, make sure all the tips are putting out the same amount of liquid during a certain period of time. Tips that over or under apply by as much as 20 percent should be replaced.

An effective way to determine spraying pattern is to operate the sprayer at the appropriate height over a warm dry surface, like a paved road or gravel driveway, and observe the drying pattern. If the pattern is not uniform, some strips will dry slower than other.

If the tank capacity is not specifically listed on the side of the tank, then the tank capacity should be found. A tank thought to hold 200 gallons, but which actually holds 250 gallons, results in a built in 25 percent calibration error.

There are cards available in the office that will assist in the calibration of the farm sprayer, but if you would like assistance then call the office at 405-257-2174 and we will arrange appointments on times and locations to meet and calibrate your sprayer.

If you could arrange times other producers in your area so that multiple sprayers could be calibrated at the same time that would be a big help.

Arts:

The proposed legislation would increase and expand protections on Indian arts and crafts, as well as enforce stricter punishments for those who are selling or making counterfeit goods which could lead to being arrested for the crimes.

These counterfeit items are often recreated by non-Indian artists or printed off and seen on portraits, shirts, mugs, online shops and many other places throughout the world.

“The law must be changed in order to protect actual Cherokee artists, artisans, and craftspeople – those who are citizens of one of the three federally-recognized Cherokee tribes – and ensure their arts and crafts are the only works permitted to be presented as Cherokee,” Hoskin wrote in a March 29 letter to the Indian Affairs Committee.

Smalling is supportive of Hoskin and other tribal leaders as they push for change.

“They are asking that the law and the act can be adapted for our time and we need to cover all things that are digital, all things that are traditional and analog and we need to have a much more robust set of laws that can then be used to act against those who are chronic violators who profit off of theft,” Smalling said.

“I stand 100 percent with Chief Hoskin and the other tribal leaders who are seeking to defend our right to our own identity on our own terms.”

“The webpage is important as it highlights the various programs and services offered to Chickasaw citizens, First Americans, Chickasaw Nation employees and their families,” Renfrow said. “By bringing awareness to these resources, we hope to encourage people to be proactive about their mental wellness and to seek help when they need it.”

The page also features several videos accessible by visitors interested in strengthening their mental wellness. The page links Chickasaw Nation’s many mental health services together, making mental health resources available in one location. Additional outside resources pertainand each individual has a different method of coping.

“When our families, loved ones or caregivers become better educated on recognizing these signs, they can be a source of support and connect individuals to the programs offered by the Chickasaw Nation.”

First Americans are hit hard by mental health illnesses. According to Indian Health Service, First Americans are 2.5 times more likely to experience serious psychological distress than the general population. They have the highest rates of suicide of any minority groups, and substance addiction is a chronic condition.

The Chickasaw Nation is committed to preventing suicide

ing to mental health are included on the page as well.

Chikasha Anokfilli focuses on the well-being of individuals and provides tools to create strong, resilient minds working to achieve lifelong balance and harmony. Mental health is not limited to only therapy or behavioral health. Experts have identified four pillars of wellness that, when combined, contribute to proper mental health.

“A person’s well-being is multi-faceted and requires all these pillars to function in harmony for a person to function at their best and flourish,” Renfrow said. “Each pillar is influenced or affected by the others.”

These pillars include social/cultural wellness, psychological wellness, spiritual wellness and biological wellness. Each pillar is comprised of multiple factors. By addressing the needs of each, when combined, they create a well-balanced and healthy whole.

The Chickasaw Nation encourages everyone to be proactive about their own mental health, as well as that of family members. Mental health issues affect people of all ages.

“Mental health affects everyone regardless of gender, age, race, etc.,” Renfrow said. “It affects our personal and professional lives. It is important that we recognize and understand the signs look different for everyone, and has developed a Prevention Services Program. The program works to support emotional well-being and mental wellness to reduce suicide risk through education. Participants can learn to recognize the signs of suicide and reduce risk.

Suicide prevention education and training is offered to the public upon request.

In addition to education, the Chickasaw Nation Department of Family Services has led the implementation of “Zero Suicide” throughout the Chickasaw Nation’s health and mental health services system. This ensures standardized and evidence-based suicide prevention and intervention measures are used to improve patient safety.

StreetScape: Elder:

Street began this Monday as crews started drilling-up concrete along the sidewalks.

"The priority is making [the sidewalks] Americans with Disabilities Act compliant. That's the main reason that federal funds were made available," said Purcell's City Manager Dale Bunn.

"We've got a good downtown, we just don't want to have any chance of discouraging shopping in the area, and we know ADA compliance has been a concern to shoppers," Bunn added.

In total, construction will span roughly two blocks from Third Avenue to Canadian Avenue.

Despite construction struggles, Clinton Tharp, owner of Modern Vintage, thinks the project will be beneficial for surrounding businesses.

"I think it's going to be beautiful and a good thing overall," Tharp said.

"For business owners, this is like growing pains. It may seem like it may hurt businesses, but it's going to be okay. We're going to be better for it in the long run," he added.

Bunn shared this outlook, stating, "Anywhere a StreetScape like this has happened, it has improved business in the downtown areas affected. It varies, but there's a substantial increase," he said.

"Something brand-new is always attractive. People will want to get out and check it out and they'll step inside the stores while they're doing that," Bunn continued.

Bunn stated that the city of Purcell hopes to finish construction by November 1st, but sometime mid-November is more likely.

In the meantime, the city also plans to invite affected business owners to weekly meetings where further information and updates will be provided.

The AR program is a computer program used throughout Oklahoma and the nation to help educators manage and monitor children's independent reading practice.

Children select a book at their independent reading level and read at their individual pace.

Each book is assigned a number of points based on reading level and length of the book.

When finished, the child takes a short quiz on the computer and receives points based on how many questions they answer correctly.

Walker says he wrote the role of "Boomer" in the film with Elder in mind.

"When you see Bud in the movie, it's not hard to tell that he and "Boomer" have similar characteristics," he said. "But it almost took us a month of begging before he would take the part."

"Bud said the last acting job he had was playing Snoopy in his senior year at Purcell High School doing 'You're a Good Man Charlie Brown'."

$30,000 while the Lexington American Legion will receive $67,000.

That brings Cleveland County's total American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) investment in veterans to $500,000.

"The county's support for veterans through ARPA funds will be critical in the recovery from the pandemic," said Jon Foti, chief executive officer of the Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation. "These funds will strengthen our efforts to serve all those veterans who were unable to receive help throughout the pandemic."

The VFW/American Legion Post 301 in Lexington and Envision Success for Veterans located in Norman both plan to use the majority of their ARPA dollars for much-needed building and technology improvements.

"The veterans of southern Cleveland County are excited to use the provided funds from the grant towards improving our building," said Jimmy Hight, American Legion Post 301 Historian. "We would like to thank the commissioners of Cleveland County for putting needed emphasis towards the veterans in the county."

Gail P. Wilcox, Founder and Executive Director for Envision Success for Veterans is also grateful for the support.

"Thank you to the Cleveland County Commissioners for trusting and supporting Envision Success for Veterans," Wilcox said. "This grant will enable us to improve our technology programs, security and accessibility while making our location even more welcoming for the veterans and family members who participate in the programs we offer."

By committing ARPA dollars to nonprofits that serve veterans, county officials are able to build on the natural collaboration and existing coordination

Wright grew to love the game of football thanks to a couple of Sooners legends.

"I grew up watching the 'Belldozer', Baker, Kyler and Jalen," Wright said. "Watching those guys go out and compete for a team that I was passionate about really pulled me closer to the game," he added.

His mother, Jaime Wright, is an OU alumna, so after graduating from Bethany High School, the decision to attend the University of Oklahoma was a "no-brainer," according to Wright.

Outside of the sports world, Wright enjoys watching a quality film or throwing on a classic record.

"I just saw the new Guardians of the Galaxy movie, and I really like that trilogy, but Interstellar is still probably my favorite," Wright said.

When he has the opportunity, Wright also enjoys fishing but expressed that he hadn't had any luck finding good ponds or banks to fish around Norman.

the story of Jimi, a worker in the enterprise, who tries some matchmaking skills while reinventing her own love life.

The film has won some 30 international awards and has been called a "crowd pleaser"

"Second Chances" was filmed in the Oklahoma City Plaza District.

"Bud and I wanted to show the rest of the world how proud we are of our home state and its residents," Walker said. "The characters in "Second Chances" are all trying to do the right thing – we decided to make a positive movie that families can enjoy again and again."

already found among these local organizations.

"On behalf of the Norman VFW Post 4890 we are very grateful to the Cleveland County Commissioners for making the monies available to help make a better community," said Fred Zacher, post quartermaster of the Norman VFW Post 4890. "We will use the grant to help our fellow veterans and their spouses receive the benefits they've earned and deserve."

Support of veteran organizations is consistent with Cleveland County's commitment to veterans, including a full-time County Veteran Services Coordinator Charlie Neely.

"Neely partners closely with a number of veterans' organizations," county commissioner Rusty Grissom said. "He is certified as a Veterans Affairs Accredited Service Officer which allows him to submit claims directly to the Veterans Benefit Administration on behalf of veterans and their families, but one person can only do so much. By working with this network of veteran organizations and awarding them ARPA funds, we can bolster the network of support for all of our Cleveland County Veterans."

Cleveland County was awarded $55 million in American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds to provide critical support for our residents while also improving infrastructure and mitigating the economic impacts caused by the pandemic. The commissioners set aside $4 million specifically for nonprofit support with a focus on vulnerable populations such as veterans and those affected by behavioral health issues. Of that, $500,000 is specifically designated to nonprofit veterans groups in Cleveland County who were disproportionately impacted by the pandemic.

Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation

The veterans we assist with their VA claims had another good week, with seven men and women receiving a disability rating of 100 percent for their service-connected conditions. They will also be eligible for our Oklahoma State Sales Tax exemption on purchases up to $25,000 per year. Those who own their own home are also eligible for property tax exemption on their primary residence.

Another benefit is that some of those rated 100 percent will be eligible for the Champ-VA medical for their spouse and dependents if they are not retired from the military. We also had 44 veterans who received disability ratings from 10-90 percent. Some of those will be eligible for two discounted auto tags. There was one surviving spouse of a disabled veteran who was approved for DIC benefits from the Department of Veterans Affairs. As I have said before, our state government is certainly pro veterans in many ways.

During the last few months, we have been seeing an increase in the number of older veterans and surviving spouses who are coming to us for the first time because of the continual increase of everything we buy. Many of these men and women are on a fixed income that has not increased enough for them to keep up with the cost of groceries and other daily expenses.

Last week I met with several of them who were not able to purchase the food they enjoyed because the price had doubled on many items. I’m just glad that we can assist as many of them as possible.

One of the areas we are seeing an increase in is the number of surviving spouses who are having severe financial difficulties. Last week another surviving spouse came in whose veteran had recently committed suicide. That makes two veterans in the last month who have taken their own lives. Both veterans were suffering from chronic PTSD symptoms based on their military service.

We have staff from the VET- Centers available to council veterans who are having a rough time. Personally, I encourage anyone to seek out mental health treatment that’s having any type of crisis.

Each week I try to get the word out about the VA benefits available for veterans who served in the following Thailand, Cambodia, Laos, and Johnson Island and on Guam during the Vietnam era. Veterans who served in those areas are presumed to have been exposed to Agent Orange. For those of you who served at any of those locations VA benefits may be payable to the veteran or their surviving spouse and dependents if they were diagnosed with any of the presumptive conditions associated with Agent Orange to include Diabetes type 2, Prostate Cancer, Parkinson’s Disease, Alchemic Heart Disease, Leukemia, many types of Cancers and other diseases that are presumptive to Agent Orange.

A complete list of these conditions is available at the VA website or stop by our office with your questions.

We are a free service to all veterans and their families. We are open Monday through Friday starting at 9 a.m. Come visit us at 1233 West Lindsay Street in Norman.

Follow us on our YouTube channel: <https://www.youtube.com/@AccreditedVSO/featured>.

We are a 501c-3 Non-Profit organization and there is never a charge for the services we provide to veterans and their families. We do accept financial contributions to be used to support veterans and this organization. We also accept donations of wheelchairs and other types of handicap equipment that can be given to other veterans or their families. Other items that we accept are cars, trucks, motorcycles, or items that can be given to veterans or sold to raise funds.

We are open to active clients Monday, Tuesday and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

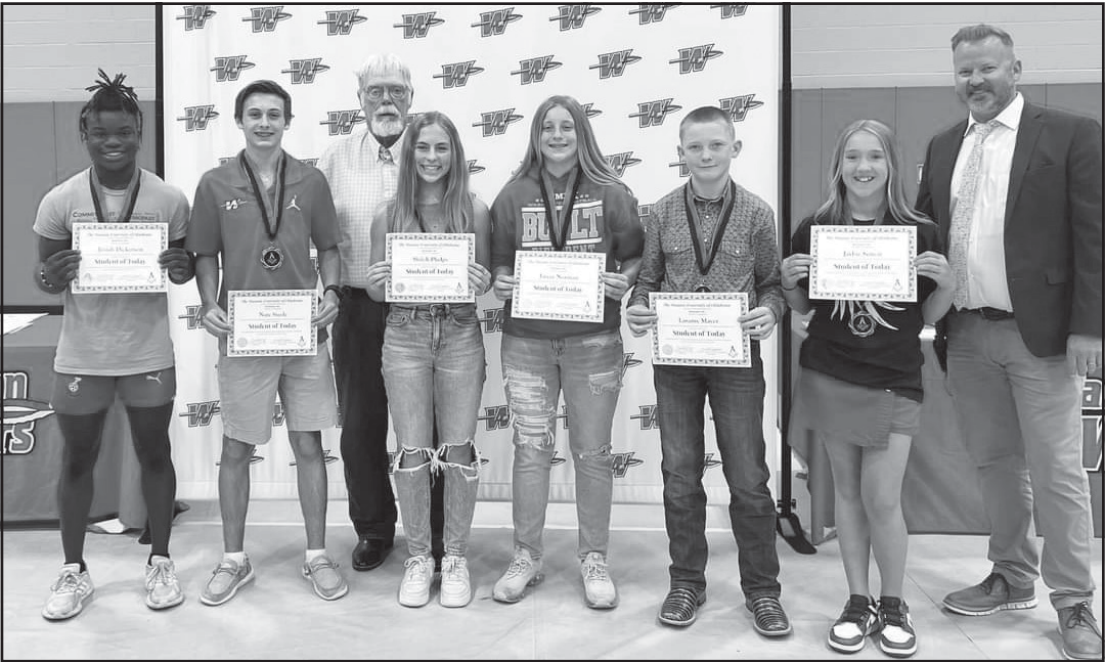

To donate to our Foundation, you can do so online at dalekgrahamveteransfoundation.org or mail a check to Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation, 1233 West Lindsay, Norman, OK, 73069. You can contact us on our website or by calling 405-550-8806.

Blues use super cool bike

Wheels move you from birth to death.

A basinet probably rolled you to your mother’s arms, after a special bed wheeled her to the delivery room where you were welcomed to the world. Then there were baby stroller trips.

Kids Robin Read and Libby Smart chatted about that while riding their bikes with friends they were visiting in Pryor Creek, Oklahoma, relishing the pleasure of using just foot-powered wheels to go anywhere in town on a beautiful day.

“Wheels were invented over 5,500 years ago in Mesopotamia, but the Greeks needed 20 centuries before discovering that wheels could move goods and people in wheel-and-axle carts, powered only by walking,” Libby said. “Before that, archeologists think, wheels just helped make pottery.”

Robin suddenly slowed down exclaiming, “Look at that—cool, not ancient.”

“That” was a super-modern electric bicycle a millionaire might ride. It had enough gadgets, gizmos, lights and trim to nearly hide the seat, pedals and chains. But the police officer and his vehicle moved silently.

“The local newspaper said new Police Chief Jeremy Cantrell just bought three of the bikes using about $11,000 donated by the town’s largest furniture store, a major restaurant, and a family partnership.

“They can see and respond to a burglary or car theft, silent and invisible so the thief can’t flee, and is arrested, which solves a neighborhood problem. If officers have to move fast to an emergency, they use a complete light, siren, etc. package activated by just a finger,” he said.

Libby added, “The Chief likes having of-“Reading the papers is fun. That’s why bikes and newspapers have such long histories,” Robin concluded.

Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church

By Stella Bledsoe

May 28, 2023 is Pentecost. It is the Christian festival celebrating the descent of the Holy Spirit on the disciples of Jesus after his Ascension.

On the day of Pentecost when the seven weeks of Easter had ended, Christ's Passover is fulfilled in the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, manifested, given, and communicated as a divine person: of his fullness, Christ, the Lord, pours out the Spirit in abundance.

On that day, the Holy Trinity is fully revealed. Since that day, the Kingdom announced by Christ has been open to those who believe in him: in the humility of the flesh and in faith, they already share in the communion of the Holy Trinity. By his coming, which never ceases, the Holy Spirit causes the world to enter into the "last days," the time of the Church, the Kingdom already inherited though not yet consummated.

This weekend includes Memorial Day (May 29, 2023). Memorial Day honors all military members who have died while serving in U.S. forces. Memorial Day was originally called Decoration Day. In practice, families place flowers on the graves of all their loved ones.

The deaths of family members and friends always brings grief to those they leave behind. Some well-intentioned people say things to grieving people that maybe they should not.

Here are some things people say: 1 - She is in a better place. (Even if she is, that does not mean those left behind are happy about her being gone.) 2 - The Lord will not give you more than you can handle. (Maybe not, but that does not mean I want to see the limit.) 3 - It has been "x" amount of time since she died. You need to get on with life.

My only education on this topic is experience. I would like to suggest a few things to say: 1 - I am so sorry that _____ (say the person's name) has passed. Please call me if there is anything I can do or if you want to talk. 2 - Everyone grieves the amount of time they need to. Fifty years after someone you love has died, you may still have tears spring to your eyes because of something that reminds you of them. 3 - Do not let anyone else's view of your grief give you the slightest worry. You may or may not show emotion in public, but that has nothing to do with the level of your grief. You do not owe anyone justification for how you are dealing with your loss.

You are most welcome to join us in celebrating the love of Jesus at Our Lady of Victory parish. Our Lady of Victory parish is located at 307 West Jefferson. The church administrative office is located at 501 N. 4th, and it is open weekday mornings, 405-527-3077.

Weekend mass services are Saturday, 5 p.m.; Sunday, 11 a.m.; and Sunday, 1 p.m. (Spanish). Daily masses are Tuesday, 9 a.m.; Wednesday, 12 noon; Thursday, 7 p.m. (Spanish), and Friday, 9 a.m.

Peace be with you.

Sunray Baptist Church

Melisa Dubbs sang "How Great the Father's Love for Us" for the morning special.

Brother John spoke on the subject "Finding Boaz from Ruth 2:1-9."

Naomi and Ruth returned to Bethlehem just in time for the barley harvest. Ruth wanted to glean and arrived at Boaz's field. She was looking for grace and provision. God led her there.

Boaz noticed Ruth. This was not an accident, it was providence, a divine appointment. Ruth found permanence, protection and provision - more than what she was looking for.

Often we go looking for something and we find so much more. We have a God who always gives us more than what we're looking for.

Our pastor recently received his bachelor of applied science degree from Louisiana Baptist University. The congregation helped him celebrate this achievement following worship with a sandwich and chips lunch, cake and ice cream and good fellowship.

The evening message was from Philippians 4:10-20. The Philippian church was the biggest supporter of Paul's mission. We are to pray for and support our missionaries. We should be a missionary.

God rewards everyone involved in missions. He credits those who help bear fruit.

This coming Sunday, Brother Jay McGaughy will be preaching the morning sermon.

On Saturday, June 24, at 6 p.m. we will be hosting our annual SummerSing gospel singing service with Sound Street and Lauren Talley. A love offering will be taken to help with expenses. Ms. Talley will stay over and sing at our morning service June 25.

Come be a part of Sunray Baptist Church. Join us for Sunday School, worship and all activities. John Wylie serves as our pastor.

We are located at 2223 N. 9th in Purcell. For additional information call 405-527-6808.

Front-Porch Gospel: John's Letters

Welcome to the "front porch." We have been studying as of late in John's epistles and encourage all to spend time in the great apostles' writing. John's letters are unique in a number of ways.

It is likely that John writes his letters later in the first century, as late as the 80s or even early 90s. As such, John would be the only NT writer who writes to two generations: those who are there at the inauguration of the Lord's church and the subsequent persecution that follows for several decades; and also to a new generation who are exposed to the churches of Christ from the cradle.

Persecution at this time is not as big of an issue as the false teaching that is now in full swing, specifically the Gnostics who are "in the know." They have eclipsed the sound teaching of the "apostles' doctrine" of Acts 2:42 with "new-fangled" ideas, as we say.

But there's something else of note here: John's theme is not that of being converted unto Christ through obedience of the gospel. His theme is the continued walk with Christ, and, in particular, the continual cleansing of our sins day by day -- no, not that we walk in sin but that when we "swerve"

we do not have to despair.

As one said, "We are to walk daily from pardon to pardon, from purification to purification." John says it this way: "My little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous" (1 John 2:1).

With Jesus as our "Advocate," we can be renewed day by day. With that, we can have great spiritual confidence.

Thanks for the short front porch visit. The Lord's blessing on all! ~ Coach.

While searching for a prayer, I found these quotes from Eleanor Roosevelt.

Religious freedom cannot just mean Protestant freedom;

it must be freedom of all religious people.

Justice cannot be for one side alone, but must be for both.

Let us work for freedom and justice as we remember those who fought for them on this Memorial Day.

Lexington United Methodist Church has worship at 9:30 a.m. every Sunday, followed by coffee, tea, and fellowship. We share Open Communion the first Sunday of the month. Sunday school starts at approximately 11 a.m. Our address is 631 East Ash, just west of Lexington High School. For more information, please call the church at 405-527-3506 to leave a message, or contact Pastor David Cook directly at 405-406-6174.

Case No. PB-2023-47
COMBINED NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND NOTICE OF HEARING
TO All persons interested in the Estate of Janice Hinkle Davis, formerly known as Janice Hinkle, deceased
You are hereby notified that on the 23 day of May, 2023, the Petitioner, Carter B. Davis, Jr., filed in the District Court McClain County, State of Oklahoma, a Petition for Summary Administration, Appointment of Special Administrator, Admission of Will to Probate, Determination of Heirs, Devisees and Legatees, Waiver of Final Account and Distribution of Estate. The Petitioner has alleged that Janice Hinkle Davis, died on April 28, 1996, domiciled in and residing at Houston, Harris County, Texas leaving an estate consisting of real property in the State of Oklahoma. Attached to the Petition are certified copies of the Last Will and Testament of the decedent and Order Admitting Will to Probate as Muniment of Title in the domiciliary proceedings. The Petitioner has asked that this Court to admit the Will to probate and order summary proceedings pursuant to 58 O.S. § 245, et seq.

In an Order for Combined Notice entered herein, the Court found that it should dispense with the regular estate proceedings prescribed by law and order notice to creditors and issue an order for hearing upon the Petition for Summary Administration, Appointment of Special Administrator, Admission of Will to Probate, Determination of Heirs, Devisees and Legatees, Waiver of Final Account and Distribution of Estate.

The names, ages and last known addresses of the heirs, devisees and legatees of Janice Hinkle Davis, deceased, so far as known to petitioner are as follows:

Name	Age	Last-known address	Relationship to decedent
Carter B. Davis, Jr.	Legal	9211 Bronco Houston, Texas 77055	Spouse

and that there are no premitted heirs of Janice Hinkle Davis as far as is known to the Petitioner. Pursuant to the Order for Combined Notice, all creditors having claims against Janice Hinkle Davis, deceased, are required to present same, with a description of all security interest and other collateral, if any, held by each creditor with respect to such claim, to the Petitioner, Carter B. Davis, Jr., c/o Robertson & Williams, 9520 N. May Avenue, Suite 260, Oklahoma City, OK 73120, on or before the 23 day of June, 2023, or the same will be forever barred.

Notice is hereby given that a hearing will be held on the 20 day of July, 2023, at 9:30 a.m. at the McClain County Courthouse, Purcell, Oklahoma before Judge Charles N. Gray. At the hearing the Court will decide whether to approve the Petition for Summary Administration, Appointment of Special Administrator, Admission of Will to Probate, Determination of Heirs, Devisees and Legatees, Waiver of Final Account and Distribution of Estate.

You are hereby advised that you must file objections to the Petition for Summary Administration, Appointment of Special Administrator, Admission of Will to Probate, Determination of Heirs, Devisees and Legatees, Waiver of Final Account and Distribution of Estate before the hearing and send a copy to the Petitioner's attorney, Robertson & Williams, 9520 N. May Ave., Suite 260, Oklahoma City, OK 73120, or you will be deemed to have waived any objections. If you have no objections, you need not appear at the hearing or make any filings with the Court.

If an objection is filed before the hearing, the Court will determine at the hearing whether the Will attached to the petition shall be admitted to probate, whether summary proceedings are appropriate and, if so, whether the estate will be distributed and to whom the estate will be distributed.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF MCCLAIN COUNTY
STATE OF OKLAHOMA
IN RE THE MARRIAGE OF:
KEITH A. WHITMIRE,
Petitioner,
and
LINDSEY D. FARLEY,
Respondent.
Case No. FD-2023-62
PETITION FOR DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE
COMES NOW the Petitioner, Keith A. Whitmire, by and through his attorney of record, Grant Reynolds, of Redhawk Law, and for his cause of action against the Respondent, Lindsey D. Farley, alleges and states:
1. Residency. The Petitioner is now and has been for more than six (6) months preceding the filing of the Petition herein an actual resident, in good faith, of the State of Oklahoma for six (6) months, and of McClain County for the thirty (30) days immediately preceding the filing of this action.
2. Date of Marriage. The parties were married on June 5, 2017, in Chickasha, Oklahoma, and have been since that time, and are at the present time, husband and wife.
3. Grounds. A state of complete and irreconcilable incompatibility exists, and by reason of this state of incompatibility the legitimate aims of matrimony between Petitioner and Respondent have been destroyed and the continuation of their marriage relationship has been rendered intolerable.
4. Child. Of the marriage there is one (1) minor child, to-wit: K.R.W., born on February 13, 2018, now age five (5). To Petitioner's knowledge, Respondent is not now

another child during the marriage from a different relationship.
5. Custody and Visitation. The Petitioner requests that he be awarded sole custody of the minor child and that the Respondent be awarded visitation with the minor child as deemed appropriate by the Court. The Respondent has not seen the minor child in three
(3) years and has outstanding arrest warrants in Grady County.
The minor child has resided with the Petitioner since the child was two (2) months old.
6. Child Support. The Petitioner requests that the Court order the Respondent to pay child support to the Petitioner pursuant to the parties' gross incomes and the Child Support Guidelines.
7. Marital Property. The parties have already divided the joint personal property acquired during the marriage, as the parties have been separated for over five years.

8. Debts. The parties have already divided the joint marital debts acquired during the marriage, as the parties have been separated for over five years.
9. Attorney's Fees. Attorney's fees should be reserved for proper motion at the conclusion of this matter.
WHEREFORE, premises considered, the Petitioner prays that upon hearing this cause the Court grant and award to the Petitioner:
a. A Dissolution of Marriage;
b. Sole custody of the minor child;
c. That the Court award Respondent visitation as deemed appropriate by the Court;
d. Child support per the Guidelines;
e. Attorney's fees to be awarded upon proper motion of Petitioner;
f. Such other and further relief to which Petitioner may be entitled and which this Court deems just and proper.
