Lee, the birds commonly seen in Purcell are black headed buzzards, which are also referred to as a Mexican Buzzard or black vulture.

They are different than the redheaded Turkey Buzzard, which is native to Oklahoma.

Black vultures are a non-native species in Oklahoma.

"It seems like we're seeing the black-headed buzzards more than we're seeing the red-headed lately," Lee said.

The black-headed variety feed on dead animal carcasses but will also occasionally kill live animals for food, which is a key difference from the native Turkey Buzzard - which only eat dead carcasses.

Purcell's City Council, in its regular March meeting Monday night at the Community Room of the Purcell Police Service Building, approved a recommendation from the hospital administration of a five percent increase for patient fees.

"Usually hospitals have an increase every year," said PMH Operations/Finance Manager Renee Barber said.

"But PMH has not had an increase for many, many

"We still offer discounts for self-pays and have payment plans. The increase will be very minimal," Barber said.

That action came in the Purcell Public Works Authority portion of the meeting where the board approved a $25,000 per month financial support for the hospital for the months of April, May and June.

At that time the council will reassess the economic needs of the hospital.

The authority also approved paying PMH the residual of the one percent hospital sales tax after the bond payment has been made through the expiration of the tax Dec. 31, 2039.

Purcell and this entire area has been blessed for the past several decades to have had the services of Dr. Bryan Dye and Dr. Rick Schmidt.

Schmidt has practiced here for the past 37 years while Dye moved to Purcell in June of 1990.

They become like family members and many of you have said so to me.

President Biden's "Free College" scam

Congressman Tom Cole

Time and time again, Presiprioritizes buying political favor over the good of hardworking American people - and his most recent announcement to forgive $1.2 billion in student loans for just 153,000 borrowers is no exception.

First of all, this "free college" scam is an outrageous bailout for the richest Americans.

While the Biden Administration repeatedly claims that student loan forgiveness will benefit Americans earning less than $75k a year, statistics have shown that outstanding federal student loan debt is disproportionately held by the wealthy.

In fact, those in the top fifth of household income hold $3 in student loans for every $1 held by the bottom fifth of household incomes.

Moreover, dentistry, medicine, and law, three extremely important, but high-earning professions, are the fields of study with the largest amount of student loan debt.

more student loan cancellation, he is giving away free government money to an abundance dent Biden has shown that he of high-salary professionals.

Not to mention, President Biden is not really "forgiving" student loans. He is simply transferring the debt to American taxpayers, including those who have worked hard to repay their college loans already, as well as the 100 million Americans who never went to college.

In fact, studies have found that the loan program has already cost the taxpayers $200 billion since its inception and estimates President Biden's latest repayment plan will cost another $230 billion, with other experts estimating the cost could be as high as $470 billion.

In a country that has always rewarded hard work, this is both unprecedented and unfair, as it should not be the American taxpayers' responsibility to bear the burden of others' financial decisions. Additionally, mass student debt cancellation will undoubtedly fuel our nation's already skyrocketing inflation crisis. So, simply put, each time In just three years, President President Biden announces Biden has already proposed spending nearly $1 trillion on just student loan bailouts, more than our nation's government has spent on higher education in history.

This is unacceptable.

At a time when the American people are already paying more for everything from gas to groceries, the President should be working to lower spending, instead of throwing nearly $1 trillion more of gasoline on the inflationary fire.

Furthermore, the Biden Administration's "free college" agenda is short-sighted, as it does not address the root problem and will only end up exacerbating the issues of soaring college costs and excessive borrowing. At the end of the day, the federal government, and in turn the American taxpayers, should not be responsible for the debts of other Americans. President Biden's recent announcement to cancel $1.2 billion in student debt is just another unfair political favor at the expense of the American people, as it is regressive, expensive, and will ultimately cause more permanent damage.

And it won't. We appreciate their professionalism and look forward to portion of a water project. Clearing for reliability

I will further support the Seventy million Americans candidate who promises to keep Medicare going. I'm at the age now where I have doctor's appointments. I have traditional Medicare, not "advantage."

I do have to pay for a supple-$2,000 a month. Many receive ment every month which is not far less and so every month they cheap. However, I can walk into any doctor's office in America and they are thrilled to see me when they find out I have traditional Medicare.

The list goes on. We need a strong positive emphasis on growing and supporting our police force and a broad approach to energy. Let's use all of our resources, electricity, oil, gas and coal.

Why can't we have a balanced approach to our energy needs? We can and should. Manufacturing and farming are critical to America. We need to build and grow. Everything our government can do to encourage both of these should be welcomed and applauded.

Of course, there is plenty more that's very important and we'll be talking about it in the months ahead.

The Oklahoma Pardon and Medical Debt Bill advances to the House floor

PaulMonies

Oklahoma Watch

Oklahomans facing medicaldebt lawsuits could get some relief under a bill advanced by a House committee February 22.

House Bill 4148, by Rep. Suzanne Schreiber, D-Tulsa, and Rep. Mark Lepak, R-Claremore, would require health-care providers or third-party debt collectors to tell the court they made the patient aware of the costs of care before a debt-collection lawsuit Schreiber's proposal came after she held an interim study in October on medical debt. Lawmakers from both parties attending that hearing shared their own frustrations with medical bills and the wide variation in costs for similar services or procedures.

In an interview Thursday, Schreiber said HB 4148 was just one of several proposals that could help Oklahomans facing medical debt collections and lawsuits.

The bill would give some enforcement powers to an existing state law, the Transparency in Health Care Prices Act, passed in 2021. That law requires healthcare providers to post the cash price for the top 20 services offered by that provider.

One in five Oklahomans had some type of medical debt in collections in 2022, according to The Urban Institute. The median amount in collections was close to $900.

"This is one way that we can help the person incurring the debt to have a small bit of protection if it is taken to the judgment level," Schreibersaid of HB 4148, which passed a House Civil Judiciary panel by a vote of 10-0. It now goes to the House floor for consideration. Sen. Julie Daniels, R-Bartlesville, is the Senate author.

Schreiber said Oklahoma has one of the highest rates of medical debts in the country. Many times, patients facing past-due bills will delay or skip medical appointments because they don't want to see additional bills. Schreiber said she and Lepak spent time talking to doctors, hospitals, insurance providers and legal experts about ideas to connect the issues of medical debt and price transparency.

"Oklahomans are suffering the Pew Charitable Trust. from medical debt, and it's impeding our economy," Schreiber said. "It's impeding their ability to take care of their families and

Oklahoma Access to Justice Foundation reviewed more than 340,000 debt collection cases filed in Oklahoma courts between 2018 and 2022. More than 8% of those cases involved medical debt, according to the data analysis done in partnership with the Legal Services Corp. and Katie Dilks, the foundation's executive director, said in most of the counties across the state, proof of the debt is not required by the court to obtain a default judgment if the defendant doesn't participate in the case.

Dilks said 40 percent of cases are in small claims court where defendants rarely have an attorney. Some customers simply

Dear Editor:

Lucile Morehouse, age 13, is an active 4-H member in Choctaw County, Okla. She created a service project that focuses on saving pollinators.

Last year Lucile was awarded the Youth Enhancement Grant from the Oklahoma 4-H Foundation. This one-time grant allowed Lucile to distribute 600 seed packets that went to 16 different states. This year, thanks to generous donations from across the nation, Lucile met her goal and will be able to distribute the seed packets again.

Lucile will be assembling and distributing 600 seed packets for free. She will also offer free seed packets to ship anywhere in the United States after you pay a $1 shipping fee through PayPal. When you get the seeds, you will plant them to produce flowers for pollinators.

Lucile is offering two types of seed mix for pollinators. Once the flowers bloom, they will feed the pollinators a more diverse diet. By producing more flowers, this could help fight against starvation, disease and loss of resources to our pollinators.

If you would like to receive seed packets, please go to the online form located at http://forms.gle/ZKKx61uNQSEGWUXu6. If you would like to donate for next year's project or have questions about this project, please email: beeboxcustomercare@

Area students gather together for REC's 18th Annual Youth Leadership Summit

Leadership, motivation and learning brought 11 schools from Rural Electric Cooperative's service area together for REC's 18th annual Youth Leadership Summit.

"REC is passionate about our youth and helping to develop their skill set," said Megan Lawrence, Manager of Member Services and Marketing. "REC and the Board of Trustees understand the importance our youth play in our communities and fostering their leadership development will only assist them later in life."

Rhett Laubach, owner of Your Next Speaker, in Edmond, Oklahoma spent the day working with 64 students about leadership and preparing for the future.

The students interacted with each other throughout the day and gained useful tips on how they can obtain their dream job. Laubach has taught leadership skills for over 25 years to audiences across the United States, the Bahamas and Canada.

This year, students from Alex, Bray-Doyle, Cement, Dibble, Elmore City-Pernell, Lindsay, Paoli, Pauls Valley, Purcell, Wayne and Wynnewood participated in the Youth Leadership Summit.

Hello once again everyone. I hope you all have had some opportunities to get out and enjoy some of Mother Nature's beautiful weather. Hard to remember that we still have nearly three weeks of winter remaining.

We will have one or two more work days at the WSCC garage sale building before we open the last weekend of March. It is looking good and will look even better after a couple more tweaks.

We are now accepting donations, although we still have a lot of clothing to go through, but we are happy to add more items to the garage sale. All proceeds benefit the seniors for center use and upgrades.

Delta Senior Nutrition provides a delicious meal each Monday through Friday, serving at 11:30 a.m. Some federal holidays and business closure days are excluded. If you are a senior, 60+, and would like to find out how to qualify for the meal program, please call the office at 405-527-9462. We look forward to visiting with you. Here is the menu for March 11-15:

Each year, an estimated 4,000 Oklahomans seek help from human trafficking situations. The Oklahoma Commission on the Status of Women launched two educational initiatives to stop-human trafficking educational efforts — a series of Community Conversations to Stop Human Trafficking at schools and a Not Me, Not My Community initiative.

"Human trafficking is modern-day slavery," said Commission State Chair Brenda Jones Barwick. "It's a $150 billion a law enforcement and drug year industry, and Oklahoma is interdiction officers who have not immune to it. Apanel of Oklahoma professionals and experts will provide a full spectrum of several aspects of human trafficking in Oklahoma. Panelists include non-profit organizations that are providing healing and recovery services and resources to people entrapped into human trafficking.

The discussion will highlight tribal and ethnic groups whose populations have experienced a high level of people forced into involuntary slavery; and been trained to recognize the signs of a bondage situation.

For the first time, the Com-

Barwick stated, "The focus has been on dealing with human trafficking after the crime has occurred. Many are unaware they are being trafficked because it is typically a slow, methodical recruitment process by a trusted relationship. The Commission is educating Oklahomans to recognize the first, second and third phase by traffickers and empowering Oklahomans to stand strong and say, 'Not Me, Not My Community' to the trafficker.'

The Washington Lady Warriors are one step closer to a gold ball after defeating Bethel 54-27 at the Big House Tuesday morning.

Heading into Tuesday's home district baseball game with Chickasha, the Dragons were 0-3 with losses to Shawnee, 8-6, Noble, 10-7 and at Chickasha Monday, 12-3. Senior Cole Smedley got the start on the mound in the season opener at home with Shawnee. Smedley threw strikes in the first inning holding the Wolves to a single run. But in the second inning he struggled finding the zone. With a couple of mistakes as well Shawnee scored seven runs in that inning.

"We brought in Boston Knowles and he only gave up one run pitching five complete innings and striking out nine," head coach Cole Sharp said. "I thought Boston had good demeanor on the mound. He controlled the strike zone all day and worked ahead in the count. He did a good job for us.

The Dragons closed with sophomore Deaken Dobbins. He tossed one inning and attacked the strike zone, Sharp reported.

"Hitting-wise we jumped out to a 3-1 lead in the first and kind of coasted until Boston Knowles hit a two-run home run in the fourth. "We scored a run in the seventh but came up short," the coach said.

"I thought overall for the first game we competed and played hard. We played well for 6 1/2 innings," Sharp said.

Two wins to start season

Wayne beat Ninnekah (14-1) and Thackerville (21-2)

EmilyMontgomery The Purcell Register

The Wayne Bulldogs have started their baseball season with two wins. A 14-1 victory over Ninnekah on February 27 and a 12-2 win over Thackerville on Monday.

Their scheduled game with Bray-Doyle was a forfeit win for Wayne.

Thackerville

Senior Braden McClendon was lights out on the mound for Wayne with nine strikeouts in Monday's win over Thackerville. He allowed just two runs on four hits.

"Braden pitched well. He got himself in a jam in the second inning, but got himself out with three strikeouts in a row," head coach Shane Collins said.

Wayne finished the game with 12 runs on seven hits. Jaxon Dill was 2-4 at the plate with two hits, Wyatt Webster was 1-2 at the plate.

Ty Kemp led the team with two hits and three RBIs.

"Ty got us going in the first inning. We had a couple guys get on base -- walked on -- and Ty hit them in to get us on the board."

Wayne scored three runs in the third inning, one in the fourth and they added six in the fifth.

They finished the game with seven stolen bases.

"We played decent in the field. It was a good win to start this week," Collins said.

Ninnekah

Wayne picked up a 14-1 win over Ninnekah in their first game.

"It was a good game to start the season," Collins said.

Dill pitched for two innings. He struck out four and allowed no hits.

Duke Moore came in in relief for one inning. He allowed two hits, two walks and struck out two.

McClendon had an inside the park homerun in the second inning. Wayne was scheduled to host Wewoka and Wynnewood on Tuesday. They will be in Sasakwa on Thursday for a three way with the Vikings and the Paden Pirates. Friday they travel to Stratford.

Bristow sinks Dragons in Area

Pirates storm back in second half to post 57-51 victory

John D. Montgomery The Purcell Register

The 2023-24 basketball season came to a close in the first round of the Area Tournament at Okmulgee for the Purcell Dragons with a 57-51 loss at the hands of Bristow.

Led by Haven Buchanan and 31-19 lead at intermission.

But the second half belonged to the Pirates when they outscored Purcell, 38-20.

Bristow camped out on the charity stripe shooting 34 foul shots in the contest, making 24. Meanwhile, the Dragons were 6-15 at the line.

"You will not win by putting a good team on the line that often," head coach Toney Cooper confirmed.

"We were truly excited to still be playing this late in the year," the coach continued. "We felt extremely confident going into the game.

"But the game was a tale of two halves. In the first half we controlled the pace, and executed on both ends of the floor. In the second half they controlled the pace and simply out executed us down the stretch," Cooper said.

Purcell saw its 12-point halftime lead erased in a 20-7 third quarter won by the Pirates.

"This team all season has struggled in the third quarter to get going," the coach said. "We typically have such a large lead at the half that we can absorb it. It definitely hurt us in this contest. Regardless, we were still in the game until the very end."

The Dragons finished the season 20-7.

Season recap:

"I am super proud of our kids and all they accomplished this season," Cooper said.

"They handled the jump to 4A well. We followed up last year's campaign with another 20 win season and finished the regular season ranked again.

"We faced some adversity along the way but they stayed 2/29 focused and competed throughout our season," he said.

Cooper said he is "extremely proud" of seniors Alyssa Thompson and Jenna Avery.

"They are leaving this program in good shape with a stronger foundation for others Ella Resendiz, Purcell built a to build on. Very good week to all. Welcome to the "front porch." Last week we began this discussion of the "Smartest man in the world" that begins with the story of Henry Kissinger jumping out of a plane with a knap-sack. You'll have to go back to last week's paper to see that.

But the point of our frontporch study is that people often outsmart God. We ended ing their own worship. That's last week looking at Nadab and Abihu in Leviticus 10:1-3 who offer "strange (unauthorized) fire" to the Lord on the brazen altar, and God sends fire down and strikes them

At first glance we might feel more sorry for the two sons of Aaron than we should. But a second look reminds us that they are blatantly disobedient to the commands the Lord had laid down for them. They had "out-smarted" God by deviswhere we left off.

You see, the Lord had given them specific instructions on how to offer incense. But these two men transgressed against those commandments, even though God gives repeated instructions. You cannot help but note the repetitous nature of the teaching in Exodus and Leviticus.

We know that in making their daily sacrifices, the priests were

'Movers and Shakers' help parents during their worst nightmare charitable benefits.

Such is the case for Chickasaw citizen Angela Hudson, founder of Angel Gowns Foundation, a volunteer effort providing burial gowns or suits to grieving families suffering the loss of newborn children.

"I have a cousin who lost her six-month-old baby when he died with a genetic heart disease, and she wanted a white tuxedo to bury him in," Hudson said.

Hudson said the young mother did not have the money to pay for the suit. In the end, an uncle footed the bill, but her cousin's plight continued to tug at Hudson's heartstrings.

"Ithought, Grieving parents should not have to worry about what to bury a baby in.'

"I started a program to use wedding gowns and prom dresses we tear apart and repurpose. We make burial gowns and little tuxedos and little pantsuits for girls and boys. We make little pockets for the tiniest babies as their skin is so fragile," she said.

"I want parents to know their babies matter. They will never be forgotten."

Hudson works with funeral homes and cemeteries to promote the effort and fill the need.

Another effort Hudson helps coordinate is under the auspices of the Movers & Shakers Oklahoma Home and Education Group (OHCE) in conjunction with the Pottawatomie County Cooperative Extension Office.

"We sew scent cloths," she said. "They don't have to match or be a certain size or any kind of regular shape."

Scent cloths are double-sided flannel squares sewn together and put under a baby's body who is in an incubator.

This effort was also the result of an episode tinged in potential tragedy that, happily, had a better outcome. Hudson's nephew, born prematurely, is now a 1-year-old and doing well. Back then, he was thought on Facebook.

Tragedy viewed through a to be an unfortunate recipient charitable heart's lens can pro- of his family's history of heart duce broader and longer lasting disease, subject to open heart surgery that put him in a neonatal infant care unit.

"Parents are allowed to be there 24/7 but are often not able to," Hudson said. "They take this cloth home with them and if they have other children or pets, it has the baby's scent for them to get accustomed to."

Parents get another cloth to put on the skin of the mother's chest on one side and the father's chest on the other. The cloth is then placed with the baby in the incubator to allow the bonding process to continue even when mom and dad are not there.

Hudson says there is an equal and opposite accompanying benefit for both parents and child.

"When their mom and dad are there, the baby recognizes them," she said.

Each family gets two scent cloths, one for the baby, one for the baby's parents. To date, Movers & Shakers OHCE group has sewn 216 scent cloths distributed to 108 families.

Other Chickasaw citizens involved in this effort are Hudson's sister, Amy Grijalva, and Gracelyn, Nicholas and James Grijalva, Hudson's niece and nephews, as well as Shirley Bailey, Hudson's mother. Nontribal members are Leslye Owen, Stana Friend and Pam Dennis.

"We do a lot of other things to help those less fortunate," Hudson said. "That's how I was raised. You give everything you can to those that can't and don't have."

Those wanting to get involved can contact Angela Hudson of Movers & Shakers OHCE at 405-826-3269 or email AcHudson1987@gmail.com.

As they learned of Jesus Christ and his teachings, they found solace in the promise of a better life beyond the struggles of this world. However, their newfound faith did not go unnoticed by those who clung to the old ways.

The shaman, the spiritual leader of the tribe, saw the growing influence of Christianity as a threat to his power. He sought to undermine David's teachings, spreading rumors and lies to turn the people against him. Despite the shaman's efforts, the Mbasa tribe remained steadfast in their faith.

They found strength in their newfound community, supporting one another through the trials that lay ahead. Together, they prayed for guidance and protection, trusting in God's plan for their lives.

their faith was yet to come. A neighboring tribe, envious of the Mbasa's newfound unity, launched a brutal attack on their village.

Armed with spears and bows, they descended upon the Mbasa people, intent on destroying everything they held dear.

Amid the chaos, the Mbasa tribe turned to God for deliverance. They fought bravely, defending their homes and families with unwavering courage. But as the enemy closed in, it seemed as though all hope was lost.

Just when it seemed that defeat was inevitable, a miracle occurred. Dark clouds gathered overhead, and a mighty storm swept across the savannah. Lightning flashed, and thunder roared, sending the enemy tribe into a panic.

In the chaos that ensued, the Mbasa people emerged victorious, their enemies fleeing before the storm's power. In the aftermath of the battle, the Mbasa tribe knelt together in gratitude, their hearts overflowing with praise for the God who had saved them.

They realized that their victory was not won through their strength but through the grace of a loving and merciful God who had heard their prayers and answered them in their hour of need. From that day forward, the Mbasa tribe embraced their new faith wholeheartedly, dedicating themselves to Christ and His teachings.

They rebuilt their village, stronger and more united than ever before, their faith serving as a beacon of hope amid adversity.

As the sun set over the Afri-But the greatest test of can savannah, casting a golden glow across the land, the Mbasa people sang songs of praise to the God who had brought them through the storm, guiding them on a journey of faith and redemption.

Just a simple story about faith and how faith sustains us through uncertainty, offering solace and strength. Yet, it can demand sacrifices, testing our resolve and challenging our beliefs in moments of hardship and doubt.

to take fire from the brazen think, the Lord tells Isaiah to altar and use that fire to burn incense on the altar of incense within the Holy Place - no "strange incense" allowed (Ex. 30:9).

But that is not what these two priests do on this occasion. Somehow, they took the "wrong kind of fire." I have always suspected they took fire from a different place.

Perhaps they had a barbeque pit or cooking pit outside their house and they had just cooked something and had coals and fire still in there and took that fire. I could see that happening.

And because God is a God of symbolism and a God of types and anti-types, the details of His worship do matter, both then and now. Washington Middle School's Leadership Class had an impactful day exploring history and engaging in STEM at the Oklahoma City National Memorial Museum. They immersed themselves in a hands-on activity, sorting through evidence from the bombing site to determine its significance to the case. Through this experience, students learned about the tragic events of April 19, 1995, gaining a deeper understanding and appreciation for the importance of remembrance and unity. After the educational tour, the students unwound and enjoyed lunch and free time at Scissortail Park, creating lasting memories with classmates.
