summer solstice celebrations in the Sullivan Catskills

As we celebrate the longest day of the year, Summer Solstice, we are reminded of the full energy of the summer season. Summertime is associated with vacations, warmth, sun, fun, activity, and being out connecting to others.

The Sullivan Catskills is the go-to destination for visitors from all around the globe. Its beautiful landscape and spectacular views are a perfect backdrop for any outdoor adventure to escape, recharge, refuel and detach with friends and family.

Come visit and enjoy our natural beauty and tranquility. There is plenty to do for summer here in our Sullivan Catskills.

Be adventurous and tube or kayak the wild and scenic Delaware River on the Scenic Byway. Visit the Bethel Woods Center for the Arts Museum dedicated to the 60's and Woodstock, or for a unique experience tour the Sullivan Catskills Dove Trail—50, 7-foot-tall Doves commemorating the 1969 Woodstock Music and Arts Festival. Each Dove features a commissioned, hand-painted tribute to the spirit of the '60s that changed the way we look at the world. Download the map at SullivanCatskills.com. Peace, Love and Doves – a groovy and fun way to spend the day and explore with friends or a family outing with your children.

Enjoy a vibrant musical, plays or cabarets at the Forestburgh Playhouse celebrating 75 years. Play a round of golf at one of our golf courses with some of the best fairways and greens in the region. Travel through our countryside on the Good Taste Craft Beverage Trail and sample the different award-winning flavors of our brew masters, distilleries, vintners, and cider makers. Savor the local foods and Catskill-icious cuisine at our neighbor restaurants. We will entertain you with our world class music and events.

After a full day of fun-filled events, you will be exhausted! Rest assured, there are plenty of places to settle down after all that adventure. Enjoy our lodging throughout the Sullivan Catskills, from luxury resorts to elegant country B&B's and rentals.

Want to rough it? Camp under the stars at one of our campsite parks. Camping is a great way to get back to nature. Bring your own RV or pitch a tent at one of our campgrounds. Would you rather be pampered? Our Sullivan Catskills resorts, retreats, and spas aim to please. Restore your senses in harmony with nature or be active and adventurous on-site or off – the choice is yours.

Anytime you are ready to come, we are ready for your visit. Come and experience the country charm of the Sullivan Catskills. We will give you a warm welcome and show you our Sullivan Catskills hospitality. We all continue to follow health and safety practices as part of our Catskills Confidence program— so you can feel safe and enjoy your experience here.

The Forestburgh Playhouse brings professional entertainment to the Sullivan Catskills each summer. The theater is located inside a converted barn and was founded in 1947. how to have a seriously fun summer story and photos

by Isabel Braverman

In 1947, a group of artists from New York City needed to find a summer theater where they could present productions but also have it as a training ground for actors.

They came up to Sullivan County in the winter and found an old barn in Forestburgh, NY and bought it.

The following spring they renovated the barn and converted it to a theater, and that summer opened the theater, which is now known as the Forestburgh Playhouse.

Since then it's grown and grown and developed over the years, operating continuously as a playhouse and celebrating its 75th anniversary this year.

"We have stood the test of time," said Franklin Trapp, Producing Artistic Director.

They are now gearing up for their summer season, which begins with the Under the Stars series featuring Broadway performers, and continues with the summer program of musicals and plays.

This year's performances include The Diamond Anniversary Revue; Altar Boyz the Musical; Beehive the Musical; The World Goes Round; You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown; Buyer & Cellar; and the world premiere of the revival of Babes in Arms.

"After what's been a very challenging year, the Playhouse is excited to launch its 75th anniversary season," Trapp remarked.

Like most businesses, the COVID-19 pandemic cut revenue and created challenges for the Playhouse. But they stayed open offering outdoor performance last summer and continuing their workshops virtually.

They also created a fundraising campaign called 75 and Thrive that helped them through the pandemic.

"The support of our patrons and friends was incredible," Trapp said.

In addition to plays and musicals, the Playhouse also offers cabaret performances, classes, workshops, children's programming and outdoor concerts and is available for wedding and event rentals.

The beautiful grounds enchant with vibrant gardens and the facilities include the theater as well as the Tavern, which has a full restaurant and bar offering delicious meals by local chef Jill Padua.

Throughout the summer they hire actors, directors and designers for their productions and over 30,000 people come watch the performances each summer.

"Our mission is to provide theater, arts and culture to the Sullivan Catskills and beyond," Trapp said. "We make live, professional entertainment available and affordable to people in this area."

This summer you can enjoy some dynamic and exciting entertainment while visiting the Forestburgh Playhouse.

beautifying the beautiful

Story by Isabel Braverman and Photos contributed by Sullivan Renaissance

When you're driving around Sullivan County this summer you may see public spaces that are lush with flowers, or attractive signs welcoming you to town, or a trail system to get immersed in nature.

These are projects supported by Sullivan Renaissance—a beautification and community development initiative funded through the Gerry Foundation.

The non-profit organization provides grants, technical assistance and other resources for community groups, as well as spearheads projects from beautification to trail development, enhancement of parks, events, farmers markets, live music, renovations and signage, landscaping and more.

Sandra Gerry founded Sullivan Renaissance in 2000 after she was inspired by her experience visiting a village that had won a regional beautification competition, bringing that idea to Sullivan County.

And it's all made possible through grassroots volunteer efforts to beautify and enhance the county.

"It was a seed of an idea and over these 21 years it's been nurtured by thousands of volunteers throughout the county. It has really blossomed and grown into a movement," remarked Denise Frangipane, Executive Director of Sullivan Renaissance.

Since its inception, volunteers have worked with Sullivan Renaissance on a variety of projects that beautify communities for both residents and visitors alike.

"This effort not only gives people a reason to visit here, but also enhances the quality of life of the people who live here," Frangipane said.

She added, "It all is connected in some way. When we see all the efforts throughout the county, we can really see the overall impact."

Visitors to the county can use the project spotlight found on their website and use it as a roadmap to see the area and all the beautiful sights.

"You can get to know Sullivan County through the lens of the Sullivan Renaissance projects, because by doing that you will also get to know your community and the people within it," Frangipane noted.

Anyone can volunteer for Sullivan Renaissance at whatever commitment level they desire, and can assist with everything from gardening to planning to fundraising.

apples to apples

story and photos by Isabel Braverman

Douglas Doetsch's family has been in Callicoon for five generations since the mid-1800's. Family lore tells them that his great-grandfather used to grow apples on the old family homestead and made cider and applejack during the Prohibition era.

Now Doetsch is carrying on the family legacy with the opening of Seminary Hill Cidery, located just down the road from his family's property on Kautz Road in Callicoon.

The first thing you'll notice are the amazing views; perched high on the hill the cidery looks down over the Delaware River and surrounding valley, offering stunning almost 360-degree views year-round.

The second thing you'll notice is the beautiful building. It's modern yet evokes the style of old cider barns—with the tasting room on the top floor and the cidery on the bottom floor, which is built into the hill.

"We wanted something simple and rustic that would be warm and have natural wood and a feeling of spaciousness," Doetsch said.

Doetsch and his wife, Susan Manning, had owned the piece of land where the business now sits for around 20 years. It used to be a hay field for the seminary's farm and was later sold to a private owner.

The Doetsch's began to think about the agricultural heritage of the land and how they could tap into the craft beverage market.

So they started to research hard cider, traveling around and drinking a lot of it.

In 2012 they invited renowned orchard specialist, Michael Phillips, to look at their land where their family's home stood and see if it was suitable for growing apple trees.

He concluded that it would be feasible and took a look at the other piece of land off

Upon seeing the site he said, this is where you should put your cidery.

And so, they began planting.

They put in 1,500 trees of 60 different varieties of apples and pears that had to be custom grafted to get the best possible crops.

It would take a few years for the trees to grow and now they are ready for production.

Unlike beer, cider is a purely agricultural process.

You gather the apples at harvest time, figure out how you want to blend them and then begin crushing and fermenting until you have the end product—delicious hard

While some cider makers add extra flavors and ingredients, Seminary Hill produces dry cider varieties with very little added sugars.

“We let the apples speak for themselves,” Doetsch remarked.

The on-site kitchen offers food meant to be paired with the cider to bring out the complex tastes and aromas, such as black cherry tamarind ribs, hummus with za’atar flatbread and a cheese board, all using local ingredients and cooked on a grill outside.

“We wanted a place that would be appealing to both locals, as well as transplants from the city or tourists,” Doetsch said.

The orchard and business is run with the help of Doetsch’s family, including his cousin Bill Hess, the Orchards and Facilities Director. Hess also made the TMR Webinar: Museum Talk, "Friends with Fungi: an introduction to mushrooms" 7 p.m. From the largest living organism on the planet to some of the first life on land, fungi have been a keystone Kingdom/Queendom. Let's explore fungi and their mushrooms, their ecological value, their edibility, poisonous counterparts, medicinal properties, the ways they have been utilized throughout human history, and present-day innovations. Bring your questions and learn about the wide world of fungi around you. The talk will be led by John Michelotti, founder and fun guy at Catskill Fungi. Visit tmrmuseum.org for info. Sign up: attendee.gotowebinar.com/register/7625028890965323531.

E.B. Crawford Public Library Event 6 p.m. 'Sports in the Borscht Belt' Marvin Rappaport will moderate a lively and informative discussion, and viewers will have an opportunity to ask questions or share their personal remembrances. The E.B. Crawford Public Library presents this program virtually, as we remember the hey-day of the Catskills and reminisce about all the sports greats. There was probably nowhere else in the world where you could see, hear, watch and speak to so many sports stars in one place. Where else could you go for a vacation and see fighters Muhammed Ali and Joe Frazier training, hear Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Tom Seaver speaking about baseball, watch Wilt Chamberlain, Bill Russell, Dave Bing and Walt Frazier playing basketball, meet hockey greats Wayne Gretsky and Mario Lemeiux, tennis champs Billie Jean King and John McEnroe and watch Arnold Palmer playing golf? Registration is required and is limited to 100 registrants. Go to ebcpl.org and click on June 2021 Adult Calendar.

CFFCM 2-Day Creel Building Workshop with Jes Clark of Willow Vale Farm 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. June 26th and 27th. Members $265, Non-members $290. Max of 8 students, min of 5. 2 day class, registration required. Spend 2 days making your own beautiful and functional creel while learning the ins and outs of willow weaving with Jes Clark of Willow Vale Farm. Using traditional weaving techniques, we will build the creel from the base up, including a woven lid. We will then add on a comfortable leather strap and a leather and brass buckle for the closure. Creel dimensions will vary, but will be approximately 14" wide. Weaving techniques covered are plain weave, three rod waling, French randing, and 4-behind-1 border. Basket weaving experience is beneficial but not mandatory for this class. Strong hands, however, are a must! Class held outside under pavilion. Class Includes: All materials and fasteners to make a finished functional creel in 2 days and Lunch (Sat & Sun). To register visit cffcm.com/eventscalendar.
