Being prepared for the return to school

Returning to school is an exciting time for students, teachers, and staff. Opening day for students in Sullivan County will be on Sept. 6, Sept. 7, or Sept. 8, depending on the school district.

As parents plan for the new school year, they should check their mail periodically, as districts typically mail back-to-school informational packets before the start of the school year. It is also essential to make sure your school district has your current phone, cellphone, and email address. Correct contact information allows the district to communicate information, changes, and events with parents and guardians. Bookmarking the school's website and following them on social media is also helpful in obtaining quick access to the district's latest information.

School districts also encourage parents to schedule their child(ren)'s physicals early, as it may be challenging to get an appointment before the beginning of the new school year. Parents can also contact the Sullivan County Public Health Nursing Service at (845) 292-5910 to inquire about vaccine clinics if they do not have a pediatrician.

At this time, there are no mandates regarding COVID-19, but it is extremely important for everyone to remain vigilant in our efforts to reduce the spread of COVID. Many cold, flu, and COVID-19 symptoms overlap – if your child is not feeling well or has a fever, runny nose, sore throat, coughing, or general fatigue, please do NOT send them to school.

If your child has symptoms, please get them tested and contact your school nurse. If your child does test positive for COVID-19, they must isolate for five (5) days. If your child tests positive but is symptom-free, they can return to school on day six (6) but must wear a mask for five (5) additional days. According to Sullivan County Public Health Services, those that test negative but are symptomatic must also wear a mask for the remaining five days once they return.

If they test positive and are still symptomatic on day 6, they should isolate at home until significant symptom resolution.

- They can end isolation after 5 full days if they are fever-free for 24 hours without the use of fever-reducing medication and other symptoms have improved.

- They should continue to wear a well-fitting mask around others at home and in public for 5 additional days (day 6 through day 10) after the end of their 5-day isolation period. If they are unable to wear a mask when around others, they should continue to isolate for 10 days.

The following tips will help families prepare for the 2022-2023 school year and eliminate unnecessary stress for parents and students.

1. Start bedtime routines early to help your child return to school sleeping patterns.
2. Remove mobile devices from bedrooms, so your child falls asleep at a reasonable time.
3. Talk with your child(ren) about what they can look forward to when school begins and review pertinent back-to-school informational items.

4. Use a calendar – your child will be better prepared if they can visually see when school starts, extracurricular activities are scheduled, and view important dates throughout the school year.

5. Pick a date to do your back-to-school shopping. When children choose their clothes, school supplies, backpack, or lunchbox, it increases their excitement about returning to school and using the new items.

6. Talk about homework and your expectations – set your guidelines so your child understands when and where you want them to do their homework and what you expect from them during school.

7. Refresh your rules for screen time – what is allowed and when.

8. Encourage your child to prepare for school the night before by laying out clothes and packing their backpack.

9. Establish a backup transportation plan in case your child misses the bus.

10. Plan for after-school childcare or supervision.

Being prepared will help your child head off to school feeling excited and ready to learn.

The school districts in Sullivan County and Sullivan BOCES are prepared to embrace, engage and empower our students throughout the 2022-2023 school year.

Will 2022/23 be the comeback year for students?

BY VANESSA PETROSSIAN

Two years of COVID-driven restrictions culminated with data to substantiate what most Americans already knew; many adolescents were suffering from learning deficits, mental health challenges, and behavioral issues. Compounding the challenges brought on by COVID, schools continue to contend with emotionally drained staff, a shortage of teachers, bullying amongst students, and a need for updated active shooter protocols.

The start of each school year brings with it a range of emotions for parents and their children; excitement, anticipation, fear of the unknown, and now more than ever, wondering what the new normal will be this year.

As the parent of a school-aged child I can relate to feelings of doubt when thinking about how best to handle the challenges my son might face this year. Coming out of the survival mode we were thrown into in 2020, to make this the comeback year, many of us will have to modify how we parent.

Kids will still need compassion at the root of how we address all their "big feelings," our guidance in finding healthy ways to express emotions they might not fully understand, and a sense of comfort in knowing we support them. Children also need discipline.

Over the past two years, to mitigate the trauma they've experienced, many of us have made allowances for behaviors we otherwise wouldn't tolerate.

Parents and educators are very much aware of their own flaws, as it's easy to recall the times we've been too impatient, too critical, or too harsh with children.

Over the past two years, to mitigate the trauma they've experienced many of us have made allowances for behaviors we otherwise wouldn't tolerate. The word discipline for many suggests a punitive action inflicted by one person onto another. The origin of the word, however, is closely related to the word disciple; a follower who learns from a leader.

A disciplinarian can be thought of as a teacher or mentor, and discipline as the set of attitudes and behaviors that a mentor hopes a follower will want to acquire. When we describe a self-disciplined person, we are talking about someone who regulates his or her own behavior.

Compassion is a great practice that makes discipline a healthy tool for teaching adolescents what appropriate behaviors are and how to act accordingly. Compassionate discipline can be a step towards helping students achieve the comeback year.

Cornell Cooperative Extension Sullivan County is planning a series of hybrid classes for parents titled, Discipline is Not a Dirty Word. For more information and/or to suggest other topics of interest to parents, please email me at vp292@cornell.edu

Talk to your children about school bus safety

BY SARAID GONZALEZ, ROLLING V BUS CORP

CONTRIBUTED PHOTOS

Clockwise from top left: A trip to and from school on the bus is a rite of passage for many youth, but it is important to keep safety in mind. On that note, Rolling V Bus Corp provides some insight on school bus safety; In addition to steps kids can take, it is important for drivers to be on high alert and always stop for buses; These three children (below) are excited to get their school day started; Children should stay five steps away from the curb while waiting for the bus.

Children in school buses, kids on foot and bikes, harried parents in cars: Back-to-school days bring crowding and an increase in potential hazards.

It can be a precarious time for children and drivers as they adjust to back-to-school schedules.

Did you know that the school bus is the safest form of transportation on the road?

Your children are much safer taking a school bus to and from school than traveling by vehicle. The reason is that school buses are the most regulated vehicles on the road, designed to be safer than passage vehicles to prevent crashes and injuries. School transportation accounts for less than one percent of all traffic fatalities nationwide as reported by the US Department of Transportation. The greater risk to your child is not riding on a school bus but approaching or leaving one. You and your children need to know traffic safety rules before returning to school or starting school for the first time.

Parents, talk about bus safety with your children! Teach them "Play it SAFE":

- Stay five steps away from the curb.
- Always wait until the bus comes to a complete stop and the bus driver signals for you to board.
- Face forward after finding a seat on the bus.
- Exit the bus after it stops and wait for your driver's signal before crossing a street.

Though safe transportation for children to and from school is essential in today's world, it is easy to disregard how something as simple as a school bus affects the lives of students, parents, and community members.

School bus drivers are tasked with the vital responsibility of protecting children on their way to and from school. School bus drivers are the most highly trained, tested, and scrutinized drivers on the road, ensuring students are transported to school on time and return home safely every school day.

Rolling V Bus Corp provides a safe School Bus Transportation Program for the children in Sullivan County. By providing regular training for school bus drivers and monitors, Rolling V Bus ensures that its employees keep abreast of the latest industry standards and helps them maintain and improve the safety of children in and around the school bus.

With school bus driver shortages across the country, Rolling V Bus Corp is proactively addressing the issue by implementing several initiatives to help alleviate the CDL driver shortage, including revitalizing its CDL training program available to current and potential employees. Those looking to receive their CDL must be fingerprinted, receive a CDL physical and undergo pre-employment drug screening. Rolling V Bus Corp has partnered with fingerprinting and medical outfits to make these services available in house and open to the public.

For more info on the CDL training program, call 845.539.6020 or visit rollingv.com

We are open for business and helping everyone get back to normal!

Of course, we are taking all of the appropriate current safety precautions, and we ask that all customers wear a mask and to stay 6 feet apart.

We are ready to supply you with all your office, home office and computer needs.

- Bryan & Barbara are ready and waiting for you at the front counter and by the phone or computer to take your orders.

- Our copy shop is open again and Jessica has all of your art supplies and framing in the Art Shoppe.

- If you need a copier or computer or even a commercial vacuum, Gene and Ryan are anxious to speak with you. We service every item that we sell and we never charge for delivery.
