TOP PRIORITY FOR BC: EDUCATION

BC schools score 'Satisfactory'

It's 'drill down' time: Harwell

Editor's note: This is the first installment of two articles about Bedford County School System's 2021-2022 state rankings. Bedford County has remained in the "satisfactory" rating since 2019, but system supervisors believe the next higher level, which is advancing, is obtainable.

By DAWN HANKINS
dhankins@t-g.com

Trying to ladle out to the public in layman's terms the alphabet soup associated with state accountability scores is sometimes considered a necessary evil. Following a formal presentation at September's school board meeting, assistant superintendent Tim Harwell discussed what it all means for Bedford County.

The bottom line, the school district has to make progress, given that its in the middle of state rankings as "satisfactory." Based on state standards, this is not the lowest ranking recently doled out among all 140 state districts, but is still one which demonstrates that Bedford County schools showed "satisfactory" success in everything from math scores to chronic absenteeism.

Incidentally, there are 16 schools to manage in Bedford County, which includes Bedford County Learning Academy and Bedford County Virtual School, which is located on the campus of Cascade Middle.

BC rates satisfactory?

"Satisfactory . . . obviously we want to do better than that," Harwell said.

He told school board members during a recent presentation that Bedford County achieved a 1.58 state score for last year, which places the system in the middle of the state range of "satisfactory" standing within Tennessee Department of Education standards.

He advised, "As a district, we are responsible for six different indicators in regard to accountability by the state. Those indicators which determine where a system stands with the state are: 3-5 Success Rate, 6-8 Success Rate, 9-12 Success Rate, K-12 Chronically Out of School, K-12 ELPA and Graduation Rate. Districts earn between 0 and 4 points for each goal and indicator for which they are eligible."

Then, there are letter grades. Yes, the system gets those too from the state.

Though Tennessee schools were designated to receive letter grades in regard to their performance in the 2021-2022 school year, the continual side effects of COVID and chronic absenteeism, the state deduced not to publicly release those letter grades.

"Even though the grades were not publicly released, all schools received data that indicated scores for all accountability indicators," stated Harwell. "With this data, BCS would have as follows: A-1 school; B-6 schools; C-6 schools; and D-1 school."

Like it or not, these are the rules that Bedford County Schools, under TDOE, are governed. "We obviously want to improve in everything we do on a daily basis," said Harwell. He mentioned also that effective teachers always want to improve with their instructional practices. As a result of their desire to continuously improve, he said that normally leads to better student performance and understanding of instruction and daily standards.

"We take this data, whether it be the achievement data or the growth data, [and] we start drilling down," the educator advised. Part of the "drilling down," he explained, may involve everything from conducting home visits to in-classroom visits by instructional staff.

"We want to be able to diagnose the issues. We identify the areas in need of improvement and develop a game plan that will support our teachers and students," said Harwell. "Throughout the school year, formal and informal benchmark assessments are administered and the data we receive from these assessments helps us determine whether or not the supports we put in place were effective."

Team meetings

The assistant superintendent said in addition, the system has in place for improvement what it calls Professional Learning Communities (PLC) model. All schools conduct these meetings throughout the year, he said. PLCs consist of teacher and school administrators, in the same grade or content, meeting together regularly. Their primary objective, he advised, is student learning.

"Teachers analyze assessment data, student work and discuss effective instructional practices," he further explained.

Architects explain TCAT design

By ZOË HAGGARD

Tennessee College of Applied Technology-Shelbyville hosted its second official groundbreaking for its newly funded facility on Friday. The morning event featured remarks from construction representatives and from state officials.

The $45 million facility is expected to open in the summer of 2024. Architect for the project, Art Carlton from Bauer Askew Design, explained the design phase of the new Bedford County Higher Education Center in which the TCAT-Shelbyville will be located.

The facility will consist of two buildings: the first being the academic building on the forefront of Highway 231 North and then the shop building behind it. The classroom building will be two-storied with a gable roof and have a "stately presence," Carlton said. The shop building will be one-story with several lab rooms.

"The job of an architect is to capture the vision of the leaders and the team, then put it to life. The Bedford County Higher Education Center is envisioned as a campus to create a great college experience for all students," said Carlton. "Thank you for placing faith in us. You've been an amazing client."

TCAT President shares vision

TCAT-Shelbyville President Laura Monks explained on Friday that the new facility will allow for the expansion of 10 current programs and provide land and parking to add four new programs. While the current TCAT-Shelbyville has 400 students enrolled, the new location will allow for up to 1,000 students.

The new campus will be located on right behind the 231 North Industrial Park. TCAT-Shelbyville will neighbor the new Duksan Electera electrolyte plant, which recently held its own groundbreaking ceremony.

"This campus will also provide the industrial park a flexible space to assist with current and prospective industry with their training needs," said Monks. She added that since 1964, TCAT-Shelbyville has probably supplied more than 15,000 skilled workers for the region.

State Rep. Pat Marsh said during the event that the new facility is going to make a difference for Bedford County and southern middle Tennessee for years to come. "After we're gone, this is going to be here, putting out certificates and keeping our young people at home—working here, making a good living, paying good taxes, and raising their families here."

Tennessee Board of Regents Chancellor Flora Tydings said this new facility will make technical college more accessible for the area. "This will be a true center for both the TCAT, the community college, and our university partners to offer students the opportunity to begin at one level and go as high as they can possibly go."

The average tuition for TCAT is about $4,000 per year, according to Tydings. "And most of our students go on financial aid. There's financial aid available for just about anybody in the State of Tennessee."

Tydings added they are doing everything they can to keep tuition low. "The state has been so good to us to help us do that. Our goal is to always keep it low. She explained they are also looking for alternative resources, such as online books and material, to help keep tuition affordable.

Ukraine claws back more territory
Russia is trying to absorb

KYIV, Ukraine (AP) — Ukrainian forces scored more gains in their counteroffensive across at least two fronts Monday, advancing in the very areas Russia is trying to absorb and challenging its effort to engage fresh troops and its threats to defend incorporated areas by all means, including with nuclear weapons.

In their latest breakthrough, Ukrainian forces penetrated Moscow's defenses in the strategic southern Kherson region, one of the four areas in Ukraine that Russia is trying to grab and desperately defend.

Kyiv's troops also consolidated gains in the east and other major battlefields, re-establishing Ukrainian control just as Russian President Vladimir Putin is trying to overcome problems with manpower, weapons, troop morale and logistics, along with intensifying domestic and international criticism. He faces confusion and disarray domestically about his partial troop mobilization and establishment of new Russian borders.

Ukraine's advances have become so apparent that even Russia's Defense Ministry spokesman Igor Konashenkov, who usually focuses on his own military's successes and the enemy's losses, was forced to acknowledge it.

WHICH WAY TO GO?

Visitors without GPS devices leaving Bell Buckle on Highway 82 East, and unfamiliar with the area, may end up confused when reaching the Highway 231 North intersection. Brush and leaves have almost obscured the state direction sign, leaving only part of the word "Murfreesboro" and an arrow pointing toward Shelbyville visible.

Score

"All of this is really determining where we are as a system . . . school by school." The state rankings, he further stated, naturally drive a lot of conversations within and outside the school system. And it can certainly be positive or negative, but he hopes more is the latter, because he believes that's what drives greater success.

Achieving higher success

The assistant superintendent discussed how in addition to academic scores, chronic absenteeism figures into the state's accountability rankings. Bedford County did not score well when it comes to the number of students missing days of school in 2021.

Students that are absent 10% of the school year (180 days) are considered by the state to be chronically absent. There can be legal ramifications for parents or guardians, as a result. Superintendent Tammy Garrett added during the last school board meeting how the number of excused and or unexcused absences are figured.

explained, "There are some areas with chronic absenteeism. We did not score very well. But quite honestly, districts throughout the state did not score very well with chronic absenteeism, because we're still suffering from the side effects of COVID."

Harwell said he believes that adding Dulcie Davis, former principal at Eakin Elementary, as truancy officer in the attendance data office, along with Terise Rhodes, are already making a positive impact. The truancy team is doing home visits, in particular for students that are already showing tendencies of being chronically absent to school, according to Harwell.

"They are visiting with parents and students. In some cases, we're transporting that child to school, in order to hopefully break some habits. I think COVID unfortunately established some bad habits with our students that we're still trying to overcome."

The assistant superintendent said he feels strongly, with the work the Central office is doing, that the county is going to see less kids with chronic absences. "I feel, as a result, we're going to see better scores that will hopefully improve us to the next level."

Other districts in the same boat

Harwell said state reports demonstrate that Bedford County is not alone in the "satisfactory" ranking. According to TDOE, most districts in Tennessee fell within this category, including Hamilton County and Tullahoma City.

The state did not report any districts in the "marginal" category. Districts listed in the "needs improvement" ranking included Tennessee School for the Blind and Perry County. Only 16 school districts across Tennessee, out of about 140, achieved the top rating of "exemplary" in 2021-2022. Over 60 districts are considered on the "advancing" scale, including Franklin and Coffee County districts.

But Bedford County School System wants to earn that status, Harwell advised. "We had several [individual] schools that fell within that advancing category." In order to get to that designation, a district has to achieve points of 2.1 and above.

Ever stalwart, the former Shelbyville Central principal stated with a smile, "We need to envision that exemplary banner on our front yard [Madison Street office.]

Harwell said reaching the "advancing" level, which is the next ranking above "satisfactory" is certainly obtainable here. But at the same time, this former coach knows it's a difficult run to reach that goal line—that one which means the system has to score between a 2.1 to a 3.1.

Statisticians can do the math, given this year the system was at 1.58 or at 'C' level.

The state gave school districts sort of a bye the last couple years on accountability, due to the pandemic. So most have been held "harmless" since 2020.

Bedford County continued to take the TCAP tests, where many districts did not during the pandemic. The state gave this option but rewarded those who did with incentives and recognitions.

Harwell described the "game plan," or academic improvement plan developed by Director of Curriculum and Instruction Kim Germany. This plan addresses areas in need of improvement in Bedford County—ways to improve overall instructional practices. See Saturday's T-G for more information.

Longtime effort

Ron Adcock, an educator and later director at the State Area Vocational-Technical School, as TCAT-Shelbyville was known in the early 1970s, was in attendance at the groundbreaking event on Friday. Adcock, who served as one of the board members until retiring in 2000, said this new TCAT has been a "long time coming."

"I would say it's wonderful to see the City and the County work together with their state partners to create something like this because it takes everyone working together to do it. I am tickled to death."

But some City officials said recently that it "wasn't easy" to purchase the 33-acre property for this new facility. The new project comes at a cost to the City of Shelbyville and Bedford County, jointly, with a price tag of $2.1 million.

Councilman Henry Feldhaus said, "I want to thank our City Council members who are here because sometimes those votes are tough."

Feldhaus stated, "The City and the County both recently raised taxes, slightly. But that kind of increase provided the funds, literally, for the City of Shelbyville to write a check for a million dollars to help purchase this land . . . give to the State of Tennessee so that this TCAT could be built. And the County did the same thing."

He added, "Those kind of tough decisions, like tax increases, give us the opportunity to make investments for the people who aren't here right now that will be graduating at this facility for years to come."

The City and County were awarded on Friday for those contributions by the Tennessee Board of Regents. Shelbyville and Bedford County received philanthropic awards for their contributions. See pg. 8B for more photos from the TCAT event.

Estella Harvey signs 3 new books

Mt Zion hosts author on Oct. 8

Bedford County native Estella Peacock Harvey has released three new books for ages pre-k through second grade. Estella's sister, Elizabeth Henderson, of Shelbyville, says she's really excited for her sister's success.

So much so, Estella is coming back to Bedford County on Saturday, Oct. 8, for a book signing at Mount Zion Baptist Church, 506 Hill St. The event will be held from 2 to 4 p.m.

In the three books, "Granna" as the Chattanooga author has come to be known, shares real life experiences of her grandchildren's summer visits. These books, according to Elizabeth, will entertain, encourage and inspire little ones.

Estella notes, "By doing so, their energy may be channeled to positive experiences and not scattered to the winds of our failing world."

For example, in the book, "Tennessee Summer

Lemonade," Estella's grandchildren note: "We knew Granna had something planned for each day on the back porch or away."

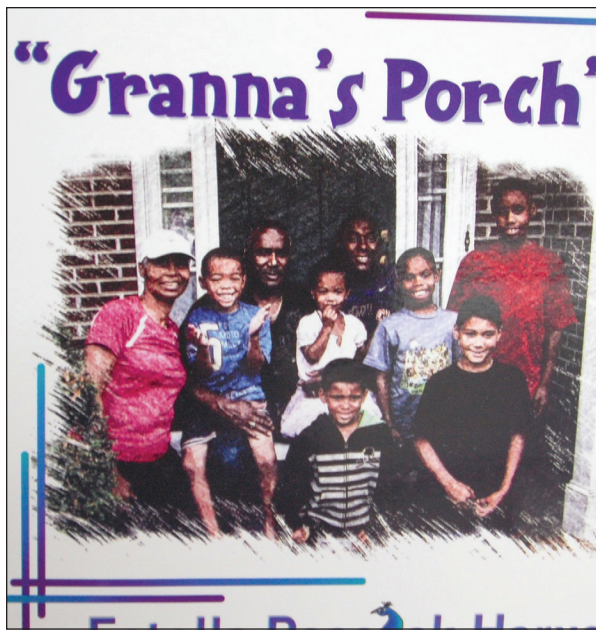

She believes "all children" are "our children." So, she wants every child to be encouraged to do their very best.

Hence, the reason she writes her books after a 40-year career in the workforce.

In her book, "I Learn, You Learn, We Learn," the author states: "What do you think about spending the morning in the park?"

Estella notes that she's put her "God-given love of learning" into her 3-book set. The other book is titled, "Ideally, Just Now." This book is about what of course is ideal and what is best within the love of family.

A resident of Chattanooga, she is the wife of 51 years of Michael, bet-

NOV. 8 ELECTION WORK

Those vying for City Council positions, like William Christie, are about town talking to citizens prior to the Nov. 8 election. City candidates will have a barbecue from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at the Calsonic Arena pavilion. Flat screen TVs will be available so that no one misses the LSU and UT game, according to Councilperson Marilyn Ewing.

Christie seeks third Council term

STAFF REPORT

William Christie has served as a Shelbyville City Councilman the last 8 years. His main concern, he said, is to address the concerns of the people he serves.

While that might seem simple, Christie believes the people of Shelbyville, especially in Ward 4, should always be his top priority. "When taxpayers contact me, I convey their concerns to the City manager or department head in an effort to address these concerns and follow up until a resolution has been achieved."

He said he believes that taxes are a big issue with local citizens. "I voted no to the recent property tax increase. Shelbyville's property tax rate should not be higher than Murfreesboro's tax rate. We should not have one of the highest property tax rates in the state. If I am re-elected, I will make it a priority to reduce the property tax rate to an affordable rate. Young families and senior citizens are struggling."

Christie said he has spent his entire life in Shelbyville. He is married to Lori and they have 3 children Bill Christie, Lacey (Chris) Cartwright and Haley (Brian) Wilson.

He is a graduate of Shelbyville Central High School. After attending Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro, he coached junior high basketball and high school basketball in Bedford County. Later in life, he coached girls' youth softball, basketball and was president of youth football.

"I know the citizens of Shelbyville. I can relate to their needs. I have walked in their shoes."

Christie said as a steward of the citizens' money, he recognizes the importance of "conservative budgeting and spending." The City Council needs to require a balanced budget from the administration but still provide services that the citizens deserve, he explained.

"If re-elected, I will continue to work for the people of Ward 4. I stand by my record and I will always do what is best for the citizens I serve."

Donating to women's shelters

Dear Heloise: I would like to respond to A Shelter Volunteer in San Francisco, who encouraged donations of clothes, especially business suits and tailored dresses, along with shoes, to a women's shelter. While I appreciate her distinction between cocktail dresses and usable clothes, there are a couple of points that should be made:

Hints from Heloise

First, not all shelters accept these types of donations. In our area, the shelters do not have the space or manpower to accept clothing and other types of donations. They instead partner with local clothing closets and other nonprofits to meet all of the needs of their clients.

Second, there is also a place for the donated cocktail dresses. There is a nonprofit in our area that provides prom dresses and similar attire free of charge for the use of local students who might not be able to afford them.

In short, contact the nonprofit to determine what they can and cannot use. If you have something to donate that cannot be used by one organization, they may be able to provide contact information for another organization that will accept the items that you wish to donate. -- A Volunteer in Martinsburg, West Virginia, Kimberly A. Gilbert-Toelle

HOUSE KEY

Dear Heloise: I read your article about hiding a house key. Another suggestion is to purchase an inexpensive lockbox. I bought one and attached it to my fence. They are waterproof. You just put the key inside and lock it with a number code. That way, in a pinch, you can retrieve it yourself or give the code to anyone who needs it. You can change the code anytime. -- Barbara Oliver, via email

NEWSPAPER SLEEVES

Dear Heloise: Another good use for newspaper sleeves is to cover a cast on your arm when you take a bath. The large Sunday ones work best. -- Patricia Roberts, Bellaire, Texas

HEALTH BARS

Dear Heloise: A fair number of my friends are big on these health bars for energy, and yet not one has ever read the label. Most are filled with salt, fat, sugar of some kind and preservatives. That's not my idea of healthy.

Yes, some are low in sugar while some are low in fat, but the majority are just candy bars. If you want an energy boost, try a banana, Greek yogurt or even a handful of walnuts, almonds or pecans. Less fat, less sugar and much healthier for you. -- Meghan E., Sun Valley, Nevada

BERRY PICKING HINT

Dear Heloise: Love reading your column. Grandpa always kept both his hands a-pickin' blueberries from tall bushes by looping an old belt through the handle of a clean, 1-gallon paint bucket draped over his head. The bucket is always right in front, chest-high, easily accessible to both hands and easily adjustable for height. One flaw ... the berries are right in front of you, so it's too tempting to just grab and eat! -- Ralph Thiele, Little Otter Lake, Indiana

AG NOTES

By John Teague
UT/TSU Extension

TENNESSEE AG ENHANCEMENT PROGRAM

The days to apply are here. October 1-7, not before and not after. I have the application packets here for you to study. You can also go online to the Tennessee Department of Agriculture's TAEP website to look at the projects available and you may also apply online. <https://www.tn.gov/agriculture/farms/taep.html>

Remember, you must have a current Beef Quality Assurance certification or Dairy Permit at the time of application if you are applying for any of the cattle-related projects. (This is not required for these same projects for small ruminants since there is not a quality assurance training program for those animals. It is a good idea to give vaccinations subcutaneously if possible and only in the neck muscle if need for that route. Calls for shorter needles 16/18 gauge, and I prefer 18 for small animals.)

This is noted in the packets or online. I can do the BQA training here, but we have to get it done during this week. There are not many days left. Contact me and we'll discuss a time to get it done.

Also, the application asks for the Tennessee Producer Number (TPN) and this has been assigned for applicants of prior years. New applicants will have one assigned during the process, so skip that part. For those who can't find this number in your old records, I have access to them and I can look it up during the upcoming week.

I'll be available for calls and emails throughout the week. I do have things on my calendar, but I will return calls as I come and go. Emails are a great way to get messages and replies. Keep in mind that the October 1 and 2 dates are this weekend, so if there is a problem I'll be available to help during the week.

TAEP BULL QUALIFICATIONS FOR FY22-23

This was released last week. The link is above for the online site of the Tennessee Department of Agriculture's website under TAEP.

Note that the qualifications now include a breed specific index for maternal or terminal traits, or the standard weaning or yearling EPD (genomic or true NCE with minimum 15% accuracy depending on the cost-share level), plus calving ease EPD with accuracy. Milk and docility minimums are suggested, but not required.

This is different from previous years. Use the chart to help in your selection. If you have questions, I'll try to help.

MASTER BEEF PRODUCER

The fall series for Master Beef Producer will start on October 4. This will qualify folks for the 50% cost-share level. The qualification for Master Beef level is any certification since January 1, 2019.

If you have not attended or participated in the MBP program since then, you need to enroll in this class. For those who have not had any MBP training, I will be having a face-to-face basic class this winter.

I have the registration form available so contact me and I send it to you, as well as a list of speakers and topics. If you miss any sessions, they are recorded and can be watched at any time.

This is a really good series. Contact me at 684-5971 if you would like this information and I can email it or send it to you. Once I receive the enrollment form and payment, I can share the link to the registration site and get you into the system. Don't miss this opportunity.

POULTRY ALERT

Here is a reminder of the Avian Influenza outbreak in west Tennessee. It is highly important and I wanted to repeat some of this information.

Due to the outbreak, Dr. Samantha Beatty, our state veterinarian, has issued this statement. "For now, any events where poultry can congregate are prohibited. That includes poultry shows, exhibitions, livestock sales, flea markets, and swap meets." This is a critical time. If you own poultry, it is advisable to keep them up to avoid contact with wild fowl of any kind.

Obviously, our concern here is not only the home flocks but our commercial operations as well. I'm sure that the complex management has issued biosecurity measures to follow. To put it simply, don't visit with each other, don't let others visit, don't let any birds of any kind have contact. Use protective clothing as suggested or directed.

Owners of backyard and commercial poultry flocks are encouraged to closely observe domesticated birds and report a sudden increase in the number of sick birds or bird deaths to the state veterinarian office by calling 615-837-5120 or by calling USDA at 1-866-536-7593. Our Extension office number is 931-684-5971 during hours of 8-4:30. Any other time, call the state or USDA number.

We have a good bit of information on security, and I'll be happy to share that on request. Just give me a call and I'll send it to you. Here is a link to some good biosecurity information located at the UT Animal Science Department website. <https://animalscience.tennessee.edu/avian-influenza/>

MASTER POULTRY PRODUCER

We also have the Master Commercial Poultry Producer series available. This is a virtual library with recorded videos that will qualify poultry operators for TAEP cost-share. I have the registration information available so contact me for the details. By phone or email and I'll discuss it with you.

A NEW DAY

Just a trip to the mailbox or a walk at this spot could be so inspirational that it helps get a workday started on a more positive note.

Learning Way students test engineer skills

Just in time for Newspaper Week!

By DAWN HANKINS
dhankins@t-g.com

Marinda Grissom and students at Learning Way Elementary recently completed their first unit of study in science. Two of the state standards were about the engineering design process or EDP.

Students were involved in research, test and retest, and were to communicate a design to solve a problem. The two that met all the criteria for success were Kaleb Morrow and Jaquan Lee.

Other students involved in the study were: Luke Griffin, Gavin Smith, Isaac Smith, Kam Franklin, Trey Taylor, Ja'Kden Locke, Vivian Thomas, Liliana Morales, Julissa Cook, Maddison Rivera, Jacky Garcia, Dani Castro and Violet Hull.

The students were instructed to plan and carry out tests on one or more elements of a prototype in which variables are controlled and failure points are considered to identify which elements need to be improved. They were instructed to apply the results of the tests to redesign the prototype.

In the Tier I instruction, the class learned the basics of the EDP by constructing paper towels for guided and independent practice.

Grissom noted, "I teach enrichment during RTI [Response to Intervention,] so we took the knowledge from Tier I instruction and the students applied it to building a newspaper table."

Engineers use the engineering design process to solve problems. In this case, the class needed to hold a book 15 inches above the table using up to 20 sheets of newspaper and 2 meters of tape.

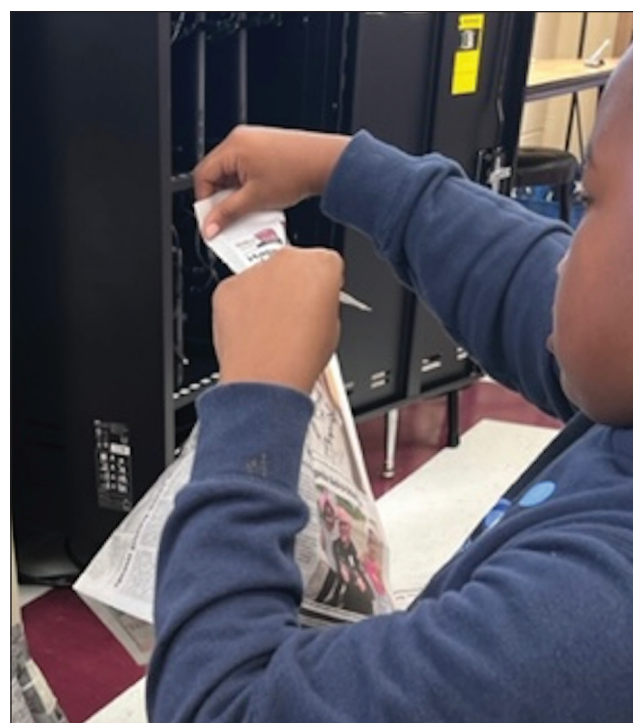

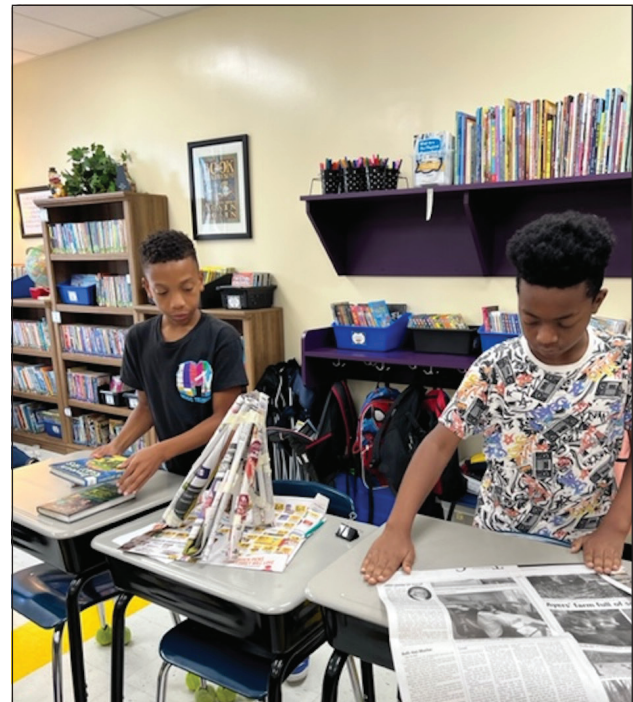

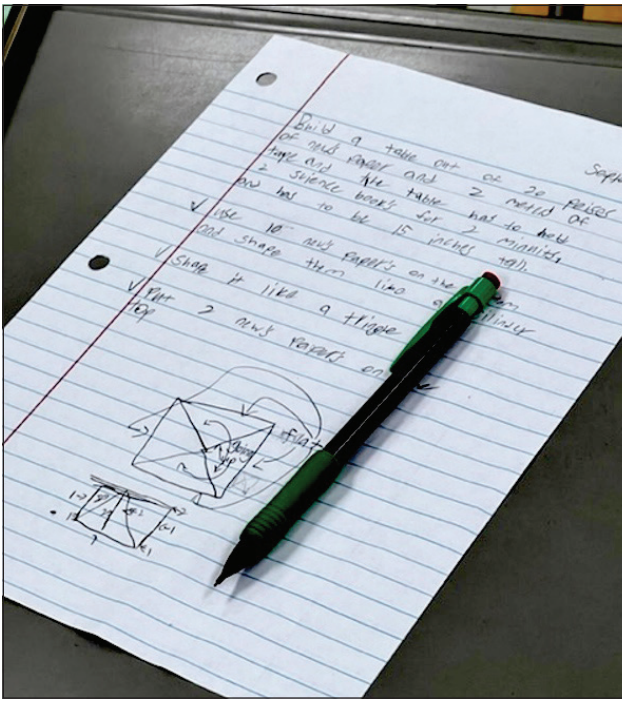

Next, students developed possible solutions, which can include researching, designing on paper and of course, building and testing it. Most designs are not perfect the first time, so students can then optimize the design solution to improve it. The process is used for everything engineers make, according to Grissom.

The students were given one class period to research various designs on their laptops and collaborate with their partner to come up with their design, brainstorm and plan ways to use the items they were given to construct the table. There were failures, the veteran educator noted, but one successful prototype.

"The students looked at the successful design and made notes," she explained. "The third day, they redesigned and constructed their final prototype."

She said while many of the prototypes were still failures, the process gave the elementary students an understanding of the time and work that goes into a new product or the redesign of an old product.

Grissom added with a smile, "We also had conversations about failure . . . that it is OK to fail as long as you think about why you failed and try to correct the problem."

Dangers persist in Hurricane Ian's wake

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — People kayaking down streets that were impassable just a day or two earlier. Hundreds of thousands without power. National Guard helicopters flying rescue missions to residents still stranded on Florida's barrier islands.

Days after Hurricane Ian carved a path of destruction from Florida to the Carolinas, the dangers persisted, and even worsened in some places. It was clear the road to recovery from this monster storm will be long and painful.

And Ian was still not done. The storm doused Virginia with rain Sunday, and officials warned that major flooding was possible along its coast Monday.

Ian's remnants moved offshore and formed a nor'easter that was expected to pile even more water into an already inundated Chesapeake Bay and threatened to cause the most significant tidal flooding event in Virginia's Hampton Roads region in the last 10 to 15 years, said Cody Poche, a National Weather Service meteorologist. Norfolk and Virginia Beach declared states of emergency.

Other portions of the Atlantic coast could see higher tides than usual. The island town of Chincoteague in Virginia declared a state of emergency Sunday and strongly recommended that residents in certain areas evacuate. The Eastern Shore and northern portion of North Carolina's Outer Banks were also likely to be impacted.

At least 68 people have been confirmed dead: 61 in Florida, four in North Carolina and three in Cuba.

In Florida, Fort Myers Beach Mayor Ray Murphy told NBC's "Today Show" on Monday that the search and rescue mission would be taking place for the next couple of days. Murphy said that was why residents who evacuated are largely being kept away from their homes.

With the death toll rising, Deanne Criswell, administrator of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, said the federal government was ready to help in a huge way, focusing first on victims in Florida, which took the brunt of one of the strongest storms to make landfall in the United States. President Joe Biden and first lady Jill Biden plan to visit the state on Wednesday.

Flooded roadways and washed-out bridges to barrier islands left many people isolated amid limited cellphone service and a lack of basic amenities such as water, electricity and the internet. Officials warned that the situation in many areas isn't expected to improve for several days because waterways are overflowing leaving the rain that fell with nowhere to go.

About 600,000 homes and businesses in Florida were still without electricity on Monday morning, down from a peak of 2.6 million.

The current goal is to restore power by Sunday to customers whose power lines and other electric infrastructure is still intact, Florida Division of Emergency Management Director Kevin Guthrie said Monday. It does not include homes or areas where infrastructure needs to be rebuilt.

More than 1,600 people have been rescued statewide, according to Florida's emergency management agency.

Rescue missions were ongoing, especially to barrier islands near Fort Myers in southwest Florida that were cut off from the mainland when storm surges destroyed causeways and bridges.

The state will build a temporary traffic passageway for the largest one, Pine Island, Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis said Sunday, adding that an allocation had been approved for Department of Transportation to build it this week.

"It's not going to be a full bridge, you're going to have to go over it probably at 5 miles an hour or something, but it'll at least let people get in and off the island with their vehicles," the governor said at a news conference.

In Virginia, the U.S. Navy postponed the first-ever deployment of the U.S.S. Gerald R. Ford, the nation's most advanced aircraft carrier, according to a statement from the Navy's 2nd Fleet. The carrier and other U.S. ships were scheduled to leave Norfolk on Monday for training exercises in the Atlantic Ocean with vessels from other NATO Countries.

Coast Guard, municipal and private crews have been using helicopters, boats and even Jet Skis to evacuate people over the past several days.

In rural Seminole County, north of Orlando, residents donned waders, boots and bug spray to paddle to their flooded homes Sunday.

Champs blast Rockets for first region win

By WILL CARTER
Sports Writer

CHAPEL HILL — For the second-straight week, the Cascade Champions dominated their opponent in shutout fashion as they cruised to a 49-0 victory over the Forrest Rockets on Friday night for their first Region 5-AA win of the season.

The Champions (4-3, 1-2) totaled 359 yards of offense, while holding the Rockets (3-4, 1-2) to only 85 yards, and head coach Jake Tyre was pleased with his defense's performance.

"The defense is playing lights out right now," Tyre said. "They're understanding what we're doing, and we're rotating a lot of guys which keeps us fresh throughout the game."

"They're starting to play football like we thought we could at the beginning of the season. We started out sluggish, but now we're starting to pick up a bit of steam."

Cascade's defense set the tone early by forcing Forrest to punt on their opening drive which led to good field position for the Champions.

A few plays later, quarterback Xamarion Dixon weaved his way through the defense for a 34 yard touchdown run with six minutes and 40 seconds left in the first quarter.

Isaac Chapa added the point after to make it a 7-0 game.

Answering the bell again on the ensuing drive, the Champions defense recovered a fumble with a minute and a half left in the first quarter.

And their offense capitalized on the turnover when Dixon connected with receiver Hayden Dowell for a 30 yard touchdown pass as the first quarter buzzer sounded.

Sawyer Lovvorn converted the two point play for a 15-0 Cascade lead.

With eight minutes and three seconds remaining in the second quarter, Dixon snuck into the endzone from four yards away for his second of the game

The point after was no good and left them with a 21-0 lead heading into halftime.

Cascade received the second half kickoff, and they quickly put more points on the board as running back Connor Huie bolted down the sideline for a 65 yard score just 33 seconds into the second half.

Huie had a career night by rushing for 169 yards on 10 carries with three touchdowns against the Rockets.

As a whole, the Champions totaled 283 yards on the ground.

"We're going to run the ball, and everyone knows that," Tyre said.

"Last week we decided to pass the ball a little bit more, but we're a run first team. Connor Huie just took it over in the second half, and he ran like a man possessed."

The Champions' defense continued to contain the Rockets' offense in the second half by disrupting the line of scrimmage and forcing turnovers.

Defensive back Chance Brown added the second turnover of the night when he came down with an interception that led to another Cascade score.

It was Huie again on a long trot of 51 yards to the endzone to give his team a

Powerful Lebanon spoils Shelbyville's homecoming

By GARY JOHNSON
Sports writer

It wasn't the homecoming the Golden Eagles had hoped for.

Shelbyville Central fell 41-7 to Lebanon in a Region 3 6A matchup on Friday night.

The Eagles (0-6, 0-2) started with a bang when sophomore running back Rocky Chandler raced 64 yards to the end zone on the second play of the game.

That 7-0 lead was short lived as the Blue Devils scored the next 41 points.

"I thought we scouted them (Lebanon) up well and saw what they wanted to do on defense. I think we really surprised them with that play and it was just one of our basic inside runs. Thankfully Rocky outran everybody and scored," Shelbyville Central coach Jud Dryden said.

It was all Lebanon from that point. Senior quarterback Jaylen Abston threw three touchdown passes as the Blue Devils racked up 436 total yards.

Shelbyville Central senior quarterback Jake Preston connected on 9-of-19 for 98 yards.

"Lebanon's athletes just took over the game," Dryden said. "We did give up some big plays but what i love about our guys is when they make mistakes we come back and try to fix it and make adjustments. That's great for our future but it's hard right now."

The Eagles travel to Hendersonville on Friday night for a non region contest at 7.

Second quarter is downfall for Vikings in loss

By RICKEY CLARDY
Sports Writer

UNIONVILLE — The Community Vikings battled all night to keep the Sequatchie County Indian offense at bay, but the Vikings could not overcome a 20-point Indian second quarter as Community fell 37-0 in a Region 4-3A football game Friday night.

The defenses took center stage as punts ended the first three possessions of the game. Community (1-5, 0-2 R4-3A) looked ready to stop the Indians again as an offensive pass interference penalty knocked Sequatchie County back, but a 35-yard pass reception moved the Indians into the red zone. Austin Griffith ended the drive with a 6-yard run to put the Indians on the scoreboard. The extra point by Nicholas Blevins gave Sequatchie County a 7-0 lead with 2:05 remaining in the opening quarter.

With the injury-riddled Viking offense struggling to find any momentum, the Indians increased their lead in the second quarter. Payton Campbell dashed 35 yards for the first score of the quarter as Sequatchie County went up 14-0. The Vikings stopped the Indians on a 3-and-out on the next Sequatchie County possession, but the Indians bounced back as Griffith scampered 55 yards for the score to put Sequatchie County up 21-0 with 4:50 left.

The Indians scored their third touchdown of the quarter on a 6-yard run by Caleb Moffitt. The run for two failed as Sequatchie County increased its advantage to 27-0 with 2:10 remaining.

An interception by Jacob Harden of the Vikings as time expired helped to keep the Indians from increasing their lead.

"We got caught a few times with one or two guys not doing what they were supposed to do," Coach Chris Grooms of the Vikings said.

"We had some new guys playing new positions," Grooms added. "They played well, but they just made a couple of mistakes."

The Vikings put up a stand in the third quarter as the Indians reached the Community 1-yard line on a first-and-goal. After three Viking defensive plays moved Sequatchie County back to the 4-yard line on fourth down, the Indians converted as Campbell connected with Cavin Gilley on a 4-yard pass as Sequatchie County went up 34-0.

A 29-yard field goal by Blevins with 7:42 left in the final quarter ended the scoring for the night.

With four regular season games left, including two region contests, Grooms knows there is room for the Vikings to make some noise down the stretch.

"I've told them the games you've got to win are at the end," Grooms said. "Injuries have hurt us a little bit, but we'll get back."

Community will entertain Huntland for homecoming next Friday night. Game time is 7 p.m.

The Harris Middle School Golden Eagles won the Central Tennessee Conference regular season and the CTC Bowl game to finish the season undefeated.

Undefeated, unchallenged: Harris takes CTC title

By GARY JOHNSON
Sports writer

A dominant second half proved to be the difference as Harris Middle School's Eagles rolled to an impressive 36-6 win over visiting Tullahoma in the CTC Bowl game on Saturday at the Eagles Nest.

The Eagles were not challenged throughout the regular season, winning every game by double digits.

The game was close throughout the first half with Harris holding a 6-0 advantage at the intermission.

The Eagle offense scored 30 points on the second half while the defense gave up one touchdown late on the game with mainly backups on the field.

Quarterback Steven Bobo scored three times while Aaron Shaw and Nate Zimmerman.

Bobo, with three touchdowns, and Aaron Shaw and Nate Zimmerman, with 1 touchdown each, found the end zone for the winners.

Bobo, Zimmerman, Chandler Cates, Peyton Gentry and Reager Edwards were named All-Conference.

Tide retakes No. 1 in poll from Bulldogs

By RALPH D. RUSSO
AP College Football Writer

Alabama reclaimed No. 1 from Georgia in The Associated Press college football poll in one of the closest votes in the recent years, and six teams — including Kansas — made their season debut on Sunday.

The Crimson Tide received 25 first-place votes and 1,523 points in the AP Top 25, two points more than the Bulldogs. Georgia received 28 first-place votes to become the first team since Alabama in November 2019 to have the most first-place votes but not be No. 1.

The Tide was No. 2 behind LSU that year, with 21 first-place votes to the Tigers' 17.

The last time there was a two-point margin between Nos. 1 and 2 was Nov. 1, 2020, when Clemson was ahead of Alabama. There have been three other polls with a two-point margin at the top since 2007.

Ohio State remained third, but the Buckeyes also gained some ground on the top two, getting 10 first-place votes.

The Crimson Tide started the season at No. 1, but the defending national champion Bulldogs took the top spot away from their Southeastern Conference rivals after Week 2 when Alabama needed a late field goal to beat Texas.

The Bulldogs remain unbeaten but needed a fourth-quarter rally to beat four-touchdown underdog Missouri on Saturday night. Earlier in the day, the Tide managed to pull away from Arkansas in the second half without Heisman Trophy winner Bryce Young.

Young sprained his throwing shoulder in the first half and missed most of the game in Fayetteville, Arkansas.

No. 4 Michigan, No. 5 Clemson and No. 6 Southern California all won and held their places this week, though the Wolverines and Tigers are now separated by just three points.

advantage with five minutes and seven seconds left in the third quarter.

Shortly after, defensive tackle Logan Morton recovered a Rockets' fumble for their third turnover of the game.

The Champions forced four turnovers in total while not committing a single one offensively.

"That was the first complete game we've played all year," Tyre said.

"Two weeks in a row that we haven't had a turnover, we've gotten turnovers, and haven't had any mental mistakes. That's a good ball team over there, and to come out here and win like this feels good."

Huie capitalized on Morton's recovery when he powered his way to an 11-yard score with two minutes and 25 seconds left in the third quarter for a 43-0 lead after the extra point.

After forcing Forrest to turn it over on downs on the following drive, Dixon added the final touchdown of the game on a 23 yard dash with nine minutes and 10 seconds remaining in the game.

Dixon totaled four touchdowns on the night with 73 rushing yards and 76 passing yards.

As the clock ran out, Cascade's defense added a final touch by intercepting the final pass of the game in the end zone to complete the 49-0 shutout.

The Champions control their own destiny at this point in the season with two region games remaining on their schedule.

Tyre knows the importance of finishing strong late in the season.

"Every region game is important to us, so we have to go out and keep winning," Tyre said.

"We have to focus on being 1-0 every week. We backed ourselves into a corner early in the season, so we're having to fight our way out of it right now."

NCAA penalties now less severe

By RALPH D. RUSSO
AP College Sports Writer

The days of postseason bans and crippling scholarship reductions to punish schools for breaking NCAA rules appear to be winding down.

Memphis was placed on three years of probation earlier this week with a public reprimand and fined for NCAA violations related to the recruitment and short college career of James Wiseman, who is about to start his third season with the Golden State Warriors. The NCAA also wrapped up an investigation of Air Force football for breaking the COVID-19 recruiting quiet period.

No postseason bans or scholarship reductions in either case. The Independent Accountability Review Panel, the NCAA's outside arm of enforcement, said in its decision in the Memphis case that it did not want to punish current athletes.

That sentiment is widespread in college athletics these days, even with millions of dollars suddenly flowing to athletes from various sources for their celebrity endorsements amid concerns over improper inducements. In fact, it is on the way to being codified: Last month, the Division I Board of Directors adopted three proposals to change the infractions process.

The board also committed to "identifying appropriate types of penalties and modifying current penalty ranges, including identifying potential alternative penalties to postseason bans."

Trying to predict what those alternatives will be is difficult, but if the goal is to avoid harming athletes and others who were not involved in the violations the options are limited.

"I emphatically believe it's the wrong direction to go," said Nebraska law professor Jo Potuto, who spent nine years on the NCAA's Committee on Infractions in the late 1990s and early 2000s.

"If you're going to deter, the punishment has to fit the offense, right?" Potuto added. "You're not going to deter serious violations with penalties that are not perceived to be really serious."

UNIONVILLE — All the goals were scored by seniors as the Community Viqueens cruised to an 8-0 halftime lead and added the final goal in the second half as the Viqueens celebrated Senior Night with a 9-0 victory over the Hickman County Lady Dawgs Thursday night.

Zoey Dixon and Addison Brothers each had a hat trick as Community (7-2-1, 3-1-1) stayed on the Lady Dawg end of the field for practically the entire first half and narrowly missed ending the game at the half with a barrage of shots at the Hickman County goal.

The Viqueens wasted little time lighting up the scoreboard as Brothers hooked in a shot four minutes into the game and added her second goal four minutes later from 20 yards out to give Community a 2-0 lead.

Abby Murrill headed in a corner kick from Dixon at the 29:14 mark to up the Viqueen lead to 3-0.

Dixon scored her first goal of the game six minutes later as her kick short-hopped the Lady Dawg goalie and found the back of the net to give Community a 4-0 lead.

Brothers rebounded a shot off the post with 15:45 remaining to give the Viqueens their first hat trick and a 5-0 advantage.

Dixon added her hat trick by scoring the next three Community goals.

The last goal ended the first half scoring and came from 35 yards out as the Viqueens took their 8-0 lead into the intermission.

The Viqueens ended the scoring and the game 13 minutes into the second half on a goal by Rocio Barrio.

ASTROGRAPH

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
Aries, others are counting on you this week, so you'll need to direct all of your attention toward a special project. Don't let distractions get in the way.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, rather than wishing for something to happen, figure out a plan to make it happen. Before taking action, consult with a few close friends for guidance.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
Someone may come to you this week with a problem asking for your advice, Gemini. It's tempting to react right away. However, take a few hours to mull things over.

CANCER - June 22/July 22
Someone at work may not agree with your point of view lately. Rather than cause friction, try to look at things through this person's perspective.

LEO - July 23/Aug 23
Leo, cooperation could be essential in the days and weeks ahead. This week you will benefit from being more open-minded to other people's suggestions.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
It seems that you have been tasked with moving from one difficult situation into another one, Virgo. Find ways to set aside time strictly to unwind.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Keep careful track of your expenses, Libra. You may find that lately you have been going a bit overboard with expenditures and not bringing in any extra money.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Maintain a positive outlook this week, Scorpio. Things may not go exactly according to plan, but that doesn't make it any less successful and satisfying.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, you may have to put others first for the next few days, particularly if you care for an elderly relative or a young child. It's a sacrifice worth making.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
Capricorn, let another person lead a team or spearhead a project at work, even if you have an urge to take control. You can use a break from your responsibilities.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
Aquarius, hands-on work not only helps save you some money, but also strengthens your skills. Think about a more DIY approach with your next project.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20
Pisces, if life has been tedious and filled with analytical requirements as of late, take on a creative project that will work your brain in new ways.
