MADDOX REACHES OUT

Commissioner Eric Maddox leads anti-drug coalition

By DAWN HANKINS dawn@t-g.com

During Tuesday's Bedford County Rules and Legislative Committee meeting, Commissioner Eric Maddox made a presentation during which time he said a newly organized group plans to address issues concerning the drug problem overshadowing Bedford County.

"This is something that has been kind of laying on my heart for a while," Maddox told the committee at the courthouse. "It's something I've spoken to several people about and I believe it is going to bring a solution to our County."

He said this County, like others, is being impacted by illegal drug use. He said the drugs of today fit on the end of an eraser and are powerful.

"I'd like to help address the problem . . . help find solutions," Maddox said. "Over the past several months, I've met with several key experts within various parts of our County infrastructure in an effort to even-

The commissioner said these experts are people who have already agreed to join the coalition. He said the first agency he reached out to was Bedford County Sheriff's Department and Chief Deputy Nikia Elliott, who was present for the meeting.

He said he's also talked with Commissioner Troy Thompson. Maddox said school superintendent Tammy Garrett has also agreed to work with the group.

He said he'd also like to have churches

Titans Announce Brian Callahan as New Head Coach

By NOAH MADDOX dawn@t-g.com

The Tennessee Titans and Brian Callahan officially agreed to terms on a contract Wednesday to make him the franchise's 20th head coach.

Callahan previously served as the Cincinnati Bengals offensive coordinator for five seasons where he coached in two AFC Championship games and one super bowl.

Controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk

released a statement on Wednesday:
"This is an exciting time for our franchise, and we're thrilled to have Brian as our head coach," said Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk. "We went through a thorough candidate search and Brian stood out as the best person to lead our football team. I want to thank the other candidates who were part of this process and wish them well moving forward.

"Brian has a track record of success and a range of experience that has prepared him for this opportunity. His football knowledge and his enthusiasm and pastors involved. There are many others, he mentioned.

Maddox told the audience about the mission statement. "Through assessment, education, enforcement and rehabilitation, we're committed to work cross functionally, utilizing all available resources in an intentional effort to help fight illegal drug activity in Bedford County."

Maddox said he believes everyone knows that this is not just a law enforcement issue or an educational issue. He said it's an issue that belongs to the whole County.

"My job will simply be one of facilitation," Maddox advised. "I'm not an expert in any of these areas. I just want to make that very clear. I simply want to be in the room to help bring the experts to the table in a collaborative effort to help the County."

He said the first meeting will be in February. He asked for the Rules and Legislative Committee's "blessing."

"My number one goal is to just help one person," said the Commissioner, "I believe if we can help one person, that one person then has an influence on all the others around them."

Maddox said that one person potentially has input into their school system; their friends, family and possibly, employees.

"I have a passion to help," said Maddox. "I've personally never been addicted to drugs. I don't know what it's like. But I've seen the effects of drugs, especially on children. It's hard."

He told the Rules and Legislative Committee that he would keep them posted about the group's progress. In attendance were Chair Biff Farrar, Greg Vick, Anita Epperson and John Boutwell. Commissioner Bill Anderson was absent.

Commissioner Greg Vick complimented Maddox on his presentation. He then asked his fellow Commissioner had he spoken to District Attorney Robert Carter and asked Maddox if he has the DA's full support.

Maddox said he's not spoken to the DA but he has more questions.

Commissioner Vick then grilled Maddox on the professional people he's talked to about this group.

Maddox answered that he has talked to a lot of those people mentioned.

Vick then said, "Then, they're all on board? What do you want us to do from the County Commission?"

Maddox said he doesn't require anything from the Commission. He said he just wants their "blessing" and any help during the process would be great. Vick added, "That's inter-

Committee Chair Biff Farrar took back the lead and said he believed Commissioner Maddox was just making everyone aware of the new group.

To that, Commissioner Vick stated he didn't want to do anything to jeopardize any work being done by law enforcement.

Maddox said he was glad to address that point. He said he's talked with the chief deputy about how the group would no way interfere with investigations.

"My goal is just to bring everybody to the table," said Maddox. "I'm gonna announce again, I'm not an expert at all. I'm just a guy that cares. All I want to do is open the door . . . sit at the table and thank everyone for coming. And, say, how can I help you?"

Chair Farrar added, "Any type of initiative to help with the drug situation is a job well-done."

COURTS

A murder trial review in local court Monday was likely the largest file started for state prosecutors for 2024 in Bedford County.

A review was planned Monday for Raymond Antonio Smith, 47, listed as living at several counts of aggravated the time of his arrest on Faye Creek Road. According to police and TBI investigations, Smith was arrested in March of 2022 and charged in the murder of Sarah Angelina Johnson at her Sims Road home.

Smith has been held without bond at Bedford County Jail. "During the course of the investigation, agents and detectives identified Raymond Smith as the individual responsible for Sarah Johnson's death," the TBI said in a statement in 2022.

Johnson was found dead after her car was stolen from her home and wrecked a short distance away on Henslee Road. She suffered severe head trauma, according to investigators.

Indicted and arraigned by the state, the following was the order for a jury trial in the Smith case: pretrial motions: 2-22-24; jury selection: April 11-12, 2024; jury trial: April 15-19, 2024.

Scamming the elderly

The judge had also had before his court a person charged with financial exploitation of an elderly/vulnerable person. This is considered a felony in Tennessee.

Johnny Robert Bowen Jr. is charged with fraudulently using the elderly person's credit card several times-each time a separate count and two of which are misdemeanors. A jury trial was to be set for the spring.

Bowen also received a felony charge back in November of 2022 for apparently deviating from agreed upon home improvement plans/specs between $10,000 and $60,000. This act is chargeable as a felony C in the state of Tennessee.

Vehicle crime review

While taking advantage of the elderly is a serious crime, the state really takes vehicular homicide seriously.

Ashton Wayne Koah of Wheel Road had his case set before the judge Monday for arraignment-second setting-to retain counsel. Koah, 19, is charged with two counts of vehicular homicide.

Arrested and indicted in January of 2023, the state is also charging Koah with assault, a count for reckless endangerment and a felony for failing to exercise due care. He has a total of 7 felony charges against him and 2 misdemeanors, according to Monday's docket.

The court docket also reveals that Koah was driving 75 mph in a 45-mph-zone at the time of the accident, which was reported as on Warner's Bridge Road.

Koah was involved in the accident with Ezequiel Estrada of Shelbyville who was also charged with vehicular assault, DUI and failure to yield right of way. Two people in the Estrada car died at the scene of the accident.

Police reports note that Koah ran his truck off the road as a result of the accident and down an embankment, landing upside down in a creek and striking a concrete culvert with the passenger door.

"Three other juvenile passengers were injured," the report stated.

Bedford County's Technical Rescue Team was called to the scene and members used ropes to remove one of the injured from Koah's truck.

Koah's bond was set at $40,000.

Vehicular homicide defined by law

A motorist who kills another person while driving recklessly will likely face vehicular homicide charges in the state of Tennessee.

According to Tennessee Driving Laws, based on Tennessee Code Annotated, causing the death of another person while behind the wheel can lead to serious criminal charges.

Tennessee defines "vehicular homicide" as recklessly causing the death of another by driving:

in a manner that creates a substantial risk of death or "serious bodily injury" to another person while intoxicated by drugs or alcohol in violation of Ten-in a street or drag race, or in a posted construction zone (where a state worker is killed.)

These four categories are all considered vehicular homicide but carry different penalties.

According to Tennessee law, a motorist acts recklessly by knowingly doing something that poses a «substantial and unjustifiable risk» to others. In other words, the person is aware of but disregards the risk.

The risk, in regard to nature and degree, must amount to a gross deviation from the standard of care that a reasonable person would use under like circumstances

In Tennessee, vehicular homicide related to street racing, is also a class C felony and punishable by law.

Vehicular homicide with

For purposes of Tennessee's vehicular homicide law, "intoxicated" means: the drugs or alcohol ingested impairs the motorist's ability to safely operate a motor vehicle or, the motorist has a blood alcohol level of .08% or great-

A driver can be convicted of vehicular homicide only if there's proof that the driver was a legal cause of the death. That is, there needs to be a direct link between the defendant's driving and the death.

The consequences of a vehicular homicide conviction depend on the circumstances, including the category. However, the possible penalties for each classification of offense are described below.

The potential sentence

A vehicular homicide conviction that's based on driving in a manner that creates a substantial risk of death or serious injury is a class C felony, which carries 3 to 15 years in prison and up to $10,000 in fines.

In the end

As with any criminal court docket, cases can in some instances enter a plea, be moved, postponed or dismissed in the due process of law. The Times-Gazette will continue to follow these cases in future editions.

THE ISSUE

A Platform for the Voice of the People Duksan to open its first American plant, here A concerning 'volatile' issue for some?

By DAWN HANKINS dawn@t-g.com

I saw on Facebook recently someone asking questions about the new Duksan battery plant off Highway 231 North. The person was asking why no one is investigating the potential health-related issues with this battery plant.

In the area is a potential new juvenile detention center, a hospital and residents living on Frank Martin Road behind the plant, the person asking the questions stated.

Are any state and local officials concerned?

I've been asked the same thing. Someone recently told me that perhaps the newspaper needs to investigate potential health hazards of Duksan Electera. Perhaps?

I mean I have always been open to investigative journalism. But, why aren't local officials doing investigations if it is such a big issue with local people?

Is anyone answering the people's questions? As for that Facebook comment I saw recently, it has now been deleted.

We know for a fact that the people who are building this new plant live in a different country, right? This is Duksan's first American plant.

State officials live mostly in Nashville, right?

But what about the people who live here, right off Frank Martin Road, who might potentially be facing health hazards. What do they do, just up and move? Is that reasonable to suggest within any development or construction area?

Food for thought for a county with such growing pains. Now, I think for the most part, that's great.

On the table

A county commissioner told Shane Hooper, economic development leader, during a recent meeting, that some of his constituents are concerned about the potential health hazards with Duksan. They feel this plant was built without their prior knowledge and they've not had a chance to ask questions before con-

Could we not avoid such concerns of the people by being a little more open to the public? I know from talks of all the reasons, etc., from an economic development strategy, for "Project Cardinal." The question is: was this fair to the public?

I'm simply asking. Hooper told Commissioner Drew Hooker that any such information on health and safety has to come from the state. He added that proper permits are on file by Duksan with the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation (TDEC.)

Hooker said he wanted it on record that he asked the questions for his constitu-

So, here we are.

Here's what we know for sure-the state construction permit is, as Hooper stated, on file for Duksan under file no. 02-0194, for anyone wanting a little "easy" read-

I'm joking. These reports are anything but easy for the general public to read. I think the people doing them realize that?

The construction application for Duksan was received June 14, 2022 (updated Aug. 19, 2022) The application was completed Aug. 19, 2022. The state construction application states that an air quality analysis was not performed-at least not at the time the construction application was filed.

Within the construction permit application Duksan Electera submitted for their lithium-ion electrolyte manufacturing operation," the company will have onsite: 12 moisture removal tanks, 36 storage tanks, nine mixers, eight process storage tanks, knockout drum, material unloading, ISO tank loading, canister loading, waste solvent tank, canister cleaning, various analysis equipment, various process filters, three boilers, and an emergency engine.

Process Information included: Duksan Electera will manufacture electrolyte mixtures for lithium-ion batteries at their (100-200) Frank Martin Road, Shelbyville, Bedford County, Tennessee facility.

Federal Requirements: The application states that this facility is not subject to any standards under 40 CFR Part 60 or 40 CFR Part 63. Basically, one would have to dig deep to find where this emissions procedure fits into Duksan.

Insignificant activity emission estimation: Three 1.969 MMBtu/hr. natural gas-fired boilers and a 385 HP diesel-fired emergency engine.

Anticipated emissions from the facility's process consists primarily of volatile organic compounds [VOCs] the application stat-

Commissioner Drew Hooker also questioned Shane Hooper about the VOCs at the recent commission meeting. Again, Hooper deferred to TDEC for answers.

According to the EPA, VOCs typically are industrial solvents, such as trichloroethylene; fuel oxygenates, such as methyl tert-butyl ether (MTBE); or by-products produced by chlorination in water treatment, such as chloroform. VOCs are often components of petroleum fuels, hydraulic fluids, paint thinners, and dry-cleaning agents. VOCs are common ground-water contaminants, according to the EPA. Volatile organic compounds (VOCs) are emitted as gasses from certain solids or liquids. VOCs include a variety of chemicals, some of which may have short- and long-term adverse health effects, the EPA states.

I suddenly have a chemical taste in my mouth? Imagery, gotta love it.

Emission estimations were based on a mass balance of material through each emission source given by the facility. There is a formula which likely a physicist, scientist or chemical engineer would need to interpret-not me. Perhaps a good school lesson? Sorrv.

But under rules analysis, most everything is checked "NA or not applicable." This also applied to other various state rules.

The application states that visible emissions from the facility are not to exceed 20 % opacity per Method 9 (Rule 1200-03- 05 -.01(1)) Visible emissions from fugitive not to exceed -- % opacity per Method 4 (Rule 1200-03-08 -.01(2)) Visible emissions from roads and parking areas not to exceed 10 % opacity per Method 1 (Rule 1200-03-08 -.03)

Fugitive emissions are gasses and vapors accidentally released into the atmosphere. Most fugitive emissions come from industrial activities, like factory operations.

Storm water drainage permits are also on file with TDEC, as Hooper shared during the County Commission meeting.

So TDEC apparently knows what is about to happen at Duksan Electera America, Inc., as far as permits go.

As for contractors, the stormwater permit states that no contractor is authorized to discharge: storm water associated with construction activity from site located at: Frank Martin Rd, Bedford County to receiving waters named: Parch Corn Creek and Benford Creek.

Questions answered as follows on the stormwater application:

Likely presence of threatened or endangered species in one mile radius: YES

Likely presence of threatened or endangered species downstream: YES

Additional pollution prevention requirements apply for discharges into waters which TDEC identifies as: -Exceptional Tennessee Waters. The answer being, NO. Duksan has plans to open its facility in late spring this year. A ground-breaking ceremony has been held already by state officials, including a visit from Gov. Bill Lee.

Next week, we will discuss what Duksan promises to offer Bedford County in the way of employment and potential revenue. Is the plant worth it to the community for 100 jobs over the next several years?

Send letters to the editor on this topic and others by emailing tgnews@t-g.com.

PENCIL SHAVINGS

The 'drippings' of a long week

Drip, drip, bam! Sunday afternoon as I'm writing this, I can hear ice and snow sliding off the roof. While everyone seems to be ready for Frosty to melt and get back to our regular routines, it is still pretty slick out there when the temps drop.

Yep, friend called. Just slid off into a snowbank. Everything's cool.

OK. I'm back.

Schools are closed. Facebook post, done! It's been a busy week, despite the roads being impassable most of the week. As I go about as much of a regular routine as possible, I can't help but think about what I witnessed on what was the coldest day of 2024. We generally see someone asking for money outside the Walmart. On Tuesday, believe it or not, someone was there.

need. I do what I can. I offer them a blessing and tell them to be safe, my brother, or sister. Because they are my brothers and sisters in Christ.

On Tuesday, I wept.

The vision of the man walking toward my window was something out of a "Christmas Carol." The man was gauntly in appearance; he had ragged clothes. His face was ashen. It looked like he had maybe a disability or had recently had a stroke, because his face was drawn.

I might say in the past I've had my doubts about the people panhandling. But it is not my place to judge them.

This week, this man was real.

I've always said unless people are truly hungry, they won't come out in such weather. This proved to be

I woke up Monday morning to see on Facebook that Yes, I give to those in Robert Martin and volunteers at SCSK had a warming station set up. Then lunch was to be served.

I'm proud to know I'm from a county that has always tried to help others. But what are we really doing for the homeless? Are our efforts merely band aids?

Did you know there is a local homeless task force now built into Bedford County Government?

I urge you to get involved. Whether you agree with the lifestyle of the "homeless," they're human beings.

Commissioner Hooker gave a great talk during standing committee meeting Tuesday night. He talked about how this community pulled together to make sure everyone was safe, had water and was generally cared for in these abnormal temps.

Thanks!

Supreme Court ruling: Its Ok for Border Patrol Agents to cut razor wire from border

WASHINGTON (AP) -A divided Supreme Court on Monday allowed Border Patrol agents to resume cutting for now razor wire that Texas installed along a stretch of the U.S.-Mexico border that is at the center of an escalating standoff between the Biden ad-over immigration enforcement. The 5-4 vote clears the way for Border Patrol agents to cut or clear out concertina wire that Texas has put along the banks of the Rio Grande to deter migrants from entering ministration and the state the U.S. illegally. Some migrants have been injured by the sharp wire and the Justice Department has argued the barrier impedes the U.S. government's ability to patrol the border, including coming to the aid of migrants in need of help.

None of the justices provided any explanation for their vote. The one-page order is a victory for the Biden administration while the lawsuit over the wire continues.

Fraud, by any means, can sting

STAFF REPORT

Despite it being a long snow week, Bedford County Sheriff's Department still had enough cases to make a lengthy, weekly report.

With today's technology, it doesn't take long for fraud to occur. That is mostly what happened this week.

Scammers were at some location trying to make a living off other people in Bedford County. One local couple was saved by their bank from a potential scam.

Another local man was not so fortunate, losing several hundred dollars to an unknown thief-one who emailed the man to say he was from a loan company (not anything local) and the Bedford County man had been approved for a

TVA System Breaks Records During Bitter Cold

The Tennessee Valley Authority's system remained reliable and resilient last week as bitter cold, single-digit temperatures drove power demand on the system to record-breaking levels because more electricity was needed to heat homes and businesses.

TVA began preparing to meet this challenge in the aftermath of Winter Storm Elliott. Since then, TVA has invested nearly $123 million and completed 3,400 winter readiness activities to harden the system and enhance reliability and resiliency at coal, gas, and hydro-electric facilities. This year, TVA will invest $120 million above regular funding levels to specifically focus on enhancing the reliability of its generation fleet.

"We started preparing for this winter immediately following Winter Storm Elliott," said Aaron Melda, TVA Senior Vice President of Power Supply Operations. "We were focused on getting it right for the 10 million customers who depend on the power we provide. Our focus was to make the critical investments needed to meet growing electricity demand while maintaining low rates that will ensure our region's energy security as we move to a clean energy future."

To meet the region's growing power demand, TVA added approximately 1400 megawatts of fast start, new natural gas units its Paradise and Colbert plants. An additional 500 megawatts are scheduled to come online when TVA completes additional generation at its Johnsonville plant. TVA announced plans in August to invest $15 billion over the next three years to meet the region's growth.

The transmission system remained stable and secure throughout the recent winter weather, TVA experienced no

fuel-supply challenges, only 3% of the fleet was unavailable during peaks and technicians were able to return units to service within hours on the same day.

TVA and local power companies requested the public conserve power ahead of Wednesday's record peak and those efforts were helpful.

"We are grateful to our employees, and our local power company partners, who worked around the clock. Because of their work as well as the conservation efforts of our local power companies and all the people across the region, we were able to successfully supply power to keep everyone warm and safe during these extreme winter conditions, Melda said.

 Highest recorded peak in TVA history: Preliminary data shows 34,524 megawatts at 8 a.m. CT Wednesday, Jan. 17.

Second highest peak in TVA history and highest recorded peak on a weekend day: 34,284 megawatts at 8 a.m. CT on Sunday, Jan. 21, per preliminary data.

Highest amount of power delivered in one week: Preliminary data shows that Jan. 15-21, TVA supplied 4,790GWh of power - the highest since the last record of 4,633 GWh January 2010.

County saving a million on new elementary

Sweeney reports to county finance committee

By DAWN HANKINS dawn@t-g.com

Jeff Sweeney, owners' representative for Bedford County government construction projects, reported to the county's Financial Management Committee on Tuesday night, Jan. 23, that the County has achieved more than $1 million in savings on the new Cartwright Elementary School under construction on the north side of Shelbyville.

"I think we've really done a good job of being stewards of the county's money," said Sweeney earlier in the day.

The new elementary school was designed by Kline-Swinney Associates, the County's architectural firm, and is being built by Bell Construction under a guaranteed maximum price arrangement.

For a large construction ed a contingency fund. Bethe county's coffers and benefiting the taxpayers.

Kline-Swinney had already agreed to release $80,000 of its design contingency fund back to the county, over and above the $1,036,000.

project of this type, the budget normally includes a contingency fund to cover unexpected expenses. There are many such expenses that can pop up during such a large project. The $39 million Cartwright Elementary project includcause of the savings that have been achieved, the county, the architect and the contractor have agreed to lower that contingency fund by $1,036,000, putting that money back into

This is the new Cartwright Elementary located off Fairfield Pike in Shelbyville. Opening is expected to be by next school year. A meeting was held at East Side School Tuesday to discuss zoning that will take place when the facility opens.

Some of the savings which have been achieved were the result of Repricing of products needed for the project;

Renegotiated the price of the steel needed for the project; and Finding suitable soil on site which could be used to replace unsuitable soil, thus avoiding the purchase of stone as a filler.

"All of these savings come directly back to the taxpayer," said Sweeney.

Bell Construction's contract with the county guaranteed a maximum price which could not be exceeded. The company was to share any savings with the county - but there's better news on that front, as the county was able to negotiate Bell's shared savings from $420,000 down to $270,000, resulting in $150,000 to the County.

"It's been a whole team approach," said Sweeney, praising Bell Construction and Kline-Swinney. "How can we save the county money?"

Sweeney estimated that the building's exterior is about 90 percent complete and the interior is about 50 percent complete. The interior of the building is now under a running heating and air conditioning system, and a first coat of asphalt has been laid at the site. Primary access to the new school will be from Calsonic Way so as not to overburden Fairfield Pike.

The school system is currently scheduled to get the keys to the facility on June 10, a month earlier than first scheduled. The school will begin hosting students and classes this fall.

Your Name

It's different here without you, I'll never be the same, I've inherited your virtues I'm carrying on your name But sometimes I still wonder As I hang my head in shame, Did I squander some of the time we had In pursuit of glory and fame? But the past is in the past, it doesn't matter who's to blame You've gone on to greener fields, with better colts to tame. I'll finish what we started I'll keep fanning the flame, And I hope that you'll be proud Of how I carry on your name

MTSU Sports Roundup

BY NOAH MADDOX noah@t-g.com

The Middle Tennessee Blue Raiders men's and women's basketball teams have had polar opposite starts to the new year, but the men's tennis program looks formidable yet again.

Women's Basketball

We'll start with Shelbyville's own, Rick Insell, and his Lady Raiders basketball program. His squad opened conference play with an overtime win at LA Tech, and they haven't looked back since. Insell has the Lady Raiders sitting tied atop Conference-USA with a perfect 5-0 record.

At 15-4 overall, Middle Tennessee is jockeying with Florida International, also unbeaten at 4-0 in conference play, and Western Kentucky, sitting in third at 4-1. WKU and FIU are scheduled to play each other Thursday, followed by FIU and MTSU on Saturday.

There are 16 conference games in total this season, so there is still a long way to go before we get a prohibitive favorite; however, there is already a very clear 3-horse race for the regular season title: MTSU, FIŪ, and WKU. They are also the only three programs in the nine-team C-USA with an overall winning record (15-4, 13-5, and 13-7 respectively).

More recently, three members of the women's basketball team reached a career milestone, including a new team record, all within three consecutive games.

First, Courtney Whitson became the program's alltime leader in three-pointers made with 260 (and counting) on January 13, 2024, in their win at Sam Houston State in a dominant 87-55 team showing.

Then, in the team's very next game back home against UTEP on January 18, Savannah Wheeler became only the second ever Lady Raider to score 2,000 points in her career, and just the 10th player in C-USA history, after scoring a team-high 18 points in the 81-70 win over the Lady Miners.

New Mexico State on January 20, Jalynn Gregory scored eight points and became the 34th Lady Raider to score 1,000 points in her career.

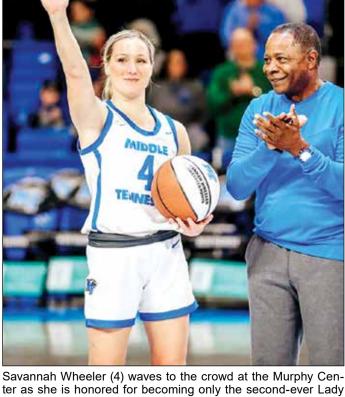

Rick Insell has this team humming at the moment, highlighted by four players averaging in double figures at the time of this writing: Savannah Wheeler with 16.2 PPG, Anastasia Boldyreva with 14.4 PPG, Ta'Mia Scott with 11.8 PPG, and Jalynn Gregory with 11.7 PPG. Those four are followed closely behind by Courtney Whitson who averages 9.4 PPG as well, giving Insell a multitude of options to look at offensively on any one night.

Some dates to remember for the Lady Raiders as their season marches on: Saturday, February 3, they host WKU at 2 p.m. inside the Murphy Center in this season's first edition of the 100 Miles of Hate rivalry; Saturday, February 10, MTSU hosts FIU at 1 p.m. in the Glass House; Saturday, February 24, WKU hosts MTSU at 11 a.m. on ES-PNU we get the second and final regular season edition of 100 Miles of Hate as the Lady Raiders make the trek up to Bowling Green in their fourth-to-last conference game of the season; and finally, on March 12-16, the Lady Raiders try to punch their ticket to the NCAA Tournament when they head down to Huntsville, AL, for the C-USA conference tournament.

Men's Basketball

Meanwhile, on the Men's side, Nick McDevitt's squad sits at the bottom of C-USA. Having lost their first four conference games, the Blue Raiders are searching for answers after Josh Ogundele picked up a knee injury in Saturday's loss to New Mexico State, joining guard Camryn Weston on the injury re-

After losing Weston for the season with a knee injury all the way back on November 11, Middle Tennessee needed to eventually find someone (or someone plural) to replace his double-digit scoring and calming presence, but as we sit in the third week of January, it doesn't feel like the

MTSU is 300th overall in KenPom, and they have the 346th ranked offense out of a grand-total of 362 teams. With by hands-down the worst KenPom rating in the entire conference, it is not hard to see why the Blue Raiders have dropped their first four conference matchups this season.

A losing record for this season is perilously close to becoming a guarantee. After going 19-14 a year ago, the big-time falloff from a former Sun Belt power getting lost in the fray of Conference USA.

MTSU is currently sitting at 3-1 and coming off of a dominant road win, 6-1, at Arkansas on Sunday after falling to Oklahoma State, 4-2, in Stillwater on Friday.

Coming up, the Blue Raiders head to Durham, North Carolina, to take part in the ITA Kickoff Weekend where they will take on the Cal Bears on Saturday morning. They will play again on Sunday against either Duke or N.C. State.

NFL's Final Four is Set

BY NOAH MADDOX noah@t-g.com

After last weekend's Divisional round games, we now have only four teams left vying for a Super Bowl appearance with one weekend to go.

On Saturday, Lamar Jackson continued his MVP campaign in leading the AFC's top seeded Baltimore Ravens to a 34-10 win over Houston Texans and CJ Stroud. In the nightcap, the Detroit Lions won their second consecutive home playoff game, 31-23, this time against Baker Mayfield and the visiting Tampa Bay Buccaneers

On Sunday, the most anticipated game of the postseason took place in Orchard Park, New York, as the Buffalo Bills lost another heartbreaker to the visiting Kansas City Chiefs and Patrick Mahomes, this time on a missed field goal in a 27-24 game. In the nightcap, the NFC's top seeded San Francisco 49ers survived a valiant effort from a youthful Green Bay Packers squad to win by a field goal, 24-21.

These results set up what should be an exhilarating Sunday afternoon of football, pitting the best quarterback this sport has maybe ever seen in Patrick Mahomes against soonto-be two-time NFL MVP, Lamar Jackson, in the first game of the double-header, followed by the Niners hosting Jared Goff and the Lions out in Santa Clara.

Outside of Ravens-Texans, just about every single snap felt on a knife's edge, moments in a game ready to swing the outcome in the favor of one team or anoth-

Let's start, and unfortunately end, by talking about

The main point I want to get across with this game is that despite how amazing it was, how amazing the game plan, execution, and adjustments made from Kansas City were more specifically, the lead topic the next couple days was all about who lost the game: Josh Allen and the Buffalo Bills.

All the talk felt to be focused on defending Josh Allen's honor against Patrick Mahomes. The reason Patrick Mahomes is considered to be the best QB in the NFL is a combination of his immense talent and the fact that in every single year of him being the starter his team has made the AFC Championship game. Think about that for a second; Patrick Mahomes has played six seasons as the starting quarterback of the Kansas City Chiefs, and every single one of those years, including this one, the Chiefs ended it at worst one win away from the Super Bowl. Simply incredible.

Josh Allen is great, many would say second-best-QBin-the-NFL level great, but he is not Patrick Mahomes. Nobody is, except for Mahomes himself, and that is why Kansas City is headed to their sixth-consecutive AFC Championship game.

So when you are watching Mahomes-Lamar on Sunday afternoon, followed by Detroit and San Francisco, keep in mind that it does not matter who you want to win. Make sure to enjoy the greatness being put on display from both teams, and both quarterbacks, but keep in mind that you don't have to rush to form immediate conclusions about the loser, either.

Veteran NASCAR Crew Chief Dies at 54

BY NOAH MADDOX noah@t-g.com

Renowned crew chief and competition manager, Ryan Pemberton, passed away on Sunday at the age of 54.

Pemberton, who had an illustrious career in NA-SCAR, was most recently serving as the director of competition at JR Motorsports. During his tenure at JR Motorsports from 2012 to 2022, Pemberton played a pivotal role in the team's success. His leadership and unwavering passion for competition motivated those around him, making him an invaluable asset to the organization.

Kelley Earnhardt Miller, CEO of JRM, expressed her condolences and acknowledged Pemberton's significant contributions to the team's achievements.

Pemberton's career began in the Xfinity Series, where he served as a crew chief alongside Larry Pearson in 1995. The duo secured two victories that season and finished sixth in the overall points standings. In 1997, Pemberton transitioned to the NASCAR Cup Series, where he amassed an impressive record as a crew chief over a span of 16 years.

Throughout his career, Pemberton worked with notable drivers such as Ernie Irvan, Mark Martin, Aric Almirola, David Reutimann, Robert Pressley, and Derrike Cope. He celebrated two Cup victories, with Joe Nemechek in 2004 at Kansas and Brian Vickers in 2009 at Michigan, both winning from the pole position.

The Pemberton family has deep roots in motorsports, with Ryan's older brother, Robin Pemberton, serving as a veteran Cup Series crew chief and later as NASCAR Vice President of Competition. Randy Pemberton, a popular broadcaster as a pit reporter and studio host, sadly passed away in 2022 at the age of 62. Ryan's brother, Roman Pemberton, has also made his mark in the industry as a spotter in various NA-SCAR national circuits.

for the game really stand out, and beyond that, we think his ability to lead will make him the ideal fit for our franchise.

"If you look at his history, Brian has been a part of a Super Bowl winning team (Denver, 2015) and another team that advanced to the Super Bowl (Cincinnati, 2021). He's worked in a variety of dynamic offenses with top-flight quarterbacks. At each step of his career, he's shown the flexibility and intelligence to make an impact.

"During his time with the Bengals, he was trusted with a number of responsibilities-offensive design, quarterback development, a contributor to the free agency and draft processes-and showed the ability to be a resource in all of those areas. As we seek sustained success and pursue a championship, Brian has seen firsthand what that looks like, and he is the right person to lead us there.

"To our fans, thank you for your support and for sticking with us. You deserve a championship team, and we're going to get there. I can't wait for you to get to know Brian and his family."

Callahan was a hot target last offseason before he decided to return to Cincinnati, and he was an even hotter commodity this year. He was one of the two candidates who received a second interview with the Titans after Tennessee held preliminary interviews with ten candidates. He was one of three in-person interviews conducted by the team. Callahan just completed his 14th season in the NFL, and in all he has 18 years of coaching experi-

Meet the Dillers

Two of the county's newest residents

By DAWN HANKINS

John and Christine (Tina) Diller say they've fallen in love with their home on a hill, nestled deep in the valley of west Bedford County. That says a lot, considering they've only lived here 5 years.

Christine's love in life, however, besides John, is her art and their animals. They're learning what it is like to have a farm in the

Not so bad, so far, they note.

Christine explains that her mother was an artist. "I have five sisters and a brother. I would say four of the sisters, at least, do art."

She's not kidding, one sister has a master's degree in fine art and her daughter has been inducted into the master's society for painters. The niece studied in Florence, Italy and was there several months studying and was eventually asked to be a teacher.

Christine says she was always painting as a young girl. "I remember when I was about 4 years old, my mother was painting all the walls in the dining room . . . decorating with scenes. I can remember picking up a paint brush and painting grass on it."

She remembers her mother painting swans on the bathroom wall. Christine recalls she was trying to paint waterlilies.

She occasionally picks up water colors. She hadn't done much of that since junior high but someone gave her some watercolors not long ago.

John bought her some paper. The rest is history.

Christine says she learned a lot from the late Bob Ross, who had a show on PBS for many years. Though Christine has never had any formal art lessons, she really doesn't have the desire.

"I putter. I don't want to be an artist."

Her expertise, she says, is mainly oil painting and furniture decorating. Like Mom, she also does some

Other animals make up her subjects as well.

She says in regard to painting, even a child of 4 can paint something. It's most of all, fun and entertaining.

Christine explains that she's a Massachusetts native and John was born in the potato state of Idaho. She actually grew up mostly, she says, in Kansas.

It seems like yesterday that John was nearing retirement age. Christine learned her sister was moving to Florida.

Christine or "Tina" as she's affectionately called, stayed years ago in Washington State. This is where she met husband, John.

East Coast. She made several trips back East, but she and John would eventually settle in middle Tennessee, which was their first choice over the Carolinas, Georgia and Virginia.

"I thought Tennessee was a very nice place," Christine Still, she wasn't giving up all those things that she felt made a great life. "I had criteria I have to be able to see my fields from the house. I have to be where it is not going to flood . . have water on the property. I have to have a view.'

Five years after finding their Bedford County property, John came down and spent 3 days looking it over.

It still took the couple 8 years before they permanently moved from Washington to Bedford County.

John is a retired, general practice family doctor; he says thankfully, he missed all the pandemic excitement, as a physician.

"I'm glad to be back on the farm," says John, noting they're at an ideal spot-17 miles from Shelbyville and 12 miles from Petersburg. The couple laugh and note they now have a small Bedford County farm-about 78 acres. In Washington, they owned much more proper-

They said recently how thankful they are to be in good health and still enjoying a good life in their golden years. John still enjoys raising cattle and dogs.

John also enjoys raising Pressa Canario, which are mastiff-type dogs. They hail originally from Spain on the Canary Islands, he reveals. The females, which is all they have on the farm, are large-160 pounds plusand take care of home quite well, they note.

Though having raised all kinds of dogs, Christine says the Presa Canario is the most loyal and affectionate dog she's ever had.

In addition to dogs, they garden on their Bedford County farm. Christine's brother, who lives with them, enjoys tending the vegetable garden.

"He is always neat," says Christine. "Ours is always messy. We end up with produce all the way to December. He's done at the end of August."

The couple realize how much Bedford County has grown in just a few years. When I came out here, 13 years ago, you could drive and not even see a car. When I came back two or three times, OK, now I saw four cars," says Christine. "Normally, I wouldn't see any. It's bumper to bumper sometimes."

Christine also enjoys being a part of the Wheel Family and Community Education Club. She's made a lot of friends, she says, like Jerry Sue Boyce and Jane Perryman.

She initially didn't believe she was a ladies club type they should move to the person. The Wheel FCE

Club took "Tina" and John into their fold. She's still a

Still cool enough for soup

Whitney Danhof, local extension agent, knows that winter weather calls for warm meals using items you have on hand. Soups are great for cold days and French Onion Soup uses ingredients found in most pantries. Here is the classic French Onion Soup recipe.

To serve, pour into oven proof bowls, top with a slice of crusty toasted bread and Swiss cheese and broil until the cheese is melted and browned.

French Onion Soup

1 1/2 pounds (about 4 medium) yellow onions, thinly

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon sugar 3 tablespoons flour
- broth 1/2 cup dry white wine salt and pepper to taste

2 quarts boiling beef

In a heavy-bottomed, 4-quart covered saucepan, cook the onions slowly with the butter and oil for 15 minutes. Uncover, raise the heat to moderate and stir in the salt and sugar. Cook for 30-40 minutes stirring frequently, until the onions have turned a deep, golden brown. Sprinkle in the flour and stir for 3 minutes over the heat. Off the heat, add the boiling liquid and wine and stirring well. Put back on the heat and simmer partially covered for 30-40 minutes or more. Adjust the seasoning with salt and pepper.
