Kenzlee Martinez is first born in '20

SLV's first baby of year weighs in at 7 pounds, 19-inches long

By DANIEL McKILLOP
Courier Editor

ALAMOSA — Kenzlee Martinez was the first baby born in the San Luis Valley this year.

Martinez, who weighed in at 7 pounds, 19-inches tall, was born at 12:26 a.m., Wednesday, Jan. 1, at San Luis Valley Health.

Kenzlee's mom, Erica Martinez, said there were no complications delivering her baby.

"Everybody was great," she added in reference to SLV Health's staff. "It was good."

Kenzlee's dad, Phillip Martinez Jr., complimented SLV Health's staff.

"Everything went smoothly," he said. "It went quickly."

High School.

When Kenzlee returns home from SLV Health, she will have three siblings waiting for her.

The new-born Martinez will have one sister, Braelyn, 10; and two brothers, Jerek, 7; and Xzavier, 3; ready to welcome their new sister when she arrives home.

"She was excited to have a sister," said Erica about Braelyn.

Phillip added: "I think they all were; the boys were excited."

Third fire in Mobile Century

For the third time in nearly as many weeks, Alamosa firefighters were summoned to Mobile Century Home Park in South Alamosa for a manufactured home on fire Monday morning about 10:30 a.m. It was the first of two calls Monday which became a record 376th call for the AFD in 2019, according to a department spokesperson. Five trucks and 14 firefighters responded to the first blaze, the cause of which is still under investigation. The trailer was occupied but the resident escaped unharmed. This was the second complete loss fire in the park this month. A second call Monday was to 510 8th Street where a grease fire splashed over and damaged the stove hood and ceiling.

Vehicle rolls over on Hwy. 17, but no one seriously injured

By DANIEL McKILLOP
Courier Editor

ALAMOSA — It was dark and slippery as an unidentified vehicle went off the road 10 miles north of Alamosa on Wednesday.

Three passengers were traveling north on Highway 17 when the vehicle went off the west side of the road at about 5:30 p.m., State Trooper Mitchell Wilson said. It went down an embankment and rolled until it stopped more than 100 feet from the road.

"It went for a distance and rolled," State Trooper Mitchell Wilson said. "EMS came on scene. They had to transport one girl to the hospital to check, make sure everything's OK, but it looks like everybody is going to be all right."

"I still have to take measurements to determine what had happened."

Police need help

Unidentified suspect at large

By DANIEL McKILLOP
Courier Editor

ALAMOSA — The Alamosa Police Department is requesting the "communities assistance" in the identification of the individual who (photographed top, right) allegedly was involved in an assault at Walmart on Dec. 7.

All individuals with information may contact the Alamosa Police Department at 719-589-2548 or Crime Stoppers at 719-589-4111 and remain anonymous.

"We did take a report of an individual being assaulted in the Walmart parking lot," according to a report released by the Alamosa Police Department Chief Ken Anderson on Dec. 10. "This incident stemmed from the victim rubbing his hand on the trunk of the subject's vehicle."

"The suspect, in this case, has not been located and we are still gathering information to ID."

The victim, Jose Madrid, M.D., said his nose was broken in three places after being attacked at about 4 p.m. on Dec. 7.

"I am a 67-year-old retired physician," Madrid said. "I was brutally attacked; this man is dangerous."

RGC approves funds for Ski-Hi Project

BY HELEN SMITH
Staff Writer

DEL NORTE — After numerous conversations and much debate, the Rio Grande County Commissioners approved $150,000 in Conservation Trust Funds for the revitalization of Ski Hi Park on Tuesday morning.

The matter was once again brought forward for consideration by the board following a decision to delay the approval to obtain more information in mid-December.

Commissioner John Noffsger once again voiced his concern over his lack of certainty regarding the project. However, Forest Neuerburg, city manager for Monte Vista, and Kathy Woods of Friends of Ski Hi Park, were both quick to stress the urgency of the project. "We've talked time and time again about the overall benefit of the facility even in its current distressed state," said Woods.

Neuerburg reminded the commissioners that the city's revenues for the long-term maintenance of the facility are expected to remain steady and perhaps see a gradual increase thanks to the passage of the one-cent fund in November.

Following a lively discussion, Noffsger proposed support for the project contingent upon the funds being earmarked for a specific portion of the project.

He also requested the formation of a commission to oversee the continuing development of the project. Woods and all of the other supporters who were present found the idea to be acceptable.

Finally, Commissioner Gene Glover made the motion to approve the request. Before putting forth a second, Commissioner Suzanne Bothell observed that she finds it to be sad when historic buildings get torn down because they are not adequately maintained or no longer pretty. However, she went on to note that when it comes to Ski Hi Park, "This is where the building is." She conceded that she believes it is time to move forward with the project for the benefit of all who use the facility.

Commissioner Noffsger wanted to amend the motion to include a provision for the county should the project not move forward. Glover noted that the provision was already included, and the motion passed unanimously.

Rio Grande County will allocate the funds to the City of Monte Vista to further the Friends of Ski Hi initiative. The entities will coordinate the details of the transaction in the days to come.

OBITUARIES

Lorenzo A. 'Lawrence' Trujillo, 77

ALAMOSA — It was a sunny but chilly day on Dec. 29, 2019 when Lorenzo A. "Lawrence" Trujillo, 77, of Alamosa peacefully entered into his Lord's loving arms at the San Luis Valley Regional Medical Center in Alamosa.

He fought a long, hard battle with Parkinson's disease and other medical complications.

Lawrence, as he was known to most, was born on June 24, 1942 to Anselmo and Elionela (Arellano) Trujillo.

He spent most of his life in Center and Alamosa but lived a few years in Casa Grande, Ariz. He worked in mining and agriculture.

Lawrence was rich in knowledge of family history and loved the great outdoors of the San Luis Valley where he hunted with family and fished with his best friends. He enjoyed his morning sweet treats with his neighbor.

He liked to garden, take care of his yard and do woodwork. He was an avid Broncos fan.

He is survived by his wife of 45 years, Jill Trujillo of Alamosa; son, Don Trujillo of Pueblo; daughters, Connie (Geno Gowens) Trujillo and Lorena (Reno) Chacon of Center; stepdaughters, Linda Hall of Alamosa, Heidi (Michael) Naranjo of Phoenix, and Leah Boss of Alabama. He is also survived by his grandchildren Jacob McClure of Alamosa, Dalton Trujillo and Briana Trujillo of Pueblo, Timothy (Elizabeth Rivera) Chacon of Center and Aaron (Amanda) Martin of Alamosa; Michael Naranjo of Arizona, Bridget (TJ) York of Mesa, Ariz.; Eric Cicione of Alabama, Aubrey (Jeremy Wittig) Cicione of Mesa, Ariz., Ryan Cicione of Korea; his great-grandchildren, Noelle Trujillo, Jayden Padilla, Noah Marroquin, Jace Martin, Kade Martin and baby York that is on the way. He is also survived by his sisters, Sobeida Moreno, Lucy Trujillo and Barbara Chaparro, all of Center; and Tammy (Jeff) Schnedler of Canon City; his brothers, Filemon (Mardell) Trujillo of Montrose, William (Sally) Trujillo of Monte Vista, Billy Trujillo and Wesley (Anita) Trujillo, of Center; and his good friend Tom Burrows of Alamosa. He leaves behind numerous nieces, nephews and other family members and friends.

Lawrence is preceded in death by his parents, Anselmo and Elionela Trujillo; his siblings, Catherine Trujillo, Bernice Garcia, Irvin Trujillo and Lee Trujillo, as well as his beloved dog, Joy.

Visitations will be held Friday, Jan. 3, 2020 from 5-7 p.m. at the Rogers Family Mortuary in Alamosa, and Saturday morning, Jan. 4 from 9:45-10:45 a.m. at the Alamosa Fourth Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 927 Weber Dr. in Alamosa.

Funeral Services will follow at 11 a.m. at the same church.

Interment will take place in the Alamosa Cemetery at the conclusion of the funeral services.

Rogers Family Mortuary is in care of the arrangements.

SLV directors earn accreditation

Angie Werner, Director of Provider Support Services and Mandy Crockett, Director of Human Resources at San Luis Valley Health (SLVH), recently completed a week-long course to become accredited as Insights Discovery Practitioners. Based on the work of Carl Jung and Jolande Jacobi, Insights uses psychometric models to develop awareness of self and others that can be used to make practical improvements in the workplace and in relationships. Using an outside consultant, the Insights Program has been used in the past by SLVH with members of the leadership and provider teams. With their accreditations, Werner and Crockett will have access to Insights resources and training material and be able to deliver the training to various SLVH team members on a consistent basis. The coursework contained of pre-workshop homework, 32 hours of intense classroom training, and a post-workshop confirmation of learning quiz. For the week of classroom training, Werner and Crockett were surrounded by a wealth of professional leaders representing a diverse network of industries and expertise. Crockett said, "This work provides a fascinating and engaging approach to personal and professional development. I look forward to working with our teams on the program this coming year."

Action taken against Robocalls

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Today, Senator Cory Gardner (R-CO) released the below statement following S. 151, the Telephone Robocall Abuse Criminal Enforcement Deterrence (TRACED) Act, becoming law this week. Gardner is a cosponsor of this legislation that requires phone companies to implement a system that would authenticate and verify phone calls to ensure that they are legitimate.

Additionally, the TRACED Act increases fines on individuals who are found to have knowingly attempted or succeeded in spoofing phone calls. Spoofing is a tactic that fraudulent callers sometimes utilize to show a different telephone number and disguise their identity.

The DEA says illegal drug use by young adults is way down from the peak drug use rate in the late 70s.

In 1977, a year after I moved to L.A., I flew home to Oklahoma City for Christmas. I was helping Mother prepare dinner when she noticed I was chopping the onions with my credit card.

Obama: the Call of History is a new book that says Obama decided to watch Dr. Strange-love election night after he realized Donald Trump would be the new President of the United States. It's a hilarious political comedy that ends in the world accidentally getting blown up. Just like the movie.

Caitlyn Jenner will pose nude for the cover of Sports Illustrated in July to mark the 43rd anniversary of her Men's gold medal in the 1976 Olympic decathlon. Caitlyn will be posing nude for the first time since her transition. If you'd like to see one of these photos, professional help is available. The Wall Street Journal warned that Big Banks will be the target of Democratic presidential candidates next election. It's a nice racket. Yesterday an ATM machine charged me $4 to make a $20 withdrawal, and then told me to cover my PIN to keep me from being robbed. National Football League teams agreed to fewer contact drills in their summer training camps as they prepare for the fall. Also, the Buffalo Bills announced that after 42 years, they will allow another football player to wear O.J. Simpson's famous uniform number. That number is 103947. Woodstock promoters canceled plans for a fiftieth anniversary concert when backers pulled out last week. Yet the generation gap is as real today as it was in 1969. For instance, Millennials see Hip Hop as the music of their generation, while Baby Boomers see Hip Hop as the cook on Bonanza.

Alice shares her sad story

What has changed for kids like me during the past 10 years?

Nothing positive that I'm aware of, which means children of addicts still suffer abuse and neglect (trauma) on multiple levels.

I was victimized mainly by adults, and teachers who couldn't have cared less what their meanness and hatefulness did to me. They negatively impacted my life, for sure, but I also had the two best teachers in the whole-world, Alicia Romero, Alamosa Elementary fourth grade, and Leland Romero, OMS, sixth grade. I will always love Mr. and Mrs. Romero. I believe they were here just for me. Kids like me are the quiet ones afraid to speak or even look at anyone. We're the ones who miss a lot of school, we're dirty, our hair isn't combed, we don't have warm clothes in freezing weather, we stare out the window, eat food scraps off the floor and out of trash cans. I was in 16 different schools by Alamosa fourth grade; no one ever asked me if anything was wrong or offered to help. Please, make a difference this year for kids like me and report your concerns.

'Kids Like Me'

New Year's Day Column 2020
My name is Alice. I'm from Antonito, and I'm 46 years old. I always wonder, "Where did I go wrong?" and then I cry. I wanted to be an Army flight nurse and an accountant. I drank alcohol for 33 years, but I stopped drinking five years ago.

My drugs of choice include cocaine, meth, and black (heroin).

I used for 10 years to numb the pain, but I want to stop using drugs, and I'm trying to stop. Drinking/drugging affected my life really bad. If I could change anything in my life, it would be to have never used drugs. I turned 7 years old in October 1979. My dad drank alcohol and passed away Nov. 22, 1979.

At first, I didn't know what was going on but little by little, I learned. I was sexually abused when I was a kid and when I was in sixth grade, they put me in counseling. I didn't like it, so I stopped going. I had trouble in school, but I did make some good grades. In the seventh grade, I started playing sports (volleyball, basketball, and track), and I was in band and played drums and flute. I wasn't artistic, but I wrote poems. I've always gotten along better with boys than with girls. In school, the girls said bad things about me and made me cry. So, I hung out with the boys even more. My seventh-grade summer was when I started drinking. At the age of 15 years, I ended up pregnant. I would have been a mom at the age of 15, but my daughter was two weeks late, so I had her four days after my 16th birthday. I took care of my daughter, but I was still partying like crazy. At the age of 17, I started doing cocaine. I met my second and third daughters' dad when I was a junior in high school, still playing sports and in band. When I was a senior, I was pregnant with my second kid. I had her after my 19th birthday.

After I had her, I kept on drugging. At the age of 21, I had my third daughter. I was clean until I was 23 years old, but then I started all over again doing cocaine and drinking. I raised my girls on my own. I drank from then until up to 5 years ago. In 2013, I tried meth and I would do it here and there. In 2014, I started doing it more. By 2015, it became an everyday use, but I did stop for a few months but then started up again. So, as of 2015 until July, 2019, I used every day. In 2018, until 2019, I started using black (heroin), but I have been in jail since July 2019. So, I have been clean since then. Now, I have a kid that likes to drink, and two that like drugs but they have stopped using. I just want to stay sober for my kids and grandkids. I'll be going to rehab soon. I'm ready for this. My advice for parents who are addicts is to please stop using if you have kids because they look up to you. My advice for grandparents of "kids like me" is to always love your kids and your grandkids. Don't ever stop loving them. My advice for "kids like me" is to always love your kids and your grandkids. Just know that your parents love you even if they don't call or write. If my life was perfect, I wouldn't be in jail. I would have my family and I wouldn't be doing drugs. My husband and I would have our jobs.— Alice Thank you for having the courage to share your story, Alice. Remember, Jesus loves you, and Jesus is Lord.

Life lessons through barrel racing continues

I am still processing that we are now into 2020! Time flies, no matter what. I tend to use analogies that I can understand for different concepts in life. Having grown up competing in rodeo, I sometimes compare life itself to barrel racing. Some may think that riding a horse and turning it around three inanimate objects looks simple. As someone who has done it for almost 20 years, I can assure you it is not. It is a fast-paced experience that requires precision. Both horse and rider must have a certain level of skill. How is barrel racing like life? They both happen quickly and require changes in direction. Also, if you don't have a plan and a sense of direction, things can go wrong very quickly. Furthermore, like most anything else, the sport requires endurance and continued improvement. Being responsible and the well being of your horse and yourself are vital. Finally, it is an avenue where you never stop learning and where the rewards that hard work and dedication are realized. However, the most important aspect is to keep going, no matter what.

Moors driven out of Spain

Today is the second day of 2020 and the 13th day of winter.

TODAY'S HISTORY: In 1492, the Moors were driven out of Spain as Granada fell to the forces of Ferdinand and Isabella. In 1967, Ronald Reagan was sworn in as governor of California. In 1974, President Richard Nixon signed legislation instituting a 55-mph highway speed limit in order to conserve gasoline during an OPEC embargo. In 2006, a methane gas explosion in a Sago, West Virginia, coal mine trapped 13 miners. Only one survived. TODAY'S SPORTS: In 1984, Miami upset heavily favored Nebraska in the Orange Bowl, 31-30, as Nebraska failed on a two-point conversion at game's end. TODAY'S QUOTE: "It has been my philosophy of life that difficulties vanish when faced boldly." — Isaac Asimov

For me, barrel racing has brought both valuable lessons and fond memories. I carry those things with me wherever I go, and they have served me well. I will continue to utilize them in the New Year.

CPW issues reminder about shed-antler collection restrictions

DURANGO—To protect wintering big-game animals and sage grouse species, collection of shed antlers on all public lands west of I-25 is prohibited from Jan. 1 through April 30.

“The purpose of the closures is to reduce disturbance of wintering wildlife during the time of year they are most vulnerable,” said Scott Wait, senior terrestrial biologist for the Southwest Region of Colorado Parks and Wildlife.

Big game and sage grouse species live in a basic survival mode during the winter when food is scarce. If forced to move and burn calories unnecessarily, wildlife can lose the energy they need to make it through the winter.

In addition to the statewide restrictions, additional special regulations are also in place for the Gunnison Basin. In Game Management Units 54, 55, 66, 67 and 551, it is illegal to search for or possess antlers and horns on public lands between legal sunset and 10 a.m. from May 1 through May 15.

Shed antler collecting has become very popular over the last decade. Commercial collectors, which sell sheds for decorations, have led to a substantial increase of people searching for antlers and horns in sensitive wildlife areas.

The seasonal prohibition applies to both commercial and recreational collectors

Anyone witnessing violations of the closure regulations should call the nearest CPW office or Operation Game Thief at 877-265-6648.

CPW is an enterprise agency, relying primarily on license sales, state parks fees and registration fees to support its operations, including: 41 state parks and more than 350 wildlife areas covering approximately 900,000 acres, management of fishing and hunting, wildlife watching, camping, motorized and non-motorized trails, boating and outdoor education. CPW's work contributes approximately $6 billion in total economic impact annually throughout Colorado.

New Colorado marijuana rules went into effect

DENVER — Marijuana rules stemming from the General Assembly's 2019 legislative session went into effect on Wednesday for all regulated marijuana businesses across Colorado, most notably allowing, for the first time, state licensing of hospitality establishments and the issuance of permits for residential delivery of medical marijuana.

Final rules were adopted by the State Licensing Authority on Nov. 5 after a summer of extensive stakeholder engagement led by the Marijuana Enforcement Division (MED).

“Feedback from our stakeholders through work groups and public comment has always been a MED priority,” said Jim Burack, MED Director. “But this year, we encouraged an even more collaborative approach to rule development where work group participants utilized their experience and expertise within stakeholder teams to engage more directly in the drafting of rule language.”

Highlights of notable key rules that go into effect on January 1 include:

Marijuana Hospitality Businesses (HB19-1230): Creation of two marijuana hospitality business licenses, subject to local jurisdiction approval, including 1) “Marijuana Hospitality Business” license (may be mobile), allowing consumption of marijuana on the licensed premises, and 2) “Retail Marijuana Hospitality and Sales Business” license (cannot be mobile) allowing for the sale and consumption of retail marijuana on the licensed premises.

MED will maintain a list of approved hospitality businesses on the Division's website.

Regulated Marijuana Delivery (HB19-1234):

Creation of a permit to allow delivery of regulated marijuana to private residences from medical marijuana stores, subject to local jurisdiction approval.

Delivery to private residences from retail marijuana stores begins on Jan. 1, 2021, also subject to local jurisdiction approval.

Sunset Regulated Marijuana (SB19-224):

The Retail Code and Medical Code are integrated to create a single code, which will streamline operations for both regulators and businesses.

Criminal history disqualification provisions are amended so that felony convictions within the past three years will typically preclude licensing as an owner or employee.

Industrial hemp can be used in the manufacture of marijuana products and sold in retail marijuana stores. Prior to this legislation, the sale of industrial hemp products by licensed marijuana businesses was limited to medical marijuana stores.

Beginning July 1, 2020, industrial hemp used by medical and retail marijuana manufacturers and sold in medical and retail stores will be subject to testing and can only be sourced from persons registered with the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment.

Retail and medical marijuana stores and hospitality establishments can collect marijuana consumer waste for purposes of reuse and recycling. This includes containers, packages, and cartridges, among other waste components left after the marijuana is consumed.

Other notable rule changes:

Vitamin E Acetate, Polyethylene glycol (PEG) and Medium Chain Triglycerides (MCT Oil) are expressly prohibited for use in the manufacture of regulated marijuana concentrate or regulated marijuana products intended for inhalation. Read more here.

In an effort to further simplify the licensing process, there are now only two (instead of three) license categories for individuals working in the regulated marijuana industry: 1) owner and 2) employee.

Sangre de Cristo returns from break to host Creede

By STEPHEN JIRON
Courier Sports Editor

ALAMOSA — The Thunderbirds are off to a good start. Sangre de Cristo's boys and girls are both 4-0 to start the season. Saturday, Creede's Miners will be in town for two league games, the first for all four teams. Creede's girls didn't have an impressive showing at the Thunderbird Shootout to start the season. The Miners (0-3) would go to the holiday break without a win.

Things don't get much easier for Creede moving forward. In their next two games Creede will take on Sangre de Cristo and Cotopaxi, the first and fourth-ranked teams in 1A basketball according to the Ratings Percentage Index (RPI). On the other hand, Head Coach David Forster has the SDC girls humming through their first four. The T-Birds breezed through the Thunderbird Shootout to take first place and got past Sargent

The T-Birds have been getting a full effort from Kylee Christensen who has been cranking out an average of 17 points per game, good enough for fourth in 1A girls basketball. Christensen also leads the T-Birds with 19 steals. Avery Palmgren has been a nice complement picking up 2 blocks and a team-leading 20 total rebounds.

Creede's boys (0-3) are also ready for some success this year after leaving the Thunderbird Shootout and a road meeting with Ridgeway without a win. Sangre de Cristo's boys (4-0) are on the other end of the spectrum having taken first place at their home tournament and polishing that off with a road win over Sargent before the holiday break. Sangre de Cristo is currently ranked in third place on the Colorado High School Activities Association (CHSAA) coaches' poll.

Senior Cole Christensen has collected a team-leading 128 points and 32 assists. Christensen has gotten plenty of help from teammates the Enriquez brothers Mario and Kevin as well as freshman Leighton Curtis. Christensen, Mario Enriquez and Curtis have all registered a double-double thus far in the season. Events are set to kick off Saturday evening at 5 p.m.

Kyle Connor's hat trick lifts Jets over Avs 7-4

MICHAEL KELLY
AP Writer

DENVER— Kyle Connor put his team in a tough spot with an unfortunate penalty. The young forward redeemed himself soon after to lift the struggling Winnipeg Jets.

Connor had three goals for his second career hat trick and first in the regular season, and the Jets beat the Colorado Avalanche 7-4 on Tuesday night.

Blake Wheeler scored twice and added an assist and Mark Scheifele and Nikolaj Ehlers had empty-net goals for Winnipeg. Scheifele and Jack Roslovic had three assists each and Ehlers had two. Connor Hellebuyck stopped 39 shots.

The Jets had gone 2-5-1 in their last eight but ended 2019 on a high note with a third-period rally led by Connor. His double-minor for a cross check early in the third period led to Colorado's goal that made it 3-all, but he made up for it a few minutes later.

Just seven seconds into Winnipeg's only power play of the game, he tipped in a shot by Neal Pionk to put the Jets Gabriel Landeskog and Nazem Kadri scored for the Avalanche. Colorado is 1-4-1 in its last six games despite outshooting the Jets 43-26 in addition to hitting the post on a couple of shots. Philipp Grubauer stopped 19 of 24 shots he faced.

"What was it, like two or three posts? So, chances were definitely there," said defenseman Erik Johnson, who had two assists. "It's just going the wrong way for us right now and no one is happy about it, but there's ebbs and flows throughout the season. We're not trying to peak in January, we're trying to peak when it matters."

MacKinnon now has 179 career goals, which is eighth in franchise history and fifth since the team became the Avalanche.

Wheeler's first of the game at 6:25 of the first made it 1-0 and MacKinnon scored at 9:43 of period.

Connor tipped his own rebound over Grubauer midway through the second and MacKinnon's one-timer at 13:47 made it 2-2. Winnipeg took a 3-2 lead into the intermission when Scheifele beat Grubauer with a slap shot.

The Avalanche again tied it when Landeskog scored his 10th of the season on a power play at 7:15 of the third.

NOTES: Sam Girard had two assists for Colorado. ... The Jets are 5-3 on New Year's Eve since relocating to Winnipeg in 2011. The Avalanche are 4-3-2 in Dec. 31 home games since moving to Colorado in 1995. ... Avalanche D Cale Makar is the team's Last Men In candidate to be part of the Central Division team in the All-Star Game. Voting starts Wednesday and goes through Jan. 10.

"I've got to control my stick a little better, but I was just trying to make a play and I ended up with four minutes," Connor said. "Watching them score, too, it's tough to sit there and watch that but we battled back and everybody, top to bottom, we got efforts from everybody, so it was a good one."

He got his 20th of the season and his hat trick when he roofed a backhander at 16:31 of the third. He now has six goals in his last four games.

"He's dialed in. I mean, the kid's got world-class hands on him and just works extremely hard," Wheeler said.

Connor's only other hat trick against Nashville on March 23, 2019.

Wheeler, who played in his 900th career game, has 19 goals and 51 points in 36 career games against Colorado. Scheifele has 28 points in 26 games.

"That's a big number for sure," Jets coach Paul Maurice said of Wheeler's 900th game. "The hard way. I've been here six full seasons, every day, every practice, every game I'm amazed at his ability to drive his body every single day. He plays a hard, grinding kind of game."

CU faces test vs No. 4 Oregon

No. 4 Oregon (11-2, 0-0) vs. Colorado (11-2, 1-0)

CU Events Center, Boulder, Colorado; Thursday, 9 p.m. EST

BOTTOM LINE: No. 4 Oregon presents a tough challenge for Colorado. Colorado has won one of its two games against ranked opponents this season. Oregon has moved up to No. 4 in the latest AP rankings following a win over Alabama State last week.

LEADING THE CHARGE: Colorado's Tyler Bey has averaged 12.5 points and 9.4 rebounds while McKinley Wright IV has put up 12.8 points, 5.2 rebounds and 4.2

assists. For the Ducks, Payton Pritchard has averaged 18.5 points, 4.3 rebounds and 6.2 assists while Chris Duarte has put up 12.3 points and five rebounds.

FACILITATING THE OFFENSE: Pritchard has either made or assisted on 44 percent of all Oregon field goals over the last five games. Pritchard has 32 field goals and 37 assists in those games.

UNDEFEATED WHEN: Colorado is a perfect 10-0 when the team blocks at least two opposing shots. The Buffaloes are 1-2 this season when they block fewer than two shots.

PASSING FOR POINTS: The Buffaloes have recently used assists to create buckets more often than the Ducks. Colorado has an assist on 59 of 87 field goals (67.8 percent) over its past three matchups while Oregon has assists on 59 of 97 field goals (60.8 percent) during its past three games.

DID YOU KNOW: Colorado has made 7.8 3-pointers per game this season, which is second-best among Pac-12 teams. The Buffaloes have averaged 9.4 3-pointers per game over their last five games.

"This is a much bigger apartment than we're used to."

After mediterranean honeymoon, man refuses to live with wife

DEAR ABBY: My heart is breaking for my friend who was married just a month and a half ago. She and her husband went on a two-week Mediterranean cruise for their honeymoon. They have not lived together since then. Her husband says he loves her, and I know she loves him, but he has no immediate plans to live with her! She's heartbroken and is planning an annulment. What advice do you have? -- THROWN IN MARYLAND

DEAR THROWN: I wish you had shared a few more details about their situation. I'm surprised your friend wasn't aware of her husband's feelings before she married him. However, as sympathetic as you are about her situation, my advice is to be there for her to lean on but refrain from giving her advice. She's going to have to figure this out for herself. Some couples do better if they live separately. But if what her husband has in mind was a surprise and is unacceptable to her, she is doing the right thing.

DEAR ABBY: I'm not sure if anyone else has this problem. My husband is constantly grabbing me, either my breasts or my crotch. It's day and night. We have been married almost 40 years, and I am sick of it.

If I say something, he says, "Oh, I bet the guys you work with would love to be touching you!" Not once have my co-workers ever implied such a thing. I just don't understand! Any suggestions on how I can make him understand I hate this? -- GROPED OUT WEST

DEAR GROPED: Your husband may consider what he's doing as foreplay or regard you not as a person but his property. Touching someone in this manner without consent could be considered sexual abuse. His comment about your male co-workers may be a back-handed compliment, but why you are sick of hearing it is understandable.

If he doesn't understand after 40 years that you dislike what he's doing, it's because he doesn't want to, and your feelings are unimportant to him. A marriage counselor may be able to help you get through to him. If he won't go, go without him.

DEAR ABBY: I am 59 years old with a good job. I have a pleasant personality, and I have been told I am attractive. I would love to find someone who would be a very good friend or maybe even a love connection.

The problem is, I wear partials because some of my teeth are missing. I'm very attractive with them in, but I'm afraid if I tell a man I have them, he won't regard me as attractive anymore. Should I withhold that information until further down the line? Please advise me because this is holding me back on trying to have a relationship. I don't want to remain lonely because of this. -- READY FOR SOMETHING IN D.C.

DEAR READY: You state that you have a good job. If all that's holding you back from finding a partner is embarrassment about your dentures, contact a dentist and ask if there are other options, such as implants, that might be a solution for you. If there are, it will give you the boost of confidence you are seeking. If not, keep in mind that if you are dating the right man in your age group or older, he shouldn't have as much a problem with your teeth as you fear.

Restoring wildlife habitat in western Colorado starts with native seeds

DOVE CREEK — Good habitat is the key for maintaining wildlife populations.

So Colorado Parks and Wildlife is working in western Colorado to restore abandoned farmland and other areas back to a natural condition.

On a freezing November morning on the western edge of Colorado, Ryan Lane, a CPW wildlife technician, drove an open tractor back and forth across a 400-acre expanse of the Coalbed Canyon State Wildlife Area. The tractor pulled a specialized planter, known as a no-till drill that pushed seeds from 30 different native plants into the dry soil.

Late fall is a good time for planting these types of seeds with snow and rain usually reliable at this time of year getting the seed down ahead of moisture is ideal.

Since 2014, CPW has been working aggressively in several areas throughout western Colorado to plant native seeds on: old farmland, state wildlife areas, state trust lands and areas burned in fires.

Since 2015, the agency has planted on about 7,500 acres for restoration and on another 10,000 acres of areas burned in forest fires, explained Trevor Balzer, CPW's sagebrush and mountain-shrub habitat coordinator.

One of those areas is the 2,800-acre Coalbed Canyon State Wildlife Area in southwest Colorado. In the areas level enough to plant, the parcel produced beans and wheat for decades.

To accommodate agricultural crops, however, the land was stripped of sagebrush and other native plants that supported multiple species of wildlife, including the Gunnison Sage-grouse, mule deer, elk, multiple species of birds and small mammals.

Before CPW's ownership, the fields were abandoned and planted with a fast-growing non-native grass that does not provide much value to wildlife. So in 2016, CPW started the long restoration process.

The area was treated to kill the non-native grass and the planting process started. Planting in areas like Coalbed Canyon, however, can be frustrating because of dry weather conditions.

Seeds planted in the fall of 2015 and 2016 received adequate moisture, sprouted and became established. But extremely dry and hot weather followed the fall planting of 2017 and seeds did not do well in 2018. Consequently, those areas are being seeded again.

Wet conditions last spring were favorable for getting seeds to take hold, Balzer said.

CPW plants native seeds using the "no-till" method. The land is not plowed so the roots of the native existing grasses hold soil in place. New seeds are planted among the remaining vegetation.

A key to reclamation efforts is CPW's native seed warehouse in Delta that was completed in 2012. CPW and other agencies collect seeds of native plants, mostly on the Uncompahgre Plateau west of Montrose, and ship them to commercial growers in the northwest U.S. Those businesses specialize in native plant propagation and then harvest thousands of pounds of seed in amounts that cannot be collected in the wild. The seed is shipped to CPW's climate-controlled warehouse where it is stored and distributed as needed.

"With large amounts of seed available we can take on large-scale seeding projects," said Jim Garner, manager of the warehouse. "The warehouse allows us to provide locally adapted plant varieties to Western Slope land managers who are conducting habitat improvement projects."

A mixture of seed from the warehouse was dropped by airplane last spring over more than 5,000 acres of the Bull Draw fire area near Nucla.

That fire burned during the summer of 2018. An inspection of the area in the fall showed that native plants have started to grow.

Balzer explained that the availability of seeds of native forbs — broad-leaved flowering plants — and shrubs are especially important for reclamation efforts.

"Those weren't readily available on the market before we had the warehouse," he said. "They're critical because they provide diverse food sources for all wildlife in the area."

When these plants flower they attract a wide variety of insects which help to spread the plants over large areas of the landscape and restore broader habitat function."

The planting on the 400-acre plot at Coalbed Canyon has been difficult because of wet and cold weather that hit in mid-November.

That planting should be completed early in 2020 and plans are already in place to plant a 200-acre parcel next year.

Across the Western Slope, Balzer wants to stay the course of reclaiming about 1,500 acres per year. Even though that's a small amount of acreage in a vast landscape, biologists know that their work will impact areas far beyond the individual plots.

"Getting native plants established in these areas is not easy," Balzer said. "The process is slow and native shrubs take many years to mature. But revisiting a successfully restored site is extremely rewarding."

CPW is an enterprise agency, relying primarily on license sales, state parks fees and registration fees to support its operations, including: 41 state parks and more than 350 wildlife areas covering approximately 900,000 acres, management of fishing and hunting, wildlife watching, camping, motorized and non-motorized trails, boating and outdoor education. CPW's work contributes approximately $6 billion in total economic impact annually throughout Colorado.
