Summitville preservation plans underway

Preservation efforts are underway to preserve and protect what is left of the Summitville Mining District southwest of Del Norte. The district played an integral role in the formation of the San Luis Valley and with the help of several leadership organizations and funding, the Rio Grande County Museum hopes to help protect the remaining structures and artifacts in the area.

STAFF REPORT

SUMMITVILLE—The Rio Grande County Museum with the help of the Rio Grande National Forest and several leaders throughout the San Luis Valley have started a preservation effort for the remaining structures in the Summitville Mining District.

In 2020, after several years of negotiation, Rio Grande County finalized a land exchange with the Rio Grande National Forest and the EPA to take possession of a majority of the Summitville Mining District and have since began efforts to preserve the area and what is left of the remaining townsite and structures.

The Summitville site has always been a place of controversy as the natural geological makeup of the land is riddled with toxic materials outside of what was used to extract gold from the ground during the boom days of the mining district.

In 1870, a group of Army veterans traveled along a tributary creek that fed into the South Fork of the Rio Grande which led them to the base of South Mountain. It was at a location later named Wightman Fork that they discovered a catch of gold nuggets and began what was to be a long history of

South Fork October blood drive scheduled

CONTRIBUTED

SOUTH FORK — There will be a Valley Blood Drive on Saturday, Oct. 12, at the South Fork Community Building from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. This is open to everybody from Alamosa to Creede and beyond.

Blood donation makes a monumental impact on the lives of people across the country and here locally. Because of the high temperatures across the US and in Colorado, New Mexico, and other surrounding areas, a lot of blood drives have been cancelled and so "we're in desperate need for blood," organizers stated.

Did you know you can give one super powered blood donation – a Power Red – that may have the same impact as two regular donations? A Power Red donation is a concentrated donation of red blood cells – the most needed blood component by hospital patients. Not everyone qualifies to

Creede 4-H elects' new officers

By FAITH COOPER

CREEDE — Recently the Creede 4-H Club has been getting used to newly elected officers. In February the members of this esteemed club assembled, casting their votes to select individuals to take on leadership roles.

Taking the lead as the new president is Brooke Sliwkowski. Brooke brings a unique perspective to the role, with her brother being the previous president. We are sure that Brooke will bring new and clever ways to show our support to the community. Assisting Brooke in guiding the club is the newly elected vice president Paisley Anderson. Paisley has been in the club for years and has experience in an officer position before.

We are also excited to introduce several new members who have taken up other leading positions. Our new Secretary is Israel Cooper. Israel is new to the club along with his brother Titus and sisters Faith and Lydia Cooper. This is Israel's first time in 4-H, and he is enthusiastic for the opportunities this position could lead to.

Titus Cooper also contributes to the club by being the newly elected pledge leader, and by helping the members instill values of loyalty and community.

Additionally, the important role of treasurer has been entrusted to Lydia Cooper. Lydia brings valuable financial expertise to the role, having served as chief financial officer for BizTown last year.

And finally, Faith Cooper has been appointed as the club's reporter. Bringing her enthusiasm for journalism to the club.

Our club participated in a local fair, with several members showcasing their hard work across a variety of projects. Tyler and Brooke Sliwkowski proudly entered their swine projects, Levi Brittan displaying his skills in archery and a Lego project. Celia Baldein presented her skills in cake decorating and JD Baldwin showed his robotics and woodworking projects. Ava Mankowski and Paisley Anderson both entered photography projects portraying creative and artistic talent.

We are also proud to announce the awards of our members at the State Fair! JD Baldwin earned Reserve Champion in robotics and placed fifth in woodworking. Celia Baldwin received Reserve Champion in freeze preservation, Paisley Anderson placed ninth and Ava Mankowski placed 10th in photography. Congratulations to all for their incredible accomplishments!

Wilma Grace Lewis

Wilma Grace Lewis, 77 passed peacefully on the evening of Sept. 16, 2024, in Salida, Colo.

She was born Aug. 26, 1947, in Beaver County, Okla.

She was preceded in death by her brothers Roy G, Jackie (Jack Jr.) and David Benn, and her sister Dorothy May Benn.

Her parents were Jack E. Benn and Dorothy Ione Tunnell.

Soon after completing high school in Fairplay, Colo., Wilma married Wilbur G. Lewis in 1965 in Hartsel, Colo. They had two children, Stephanie S. Lewis in 1969 and Jack H. Lewis (Jenny J. Sherburne) in 1972. The family moved to Saguache, Colo., in 1972.

Wilma stayed home with the kids until they were in their teens. Wilma was going to take a "few classes" and ended up with a degree in English Education from Adams State College, and a Graduate Degree from University of Northern Colorado. In 1985, Wilma began teaching English, Science and History at Monte Vista Middle School. Wilma loved her students, and over the span of 25 years brought learning to life by hosting the History Fair and dressing up as literary characters.

Wilma was always active in the community, a strong member of the Saguache Library Board and a member of the Saguache Museum Board. She also supported Wilbur with many Masonic community activities and was a member of the Eastern Star. She will be missed by her exercise class crew.

Wilma loved to travel and had a special affection for the coasts of Maine and Newfoundland, enjoying puffins, whales, lighthouses and moose. She loved to travel internationally as well and went to New Zealand multiple times and all across Europe.

One of Wilma's biggest joys was spoiling her grandchildren, Amy Grace Lewis and David Ray Lewis. Wilma was the 'rock' of the family, carrying the conversations, providing the stories, keeping in contact with family across the nation, and she truly loved being around her family and friends.

October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month

By TU CASA

October was first proclaimed as National Domestic Violence Awareness Month in 1989. Since then, October has been a time to acknowledge domestic violence survivors and those who have passed, and to be a voice for those who may be experiencing it. Domestic violence is prevalent in every community, and affects all people regardless of age, socio-economic status, sexual orientation, gender, race, religion, or nationality.

Every October, Tu Casa, Inc. joins with its partners, supporters, and allies across the country to recognize Domestic Violence Awareness Month (DVAM). During 2023, Tu Casa served 294 individuals and answered 578 crisis calls.

Tu Casa, Inc. encourages everyone to get involved and help raise awareness about domestic violence. We have seen the power each and every one of us have in making a difference by bringing awareness to domestic violence. The color purple has been nationally recognized as the symbolic color to show support for those who have experienced domestic violence and let them know that help is available for themselves and their families. Tu Casa, Inc. hopes to spread awareness this October by asking staff and the community to wear purple every Thursday in the month. We also encourage you to ask co-workers, friends, and family members to join Tu Casa, Inc. in this month's activities in order to start conversations about domestic violence.

Tu Casa, Inc. invites everyone to join us at the following events:

- The Purple Light Campaign: The Purple Light Campaign was created to promote domestic violence awareness and remind survivors there are supports all around them. Tu Casa will be handing out purple lightbulbs to community members to light their porches for the month of October and help ensure survivors in our valley know they are not alone. Call the office to figure out where/when to pick up a lightbulb!
- Lunch and Learn: On Oct. 17, from 12-1 p.m., in the San Luis Valley Behavioral Health Group large conference room, Tu Casa will be presenting on the history of Domestic Violence Awareness Month and request attendees help us let survivors in our valley know that Tu Casa is here to help, by painting rocks with supportive phrases/words for survivors, designs, and Tu Casa's hotline number. These rocks will be placed throughout the valley for survivors to find and utilize if they need. We'll also be decorating luminarias for our "Light Up the Night Event" at this Lunch & Learn as well!

- "Light up the Night": Our 4th Annual "Light up the Night" event will be held on Oct. 24, at 6:30 p.m. under the West pavilion in Cole Park, Alamosa. This event is free to attendees and works to honor victims, survivors, those who have passed, and anyone who has been affected by domestic violence. Refreshments will be served while you are provided with an opportunity to mingle and learn about resources within our community and at Tu Casa, Inc. We will start the ceremony at 6:30 p.m. with a warm welcoming introduction and guest speakers from our community and partners. We will take time to drop flowers in the river with a moment of silence and a performance by the ASU Samba Group in honor of the survivors in the San Luis Valley. The night's event will culminate with a candlelight vigil to light up the night and an opportunity for anyone who wants to share their stories or experience. Attendees are encouraged to take photos and participate in the activities.

Proclamations: Join Tu Casa, Inc. staff at the following meetings for the formal recognition of October as Domestic Violence Awareness Month (DVAM)!

- Mineral County Commissioner's Meeting on Oct. 2 at 10 a.m.
- Alamos City Council Meeting on Oct. 2 at 7 p.m.

Glyphosate treatment for Utah Lake phragmites infestation.

How a controversial poison saved Utah Lake

Ninety-five-thousand-acre Utah Lake is a major water source for the Great Salt Lake. If it dries up or sickens, so does the Great Salt Lake. Fifteen years ago, it was dying. But the controversial herbicide glyphosate saved it.

Virtually everything most Americans think they know about glyphosate—the active ingredient in products like Roundup—is wrong. That's because social media and ads by lawyers offering to sue Bayer (owner of Monsanto, glyphosate's original manufacturer) are rife with misinformation.

What most Americans don't know about glyphosate is that it's often the only option for saving native fish and wildlife from alien plants. When non-native infestations replace habitat, the animals don't go somewhere else. They die. That's why boots-on-the-ground environmental groups like The Nature Conservancy depend on glyphosate.

But fear of glyphosate has created big business for lawyers and a fundraising bonanza for some environmental outfits.

In 2015, with no original research, the International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC) — an appendage of the World Health Organization (WHO) — placed glyphosate on its speculative list of "probable carcinogens" along with "red meat" and "very hot beverages." It did so even though all scientific authorities that have done original research, including its parent WHO and the United States EPA, report no link to cancer.

Some studies that review existing research do report possible links to cancer. But the study subjects are farm workers who used large quantities of Roundup for years, frequently without protective gear. Roundup is applied by wildlife managers in relatively tiny amounts.

Still, based on IARC's speculation, there have been glyphosate bans or restrictions in 28 nations as well as municipalities and counties in 15

U.S. states. And Bayer has paid $11 billion to settle lawsuits brought by cancer victims blaming their illnesses on Roundup.

California responded to the IARC review by requiring that glyphosate products carry cancer warnings. But a federal judge struck it down, ruling it "inherently misleading ... when apparently all other regulatory and governmental bodies have found the opposite."

According to the international news agency Reuters, IARC "edited findings from a draft of its review of the weedkiller glyphosate that were at odds with its final conclusion."

And this from Dr. Lee Van Wychen, science director for the National and Regional Weed Science Societies: "IARC's review was such a crooked scam. I've never seen anything like it. IARC cherry-picked a couple studies and on top of that fudged the results... Now there are people on the conservation side who are afraid to use glyphosate."

Utah Lake's brackish water and extensive wetlands make it one of North America's most important staging areas for migratory water birds. The watershed also provides vital habitat for other birds, mammals, reptiles, amphibians, and fish, including the federally threatened June sucker.

Fifteen years ago, this biodiversity appeared doomed by an explosion of phragmites, a non-native, deep-rooted reed that spreads through wind-blown seeds and rhizomes. It grows out to four feet in water and all the way to the transitional zone of dry land. So thick was Utah Lake's infestation that wildlife couldn't move through it, and people couldn't access the lake. Phragmites created fire hazards, sucked vast amounts of water from the already diminished lake, and generated swarms of mosquitoes by blocking water flow.

Large infestations of phragmites can't be cut or bulldozed, leaving herbicide as the only option. Dead stalks are then crushed or burned to make new growth visible for retreatment.

Spraying with glyphosate formulations began in 2009. "Each year, managers would focus on a different area," reported the Utah Department of Agriculture and Food. Every area of the lake got three consecutive years of the spray and trample treatment.

Today, fish, wildlife, and human access have been largely restored. Glyphosate has eradicated 70 percent of the phragmites and future applications will kill most of what's left.

Revegetation started this spring. With help from local organizations, the Utah Lake Authority has planted 7,500 native seedlings. "Planting parties" of 400 volunteers will plant 10,000 more native plants by year's end.

"For the lake," said Luke Peterson, director of the Utah Lake Authority, "this is a turning point."

rich mining in the Summitville region. Once, the Summit Mining District, now known as Summitville, was a thriving community of prospectors and their families. The town site still remains today in sentinel ruins as a reminder of the past. The small township even had a school on site for children who lived at 13,000 feet with their miner parents.

Summitville is still acknowledged as one of the most profitable and mineral-rich sites in Colorado's San Juan Mining District. The town eventually died and became a superfund site that is monitored even today by the EPA and other assisting organizations to filter the water seeping off the mountainside which carries heavy metals and toxic materials such as cyanide.

Now, with the land exchange complete, efforts to protect the area are well underway. The first phase of the project is to seek funding to help secure the structures by fencing some of the less stable landmarks and to place warning signs in and around the area.

The project will break down into several phases with the first beginning in the spring of next year.

AS the preservation efforts move forward, the project will include signage highlighting the historical significance of the area, permanent fencing, marked trails and walkways as well as a potential visitor center housing some of the historical artifacts found in the area over the years.

Secretary of State Jena Griswold Announces Winner of 'I Voted' Digital Sticker Design Contest

CONTRIBUTED

DENVER — Colorado Secretary of State Jena Griswold announced Monday, Sept. 23, that Cosmo Bell, a ninth-grader at Fort Collins' Compass Community Collaborative School, is the winner of Colorado's 2024 "I Voted" Digital Sticker Design Contest.

"Congratulations to Cosmo for his amazing design," said Secretary Griswold. "I'm so glad that Coloradans enrolled in BallotTrax can see and celebrate Cosmo's wonderful artwork when they receive their digital 'I Voted' Sticker. My thanks to every Colorado high schooler who submitted a design for consideration."

"I'm so excited to have my artwork chosen," said Cosmo. "A family friend let me know about the competition and encouraged me to participate. I thought it would be fun, so I entered!"

Cosmo's design features rocks inspired by the Garden of the Gods in Colorado Springs and native plants from the arid regions of Colorado. In the right of the image, you can see Cosmo's artist signature: Harold.

"These are symbols that I thought someone could recognize as 'Colorado,'" said Cosmo. When asked what he thinks of when he hears the word "Democracy," Cosmo replied, "In essence: Collaboration. It means a bunch of people coming together and recognizing that we need this to succeed as a country, or that we think this is the right course of action. It's a collaboration between so many different people who all have an effect on how America will function."

The new digital sticker will be sent to voters enrolled in BallotTrax once their General Election mail ballot has been returned and counted. It will also be featured on the Secretary of State's website, social media channels, press releases, and as part of a digital effort to encourage people to vote across the state.

BallotTrax enables voters to receive notifications by phone, email, or text about the status of their mail ballot, from the time it is mailed to the voter, to when it is received, and when it is counted. Colorado voters can enroll themselves in BallotTrax by visiting www.GoVoteColorado.gov and clicking on "Sign up for BallotTrax."

As of September, nearly 2 million Colorado voters were enrolled in BallotTrax — over 50% of the active electorate.

Phone and Internet Discounts Available to CenturyLink Customers

The Colorado Public Utilities Commission designated CenturyLink as an Eligible Telecommunications Carrier within its service area for universal service purposes. CenturyLink's basic local service rates for residential voice lines are $34.00 per month and business services are $53.50 per month. Specific rates will be provided upon request.

CenturyLink participates in the Lifeline program, which makes residential telephone or qualifying broadband service more affordable to eligible low-income individuals and families. Eligible customers may qualify for Lifeline discounts of $5.25/month for voice or bundled voice service or $9.25/month for qualifying broadband or broadband bundles. Residents who live on federally recognized Tribal Lands may qualify for additional Tribal benefits if they participate in certain additional federal eligibility programs. The Lifeline discount is available for only one telephone or qualifying broadband service per household, which can be either a wireline or wireless service. Broadband speeds must be at least 25 Mbps download and 3 Mbps upload to qualify.

A household is defined as any individual or group of individuals who live together at the same address and share income and expenses. Services are not transferable, and only eligible consumers may enroll in these programs. Consumers who willfully make false statements to obtain these discounts can be punished by fine or imprisonment and can be barred from these programs.

If you live in a CenturyLink service area, visit <https://www.centurylink.com/aboutus/community/community-development/lifeline.html> for additional information about applying for these programs or call 1-800-201-4099 with questions.

Trust God and Do Good

One of the most life-changing things I've learned since I've been teaching the Word of God is that God is always right! No matter what I think, how I feel, or what my circumstances look like, His wisdom and His way of doing things are always the answers to my problems.

Psalm 37:3 contains some of the greatest instruction there is for having a great life. It says, "Trust (lean on, rely on, and be confident) in the Lord and do good; so shall you dwell in the land and feed surely on His faithfulness, and truly you shall be fed" (AMPC).

All of us go through difficult times and experience pain and disappointment. In John 16:33, the Lord even tells us that "in this world you will have trouble" (John 16:33 NIV). However, I believe Psalm 37:3 provides us with God's prescription for every problem we face: Trust God and do good.

God's Word is medicine that brings healing and restoration to our souls. Our doctor is Jesus, we are His patients, and we can take His medicine—"Trust God" and "Do good"—as much as we need to. And refills are endless!

But there are side effects. When you trust God, you will experience peace, joy, stability, confidence, and overall better health. When you do good, you'll have extreme happiness and rewards in heaven!

Trusting God also brings freedom. Many times, things happen that we simply don't understand. But that's okay—we don't have to figure everything out. We can trust God that He knows and will take care of everything.

Maybe someone has really hurt you, and what's happening doesn't seem fair at all. The Bible says that God will be your Vindicator (Psalm 135:14). As you place your trust in Him, you open the door for Him to work in your situation and deal with the people who have mistreated you.

Your faith and trust also allow God to take the wrong things that have happened and ultimately work out them out for your benefit (Romans 8:28). The Bible teaches us that it's not the things that happen to us that determine the quality of our lives—it's how we choose to respond to them that really makes all of the difference. And trusting God is the key to making right choices that bring us the life He has planned for us.

We can choose to trust God. The truth is, God is the only One we can completely trust to take care of us and do what's best for us at all times, in every situation.

Maybe you're thinking, Well, I trusted God, and He didn't take care of me. I understand how you feel, because I've gone through hard things and didn't get what I wanted, when I thought I should get it, in the way I thought it should come.

However, what I failed to understand was that doing what we want and getting our way all the time isn't what will make us happy. Being selfish and self-centered is actually a miserable way to live! God is faithful, and He promises to take care of us as we place our trust in Him. However, an important part of trusting Him is trusting in His will and timing.

It's good for us to tell God what we want, but we also need to realize that He is smarter than we are! I've learned to pray, "God, if what I want is not what You want for me, then please don't give it to me! I want to do Your will in this situation, and I'm trusting You to give me what You want for me."

That's why it's so important to study and meditate on God's Word. As we do, it renews our minds so we think the way He thinks. It also turns our will in God's direction so we want what He wants for us.

Remember, trust requires unanswered questions. It requires us to fully lean on God, believing and trusting that He has our best interest in mind. The Lord has asked me this many times, and I believe He is also asking you: "Do you trust Me?"

The second part of the prescription is just as important—do good. One of the most powerful things you can do when you're hurting is to reach out and help someone else. You not only sow seeds for your own breakthrough, but helping others releases tremendous joy. Nehemiah 8:10 says, "...the joy of the Lord is your strength" (NIV).

I know it's not always easy to trust God and do good. But it's the best option because it's the only thing that will really work. I know it works because I was a mess, and learning how to trust God and obey His Word has literally changed my life.

Life in God is a journey, and we partner with Him by putting our trust in Him (1 Corinthians 1:9). When we're dealing with a difficult situation, He may also show us something we need to do that will help solve our problem.

I want to encourage you to trust God completely in every area of your life. Remember that He is always on your side and He is fighting for you as you go through the challenges in your life. He loves you and has your best interest at heart at all times.

No matter what you need or what your circumstances are, you can live with peace, joy, stability, confidence, and overall better health if you will trust God and do good.

ASU encourages uSafeUS app to keep students safe

By ADAMS STATE UNIVERSITY

ALAMOSA — Adams State University is dedicated to the safety and well-being of all students, faculty, and staff. The campus community now has an award-winning uSafeUS app, to improve safety and reinforce consent and how to report sexual assault, relationship violence or stalking.

According to Heidi Schneider, Ph.D., inclusive excellence liaison, encourages students to download the app as the fall semester gets underway.

"uSafeUS helps us meet students where they are-on their phones- to communicate vital information about prevention and response. It supports our students throughout their time on campus in a safe, anonymous way, helping to ensure they have the resources they need, when they need them," she said.

The uSafeUS app is designed for colleges and universities as a platform for preventing and responding to sexual assault, dating violence, and stalking. uSafeUs provides interactive prevention features to help students leave risky or uncomfortable situations and to protect themselves or others when traveling alone. The research-informed, campus-customizable app provides help and guidance for victims or their supporters, with specially designed features.

uSafeUS was developed and enhanced using extensive input from more than 100 college administrators and 400 students. The uSafeUS prevention features include: Time to Leave lets students send themselves fake texts or calls, providing a reason to leave an uncomfortable social situation before it becomes dangerous; Expect Me lets students alert friends to follow them via GPS and to follow-up if they don't arrive when expected; Sound the Alarm triggers a loud alarm and flashing lights from a cell phone if a student feels threatened; Angel Drink provides a way for students to discreetly alert a bartender or server that help is needed.

The uSafeUS response features are based on more than 16 years of research into helping and supporting victims. Response features include Find Help provides fast access to medical help, public safety, counseling service, and more; Helpful Answers provides educational information in a question-and-answer format from the perspectives of victims, and their friends or supporters, including faculty and staff. ## Why you need dental insurance in retirement.

Many Americans are fortunate to have dental coverage for their entire working life, through employer-provided benefits. When those benefits end with retirement, paying dental bills out-of-pocket can come as a shock, leading people to put off or even go without care.

Simply put – without dental insurance, there may be an important gap in your healthcare coverage.

When you're comparing plans ... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▶ Look for coverage that helps pay for major services. Some plans may limit the number of procedures – or pay for preventive care only.</li> <li>▶ Look for coverage with no deductibles. Some plans may require you to pay hundreds out of pocket before benefits are paid.</li> <li>▶ Shop for coverage with no annual maximum on cash benefits. Some plans have annual maximums of $1,000.</li> </ul>	Medicare doesn't pay for dental care.' That's right. As good as Medicare is, it was never meant to cover everything. That means if you want protection, you need to purchase individual insurance.	Previous dental work can wear out. Even if you've had quality dental work in the past, you shouldn't take your dental health for granted. In fact, your odds of having a dental problem only go up as you age.<sup>2</sup>
	Early detection can prevent small problems from becoming expensive ones. The best way to prevent large dental bills is preventive care. The American Dental Association recommends checkups twice a year.	Treatment is expensive — especially the services people over 50 often need. Consider these national average costs of treatment ... $222 for a checkup ... $190 for a filling ... $1,213 for a crown.<sup>3</sup> Unexpected bills like this can be a real burden, especially if you're on a fixed income.

Wreaths Across America to remember Veterans

CONTRIBUTED

SAN LUIS VALLEY — Wreaths Across America, a non-profit organization, was formed as an extension of the Arlington Wreath Project. The Arlington Wreath program was started by Morrill Worcester in 1992 with the donation and laying of 5,000 Christmas wreaths to Arlington National Cemetery. This became an annual journey for Worcester.

It was relatively obscure until 2005 when a photo of the stones adorned with wreaths and covered in snow circulated around the internet. The project received National attention. Thousands of requests poured in from all over the country from people wanting to emulate the Arlington project at their National and State cemeteries, spurring the creation of "Wreaths Across America." Unable to donate thousands of wreaths to each state, Mr. Worcester conceived the idea of sending seven wreaths (one for each branch of the military as well as POW/MIA). In 2007 the Worcester family established the non-profit group Wreaths Across America to further promote Veterans remembrance. The mission Remember, Honor and Teach characterized the projects goals perfectly.

The wreath-laying will be held on December 14th, which Congress unanimously voted as "Wreaths Across America Day." Wreaths Across America would not be successful without the help of volunteers, many active organizations, and the generosity of the trucking industry.

The goal is to have enough wreaths sponsored so that every veteran's grave at the Homelake Veterans Cemetery will be honored.

If you want to sponsor a wreath, contact Pam Self at 719-825-8216 or 719-849-3154. The cost is $17 per wreath with all orders and money needed by Dec. 1. Please send your request and money to Pam Self, P.O. Box 97, Homelake, CO 81135. Wreath sponsorship for the Homelake Veterans Cemetery can also be completed online at www.wreathscrossamerica.com/

CO0031. The wreaths will be delivered to the Colorado Veterans Community Living Center at Homelake.

This year's ceremony will take place on Saturday, Dec. 14, at the Homelake

Veterans Cemetery at 3749 Sherman Ave., Monte Vista, at 10 a.m. The placement of wreaths will occur after the ceremony so volunteers who would like to help place the wreaths will gather after the ceremony.

Rio Grande County Museum to host cemetery tour with URGSD

By LYNDISIE FERRELL

DEL NORTE — The Rio Grande County Museum in partnership with the Upper Rio Grande School District and the Del Norte High School Theatre Group will be hosting a cemetery tour on Saturday, Oct. 12 from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Del Norte Cemetery to honor local Civil War Veterans.

This event offers a wonderful opportunity to step into the past and learn about he lives and accomplishments of some of the first settlers to come to the San Luis Valley after the Civil War and to honor those who served. Del Norte Theatre students will be reenacting some of the characters buried in the Del Norte Cemetery, opening a window into the past and bringing light to those in the present.

Several of the founding fathers of the San Luis Valley served in the Civil War and once the war was over, ventured to this area for a fresh start and a new way of life in the West. Thanks to the research conducted by both the Rio Grande County Museum and local historian Roselind Weaver, the event will be an educational experience for guests of all ages.

Guests are encouraged to come to the cemetery located at 1704 County Road 13, in Del Norte at 1 p.m. Most of the event will be held in the G.A.R. Block where a majority of Civil War Veterans are buried. Students will present characters to the attendees and then be encouraged to continue on their journey with a scavenger hunt that highlights other Civil War Veterans in the cemetery.

One of the many Veterans that will be highlighted during the event is Founding Father of Del Norte James Cary French. French was born Feb. 1, 1837, in Bangor, Maine. French entered the military during the Civil War, serving as captain in Company F, 2nd Kansas Cavalry. French died in Del Norte on Dec. 28, 1889, and was credited with naming Del Norte after traveling west in the 1870s.

Another character that will be highlighted is Henry Foote. Foote was born in New York in 1830 and served in the Civil War for the Union Army. Foote came to Del Norte in 1874 from Leavenworth, Kan., and was instrumental in erecting the Windsor Hotel in Del Norte which was originally called the Winslett Hotel. In 1880, Foote purchased the hot springs in what was later to become Pagosa Springs and was involved in the development of the town.

The event will feature many Civil War Veterans throughout the history of the Valley and will be open to anyone. Light refreshments will be provided. Prizes will be awarded to participants who complete the scavenger hunt by the Rio Grande County Museum.

For more information or questions, call the museum at 719-657-2847.

 Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:
 Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you have, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

tears. It's an overwhelming, exciting feeling."

A 10th-generation native of San Luis, Ortega was recently honored with inclusion in History Colorado's 2022 Return of the Corn Mothers. The award-winning traveling photographic exhibition and accompanying coffee-table book is based on the Pueblo myth of the Corn Mothers, said to have sung in the essence of creation. This collection of portraits and stories is about today's Corn Mothers, women who live, study, and work in the Southwest - Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, and northern Texas.

Ortega noted she donated a copy of the book to La Capilla de Todos los Santos (All Saints' Chapel) at San Luis' Stations of the Cross shrine. She and her husband, Antonio Garcia, consider the chapel to be the "crown jewel" of projects completed by their company, Passive Adobe Solar Construction, from which they retired in 2010.

Prior to working with her husband, Ortega spent 20 years in social work in the San Luis Valley, Trinidad, and Colorado Springs. She also taught remedial reading at Centennial High School in San Luis. A first-generation college student, Ortega recognizes the importance of Adams State serving the region. She appreciates the academic scholarship that allowed her to graduate debt-free with a double major in sociology/social work and Mexican/American studies with a minor in special education. Three of her seven siblings are also Adams State alumni: Daisy Ortega '75, John W. Ortega '78, and Anthony C. Ortega '77.

Her fondest college memory is the cutting ceremony, including MV Mayor Dale Becker, and MV City Manager GiGi Dennis.

O'Reilly's provided donuts and light drinks and gave out some O'Reilly Auto Parts caps.

Store Manager James said, "This is super surreal. I am excited that the community has another option to go to for parts. I look forward to serving the community and helping everybody out. We are all super excited to be here, and we hope that everyone is also excited to have us here."

James said that the store in Monte Vista had been planned through O'Reilly for about a year. He worked in the auto parts business for about 5 years before being named manager of the MV store.

"I started with AutoZone, and I heard that this store was opening and wanted to see if I could make the transition, to be the store manager here. They gave me the opportunity and I am so excited," he said.

When asked if there is anything that sets Monte Vista O'Reilly's Auto Parts store apart from others, James said, "This is a little bit bigger store than the one in Alamosa. We carry more of a variety of products here. I am excited about that, and hopefully we will have some agricultural parts here, on the shelf soon too; that way if the farmers need any bearings or off the wall parts, that typically Napa or the O'Reilly's in Alamosa, or AutoZone, don't typically stock, well we hope to take care of the farmers in that aspect, here in our store too."

Store employee Tony Ortega said that he thinks that people in the community will appreciate that they have another auto parts store locally.

"We want people to know we are here with the parts they need. We have been working hard to stock the store for the past couple of weeks. We are excited about serving the local community," Ortega said.

Resident Mary Gonzales attended the ribbon cutting and said that it would be easier to get parts with O'Reilly's in town.

"Hands down they are the best place to get parts, and now we don't have to travel to Alamosa for them, they are right here. What a great thing to add to our town," Gonzales said.

time she and three other students drove to Puebla, Mexico, to study Mexican history for a semester through an exchange program with Universidad de las Americas.

These experiences, among others, influenced her commitment to higher education and her work with Adams State's HSI Advisory Committee. "The Hispanic Serving Institution committee works to improve the educational experience for all Adams State students. I advocate for anybody who wants to earn a degree in higher education," she said.

Ortega explained the Alumni Association is now working with the Adams State Foundation to align alumni fundraising and friend raising activities with the university's strategic plan. The group is exploring the possibility of creating a mentoring program matching students with alumni.

"We need to start having conversations with students and new alumni to cultivate a philosophy of giving, not necessarily financial giving, but also through giving their time and talent," she said.

Ortega has volunteered for many local organizations including the Alamosa Republican Party, Sacred Heart Catholic Church, the Colorado Commission on Aging, the San Luis Valley Development Resources Group, SLV Health, and the Alamosa City Planning Committee. She also serves as an Alamosa County Sheriff's Office Victim Advocate.

RMMFI celebrates anniversary and graduates

Event held at Ruby Rose Bakery in Hooper

By MARIE MCCOLM

HOOPER — Approximately 40 people attended the Rocky Mountain Micro Finance Institute (RMMFI) ribbon cutting celebrating its anniversary and its area 14 graduates on Saturday, Sept. 21, at Ruby Rose Bakery in Hooper.

A mini-business bazaar was also held as part of the festivities with local vendors and graduated entrepreneurs, selling many different items, that were both homemade and from their local stores.

Free food was also served at the event, including pulled-pork sandwiches, coleslaw, macaroni and cheese, and a generous piece of peach pie with ice cream for dessert.

Daliah Torrez, who is a graduate and Digital Marketing Manager for the institute, was the hostess of the event. Everyone cheered and clapped for the graduates.

Torrez spoke about the institute and what they do for entrepreneurs.

“We just celebrated 16 years in business. We try to do these community events at least once a year in the Valley. We try to get all the entrepreneurs that have graduated from the program from the area together for this event, that’s why we held this here today. There have been a ton of entrepreneurs that have gone through the program already,” Torrez said.

Torrez explained that the institute gives entrepreneurs education on how to start a business, and all the aspects of running a business. There are also grants and loans available to graduates.

“This is a great program for anyone who is interested in starting a business, because we realize it can be hard,” she said.

Torrez explained that people who enroll and get involved with the program are paired up with mentors, including financial mentors and accountability mentors, to help ensure that everyone that’s going through the program is getting what they need from it.

“There are different phases to the program, there are some eligibility requirements involved in getting started. We do look at income and household size. Once it is deemed that you are eligible, you just move into the program from there," Torrez said.

Rocky Mountain Microfinance Institute or RMMFI according to its website is focused on helping individuals and communities that have been overlooked by traditional businesses and financial services. Torrez stated that the program does try to focus on people in rural areas too.

"The program takes you through many different aspects of business, including core, finance, marketing, business operations, and so much more. We do try to work with rural communities a lot. We want to see people succeed that are interested in creating their own businesses, that's what the institute is focused on and that's what it's all about."

Local RMMFI graduate Jennifer Graves attended the event and said it helped her open an art studio in Monte Vista.

"They have many individualized programs that help you with your specific area of business interest. It's a well-supported program that can take you from point A to point B and really teach you the ins and outs of running a business by yourself. I would recommend this to any entrepreneur looking at opening their own business, but not having all the information that they need to do so. The mentorship programs alone open your mind to so much and really help you in ways that support your individual dreams. I am very proud of the art studio that I have in Monte Vista, and I feel like RMMFI really helped me and opened a clear path to help me get there. I hope other entrepreneurs will consider enrolling. It is a fantastic program," Graves said.

Ruby Rose Bakery is at 11704 N Highway 17 in Hooper.

Residents surmount a 14,000-foot challenge

By JOHN WATERS

SAGUACHE COUNTY — Colorado is blessed with some of the most spectacular mountain scenery in the world. The local Sangre de Cristo Mountains constantly remind us of this gift that we experience and share with visitors from around the globe.

The mountains near Crestone have several 14,000-foot peaks that are challenging to climb and are considered world-class hikes and climbs.

Crestone resident Adam Kinney, a long-time admirer of the Sangre Range, embarked on an adventure on the weekend of September 7-8. Alongside Pete Van Horn, he conquered Challenger Point, a 14er that had long been on his bucket list.

Kinney is a business owner, member of the Crestone Board of Trustees, and Mayor Pro Tem. He said he and Van Horn are “lovers and appreciators of our natural surroundings here in Crestone.”

For over 20 years, Kinney has gazed at the peaks yet has never summited one. Finally, on Sept. 8, he summited his first 14,000-foot mountain, Challenger Point with Van Horn.

The ascent of Challenger starts at the Willow Lake Trail No. 865 trailhead at the end of Forest Road 949, about two miles from downtown Crestone.

Many people who climb Challenger and nearby Kit Carson hike the 4.5 miles up to a popular backpacking area near Willow Lake, which is at an elevation of 11,580. Most climbers spend a night at this base camp and make their final ascent early the following day. The hike to the lake is spectacular and affords people a riot of wildflower colors in summer and aspen in the fall. As of last weekend, the aspen are beginning to turn, and hikers will be treated to this in the next several weeks. The three-hour-plus hike to the lake is strenuous, with a gain in elevation of about 2,000 feet.

Above an elevation of about 11,500, the trees start to disappear, and the minute mountain plants of the Alpine tundra dot the landscape.

The gear required to make the ascent is minimal; Kinney said his pack weighed a light 28 pounds. “I was looking for the mix of having a lightweight pack and being comfortable sleeping.”

After spending a night under the stars at base camp, the following morning at first light, the duo began their ascent of Challenger, a climb of about an additional 3,000 vertical feet. The steep and arduous climb lasted about three hours.

Kinney shared his experience of summiting Challenger with the Valley Courier, and here are some of the highlights of that conversation.

Regarding being at the summit, Kinney said, “I couldn’t believe how calm and quiet it was. I was expecting extreme winds. We were drenched in sweat; I expected to be cold and wind-chilled. It was so calm and so quiet, serene.”

“I couldn’t comprehend how high up we would be; looking down on the [San Luis] Valley, we could see the Wet Mountain Valley to the east. It felt like being in an airplane, but we were perfectly still, calm, and on top of the world.”

“One of the most enjoyable aspects were the people on the summit. I was the least fit person on the mountain that day. There were a few people who had started at the trailhead and summited. They passed me on the way up; they had hiked an additional 4.7 miles or so and were going that much faster. We met many amazing people who were all equally encouraging; they saw me practically crawling up the mountain and would say, “Hey, you are crushing this, keep going, you are almost there.”

“On the summit, I could look over and see Kit Carson Mountain, see it in detail, and see how people get to it from Challenger. It was great to see them climbing from Challenger over to Kit Carson. [Many people summit both peaks on the same day.]

“Pete was fit and competent to do the hike, and his patience and graciousness were comforting and calming. He didn’t rush me at all. He told me this was a beautiful day; we had plenty of time, no rush. His being gracious was meaningful and helped me get up there. For me, it wasn’t easy to get oxygen and my out-of-shape 47-year-old body didn’t help. It has been twenty years since I got up to even 13,000 feet.

“I was surprised at how beautiful and wonderful it was to be up there.”

Kinney said he saw pikas, bighorn sheep, and deer on the expedition.

Kinney said that he experienced nausea and vertigo while making the last third of a mile, and that dissipated on the summit. “I would say the degree of awe of seeing the Valley from that perspective and feeling accomplished reinvigorated me. It even grounded me.

“The whole time I have lived here and looking up at these mountains, I’ve never been able to know the names of all the peaks that are so much a representation of Crestone. Once I’ve been to a place, I feel differently about it. Now I know which peak is which. This was really meaningful to me to be up there and know this is Challenger, Kit Carson, and those are the Crestone Needle. I have not been down on the T Road driving into Crestone, but I’m excited to look up and know I’ve been there.

“At different times in my life, I’ve been connected to prayer, and over the last ten years, I’ve been so invested in making a place for my family that I’ve drifted away from my connection to prayer. On the final 1,500 feet of elevation gain, it was so steep and so hard I started praying again. This was a different version of prayer than I’ve ever had access to, and it was a sweet opportunity to connect with the mountain, the Earth, and my mother, my birth mother. I really needed that. The level of the authenticity of my prayer was so different because of the physical challenge. I was the physical exertion was also a detox.

“When I came down, I was so exhausted, I could barely walk, and my wife of sixteen years said there was something different in my eyes — a light in my eyes.”

Regarding time in the mountains, Kinney said, “For so many of us, this is a way to treat the potential for depression or anxiety that many of us experience in our daily grind. I can’t believe how lucky we are to live here.”

of Wolf Creek Pass, about 10 miles west of South Fork and seven miles east of the Wolf Creek ski area. This safety project improves drainage near the tunnel's east entrance, reducing the potential for icy and hazardous conditions during the winter season.

"Over the past few winters, maintenance crews have noticed an increase in the amount of moisture on the road surface at this tunnel entrance. The new drainage system will divert water off of the travel lanes and reduce the frequency of icy or slick conditions," said Julie Constan, Regional Transportation Director.

The project will update the existing underdrain system that runs in the center of the eastbound travel lane with a larger, improved drainage system. Crews will install manholes at both ends of the tunnel to improve maintenance access. Additional work includes the replacement of several concrete panels and the installation of delineators near the drainage structures.

Traffic Impacts

- Beginning Sept. 23, work hours will range from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Traffic impacts will include:

- Through November, signage will guide traffic onto the tunnel bypass lanes 24 hours a day, 7 days a week
- Motorists can expect brief intermittent delays
- Speeds will be reduced to 25 mph through the work zone
- Traffic fines will be doubled in the work zone
- Motorists should slow down as they approach the work zone, drive with caution, allow extra space between vehicles and give themselves extra travel time forest business infrastructure necessary to carry out forest restoration work.

As an integral part of the broader landscape-scale Lagarita Hills Restoration Project in Colorado, the Saguache Spruce Stewardship Project will play a pivotal role in tackling the long-lasting effects of the spruce beetle epidemic that has devastated the region for more than a decade.

The Saguache Spruce Stewardship Project will enhance forest health and reduce fuel loading across approximately 3,411 acres on the Rio Grande National Forest, the majority of which have been severely impacted by the spruce beetle outbreak. The project will involve the harvesting of dead Engelmann spruce within the designated project area, promoting forest stand resiliency and age-class diversity.

"By removing standing and downed dead trees, we're not only reducing the risk of devastating wildfires but also improving wildlife habitat and protecting downstream watersheds," said Brian Russell, NWTF wildfire crisis coordinator for Region 2.

The forest products generated from this project will be directed to local sawmills and wood processing facilities, ensuring that the critical infrastructure for forest product utilization remains intact. This is essential for the long-term success of future forest restoration efforts in the region.

In addition to the Saguache Spruce Stewardship Project, NWTF Wildfire Crisis Strategy staff will collaborate with Forest Service Region 2 staff this fall to develop a regional strategy. This strategy will focus on addressing wildfire risks, retaining wood products processing infrastructure and expanding workforce capacity to carry out forest restoration work.

Fresquez spoke at the meeting, while holding two plaques that he handed to the two students.

“I wanted to come to this board meeting, to the town, and acknowledge a seventh-grade student and an eighth-grade student. Another kid was choking, now keep in mind, that I found out, that neither one of these kids knew how to perform the Heimlich maneuver or anything like that, but they knew how to react when the situation happened. They ultimately ended up saving a life. I want to present to Armando Ruybal and Aylya Garcia an award for saving someone’s life. They had no idea what to do, they never had any type of thing like this happen, but these young adults here reacted, and ultimately saved a life.”

Fresquez also announced that Saguache County Commissioner Lynne Thompson was present and wanted to present them with an award.

“On behalf of the Saguache County Board of Commissioners, we wanted to present you with a certificate of appreciation. The following awards are giving to Aylya Garcia and Armando Garcia.”

Thompson also relayed that the Colorado State Patrol Dispatch and the 911 Authority also thanked the children for what they did.

According to Superintendent Carrie Zimmerman, two students, Armando Ruybal and Aylya Garcia, noticed their classmate Arian Benitez, choking in the lunchroom of the school.

Ruybal and Garcia sprang into action and did what they could to help their fellow classmate spit up what he was choking on.

Garcia spoke about what happened and how she felt about helping her classmate.

“Arian was sitting with us, and he was eating his food, and we all got up to move with Armando to another table. Arian started walking and he started choking. He was jumping up and down while he was talking. I didn’t notice he was choking at first, then he went to the water fountain and tried drinking water. When I looked at him, he was turning purple, and I noticed the water kept coming out of his mouth, it wouldn’t go down his throat. One of my other friends told me to do something, and Armando came running from across the cafeteria and started hitting him on his back. I then grabbed him too; I didn’t know what to do but I started pushing on his stomach trying to help him. We just kept doing it until he started breathing and then the nurse came and took him,” Garcia said.

Garcia said that when Benitez returned from seeing the nurse, he thanked her and Armando for helping him.

Ruybal added, “I saw Arian struggling at first, but wasn’t sure he was choking on something, I thought maybe he was just coughing, but that’s when I saw him panicking. I started trying to help him, I tried to do some kind of maneuver to help him. Then it was me and Aylya trying to help him both, she came to try to help, and we just kept trying to help him back and forth and finally Aylya was able to get it out of him. It felt good to help him. He said thank you for everything, too.”

The two children were also thanked for saving the young man’s life by the residents and town trustees.
