TIS' THE SEASON.....

s summer appears further and further away in our rearview mirror, we embark upon another season at the Lake. For many of us boat owners, it's sadly the season to winterize our vessels and tuck them away until next spring. Fortunately, the memories of the past several months will help us endure. We know the upcoming seasons at the Lake are just as wonderful, and we are already seeing signs of that.

What's more beautiful than the fall colors that surround us in our little slice of paradise. Although somewhat short lived, the bright golds and reds of the leaves combined with the crisp, cool air has us longing for hot cider and campfires. It has us looking forward to other activities to keep us busy.

This issue of Lake Lifestyles magazine is packed full of ideas for the fall and winter season. Check out Judy Goppert's story on Warrensburg, a great day-trip destination that offers so much to see and do. Did you know the Lake area offers food tours? Read all about it in this issue. Vicki Wood's story about Winter Skin and Hair Tips will help prepare you for the impact of the upcoming cold weather. And for you die hards, John Neporadny explains why you don't have to store the fishing poles just because it's winter.

Let's get to the question on everyone's mind: is that beard real on our front cover Santa? It is, and he's the most convincing Santa Claus I have ever met. Kudos to our local Santa who braved the 80-degree weather on the strip for this photo shoot.

Speaking of Santa, the holidays are right around the corner and that means shopping. When searching for the right gift for those on your list, please don't forget to shop local. My story in this issue highlights some great ideas and locations for even the most difficult person on your list. The Lake area is home to so many wonderful shops and businesses, and unfortunately we only had room for some.

If holiday parties and festivities are on your list, let Lake Ride Pros do the driving. Check out the story about them in this issue.

From our Lake Lifestyles family to you and yours, we wish you a peaceful fall and magical holiday season. We hope it's filled with wonderful memories and time spent with those who mean the most to you.

Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to entertain and bring you information about life at the Lake. I am always open to your ideas and suggestions, so please feel free to reach out to me.

See you in 2025.

LAKE OF THE OZARKS FISHING: WARMING UP WITH WINTERTIME

either rain, sleet nor snow can keep some bass and crappie anglers away from Lake of the Ozarks in the dead of winter.

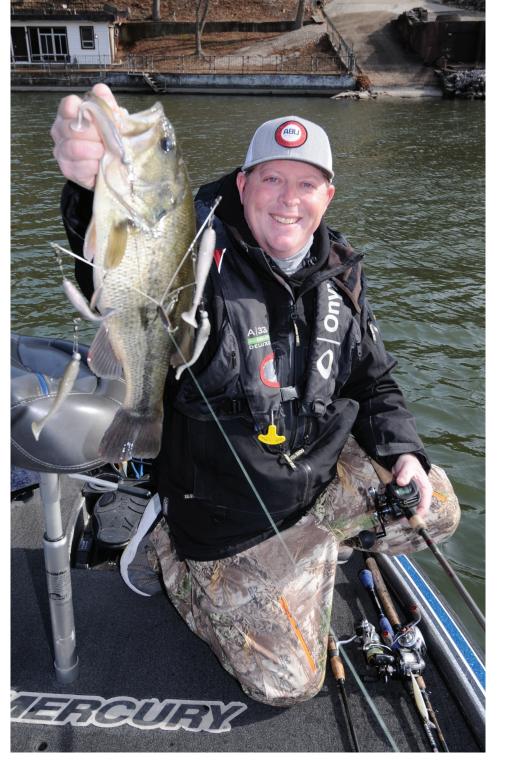

While fair-weather anglers cower in the warmth of their homes, others shrug off the cold because they know they can catch quality crappie and bass in the winter, in addition to having the best fishing spots to themselves. Two anglers who spend their winter days pursuing crappie and bass are guides Terry Blankenship and Jack Uxa.

Blankenship claims the Lake of the Ozarks is one of the best wintertime crappie lakes around. He catches these tasty panfish in all sorts of weather--including snowstorms—from November through February.

The crappie guide concentrates on brush piles and condominium docks where the fish are suspended 10 to 20 feet deep over depths of 30 to 60 feet. His favorite lures for wintertime crappie are a Bobby Garland Baby Shad and 3-inch Bobby Garland Slab Slay'R on 1/16-ounce jigheads and Bobby Garland Itty Bits on 1/32-ounce jigheads. For fishing in clear water, he prefers lures in the blue ice hue, but favors orange or chartreuse colors for dingier water.

Fishing a jig in cold water requires a slow retrieve. "Just holding a jig stationary sometimes provokes a strike," Blankenship explained. Since the fish are reluctant to chase anything in cold water, Blankenship keeps a close vigil on his electronics to present the lure vertically in front of the crappie throughout his retrieve.

Guide Terry Blankenship catches wintertime crappie with a slow jig retrieve.

The guide also tries to imitate the action of a dying shad darting and fluttering on its side. "I'll use that motion when I'm jigging to try to simulate what the shad are doing," he said.

The key to success for wintertime bass fishing is finding schools of bass, according to Jack Uxa. A suspending jerkbait is one of Uxa's favorite lures for catching wintertime schooling bass. "A jerkbait is great for catching a variety of sizes of bass and is good in a lot of different conditions," Uxa says. "It is a great bait for mimicking baitfish. It can be twitched for making plenty of flash and can be paused." Uxa's favorite suspending stickbaits for wintertime bass are the 4 1/2-inch Berkley Stunna and the Tackle HD Fiddle-Styx. He favors white jerkbaits for cloudy days and flashy chrome colors on sunny days.

The Missouri angler varies his retrieves depending on the day's conditions. "There are times when I am working a jerkbait fairly fast, and there are other times I am dead sticking it," he says. His standard retrieve is a series of two rod jerks, followed by a short pause and then three jerks and a pause.

Uxa also favors an Alabama rig for wintertime bass because he can cover more water with it , and it usually produces bigger fish than the jerkbait.

Alabama rigs equipped with lots of spinner blades such as the Yum Yumbrella Flash Mob are Uxa's top pick for most wintertime situations. He will, however, switch to umbrella rigs without spinners on calm, sunny days. He adorns the rig with 3.5 or 4-inch Tackle HD swimmer swimbaits (white, Tennessee shad or gray ghost hues) attached to 1/8 or 3/16-ounce jigheads. A slow, steady retrieve produces best for Uxa most of the time in the winter.

The tournament veteran also opts for jigs to pitch behind docks on steep banks where he can stair-step the lure down any ledges. Uxa chooses a 3/8 or 1/2-ounce jig in peanut butter and jelly, brown, or black-and-blue colors for his wintertime fishing. His favorite jig trailers for winter bass are green pumpkin Berkley Chigger Craws or Chompers Possum Tails.

Crawling the jig along the bottom is Uxa's standard wintertime retrieve, although he will occasionally twitch the bait and pause it when fishing around cover. A Ned rig is ideal for wintertime bass fishing during the bright bluebird skies of a cold front.

Uxa's Ned rig consists of a 1/8-ounce jighead with a Crock-O-Gator Shortie, a 3.5-inch worm with a floating bulbous tail. Uxa favors a floating worm because it makes the Ned rig stand up better when dragged along the bottom. His color choices for the worm include green pumpkin, black/blue, watermelon red and brown with some blue tint. The Ned rig produces best for Uxa when he lets it sink to the bottom and slowly reels it along the lake's floor.

A crankbait is most successful for Uxa during early and late winter when the water temperature ranges from 45 to 50 degrees. His favorite wintertime crankbaits are the number 5 Berkley Fritts Side and the Tackle HD Crankhead in brown and red hues. He makes sure he employs mostly a slower retrieve for wintertime cranking.

Brainerd, Minnesota AN IDEAL LOCATION FOR

VACATIONERS AND GOLERS ALIKE

Story by PAUL LEAHY

enturies ago Midwesterners from as far away as St. Louis and Kansas City traveled 130 miles north of Minneapolis to escape the summer heat. With little air conditioning available anywhere, families would head to northern Minnesota for relief, boating, fishing, and hiking. Now they come for the fantastic golf. The Brainerd Lakes region is now considered one of the finest vacation destinations in the Upper Midwest.

More than 450 holes are located in the area with name course designers such as Robert Trent Jones Jr., Arnold Palmer, and Dye designs among the great layouts you can find here. Many courses have been nationally recognized by such publications as Golf Digest, Golfweek, and Golf publications.

Maddens on Gull Lake is a classic Minnesota Resort. You can choose from five different lodging accommodations, 63 holes of golf, a wake surf and water ski school, tennis and croquet, an inflatable outdoor waterpark, trapshooting and archery, axe throwing, marina rentals, hiking and biking, fishing, beaches, swimming pools, and more. Visitors can enjoy seven food and beverage operations around the property as they enjoy their golf package.

The gem of the courses at Maddens is called The Classic. Playing at 7,100 yards from the back tees, the rolling Minnesota hills make a perfect backdrop for this Golf Digest 5 star rated course. Since 1997, the Classic has been a must play for locals as well as visitors. Traditional walking caddies or fore caddies will accompany all golfers teeing off prior to 10am from June 1 until August 31.

The other courses at Maddens are the 18-hole Pine Beach East and West layouts and the Social 9, a nine-hole short walking course. The East course was designed in 1926 by Scotsman James Dalgeish. All the traditional charms of the original design remain and it is home to Minnesota's only Par 6, the 618 yard sixth hole. The West course was built in the 1960's and is the ideal place to perfect your game. Featuring seven three- pars, two five- pars, and the remaining four- pars, this par 67 course can be enjoyed in less than four hours. Their team of professionals is confident you will enjoy your round and the challenge as they offer a complete refund for a round that breaks par!

Cragun's Resort, Golf and Conference is another beautiful place to stay and play. Offering more affordable choices than any other Minnesota resort, you can select a lakeside cabin or lodge room with a balcony. One bedroom suites, ten bedroom suites, and everything in between is available. Visitors enjoy water sports, tennis and pickle ball, foot golf, biking, fishing, boating, Gull Lake cruises, beaches, and more.

Cragun's Resort also offers 36 championship golf holes, a short course, and another nine holes that will be added to the Dutch Course in 2025. The Dutch 18-hole course and the Lehman 18 have been recently renovated by PGA Tour legend Tom Lehman at a cost of $15 million. Designed by Minnesota native Lehman, his signature design, the "Lehman 18", is a challenging par 72, 7400-yard picturesque experience. It weaves through a wooded sanctuary and wraps around Stephens Lake. The Dutch 18 course is another Lehman design and will expand to 27 holes in 2025. Its par 70 layout recently hosted the CRMC Championship, a PGA Tour Americas event, and got rave reviews. The resort also has a par 3 course that is perfect for families, groups, and novice players alike. It was designed by Robert Trent Jones Jr and was inspired by St. Andrews in Scotland.

Arnold Palmer honored his father "Deek" as he designed Deacon's Lodge at the Breezy Point Resort. The 7,000 yard, par 72 masterpiece flows across 500 acres of forest, wetlands, and lakes. Bentgrass greens, tees and fairways make for impeccable conditions at one of the best courses in Minnesota. The resort has offered golf since 1920 with their 18-hole par 68 course, The Traditional.

Breezy Point Resort has two other gems that you can play as well. The Traditional 18hole course is a par 68 layout which rewards accuracy over power, and is considered by the locals as a "shot maker's" course. The Whitebirch course was the first championship course in Brainerd Lakes. The par 72 layout is considered by many the best value of any of the championship layouts in the area.

These are just a few of the golf courses you will find in the area. Pick one or pick several, you won't be disappointed. You can find out more about the area by visiting www.brainerd.com.

Brainerd has so much to offer besides golf but it has certainly turned out to be one of the best kept secrets in the upper Midwest. Oh, did I mention the Walleye fishing, it's some of the best in the country so pack your pole or rent one from one of the many marinas that dot the area. Brainerd has come a long way from just being that respite from the oppressive heat centuries ago. It has grown and expanded into a great summer and winter family destination.

Maddens on Gull Lake is a classic Minnesota Resort, offering a variety of accommodations and activities.

PGA OF AMERICA AND THE PGA TOUR: What's the Difference?

Story by PAUL LEAHY

n the last several years there has been more confusion than ever about the PGA of America, the PGA Tour, the PGA and now the LIV Tour. Most non-golfers are confused, and even informed media and experienced golfers often confuse the entities and what their roles are in the golf industry. Let's take a deep dive into what makes these organizations different and how they are the same.

Let's look at the PGA of America and the PGA Tour. The PGA of America was founded in 1916, and until 1968 encompassed both club professionals and tournament players. As money in tournament golf grew over the decades, the professionals that were good enough began specializing in tournament golf only. Their specific needs did not align with the duties and responsibilities of the traditional club professional and the mission of the PGA of America. Beginning in 1968 the PGA of America created a Tournament Players Division to address the needs of their touring professionals. Then, in 1975, the Tournament Players Division officially became the PGA Tour and completely broke away from the PGA of America and created their own organization.Both organizations use PGA in their name because of the long history of being one organization of golf professionals under the PGA umbrella.

The main purpose of the PGA Tour is co-sanctioning tournaments on the PGA Tour, PGA Tour Champions, Korn Ferry Tour and PGA Tour Americas, and administers PGA Tour Q-School presented by Korn Ferry and PGA Tour University. The mission of the Tour is to showcase golf's greatest players. They drive to engage, inspire, and positively impact fans, partners, and communities worldwide. The Players Championship contested at TPC Sawgrass and the Tour Championship which culminates the Fed Ex Cup Playoffs are the signature events the PGA Tour sponsors. The four major championships for the PGA Tour players and the world's elite players are hosted and administered by other golf entities, but PGA Tour members are well represented in the fields.

The Masters Tournament is conducted by the club membership at the Augusta National Golf Club in Augusta, Georgia. The United States Open Championship is conducted by the United States Golf Association, which is the preeminent amateur golf association in the country. The PGA Championship is conducted by the PGA of America and its membership, and the Open Championship is conducted by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews.

In contrast, the PGA of America represents nearly 28,000 PGA of America professionals who work, teach, and administer the game at public, private, municipal, and off course facilities across the United States. The PGA of America mission has been to establish and elevate the standards of the profession and grow interest and participation in the game of golf. This is accomplished by promoting the enjoyment and involvement in golf among the general public, as well as to contribute to the sport's growth by providing services to golf professionals and the industry. Today's PGA of America Professionals undergo rigorous training, certification, and more than 600 hours of education. They have the knowledge of the changing dynamics of the industry to continue to grow the game of golf.

Since 1916, the PGA of America has organized and conducted tournament golf at the highest level. The PGA of America conducts the following major events: The PGA Championship, Ryder Cup, Senior PGA Championship, and Women's PGA Championship. They also conduct over 30 tournaments for its 28,000 plus rank and file PGA Professionals that manage and run the facilities you frequent each day.

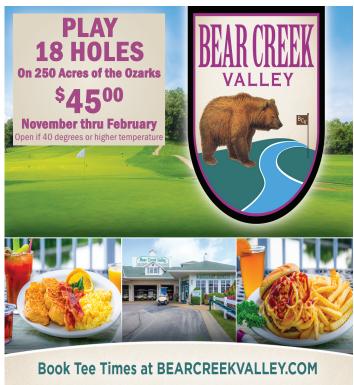

The PGA of America is divided into 41 geographical sections throughout the United States. Each section and its member professionals work tirelessly to promote its professionals and the game of golf through the following endeavors: Junior Golf, PGA Junior League, PGA Hope, PGA Works, PGA Places to Play, PGA Drive, Pitch and Putt, PGA Team Golf, PGA Family Golf, PGA Camps, PGA Coach, PGA National High School Golf Association, and the PGA National Collegiate Club Golf Association. To learn more about the PGA of America and how they promote the game of golf visit www.pga.com.

In the last few years another entity has emerged in the world of golf in the form of a new professional golf league/ tour called LIV Golf. The LIV Golf League mission is to build on and complement the existing format of professional golf, and take it to new levels of excitement and engagement with generations of fans. The format is 54-hole events as compared to 72 hole traditional PGA Tour events, and they use a staggered start or shotgun format instead of tee times. Forty eight players are grouped into 12 four-person teams headed by a captain to bring in a team concept as well as individual play into its format. There have been talks between the PGA Tour and LIV to come to an agreement to merge their respective organizations, but at this time nothing has been decided. It will be an interesting next few tears in the world of golf as these two entities compete for the best players in the world to join their ranks.

I hope that clears up the confusion between the organizations. Just remember that person at your local club running your event, teaching you how to play, running your child's Junior League or junior camp, picking the driving range, cleaning your clubs, speaking at your local chamber or school, volunteering at your local charity and promoting their facility for all to enjoy is a PGA of America Professional and not a PGA tour or LIV player.

Now get out there and enjoy the beauty of the course and thank your PGA Professional for all they do to bring enjoyment to you and so many others that LOVE THIS GAME!

THE IMPRESSIVE, FAST, CATCH YOUR EYE BOATS AT THE LAKE

f you've boated the Lake on any given summer weekend, you've seem and often heard them. The vessels that many refer to as the "go fast" boats that are guaranteed to catch your attention. The colorful boats with the cool paint jobs that seem to glide over the water. Many of us check them out when parked at various establishments on the Lake, but we really don't know much about them.

Story by DOUG BECK

BIG THUNDER MARINE - LAKE OZARK

Jeremy Anderson is the General Manager of Big Thunder Marine. Prior to coming to the Lake, the smaller boat world in Wisconsin was where he spent his time. He joined Big Thunder is 2016 and learned how to properly drive a high-performance cigarette boat to ensure a smooth ride in rough water. He also learned to drive the twin-engine boat with the throttles. Today, he's passing that knowledge onto other prospective boat owners. The powerboat world is moving to center consoles and has been for some time. This has been the focus of Big Thunder for many years now.

Cigarette, a recognizable brand at the Lake, are designed for a variety of uses that include racing, cruising, and even fishing PHOTOS SUBMITTED

Big Thunder carries several lines of high-performance boats, including Fountain. The Fountain center console has somewhat originated from what power boat center consoles always were. Reggie Fountain had been manufacturing center console boats for fishing enthusiasts long before. His Fountain Powerboats factory in Beaufort County, North Carolina produces worldclass offshore boats. Fountain boats are the smoothest, driest, fastest boats on the water. To some, fast means speed. To others, it means efficiency. At the Lake, it also means a striking paint job, lots of seating, a quality sound system, and so much more. Sizes range from 32 to 43 feet.

Donzi, another make that handles extremely well, is also offered at Big Thunder. Donzi has recently come out with a 39-foot center console, high performance boat that has earned great reviews in addition to their 34 footer. A unique feature of Donzi is a vented top that doesn't hold water like many other center consoles do. Not quite as fast as Fountain, Donzi has a nice finish, looks great, and handles the water really well.

Big Thunder also carries Glasstream, which is a great entry level boat for someone looking to get into a 32 or 38-foot center console at a reasonable price. Glasstream does an impressive job with their interiors and look great on the water. Glasstream center console vessels range in size from 28 to 38 feet.

Anderson said there's not only size that's preferred among those looking to purchase a center console. For that reason, they offer many different brands that offer different models and sizes. What buyers purchase depends on their comfort level, their dock size, and what boat they're coming from. "Big Thunder can match you up with the boat that's right for you and not just the one we have," Anderson said. "We've done that across the board here at Big Thunder for many years, believing that we can get you into the boat that's right for you and not the one that's right for us to sell you."

Speed is often a question when it comes to these boats, and it's not unusual to boat the main channel on a Saturday at 50 to 55 miles per-hour. The boats Big Thunder carries address more than top speed, it's how they handle the Saturday chop. Captains can boat the Lake on a Saturday at 55 miles per-hour, without their passengers asking them to slow down. Suited for the Lake, these boats run smooth and handle the rough water. For most, a boat of this type isn't the first boat they've owned. A mid-level boat of this nature can range from $200,000 to over two-million dollars. The sky is the limit in choices and options. They can be customized in terms of paint, motors, sound systems, and more. With customization added in, Big Thunder high performance boats end up costing somewhere in the $600,000 to $900,000 price range.

Big Thunder is proud of their product, but what's equally important is their behind the scenes service. "I believe we have more technicians than anybody else at the Lake," Anderson said. "We have multiple service facilities, and we're on the water every day, all summer, making sure our customers are out on the water. We provide a concierge level experience."

They are opening a brand new fiberglass and paint shop at the Glencoe facility, allowing them not only fix the engine and mechanical concerns, but custom paint. "We have guys who are amazingly talented artists that can paint on carbon fiber, and can also fix it," Anderson said. "We have a lot of services we've brought in house. We do our own canvas in house, vinyl, and interiors." A full-service operation, Big Thunder not only helps you make the right purchase for you, they help get it titled, Coast Guard registered, and insured at the time of purchase.

PERFORMANCE BOAT CENTER - OSAGE BEACH

Brett Manire, co-owner and general manager at Performance Boat Center, has a deep background with high performance boats. He started as the operator and manager of a Baha boat dealership in Bellevue, Nebraska. In early 2000, he moved to the Lake area and joined the staff of Performance Boat Center, and became co-owner with Mark Waddington.

Performance Boat Center is known for carrying quality, high performance boats that have a strong history in the performance boating world. This includes Marine Technology (MTI), SunStation, Performance PowerBoats, Pricecraft, and South Bay. Boats range in size from 25 to 48 feet, and carry price tags from $60,000 to $1.4 million. Prices depend on the features, color schemes, amount of power, and other customized requests.

What attracts buyers to Performance Boat Center boats is the fact that they can handle all types of water conditions, offering a smooth and comfortable ride even when traveling dam to dam. Because of the motor sizes and speed capabilities, buyers attend specialized boater operator education and training with Tres Martin. Martin is a world-class high-performance instructor for high-speed boats.

What Performance Boat Center feels truly sets them apart from others is "building lasting relationships with our partners and employees, while serving the recreational and travel community. Our core values are based on honesty and integrity and service to the community."

BLACK THUNDER POWERBOATS INC -HANNIBAL

Don Jenkins founded Black Thunder in the 1960's, and his first line of boats were Beechcraft. In 1987, he founded Black Thunder Powerboats. The company made a name for itself by producing some of the largest and fastest offshore powerboats of their time. Known for their luxurious amenities, high speeds, and ability to handle big water, Black Thunder became an icon of the high-performance power boating lifestyle.

Today, Black Thunder Offshore continues its legacy under new management. With their new builds underway at their retooled headquarters in Hannibal, Missouri, they are combining decades of experience and craftsmanship with today's latest marine technologies to take the Black Thunder brand to new heights. Exciting new things coming include bold, new graphics and new hull designs. John York is the sales manager for Black Thunder Offshore. York came to the Lake in the late 1970's, and owned several cruises in the past. At one point he saw a Black Thunder drive by, and said that was the boat he wanted one day. This launched York into the high-performance boat industry.

Years ago, York helped facilitate the sale of the assets of Black Thunder to Tim Dorn and his wife Kristen. They started a new company called Big Thunder Offshore. Taking the molds from Black Thunder, they started producing some of the original Black Thunder boats that are now updated. They are in the process of moving to a new plant that's being constructed at Lake of the Ozarks, and will be introducing a new model line within Black Thunder Offshore. The new plant is expected to be completed within the next 24 months.

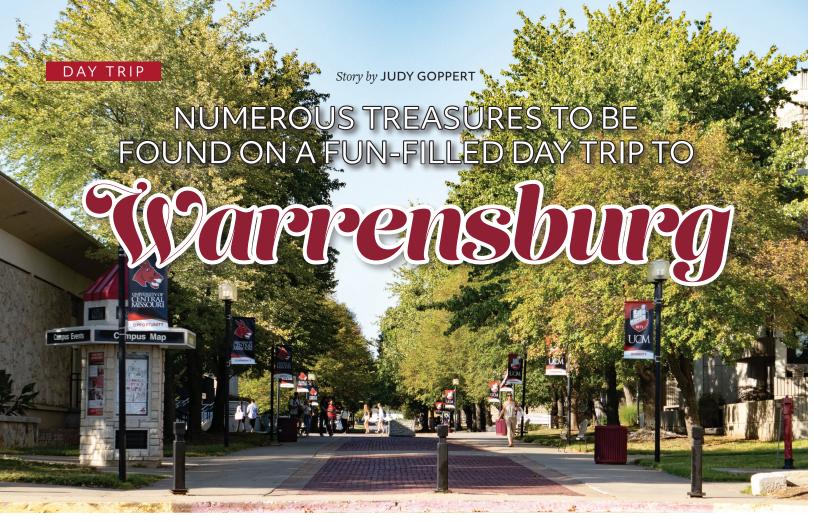

Known for their comfortable ride in an ocean setting, Black Thunder Offshore boats are available in 43 and 46 footers. They offer a spacious six-feet, ten-inches of headroom below deck. What sets them apart from others is their size, durability of construction, and quality of the ride.

Often races, there is one that attends the shootout events at the Lake. Dennis Parvie's Black Thunder runs at 165 miles perhour. When he debuted the first Black Thunder at the Chicago Boat Show, he was trying to fit into the market that appealed to both the husband and wife. Amenities for the wife, yet power, sound and a smooth ride for the husband. For his purchase, he came across a popular design that appeal to both.

Black Thunder dominated the Lake of the Ozarks in the 80's, 90's, and early 2000. Many were designed to sleep on, and proved to be self sufficient. Owners don't need special training, but Black Thunder Offshore will give them as much one on one training necessary to help operators feel comfortable. The average cost of a Black Thunder ranges from $600,000 to $2 million new.

Black Thunder offshore boats are known for their smooth ride and quality construction.

Warrensburg is home to The University of Central Missouri. Founded in 1871, it is one of the oldest universities in the State of Missouri.

he historic town of Warrensburg offers a little something for everyone. From outdoor activities, events, restaurants, shops and sports, a day trip to this locale will not disappoint. Here are some great ways to spend time in this city that's not far from the Lake.

The holiday season kicks off on Friday, December 6, at 6 p.m. with a lighted parade. On Saturday, December 7, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. the festivities continue with A Dickens' Christmas downtown Warrensburg. Be amazed as the downtown area transforms back to the 1840s when Charles Dickens "A Christmas Carol" was published. You'll see carolers fill the streets and artisans and makers fill the windows as you travel back in time for Christmas fun.

"Father Christmas arrives at the Warrensburg Train station on the Amtrak train and poses for pictures on December 7 at approximately 9:57 a.m.," noted Marcy Barnhart, Tourism director for the Warrensburg Convention and Visitors Bureau. "Visit the Warrensburg Main Street website for more information. And also visit warrensburg.com for more events."

Christmas on the Farm is held at Twin Oaks Event Center each Saturday in November.

"Just seven miles from Warrensburg is Knob Noster State Park which offers hiking, biking, picnic areas, and more. They also rent kayaks seasonally. This park is several thousand acres, so visitors have a great opportunity to experience nature. They do a great job maintaining that park," Barnhart explained.

Barnhart stressed that Warrensburg's downtown is both gorgeous and historic. The Magnolia Mercantile has a new business, Magnolia Market, offering ice cream and other goodies. Marmee's is a women's clothing boutique that is size inclusive so everyone can find something unique. Bordman's is a bistro featuring goat milk products such as cheese, ice cream, and soaps. They also offer fantastic daily lunch specials.

The lighted parade takes place on Friday, December 6 at 6 p.m. This events kicks off the holiday season for Warrensburg.

"You could park on the square and by the time you hit all the shops, you'll have spent the day. We have a really cool children's bookstore, Gunzil & Bowser, which is operated by a former teacher. It's an experience. Different books from all different genres are on display," she shared.

Step into Retrograde Charitable Toy and Video Game Museum in Warrensburg and prepare for an exhilarating journey back in time, where nostalgia and fun collide. This isn't just a museum, it's a time capsule that catapults you into the thrilling days of your childhood. Imagine walking through aisles filled with classic toys that once brought you endless joy, including Transformers, G.I. Joes, Barbies, and Hot Wheels. The museum's dazzling pop culture collection showcases memorabilia from the golden eras of TV and movies. Amid these treasures you'll also find heart-pounding excitement of an old-school arcade, buzzing with the retro charms of Pac-Man, Donkey Kong, and Space Invaders.

"The best part about this museum is that it operates charitably, using its enchanting displays and interactive experiences to foster a sense of unity and support for local causes," noted Brian Chamberlin, President. "So you can relive your childhood while contributing to a legacy of giving and community spirit. Come for the memories, stay for the incredible journey through time, and leave knowing you have been part of something truly special."

to behold. They offer great steaks and seafood, with a full menu. The environment is enchanting, and there's a full-service bar. Their desserts will tempt your palate for sure.

Heroes Restaurant and Pub has been voted best burger for several years. They opened in 1981 and have become a staple for all with hand dipped onion rings, fries, and a fantastic burger. When you visit, be sure to try the Unknown Hero drink. Fans agree, it is a really good drink.

Mary Jane's Café is another local favorite. Brandy Wormsley explained, "We opened in September of 2000. We're a family-owned business supported by an amazing team. We're most known for breakfast and homestyle meals. We're very blessed to be in our 24th year of business and we hope to continue to serve our community for many more years. Our mission here is to support the growth and success of our community in any way we can."

Mary Jane's Cafe' is a local favorite, known for their delicious breakfast items and homestyle meals.

The Keith Memorial Golf Course at Mules National Golf Club is owned by the University of Central Missouri and serves as the home for UCM's Mules and Jennies golf teams.

"The wonderful small-town charm of Warrensburg offers Missouri day trippers virtually everything that would entice them to make The 'Burg their next destination," stated Terri Smith and Lee Rhoades, owners of Magnolia Mercantile. "One of the highlights of that experience would be Magnolia Mercantile. Recently awarded the Best Historic Preservation Project for the entire state of Missouri in 2024, the Mercantile is now a wonderful blend of history, upscale shopping and entertainment. A whiskey and wine bar with roots in the 1800s, a collection of local artists and craftsmen, a Pendelton clothing store, a speakeasy lounge with weekly live music, an outdoor cigar lounge, and a general store with bulk candy and craft sodas all make Magnolia Mercantile a must see."

Old Barney's has been a Warrensburg tradition since 1941. Located in the old courthouse square downtown, it has been a favorite place for locals and visitors alike for many years. With its relaxing atmosphere and great food, this little gem is a must visit location if you are in the mood for a quick bite or just want to relax and enjoy some sports with good company.

Their menu boasts some fantastic appetizers from Tater Kegs to Spicy Jalapeno Corn Nuggets, delicious sandwiches like The Barnyard, and tasty dinner items that even grandma would envy.

Their website related, "Our servers are friendly and professional, our kitchen is ready to prepare any item exactly the way you'd like it, our atmosphere is quaint and homey, and once you visit us, you'll discover for yourself why Old Barney's has been a local favorite for so many years."

The University of Central Missouri offers a rich heritage. Founded in 1871, UCM is one of the oldest universities in the state. It opened its doors with only 30 students and is now home to more than 10,500 students who represent 47 states and 36 countries. With "Education for Service" as its motto, UCM has a rich history of providing unparalleled student support, exceptional academic programs, and valuable learning opportunities that helped students achieve success through affordable access to a high-quality education for the past 150 years.

As it did in the early 20th century when the university offered unique courses such as Household Management, Typewriting, and Carpentry and House Building, UCM continues to offer more than 150 unique academic programs. From aviation and cybersecurity to education and nursing, students can easily find their own niche and succeed.

If you are a golfer, swing by any of the golf courses in Warrensburg. The 18-hole, par-72 course at Royal Oaks presents a challenging experience for those looking to improve their game.

Keith Memorial Golf Course at Mules National Golf Club is a full-service, 18hole public golf course. The facility is owned by the University of Central Missouri and serves as the home of UCM's Mules and Jennies golf teams. It also features Traditions Restaurant and bar overlooking the course.

Sandstone Country Club is an 18-hole course that was established in 1933 with an open front 9 and a tight/challenging back 9. They offer Bermuda fairways and Bent grass greens for balls that sit up nicely in the fairway and roll smooth and true on the green. A full-service course, they offer two simulator bays and Finn Scooters for rent, as well as updated club car golf carts.

If you are looking for an outdoor getaway, fun, and excellent cuisine, Warrensburg is the place for you.

Warrensburg is a two-hour drive from Osage Beach, making it an easily accessible day trip.

FOOD TOUR

EXPAND YOUR MIND AND ENTICE YOUR TASTEBUDS AT THE LAKE

othing puts an exclamation point on your Lake experience like the flavors found along the historic Bagnell Dam Strip. New chefs and experienced iconic restaurants invite you to taste, learn, and enjoy all there is to sample. This is where Parrie Bayles, the idea and woman behind Lake Ozark Food Tours, comes in. She certainly has the chops to back up her business.

"I am the Family & Consumer Science Culinary Arts teacher at School of the Osage High School," Bayles shared. "I've been teaching kids to cook for 28 years. In my ProStart Culinary classes, we compete in the state competition for cooking. We won first place last year, and went to Washington, D.C. to represent Missouri at the National Championship. Through the years of preparing for this competition, I have been able to get to know lots of the amazing chefs around the Lake area. I am so appreciative to them for helping my students and imparting their knowledge. Knowing the chefs has helped me to get the tour off the ground."

The nugget for the idea happened when she and her two daughters took a vacation to Charleston, South Carolina. They went on a food tour there at the beginning of their trip. Bayles explained, "It was wonderful because for the rest of our stay, we knew which restaurants we wanted to return to. The entire time I thought this concept would be great at the Lake. Last summer, I started giving tours of the strip and here we are."

Bayles has lived at the Lake for 24 years and finds the history of the strip fascinating. For that reason, the food tour is paired with a historical tour as well. As participants walk around the strip, she lets everyone know what used to be in that location, making mention of fun facts about the strip along the way. Tuckers Shuckers Oysters & Tap is one of the tasty stops along the food tour.

The tour leads you through a carefully curated selection of eateries, from charming local joints to award-winning restaurants, ensuring you savor the best flavors the Lake of the Ozarks has to offer. Whether you're a BBQ enthusiast, a seafood lover, or have a penchant for indulgent desserts, Bayles has a food tour tailored to your personal preferences. This means while you feast, you'll learn unique stories about the area's past, its' charming locals, and the natural wonders that make the Lake so popular.

"It's a great way to spend an afternoon with your friends," Bayles explained. "You get to see eight restaurants including Caribbean Mix, Wok n' Roll, Tuckers Shuckers, Brick House, Alley Cat's, Casablanca/Casagrotto, Grandma's Candy Kitchen, and Grandpa's Ice Cream."

She encourages participants to try things they might not typically order for themselves. You also have a chance to actually talk to some of the chefs and learn about the history of the area. Bayles has specific favorite foods she enjoys sharing with people. "I love sharing the wagyu beef corn dogs from Roxie's because it is different, and the wagyu is locally sourced from Hiroshi Ranch," she said. "Chef Dustin speaks with my tables and explains what he has prepared. Chef Rick's pizza at Casablanca is amazing and every part of it is made in house. Lainey at Wok n' Roll makes fantastic chicken satay with peanut sauce."

Since she is a teacher, the tours run on Saturdays from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. during the school year. During the summer, tours run Wednesday through Saturday from 2:00 to 5:00p.m. They will be open select Saturdays throughout the winter.

"Our simple mission is this: to tantalize your taste buds, ignite your sense of adventure, and create cherished memories to leave you craving more," she reiterated. "Everyone leaves very full and gets to try about 13 foods."

This quality-build home impresses the minute you walk through the front door. Light and bright with just enough dark touches to make it feel homey. The wall of glass sliding doors provides a breathtaking view of the Lake and surrounding nature.

ncell Construction prides itself on producing quality homes with all the detail you'd expect to find in the upscale housing market. The minute you walk into this 3900 square-foot lakefront gem on Tuscany Drive, it's apparent no stone has been left unturned. This is just one of the homes being built in The Estates at Tuscany, the company's newest project located at the 31 mile-marker in Camdenton.

The exterior of this home is exquisite with LP Smart Side siding that is primed and painted with a 50-year paint. Below, cultured stone by Centurion adds a touch of elegance. The stately entrance features a Mahogany dense wood double front door under a covered front porch, and an impressive hanging chandelier. The three-car garage is roomy for all your storage needs.

Step inside and take in the view of the Lake with the wall of sliding glass doors on the opposite side. The home is light and airy with light gray paint, wide white crowned molding, and 10-foot ceilings throughout the home. The dark accents add detail and just enough warmth to the color scheme. The open floor plan combines the family room, kitchen, and dining area into one functional, spacious space.

The kitchen is every cooks dream. Hickory wood floors and Hickory cabinets make a statement in contrast to the white Quartz countertops. An abundance of custom cabinets feature slide out shelves and soft close doors. The Kitchen Aid Stainless Steel appliances from Jacobsen's Appliance make a statement with a double oven and gas stove with a pot fill feature. Other touches in the kitchen include a white farmer style double sink, a nice size pantry, and built-in ice maker. The spacious island not only provides great prep and serving space, but can easily accommodate six bar stools. The adjacent dining area with a full view of the Lake is roomy enough for a large table and chairs.

Welcome Home! This stunning front entrance is just a preview of what lies behind these grand double doors.

Just as impressive as the front, the back of this home features stately pillars and stone enhancements. The gentle grade of this property provides an easy walk to the dock.

The Hickory wood floors continue into the family room area that features a soaring 13foot ceiling that reaches 17-feet at the vault. Floor to ceiling white brick surrounds the 28,000 BTU fireplace, and recessed lighting gives ambiance to the entire space. The sliding glass doors open to the spacious, covered screened in porch.

The primary bedroom is a retreat in itself with accent night lighting, a wood planked ceiling accent, and access to the covered porch. The adjacent primary bathroom gives a spa-like feel with a large dual vanity and oversized shower with dual show heads. An overhead rain shower head is also featured. The tile in this room is unique and tasteful. Programmable heated floors are in all the full bathrooms of this home. The separate walk-in closet is massive in size, with custom built-in drawers and shelving.

Conveniently located off the kitchen and garage entrance, the laundry room features a large sink, and wall to wall counter space with plenty of cabinets.

Also housed on the main level is a second bedroom, bathroom, and powder room. The main level laundry room is spacious, and a built-in coat nook is the perfect spot to store outerwear when walking in from the garage.

The wide staircase leads to the lower level which is an entertainment destination in itself. Two additional bedrooms share a Jack and Jill bath, and a spacious second family room space is perfect for entertaining. A fireplace, identical to the one upstairs, anchors this room. A bar area complete with wet sink, a beverage/wine fridge, cabinets, and counter space adds another dimension to entertaining. The whole-house audio system is an added bonus.

Behind the bar area, a composite safe room houses a second wine fridge, microwave, and plenty of counter and cabinet space.

Covered porches span the width of the home on both levels, with portions of it screened in. Access from the lakeside rooms of the house lead to these outdoor spaces. Tastefully constructed, these porches feature Trex Signature composite decking, wood tongue and groove ceilings, and ceiling fans. The grill deck features an easy tie-in to gas, eliminating the need for portable gas tanks. The high tech security system enables the homeowner to control and program lighting throughout the home with an app. The high efficiency HVAC system installed by Comfort Care Heating and Cooling is dual zoned.

Unique to Missouri, this home sits on a surprisingly level lot. There's no slope to the driveway, and the walk to the dock is easy.

This exclusive lakefront haven truly combines the best of luxury, privacy and practicality.

att Ancell, owner of Ancell Construction in Osage Beach, began building homes at the Lake in 2006. His family has been building homes for over 50 years, and Ancell began learning from them when he was just "knee high to a grasshopper." Two of his uncles, owners of Good Heart Construction, are still building homes in Ancell's home town of Hannibal, Missouri.

"My passion has always been new construction," Ancell explained. "I worked building homes in St. Louis for a long time. I moved here and did whatever I could find, and my business just blossomed from there."

Ancell Construction is all about customer satisfaction, and that comes from knowledge of the product. The ultimate goal is to make sure that customers know exactly what they are getting and that they are completely satisfied with the end product. Ancell considers himself the quality control person, paying extremely close attention to the detail of the build. "I come to the job sites everyday and look at everything that is going on," he said. "We are very transparent in dealing with customers. There are no hidden costs." The company achieves this control by working with a very tight knit group of companies. Ancell Construction employs 15 people, seven of which serve as the construction crew. Although Ancell is at the forefront of the business, it's the talents of his wife Bridgette he credits for their beautiful homes. "She's the designer," he explained. "She chooses everything from the products to the colors, and she works full-time doing it."

Their current project, The Estates at Tuscany, is an exclusive lakefront haven tucked into a cove at the 31 mile-marker in Camdenton. Within this exquisite development are nine lots, each offering between 100 and 150 feet of generous lake frontage. There are also three second-tier lots and an accessory lot that will house a pool and clubhouse. Unique to the Lake, these lots feature nearly flat driveways, and lakefront properties have easy access to private docks.

Ancell purchased the property in September of 2023. They were considering another piece of land, and stumbled upon this by boat. "It was in really bad shape," Ancell said. "We hauled out 8000 loads of rock to clear the property. We were able to set the houses down low, and tie into the community water and sewer."

In the past five or six years, Ancell Construction has pushed into the high end home market. "I like all the details and making the home as great as I can," he explained. "Luxury items are in all these homes. These are all wired as smart homes, where everything can be turned on and off with an app." Homes come landscaped, and buyers have the option to make changes. Home sizes start at 3800 square-feet and although plans have been drawn up for many of the lots, changes can still be made.

To ensure projects run smoothly, Ancell also owns MCS Rental and Supply equipment supply company. Equipped with a large number pieces of machinery, the company does their own excavating. They also rent out the equipment for personal use. Although home construction is where his heart is, Ancell has a number of commercial projects he's completed. A most recent one includes the Culver's restaurant in Camdenton.

"I don't call myself a contractor, we are home builders," he said.

he Lake area was built on small businesses, and there's still a large number in the area today. While it's easy to shop online or walk into a chain store, the benefits of shopping local are numerous. Shopping local helps create jobs, and encourages others to set up shop in the community also. Seeing a small business owner succeed can encourage those on the fence to open a business of their own, and have a positive impact on the future growth of the area. Think of it as an investment in your community and the place you live.

Shopping local increases the odds of finding unique, one-of-a-kind products that you won't find in national chain stores. Many are even hand crafted or home-made. And while you're in these businesses, make a point to meet the owner and make a new community connection. You'll find their personal service to be excellent.

Think outside the box. It's not only goods that you can shop for, but experiences, gift cards to a restaurant or specialty food store, services of all kinds ranging from house cleaning to golf lessons, and so much more. You don't have to shop local just for the holidays. You can make shopping local a year-round habit. While there are numerous local businesses around the Lake, we only had room for some.

he completion of the Bagnell Dam in 1931 brought growth and expansion to middle Missouri. Businesses along the iconic Bagnell Strip began opening and visitors from all over the country came to shop the candy stores, souvenir shops, and play at the classic arcade. The Lake area quickly became a magnet for the resort industry as homes and businesses began popping up. Today, the Bagnell Dam Strip still serves as the iconic core of the Lake of the Ozarks.

Although there have been numerous changes to the Strip over the years, the more things change the more they stay the same. In the 1960's, a California company created two towering fiberglass structures to encourage owners of noisy automobiles to replace their mufflers. Today, the Indian and hillbilly statue Two-Bit still anchor the area.

In 1947, the Dogpatch Store opened as a gas station and tourist shop. Today, the 10,000 square-foot shop offers everything from Lake of the Ozarks souvenirs to home decor, and earns the honor as the longest continually operated store at the Lake. Reese Development is striving to bring a combination of nostalgia and progress to the area.

Since he was born, Nick Reese spent every summer of his life at the Lake. His parents began vacationing here in the 1970's, and his grandparents even chose the Lake as their honeymoon destination in the 1950's. The Lake, Nick explained, was a second home to him. Born in the Quad Cities area, Nick, his wife, and daughter are full-time residents on the Strip.

The Strip area felt the impact of the 2008 economic recession, and for sale signs began showing up in business windows. Genuinely concerned about this impact, Reese and his father were confident about the resiliency of the Strip to push through this troubled time. They decided to take action and do something about it.

In 2009, Nick and his father, Dennis, started Lakeshore Holdings & Development, a real estate holding company, and Iguana Watersports, a boat rental and sales company. They sold and rented Cruisers Yachts, Tritoons, ski boats, fishing boats, and personal watercraft at Iguana while Lakeshore owned the land.

Their first location originally housed the Lodge of the Ozarks motel. "When we started, we began buying land and buildings as they became available," Nick explained. "We wanted to make sure it was in the best hands for the future. Before we knew it, we ended up owning quite a few properties." They sold Iguana Watersports in 2019, and started to focus on other Strip located developments.

In 2022, they rebranded Lakeshore as Reese Development. Having earned a bachelor's degree from Colorado State University, a law degree from the University of Wisconsin, and a master's in real estate development from the University of Denver, the role of president for the company suited Nick. His father, Dennis, remains the owner of the company.

"The Strip has been incredibly resilient, but many old attractions lay rusted and vacant from decades of neglect," Nick said. "The time to remove the vacant properties, update the infrastructure and prepare for a prosperous future for the residents of Lake Ozark is now."

Nick said he is not concerned if future development will occur, instead he wants to make sure it's done properly. "Our biggest challenge is getting our arms around all of the opportunities," he said. "Once we begin to develop, we want to make sure we're doing it correctly and focusing on the end goal."

The last couple of years Reese Development has been working on a feasibility study, and determining land use and scale for the future development. The key, Nick explained, is to respond to the market in terms of what will happen and how fast. Traffic and activity on the Strip, he explained, continues to increase even in the off-season.

The company has been working in partnership with the City of Lake Ozark to identify blighted properties for removal. Many have already been demolished, and the second round of demolition is scheduled for 2025. A number of impressive projects and enhancements are already making a positive impact.

What was originally Campbell's Lake House, a restaurant and motel dating back to the 1940's, has most recently been renovated into their offices with an upcoming private event space on the lower level, and short-term, two-bedroom rental apartments on the upper level. The Dam parking lot was renovated and reopened to the public, they completed a joint renovation project with Stewart's Restaurant of the historic White House, and refurbished and relit the original Shoreland Motel neon sign.

The Two-Bit Town cleanup turned a dilapidated eye sore into a space that will potentially be the site for carnivals, a gathering space, additional parking, and more. More demolition, grading, and water management on the site are planned for next summer.

New tenants will be moving onto the Strip, including the Lake Ozark Jeep Outpost featuring Jeep accessories and merchandise, as well as a potential speakeasy, a local coffee shop, and more. There's also discussion of opening a cultural center in partnership with the Osage in the old travel center next to the Dam.

Two-Bit Town once served as a tourist attraction with a maze, bumper boats, water slide, the Chuck Wagon, the Crooked Crazy Cousin's Cabin, and more. The unkept remains were demolished recently and the land will be used for other purposes. PHOTO SUBMITTED

Upcoming improvements will include the renovation of the "Boat Rides" lookout tower including new neon signage, and a large beautification project that will tie the Reese Development offices over to RIP Tavern with new sidewalks, landscaping, crosswalks, and upgraded facades. They also plan to address more landscaping throughout the Strip, and create new murals from local artists.

Finding just the right tenant to occupy the former "Blondie's" property has been a priority, as well as moving, hiding, and the wrapping of garbage dumpsters, the building of new stairwells and fencing, and the introduction of employee parking. There's hopes to add some electric vehicle chargers, expand event areas for the Strip, and give access to the public for the surrounding nature and waterfront.

"We applied for a community development block grant for $600,000 in federal funding through the Missouri Department of Economic Development," Nick explained. "We'll find out around January if we get it. If we do, we'll be matching an additional 20-percent on top of that, and covering any administrative costs faced by the city." These funds, Nick said, will finance the demolition of additional derelict buildings next summer.

"One of our biggest priorities has been collecting great tenants and holding onto them," Nick said. "We want them to be part of the future of the Strip and give them the best chance to thrive and succeed. To that end, we'll continue our renovation, pursue infrastructure improvements, and bring them into the fold on any new development." Another focus, he said, is on changing up the tenant mix, and not solely focusing on nighttime entertainment.

Photographed in 1935, the White House Hotel, cafe, and gas station was a thriving business. Today, the building is home to Stewart's Restaurant. PHOTO SUBMITTED

Built in 1946, Campbell's Lake House motel was expanded in the 1960's. The second story addition and more square footage provided space for a restaurant. PHOTO SUBMITTED

"We talk a lot about the ecosystem of the area. Not necessarily the environmental ecosystem, but the community ecosystem," Nick said. "In the past, there hasn't been enough focus on the local community, like proper housing and neighborhood amenities, and we want to address that. We want to make this a great place to live, a fantastic place to visit, and a landmark we can be proud of. We do that by making this a one-of-a-kind, All-American downtown. But that can't happen in one push. We have to take our time."

With the discussion from some residents that the Strip is not family friendly, Nick said that is something they are taking seriously. "I think everyone has a different definition of family friendly," he explained, "so I don't like to use that term. I prefer to say we want to make it multi-generational: a place that appeals to all ages. That there's something to do at the Strip whether you're seven, 17, 27, 47, or 97 years of age. Some folks want the Strip to return to the 1950s, and others want to see it turn into Bourbon Street, but I feel there has to be a healthy mix, just like any great town."

Nick added that Reese Development has an incredible team with seasoned and dedicated local staff, and their long-term vision for the Strip is attainable. "We want it to be charming, organic, and authentic to the Ozarks," he said. "A truly world class destination. The Strip needs to feel like it's the home of the Lake of the Ozarks."

CROSS POINT CAMP AND RETREAT

f you've ever boated the main channel toward Bagnell Dam you've undoubtedly seen the large, white cross that stands hilltop at the six mile-marker of the main channel. What you may not be aware of is this is the home of Cross Pointe Camp and Retreat Center, a full-service facility that has been enjoyed by visitors since the 1940's.

Owned by the Southern Missouri District Council, the camp has developed over the years and is able to accommodate groups of up to 800 individuals for a camp, retreat, meeting, or conference function. They also host private functions, including weddings. A hotel is open year round for individual lodging, and a large amphitheater seats 300. The lakefront location provides numerous water activities and the large gymnasium is the size of four full-size basketball courts. What's most interesting, however, is that a family committed to what the camp offers keeps it up and running.

Curtis and Cindy Washam serve as the directors of the entire grounds and programs. They oversee all the facilities and operations of the camp. Their daughter Cara, and her husband Matthew, work as the assistant directors. Cara handles all the event planning and accounting while Matthew, a mechanically-minded former aviation mechanic with the Marine Corps, is responsible for the operations of all the buildings and structures. Cara and Matthews three children are also involved and fill the soda machines in the summer on a daily basis. In addition, the family has seven full-time and two part-time employees that work year-round. In the summer, up to 30 part-time employees work with the camps. The ultimate goal, they stressed, is to keep operating expenses low.

The tie to the facility goes generations back for the family. In the 1940's, Cindy's mom attended camp here. In the 1970's, Cindy also experienced the fun of camp. Cara followed in her families footsteps by spending time at her parent's lake house and participating in camp on a regular basis herself.

"My mom came here and I remember the first time I attended," Cindy said. "I said I would give it a try, and ended up wanting to attend for as long as I could." The family learned in 2009 that the camp was having financial problems, and numerous projects needed to be done. Funding those resulted in spending more money than the not-for-profit organization was taking in. That's when the family decided to step in and help.

Situated on the Lake, campers have the opportunity to enjoy water activities at the camp. MARIE KROLIKOWSKI

"Our district loves this place and believes in it," Cindy said. "They were motivated to keep it going. My husband was a regional manager at Macy's Department Store and had the experience we needed to run it. We feel we were called to be here. Faith has a lot to do with it." With no hesitation, the family packed up their home in the Kansas City area and moved to the camp location.

An education major in college, Cara volunteers in her spare time to help children who are struggling with reading, mostly children with dyslexia. She and Matthew are also youth pastors in Barnett. "We bring our youth group here each year," she explained. "It's a safe place where they can have fun and just be kids. Many come from troubled situations." Cara and Cindy agree they are blessed with the facility they have and the variety of events they are able to host. These include five weeks of week-long youth camps for those from ages 12 to high school graduates, four weeks of week-long kids camps for those seven to 12 years of age, and numerous other events. These other events include weddings, women's retreats, men's retreats, and more. The facilities are also rented by outside groups.

"We are constantly making improvements to the facilities and adding activities for the campers to have fun," Cara said. "We are currently raising funds for a future pickleball court, a four-square court, ga ga ball, and more. Cara explained that campers pay to attend, but rates are extremely low. Donations make up a large part of the facilities funding. "Once you get into those higher camp costs it cuts a lot of kids from being able to attend," she said. For that reason, keeping rates down is a priority. Volunteer opportunities are available for everything from working on projects to helping out at camp and are the foundation for keeping things running. A number of volunteers commit from year to year, and one group came from as far away as North Dakota.

"I'm surprised something purchased in 1941 still sits on prime waterfront real estate," Cindy said. "In many circumstances, lives are changed here in just one week. In the world we live in today that's important."

For additional information visit https://www.crosspointecamp.com. To volunteer or make a donation, call the office at 573-365-0600. All donations are tax deductible.

Curtis and Cindy Washam feel it was a calling to serve as directors of Cross Pointe Camp and Retreat Center.

Matthew, Cara, and their children Niah (13), Malachi (11), and Cora (9) are all involved in helping out and enjoying the camp.

NAVIGATING THE CHALLENGES OF WINTER EFFECTS ON SKIN AND HAIR

n Mid Missouri, we have a myriad of changing climates as unpredictable as the winter weather itself. It might be damp, it might be dry, or it might be somewhere in between. Rough skin and damaged hair are two problems that we all must deal with during the cold months. A few Lake area professionals have advice for dealing with weather related hair and skin issues.

A deep cleansing facial is one way the Board-Certified Dermatologists at Forefront Dermatology in Osage Beach recommend to rejuvenate dry winer skin. A deep cleansing facial treatment can achieve a radiant glow, and healthier complexion. The spa service is given with a gentle facial steamer, and a mask may be applied. Dry, cold conditions can trigger psoriasis in winter. Forefront Dermatology offers treatments for the affected areas such as topical corticosteroids, and light therapy. The dermatologists on staff state that some over-the-counter products such as lotions, shampoos, oatmeal baths, and moisturizers can help ease the condition.such as lotions, Light therapy, or UV Phototherapy is known to reduce inflammation and slow the rate of skin cell production.

Lake, can offer some winter hair and skin care tips that are sure to combat the effects of dry conditions. The professionals at Spa Shiki suggest their line of luxurious Eminence Organics. A powerful line of skin care enhanced with Superfood Enzymes, Eminence Organics has a Kombucha Microbiome Leave-On Masque featuring Ginger and probiotics which adds hydration to the face. For oily skin, The Bakuchiol plus Niacinamide Moisturizer is guaranteed to not clog pores. It is a vegan formula moisturizer that garnered a Cosmopolitan Magazine Holy Grail Beauty Award. It is perfect for men, too, winning a Best Men's Anti-Aging Moisturizer Spa & Wellness Product Award. Another product they recommend for winter skin is Laminaria Oil, the ultimate remedy for dry and sensitive skin. The fast-acting seaweed and Spirulina oil provides antioxidant protection against environmental exposure, such as the fall and winter chill. Gentle and effective for skin rashes, psoriasis, and eczema, this product is chock-full of seaweed and organic honey to fight the cold outside and hydrates the skin. The seaweed extracts gently exfoliate and boost cellular metabolism, and restore mineral nutrients responsible for youthful and supple skin.

Star Cooper, CRNA/APRN from Ciao Bella Skin & Wellness gives her number one piece of advice for winter skincare. "Moisturize regularly with a medical grade moisturizer such as D.E.J. Face by Revision," she advises. "The cold, dry air can lead to dehydration and irritation." The product line of Revision adds to skin health by providing a blend of ceramides, cholesterol, fatty acids and botanical extracts that help replenish the skin's moisture barrier. "Cold, dry air during winter can lead to dehydration and irritation," she said. "Using a rich emollient moisturizer can help replenish lost moisture, protect the skin's barrier, and prevent dry, itchy skin. Look for medical grade moisturizers that contain hyaluronic acid, ceramides, peptides, shea butter, and no alcohol.'

For winter hair, one of the top rated salons at the Lake offers some tips on how to keep locks hydrated and the scalp flake-free. Natalie Kay Salon and Spa in Osage Beach offers a Deep Conditioning Treatment to keep the ends from splitting. A Scalp Detox treatment for hair growth rejuvenates hair follicles. Spa Shiki advises a scalp and hair treatment with Moroccan Oil to address dry scalp. It will add oils back to your tresses, giving a fuller, healthier appearance.

TIPS FOR WINTER PROTECTION:

FACE:

- Moisturize Regularly: Use a thick, cream-based moisturizer to lock in moisture. Apply it at least twice a day, especially after washing your face.
- Use a Gentle Cleanser: Opt for a moisturizing cleanser rather than a foaming one to avoid stripping your skin of its natural oils.
- Apply Sunscreen: Even in winter, UV rays can damage your skin. Use a broad-spectrum sunscreen with a SPF of at least 30.
- Stay Hydrated: Drink plenty of water to keep your skin hydrated from the inside out.
- Humidify Your Home: Use a humidifier to add moisture to the dry indoor air.
- Protect Against Wind: Wear a scarf or a face mask to shield your skin from cold winds.
- Avoid Hot Water: Use lukewarm water when washing your face, as hot water can strip away natural oils.

HAIR:

Cold, dry outside air causes breaking and shedding of hair. Dandruff can increase during the wintertime from wearing hats. Adding moisture back to the ends while maintaining the scalp is key to overall winter hair health. Dryness and static increase with the use of indoor heating during colder months, stripping moisture from your hair. Here are some great tips suggested by our Lake area professionals for breakage, frizz, and dandruff.

- A hydrating shampoo and conditioner locks in moisture.
- Use a leave-in conditioner or hair oil.
- Tea tree products are great for dandruff for men and women.
- Avoid excessive heat styling, and use heat protectants if you do use styling tools.
- Wear a hat or scarf to protect your hair from the cold, but choose materials like silk or satin to reduce friction and static.

BODY AND FEET:

It's equally important to pay attention to your body and feet during the winter months. The skin is the largest organ of the human body. The cold, dry air outside combined with indoor heating can strip the skin of its natural moisture, leading to dryness, flakiness, and irritation. This can be particularly troublesome for people with sensitive skin or conditions like eczema.

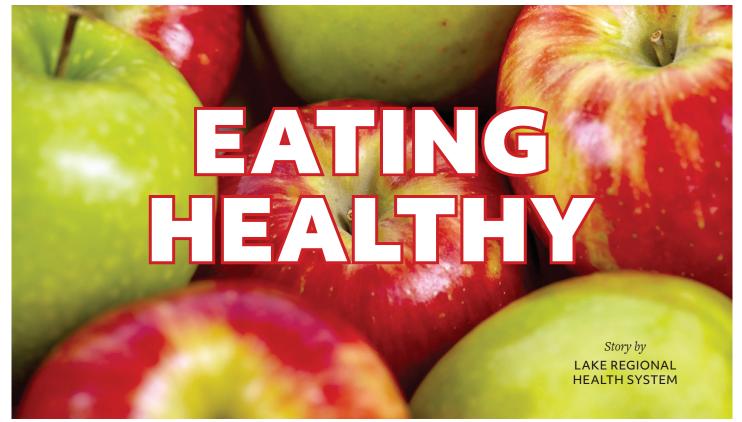

Cold winter climates can mean foot problems for many. Some common issues include:

- Dry skin and cracked heels.
- Frostbite, which can lead to severe damage.
- Chilblains, which involves painful inflammation of small blood vessels due to repeated exposure to cold air. Side effects are itching, red patches, swelling, and blisters.
- Athletes Food.
- Raynaud's Phenomenon is often seen in people with circulation issues, and causes the small blood vessels in toes to spasm. Side effects include numbness, pain, and color changes in the skin.
- Ingrown Toenail.

Tips for winter body and feet care include:

- Moisturize regularly with a thick, hydrating cream.
- Use a humidifier to add moisture to the air in your home.
- Avoid long, hot showers, which can further dry out your skin.
- Stay hydrated by drinking plenty of water.

GRAB THE GOOD STUFF ON YOUR NEXT GROCERY RUN

ou make important choices in grocery store aisles—choices that can affect your energy levels and your health.

"It's easy to fall into habits in the store that lead to less-than-ideal nutrition later," said Wendy Walker, MPH, R.D., L.D., CNSC, Lake Regional Food and Nutrition Services manager. "The only way to break those habits is to think ahead and strategize."

THE FOLLOWING TIPS PROVIDE A GAME PLAN FOR FILLING YOUR CART.

Make a list. Pick a day to plan meals for the week. Check your fridge and pantry to identify ingredients you need for meals and snacks.

Shop the perimeter first. The outer aisles of grocery stores contain some of the most nutritious choices, like fresh produce.

Pump up the produce. Speaking of produce, fill your cart with fruits and vegetables. Choose different colors for different nutrients. Think juicy red and green apples, orange carrots, dark lettuce, and tender, tasty zucchini. Look for in-season produce, which is usually tastier and more affordable. Canned or frozen produce is also nutritious (and easier on the budget). Just be sure to choose brands with the least amount of sodium and sugar.

Go lean with protein. Choose lean or extra lean meats, loin or round cuts, skinless poultry, and plant proteins such as beans and peanut butter.

Reel in the benefits of fish. There is an exception to the lean protein rule. Fatty fish, like salmon, have heart-healthy omega-3 fatty oils.

Cut the dairy fat. Do you usually buy whole-fat dairy products? Try low-fat or fatfree versions.

HEALTHY RECIPES TO MAKE AT HOME

Lake Regional's nationally recognized chef, Chef Brandon Workman, created these recipes for a healthy, at home meal.

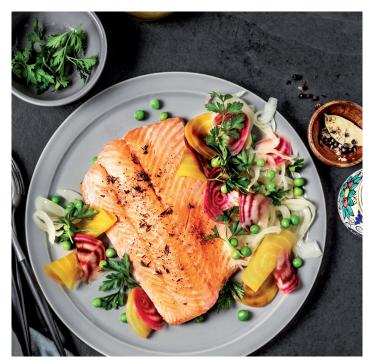

Grab some whole grains. Look for 100% whole-wheat instead of white sandwich bread, whole-wheat tortillas and pasta, and brown rice instead of white. To verify a product is truly whole grain, make sure a whole grain is the first listed ingredient listed.

Skip the snack aisle. Instead of fatty snacks, stock up on healthy options like grapes with cheese, apples with natural peanut butter, or cut-up veggies with hummus. Nuts, trail mix and string cheese also make healthy snacks, and their protein content can help stave off hunger longer.

Skip the soda aisle, too. Your budget and your health will thank you for drinking water instead.

Get new recipes for your rotation. Tired of cooking the same old, same old? Visit the recipe section of the Lake Regional Health Library at lakeregional.com/recipes.

TERIYAKI SALMON

3 salmon fillets, 1-inch thick

- For sauce:
- 1 cup water
- 1/4 cup gluten-free soy sauce
- 5 teaspoons brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon honey (or to taste)
- 1/3 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/3 teaspoon garlic powder
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 cup cold water

Mix all ingredients except cornstarch and cold water in a medium-sized saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring often.

Meanwhile, mix cornstarch and water. Once sauce is boiling, add cornstarch mixture to saucepan and stir to combine. Reduce heat to low and continue cooking until thickened. Remove from heat.

Brush sauce on salmon, and place salmon on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes for medium-done fillets to 20 minutes for well-done fillets.

Optional: Top with Sriracha sauce for a spicy, savory addition.

GINGER RICE PILAF

- 2 1/4 cups water
- 1 cup white rice
- 1 tablespoon ground ginger
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon vegetable base

Combine ingredients in a medium-sized saucepan. Bring to a boil, then cover and reduce heat to low.

Cook for 20 to 25 minutes, stirring often to prevent burning. Fluff with a fork, and serve.

ROASTED ASPARAGUS

1 bunch of asparagus 1/2 cup olive oil Salt and pepper, to taste

Trim asparagus to desired lengths, toss with olive oil, and sprinkle on salt and pepper.

Place on greased cookie sheet and roast at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

Nationally accredited. Locally trusted.

DUSTIN LEE MARTIN BRINGING HIS

Reaking onto the Lake of the Ozarks music scene is a goal of singer/ songwriter/guitarist Dustin Lee Martin. With a few Lake area gigs under his belt, Martin is on his way to bringing his country and southern rock sound to the area.

"When I was little, I used to sing a lot," Martin said. "When I was just four, my dad talked them into letting me on the stage at the Eminence Cross Country Trail Ride in Missouri. I performed the song Boot Scootin' Boogie with the house band to close to 4000 people in the crowd. That's what gave me the bug to be a performer."

From there, Martin went on to perform at local talent shows and local events. After college, he moved to Nashville and played in bands for several years.

"In 2013, I put together a trio and we played throughout Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri, Tennessee, and North Carolina for three years," he explained. Their sound was country and southern rock and roll, and Martin sang and played guitar.

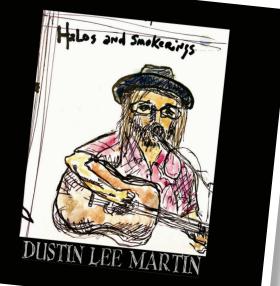

He then met a dummer who had played with Molly Hatchet. Martin auditioned for his band "Burnt Biscuit" and performed with them throughout the state of Florida for the next three and one-half years.

"In 2018 I decided it was time to put out an album," Martin said. "I moved back to Nashville, worked, and saved money to do it." Martin teamed up with Matt Coles from Hillbilly Central, now known as Compass Records. In 2020, the album "Halos and Smoke Rings" was ready to be released.

Just two months prior, a E-4 tornado destroyed Martin's home and car. That incident was followed up with the COVID pandemic. "I decided to sit on the record for a while," he recalled. "That September I put it out and sold 1500 copies out of the back of a truck."

For the past four years, Martin has been performing acoustic. His touring takes him from Colorado to Texas, Florida to New Hampshire, and new markets in between. An annual performance at the Lake is always on his agenda.

When he first began performing, Martin turned to Johnny Cash and Waylon Jennings for inspiration. Today's influencers are Eric Church, Tyler Childers, and others. "People don't talk enough about Kendall Marvell," he said. "He writes for Chris Stapleton and Gary Allen. I'm a huge fan of Chris Stapleton also." Martin's album "Halos and Smoke Rings" is available to download on all music platforms. His newest album, "Everything's OK", will be out by the end of the year. PHOTO SUBMITTED

A full-time Nashville resident, Martin has been performing each year at Casablanca and has been hired for private dock parties. Performing more often at different Lake venues is a goal of his.

Martin has a seven song EP album coming out by the end of the year titled "Everything's OK." His music can be heard and downloaded from just about every music platform available. Learn more about Martin and his southern sound at his Facebook page or at www.dustinleemartin.com
