BOATING

PREPARE YOUR DOCK for the season

It's about that time of year. Time to uncover your boat and head out to a waterfront restaurant or for a cruise along the main channel. Before you do, it's best to take some time to go over your boat and dock to make sure that everything is in working order.

Your boat lift does a lot of work - especially at Lake of the Ozarks. With heavy boat traffic and large wakes, it's necessary to do some general maintenance to eliminate problems before they start.

Casey Osborn, partner at LOTO Lift & LOTO Marina offers advice when it comes to making sure nothing keeps you from enjoying the Lake life. Follow these tips or call a professional to come out and inspect your boat lift so you are ready to get out as soon as the weather allows.

- It's easy to forget about your boat lift but with use comes wear and tear. Some of the most common items that get worn are bushings, fasteners and dock brackets. Pneumatic free floating lifts are constantly moving whether or not your boat is on it so don't overlook a loose bolt or arm bushing. The holes will be oblong in the dock brackets making it ineffective in securing your lift. The labor involved in changing a bracket will tempt many people to make an adjustment using a different hole in the bracket, but it's important to adjust all of the arms accordingly which may also require a change in the drop chain.

Underwater tank mounts and any steel that is underwater should be routinely replaced, on average every 3-5 years. Rusty hardware can give the illusion of tightness because it is seized up and brittle.

- Before lowering that lift for the first time this season, turn the control unit handle to "raise" and let the system bubble out for a minute. This will push water and any mud, Bryozoans, aquatic animals and other debris in the tank to come out through the large hole. If you turn the handle to "lower" instead it allows air to escape through your hose and the valve control in the unit. Eventually anything light enough will try to flow through the plumbing which traps air and does not allow the lift to fully submerge.

- During the spring, there is a big difference between the air temperature and water temperature. This will cause the air in your tank to condense and allow water into the tank causing it to loose lift capacity. Boat lifts are rated for a lift capacity, not the dry weight of a vessel. When purchasing a lift account for the weight of fuel, water, gear and winter water temps. You should be filling the lift once a month during the winter and maybe a little more frequently in March and early April when the air temps and water temp vary the most.

- The cold temps will put your plumbing fittings to the test. A weak or poorly sealed pipe fitting will show its ugly head in the form of a slow, irritating leak. Hoses also lose their flexibility adding more stress to tank fittings causing failures.

- Spring levels can add a challenging variable. The Lake will typically drop six feet and can drop as much as nine feet from full pool. If the Lake is down and you back onto your lift, be cautious that just because your boat is free floating doesn't mean that lift will clear the drive. Your lift should have drop chains that will be tight to indicate the lift is down all the way. If there is slack in the chain that's a red flag, but don't worry, you can still make your dinner date with friends. If possible, raise your drives and move the boat in and out by hand. Do not engage your props or you'll have more problems than missing dinner.

Another factor to consider when the Lake is down is if your dock has changed its position. A dock will often lean when the water level changes. This can be attributed to the extra weight of the ramp. A dock mounted parallel to the shore will lean left to right in the slip and a dock mounted perpendicular will lean forward and possibly back if the front of the dock is sitting on the bottom. This can cause problems with vapor locking, or worse. Also, check for debris that is under the lift and remove anything that could hinder the system.

Golf tips for beginners

Golf courses are serene settings that allow people to enjoy the great outdoors while simultaneously engaging in the thrill of competition. Those factors undoubtedly motivate people to hit the links and play a round of golf, which remains a wildly popular sport. In fact, a recent report from the National Golf Foundation found that roughly 119 million people followed golf on television or online, read about the game, or listened to a golf-related podcast in 2022.

Golf can certainly be a fun sport to follow, but it's just as fun to play. Golf is a challenging sport, and it can be especially difficult for newcomers. Patience is paramount when learning to play golf, and the following are some additional strategies beginners can keep in mind as they learn to golf.

- Work with a pro. Golf pros at local courses or even private coaches typically have extensive experience teaching the game. That experience is invaluable. Beginners can learn the basics from a seasoned pro, who can instruct students on fundamentals such as stance, grip and swing so they enjoy their first round that much more.

- Purchase a good set of clubs. The right clubs can make the game that much easier. Adults who are not sure if they want to fully commit to playing can get by with secondhand clubs, while parents can do the same as they try to teach their children the game. Once a commitment has been made, a new set of custom fitted clubs can be a worthy investment that lets golfers take their game to the next level. Using clubs that are too small or too large can affect performance, as can other factors like grip size. Custom fitted clubs can be expensive, so beginners may want to wait until they catch the golfing bug before they make such an investment.

- Golf with a friend. The buddy system makes numerous recreational activities more fun, and golf is no exception. Beginners can ask a friend who already plays to tag along, but it also can be fun to learn the sport alongside another novice. Friends with experience may be willing to offer some tips to becoming a better player, while two beginners can share a few laughs as they navigate their way through rounds that end up well over par.

- Choose the right courses. Certain courses are more challenging than others. Par-3 courses can be perfect for beginners because they include only par 3 holes, which feature shorter distances from tee to cup and tend to be flatter and easier for novices. Par-3 courses also tend to be just nine holes, which can be ideal for beginners. When playing a traditional course, beginners can look for one with a reputation for being less challenging so they are not discouraged by their final scores.

Catch-and-keep trout season opens March 1

Every year on March 1, hundreds of die-hard anglers line the banks at one of Missouri's trout parks for the opening day of catch-and-keep trout season. In years past, anglers have faced frigid winter temperatures, snow, sleet and ice, as well as sunshine and springlike weather all in the attempt of catching an elusive lunger. This Missouri tradition not only creates memories, but some of the biggest fish stories you've ever heard!

This year, Saturday, March 1, marked the opening of the catch-and-keep season that runs through Oct. 31. To participate, Missouri residents ages 16 to 64 and nonresidents age 16 and older are required to purchase a fishing permit. In addition to a fishing permit, trout anglers must also purchase a daily trout tag at the trout parks: Roaring River State Park near Cassville, Bennett Spring State Park near Lebanon and Montauk State Park near Salem.

A daily trout tag at the three state parks costs $5 for adults and $3 for youth 15 years of age and younger. Daily fishing permits are $9, and the daily limit is four trout, while possession limit is eight. For more information on fishing at Missouri trout parks, visit mdc.mo.gov/fishing/species/trout/trout-parks. Anglers are encouraged to purchase their fishing permits ahead of time from any of numerous vendors throughout the state, online at mdc-web.s3licensing.com or through Missouri Department of Conservation's free MO Fishing mobile app.

Trout season in Missouri is a cooperative effort of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources Division of State Parks managing the state parks and the Missouri Department of Conservation operating the hatcheries and stocking the streams with trout.

To help prevent the spread of the invasive alga didymo (commonly known as rock snot), the use of shoes, boots or waders with porous soles of felt, matted or woven fibrous material is prohibited at all trout parks, trout streams, Lake Taneycomo and buffer areas.

For more information on trout season opening, visit mostateparks.com or call Roaring River State Park at 417-847-2539, Bennett Spring State Park at 417-532-4338 or Montauk State Park at 573-548-2201. Missouri State Parks is a division of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources.

BRIDGE AND DAM

Mark your calendar for Saturday, April 12, as the Bridge and Dam races make their 11th annual return.

Bridge and Dam offers 5k, 10k and half marathon options for runners while benefiting multiple Lake area charities.

The races are hosted by FundRuns and the Lake of the Ozarks Runners. FundRuns directors Alysia Maschino and Scott Page plan to expand on the successes the races thrived on for many years. With sole control over all aspects of the race, a number of improvements will be made this year. Maschino and Page say they want runners to have a great running experience at the lake while benefiting the community, area businesses and charities.

One improvement being made this year is the addition of pacers for the races. For the first time ever, pace group leaders will volunteer as encouragement for racers to reach their time goals.

The races will begin at the Bagnell Dam Scenic Overlook, 24 Bagnell Dam Boulevard in Lake Ozark. Racers will be shuttled to the start line. This year there is also a virtual race option for those interested.

The half marathon begins at 7:30 a.m. and costs $100 to enter ($105 virtual option). The 10k begins at 7:45 a.m. and costs $80 per racer ($85 virtual option). The 5k begins at 7:45 a.m. as well and costs $55 ($60 virtual option).

All runners will receive a high-quality Bella Canvas race shirt and custom medals will be given to all finishers. Age group awards will be given in standard age groups.

Following the races, an after party will be held at Neon Taco. Food and drinks will be available, along with an awards ceremony.

As an enticement to those 21 and over, all runners of age will receive a free margarita at Neon Taco's post-race party.

Proceeds of the event will benefit Wonderland Camp, Lake of the Ozarks Shrine Club, the Missouri Chapter of Concerns of Police Survivors and FundRuns/Lake Area Runners.

Trail of Four Winds transformed at Lake of the Ozarks State Park

A popular trail at Lake of the Ozarks State Park has undergone a significant transformation thanks to the hard work of a team from the National Civilian Community Corps. After five weeks of work, the NCCC team has completed major improvements to all 14 miles of the Trail of Four Winds, including rerouting a section, widening the width and height of portions of the trail and enhancing areas to create a better user experience and improved environmental impact. The team of eight were deployed in November from the NCCC Southwest Region based in Colorado. Their last day of work on the trail was Dec. 13.

The team was awarded to Osage Beach non-profit Branches for the Lake (B4TL) and the Lake of the Ozarks State Park after the agencies partnered to be considered for the program. Branches for the Lake provided assistance writing the project application and supervised the team while they were at Lake of the Ozarks. Program applicants were required to find a lodging partner to host the team at no cost. Margaritaville Lake Resort stepped forward to offer lodging for the NCCC team. The Lake of the Ozarks State Park staff were on-site with the team daily to make sure work was done safely and on time. They provided training and expertise so that the team could gain valuable experience and professional development.

"You can't get a big project like this completed without a lot of help, and the partnership initiated by B4TL showcases how a community can benefit from working together," Guerric Good, Interpretive Resource Coordinator for the Lake of the Ozarks State Park, said. "We have a non-profit group seeing a need and bringing ideas and energy, a private business offering housing and a federal-level program with passionate and hard-working individuals coming together to make a state park better for local, national and international visitors. I am glad we can all share these successes."

The Trail of Four Winds is a unique, multi-use trail open to hikers, bikers, walkers and horseback riders. The trail is divided into North and South loops, providing multiple stunning views of Lake of the Ozarks, outcrops, seasonal streams, ponds and woodlands. Erosion and encroaching vegetation were causing damage to the ecosystem and forcing users to go off trail along areas of the path. Other portions needed pruning, limb removal and general maintenance to make the trail more accessible.

"Due to the hard work of the NCCC team, along with daily support and supervision by state park staff, we now have a safer, more accessible and environmentally-friendly trail that will be enjoyed by residents and visitors for years to come," Charis Patires, Grant Project Administrator for Branches for the Lake, said. "This project truly highlights the power of community collaboration and demonstrates the importance of working together to create impactful change in our community. Without the commitment from Margaritaville Lake Resort to house this team and the dedicated State Park staff making this project a priority, none of this would have been possible."

"Fostering a shared responsibility for the wellbeing of our community is one of our core values at Margaritaville Lake Resort - Lake of the Ozarks," Michael Cost, Assistant General Manager of Margaritaville Lake Resort, said. "Having the opportunity to work together on this project with other community leaders was fantastic! We look forward to more ways we can help bring progress to the lake area."

The NCCC team removed over 4,775 pounds of vegetation, cleared more than 16.6 acres of land, completed a 0.38-mile reroute which was difficult due to the rocky terrain, removed 6,000 pounds of rocks and improved more than 14 miles of existing trail. The estimated value of volunteer time for the 2,197 hours served on this project is worth more than $67,000.

In addition to working on the trail throughout the week, the NCCC team volunteered with the Dogwood Animal Shelter each Saturday during their stay. They worked on building kennels at the animal shelter and sorting through donations at the thrift store. An important component of NCCC service is positive community engagement and volunteering in the communities they are deployed.

Several sponsors stepped up to support the project by donating meals, supplies and hosted outings in the community to help make the team's stay more enjoyable and to thank them for the work they were completing.

About Branches for the Lake:

Branches for the Lake (B4TL) is a non-profit based in Osage Beach dedicated to fostering economic growth through community, collaboration, connectivity and commerce. B4TL looks for ways to utilize paid tax dollars and invest these funds back into the community by way of grant funding and other program opportunities. For more information, go to Branches for the Lake on Facebook.

A health checklist for your home's HVAC system

If you're like most people, you spend up to 90% of your life indoors. That means you are constantly affected by indoor air quality - including the air in your home. While you may not give much thought to the various parts that make up a home's HVAC system, each component plays a critical role in enhancing your comfort. Some components are not immediately obvious. For example, an insufficient amount of attic insulation or holes and leaks in attic ductwork can adversely affect your home's air quality and energy efficiency.

When a home isn't being optimally heated or cooled, homeowners often blame the heating and cooling equipment. But other parts of the HVAC system may be the root cause of reduced comfort or higher utility bills. It is important to go "beyond the box" and assess the condition and operation of various components that can contribute to an issue.

Assessing your home's heating and cooling system

Beyond the obvious signs - a home that is persistently too hot or too cold - what are some signs that your home's HVAC system may not be delivering its full value? Here are seven questions to consider:

- * Have you noticed a musty smell or an increase in allergy symptoms?
- * Have you noticed mold or mildew around the vents?
- * Is there more dust in your home?
- * Does your HVAC system seem to be cycling frequently?
- * Are there hot or cold spots throughout your home?
- * Can you see any damage to visible ductwork?
- * Have you experienced an unusual spike in your home's energy bills?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, your ductwork may need attention. One way to help protect your indoor environment is to schedule an HVAC System Health Check. A check performed by an Owens Corning Air Care® professional will evaluate 11 key factors. The checklist will provide information to help you properly maintain your home's air system and alert the technician to trouble spots that need attention.

A ductwork checklist

The HVAC System Health Check brings a "whole home" approach to caring for your home's indoor air. It includes 11 checkpoints that allow the technician to evaluate your HVAC system - including the ductwork - to determine how well it is functioning and whether attention is needed to any of its components.

These are the 11 measures in the HVAC System Health Check and what the contractor will look for:

- * System Design - Properly sized ducts and adequate number of returns
- * Exterior Duct Condition - No holes, sagging or other damage
- * Interior Duct Condition - Free from excess dust, mold and other particulates
- * Duct Insulation - Not torn or damaged. Properly installed and sealed.
- * Sealing Around Joints - Properly sealed to help prevent leakage
- * Indoor Air Quality - Ducts properly sealed to avoid pulling in contaminants from unconditioned spaces
- * Attic Insulation - Helps avoid overworking the HVAC system
- * AC and Furnace Units - Installed and maintained properly, operating efficiently
- * Air Filter - Properly sized and replaced on a schedule
- * Output Efficiency - Actual airflow matches capacity of unit
- * Thermostat - Suits household living patterns

Having an Owens Corning AirCare® professional conduct an HVAC System Health Check may uncover issues that could be affecting your home's air quality and energy costs. Owens Corning AirCare® contractors take a whole home approach to understanding how your home's HVAC system components - like ductwork and attic insulation - work as part of the air distribution system, helping them to care for your home environment. To find an AirCare® professional, visit the online locator at <https://www.owenscorning.com/en-us/insulation/find-hvac-contractor>.

2025 interior design predictions: Cool tones, organic textures and soft geometries

Style is an expression of one's individuality, rooted in the confidence to trust personal instincts and create a world of beauty, rather than pursuing fleeting trends. It's about celebrating all the nuances that define uniqueness - from the fashion one wears and the food they savor, to the way they design their home. True style is singular, impossible to replicate, and utterly incomparable. Brizo® Kitchen & Bath Company exemplifies this credo, setting the standard for style and innovation through every collection.

"At Brizo®, we encourage everyone to embrace their respective style and infuse their space with that same individuality. We're always drawing inspiration from the everyday - from bold designs found in fashion to the organic patterns found in nature. We look to transform these familiar elements into artful and innovative designs that enrich the home and stand the test of time," says Celine Kwok Garland, Brizo® Lead Industrial Designer.

According to the Brizo Industrial Design team, 2025 will be defined by trends that transform interiors, emphasizing bold design schemes, rich textures in various forms, and modern industrial aesthetics. These elements come together to help build a space that feels purposefully crafted, effortlessly stylized, and uniquely personal.

Design's Cool Turn

The runways of top designers influence more than just fashion - they shape how individuals express themselves. From the clothes they are drawn to, to the choices made when designing a space, it all reflects personal style. Building on this influence, upcoming collections that have graced the Spring/Summer 2025 runways show that bold, cool tones are taking over. This can translate into the home by combining cool tones and metal finishes, such as the distinctive Brilliance® Black Onyx finish by Brizo, with warm stone veining or natural wood accents. This approach creates a harmonious blend of contrast and cohesion, infusing the home with runway-inspired sophistication.

Textured Renaissance

Connecting the indoors to nature is a timeless design philosophy, but 2025 will take this concept to a new level through the incorporation of texture-rich elements. Think irregularities in patterns that evoke topography, like a burl wood side table, or raw, earthen stone pieces. These varied textures and organic design elements create a relaxed yet refined atmosphere, offering a space that mirrors the unparalleled beauty of nature.

Modern Industrial Flair

To add an industrial flair to modern design, blend soft geometrical influences with raw elements and mixed finishes. The Litze® Semi-Professional Faucet by Brizo, featuring intricate knurling and expanded finishes, including the split Matte Black / Brilliance® Luxe Steel, exemplifies this trend by adding dimension to minimalist spaces. Similarly, the Brilliance® Polished Nickel handle found on Jason Wu for Brizo™ Kitchen faucets draws inspiration from the base of Jason Wu's mannequins, while the Matte White finish exemplifies a timeless quality. This design approach balances simplicity with bold industrial touches, empowering homeowners to express their character through modern design and style.

Regardless of the choices made when designing a space, the cornerstone of success is remaining authentic to one's individual style and self-expression. Just like in the world of fashion, interior design offers the freedom to exercise creative license and personal choices, allowing homeowners to reimagine spaces with confidence.

Doors open for VIPs at 5:30 p.m. The event includes a dinner, live and silent auctions and entertainment.

The Magic of Rotary

Rotary International President-elect Stephanie Urchick announced that the 2024-25 presidential theme is "The Magic of Rotary" and called on members to recognize and amplify the organization's power to save lives.

Daybreak Rotary Club at Lake of the Ozarks supports the Magic of Rotary by taking meaningful action within the Lake community. By organizing service projects, the club plays a vital role in turning Rotary's vision into reality. By addressing local needs, fostering partnerships with community leaders and supporters and inspiring volunteerism, Daybreak Rotary Club creates tangible impacts that contribute to Rotary's larger mission of service, peace and goodwill.

Each act of service, no matter the size, is a step toward making Rotary's magic a lived experience for all.

TRIVIA NIGHT

supporting local animal shelter

Enjoy a paw-sitively good time at the upcoming Trivia Night hosted at Dogwood Animal Shelter March 22 from 6 - 8 p.m. Teams may consist of six-eight people. Cost is $25 per person or $200 for a table of eight. The animal shelter is offering a special deal of $20 admission per person if you bring dog/cat food for the community pantry. All proceeds go to the Dogwood Animal Shelter. Register at kelliecoxcapps@gmail.com or text 630-277-1977 including the team name and players' names. Dogwood Animal Shelter is located at 1075 Runabout Drive, Osage Beach. Use the east entrance around the back of the shelter when attending the event.

About Dogwood Animal Shelter

Volunteers have been the driving force behind Dogwood Animal Shelter since its beginning. Through auctions and sales, a handful of dedicated people raised enough money to build a small facility and in 1976, the badly-needed shelter was established as a 501(c)3. It was filled beyond capacity almost immediately. From the start, Dogwood offered low-cost spays and neuters, and since 1997, when the board of directors declared Dogwood a no-kill facility, it has steadily expanded that program. When the long awaited new shelter facility, located near Osage Beach was built in 2005, a spay/neuter clinic was included so that the surgeries could be done on site. Dogwood Animal Shelter receives no public assistance funding. Donations are gratefully accepted at any time.
